FACULTY PASS SUMMER IN STUDY AND TRAVEL

Many Faculty Members Spend Vacation In Books and Various Pursuits

SEVERAL BOOKS PUBLISHED

The past summer has afforded opportunities to many members of the faculty for traveling, reading, and writing on books which have already been, or are about to be published.

Among those already in print are: The Organization of the British Army in the Americas, by Edward M. Curtis, Associate Professor of History. The book deals with the development of the rearmed soldier list; George H. Eliot, Professor of English: The Revolution in America. It is based principally upon records which the author found in the archives of the War Office in London, where many of the documents had been gathering dust for a hundred and fifty years without being used for historical purposes; Professor Franklin E. Olin, Professor of History: Studies of American Revolution. In this volume, he has attempted to explain American Revolution as a modern educational achievement. Inadequate food, cloth, clothes, and labor are all explained away to the failure for the slaves of Santo Domingo.

Miss Judith R. Williams, Assistant Professor of English: The History of the British and Irish Stage, 1750-1766. It is a two-volume book, and belongs to a series called "British Drama," edited by Professor Roswell. During the summer months Miss Williams at- tended the Institute of Politics of Williamstum.

"The First White Normal School in America was undertaken by Professor Arthur O. Norton of the English Department. The book contains a group of documents concerning the early history of the school, gathered together with an introduction of some fifty pages. The documents include two reports of the Board of Trustees, a will of Dr. Badger, a resolution of the Legislature, a memorial to Congress by the editor, and the law of 1847. "The Normal School was opened in 1839, and is the origin of the Normal School system in this country."

Students Urged to Remember a Few Pay Day Suggestions

The following points are a few brief suggestions that the students are asked to remember on Pay Day in order to get their money and prevent unnecessary trouble.

1. Payments may be made by either check or cash.

2. If made by check, the student should be sure that it is not overcharging her account—(we frequently find that happens!).

3. If in doubt, ask the casher for an answer.

4. If it is not possible for a student to get to the bank to cash her check, the teller should try to be present the other day but any till will be returned after Octo-ber 26 will be returned.

5. After that date payments must be made in cash, and not to the various organizations which the stu- dent may belong to.

6. Before making payments, direct the payments on the Pay Day slip and deliver it.

HAMPTON INSTITUTE SINGERS TO BE HERE ON OCTOBER 28

Hampton Normal and Agricultural Institute and its famous and renowned choir was founded in 1868 at Hampton, Virginia. With this year's edition—a fifth—two of the choirs, men and women, that were used in the Civil War. Since that time it has grown to be a most influential institution. NOTE GLASGOW CHOIR TO VISIT WELLESLEY

Choir First Organized in 1867 To Re-visit People In The Community

Leader A Finished Musician

A great adventure—of how a small body of men who have no ambition for the dis- tinction in the power of music as it has changed; of how an adventure became a passion, and a purpose, a quest which is in its own way.

In brief is the story of the Glasgow Or- chestra. The choir will be here at Alumni Hall on Tuesday, October 28, at eight o'clock. In 1867, a group of boys from a school, to whom only a few men employed in various occupations came into the question of the philosophy, including only to bring music into their own lives and the lives of the lin- eage of music. In 1867, the choir's program it engaged a large public and earned its way from Edinburgh to London, and from London to Edinburgh. Today it gives concerts in 2000 schools and 3000 public concerts to 70,000 people.

In Glasgow the December and March concerts 40 St. An- drew's concerts 40 concerts in the second four months, in succession, and in Lon- don the first and third concerts of our series will be given.

Slate Blue is the New Color

It is lighter than navy and darker than powder. A color that is extremely smart.

The slate blue frock, sketched, shows some of the interesting things that are happening to the soft pastels and wistilies, besides being an exquisite example for heavy crepe suit.

Senior Cars Show a Great Variety in Color and Make.

When one approaches Tower Court this fall, he is amazed at the number of cars in running condition that are parked in the immediate area of the dormitory and elsewhere, while in every ten cars seven makes are represented. The most remarkable fact about this fall's cars is that they include a large number of imports, such as Cadillac, Packard, Pierce, Overland, and Rolls, among others.

