First Spring Field Day Opens Very Successful Season for Baseball, Variety of Sports

lacrosse a special feature
In spite of rather unfavorable weather, the spring athletic meet held on May 31 unquestionably proved its right to the title of "meet of the season," inasmuch as the victory was due in large part to the efforts of Harriet Clarke, chairman of the women's track. The meet, at which the Sophomores not only broke the record set last year by 10 points, but placed higher than any other class, had an attendance of 500 or more. The meet was won by the class of 1928 with 30 points. Since the victors were the only class to take first place for the first time at Field Day, it may be said that the Sophomores are the winners of the constellation fall and spring meets with a score of 30. Second place went to the men who made 11 points.

The archery contest was won by 1929, who also defended the banner of the men's archery team. Seniors took second place in archery and won the tennis tournament. The field hockey team came third out of five teams. The tennis tournament was won by John F. 2C. Edward Johnson '77 being the runner-up. The doubles went to Elsie Johnson and Marion Fails, also to Helen Lowes and Virginia Stone. The victory in track fell to the class of 1928, while the Juniors came third.

One of the most interesting features of the meet was the Lacrosse game between the two classes. The women were the leaders in the first half, but the men won by a score of 3, 1. An additional feature of the meet was an exhibition of "left hand" baseball between two freshmen teams.

College Problems Concern of Association of Faculty

Miss Ethel C. Johnson, the retiring president of the Association of Officers and Instructors, announces the election of the following officers for next year:

President: Miss Marion F. Lewis

Secretary: Miss Elizabeth Mann

Members of Executive Committee: Dr. Mary E. Deckle; Miss Louise Dwyer

Social Committee: Mrs. Helen S. Churchill (chairman); Mrs. Marie E. Coad

The Association, which is the only organization in the university where the members are regularly elected by the faculty, provides an opportunity for the discussion of the general university questions and the exchange of ideas between the various departments through representatives speakers. During the past year, the Association has had its influence in and has discussed the subjects of Mental Hygiene in the college and university, athletics, illness and sickness, the work of Wellesley's new Personnel Board, and the importance of recreation for the college girls, among college teachers. The speakers from outside of the college have been Dr. Douglas A. Tilden, Director of the State Division of Mental Hygiene and Consultant Psychiatrist for Smith and other schools, and Professor John L. Lowes, Head of the Department of Psychology, Harvard University, and former dean of the Graduate School.

Floats Will Prove Reality of Fairies

Princes And Princesses Will Float Across Lake in Split Oak Wreath Enchanted

VARIETY CREW TO PERFORM

Tonight's program will answer in the affirmative the old age question: "Do you believe in fairies?" The variety crew, under the direction of the head of the freshman class, will present a display that will give evidence of the reality of the land of Grimm's fairy stories. A number of the largest and most pretentious of the 'set' in the carpenter shop and more mysterious places, and restful retreats in which the beauties and the fairies dwell, will be reproduced, and, ghastly colored, these will be the "floats," which will prove that the wonders of childhood are real, and that the fairyland, repopulated with the familiar friends of childhood, are ready to attract the reality of enchantment.

An effort has been made this year to make the variety a fitting and fascinating performance. Particular care has been taken to set up good lighting effects and credible decorations, and the performance, as well as being illuminated from the show box, will be under the direction of the following young artists: Milner and Greer, Miss Stone and her group, the Keating family, Betsy Muir, Ralston, Eleanor Sharp. The Proctor, Katherine Wood; James Wood; Snow White and the Seven Hearts, Elizabeth Kroll, Gladys Thilly, and the Sickleway family, Elyse Wilson. The head of the float committee is Miss Judith Smith, assisted by Marian Hopkins, who has written several compositions for the variety. Miss Helen Koonam, and Louise Wilton.

Alpine Polka is General Chairman of Float Night, and her committee consists of the faculty members, Rev. Dr. and Mrs. H. J. F. Moore, Professor J. A. Blackstone, Dean of Students; Alice Farwell, Chairman of Grenville; Eleanor Ruiz, Chairman of Music; and the Executive Committee of Freshmen; Dorothy Dick, Chairman.

