Christian Association Reception

"I'm so afraid I won't be able to remember all these people," said one freshman anxiously after her first dozen introductions at Christian Association reception. It is rather a bewildering affair at first, the joyous assembly that sets College Hall Center a-humming on the first Saturday of college; but it has come to be something without which we can hardly imagine the opening days at Wellesley. After such a general shaking up together, every one feels a fine sense of good fellowship, and it was this feeling which was especially apparent at the reception this year. After the usual hour of introductions and greetings, the receiving line in the Browning Room broke up, and Miss Cecil, president of the Christian Association, began the speech making. After welcoming 1912 in the name of the Association, she emphasized the value of the year before us in its opportunity for a higher record of love and service, and read a letter of greeting from Miss Hazard and a telegram from Dorothy Fuller. Miss Pendleton spoke of the keen disappointment which Miss Hazard's absence occasioned, and then of the place which the Christian Association holds in the life of the college. Miss Hanford greeted 1912 from the Student Government Association as the class just come of age, of whom great things were expected, and closed with a wish for firmer friendships, pure fun, and a more splendid self government in the college during the coming year. College songs and cheering added the last touch of enthusiasm as the reception came to an end.

Student Government Meeting

1909's first Student Government meeting was called Friday afternoon at 4:15. But long before the appointed time there was the noise of rushing through the corridors, and the buzz of conversation attending the stream of people who took their way to College Hall Chapel. Miss Ceci, president of the Christian Association, opened the meeting by offering prayer. The reports of the secretary and treasurer of 1909-8 were read and accepted. Miss Hanford announced that, as Pay Day was such a success last year, it had been decided to repeat it this year, the date set for it being November 10. An invitation was read from the Students' League of Mt. Holyoke to send two delegates to the annual conference of the Women's Inter-collegiate Student Government Association. Miss Hanford, as president of the association here, is one delegate, and Miss Esther Randall was voted by the college for the second delegate. During the counting of the ballots, Miss Pinney spoke for the village committee. She asked 1912 to give to the committee their confidence and appealed to the older girls to remember their duty by way of setting example to 1912. Miss Smith, captain of the Fire Brigade, laid emphasis upon the personal responsibility of each girl in the fire drills, and said that in the coming year it would be for quiet. She also announced that the fire extinguishers would be tested some night next week on bonfires which were to be held about the campus. Miss Zabriskie made an urgent appeal for quiet in College Hall during recitations. Miss Hanford then told us that Miss Baird with a committee has been, and is still, working for the Students' Building, and that definite results are expected soon. To the Seniors she said that they had been granted a second Sunday for church in Boston. A vote of thanks was given to the Senior class in their gift of the Senior Parlor for the Student Government office. The constitution and by-laws were read by the secretary and then Miss Hanford closed the meeting by an appeal to every girl to feel her responsibility. She said that this year we would work for the spirit of the association, and that, in this work we are not only working for ourselves and the association but for its founders also. The president read several messages from former girls wishing Student Government every success this year, which promises to be the best year yet: for there was that indefinable and magnetic feeling in the air that the heart of every girl was there pledging its loyalties to Student Government.

The Barnswallows

Last Saturday saw the ancient and inviolate society of Barnswallows flocking back with all their usual zest to the first meeting of the year. " usual" did we say? No—for in the words of its smiling president it was something more than "double happiness" we came, not only because of the two sessions, afternoon and evening, but because we were initiating into the play of Wellesley, the Freshmen who this year we've ever had" as a Sophomore was heard to say, and far be it from us to contradict the earnest young thing. Indeed, it was as pleasant a sight as we could wish to look upon, to see the crisp gowans and smiling faces of 1912, upon whom neither the shoe of the elbow nor the pressure of the foot made any perceptible impression.

By four o'clock in the afternoon, the reception line was well organized, and the Freshmen were introduced to the Barnswallow president, Miss Butterfield, who, in turn, presented Miss Tufts and Miss Rust. Soon after, Miss Butterfield ascended the platform and, against the background of dark green wall, its shaded lights and quaint box wood trees, welcomed the Freshmen to the lighter side of college life in contrast to the more serious aspects offered to them by the Christian Association and by Student Government. In the Barn, she said, all was fun, good wholesome fun—even the little work there must necessarily be at times, was such that no one grumbled at it, but rather enjoyed it.

