Some Recent Publications by Members of the Faculty and Alumni.

COLLEGE NEWS has been interested in collecting a list of publications by members of the Faculty and Alumni which have appeared since the latter part of the year 1904. The list is by no means complete, but is as nearly as we were able to make it in a comparatively short time.

LIST OF PUBLICATIONS BY MEMBERS OF THE FACULTY:

DEPARTMENT OF ASTRONOMY.

Astronomy. An account of the principal observations which have been made during the last half of the year 1904. "Use of Spectroscopic Photographs in the Study of the Solar System." By Miss Rebecca Ellis. WELLESLEY, Mass., 1905.

DEPARTMENT OF MUSICOLOGY.

Translation of "Bewul" (now in press). By Miss Louise Munson. Five poems. Presented to the Department of Music by the Music Department of Wellesley College. Boston, 1905.

DEPARTMENT OF ECONOMICS.

DEPARTMENT OF ENGLISH LITERATURE.

DEPARTMENT OF PHILOSOPHY.

DEPARTMENT OF PSYCHOLOGY.

DEPARTMENT OF MUSIC.

DEPARTMENT OF GRAMMAR.

"We Are Not Born to Stand Still." By Miss Margaret A. Ferguson. Boston, 1905.

DEPARTMENT OF PHILOSOPHY.

"The Limits of Genetic and Comparative Psychology." By Miss Margaret A. Ferguson. Boston, 1905.
College News.

Published weekly. Subscription price, $1.00 a year to resident and non-resident. All business correspondence should be addressed to Miss Myra Kilborn, Business Manager.

All subscriptions should be sent to Miss Eleanor Farrar.

Editor-in-Chief: Marie J. Warren, 1907
Associate Editor, Mabel Denyer, 1907
Associate Editor, Clara A. Griffin, 1907
Assistant Editor, Grace Done, 1907
Assistant Editor, Mary A. Davis, 1907
Assistant Editor, Louis Harper, 1907
Assistant Editor, Myra Kilborn, 1906
Assistant Editor, Estelle M. Hurst, 1906
Louise Warner, 1907

"Entered as second class matter, November 12, 1905, at the Post Office of Wellesley, Mass., under the Act of Congress, March 3, 1879."

"A Reconciliation between Structural and Functional Psychology."

Ladies' Hatters and Furriers.

Hats for Street and Outing Wear.

Fashionable Furs in all the Latest Shapes.

126 Tremont Street, Opp Park St., Boston.

of the Porcupine Mountains of Northern Michigan," collected by the University Museum expedition in 1904.

"Some Bahama Orthoptera."

ALUMNI PUBLICATIONS in 1905.-06.

Estelle M. Hurst, 1882.

"The Bible Beautiful!" (L. C. Page & Co.)

Mrs. Anna Robertson Brown Lindsay, 1883.

"Foreign Missions and Social Progress."

Mrs. Helen Barrett Montgomery, 1884.

"The Island World."

Alice Ames Winter, 1886.

"The Prize to the Hardy."

Carter Goodloe, 1886.

"At the Foot of the Rockies."

Scribner's Magazine.

Florence Wilkinson, 1892.

"Poems: The Purple Crocuses in the Vale."

McClure's, February, 1904.

"The Fugitives."

McClure's, November, 1903.

"The Shin Onses."

Smart Set, July, 1903.

"The Cloud and the Mountain."

McClure's, December, 1904.

Florence Converse, 1894.

"The Negro in the Cities of the North."

Charities, October, 1903.

"Family Description," a prose article.

Isabella Howe Fiske, 1896.

Libretto of an opera, "The Prince of the Riffles."

"A Legend of the Christ Child." Good Housekeeping, December, 1903.

"Poems: "Chastitesses.""

Jessie Knight Hart, 1897.

Clare M. Coburn, 1897.

Jeanette Marks, 1905. Associate Professor of Literature at Mt. Holyoke.

"The American College Girl's Ignorance of Literature." Critic, October, 1905.

"Account of Mt. Holyoke." Outlook, February, 1906.

Lucy Wright, 1906.

A review of "Education by the Wage-Earners," by Thomas Davidson in Char- itic, April 1, 1905.

Mabel Parton, 1901, has contributed series of articles in the Federation Bulletin.

Mary Wallace Brooks, 1902.

Poem: "For the New Year." in Designers, January, 1906.

