COUWE NOTES.

At a recent meeting of the trustees of Wellesley College, several changes were made in the faculty body.

Miss Susan M. Hallowell, professor of botany for the past twenty-seven years, has tendered her resignation, which is accepted with grateful recognition of her long and efficient service. When the college was opened, Miss Hallowell was made professor of natural history, the appointment being soon changed to that of botany, a subject in which Wellesley has always stood foremost. Professor Hallowell's retirement withdraws from the faculty ranks the last member of the faculty who served in the opening year of 1875. Her connection with the college having been so extended and valuable, it is hoped that she will accept the position of professor emeritus, which is tendered her.

Miss Clara E. Cunningham, associate professor of botany, is appointed to the temporary charge of the department.

Other appointments made at the meeting are those of Miss A. B. H. Hayes, as professor of Latin, Miss Hawes having been at the head of the department since the resignation of Professor Lord.

Miss Alice Wilton, of the same department, was promoted from instructor to associate professor.

Miss Elizabeth W. Kendall was made professor of history in the single department created two years ago by the division of the history and economics department. Miss Connin, who was at that time made professor of economics, will go abroad next year on sabbatical leave. Miss Montague, associate professor of Greek, is also granted leave of absence for a year.

Mrs. Martha Poste Crow, formerly teacher of history in the college, now Dean of Northwestern University, Evanston, Ill., visited the college the past week. She was the guest of Dean Pendleton Tuesday evening. Dr. Bowen invited the literary department to meet her at lunch on Wednesday, and Wednesday evening Professor Whiting gave a reception for her at Fiske Cottage.

M. Hugues Le Roux, the Cercle Français lecturer, in the James H. Hylie course, at Harvard, this year, delivered a lecture in College Hall Chapel, last Monday evening, before a large and attentive audience. Mlle. Schonay, head of the French Department, introduced the speaker. The subject of the lecture was “Daubet comme peintre de la France provinciale du Midi.” After the lecture, a reception was held in the faculty parlor in honor of M. le Roux.

Now that it is definitely settled that we are to have an intercollegiate debate, can we not go a step further in the right direction, and have a Junior Promenade? Until now, Wellesley has kept too much to itself. It has not had enough in common with other colleges. The debate with Vassar will help greatly to do away with the reputation of exclusiveness which Wellesley has always professed. It would help even more, it is unnecessary to speak of men's colleges—we all know that every one of them has a Provost. If Smith, Vassar and Bryn Mawr can have a Provost, why cannot Wellesley? The same objections that have been brought to bear before are being urged again this year. It is said that the expense will be too great, but a committee has investigated that matter, and has found that if only one-half the Juniors support the Provost, a tax of $1.50 will cover the expenses, and, surely, that is not too much. It is said besides, that there is no suitable place for the dance, but the same committee is confident, that if College Hall dining-room is impossible—and the committee hopes that it is not—the Barn will serve the purpose. The Green rooms can be made into very attractive dressing-rooms, and refreshments can be served from the court at the side. But the objection that is most strongest in all probability, there would be men who would come to such a dance whom we would not care to meet otherwise. Surely, no self-respecting girl would ask a man to come to a dance, unless she knew him fairly well, at least, and besides, it would not mean that we should meet imprudent men. We should meet only the friends of our college friends, whom we feel we are being made to meet at any time. The objection that no matter ought not to be serious enough to prove an obstacle, and we hope that the acceptance of Vassar's challenge will soon be followed by the good news that we are to have a Junior Prom.

CORRESPONDENCE INVITED

Union Square
New York
On Saturday afternoon, February 15, at 3:30, in College Hall Chapel, Miss Olive Davis gave the third of a series of lectures on Domestic Science.

On Valentine's night, February 14th, the Court of Revels provided an impromptu celebration of the day at the Barn. King Cole's Pie and "attire," done by individual girls, made up the evening's programme. Dancing afterwards, completed the entertainment.

The second Glee Club concert will be on Monday evening, February 24. For this concert the tickets were sold irrespective of class rank. As a consequence, no written orders were received. Judging from the long line of girls, waiting to buy tickets, at the different office hours for both concerts, the clubs need have no fear of a small audience at either event.

