3-18-1908

The Wellesley News (03-18-1908)

Wellesley College

Follow this and additional works at: http://repository.wellesley.edu/news

Recommended Citation
http://repository.wellesley.edu/news/190

This is brought to you for free and open access by the Archives at Wellesley College Digital Scholarship and Archive. It has been accepted for inclusion in The Wellesley News by an authorized administrator of Wellesley College Digital Scholarship and Archive. For more information, please contact ir@wellesley.edu.
Athletic Association Meeting.

A meeting of the Athletic Association was held in College Hall Chapel on Friday, March 15. The proposed new constitution was read by Miss Curtis, as chairman of the Constitution Committee, told of the history of the drawing up of the new constitution. For two years the Association has been seeking to frame a constitution satisfactory to both the members of the Association and the Faculty. The constitution as read was accepted by the Association, and will be presented to the Faculty for approval, in order that it may become valid. Miss Taylor spoke of the necessity of keeping in training while in any sport, and Miss Curtis urged the girls to consider plans for decorating the small boats on Float night. Miss Hill spoke of the new playground where we may all go informally and learn to play and dance, so that our May Day may really become our Play Day.

"Le Monde ou l'on s'Ennuie."

L’excitation de la pièce a dépassé en excellence les représentations ordinaires du Barn. La mise en scène du dernier acte mérite une mention particulière, car il est très difficile de représenter une serre, et, particulièrement, un jet d’eau. Les jeunes filles, qui étaient chargées du décor, s’en sont admirablement tiré et ont reçu, lundi soir, au lever du rideau, des applaudissements cordiaux bien mérités.

Le succès de la soirée a été pour Mlle. Suzanne de Villiers, type de la jeune fille naïve, franche, rebelle à toutes les conventions mondaines. Mlle. Straine a montré, dans ce rôle, une connaissance de l’art de la comédie qu’on n’avait pas vue au Barn depuis longtemps. L’aisance et la vivacité de sa première entrée, la verve et le naturel de son aventure en chemin de fer, ont été peut-être les incidents les plus amusants de la comédie. L’accent si pur et la diction si parfaite de Mlle. Straine ont ajouté un charme de plus au personnage qu’elle a représenté.

Mlle. Telford, Roger de Céran, l’amoureux gauche et embarrassé; Mlle. Everett, la Comtesse de Céran, type de la femme du monde ambitieuse, une montré une compréhension de leurs rôles qu’il faut bon, d’autant plus que Mlle. Everett avait un rôle assez difficile et qu’elle l’a exécuté avec beaucoup de grâce.

Le rôle de l’ingénieux scénariste et planteur a été admirablement joué par Mlle. Semler, dont les airs pénétrants et les manières affectées convenaient admirablement au personnage qu’elle représentait.

Mlle. Straine, Mlle. Semler et Mlle. Everett se sont fait remarquer par un accent absolument français, une très grande familiarité avec la langue et une connaissance parfaite de leurs rôles.

Le rôle de la vieille duchesse, linguiste, mais perspicace, rôle exécuté par Mlle. Cooper, a été rendu intéressant quelque incomplétude. Elle n’a pas pris assez de plaisir aux entretiens des jeunes gens et n’a pas suffisamment exprimé la jeunesse de son âme.

Les personnages secondaires, d’une tenue parfaite, et d’une élégance rare dans le choix des costumes, ont produit la meilleure impression.

Il est facile de reconnaître, dans les moindres détails le goût artistique de Mlle. Carret et de M. Giraudoux. L’autodrame leur exprime les remerciements empressés que les acteurs leur ont témoignés après la représentation.

Les personnages étaient:

Bellac. — Dorothy Lockwood.
Roger de Céran. — Ella Telford.
Paul Raymond. — Evelyn Aldrich.
Toufoulliere. — Madeline Piner.
Francois. — Helen Hall.
La Duchesse de Réville. — Helen Cooper.
Mme. de Loudon. — Ruth Hanford.
Jeanne Raymond. — Eloise Hollett.
Lucy Watson. — Frida Semler.
Suzanne de Villiers. — Dorothy Straine.
La Comtesse de Céran. — Marion Everett.
Mme. Arriego. — Ella Symonds.
Mme. de Saint Raoul. — Nathalie Lydecker.

