The Royal Game of Hockey.

"Hockey! Fast, furious, brilliant, it is a most popular winter sport. Verily, it is the game of games. Offspring of "Our Lady of the Snoes," hockey is, among her many varied games, the most fascinating, the most exciting, the most scientific."

"Fast! It eclipses all other games in this respect. She who dares not moment to spare—an opportunity once lost is gone forever—and even one little slip, one stumble, destroys the spirit of a match."

"Played in every city, town, village and hamlet of Canada, it has won more popular interest, more enthusiasm than any other winter sport. That the boys of sport have yet enjoyed, and as the succeeding years glide by it grows in popular favor."

"But Canada no longer has a monopoly of the sport. The United States has the fever, and ice hockey is now a recognized winter sport where a few years ago it was unknown."

"Twenty-five years ago hockey, as played to-day, was an unknown sport. Shiny was played on the lakes, rivers and canals throughout the country, but our discerning eye could discover in this crust, but fascinating amusement, the grand possibilities that a refined game could offer. Without restrictions as to the proportions of the stick, the nature or quality of the puck, the size of the playing space or the ice, or the number of the players, the sport could not develop into a scientific game until such time as it would be discussed and regulated by those who sought its advancement...."

"To the McGill College and Victoria hockey teams of Montreal the game of hockey owes its present spirit. These two were the first regularly organized hockey clubs in the world, the former preceding the latter by a very short time."

"The convincing, the clinching proof of the fascination of the game is this, that even the gutter sex, not satisfied with enjoying it from the standpoint of spectators, have gravely added their own to the many charms that it already boasts by bravely lining up to meet, in gentle combat, their tender adversaries."

"It is surprising how many ladies' teams exist in Canada, and although we do not read of fast, exciting games between these graceful varieties of the sport, it is a slow, small town that can glory in not one such. Thus hockey players may fatten themselves that their game is honored in a way that no other of the kind may enjoy."—Arranged from Sparkling's Athletic Library, compiled by Mr. Arthur Farrell.

President Hazard's Annual Report.

"A full and able report, made by President Hazard to the board of trustees at the close of the year, is just now published. Referring to administrative matters, the president says:"

"It has been a year of quiet and steady work, marked by a serene and harmonious spirit. The administrative duties were newly divided, the secretary of the college taking care of the college executive programme of the students. These duties she has most admirably fulfilled, in such a manner as to gain the confidence and respect not only of all connected with the administration, but of the students and the alumni."

"The genius for detail with the comprehensive grasp as well, which Miss Pendleton possesses, enabled her to perform the many duties while full-time as the head of College Hall and also secretary of the college, in a manner which ensures her success as dean of the college, to which office she was appointed in February."

"Continuing, the president's report says:"

"The pressing necessity for a science building has been alluded to; even more urgent is the need for a library. Over 54,000 books are cared for by three librarians, with some student assistants. The library room is now wholly inadequate. Two department libraries have been moved to a hall of the fifth floor, which relieves the library both of a number of books and readers. This temporary adjustment of the library is not sufficient to the needs of the students. The books are here; the students are here; there is a constant body of about nine hundred readers, and the need of a library building cannot be too strongly emphasized."

"President Hazard concludes: The year ends with a bright outlook. The number of students is increasing; the faculty is able and devoted, the alumni loyal; gains have been made during the year in matters affecting the intellectual life of the college, as well as its material prosperity, and we can look with gratitude at the past, and hope toward the future."—B. At the meeting of the Student Government Association, on Wednesday afternoon, January 15, the challenge of Vassar College, to a debate, was accepted, dependent upon the consent of the Academic Council. It was also moved that no pictures of the college students be allowed to be printed in magazines, without the individual consent of all the girls appearing in the photographs.

With regard to the new basis for the Athletic Association, the report of the committee was accepted, and the following plan adopted:

The new Athletic Association, is to have:

1. An Executive Board of five members, chosen for executive ability, as well as for athletic possibilities.

2. The members of this board are to consist of three from the college at large, one from the faculty, and the director of Physical Training.

3. The duties of this board are to direct all athletics, and athletic fates, such as Float, Cee-Carnival, etc.

4. An Advisory Committee of ten members, two from each class, and two from the college at large.

5. The duties of this committee are to confer with the Executive Board, and act as medium between the Executive Board and the college at large.

All organized sports are to constitute departments, under the supervision of the Executive Board and the Association. The fee has been changed to a voluntary contribution.

Miss Bertha Conde, one of the student secretaries of the American Committee of Young Women's Christian Associations, was the guest of the College from Thursday, January 16, to Monday, January 20. Miss Conde spoke at both the Sunday and Thursday services. All members of the college were invited to meet Miss Conde, in the Faculty parlor, on Saturday afternoon, from 4.15 to 5.30.

On Sunday afternoon, at 4 o'clock, in the Student's Parlor, Miss Conde addressed the Seniors. This meeting took the place of the January class prayer meeting.

Miss Louise Sargent, '06, will not return to college this year.

Miss Alice Wilcox, left college last Saturday, for her home, owing to a very painful dislocation of her shoulder.

