Dr. Charles Cuthbert Hall.
A painful loss comes to the College in the death of President Charles Cuthbert Hall of Union Theological Seminary, known to us as a deeply interesting preacher and an inspiring guest, and as the father of Katharine C. Hall of 1900. Dr. Hall has been for some months in the grasp of disease, and his death on March 25 was not unexpected to his physicians and his friends.

"Dr. Hall came into contact with the practical problems of preaching and of church work in an early pastorate in Newburg, and, later, in Brooklyn, New York. In 1867 he was called to the presidency of Union Theological Seminary. He soon entered, with a singular thoroughness, into a work which has fallen to no other American. In 1902, and again in 1906, he went to India as a lecturer on the foundation established in the University of Chicago, and made himself the most winning and successful interpreter of Christianity that has yet appeared in India and the farther East. The unusual labors of the second visit to India, in a trying climate, brought on the disease which ended the career at the very height of his powers; and he laid down for his work as truly as if he had stepped into a breach in a sharp engagement and fallen with his face toward the foe."

The influence of this work in India is seen in the resolutions adopted by the members of the Pan-Aryan Association in observance of the death of Dr. Hall. This Association was formed in 1906, by Hindus in New York City, for the purpose of advancing India's industrial and educational interests and must have been deeply interesting to Dr. Hall.

THE INDOOR MEET.
The Indoor Meet held March 23 at 10 A.M. showed high standards. 1908 did excellent work as one can easily see from the score. But the other three classes were quite evenly matched and next year's Indoor should be the more interesting from this fact. 1909 had splendid team unity and form. 1910 was proud and happy that she could back up her sister class with second place, and 1911 was highly deserving of praise.

The teams were as follows:

1908
Dorothy Pope, Captain
Helen Curtis, Vice-Captain
Ellen Cope, Treasurer
Eleanor Little, Captain
Jane Balderston, Manager

1909
Eleanor Raymond, Captain
Helen Curtis, Vice-Captain
Ruth MIair, Treasurer
Beatrice Stevens, Captain
Dorothy Hinds, Treasurer
Susannah Annin, Manager

1910
Lucy Bacon, Captain
Margaret Hoyt, Vice-Captain
Ruth Elliot, Treasurer
Esther Park, Captain
Edith Wilde, Treasurer
Florence Wiss, Manager

1911
Ruth Guion, Captain
Lydia Brown, Vice-Captain

THE DELTA UPSILON PLAY.
"Why be psychological?" was the thought which rankled in the minds of all cost two of the regulars, Miss party present each time, as if the play was not on the program. The play, as a whole, was successful and delightful. The charm of the simplicity in the scheme of the world and its ways. The play was as a day in a enchanted land, with the earthy flavor about it. The cast were cutpurse, Puritan, and Puritan, ballad singer and gypsy, made much in gay and gay, swallowing ale by the pestle and maul, with alacrity, and the year was named "Puritan". Bartholomew Fair. A Puritan became interested in the magazine's attention of the Puritans in the stocks, and, to the last all his portable property could scarcely say a word, and yet how many were there.

The scheme briefly: Of course, the Puritans, who were accustomed to the fair, took it up, and argued with them. These enemies he had no book, and they were most of his friends. an able portion if all. All of them seem to be engaged in the great game of the one-fourth and extend a general invitation to a part to the materials in the whole play.

The part of the justice was admirably taken. Variations of the theme, as檀的 and long pensive moral trend in an apparent sincerity, which was the character exactly. The justice, Zebedee, and his untiring work, of course, is insensibly, exceedingly well to quote his works. The godman's hypocrisy, his handed discourses on tobacco and how it is, and the consequences of his actions, were among the best bits of detail in the whole play.

Some of the minor characters were exceedingly well done. The bad madman, Mrs. Littlewood, the pig-woman, and others deserve special mention.

"The world too should be spoken to care of the Ladies of the Cast. Grace Wadsworth, particularly, identified herself with the feminine role she addressed as to form as much as any other. Her constant voice, her elegant manner and her eye crooks, more than counteracted this defect."

On the whole that Delta Epsilon deserves to be decidedly congratulated for its work on Saturday night. We feel that it adheres to its determination to be exclusive to Elizabethan plays, and that Wellesley will have the opportunity to see many more such revivals.
EDITORIAL.