Eleanor W. McDonald, 1904.

Estelle M. Hurst.

"The Bible Beautiful." (L. C. Page & Co.)

M. E. B.

The Wellesley Inn

ANNOUNCES

AFTERNOON TEA,

Served in English Fashion Each Week-Day Afternoon

English and Original Delicacies are Offered on the Card.

Do You Take Pictures?

Don't you find it very inconvenient to develop and print them yourself? You will save time and trouble and you let me do it for you.

W. A. Sleeper, Jr.
First class work. Reasonable prices. Orders may be left at H. L. Flagg's news store, Wellesley.

Saves Hosier)
NEVER SLIPS, TEARS
NOR UNFASTENS
Every Pair
Warranted

CUSHION
BUTTON

Hose Supporter
If your Dealer does not sell you this Supporter he does not sell the Best

Every Clasp has the name stamped on the Metal Loop.

GEORGE GROST CO., Makers, Boston, Mass.
COLLEGE CALENDAR.

Tuesday, March 6, at 4:20 P.M., in Memorial Chapel, Lenten Organ Recital.

Wednesday, March 7, at 4:20 P.M., in Billings Hall, pianoforte recital by Professor Hamilton.

Saturday, March 10, at 3:20 P.M., Miss Chanler, President of the Women’s Municipal League of New York City, will lecture in College Hall Chapel.

Thursday, March 8, regular mid-week prayer meeting of the Christian Association.

Sunday, March 11, at 11:00 A.M., services in the Houghton Memorial Chapel. Preacher, Dr. Samuel M. Zwemer, one of the travelling Secretaries of the Student Volunteer Movement.

Dr. Zwemer will speak again in the afternoon.

7:00 P.M., Vespers with Special Music.

Monday, March 12, at 7:30 P.M., in College Hall Chapel, reading by Mr. Samuel A. King.

COLLEGE NOTES.

President Hyde of Bowdoin College conducted the service on Sunday morning, February 26.

A meeting of the Debating Club was held Tuesday evening, February 27th. The subject for debate was, Resolved,—That the Glee and Mandolin Clubs should limit their concert to the Saturday evening performance. The speakers on the affirmative were Miss Anne Crawford and Miss Amy Comant; the negative, Miss Anne Eismore and Miss Margaret Flesher. The debate was won by the negative side.

The Deutscher Verein held a social meeting in the Agora House, Wednesday afternoon, February 28.

At a meeting of the class of 1907 held on Thursday, March 1, the Editorial Board of the Wellesley Magazine for 1906-07 was elected. The board is as follows:

Editor in Chief, Louise Rand Hascom.

Associate Editor, Marguerite MacKellar.

Literary Editors, Janet Norris, Mary D. Maxwell.

Miss McKee and the Faculty of Stone Hall gave the first of a series of Thursday At Homes in Stone Hall, on the afternoon of March 1.

The regular mid-week prayer meeting was held March 1, Faith Stortenbeek presided. The question of retaining the General Secretary during the coming year was discussed.

Miss Mabel Parton lectured before the Economics Club on "Purchase by Credit," Friday, March 2.

The Scribblers’ Club met in the Agora House, Friday evening, March 2. Miss Claire Sampson, ’66, read. Annie Gid ley was welcomed into the club.

Mr. Samuel A. King lectured in College Hall Chapel on Saturday afternoon, March 3, at the invitation of the English Department. His subject was "Articulation."

Saturday night, March 3, at the Barn, the College was entertained in a most original and charming manner by a puppet-show of Puss in Boots. It was one of the cleverest and most effective bits of work that has been seen in the Barn for many a day, and the audience showed by its hearty applause its genuine appreciation. The puppets, all made and worked by the members of the committee, of which Alice Grover as chairman deserves especial credit, were fascinating with their grotesque shapes and strange attitudes. Their actions were accompanied and interpreted by a reading of a rhymed version of the fairy tale, by Miss Dorothy Fuller, who did her part with remarkable zest and life. A dance followed the show, and refreshments were served by the Juniors in the interests of the College in Spain.

The Alliance Francaise met for a social meeting in the Zeta Alpha House, Monday evening, March 5.

Several former students and some new ones have entered College for the second semester. These are: Esther Watson, "Mérode"

If you desire to know Underwear that is Just Right containing every good feature —those little points which have escaped the critical eye of other makers, ask for the "Mérode.” The fit is perfect, made in finest grades of cotton, lisle silk and lisle and merino.