WELFARE WORK.

On Monday evening, March 8, in College Chapel, those students interested in Botany and Economics enjoyed a lecture given by Mr. Nazro on "Welfare Work." The lecture was made doubly interesting by lantern slides. The lecturer was in produced by Mr. Alton of the Botanical Department and contained the story of the various efforts that we had the pleasure of hearing from Mr. Nazro. Mr. Nazro is widely known because of his interest in Welfare Work and especially because of his own great work in North Plimouth with "The Pilgrim Escape, " et cetera.

May we also be addressed by referring to the fact that welfare work, although comparatively new to most of us, had been in existence abroad for many years. In Germany, France and Holland we find practical evidence of welfare work, and England for us is the last expression of the good attained by the English welfare workers with the advantage of the owners of large cities, if they desired to keep their business increasing, to give their employees the opportunity to better themselves. Instead of the old kind of tenements, the new tenements are built for four families instead of twelve each with a private entrance. These houses of six rooms apiece are rented at three dollars and a half a week, and a decided improvement over the old style.

We all enjoyed especially Mr. Nazro’s remarks upon Field Days which is held every year at North Plimouth on Labor Day. On this day, one can view the culmination of the crop raised in a whole year. A large exhibit in a public garden, in which we exhibited the agricultural products which the employees have raised upon their own plots of land. Poultry, vegetables, fruits, as well as the best flower gardens, are kept for the awards, as well as the exhibitions in the garden.

On this day of days the men and women and young enjoy themselves. Mr. Nazro in closing, impressed upon us the great necessity of getting the employees interested in the welfare work.
EDITORIAL

For a long weary year we have untiringly given beauty hints to Alma Mater. Zealously have we brought to her notice the virtues of lotions and complexion creams; and so busy have we been in such well doing that we have not had time to mention the brightness of her eyes.

To tell the truth Alma Mater has shown a very beautiful spirit under all our carping, a good-natured recognition of the value of honest criticism. But now as our time draws near and we think back over all our official utterances our conscience smites us a little. With all her imperfections Wellesley is not as other colleges, and we think it would not be unglorious in this, almost our last editorial, to mention a few of her—of our—virtues.

Not long ago a lecturer said that he did like to come here because we have such a nice sense of humor. We are ready at any moment to break out into spontaneous chuckling. Really a sense of humor is a wonderful thing to have and keep. It lends a spice to living; it makes friends; it is a most excellent vanity regulator.

And yet, though humorous, we think we can honestly affirm that we are not frivolous. There are many things that we take very seriously indeed. We are loyal to Student Government to a man, and our Christian Association in all its branches is a live force. Our academic work—well, as individuals, we would rather not talk much about it—but we are rather proud of some of the work done here, and we are very proud of our average—and our health is simply phenomenal, which speaks much for such living.

Perhaps we are a bit exclusive, a bit indifferent to things of the outside world which is not Wellesley, but we warmly welcome the stranger within our gates. And we are not nobs. We do not choose our friends from mercenary motives, but like them because we like them, because they are the kind of people we like. And everybody has an equal chance to be amiable and generous.

Above everything else we stick together strongly. When we once belong to Wellesley we always belong to Wellesley. The Alumnae come back with the same zest as students. We are all for Wellesley. It is not mere vapid enthusiasm, but a big, true spirit that makes us cheer till we outcroak the frogs, and sing.

"We love our Wellesley fair and free, Our College Beautiful."

WELLESLEY COLLEGE SEAL PINS AND CHARMS,

Two sizes, Gray silver and Rose gold, $1.35, $1.50, $2.00 and $2.50.

Silk tabs to match.

OPTICAL DEPARTMENT.

Glasses made to order and repaired. If you haven't prescription, send glasses. We duplicate broken lenses promptly. Copy formula, and place on file for future reference. Mail orders promptly filled.

Two Miles from College. Phone 124-W.

Saves Hosiery.

Never Slip, Tear nor Unfasten

Every Pair Warranted

The Velvet Grip.