Although student government elections bring excitement and much discussion, whether strong or feeble, of candidates, and although nearly everyone has a rather emphatic opinion which she offers to her friends on the subject, yet when the time for voting comes, and the ballots are counted, less than one-half of the girls in college are found to have voted. The candidates may not always be well known to each of the freshmen, yet each can form a fairly just estimate of the candidates if she consults enough of the girls who know them, and who represent different opinions. There are few girls in the three upper classes who have not an opinion which would be worthy to help in deciding the matter—and a vote is a more weighty expression of opinion when ballots are counted than the choicest language beforehand.

The opinions which count, and the votes which decide in the right way are those which are disinterested and intelligent. Perhaps we realize very little how hard it is to make one’s opinion disinterested, and not to be influenced by personal relations, friendship and societies—especially societies. But the blindest and most harmful kind of voting is that which follows the sway of personal interest, personal gain from the result of an election. A vote has to be disinterested in order to allow it to be intelligent. In voting for student govern-

Tuesday, April 21, 4:15 P.M., Student Recital in Billings Hall.

COLLEGE NOTES.

After the services on Sunday morning the new memorial window in the chapel was unveiled. The window is a very beautiful one of Tiffany glass. It is in memory of Mrs. Houghton, being given by her son and daughter. Miss Edith Metcalf, formerly of the Class of 1909, has just returned from a trip around the world. She has been travelling with her family since the summer after her Freshman year. She hopes to come back to college next year.

An open meeting of the Debating Club was held on April 14. The students in the Music Department have raised $160 toward the purchase of a clavichord for Billings Hall. The sum needed is $200. Any contributions toward this fund will be welcome and may be sent to Miss Wheeler, Billings Hall.

The engagement is announced of Miss Caroline L. Allen, Curator of Botany Museum and Assistant in Botany, to Mr. Frederic G. Dunham, Cornell University, 1902; Law School of Columbia University 1905.

1908 Legendas will be on sale Thursday, April 16th, from 9-4:15 o'clock at the elevator table. Everyone who wants a Legenda should buy it at this time. Any order received during the next two weeks from any alumna will be promptly filled. Price, $1.75 (including postage on book).

A reading of modern German poetry was given in Billings Hall on the evening of March 23, by Professor Hermann Anders Kruger of Hanover, Germany. The first part of the program consisted of selections from the most widely-known of the present-day lyric poets of Germany, among others, Holz, von Lilienkron, Dichter and Frauline Steuven of our own German Department. Professor Kruger himself is considered one of the best of modern German writers, and for the second part of the program he read some of his own work, including poems, two scenes from his latest tragedy, and the introduction to his best known novel, "Gottfried Kämpf." Professor Kruger is lecturing and reading in this country at the invitation of the Deutsche Gesellschaft of New York City; he has spoken at Harvard, Yale and Columbia, but Wellesley was the first woman's college to receive him.

PETITION.

Wellesley, Massachusetts.
April 7th, 1908.

Miss Betsy Coe Baird,
President of the Student Government Association.

My dear Miss Baird:
Believing that the general feeling of the student body, and many of the alumnae, is one of great regret that Wellesley is to lose its Department of Physical Training, the director, Miss Lucille Eaton Hill, we, the undersigned, do hereby request that a Student Government meeting be held at which some action may be taken to express our appreciation and gratitude to one who has, for many years, given so generously of her powers and of herself in the service of our college.

This petition was signed by ninety girls, most of whom have come into close contact with Miss Hill either in dancing classes, or in the management of sports, and a hearty response is hoped for from both students and alumnae.

SOCIETY NOTES.

At a regular meeting of the Shakespeare Society, held Friday evening, April 10, the following were formally received into membership: Miss Alice Byrne, 1908, Miss Minnie Muirhead, and Miss Jeanette Vail, both of 1910.

CHRISTIAN ASSOCIATION.

At the Christian Association meeting, Thursday evening, April ninth, it was our great pleasure to have as leader, Miss Ruth Paxson of New York, traveling secretary of the Student Volunteer movement. After the opening devotional exercises, Miss Paxson spoke of the opportunity of the hour in the far East. She dwelt on the fact that, through the close international relationship brought about by the newspapers, the students and tourists, there is no far East to-day. The work of the missionary himself helps create this great world neighborhood. How it has been brought about—the reason for this change in the life of the oriental people—is a question in which the hand of God is visible. It is a fulfillment of the prophecy of the Old Testament—that there shall be one Shepherd over all. This should be looked upon as an opportunity to carry out God's will. There are three things which make it possible to carry out this opportunity,—first, an open door to the far East; second, an open mind; third, the eagerness for western learning.

FRANCIS HOWE, Manager.