Miss Tufts next spoke and again emphasized the fact that besides the spiritual and intellectual life of the college, there must also, hand in hand with it, this social life. Miss Rust then added a few words, assuring the Freshmen that her memories of the good times at the Barn could vie with those of any of the girls themselves, and hoping that they themselves would soon have such memories to treasure.

A few moments later a grand march was formed, winding in and out in many circles, which, as a signal, broke up to start the dancing, which was continued until six o'clock.

At the evening session Miss Davis and Mrs. Hodder assisted Miss Butterfield in receiving the new Barnswallows. Miss Davis's frequent references to the poster on the bulletin board with its row of jam pots, as being typical of the "jars and jams" at the Barn caused many a reminiscent laugh. Mrs. Hodder arose to advocate that the policy of the Barnswallows hereafter should tend to make their entertainments as informal and inexpensive as possible. Dancing followed, and the first meeting of the Barnswallows ended at nine thirty amid merr and enthusiastic cheers for all concerned, from the president to the fledglings of 1912.

EDITORIAL

With greetings and words of welcome springing up everywhere, it is not for any self-respecting newspaper to neglect to plant its own little sprout of welcome. Our little sprout is a trifle green yet, which makes it the more tender, but we plant it with as fond hopes as on a Freshman Tree Day. That it will sprout and be pleasant to many. In other words we are glad to see 1912, with its grips full of unopened material, and all the others exploring their mates diligently surprised at all the virtue and intelligence coming to light. And we hope that our joy at seeing you will make you as glad to see us, for we will try to serve you as faithfully as we are able.

This year we are planning to carry out more carefully and more consistently one function which we have let go on in a rather uneven fashion, and that is criticism. With our method of assigning the work of reporting not alone on the board, but to various members of the college who have the desire and ability to cooperate with the board, the tone of the reports varies with the individuality of the writer from local, Wellesley-blue enthusiasm to scathing criticism. As a general rule, Wellesley-blue enthusiasm predominates. Such enthusiasm is necessary for work; it buoyed up all kind of effort, and in the present instance, in a report of any of our events, it gives the reader pleasant sensations and everybody all around is happy. Nevertheless, it must be recognized that such enthusiasm has its faults. For it idealizes our performances and inflates their values so that we are not able to decide what is really creditable. And in addition to befogging our vision of any one performance, it prevents us from comparing one with another. Of course these remarks are radical and we realize that it does not absolutely befog the vision, since most people do not accept every written opinion; but at the same time it is our duty to take ourselves quite seriously, and write as if they would. So we cannot conveniently sugar everything until it loses all its flavor. And—to those who accuse themselves to the taste—coffee without sugar is superior to coffee with. On the other hand, we do not believe that college and amateur efforts should be treated as seriously and searchingly as if they were professional, for it spoils our play. We will not salt the coffee.

The middle course then is the one which we deem fittest and fairest. We cannot expect to offer a criterion—although it would be a good thing—on account of our means, but we will try to present each time an individual opinion which is discriminating, and which is calm enough not to praise that which is unworthy of praise, or to pass over all faults and thereby leave the merit undistinguished. And we hope that you will accept our efforts as kindly as we intend them, and that we may keep as nearly as possible an even standard of judgment which will estimate and appreciate worth.

Owing to increasing numbers, it has been decided that an alumna may be invited, as space will at the college without charge for a stay of three days once during the academic year and not twice, the permission given during previous years.

College Notes

Flower Sunday services this year were conducted by President Hyde of Bowdoin; the chapel was beautifully decorated with palms and flowers. At vespers Dr. Barton gave an address on Dr. Ruth Hume’s work in India.

Professor Margarethe Müllner is publishing a biography of Professor Carla Wenckebach, formerly head of the German department at Wellesley (Carla Wenckebach, Pioneer, Gunn & Co., $1.25). The book is delightfully written, and gives a sympathetic and faithful picture of Frankfurt Wenckebach’s unique personality.