Vests, Drawers, Corset Covers, Tights and Union Suits for Women and Children.

Lord & Taylor, Wholesale Distributors, NEW YORK.

A. SHUMAN & CO., Boston

Shumon Corner, Washington and Summer Streets.

Boston and Maine Railroad.

Lowest Rates. Fast Train Service between Boston and Chicago, St. Louis, St. Paul, Minneapolis and all points West, Northwest and Southwest.

Pullman Palace or Sleeping Cars on all through lines. For tickets and information apply at any principal ticket office of the Company.

D. J. Flanders, Gen’1, Pass. and Tkt. Agt., Boston.

Boston and Albany

FINEST PASSENGER TRAIN SERVICE OVER THE ONLY "DOUBLE TRACK" ROUTE BETWEEN BOSTON, ALBANY AND THE WEST.

A. S. HANSON, General Passenger Agent.

Louise M. Bosworth, Bertha Sopinka, Louise Billiard, Dorothea Mann, Anna M. Alberson.

The Faculty of the French Department were at home to the Juniors in the French classes, in the Faculty Parlor, Tuesday afternoon, March 6.

The program for the first of the Lenten Organ Recitals given by Professor Macdougall in the Memorial Chapel on Tuesday afternoon, March 6, was as follows:

1. Fourth Organ Sonata Mendelssohn (1809-1847)
   All gro con brio
   Andante religioso
   Allegretto.

2. Serenade (MS) Ralph Kirkendorf
   Scherzo in F, Heinrich Hofmann (1842-1905)
   Allegretto
   Allegro maestoso e vivace.

3. Organist at Holy Trinity Church, Philadelphia.
   "The foremost Italian composer of organ music."

NOTICE.

A copy of Galey’s Representative English Compiies was lost on February 3, 1926, in College Hall. The owner’s name is on the fly-leaf.
ESPERANTO: THE UNIVERSAL LANGUAGE

The sponsors of a new language may well be assured of admiration for their initiative and daring in creative power, but they are certain, too, of a slow and uncertain progress toward acceptance by the general public. The movement in favor of Esperanto is on its way over the difficulties of such an uneven course, and we at Wellesley, are fortunate enough to have the opportunity of making its acquaintance during this formative period. Mr. Edward K. Harvey, Secretary of the American Esperanto Association, will speak in College Hall Chapel, on the evening of Monday, March 19, at 7:30, when we shall have the opportunity not only of learning the progress of the movement, but of hearing the language itself spoken.

The movement is directly traceable to conditions and iucencies of our modern civilization. The development of modern systems of world-wide diplomatic and political relations, necessitating international correspondence and conference, the growth of far-reaching and complex commercial interests, create a demand for the facility of a common tongue. The increasing numbers of workers in different fields of scientific research all over the world force the individual worker to put forth greater effort to keep pace with his fellow-workers of other nationalities and tongues. The necessity of being informed confronts the scholar with the impossibility of learning all the languages required for the purpose.

Esperanto, therefore, offers itself as an auxiliary medium, a supplement to the national languages in use, not a language to compete with or replace them; and further, its use in international meetings, commercial transactions, and in a means by which its simplicity and ease of learning can be within the reach of co-workers not familiar with the language of the author.

The language is of comparatively recent invention, its inventor, Dr. Zamenhof, a Russian physician, having published his first pamphlet no earlier than 1887. It was well received in Esperanto and soon found supporters in Norway and Sweden. In France it was championed by M. de Becourt, who had himself invented an artifical language, but abandoned it on learning of the superior advantages of Esperanto, and threw his energies into the task of forcing the world to notice and seriously consider Esperanto as the solution of the problem. His efforts led to its wide recognition, and its reception by Germany, Austria, Switzerland, Italy and finally England. Lack of money and a prejudice due to the failure of its predecessor, Volapük, were among the obstacles in its way, but able and energetic scholars gave it their enthusiastic support. M. Jules Borel carried on a systematic campaign in Germany, while W. T. Stead endorses it in the columns of the "Review of Reviews" in England, where thirty societies sprang up at a less than a year. Such great names as Berthelier, General Lebert, Polnaue, all of the French institute; Boirac, rector of Dijon, and Dy, rector of the University of Berlin; Oweis, of the University of Upsala; the philologist Schuchardt, the linguist Max Muller, Count Leo Tolstoi, and many others.