Water Softener Installed in College at Power Plant

The college supply of hot water is now going through a new water softener which has been installed at the Power Plant. The softener is operated with a Zeolite, a chemical composition as far as possible. In a tank full of Zeolite is run sixty-five pounds of salt dissolved in water. The water softener removes the sediments so that the water can receive a charge of 15,000 gallons per thirty minutes. The finished water is then directed directly to the boiler where it is heated to 210 Fahrenheit. The hot water is then carried from the boiler to the underground pipes to the dormitories, to halls furthest away from the boiler. The boiler is located in the basement of the main building, which is as fast as it can get there.

Register With the Bureau of Occupations

All seniors who have vocational plans are urged to register with the Bureau of Occupations. The Bureau is a center of information as well as a place to get any last minute suggestions for the final choice of the career which will be followed. Some of the girls who are entering occupations of city kind, register, so that the Bureau may know what you are doing.

DREAMS OF BOTANY BUILDING SOON TO BE REALIZED

Requirements for the teaching of Botany and Zoology at Wellesley have become so urgent that no building of ordinary proportions will suffice for this instruction when conducted according to modern methods.

The structure designed for the new building to be erected on Observatory Hill may be said to consist in part of a number of wings that when combined irregularly will form a building about 450 feet long. The entire outline was obtained and the carefully studied disposition of solids and voids in each of the many facades will constitute the chief architectural effect.

Where the series of wings change their direction they merge themselves in large masses of the building where this figure rises. This gives a picturesque skyline. As one goes upward within the building the area of each floor necessarily grows less as the lower wings are left behind. Thus the ground floor is the largest wing containing the entire building. The second floor nearly so. The third floor less so, while the fourth floor exists only in one of the towers and becomes an admirable location for the drawing rooms.

This proposed structure will be the eastern portion of the whole design conceived several years ago, and will join with the three ranges of greenhouses already built. In the easternmost wing will be located on the ground floor the potting rooms and laboratories. The ground floor of the main wing will include a precision room, constant temperature rooms, plant解剖 rooms, a shop, tool rooms, and those devoted to the mechanical essentials of the building such as fire and electric, motor and switchboard rooms. On the first floor of the wing adjoining the greenhouses will be a museum with windows upon all sides, while on the first floor of the main section will be housed the Hallowell Library, more laboratories including three private ones, preparation rooms, offices of the department and private offices. Rooms for the same purposes have also been planned for the third floor with the addition of a dormitory and a dining and dressing room.

The exterior trim of the building will be Indiana Limestone. Paffets with cornices will rise above the roofs and slope into them. The general lines of the roof will vary with the purpose of the building, for liberal space and ideal lighting conditions have been planned. The surfaces of the floors will be cement, the partitions terra cotta painted, and the floors and woodwork of red oak. The corridors along will be finished with linoleum. One of especially welcome innovation will be the institution of two elevators.

In the new Wellesley Club the women of Wellesley will find a home. The library, a reading room, and a lounge are provided, and the interior of the building is designed for the comfort and convenience of the students. The building will be equipped with all modern apparatus for the purpose of studying and for the enjoyment of the students. The facilities will be ample for all classes of students and for all purposes of study. The building will be completed in the spring of the present year.

The new Wellesley Club will be open to all students of Wellesley College, and will be the home of the students during their residence at the college. The club will be open from ten o'clock in the morning until ten o'clock at night, and will be closed only during the hours of study.

THINKING IT OVER IN ADVANCE

During the past week the News has been conducting a more or less systematic inquiry regarding the proposed literary magazine. Questions have been asked in the office of the editors, and was it not possible to ascertain with the answers provided. The News has decided to defer its publication for another week in order that a fair estimate of the representation of faculty and student opinion may be obtained. It is feared that the lack of literature in the field, with the possible exception of that published to date, has led to a general opinion that the News is not up to the standard of the literary supplement. There is evidence that the support of the News is needed, even if it is not possible to produce a magazine that is intelligent and thoughtful criticism.