On Friday, October 2, the Art Department entertained members of the Freshman class at a tea in the Farnsworth Art Building. The exhibition of the work of the various classes in art for the past year was of much interest.

We regret to announce the resignation of Miss Kate Cushman, Literary Editor of the News, owing to her lack of time and strength for the work.

Members of the college are notified that in order to insure prompt delivery through the resident mail, the superscription on a letter or parcel should include the full name of the person addressed and the name of the dormitory.

A college student who has studied pedagogy or methods of teaching is desired as a missionary teacher in Lucknow, India, under the Methodist Board. Connection with the Methodist Church is however not an essential. Anyone interested is asked to see Miss Caswell, 130 College Hall.

A small private school in New York City is offered for sale. Any one interested in this opportunity will find further information on calling at 130 College Hall.

Legislation in Regard to Student Organizations and Entertainments

(The college announces the following legislation, adopted by the Faculty at the end of last year, which will be incorporated in the 1909-10 edition of Extracts from Legislation.)

In each year the plans of all organizations, all requests of students to give entertainments, all requests for publication upon which work is to be done in the course of the year, and plans for any other enterprises requiring the consent of the Faculty, must be submitted before November 1.

No organization may undertake work not included in the plans proposed, except by consent of the Faculty.

Requests for additions to the accepted schedule for the year shall not in general be considered unless they are accompanied by some plan for a corresponding diminution.

All entertainments, given either in Wellesley or outside, for which students superintend arrangements, select guests, pay expenses, or assume any other responsibility while they are in college, fall within the scope of this article.

Christian Association Meeting

The first of the Thursday evening meetings of the Christian Association was held October 8, in College Hall Chapel. It was the best possible beginning of the Association's work this year, for the large number of girls present to hear Dean Pendleton's words on "Intelligent Service." This is the kind of service meant in part of the great commandment, "Thou shalt love the Lord thy God...and all thy mind." As Miss Pendleton said, we are all interested in the purpose of the Christian Association, but doing justice to the purpose for which we came to college, how can we find time to be faithful and intelligent members of the Association? Miss Pendleton showed us how Christ answers this question for us. Although living a life of unswerving devotion to a single purpose, the showing forth of God's redemption. He taught, and as in His answer about the tribute money, that the people owed certain obligations to their citizenship. Our duty is to do the work for which we are here, but we can also give intelligent service to the Master's work. Our service to Him must be an integral part of our daily work, in our daily work of our service to Him. Miss Pendleton said that if we can not all serve the Christian Association, except by our presence at the meetings, we can serve Him in our daily lives, for the leaders can only succeed with the right spirit throughout the whole Association. In all our work at college it is worth our while to serve Him who has given us this work to do.

Dr. Hume's Letter

The Missionary Committee of the Christian Association was fortunate in obtaining Dr. Barton, secretary of the American Board, to speak at the Vesper service, last Sunday evening. He spoke especially of Dr. Ruth Hume's hospital work in India. Dr. Hume is a graduate of Wellesley and is supported by our Association, so we may certainly call her ours.

Every week Dr. Hume writes a most interesting letter to the Association, and since these letters belong to us all, they will be posted on the missionary bulletin board as soon as they come. It is hoped that every one will make a special effort to read these letters, and become better acquainted with Dr. Hume and her work.

The Work of the General Aid Committee

In a complex life such as we lead at Wellesley, it becomes of importance to consider whether we utilize our energy in the most economical way. There are many duties which we perform for ourselves at home which at college we might better pay to have done for us, in order to have more time and strength for the higher pleasures of life. There is much mechanical or semi-mechanical work which we can farm out now and then to great advantage, for the cost in money may be less important to us than the cost of time. If every student would scrutinize the non-academic demands that are made on her, and consider whether she might not hire someone to attend to certain necessary duties for her, she should have, perhaps in many cases, a more intelligent adaptation of means to end. It is certainly a waste for some students at least to spend hours directing invitations to some large social function. The girls who do this, could often better pay for it and use the time to read, to enjoy out-of-door tramps, or to visit a friend with the more leisurely mood which begets significant conversation. Much of the energy spent on cleaning society houses is sheer waste, as far as the individuals are concerned who do it. A great deal of mending or pressing or fine laundry work could better be given over to some one who needs the work; so with the washing of dishes after parties. Time and strength are so much more precious than money that the problem for each one of us is how to save our higher energy, how to apportion our allowance so that there will be money to pay for those things that are uneconomical for us to do ourselves.