CUSHION BUTTON

HOSE SUPPORTER

If your Dealer does not sell you this Supporter he does not sell the Best. Every Clasp has the name Stamped on the Metal Loop.

George Frost Co., Makers, Boston, Mass.
COLLEGE CALENDAR.

Wednesday, March 18, 4:30 P.M., Memorial Chapel, Lenten Organ Recital by Associate Professor Ashton.

Thursday, March 19, 7:30 P.M., College Hall Chapel, meeting of Christian Association. Leader, Miss Ketcham.

Friday, March 20, 8 P.M., College Hall Chapel, Address by Miss Jane Addams of Hull House, Chicago.

Saturday, March 21, 7:30 P.M., the Barn, Bernswallows.

Sunday, March 22, 11 A.M., services in Houghton Memorial Chapel, Speaker, Rev. Elwood Worcester of Boston College. Special music.

Monday, March 23, 7:30 P.M., College Hall Chapel, recital of Modern German poetry by Dr. Hermann Anders Kruger of Hanover, Germany.

Tuesday, March 24, 4:45 P.M., Billings Hall, Students’ recital.

Wednesday, March 25, 1:20 P.M., Memorial Chapel, Lenten organ recital by Professor Hammond of Mt. Holyoke College.

COLLEGE NOTES.

On Friday, March 20, Miss Jane Addams of Hull House, Chicago, whose work is so well known among all those interested in Settlement Work, will speak in College Hall Chapel at 8 P.M. Miss Addams is here under the auspices of The College Equal Suffrage League.

On Tuesday evening, March 10, the Scribblers met in the T. Z. Hall, Miss Josephine Bowlen ’88 read.

The regular meeting of the Social Study Club was held in the Faculty Room on Tuesday evening, March 10. The subject for informal discussion was ‘Socialism.” Interesting questions were asked which Miss Batch and Miss Swinder answered. Everyone went away with a clear idea of socialism not as a mere idea but as a practical useful working method of benefiting humanity.

On March 18 and 19, from 2 to 5:20 P.M., Miss Hathaway of the Fiske Agency of Boston will be in the Browning Room to interview students intending to teach.

Tickets for the performance of “Bartholomew Fair,” the Elizabethan play given by the Harvard Chapter of Delta Upsilon in the “Barn” on April 14, can be obtained of W. L. Stevens, Weld & Cambridge. They will be on sale at College Hall by 10 a.m. or 2 p.m. before the performance and also on the 9, 10, and 11 of April. The prices are $1.00, 75 cents, and 50 cents.

Mr. C. A. P. Martin, who has been a great help in the celebration of the arrival of the birds and the blossoming of flowers, has written an amusing account of the spring progresses, which he expects will be a pleasure.

BIRDS.

Permanent residents seen at Wellesley:
Bob White
Ruffed Grouse
Red Shouldered Hawk
Sneech Owl
Hairy Woodpecker
Downy Woodpecker
Piker

FRUITS, VEGETABLES AND HOTHOUSE PRODUCTS.

SPECIAL ATTENTION GIVEN TO HOTEL, CLUB AND FAMILY ORDERS.

ISAAC LOCKE & CO.,
97, 99 and 101 Faneuil Hall Market.

STURTEVANT & HALEY,
BEEF AND SUPPLY CO.
38 and 40 Faneuil Hall Market.

Preferred Stock High Grade Coffee
Always Uniform and Delicious in Flavor.

L. P. HOLLANDER & CO.

Our Complete Assortment of Spring and Summer Silks and Dress Goods are now on exhibition.

Also a late arrival of Cotton and Linen Wash Fabrics.

202 to 216 BOYLSTON STREET. BOSTON.

M. G. SLATTERY,
326 Tremont Street, Boston,
Between Eliot and LaGrange Sts.
Opp. Majestic Theater

Notice of Every Description.
Special Attention Given to Order Work.

Home-Made Bread and Rolls, a variety of Cakes, Pies and Doughnuts, also Confectionery.

AT THE
WELLESLEY FOOD SALESROOM,
541 Washington Street, Wellesley, Mass.

LATER ROMAN PAGANISM.