"In the death of Mr. Horace E. Scudder, Wellesley loses a valued friend and able counselor. At the time of his death, Mr. Scudder was a member of the board of trustees and also of the executive committee of the trustees. Resolutions of sympathy and appreciation will be adopted at the forthcoming trustees' meeting." B.T.

The American College for Women at Constantinople.

By Mary Mills Patrick, Ph.D.

"There are few institutions in the world that hold a place of so much importance in educational influence as the American College for Women, this western college in the east, for the wonderful Straits of the Bosphorus are the key to the eastern situation educationally, as well as geographically and politically. This American college is the only woman's college of western Asia and southeastern Europe, and draws its students from many different lands, uniting various races and blending opposing types in the scholastic world of American college training. Here we find Greek maidens, with their delicate grace, from sunny Athens and the islands of the Mediterranean; sturdy Saxy's from the north, together with their darker sisters from the south and far east. Within the college walls many different tongues fall upon the ear, for there is no woman's college in the world where so many languages are taught. The language of the college is English, but there are well-organized departments besides, in French, ancient and modern Greek, ancient and modern Armenian, Bulgarian, Slavic, Turkish, German and Latin. Race prejudices are, however, forgotten in the bond of common collegiate interests, and in the class-rooms and clubs, on the tennis court and ball ground, all unite in the work and recreations of a happy college life.

American College for Women is situated in Scutari, the Chrysopolis, or Golden City, of ancient Byzantine times, where the caravans from the east unloaded their wealth. It overlooks the shining waters of the Marmora, the Prince's Islands, the Bosphorus, and the Golden Horn, and the domes and minarets of Stamboul, while in this distance appear the snow-capped Asiatic ranges. The air is fragrant with the perfume of tropical flowers, and hazy with the dreamy mist of sea and sky that characterizes the cities of the far south. All is Oriental and picturesque in the environments, but in the college itself the lanugo of the south yields to western energy and college enthusiasm: for real work is done in this college of the east, and its standard of scholarship is constantly being raised to keep in line with other American colleges.

This college is an outgrowth of a high school founded in 1874; as a result of steady internal growth, and in response to an increasing demand for higher education in the east, it was incorporated as a college in 1900, and empowered by its charter to grant such honors, degrees and diplomas as are granted or conferred by any university, college or seminary of learning in the Commonwealth of Massachusetts. There have been one hundred and thirty graduates of the institution, of nine different nationalities, who are many of them holding positions of honor in this and other lands.

The one Albanian graduate of the college founded the first school for girls ever taught in the Albanian language. Another, a Dane, passed the government examinations for the position of official translator in Denmark, in English, French, Danish, German and Italian. A graduate of last year has entered the medical department of the University of Berne with honors, and others are writing for the press or engaged in teaching. One of the class was the first Turkish woman in the empire to receive the degree of bachelor of arts, and the subject of her graduating thesis was 'Sophism in Persia in Relation to Omar Khayyam,' to write which she consulted authorities in Arabic and Persian in the original.

The alumni of the college organized some years ago an alumni association, and during the last year they have purchased a piece of land adjoining the college, on which stand two buildings, one to be used for a music hall and the other as a cottage. One of the most interesting phases of the development of the college is found in the musical department. This is organized after the plan of a German conservatorium, and adds greatly to the opportunities for culture offered by the college, and also to the aesthetic side of the college life. Frequent concerts are given, including choirs, piano, violin and organ music, and music by the college choir and choral forms a decided feature of all formal public occasions."—Leslie's Weekly.

THE GRAND OPERA SEASON.

The season of grand opera at the Boston Theatre, by the Maurice Grau Opera Company, will open Monday evening, March 10, and will last two weeks, covering a series of sixteen performances, including Wednesday and Saturday matinees. Mr. Grau's plans for the season comprise the production of at least two novelties, together with some interesting revivals of old operas.

The new works to be produced will be "Messaline," by Isadore de Lara, and "Mannah," by L. A. Paderewski. Mr. Grau may also give "Thais," by Jules Massenet. The revivals may include "La Gioconda," "II Ballo in Maschera," "Otello," "Ernani," "L'Elisir D'Amore," "La Navarraise," "Manon," "Il Pianto Magico" and "Ero e Leander." The repertory also comprehends every one of the other masterpiece of the French, German and Italian schools, so familiar to opera goers as to require no particular specification. The list of artists includes, for sopranos, Mmes. Suzanne Adams, Fugerezi, Lucienne Breval, Calve, Van Cauteren, Eames, Godlinski, Maryly, Louise Bensuson, Sombrich, Fritzi, Schiev and Ternina; contraltos, Mmes. Cerré Bridwell, Louise Homer and Schumann-Heink; tenors, Alvarez, Jacques Barre, Dippel, Van Dyke, Salgrace, Vanin, Vien, Endelstrowski, Emilie De Marchi and Albert Kiez, baritones, Blasman, Campanari, Scotti, Muhly, Dufriette, Gillibert, Van Rooy and Tavazzini basso, Robert Bliss, Edouard De Rouge, Jouvet, Pirelli De Seguiera and Viviani.

Messrs. Walter Damesch, Ph. Flon and A. Seppilli will conduct.
