LABORIST MEMBER IS TO SPEAK ON MONDAY

Miss Bondfield is Member of House Of Commons And First Woman to speak at Alumni Hall on the subject of "Labor and World Peace." The lecture is not under the direction of any particular department of the college. The lecture will be open to the public.

SUBJECT IS LABOR AND PEACE

At 8 o'clock on Monday evening, Miss Ellen Bondfield, M.P., will speak at Alumni Hall on the subject of "Labor and World Peace." The lecture is not under the direction of any particular department of the college. Miss Bondfield will speak at the request of the student body of the Western Reserve University, and will speak to the students of the college on the subject of "Labor and World Peace." The lecture will be open to the public.

ROOKERY IN THE WOODS

A rookery in the woods is a common sight in the spring, but this year it is especially noticeable. The trees are covered with nests, and the sound of the birds is heard throughout the day. The nests are built of twigs and leaves, and are quite large. The birds are active, and can be seen flying back and forth from their nests.

TRADE UNION CONGRESS

The Trade Union Congress, which was held in London last week, was attended by a large number of delegates from different parts of the country. The Congress was opened by Mr. Keir Hardie, the leader of the Labor party, and was addressed by many of the most prominent leaders of the Labor movement. The Congress was adjourned on Friday.

Barnes Wallows will present INFORMAL reads of Play:

Barnes Wallows announces the presentation of an informal readin of "The Widow of Wadleigh Road" by Sir Arthur Wing Pinero. All active and associate members of Barnes Wallows and the community are invited to attend.

The play will be read at 8:00 P.M. at the Barnes Wallows Club, located at 123 Market St., on Thursday evening. The play is a悲剧 of a woman who has been deserted by her husband and is left to care for her children alone. She is determined to make a new life for herself and her children, and she works hard to achieve this goal. The play is a powerful and moving story of determination and perseverance.

Barnes Wallows' decision to present this play is a reflection of the group's commitment to providing a forum for the expression of ideas and issues that are relevant to the community. The group has a long history of presenting plays that reflect the concerns of the community, and this play is no exception.

The play will be presented by the Barnes Wallows Players, a group of actors who have been active in the community for many years. The play will be directed by Mr. Martin L. Martin, who has directed many successful productions in the past.

The play will be presented at 8:00 P.M. on Thursday evening. Admission is free, and the public is invited to attend.

Elsbey players return as South Mountain Quartette

This evening in the Elsbeys that the South Mountain Quartette, through their previous performances, have become well known. They will give a concert of music in the Elsby Hall.

The Elsbeys are a group of singers who have been active in the community for many years. They have a reputation for their beautiful voices and their skill in singing. They are well known for their performances of classical and contemporary music.

The Elsbeys' concert will begin at 8:00 P.M. and will feature a variety of music, including classical and contemporary pieces. The concert will be held in Elsbeys Hall, located at 123 Market St.

The Elsbeys' concert is a wonderful opportunity for the community to come together and enjoy a night of beautiful music. It is sure to be a highlight of the season and a wonderful way to end the evening.
The equipment includes one arched, two side roll, four basketball, and twelve track courts; one baseball diamond, two fields for hockey and lacrosse; a 100 yard dash; a track and field day, including both on and off the lilac; a swimming pool; the tennis courts; the swimming pool; and the indoor pool. These facilities are available to the members of the society for their own use.

The library is open from 8:00 A.M. to 9:00 P.M. Monday through Thursday, and from 8:00 A.M. to 5:00 P.M. on Friday. It is open for use by members of the society.

The society holds regular meetings each week, usually on Wednesday evening. These meetings are open to members and guests, and are usually held in the society's club room.

The society also sponsors a variety of activities and events throughout the year, including social events, sports tournaments, and cultural programs. These activities are designed to foster a sense of community and to provide members with opportunities to engaged in a wide range of activities and interests.

TOWNSEND AND VILLAGE

The map of the Wellesley township published in this week's issue of the News makes clear many things. In the first place, it reveals graphically to the student the relationship between the township and the village—a distinction to which one of our middle-western minds may not be accustomed. Besides this superficial matter, we have here the actual representation of where we may go and when.

The question of changing the Great Brook road which requires an approved change outside the village of Wellesley after 11 a.m. to "township" limits and would abolish restriction for the marbles at Wellesley Hills, which seems a needless procedure since no change is required and the incidents remain by 5:45.

The most pessimistic of us believe that the passage of the new rule would mean merely an expansion of the present rule, and so part of the Wellesley girls who seem to have displaced people of nearby towns. The fact that this new rule was passed by the Board of Trustees is a very good indication that smoking within the township of Wellesley might solve the problem; but that this is only a first step and that the next one be a "dangerous" one. Another argument of the opposition is that the father of the bill is extended, the center is because for accidents to happen and for fines to be found for retarding late. However there is not such a vast distance in mileage between village and township boundaries as to view this too seriously.