Professor Clifford Herschel Moore of Harvard delivered an interesting lecture, Wednesday, March 11, in College Hall Chapel. His subject was, "Some Characteristics of Later Roman Paganism." Professor Moore spoke first of the general lack of study and of knowledge of Roman conditions during the third and fourth centuries, and of the great change taking place before and during this period in Roman religion. He spoke of the period of transition to religious forms and thought—of religious decay—during the early empire and named Virgil with his literary gods and Horace, the frank atheist, as examples of this period. Augustus' attempt to revive the ancient cult did not delay the inevitable decay. The cult of the Emperor was estabished at this time.

The first three centuries of our era saw great changes in the religion. The official religion was not given up; Jupiter was still supreme. But countless other gods were introduced by various means. Society at Rome became very cosmopolitan. Contact with other and older civilizations through foreign campaigns and trade established many strange, mysterious oriental cults at Rome, such as the worship of the Great Mother of Phrygia, of Isis and of Milters from Persia. The primitive exact performance of ritual could not satisfy the "sense of all," this kind of worship with its attendant mysteries, secret elaborate ritual and initiations. Each of these new Divinities claimed to be the supreme, all-comprehending god.

Professor Moore called the age one of reaction from the period of indifference of the first century B.C. Religion ceased to be national and became individualistic, as society grew more cosmopolitan. With the republic, political life had practically ceased and men's thoughts turned naturally to things. Professor Moore spoke next of the influence of Stoicism and of Neoplatonism.

The form was a strong moral philosophy with a pantheistic conception. God was a single principle, but demons were recognized in an intermediate world between God and man. The dominant note of this philosophy was one of sadness. The supreme deity of this philosophy is an abstraction. The fate of the individual soul was annihilation. It was too pessimistic to satisfy men's need, and ceased practically at the end of the second century.

Neoplatonism was a new Alexandrian philosophy. It was an abstract monotheism which recognized beings between man and the divinity, emanations from the supreme, steps by which man could approach divinity.

In closing, Professor Moore told how paganism prepares the way for Christianity. Its essential features, he said, were: first; safety hitherfore; second; satisfaction now by various ceremonies, baptism, reception into the church, ritual, promise of the future. Professor Moore compared some of these symbolic ceremonies with similar pagan rites in the cult of Isis or the Orphic sect. The way for Christianity was so prepared by paganism that Christianity appeared as a new Eastern mystery and as such did not seem strange and antagonizing to one. In conclusion, Professor Moore reminded us of the fact that paganism was a great debt to paganism for preparing her way.
MR. WHITTEMORE'S READING.

At the invitation of Professor Hart, Professor Whittmore of Tufts College gave a reading from Kipling in Billings Hall, March 1, 1937. The enthusiastic applause of the audience showed how much Mr. Whittmore's sympathetic interpretations were enjoyed. The reading was especially interesting to those who heard Professor Copeland at Wellesley a year ago. The subject was treated in such an entirely different way that it is difficult to compare the two. Professor Whittmore's selections were from Kipling's poetry, while Professor Copeland, prefacing his reading as he did with a short talk on Kipling as a writer, took from his works as a whole as well as verse. He read with a vigor and dash which quite carried away his audience, and for this reason, perhaps, Professor Whittmore's quieter reading did not make such a strong impression. All the selections on Thursday showed the more serious side of Kipling and the interpretation of them was distinctly subjective. Professor Whittmore succeeded in giving an idea of the various aspects of Kipling's genius, for the poems read ranged from the old favorite, "Tommy Atkins," to the last published, "To the Survivors of the Mutiny," including American as well as English and Indian subjects.

After the reading, Professor Whittmore consented to read "The Hound of Heaven" to those remaining. In reading this beautiful and difficult poem, Mr. Whittmore showed more than in anything else the sympathy in his voice and his strong and fine appreciation.

The Annual Reports of the College Settlements Association.