Esperanto is a simplification of a number of modern languages and is supported by two hundred organized clubs. Esperantists are found in every European country, as well as in Japan, Australia, South America, Mexico, Canada, and India. Students for its study are composed of twenty-two languages; twenty-five monthly papers are issued, while several continental papers print occasional articles in Esperanto. Courses for its study are offered in club rooms, public institutions and commercial schools, while in England its instruction is carried on by correspondence.

It has been put to the test in a number of practical uses with marked success. It has been found well adapted for commercial correspondence, international telegraphic communication and advertisements. Typewriters with its alphabet, and systems of stenography facilitate its commercial utility. It has received oral as well as written usage. Mr. Moch, champion of universal peace, addressed the International Peace Congress held last September at Lausanne in Esperanto. A supreme test of practical value was applied at the recent congress of Esperantists at Boulogne, in France, August, 1905. Twelve hundred delegates from twenty-two different countries, were present and experienced no trouble in understanding all speeches and addresses. All discussions were carried on in Esperanto, while every evening concerts were held in which the same language was employed very successfully for singing. One evening a farce of Molière's was presented by performers of seven nationalities.

An examination of the structure of the language reveals at once its simplicity and the ingenuity of its author. Its construction is based on two fundamental principles, the elimination of all that is accidental in national languages, and the retention of what is common to all. Dr. Zamenhof has aimed to invent nothing, but to build entirely with material already in existence. An admirably concise and succinct analysis is given in the "Handbook for January, 1906," from which the general characteristics may be derived in a short synopsis.

Sounds peculiar to a single language are eliminated, double and mute letters are dropped, and phonetic spelling is retained throughout. The consonant sounds remaining approximate the majority of English consonentai pronunciations, while the vowel sounds are chiefly those of Spanish or German. Nouns, verbs, adjectives and adverbs are differentiated by vowel endings; suffixes and prefixes are employed to denote the agent, the instrument, abstract qualities, and negative ideas.

The principle of internationalism finds complete demonstration in the composition of the vocabulary. Roots and stems common to all languages, or common to the majority, are spelled phonetically and modified by the terminations of the new systems: the Latin being resorted to for stems widely divergent in modern tongues. In this way 3,000 root words serve the use of 15,000 English or French words. The simplification is largely from the consistent adherence to a few simple rules, already in partial use in modern languages.

Its regularity conduces to rapid mastery of its forms and a reading knowledge can be gained in a few hours, a few months making its use in writing and speaking possible. Moreover, its simplicity allows the student to comprehend the underlying principles, so that letters written in Esperanto may be sent to persons absolutely ignorant of the language, a translation being made with little difficulty by means of a penny "key-book" sent with the letter.

Simplicity, efficiency, readiness of comprehension, and musical intonation bid fair to make for the success of this latest attempt to reduce the advantages of an artificial language within the scope of practical utility. Success to Esperanto! May a never acquiesce confirm favorable first impressions.

C. A. G.

MISS CAROLINE FLETCHER

Takes a small party in connection with our ITALIAN UNIVERSITY next summer, visiting Europe from England to Italy and Crete, Sailings June 13, 29 and 30, joining Miss Fletcher on arrival. A private preliminary tour sails April 14 to Naples, visiting the Minor Italian Cities, the most fascinating tour in Europe. This is continued by a comprehensive tour in Great Britain and is joined by the June parties in England and Paris. For information address

BUREAU OF UNIVERSITY TRAVEL, 201 Clarendon Street, Boston.

FOREGN & DOMESTIC WASH FABRICS

For Spring Wear.

33 Summer Street, 42 Avon Street, BOSTON

C. F. HOVEY & CO.

 Invite attention to their display of

FOREIGN & DOMESTIC WASH FABRICS

BAILEY, BANKS & BIDDLE CO.

1218 20-22 Chestnut St. Philadelphia,

MAKERS OF

COLLEGE SOCIETY PINS BADGES CLASS RINGS AND EMBLEMS

SPECIAL AND APPROPRIATE DESIGNS SUBMITTED FREE UPON REQUEST.

Wellesley College Seal for Room Ornament.

Seal of Solid Bronze, mounted on Antique Oak Shield, 16 inches high, $6.50.
SOCIETY NOTES.