There is such a wide variety of conceptions of the ideal literary magazines as to form, content, and policy, that when it is time for definite plans, the scope of the board will be necessarily widened. Without definite decisions are made as to the exact form of the magazine, we hope to direct the interest of the faculty more fully and members of the faculty who have expressed their interest in the project. If you are not among the persons definitely interested in the News, please review the subject, bring your ideas to the attention of the faculty, and bring them in the collection. Out of them all, with your help, we hope to produce a magazine that is

"LOGGING COLLEGE GOVERNMENT"

The House of Representatives, usually considered if not ignored, was aroused to a commendable degree of interest in the discussions over the changes in our present system of government by the Committee of the Simplification of College Government. If the proposed changes are made, the House of Representatives will have been at the last meeting of Wednesday night, and the interests of the student body for the year, and no time would have been left for the consideration of the unicameral idea. The House had been abolished, which was said to have been necessary due to the large number of students.

However acceptable or even objectionable in the College felt the proposed revisions to be, there is no difference of opinion as to the desirability of the work which the Committee has done. The Committee has expressed the dissatisfaction of the students in a letter to the editors in the criticisms of that which we are trying to do.

"THANKS AND ASIDE"

The stirrings in Tree Day proceed must be at the gate of the President's house at 2:45 P.M. sharp that afternoon.

The truth and nothing but the truth to the Wellesley College News:

A recent feature article in a Boston newspaper has brought our growing national reputation to the attention of the President of the University, which has been published, and was accepted by the University. It is true that it is impossible to find a market for articles unaccompanied by advertisements, and the University decided that it is impossible to find a market for articles unaccompanied by advertisements. It happened that one of the five girls portrayed in the article has been brought to the University, and it has been found that there is no element of truth in the story. They are not, however, the best of the others' rooms for money. Another story of a girl selling ice cream in the college is that the University has a record of all sales for college production, to submit the facts no longer in the possession of the University.

MANY OPPORTUNITIES OFFERED TO WELL-TRAINED LAWYERS

In the Exhibition at the Women's World's Fair mentioned last week in this column were the names of several Wellsley graduates who were already successful. There are a number of other Wellsley women who have been admitted to the bar. It is interesting to survey this field, as it is summarized in a bulletin issued by the Bureau of Vocational Information.

The requirements for admission to the bar are somewhat different in states. College graduates are exempted from preliminary training examinations which are otherwise required in some states. From one to four years of preparation in the University is the minimum requirement. The requirements are very general and may be taken in a law school or in an aeronautics office. Law schools answer these requirements for admission and instruction. The standard length of the course leading to the first degree has come to be three years. The tendency is growing to increase the length of the course to four years. Women in law schools are being raised. Women are admitted to practically all law schools with the specific exceptions of Harvard and Columbia.

ENGLISH AND HISTORY EMPHASIZED

Both will receive a comprehensive training in the English language and the methods of expression. The law schools advice to the prospective student are that if you have not had a thorough grounding in the English language, if there is any doubt whatever about your ability to follow the ideas, your chances of success in the law school will be much diminished. The English and history emphasized in the course of study are equally important, as the ability to express yourself clearly and concisely will be a great asset in the practice of the profession. It is also important to have a thorough knowledge of the American and English law, as these are the two systems of law that are most commonly used in the United States.

Many can earn money while carrying college schedules

There is widespread talk of the young girl who earns her way through college, but the colleges which condition actually admit the practice are few. Unfortunately, too, it is far easier for the boy to procure valuable experience, as the college year is often too long for the girl. In the case of either, a few extra hours of work each week, during the summer and over the holidays, can be carried without noticeable detriment to either health or studies, and with very considerable advantage to the student who feels obliged to help himself. None but the exceptionally strong and brilliant, however, could plan to earn the full expenses of college through such a method.

At Waltham, outside work as a rule takes the form of odd jobs obtained for the most part through the efforts of C. A. In the NEWs of May 4, the General Aid Department published an account of its work which shows that this department is entitled to recognition as one of the most important features of C. A. Work is secured for which would be practically impossible for the girl to find for herself, with the aid of time at both ends, and the added advantage to both girls and boys that they may share in the enjoyment of the work. The girl who knows typewriting or stenography can earn money by working in a college office or as a typist. A "minimum" is sometimes called a "print" or "assembled" by the college office. Members of the village, and those of Wellesley Hills, find it a great help to have a girl who is willing to work, with their children, while the girls in turn are able to study, earning money at the same time. Work of this type, almost any kind, can be supplied through the C. A. office. The General Aid office is always glad to enter the schedule of a student in its files.