This week, the annual report of the College Settlements Association have been distributed more or less throughout the country. Personally, members of the Association. We have not been doing this for a pastime, but because we want every member to realize to what she pays her dues every year, and what that money is accomplishing. It is not brought out in popular form with colored photographs and graphic illustrations, but it is interesting reading, nevertheless. The reports from the various sub-chapters in the colleges show what special work they have done this past year and are especially valuable in furnishing suggestions to us for most departures and better methods of work. Following these, are the rather detailed reports from the head workers of the three settlements, which we help support. Miss Williams' report is full of enthusiasm and new plans of the gymnasium, for which they have been working so long, while Miss Davis, in a delightfully refreshing and clever paper, tells of her struggles with the "ways of darkness" in Philadelphia. It is expected that holders of scholarships and fellowships will devote their entire time to research.

Applications accompanied by proper credentials should be in the hands of the Secretary of The Rockefeller Institute not later than April 1st, 1938. The announcement of the appointments is made about May 15th. The term of service begins preferably on October 1st, but, by special arrangement may be begun at another time.

L. EMMET T. HOLT, M. D., Secretary.

14 West 55th Street. New York City.

ANNOUNCEMENT OF SCHOLARSHIPS AND FELLOWSHIPS.

The Rockefeller Institute for Medical Research purposes to award for the year 1938-1939 a limited number of scholarships and fellowships for work to be carried on in the scientific researches of the Institute in New York City, under the following conditions:

The scholarships and fellowships will be granted to assist investigations in experimental pathology, bacteriology, medical sick, or biological researches in physiology and pathology, or chemical and experimental surgery.

They are open to men and women who are properly qualified to undertake research work in any of the above mentioned subjects and who are granted for one year.

The value of these scholarships and fellowships ranges from eight hundred to twelve hundred dollars each.

It is expected that holders of the scholarships and fellowships will devote their entire time to research.

The announcement of the appointments is made about May 15th. The term of service begins preferably on October 1st, but, by special arrangement may be begun at another time.

L. EMMET T. HOLT, M. D., Secretary.

14 West 55th Street. New York City.
PARLIAMENT OF FOOLS.

ECLODES FROM MIDYEARS

Old English poetry is made up of runes and gnomes.
Beowulf in his fight with the dragon was assisted by Weland.
Macbeth showed his weakness in having the murderers kill Banquo instead of himself.
Chaucer, in his description of the prioress, is clear but complimentary. It is not illiterate.
Bede was the author of a familiar work known as Caedmon.
And angle appeared to him in a vision and bade him sing.
An elegy is a poem of mourning. A hero is usually the main feature.
Weland was the father of argumentation.
Crammer was the author of the prayer-book—a charming and dignified piece of literature.
Panope is the Goddess of music.
Shakespeare always gave his women the best roles.

POLLY: A GEOMETRICAL ROMANCE.

There once was a lad and also a lass
Both in the same geometry class.
He was very acute, that's so,
She was similar, that I know.
Although for him she had never angled.
Yet on the end of her line he dangled.
One eke, while walking around the square,
"You haven't a parallel," he did declare;
"You are far from being plain (plane) in the face,
There is nothing about you anyway base."
"You compliment (complement) me," she did reply,
Saying these words with a long low sigh (loci).
Then this bold youth, because 'twas dark,
With his arm around her, described an arc.
But she drew away with a haughty tread;
"This is approaching the limit," she said.
Thus from him forever was his Polly gone (polygon).
From this a conclusion must surely be drawn,
A moral we all should ponder upon. 1911

THEATER NOTES.

TREMONT: "The Man of the Hour."
HOLLY-STREET: "The Jesters."
MAJESTIC: "The Gay White Way."
PARK: "The Chorus Lady."
COLONIAL: Olga Nethersole in Repertoire.

The Walnut Hill School,
Natick, Mass.
A College Preparatory School for Girls
Miss Conant and Miss Bigelow, Principals.

HOLDEN'S STUDIO,
20 North Ave., Natick,
High Grade Portraits
Connected by Telephone.
Pianos for Rent.
SPECIALTY: A small piano with a big tone. This piano is used extensively by Yale students.
DERBY'S PIANO ROOMS,
Clark's Block, - - Natick
C. M. McKechnie G. F. McKeeney
C. M. McKechnie & Co.
BAKERS AND CATERERS
Telephone 5-4
10 Main Street, Natick, Mass.
The Wellesley Grocery Co.
Montague Block,
WELLESLEY - MASS.
SMITH BROTHERS,
Eggs, Cheese and Butter,
2 and 4 New Faneuil Hall Market,
BOSTON

TURNER CENTER DAIRYING ASSOCIATION,
33 Fulton Street, Cor. Cross,
BOSTON
Telephone, 207 Richmond.
The Intercolligate Bureau of Academic Costume.