At a regular meeting of Society Zeta Alpha, held in the Society House, February 28, 1906, the following program was given:

The Life and Work of Boccaccio........Netta Wannamaker
Boccaccio's Decameron.....................Marion Waugh
Adoption of the Decameron Tales by later writers—illustrated by the Tale of the Falcon........Katharine Denison

At a program meeting of the Phi Sigma Fraternity, held Wednesday, February 28, in the Chapter House, the following topics were discussed:

The Political History of the Renaissance to 1453........Marion Edwards
Contribution of the Building Orders to the Architecture of the Early Renaissance........Katharine Hazelton
Sculpture before the Introduction of the Classical Influence........Isabel Rawn
Cimabue................................Emily Shonk

At the Phi Sigma Fraternity vespers, Sunday afternoon, February 25, 1906, the following musical program was rendered:

Waltz Grandeau..........................S. E. G.
Two viols, Miss Biddle, Mr. Goldstein.
Berceuse. Miss Biddle.

Hungarian Dance............................S. E. G.
Mr. Goldstein.

The artists, Mr. Goldstein and Mr. Nagel of the Boston Symphony Orchestra, were assisted further by Miss Nevin, Miss Legg and Mr. Hamilton.

At a regular meeting of Tau Zeta Epsilon Society, held February 28, 1906, in the Society House, the following program was given:

Painting in Flanders and Belgium during the Seventeenth Century—Jacob Jordaens, David Teniers; Helen Porter
Antony Van Dyck, His Life and Work............Florence Plummer

Pictires.

King Charles I.............................Van Dyck
Model—Dorothy Pope.

Elizabeth and Philadelphia Wharton........Van Dyck
Models—Esther Barbour, Helen Newell;
Parallel III. Music and Poetry—Comparison of Rhythms.
(a) Normal Rhythms.
Dactylic—Waltz, Op. 64, No. 1. Chopin
Trochaic—Bruidal Chorus from Lobengrin. Wagner
Alice D. Chase.
(b) Non-Normal Rhythms.
Anapestic—"To a Wild Rose" MacDonell
Iambic—Song, "Allah gives Light in Darkness" Chadwick
Hettie S. Wheeler.

At a formal meeting of the Agora, held Wednesday evening, February 28, in the Society House, the following program was given:

IMPROMPTU SPEECHES.

Recent Developments of the Chinese Boycott, Georgia Harrison; Eliza Wackenbuth, Helen Bates
Railroad Rate Regulation..........................Catharine Jones
The Coal Strike....................................Koma Nickerson, Helen Baird

FORMAL PROGRAM:

Paper: 'The History of the American Tariff Policy since the Civil War..........................Marian Bruner
Debate: Resolved—That a Protective Tariff on Philiphine Suits Shall Be Maintained.
Affirmative................Grace Littlefield, Harriet Boyce
Negative...............................Marie J. Warren, Eleanor Little Special Announcement.

An invitation is extended to any wise merchant outside of New York City, or their representative, whose name appears in Headstreet's or Dunn's Commercial Agency book, to accept the hospitality of our Hotel for three days without charge. Usual rates, apartment with private bath $15.00 per day and up, without meals. Parlor, Bedroom and Private Bath, $15.00 per week and up, with meals for two. New York Merchants and Editors are requested to call attention of their out of town buyers and subscribers to this advertisement.

GALLATIN HOTEL, 70 W. 46th St., New York City.

HARRISON SWAN & CO.,
Poultry and Wild Game.
1 Fanueil Hall Market, Boston.
Telephone Richmond 883-7.

H. L. FLAGG,
Daily Papers, Periodicals,
Stationery, Etc.
Watson & Drayton Sporting Goods,
Waban Block, Wellesley Sq.

SMITH BROTHERS,
Butter, Cheese and Eggs,
2 and 4 New Fanueil Hall Market.

BOSTON.

MRS. S. ELLA PAUL,
DERMATOLOGIST.
Kelley Hair, Hands, and all Diseases of the Skin
and Nervous System treated.
MANICURING. BRIDAL SHAMPOOING.
Irons 515 Newton Avenue. 38 Newton Avenue.
Tel. 192-3 Red. Bx. 19.

BULLETIN OF OUR NASHVILLE DELEGATION.

SATURDAY, FEBRUARY 24.
S. S. Ontario : Capt. March, uncle of Miss Bertha March, Wellesley, 95.
A few mere travelers; 1 representative of the Pilgrim Press.
The START—of Wellesley friends to see the delegation off.
Fruit, flowers and silent Wellesley cheer.
SUPPER—Present: Misses Kendrick, Hathaway, Noyes, Hastings and Scott (Perot, for the cracker).