After screening each side of the question we think this is the best possible point of view. After all, we are as welled informed as we could be and we will very eagerly an extension of privilege (which is at the same time removing the possibility for the additional freedom which it would bring.

MORE OF THE HONOR SYSTEM

When the News received such a defense of the honor system as she found in the free press from a num- ber of the faculty and students, we felt very much like the professor who had exhorted himself trying to get some attention from his class and then had the class of boys who rose to disagree with him. We wonder, however, if we were as clear as the writer of the free press thought.

We said rather paradoxically, as we think it ever now, "My dear children, why do you wish the distinction between honor systems? If you will let us alone, we will do just the opposite. It will be just the same as the honor system in the majority of cases is ineffectual in either making people conform to the letter of the law or of the spirit when they have broken the rules. After years of your student government work you do not want to introduce a system that will directly affect your own work.

What is interesting is that there is the same old story in the honor system. See, I have think it out, and you with the plain and unadorned truth. The story begins with a simple thing. That is, the honor system is an invention, and not an idea. The second thing is that there have been many different ideas of how to apply the honor system, but that the main thing is that there is no longer any rule which binds the community. A girl may think it is right to do a thing because it is right in another's mind, or because it is right for her, but she may not think that it is right for her. Honor is not a matter of conscience, but a matter of judgment. The question of what is right and what is wrong is a matter of the law of the land.

All honor systems, and all year round, have come into the world because it is in the service of an organization. Honor is not a matter of conscience, but a matter of judgment. The question of what is right and what is wrong is a matter of the law of the land. We have,

to the Wellesley College News:

The efforts of the Honor System at Wellesley College, the honor for our free church, shows an absolute absence of any scientific system of classification and what other groups have an idea and are being shown in our world. Among the best students, the worst students, the most common individuals who do service to the universe by performing the task of government function. And this is really the case. They are doing this thing through acts upon points of etiquette or even points of honor. There is not only the chance of restating the old story in a more graphic form a transcript of the 10th Amendment and the Bill of Rights. And all this time, one year and a half, the honor system has existed, and no one can explain the difference of the last twenty. I am afraid of the idea of authorship upon points of etiquette or even points of honor. There is not only the chance of restating the old story in a more graphic form a transcript of the 10th Amendment and the Bill of Rights.

A NEW CENTER FOR STUDY

The new spirit of coeducational concepts in student life between Europe and America today is evident in the will which moves even more practical and obvious examples, especially for teachers. The Florence Center, a project under the direction of Dr. Margaret McDermott, a noted College independent and for many years a resident in Italy, and Miss Nellie B. Turner, a member of Wellesley College faculty, offers a kind of graduate work for teachers who wish to fulfill this need. Following is an account of the purpose of the Center:

The Florence Center is planned to provide American School instructors with a realistic approach to this field, to equip them with new tools and teaching methods.

1. To understand and interpret the life and culture of different European countries conferences with some of the recognized leaders of Europe.
2. To become acquainted with the teaching methods of European schools in the various educational institutions and cultures.
3. To gain a perspective on their own work, to become more informed and capable of teaching as well as learning.

There will be two two-month sessions expected to begin in the fall and spring divisions of our academic year. Students may attend at the Center one day a week. Method of instruction will be by lecture and small group discussion. The students will be teachers, writers, educators, men and women who are interested in teaching and in the cultures of different European countries. They will be given the opportunity of working with literature and studying the subject matter between two to four weeks each. There will be every opportunity to qualify for further study.

Subjects for study will be planned under the main headings of general cultural and educational problems. Besides this much study and help will be given to the students to form a group having a common purpose.

Florence is particularly rich in artistic cultural surroundings which may be an educational center as well, so that it has an exceptionally fitting setting for the project. When in Florence the instructors will travel to other European countries:

- Paris, Hamburg, Geneva, Vienna and Prague, etc. Also to other parts of Italy.

President Pulchrum is among the leaders in this movement. The Graz, the Dona Gildersleeve of Barnard, President Woody of Moulton-Hall, President Tasker of Bates, President Albert A. Milliken, President Nelson of Smith, Dean Stephen A. Douglass and others.

Further information may be obtained from Virginia Norman, 165 West 33 Street, New York City.

DEFENSE OBJECT OF LOCATION BUREAUS

In his speech delivered at the National Student Federation Conference at Ann Arbor, President Henry Noble MacCracken considered the gap that exists between the student and his college life work. The earnest criticisms that are made of the American college today concern the lack of any definite purpose in the study there carried on, the postponement by the student of his coeducational interest to the career which he prefers to pursue and his use of the curriculum for personal-occasional work. It accounts for a great many years wasted of earlier time in his efforts to organize courses of study to meet his needs in the university. Now exists in colleges to assist the student in making his choice. This movement goes by the name of guidance, either vocational or academic.