The Christian Association has many, many people on its list who want and need work. Can you not find—something that you really ought, in justice to yourself and the rich opportunities of life here, pass over to those who must earn if they are to remain in college. For Faculty and students alike, there are willing and competent workers to do pressing, to cater for small parties, to do fine mending, to make beds, to make stocks and belts of all kinds, to design dinner cards, to do fancy lettering, to make Christmas presents, to read aloud by the hour, to pack and unpack trunks, to wash dishes, to run errands, to do clerical work, to do stenography and typewriting. If you have need of service for any work of this kind please drop a request in the envelope attached to the Christian Association bulletin board, where your order will be promptly attended to. In securing help for yourself, you will at the same time give practical aid to others.

S. C. H.

The Athletic Association

The Athletic Association welcomes back again to the lake and the West Playgrounds all the veterans of last year's merry conflicts there, and gives an especially hearty welcome to our raw recruits, may we call them, of 1912 and to all new students. The Barnsawholl Society invites you to its indoor fun, we invite you to the Wellesley out-of-doors, though even we are known once a year to have an Indoor Meet.

1912, we are sorry that you cannot join forces in the battle royal, our great November Field Day, but for that very reason we count on your enthusiastic spirit as well as your united voices to cheer the conquering heroes. We shall always welcome you to our playgrounds to watch the practice games as well as the final matches. Come visit the flourishing golf club with its stylish club-house, watch our well-trained archers at their practice on the green below College Hall, rock to the West Playgrounds and see if you can pick out the winning teams in basketball, hockey, running and finally patronize the new Athletic Association skits so that you can have a good look at the far-renowned Wellesley rowing as the crews skin across the lake.

For we cherish this spirit of play, especially play in the open air, as a vital factor in our life here, a force which should work together with our academic course towards our fullest possible development. Our sports are our recreative physical training and to preserve this wholesome attitude towards our games we award all class numerals on the basis of (1) physical health, (2) discipline, (3) skill. In each case our motto is the greatest good to the greatest number.

Subscription Notice

At a meeting of the Student Government Association held in the spring of 1908, the student body signified their willingness to reply to all announcements enclosed in the first copy of the News and Magazine. These slips read that those not notifying Miss Sallie A. King on or before October 24 will be considered subscribers. When we realize that over three-fourths of the members of the college are regular subscribers it can readily be seen that, by this method, we are accommodating the greater number of persons. We ask for the hearty cooperation of both Faculty and students in this matter in order that the business branch of our publications as well as the literary may attain its high standard of systematic accuracy.

Alumnae Notes

In addition to notes concerning graduates, the Alumnae column will contain items of interest among members of the Faculty, past and present, and former students.

Mesrs. Houghton, Millifin Company announce the publication of "The Book of the Little Past," by Josephine Preston Peabode (Mrs. L. S. Marks), formerly of the Department of English Literature at Wellesley. "Mrs. Marks's singularly vivid imaginative understanding of the dreams and fancies of children is here expressed in musical and memorable verse. The following titles are suggestive of the contents:— Making a House. The Busy Child. Little Side Streets. The Christmas Tree. Secrets. The Green Singing Book, etc. They will be read and remembered and quoted as few poems of children are, and will be given a place on the bookshelf beside Stevenson's, 'Child's Garden of Verses.' Not the least attractive feature of this unusual book is its illustration in full color by Elizabeth Shippen Green."

Miss Lilian Brandt, 1895, M. A. 1901, has been serving as secretary in Section V of the International Congress on Tuberculosis, at Washington. This section is concerned with the Hygienic, Social, Industrial and Economic Aspects of Tuberculosis.

Among the alumnae who will be at Wellesley this year are Miss Josephine Batchelder, 1896, instructor in Sophomore English; Miss Dorothy Lockwood, 1898, assistant to the Registrar; Miss Jane Button, 1902, General Secretary of the Christian Association.