Japanese young men go into the Bible classes to learn English, and stay to become followers of Christ. In 1853 Japan seemed sealed to the world. To-day there is a wide educational system which necessitates the bringing in of foreign learning. In China there are not enough schools to supply the great desire for education. In one town seventeen temples were turned into schools. In a temple in Pekin the priest has been crowded into one corner while the rest of the building was turned into an educational museum. Along with this great opportunity Miss Paxson mentioned the perils of immorality and of irreligion which were menacing the young men and young women; and in this the responsibility of the church is evident.

Miss Paxson gave instances of the great attendance at the Wednesday-night prayer meetings in Korea. In a city of 50,000 inhabitants there were 3,700 people at prayer meeting in the different churches, and in one Presbyterian Church alone there were 1,700 people present. Korea could be evangelized in ten years. Then Miss Paxson mentioned the supreme opportunity to make Jesus Christ known as the light of the world. The Orient needs the gift of life and love. Christ knows how to love as one who gave His life for others. It is our opportunity to tell the gospel message of one who is the origin of light and life and love.

CHRISTIAN ASSOCIATION ELECTION.

Just at this time when we are electing girls to positions of responsibility in the Christian Association for next year, it is right that all of us, whether members of the Association or not, should ask ourselves what is the place of the Association in our college life, and what its demand upon us as intelligent factors in that life.

The Christian Association is not an organization whose purposes are entirely separate from those of every other organization in college. On the contrary the aims of these organizations are to be found as surely, if not as prominently, in the Christian Association as in themselves. Student Government desires no more earnestly than the Christian Association, that every girl shall recognize individual responsibility for helping the college and training one's self. The wish for further self-culture can be shown as much in a girl's enrolling in the Bible and mission study classes as in her joining a Department Club.

That which the Barnswallows recognize in the need of good times for everybody, the Christian Association tries to express through its Social Committee. All these high aims the Christian Association tries to include in its work; but, standing as it does for the better self of each girl and striving to keep high the Christian ideals of the college, it puts before all other aims the

I. THE IDEAL OF CONSTANT SPIRITUAL DEVELOPMENT.

For its work next year, the Association rightly demands strong, earnest girls. More, perhaps, than in other organizations, the standard for the year's work is set by the Executive Board. By the depth of spirituality of the members of the Board, the college and the outside world measures the depth of spirituality of the Association. The college ought to be willing to give some of its very best girls for the less prominent office in the Association as well as for the highest. It is only a girl of unusual stamp who can keep up through the whole year the steady work and the enthusiasm that the successful Christian Association demands.

As the Board sets the standard for the college, so the president in even greater degree sets the standard for the Board.

Among the many qualities which go to make up an ideal president, there are four which seem indispensable to one who would be truly efficient. First of these is the capacity for an unbounded spiritual life and an increase of spiritual power, for it is safe to say that only in the rarest instances will the spiritual ideals of the Association rise beyond those of the president. The second quality is at once the complement and test of her spiritual power, the power of leadership. She must be able to impart the secret of her own spiritual power to other lives, and to relate constantly one girl after another to opportunities which she sees arise. To analyze this potentiality for leadership, the four essential elements found are

1. The power to see great possibilities.
2. The power to find a place that would utilize these possibilities.
3. The power of inspiration.
4. The power of organization.

Thirdly, the ideal president must have a faithfulness and loyalty to her academic work, a loyalty, social, athletic or dramatic obligations, that would carry by her power the desire for a life of integrity and honor into the great community life of the college. Fourthly, she must have a knowledge of the field; that is, she should know of the girls and about girls in college, their mental, physical, social and spiritual life.

If, as we believe, the Christian Association represents the best element in our lives and in the life of the college, the choice of girls who are to guide its work is an important one.

FREE PRESS.

In a few of the lecture courses offered in college, printed outlines of the year's or semester's work are furnished for the students at their own expense. These serve to group the material, to emphasize the most important points in the course, and to guide the student into an intelligent choice of books for special reference work. Without such an outline the student feels almost at sea in the abundance of notes which she has taken hurriedly, and with no subordination of ideas. She feels it is necessary to make a note of every thought suggested by the lecturer, for she does not know but that it may be essential to her knowledge of the subject. Outlines, even if very brief and condensed, would be of great value in all lecture courses, for in this way better than any other, the student can grasp and master a subject which is presented to her in separate lectures.

OBSERVATORY NOTES.

