Class Elections.

On Wednesday, October the ninth, the Senior class held its election of class officers. May Matthews, the senior president, presided. The following officers were elected: vice-president, Louise Prenty; recording secretary, Mary Brooks; corresponding secretary, Florence Hastings; treasurer, Maud Flemming; executive committee, Marion Low, Anna Henning, Lucille Green; advisory Committee for student government, Mae Rice, Sarah Tompkins; factotums, Anna and Mary Vail; athletic member, Julia Wells.

The Junior elections took place on Thursday afternoon, October tenth, and resulted as follows: president, Sue B. Ainslee; vice-president, May Landis; corresponding secretary, Elsie Roberts; recording secretary, Helen Coale; treasurer, Belle Smith; executive committee, Alice Stockwell, Frances Terry, Katherine Page; advisory board, for student government, Marie Hershey, Christopher Cannon; factotums, Mary McKinney, Flora Holbrook; athletic member, Grace Dean.

The Sophomore class elections, held on Friday, October eleventh, resulted as follows: president, Florence Hutsinpiller; vice-president, Ruth Hart; corresponding secretary, Elsie Appell; recording secretary, Ethel Doak; Treasurer, Bessie Allen.

College Settlements Association.

At Copley Hall, Saturday afternoon, the annual meeting of the electoral board of the College Settlements Association was held. Miss Katharine Coman, professor of economics in Wellesley College presided.

Reports on phases of work at the respective settlements were given by Miss Williams, head worker at the Rivington Street settlement, New York; by Miss Davies of the Christian Street settlement, Philadelphia, and by Miss Dudley of Denison House in this city. Regarding the Boston work, Miss Dudley said in substance:

"The report from Denison House for the last two years shows progress in the industrial work of the house, especially in cooking and in sloyd. This year a new kitchen and laundry have been fully equipped, and classes held afternoons and evenings will accommodate about 150 students—working girls, women and children. There is much interest in the carpentry work, but both money and equipment are needed to carry it on satisfactorily. There is, in fact, need of enlarged quarters for the work with boys. The club of young men are very desirous of a room which they can rent for permanent quarters for their club, and if this could be combined with other rooms for industrial and club work for the boys it would meet a real need in the district where there are few places for social gatherings—save in saloons or dance halls."

"An interesting feature," continued Miss Dudley, "is the work done in the study classes for working women. More than a hundred women attend classes in various lines of English, literature and history. Classes in cooking, dressmaking, and embroidery are also well attended.

"The gymnasium which was given to Denison House last year was taken over by the city of Boston on a five years' lease, and is now carried on as a public gymnasium. The baths in connection with the building are well patronized, and the building is open all day for use, from fifty to a hundred men coming in the evenings."

Other speakers were Graham Taylor, professor of sociology in Chicago Theological Seminary; Katharine Coman, professor of economics and sociology at Wellesley College; Miss Anna S. Davies of the Philadelphia settlement and Miss Helena S. Dudley of Boston.

THE WELLESLEY WEEKLY
COLLEGE NOTES.

Miss Pendleton, Dean of the college, has sent out invitations for a series of receptions, on Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday afternoons of this week, to the faculty and the new student members of the college. Miss Harte, Associate Professor of English, together with Mrs. Cook, gave a pleasant reception Wednesday afternoon, October 9th, at Wood Cottage, in honor of Miss Margaret Sweeney and Miss Katherine Bates, new instructors in the English departments.

There was much excitement on last Saturday afternoon in College Hall and on the banks of the lake, caused by the upsetting of a boat containing Miss Nathalie Gibbs and two visiting Italian girls from the Boston college settlement. The girls, fortunately, were able to get to the boat until help came, and all escaped with no more serious injury than a good drenching. This accident coming at the same time as it does, with Miss Hazard’s emphatic announcement that no student may ever enter a canoe on the lake, convinces us of the wisdom of this notice.

On Friday evening, October 11th, President Hazard gave an address in the Boston Latin School before the Association of Colleges and Preparatory Schools of New England. Miss Hazard’s general subject was the Moral Teachings in the Study of History.

October 14th. A Reception at Nornumbega to the Faculty by Miss Hazard.

" 16th. Meeting of Philosophy Club.

" 20th. Preaching in the chapel by President Hyde of Bowdoin.

" 41st. Musical Vespers.

Miss Sophie Jewett is in Italy for the year.

The Glee Club has elected the following as officers: President, Elizabeth MacCrellish, ’02; Leader, Betty S. Wheeler, ’02; Librarian, Isabella Pinkham, ’03; Accompanist, Juliet Peyster, ’04; Musical Director, Hamilton C. Maedougall.

Interest in golf circles has been aroused by President Sanborn’s offer of a cup to the best women player in the Club. The conditions and announcement of the play are as follows:

“A cup has been given by the President of the Club for the best score of 27 holes among the women of the club at an open scratch tournament, Monday, October 28th. This cup to be the absolute possession of the winner, whose name will be added to the present inscription on the cup.

CONDITIONS.

1. The score must be made in play with another (drawn) member of the club, kept upon a club score card, and guaranteed by some scorer furnished by the club.
2. While the round must be made upon the day of the tournament, all can be made at such hours as agreed upon by those drawn to play together.
3. Contestants must send notice of intention to play in the tournament to the Secretary of the Club, Mr. Edward Brooks, Wellesley, not later than Thursday, October 24th.

The cup will be kept on exhibition at the Wellesley Drug Store until the same is awarded the winner.

At present Miss McClure is the champion among the college players with a score of 50. She is closely seconded, however, by Mrs. Sibley who usually makes the nine holes in 64.

Baseball seems to have taken a sudden leap into popularity. Besides the regular Sophomore team organized by Miss Hill and under the gymnastic management, are two others that are striving for supremacy in order to challenge soon the aggregation of Sophomores. The battery for the first is Betty Wheeler, ’02; Alice Spink, ’02, and for the second, Anna Snyder, ’02; Mary Vail, ’02. The two teams seem to be very evenly matched, each nine beating of many phenomenal players and plays. Among the steady players are Mary Little, Elsie Langdon Stuen, Julian Tyler, Maude Arnold, Ethel Sanborn, Marjorie Lee, Ruth Crosby, Marion Fenton, Anna Klingenhagen and Miss Nusick.

At a meeting of the Tennis Club, October 11th, the following officers were chosen: Head of Sport, Anna Blair Vail, ’02; Business Manager, Jessie Adams Marvin, ’04; Secretary, Ida Kitchin, ’04; Treasurer, Janet Maxwell, ’05; Member of the Executive Committee, Hilda Tuttle, ’05.