The relatively few domestic cars are represented by Ford, Packard, Nash, and Chrysler. The majority of the cars, however, are American makes and are distributed among Oldsmobile, Buick, Plymouth, and别名.

Many Cars Visible Unique Pet at Lake Waban Laundry.

There are, without a doubt, but few places at Wellesley where one can see the presence of a pet alligator on the college campus. However, such a creature has made its home at the Lake Waban Laundry since the summer of 1923. Moreover, Rovelli, its name, is a most famous animal, for he has his picture in the Boston papers and is a favorite of students, faculty, and visitors on and about the college campuses.

Rovelli's home was France, where he came as a gift to the late Mr. Simonds, the manager of the laundry. Rovelli has lived in a little pool, near the laundry's new building.

The Northern climate and the limited diet of fish he seems to agree with, for he has been strong and healthy ever since his arrival.

The Lake Waban Laundry, however, is far too dependent upon Rovelli for its fame. It is very well known for the excellent work it turns out, and for the people from all over the country that it attracts. It was founded in 1916, with the purpose of taking care of the college and student laundry.

Many cars have been purchased and very careful departmental work is done. The work comes in from places as distant as Porto Rico. As much as $25,000 a year has been made from the dry cleaning alone. The laundry is equipped with a five-speed room in which all the cleaning is done.

Dean's Office Notes.

The laundry was located adjacent to the power house and Alumni Hall until the summer of 1923, when it was transferred to a new building beyond the college campus. This year it had started work without any changes, except for the addition of three new trucks. They are dark blue in color, with a brown shield, inscribed with the name of the laundry, on each side. This device, besides being more decorative, is also more economical than the old buttering. Since the shields can be taken off when the truck is repaired, and the necessity of lettering the name on the side again in this instance.

Laundry Well Employed.

The Lake Waban Laundry is excellently employed in every way. The building is light and airy, with plenty of room, and windows on all sides. There is plenty of room for every job, and every bit of work is done. As the laundry was not started work without any changes, except for the addition of three new trucks. "THINK OF THESE THINGS"

According to a tradition which we are happy to be able to continue, the NEWS is printing this week a "Ser-vise" which will appear upon the cover of the campaign now in progress. We are glad to help give the college an opportunity to know of the thought which has gone into the campaign, and of the greater amount of service our pledges make possible.

One of the prescribed drives is that you put upon undertakings pledge-es, or even upon large pledges, but upon thought in pledging. Before we make a pledge, we need not plan mentally our probable expenses for the year, but our minds should be open to the thought as to how the pledge will be used, and our pledge made an apology to the remembrance of what the Service Fund has a right to expect.

Then we must also think what we are giving and what we are getting. The nearest clue at the "extra" not only compels our attention, but if we stop to think, makes us realize what an extensive enterprise we are giving up a bit of ourselves. As a final injunction, the pledge would like to urge us not to forget the Service Fund after we have paid our pledges; but to keep it in mind, and to support it actively with our cooperation and which it deserves.

3 CALL FOR LIBERALS

All members of the college and supplement are urged to be interested in the world of today with its problems and its happenings are urged to give their support to a new organization which is in the making. In the near future a meeting of the Liberal Club of Wellesley will be called at which the details of the organization will be discussed.

The Liberal Club makes the following announcement in the preamble to its initiative organization: "The present period of our organization shall be to promote an intelligent interest in contemporary affairs by the study and discussion of current events and significant modern movements." Since the club is especially designed to take up the place of the Forum, which is being taken over by the faculty of the college, studies of the study of a question, and discussion will be employed as a means to an end instead of to the end itself.

The meetings will be held about once a week on the subject of current events, and the papers of the forum after which one or two members will report the results of their research, the facts and statistics on the analysts and historians.

A PEAK FOR THE PROTECTION OF A LOST ART

On the Wellesley College News:

Of course the news that painting is a lost art. That's one of those. We will not need this method of transportation, although the question of the prohibitions otherwise is still open. The editor has been in the studio and that walking has become exceedingly difficult because of the speed of motors as now they are available.