Everyone whose "face turns starward while his feet stumble along the unseen street" must now note Venus flashing in the evening sky. It requires closer observing to find red Mars near by, so faint has it become on account of increasing distance from the earth. It will be worth while to compare its color and brightness with the red star Aldebaran, which is near.

Professor Whitington has made a score of drawings of Jupiter during the late opposition. A remarkable oval opening or rift in the southern equatorial belt appears on many of them. This "bay," as it is called, into which the famous great red spot disappeared, is much longer and more open than last year.

Professor Hayes, in February, and Miss Whiteside, in March, were fortunate in catching the sight of an eclipse of one moon of Jupiter by another. This phenomenon occurs occasionally this year because the orbits of the satellites are presented to the earth more nearly edgewise than usual.

The sun has been without spots a number of days the last month, but this week a remarkable outburst of activity has caused seven single spots or groups to trail across the disk in the southern spot zone.

Probably this storm, if we may so call it, in the solar atmosphere caused the aurora which many observed the evenings of March 27 and 28.

IN MEMORIAM.

On December 26, 1907, there died at Providence, R. I., Miss Minnie A. Hall, of the Class of '88. Through months of suffering she passed to the great rest to those who count the value of gifts. She counted Wisconsin’s Fourth of July, and to her students she held how the people cast money into the treasury; and many of the rich cast much,” she is one of Wellesley’s noblest donors, for she gave to our mission work “all that she had.” Miss Hall’s life was one of quiet, unassuming service, and she will be long remembered by her fellow students.

The American Book Company has recently issued an Introductory Course in Exposition by Associate Professor Perry, being a companion text-book to her Introductory Course in Argumentation, published last year. The aim of the new book is to systematize the study of exposition. It presents clearly the processes and functions of this most far-reaching form of expression; and in addition stimulates student and teacher by the refreshingly modern note shown in its choice of illustration. The volume is dedicated to Professor Hart.

At the annual meeting of the Women’s Medical Society of the State of New York recently held in the city of Rochester, notable addresses were made by Dr. Ruth Webster Lathrop, 1883, Professor of Physiology in the Women’s Medical College of Pennsylvania, and by Dr. Helen Baldwin, 1888, president of the Women’s Medical Association of New York City.

Mrs. Florence Soule Smith, 1889, reports having had a union in her own, when on a recent pleasure trip to Washington, D. C. She dined with Mrs. Henry L. Drexel and Mrs. Safford; spent an evening with Winnie Orr, and took luncheon with Louise Parsons Dolliver and Senator Dolliver.

The Class of ’89 was well represented at the annual luncheon of the New York Wellesley Club at Hotel Astor in January. There were present Mary Edwards Twitchell, Harriet Constantine, May Banta, Anna Woodman, Sarah Groff Conklin, Lucia Leffingwell, and Florence Soule Smith.

Miss Edith Thayer, 1886, has been spending some weeks at Pinehurst, North Carolina.

The Misses Harriet and Isabel Stone, 1890, report a very successful year with their travel school and very bright prospects for the coming year. Miss Harriet has had charge of the business side in this country this far this year, but sailed on the Princess Irene, April 1, to join the sister in Rome. They travel northward after Easter.

At the open meeting of the American School of Classical Studies at Athens, March 20, 1908, Miss Elizabeth M. Gardiner, the holder of the Alice Freeman Palmer Fellowship in 1905-06, presented a paper on “The Changing of Churches at Delphi.” After her three years of study abroad Miss Gardiner will next year return to Wellesley as Instructor in the Art Department.

Miss Olive Sullivan, 1903, and Miss Helen Porter Ward, 1907, have been spending some weeks in Florida.

Miss Marion Lee Taylor, 1893, has returned to Green Hall, University of Chicago, to complete her work for her doctor’s degree, which she hopes to take this summer.

Garber, 1907, is doing graduate work at Swarthmore College, and Miss Eleanor Fricke, 1907, is studying at Bryn Mawr.

Miss Clara D. Murphy, 1887, is teaching Mathematics and Physics at Bethany College, Topeka, Kansas.

Miss Emma A. Buchler, 1907, has since February been teaching Algebra in the Barringer High School, Newark, New Jersey.

Mrs. E. M. E. Radley, 1897, is spending a few days with Miss Jean Aiken, 1907, in Bethlehem, Pennsylvania; she plans to sail for a two months’ trip in Europe, intending to return to Wellesley for Commencement.

Miss Katharine MacAlpine, formerly of 1908, who has been studying in the universities of Berlin and Munich, hopes to return in time to take her examinations at Wellesley in June.