SUNDAY, FEBRUARY 25.
SERVICE 11 A.M.—Hymns. Talk by Miss Stone concerning her experiences with brigands in Macedonia.
AFTERNOON—Letter-writing, reading and “resting.”
EVENING—Hymns. Wellesley delegation meeting in connecting state rooms. Present: all but two.

MONDAY, FEBRUARY 26.
BREAKFAST—All present.
Across Virginia and into North Carolina in a day coach.
SIGHTS—Corn, cotton and tobacco fields, log-cabin, pickaninnies and pigs.
DINNER—Twenty minutes at wayside hotel for: Two kinds of meat; six kinds of vegetables, pie, prunes, cake, coffee.
Sleeper at nine o’clock. (First experience for three of the delegation.)

TUESDAY, FEBRUARY 27.
Sight-seeing around Chattanooga.
A coach and four from 10 A.M. to 6 P.M. Drive to Orchard Knob and along Missionary Ridge to Chickamauga Park, following the famous charge of the Union soldiers.
Lunch at an army canteen in Fort Oglethorpe, Geor-
tia. Drive across valley of the Chattanooga to foot of Lookout Mountain.

ANNOUNCEMENT.

The Professor of Zoology in the University of Minnesota asks that the following announcement be given publicity at Wellesley:

The Minnesota Seacliff Station on the Straits of Puqua, Vancouver Island, opens its doors for the sixth annual session, July 8, 1896. Owing to the low rates to the Pacific Coast, which will be in force, this promises to be an important year in the history of the station. These contemplating marine study and research are invited to write to Professor Conway MacMillan, University of Minnesota, Minneapolis, for the illustrated announcement of the Vancouver Island Laboratory Camp.
FREE PRESS.

I. Have just read the Free Press article in a recent News, in which one of my contemporaries expresses her "shame that the Legenda, that absurd and useless publication, which records, along with forced and witless incrimm, the deings of these various organizations of frivolity" was sent to the Empress Dowager. In the first place let me suggest that the Chinese Commission seems to have been given a very just estimate and generous proof of the nobility and seriousness of Wellesley, and that the glad-heartedness of American girlhood is as much needed by our sisters of the Orient as our freedom to think and know. The Legenda, for this reason, was an appropriate gift for the Empress.

Further, it seems to me the writer of that article can scarcely have seen the 1906 publication, which is a brave effort to make ancient history popular, and is conspicuously free from time-honored "frivolity."

And just here let me add my word (without which no one of us appeals to the Free Press editor). It is right that college women should know of the suffering in Russia, the horrors of the Congo, and the difficulties of supporting a drunken husband and six children at the proper standard of living; but let us remember that undergraduates are college girls and that as alumnae they can more successfully attempt to relieve society. To an old grad, not quite in her second childhood, the danger of college life is far more that of being too serious than of being too frivolous. Class elections, Barnswallow plays, the awful danger of influencing Freshman opinions, become Goliaths with whom we must needs give battle. We night (if a kind room-mate will sit up to listen to the sorcery) of you comes in the words: "Here's your moral: Let's return to the simple life, not careless of the problems that await us, but conscious that matured vision will make us see our moloch mountains of seriousness as well as of "witless erriment" in true proportion.

H. B. W., 1906.

II. Some time ago there appeared in the News a protest against the freedom and ease of our customs here at College, among others that of going anywhere and everywhere without hats. We grant that this may be conspicuous, even ill-bred, that our manner in public conveyances like trolley cars may be reprehensible: but we offer one field defence from our own embarrassing experience. Returning to Wellesley by trolley one morning, duly garbed in street suits (and hats), behaving, so far as in us lies, like ordinary respectable citizens, we were nevertheless honored by a persistent and comprehensive stare from various fellow passengers that left us no room for doubt but that we were labelled and placed in our proper class, as college girls. There seemed to be nothing particularly critical in the gaze; we were merely looked at, and that steadily, from West Newton to the entrance by Pomory, and signs of increasing distress were evident among the gazers when we let Fiske and even the West Lodge slip by. Of course, it may have been the inevitable suit cases, but these are not peculiar to the college species. Our own hypothesis is that we must have the "Wellesley look," and that that indefinable something makes us interesting to those who have it not, in much the same way, though to a less degree, that we were interesting to the Chinamen.