Miss Agnes Hill, General Secretary of the W. C. T. U. in India, spoke of her work last Sunday afternoon in the Faculty Parlor. All members of the Christian Association and members of the Bible Mission study classes were invited to the reception.

There will be a social meeting for members of the Graduate Club, Friday night, February 21.

Professor George H. Palmer of Harvard University filled the college pulpit on Sunday morning.

Miss May Stone, Wellesley '84-'85, spoke in College Hall Chapel, last Sunday night, on social settlement work, which she is doing among the mountainous people of Kentucky. For the past three summers, the Kentucky Federation of Woman's Clubs has been interested in this work, and Miss Stone has been foremost in its advancement.

The work has been carried on in several of the most remote counties of eastern Kentucky, fifty or sixty miles from a railroad.

The Woman's Christian Temperance Union of Kentucky is planning to establish a Christian Social Settlement and Industrial School, in one of these remote places. More than half the required amount has been raised for the undertaking, and Miss Stone hopes to secure the balance during her eastern trip.

On last Thursday afternoon, February 13, from 3:30 to 3:50, another college reception was held in Stone Hall parlor. All members of the Faculty, Seniors and Sophomores are invited to attend this reception.

On Monday afternoon, February 17, from 5 until 9, Miss Olive Davis and Miss Margaret Jackson, were "at home" at Winter Hall.

The Phi Sigma Society has sent out invitations for February 24th, at half past four, to meet Miss Josephine Preston Peabody.

Friday evening, February 14, Miss Gamble entertained at her home in the Village, in honor of her mother, with music and the amusement of the evening.

On Saturday evening, March 8, the Harvard Glee, Mandolin and Banjo Clubs, will give a concert in the Town Hall of Wellesley. The proceeds of this concert are for the Wellesley Golf Club.

Mary B. Jenkins, '03, spent a few days in Scranton, Pa., with her father, before the opening of the new semester.

Sadie Barrett, '05, attended the Junior Prom. at Princeton, last week.

The Bijou Opera Company is presenting two Italian operas, this week, with an assistance of Mr. Frida Ricci, again, in "Lucia."

Miss Lane has returned to the company, and has the leading role in "H Trovatore." "H Trovatore," is to be given Friday evening, and Saturday matinees and "Lucia," Thursday and Saturday evening.

LIBRARY REGULATIONS.

During the past week, library manuals were sent through the resident mail to all the college students. For convenience of ready reference and for other people whom the resident mail may not have reached, the College News prints a copy of the circular.

Wellesley College Library Manual 1902.

RULES AND REGULATIONS.

No deviation from these rules will be allowed except by note of the Library Committee on written petition. Ignorance of the rules will excuse no one from penalties attached to their violation.

1. The Library of the College includes the General Library, the Departmental Libraries of Science and Art, and the Branch Libraries, Sociology, Philosophy, Pedagogy, the Missionary Library, and the Gertrude Library for Biblical study.

Branch and Departmental Libraries are governed by the rules and regulations of the College Library, except as such relate to hours of opening and hours for charging books in the Libraries of Science and Art.

2. The General Library and Branch Libraries will be open on Sundays from 9 to 11 A.M., and from 2 to 8 p.m.; on other days from 8 A.M. to 9:30, holidays included.

3. Books drawn from the library must be charged and cancelled by a library attendant.

4. The hours for charging books are from 9 to 11 A.M., 2 to 5:30, and 7:30 to 9 p.m., Sundays, holidays and vacations excepted.

5. Two volumes may be drawn at a time for two weeks, or for a shorter time, or for the Christmas and Easter vacations, at the discretion of the librarian, subject to recall for class use.

6. Books reserved for class use may be drawn for over night (3 P.M. to 8:30, A.M.) and on Saturday from 4 P.M. to 9 A.M., Monday.

8. Books drawn by students from the Branch Libraries, Sociology, Philosophy, Pedagogy, Missionary and Gertrude Library for Biblical study, must be charged by the librarian and kept in the General Library.

Books in the Departmental Libraries of Science and Art will be charged by an officer of the respective departments, at hours fixed by the department.

RESTRICTED BOOKS.

1. Books drawn from the library must be charged and cancelled by a library attendant.

2. All books drawn from the library must be returned before the close of the summer term.