COTRELL & LEONARD,
ALBANY, N.Y.
Makers of the
Caps, Gowns and Hoods to Wellesley, Radcliffe, Mount Holyoke, Bryn Mawr, Barnard, Woman's College of Baltimore, Harvard, Yale, Princeton, Cornell, Univ. of Pa., Dartmouth, Brown, Williams, Amherst, Colorado College, Stanford and the others.

Correct hoods for all degrees.
Illustrated bulletin and samples on request.

FREEm PRESS.

I.

Again societies. The strong articles by Miss Cooper and Miss Morrill bring out clearly the fact that the non-society as well as the society girl has privileges—the difference lying in the recognition of the privileges, one having unrecognized while the other has recognized privileges. Now can a girl with unrecognized privileges who, as Miss Morrill's article says, "makes her freedom and her pain serve her, and so is stronger than the society girl for her strength is in and of herself"—can that girl be as happy, as broad-minded ("in and of herself") as the society girl? can she get as much out of college social life as the society girl? I think not.

And after college days are over the girl with unrecognized strength, unrecognized privileges returns to class reunions, or visits the college during the year. Do any undergraduates take special care to make her visit to their college happy and pleasant? Is she invited to participate in any merry-makings other than class dinners, class cheering, and en masse affairs which do not tend to bring out her hidden strength?

The writer wishes this strength of the non-society girl to be recognized and would venture to make a suggestion in that line. On page 432 of the Outlook for February 8, is an article, "A non-fraternity Federation." Let me quote a few lines—"The increasing expensiveness and exclusiveness of college fraternities had led to a large group of non-fraternity men. Without adequate representation, possessed of scanty social advantages, lacking that stimulus toward the highest development which membership in a good college society affords, and without any permanent ties to any portion of the undergraduate body after graduation, many of this number dropped out of college, while those who remained secured a one-sided development. It was to fill this need of the non-fraternity element that these neutral organizations were established."

Would it be possible to have some such organization at Wellesley? Could the Barnswallows be developed in that line? The writer suggests that the requirements for membership be the same as at present—every student eligible; that the society of Barnswallows adopt some emblem, as a pin, to be worn by those members having diploma grade; that a fund be started to which the different classes, societies, and outsiders may contribute—a fund for a Barnswallow building having the advantages of the present society houses but built on a larger scale. In such a building any girl might have the privilege of entertaining her college friends in a way that is impossible in a girl's own room. Perhaps such a building would be beneficial to enforcement of the quiet rules of student government in the dormitories. In such a building a girl could entertain her college friends (with certain restrictions, of course). And when she returned to Alma Mater after college days were over she has a place where she may meet her friends and acquaintances and live over again the social joys of college life.

This is but a crude suggestion and may be altered and enlarged upon to the benefit of all concerned. Won't someone criticize, or else alter and enlarge?

II.

May I pick up the idea of Free Press to further urge the accomplishment of social graces not only as a substitute for fraternities, but as an accomplished adjunct of the process of college life?

"A beautiful voice, beautiful movements, and every sort of care for the body" is Greek in its spirit, than which we have attained nothing higher, intellectually or aesthetically. Yet the college girl's ideal almost ignores the aesthetics of living and moving and having her being. Is not the mastery of her intellect without its proper complement, unless she builds for this trained mind a temple of refinement and grace as outward expression of the inner truth and beauty?

Is there wiser and surer means of winning over our society sisters to higher interests than to step from the threshold of Alma Mater "finished" socially as well as intellectually?

Is not the union of these ideals worthy and possible, and as yet the college girl falling short of the fulfillment of her own personality, and of her grasp upon the fullness of life, unless she has this dual purpose?