STUDENT GOVERNMENT SUBJECT DEBATED BY FRESHMEN TEAMS

On Saturday afternoon, January 15, the Freshman Debating Team consisting of N. H. Tiffin, P. S. O'Connell and E. W. O'Banion, went to Radcliffe and were defeated by the Radcliffe Freshman Team. The debate was on the motion that the art gallery in the college should be housed in the basement of the library. At first, the affirmative side emphasized the objectionable use of the upper floor, then tried to enforce the object of giving the college a more modern art gallery.

The decision of the judges was rendered on the basis of six points for education and three points for deliv-

The retreat was 52% points for Radcliffe and 33% points for Wellesley. While the judges were unanimous in placing the majority of presentation to the Wellesley girls, they felt that sufficient emphasis had not been placed upon the alternative plan of faculty control with a student advisory committee. The judges were Miss P. S. O'Connell, assistant dean of Radcliffe, Mrs. Margaret Sklar, History tutor, whose husband is known as a former member of our History Department, and Sir George Hokey of the Harvard Divinity School. The debate was followed by a tea where the Wellesley delegates were cordially welcomed.

HOW CAN THE YOUTH PROBLEM BE MOST EFFECTIVELY HET?

In the NEWS of January 10, an article summarizing the Milwaukee Student Conference mentioned the earnest and serious thought among the delegates. Perhaps it was owing to the considerable effort to start the delegation thinking before they went to the Conference.

A syllabus was sent to each deletate outlining the general trend of the discussions with the request that each person read two books in preparation, chosen from the following:

George A. C. "What All Our Youth Cyril Harris: The Religion of Under-Bellevue, N. J.: Religious Foundations.
J. A. Rudnitz: The Psychology of Mississippi.
In addition two pamphlets, preyed by the Conference Committee, were distributed on February 1, about two months before the beginning of the discussions. The first of these discussed, "... what it is that youth wants today and how we can work here in the present generations and the present problems and outlook for youth, the second dealt with the outstanding problems of national and world life."

The basis of the Conference, according to the syllabus, was to discover the resources of Jesus and the way in which they might be made available in the present student generation. Some of the typical questions sent out from the method of holding up to this end:

Priscia Smith:
"Try to imagine yourself as never having been on campus before and to consider it as if it were for two weeks. After a week, what would you list as the six most outstanding characters which you would critic-

2. What would be the most frequent topics of conversations in dormitories, around fraternity fires? How far are these the subjects in which students could hide and depict in-

3. From Section IV Preparations for Section 5. Road either the course of Matthew and Luke. 1. Think of a person whom you particularly admire who is regarded as a true follower of Jesus. What makes him or her particularly attractive to you? 2. Think of a person whom you really admire who has not been held up as a follower of Jesus. What makes his or her distinguishing characteristic? Section V dealt with the personal faith of the individual.
A. Herbert Gray seems to have a very high sense of the Christian life. He addressed to the 2500 undergraduate delegates who were "earnestly and sincerely (thoughtful)".

Character of Students

"American students are most loy- ally the people they have been half of all our past and a great deal. They are frank, good at look and at happy. They have abundant good will. They respond quickly to kindly. But with it all they seem to suffer from some strange paradox of the will. They often seem to lack the power to adopt a purpose and then follow it remorseless." CAMPUS CRITIC
WELESLEY-ELLESLEY
The Wellesley-Ellesley Concert has been an annual event for the past fifteen years, and with this year's program, the most delightful of these joint concerts of the last two years. It was also the least popular in the nature of the various concerts. However, the program, which was received with much applause.

The concert was held in the central auditorium, and the audience was filled to capacity. The program was divided into three parts: the first part was devoted to the young people of the school, the second part to the students, and the third part to the alumni of the school.

The first part of the program consisted of a series of songs sung by the choir, accompanied by the orchestra. The choir was composed of the upper-class students, and the program included a variety of songs, ranging from spirituals to popular tunes.

The second part of the program was devoted to the students of the school. It included several instrumental numbers, performed by the orchestra, and a recital by a student, who played the piano.

The third part of the program was dedicated to the alumni of the school. It included a series of songs and instrumental numbers, performed by the orchestra, and a recital by a former student of the school.

The audience was moved by the quality of the performance of both the choir and the orchestra, and the program was received with much applause.

Wellesley College was the site of the concert, and the staff of the college was present to witness the event.

Day In and Day Out
The Boston Transcript prints all the News
NOT merely an occasional sensational scoop but all the important happenings as they occur from day to day. And the news is carefully and intelligently edited too; you do not have to do a lot of unnecessary reading to get at the heart of the news. This is only one of the things that make the Transcript different. The Transcript is constantly increasing its list of subscribers who, once they become acquainted with the paper, are not satisfied with any other.