M. C. S.

III. We have all been exchanging various opinions lately about various examinations, but about one examination there has been only one opinion throughout the whole college. We often say of an examination, "Yes, it certainly was hard, but it was perfectly fair." In this case, however, the cliche—and it is a rare one at Wellesley was "as hard as it could be, and perfectly unfair—worse even than last year's Sophomore Midyears in English." Since this opinion will hold after the excitement of Midyears has subsided, the matter may be worth looking into further.

It is universally admitted, I think, that the object of the examination is to test the knowledge of people examined. Now, capacity to do original work in a subject, and the knowledge of the principles of that subject are two very different things. The English II Midyear examinations in 1905 and 1906 demand not only a display of knowledge, but also the capacity to do original work in English. In an elective course the demand is just, but in a required one hardly fair in the 1906 examination, out of five questions, three demanded special ability; and to answer them two brief, one forensic, and a critical theme had to be written. That the material for one brief was supplied by the department lessens the difficulty so little that the advantage is not worth considering. If the examination were the only means of ascertainment whether the class could write a brief or a forensic, the question would be different; but the ability of each girl had been tested throughout the semester; and to require people to do the hardest kind of work they have under the most trying circumstances, is both unfair and unreasonable.

Unreasonable, because in order to attain the purpose of an examination, the conditions under which such examinations are given have to be considered and the conditions are incontrovertably trying. There is, in the first place, the midyear atmosphere of anxiety coupled with mental and physical fatigue. Then, moreover, the fact that English, like music or painting, requires a certain temperament, and that consequently anyone disliking it, has a much harder time than anyone disliking other required subjects. Furthermore, such a student goes into examinations considerably terrified. These conditions nothing can alter for the better, but there is no necessity to make them worse. Yet this is done. Questions that require nothing but a grasp of the principles taught during the semester are scattered among questions demanding special ability in English and a rare gift for quick thought in their answers. Consequently, the unfortunate student is terrorized from the start, and is put to such an abnormal strain in her frantic attempt to control anxiety, to think at lightning speed, and to do a good deal of work for which she has no natural ability, that she cannot do herself justice on the questions she really does know, and ought to know, something about. Thus the examiners have defeated their own end.

That there is no necessity for such ordeals was proved by the examination in June, 1905. It was extremely hard, covering the entire courses, but there was no question that every conscientious student could not have answered.

MARY D. MAXWELL, '07.

CROSS COUNTRY CLUB.

Every Monday, for a few weeks, the Cross Country Club plans to have at least two girls at the North Gate to meet any other member of the club who may care to go for a long tramp. These walks will not be required, nor will it be necessary to sign for them in advance; it is hoped, however, that many of the club may find it convenient to go. Anyone not caring to go the whole distance proposed is advised to bring a friend, not necessarily a member of the club, in order to be independent of the rest of the party.

The first walk planned will be to Pegan Hill, starting from the North Gate at 9:30 A.M. Monday, March 12.

A. L. CRAWFORD

PARLIAMENT OF FOOLS.

I hate it, I hate it, and who is she
To chide me for hating that Geometry?
I look it o'er with a new surprise;
I believe it with tears; I embarrass with sighs.
It draws a thousand pains from my heart,
And it always will, for we ne'er will part!
Ah me! Will we?
ALUMNÆ NOTES.

In addition to notes concerning graduates, the Alumnæ Column will contain items of interest about members of the Faculty, past and present, and former students.

Association House, one of the Chicago Settlements, has three Wellesley graduates among its Directors.—Miss Ada M. Bel- field, 1896; Mrs. Katherine Jones Rev, 1899, and Miss Annie D. McCleary, 1902. The Association House has recently erected on its own property a large, well equipped house, which will give it much needed facilities for its varied and important work.

Miss Caroline J. Cook, 1884, is giving this year at Simmons College a half-year course on commercial law.

Mrs. Mable Wing Castle, 1887, is living in Honolulu, H.I. Mail may be sent to her in care of her sister, Miss Florence A. Wing, 7 Hancock Avenue, Lexington, Massachusetts.

Miss Annie Beecher Scoville, 1885-1887, gave an interesting lecture on Indian Handicraft before the Wellesley Hills Woman's Club, January 17, 1906.