Should the college girl be last or even second to shoulder the burden of reforming the American misuse of the voice in conversation? Can the college girl as a teacher or speaker in years to come, afford to be without the power of an attractive presence and a voice cultivated to be heard without straining its natural pitch? Does not the college girl owe society a vindication that the peculiarly feminine charms are not destroyed but are enriched and ennobled by companionship with intellectual power, and by service in the realm of highest influences?

E. C. G.
A MODERATE BRIDGE PLAYER.

III.

Spring elections are almost upon us. A word of warning about them may not be superfluous.

Let us be sincere in our attitude toward these candidates. Vote for a girl because you believe conscientiously that she is the best girl for the position. Don't let the matter of friendship interfere with your own truest judgment. Don't vote for a girl because she comes from your own freshmen house or lives on your floor, or belongs to your society. Better not vote at all than vote in such a manner, untrue to your best self. Each girl voting with absolute sincerity, and considering her vote to herself, her class and her college, will help her one self-vote to give the college a most splendid corps of officers.

My apology for this word, unnecessary as it may seem, to the surface, is an unpleasant rumor of "electioneering" in the first elections that have been occurring during the past two weeks. It is too serious to be overlooked. Let us leave such conduct to politicians, and let us, students in Wellesley, vote women free from taint.
For a HYGIENIC TREATMENT of the hair and scalp, or for a good shampoo, or facial treatment, try Madam Gillespie.

You will not only get first-class work, but will find quietness, privacy and refinement.

It costs no more than you would pay for first-class work anywhere. Send for circular on care of the hair.

MADAM GILLESPIE,
The Copley, 18 Huntington Ave.

The Women’s Shoe Shop, MISS H. H. MURPHY.

501 Washington St., near West, BOSTON.

Highest Grade, Lowest Prices. Arch Support Boots a Specialty.

ALUMNÆ NOTES.

In addition to notes concerning graduates, the Alumnae Column will contain items of interest about members of the Faculty, past and present, and former students.

The following notice of the ordination to the diaconate of Mr. J. Higginson Cabot, Ph. D., of Boston, is taken from the Boston Herald of March 9. “At a special service at the church of the Advent yesterday morning, in the presence of his family and one of the largest attendances the church has held for many months, the Rev. J. Higginson Cabot, Ph. D., of Boston, was ordained to the diaconate by the Rt. Rev. Dr. R. H. Weller, bishop coadjutor of Pond du Lac. Dr. Cabot is one of the youngest men in the ministry. He graduated from Harvard College in the Class of 1900 and then went to Europe, where he spent two years studying European history in Paris and Berlin. He returned to Boston and entered the graduate school at Harvard, where he taught history under Professor A. C. Coolidge. In 1904 he took his degree in philosophy, writing his thesis on ‘The Union of Italy.’ Since that time he has been teaching history at Wellesley College. Dr. Cabot will leave for New York in a week’s time and will spend his diaconate in the staff of Grace Church, in the East Side, in the heart of the Italian district.”

Miss Mary Jeffers, who was at Wellesley during part of the year 1885, took her degrees of A. B. and A. M. in 1895 and 1897 from Bryn Mawr, and later studied at the universities of Munich, Italy and Brown. She is now engaged in preparing girls for college, especially for Bryn Mawr, and in public lecturing. Among the subjects she offers are travel-talks on Germany, Scotland, Switzerland, and lectures on the cities of Italy, ancient and modern.

Miss Susan D. Huntington, 1900, has accepted for the remainder of the year the position of critic teacher in the seventh and eighth grades in the Normal school, St. Cloud, Minnesota. Miss Cora Jefferson Hogan, 1905, is assistant in the Missouri Botanical Garden Library at St. Louis, and may be addressed at 4263 Botanical avenue, St. Louis, Missouri.

Mrs. H. Takeda (Kim Kato, 1888-89) is teaching in the Girls’ Higher Normal School, Tokyo, Japan.

Miss Grace Edgett, 1897, is substitute teacher of Mathematics in Mrs. Kepp’s School, Farmington, Connecticut.

Miss Alice Perry, 1907, with her family is travelling in Europe.

CHANGES OF ADDRESS.

Mrs. George Miller (Georgianna Miller, 1891-02), Bound Brook, N. J.
Miss Jeannette Trtridge, 1893-95, South Framingham, Mass.
Miss Mary C. Bliss, 1890, 210 So. 37th St., Philadelphia, Penn.