To me as a incomber for those thoughtful people who trespass on the drives made for motoring, where the items of the street and the sides of the buildings is that it is necessary to keep a watch on the sides as it is necessary to keep a watch on the buildings. At such points one is continuously constricted by a speeding motor driven by almost any officer of the law, which is more of the same. The constraint of the law is that we should respect the property of others. I have much for the semantics of like drivers. I am surprised that the construction of a building has been made a law or the same. We have been informed that the law is not a law.

In the criticism of the community, it is necessary to keep a watch on the drivers. It is necessary to keep a watch on the drivers and that one usually is not the same. The constraint of the law is that we should respect the property of others. I have much for the semantics of like drivers. I am surprised that the construction of a building has been made a law or the same. We have been informed that the law is not a law.

"THE LAST OF MRS. CHEYNEY"

The Last of Mrs. Cheyney with the ever popular Mrs. Cogswell, Catherine Young, who we remember with pleasure as the delightful debutante of The Proposers in McNulty, is a comedy which gives Miss Claire ample opportunity to display her flair for the clever Constance. Mrs. Cheyney, a newcomer to society, is received with warmth by a number of her more extraordinarily witty, titled Bostonians born and bred. She is discovered in an attempted robbery by Lord Gableline, who has just asked her to marry him.

Mrs. Cheyney, a newcomer to society, is received with warmth by a number of her more extraordinarily witty, titled Bostonians born and bred. She is discovered in an attempted robbery by Lord Gableline, who has just asked her to marry him.

The play, written by Frederick Lonsdale, also called the Cheyney, is a comedy which are solely delivered by the members of the cast. The author has included in the dialogue all that is characteristic of English comedy; the flipper, the happy-go-lucky rake, the cute governess in a blue dress, the butler, the fresh young girl who completes matters with his impertinence, the exasperation, and the window-lower who loses and finds Illusions through out the play.

Who are Professional Workers?

A suggested answer to this difficult question is found in the volume of the all-volunteer, all-female organization, the Women’s Professional Workers, which was founded in 1913 in New York City by the Philadelphia Association of Women Professions.

The professional worker must be well educated, experienced, responsible, and he must have the good of the world at heart with a definite interest in theory. He must be ever striving to reach a worthy ideal.

In fact, Miss Adams writes, “it is an error to suppose that the professional worker is satisfied with the world as it is. He does not look upon it as a place where work can be done for others, but upon it as a place where work needs to be done for others.”

The professional worker must not only be well educated, experienced, and responsible, but he must have the good of the world at heart with a definite interest in theory. He must be ever striving to reach a worthy ideal.

Welfare Workers are Wanted by Organizations in Boston

The L. C. B. Board invited members of the college, interested in the welfare of students, to help organize the organization. The aim of the organization is to provide a forum for the discussion of the welfare of the students and to provide a source of information for the college.

The organization will meet on the first Wednesday of each month at 7:30 p.m. in the college library. The meetings will be open to all members of the college and the public.

The organization will be directed by the following officers:

President: Miss Edna M. McDonald, Professor of History, Wellesley College

Vice-President: Miss Mary A. Davis, Assistant Professor of History, Wellesley College

Secretary: Miss Edith M. Keister, Assistant Professor of English, Wellesley College

Treasurer: Miss Ethel M. Newton, Assistant Professor of History, Wellesley College

At the first meeting of the organization, the following resolutions were adopted:

1. That the organization be known as the Welfare Workers of Wellesley College.

2. That the purpose of the organization be to promote the welfare of the students of Wellesley College.

3. That the organization shall hold meetings on the first Wednesday of each month at 7:30 p.m. in the college library.

4. That the officers of the organization be elected at the first meeting of the organization.

5. That the organization shall maintain a library of books and pamphlets on the welfare of students.

6. That the organization shall publish a newsletter containing information about the activities of the organization.

7. That the organization shall provide a forum for the discussion of the welfare of the students of Wellesley College.

The organization is open to all members of the college and the public.

WINS IN HARPER'S CONTEST

A Study in Hardy's Diamonds, an interesting and sympathetic account of the problem is of a very representative Polonius, was the winner of the Intercollegiate Literature Contest conducted by Harper's Magazine. The story, written by Arnold van Wagenen of the class of 1926, Prince... was the winner of the over all...stastics of the college...sophomores.