Miss Florence A. Wing, 1892, is teaching French and German in the High School of Putnam, Connecticut.

Miss Marian Wharton Anderson, 1894, is now teaching at Walnut Hill School, Natick.

Miss Eliza A. Bateman, 1891, is at home this year in Still River, Massachusetts.

Miss Stella M. Ogden, 1893, is principal of the Littleton (New Hampshire) High School and teaches Latin, Greek and history.

The address of Miss Beatrice Stepanek, 1895, is 40 Morton Street, Brooklyn, New York.

Miss May E. Kellogg and Miss Clara R. Keene, 1896, were the guests of Miss Demison at Freeman, February 21.

At the recent wedding of Miss Amelia M. Ely, 1898, to Dr. Walter Clarke Howe, the maid of honor was Miss Mary S. Goldsmith, 1897. Among those present were Miss Jevel and Miss Tifts of the Wellesley Faculty; Miss Mary Capen, Miss Sarah Doyle, Mrs. Martha Doolittle Whiting, all members of Mrs. Howe's college class; Miss Mary Deacon, 1897; Mrs. Ethel Weaver Adams, 1901; Miss Grace Woodbury, 1904.

Miss Mabel Bishop, 1890, sails for Naples the last of April with a party under the management of Mrs. Howard Paine, 1884. The months of July and August Miss Bishop expects to spend in study in Germany.

The Class of 1903 hereby expresses its sincere sorrow upon the loss of one of its members, Zoe Russell Hatch, and extends its earnest sympathy to her family and friends, in the grief which her death occasions.

Sincerely,
May Virginia Landis, Vice-President.
Mary Rutherford Jenkins, Secretary.
Grace M. Dean.
For the Class of 1903.

Miss Olive C. Ambler, 1901, has resigned her position in the Newham High School to accept an appointment as teacher of English and History in the High School at Gardner, Mass.

Miss Julia B. Perk, 1901, is teaching this year in the Waltham (Massachusetts) High School.

Miss Matie L. Harrison, 1905, is engaged in work for the Carnegie Bureau, at the State House, Boston.

Miss Isabel Store, 1905, is studying this year at Cornell University, Ithaca, New York.

ENGAGEMENTS.

Miss Lelia S. Eaton, 1900, to Mr. Henry S. Farleigh of Passaic, New Jersey.

And if you flunked your math., what then?

There's many a slip twixt book and pen—

We'll sell you dainties as instanter

As if you had been a Duranter.

HATCH

Orientalist and Rug Merchant,

43 and 45 Summer St., Boston.

Miss Maud Stanton Jessup, 1899, to Mr. Howell North Baker of Berkeley, California.

Miss Julia M. Morrison, 1904, to Mr. W. Harvey Walker of New York City.

MARRIAGES.

Howe—Ely. At St. Paul's Church, Dedham, Massachusetts, February 26, 1906, Miss Amelia M. Ely, 1886, to Dr. Walter C. Howe, Amherst, 1894.

BIRTHS.

December, 1905, a daughter to Mrs. Annie Vinal Dunn, 1894.

MISS CHANLER'S VISIT.

Wellesley is to have an unusual opportunity on March 15th. Miss Chanler, President of the Woman's Municipal League of New York City, will be here and will speak at 3.20 in College Hall Chapel.

Miss Chanler represents the true American woman who is keenly alive to present conditions and is giving her best talents in service to her city and, through her city, to her country. The League of which she is President has become a forceful element in New York politics. In all municipal affairs its opinion carries great weight. It was due in great part to its efforts, that Mr. Jerome was re-elected last fall.

Miss Chanler is also closely connected with the Red Cross Society and visited Cuba, Porto Rico and the Philippines during the late war.

Miss Chanler is especially anxious to talk to us here at Wellesley, for her great desire is to interest college girls in civic life and show them how much their interest and efforts may do to improve it.

S. E. E.

THEATRE NOTES.

Temont—Mrs. Leslie Carter in "Adrea."
 Hollis—Eleanor Robson in "Mercy Merry Ann."
 Colonial—Richard Mansfield in Repertoire.
 Park—May Irwin in," "Mrs. Black Is Back."

E. T. SLATTERY CO.

ARE SHOWING

WALKING SUITS

IN NEW SHAPES AND FABRICS.

Fine French Millinery and Neckwear. Marabout Boas and Muffs.

154 and 155 Tremont Street.