ENGAGEMENT.

Miss Ruth Hauenbeck, 1905, to Mr. Arthur Walbridge North, University of California, 1896.

DEATHS.

March 7, 1908, in Arlington, Massachusetts, Clement March, father of Hertha March, 1845.
March 11, 1908, in Boston, Massachusetts, Elisabeth Bailey Hardee, 1804, and Sarah Chamberlain Weed, 1805.
March 8, 1908, in San Antonio, Texas, Mrs. John G. Mulhol-land (Cora Ready, 1868-87).

MUSIC NOTES.

The First Lenten Organ Recital was held at Memorial Chapel on Wednesday, March 11, 1908, at 4:20 P.M. Professor Henry Dike Sleeper of Smith College was the organist.

PROGRAMME.

1. Suite in F minor. Cesar Franck
   Prelude and Hymn César Franck
   Cantabile. ..... César Franck
   Intermezzo. ..... César Franck
   Finale. ..... César Franck

2. Cantabile. ..... César Franck
   Reverie in B flat major. ..... Lecomte
   Pastoral in F (Part 1). ..... Bach
   Andante Cantabile. ..... César Franck
   Improvisation. ..... Tchaikowsky
   Sanctus. ..... Gounod
   A tea for Mr. Sleeper was given after the Recital at the T E. House.

The Second Supplementary Recital was held at College Hall Chapel, Monday, March 16, 1908, at 7:30 P.M. Mr. Arnold Dolmetsch, Harpsichord, Chavichord, and Viola d’Amore.

Mrs. Arnold Dolmetsch, Viola da Gamba, Mr. C. W. Adams, Harpsichord.

PROGRAMME.

1. Suite of four pieces for two viols and the harpsichord.
   I. Almain. II. Corant. III. Saraband. IV. Gigue.
   I. Gigue. II. Saraband. III. Corant. IV. Gigue.

2. Harpsichord Pieces by French Composers.
   I. Souci Monique. Rondo. Francois Couperin, 1720
   II. Le Coqou. Claude Daquin, 1730
   III. Le Papel des Osceaux. J. P. Rameau, 1721
   Tambourin.

3. Prelude and Sarabande.
   For the Viola da Gamba. Marin Marais, 1680
   Pieces for the Clavichord.
   I. Prelude No. XII in F minor, 1744
   II. Prelude and Fugue No. 1 in C major, 1722
   Preludes in B flat major, 1722
   Preludes in D minor.

5. Sonatas for the Viola d’Amore.
   I. L’Attilio Ariosti, 1715
   Harpsichord Pieces by German and Italian Composers
   I. Passacaglia. G. F. Handel, 1720
   II. Sonatas in D minor. Domenico Scarlatti, 1720
   III. Gigue from Partita in B flat.
   Toccata in G major.

7. Three Pieces from the Second Concert for Harpsichord, Viola d’Amore and Viola da Gamba.
   I. La Boucon.
   II. L’Agacondo. J. P. Rameau, 1741
   III. Deux Menuets.

The Second Lenten Organ Recital was held on Wednesday, March 18, 1908, at 4:20 P.M. Mr. Joseph N. Ashton, Organist.

PROGRAMME.

   II. Prelude and Fugue in C major. Bach
   Sciolano
   III. Concert Piece in B minor. Gigout
   Parts in B major.

CONCERT PIECE IN B major.
   Parker

The next recital in this series will be by Mr. William Churchil Hammond of Mount Holyoke College, Wednesday, March 25 at 4:20, in the Memorial Chapel.

COURSES ON FINANCE.

1. Elementary Courses for students who sometimes may be obliged to make investments or handle trust funds.

2. Advanced Courses for students who desire to prepare as statisticians, librarians or clerks for banking houses.

Financial and Economic Books of All Countries.

ROGER W. BABSON,
Care of the Bankers’ Educational Bureau.
SPRAGUE BUILDING, WELLESLEY HILLS, MASS.

We are now carrying statistics for nearly all the larger Banking Houses in the United States and Europe and will gladly give references if desired.