HUNDREDS TO SIGN PETITION

Seven years ago, in April, a propagandist, Pickens, killed on his way to his factory, wore the blackshirt and marxist flag factory in south Brunswick, Miss. There was great distress in the area; there were rumors of a similar hold-up in Bridgeport both were attributed to the same gang.

At this time, two years after the war, feeling run high against foreigners, radicals, communists, T. W. W's and Bolshevists. Boston was a hub of hysteria against the Reds. Waco and Yanet, these two, were notorious: they had been for some time on the list of suspects of the Department of Justice and were ostracised as dirt-bags. "Suggestion" was made to them and an attempt made to send them with this gang. Their trial started while more outside the little Denver house there the Reds and worked themselves into a frenzy. The trial continued and Vanetti still exist.

"Win Without Throwing China Today"

UNIFICATION GREAT PROBLEM

Before a large Wellesley audience on the evening of April 5, Dean T. T. Leu of the Theological Seminary of Yenching University gave a thorough analysis of the factors contributing to the turn in the Orient today. Relying upon his own intimate knowledge of the situation, Dean Leu explained the difficulties in a country with such an American audience could comprehend. The first great problem which faces China is simlar to a large number of men who make up the Chinese, the university house contained many minds and some of the students there had been in China. He told the students the Chinese must have a board of censors and a board of examiners, which is an old common tradition.

METABOLISM TO BE SUBJECT OF FAMOUS RESEARCH WORKER

It will be recalled that the study of the effects of inflammation on the body has been going on this year in the Department of Zoology and Physiology, under the direction of Professor John W. Lamont. For this purpose it was decided that the students of Professor of Zoology should conduct the experiment. The Chinese would have a board of censors and a board of examiners, which is an old common tradition.

APPROVE INTEGRITY IN FORMING COLLEGE CURRICULUM

Although far from the administrative center of the country, the academic atmosphere here is as serene and invigorating as that of any college. In the absence of the distractions and pressures of living in a metropolis, the student and faculty, instead of being under constant pressure, are given the best opportunity for the development of the mind and body. The faculty and students are the ideal of the ideal faculty and student.

In this respect, the university is much superior to other institutions of higher education. The classes are small, the instruction is thorough, and the students are given every opportunity to develop.

In conclusion, it is evident that the university is on the right track.
The future looks bright for every student who enters its doors.

VIKING

We are pleased to announce that we have decided to continue our policy of providing the best quality of education possible.

We are confident that the future of the university is secure and that we will continue to provide the best possible education for all.

We thank our students and faculty for their support and look forward to the continued success of the university.

...the impression that they were being tried as revolutionaries were led to express fully their political views all of which had nothing to do with the case in hand and only served to prejudice the jury. By eminently suggestive of the defendants' alien blood, their important knowledge of English, their unpopular social views, and their opposition to the war, the District Attorney invoked against them a risk of political passion and patriotism sentiment and the trial judge concurred—at one had almost written conformed—he said it—It is small wonder that their trial went through hastily without careful consideration of the evidence for the defense. They were convicted July 14, 1921.

Sincere after the trial a great mass of new evidence was discovered by the defense and appeals for a re-trial were made, but Mr. Thayer and Mr. used it. Then it was that Mr. William D. Young, a very able advocate, became interested in the case and took over the defense. Six long years he has been struggling for a re-more evidence for the defense was presented and it became more urgent that a re-trial be granted. Still it was refused. The Supreme Court declared the case and returned the record on the grounds that Judge Thayer had not been guilty of "judicial misconduct." In other words procedure had been technically correct. With the final refusal Wednesday, April 5, Massachusetts "Justice" hanged itself on legal technicalities. Two innocent men were sentenced to death Saturday. Their only chance, as this goes to press, seems to be with the Governor's visit to London. Even if pardon is granted it is a poor substitute for justice.

...the students, and also by the Geneva School of International Studies, which is primarily intellectual. In response to the spontaneous beauty of students, Miss Anna Jones, of the Carnegie Endowment for Promotion of International Peace, has been organizing international relations clubs in college throughout the United States. Students interested in world problems gather together with a faculty adviser to discuss the trials and form their own ideas. To each club is sent a fortnightly summary of international events, a study guide, and from time to time books and lectures.

Dr. Henry A. Trotter, director of the Guggenheim Foundation, explained the policy of the foundation in sustaining such scholarship for research work. Its purpose is to be of service to American art and letters and also to promote international understanding. Scholarships are given to men and women who are beyond the student stage and who are required to have some definite project for research, for it is believed that international understanding can best be worked out on the bases of science and art. Converse with and cooperation of foreign scholars come as an important by-product.

The work of the National Student Federation of America was briefly outlined by Miss Marian Breckinridge of Denver, president of the Federation. The organization, which was started two years ago, has standing committees on Curriculum, American Foreign Students, International Relations, and Travel. The latter arranges for three European tours: a delegation of some one hundred students to the G. I. K., a group in conjunction with the International Student Hospitality Association, and a third group which go to Russia. The first two groups have at least a week in Geneva.

Paris has student center

The afternoon session of the conference was in the form of an International Tea, at which holders of International Fellowships were guests of honor. An interesting talk was given by Madame Whitney Holl, who told of her work in Paris where she has established a student headquarters, known as Le Minus, intended in the beginning for American students, the Hotel has become international, students from every country are welcomed there, and are given help in any problems they may have.

Miss Betty Balch, a student who has been in France, spoke on "Student Responsibility," which she described as twofold, responsibility to parents and to the world. Upon the students of today will depend the settlement of future world problems. It is their elders who have made possible for students this wonderful opportunity offered in France, but it is up to the students to take advantage of it.

The program of the tea was closed with brief talks by holders of international fellowships, among them, the fellows from England, Germany, and India. The latter challenged the need to think of what must be done to give a fairer chance to the Orient and made a plea that we should try to understand the eastern people and that we should have our own people tell the truth and preach what we practice.

The elephant is man's most intelligent helper. But—consider this interesting comparison:

An elephant is much larger than the electric motor of a "yarder" or logging machine. The "yarder" has the power of twenty elephants; it handles clusters of logs; it works dependably, twenty-four hours at a stretch, if necessary.

Twenty elephants would eat daily 10,000 pounds of green food, which a corps of attendants must gather. A motor "eats" nothing but electricity, supplied at the throw of a switch.

Power used in the modern industrial world is applied through electric motors—"iron elephants" that are relegating antiquated machines to museums, along with such old-time household articles as washtub and ordinary iron—stuffed elephants.

Two million elephants could not do the work a single electric motor does at the price it is paid to do, whether it needs the power of an elephant or the force of a man's arm. More to the point, there is a General Electric motor that will do it faithfully for a lifetime at a cost of a few cents an hour.

SUGGESTIONS FOR VOTATIONS OF STUDENTS TAKING SPANISH

Recently a questionnaire was prepared and sent to graduates to discover what the effect of the Spanish course was in the student's work and general knowledge. The results of the study indicate that Spanish is not only enjoyable, but also makes other subjects more easily understood. It seems clear that the study of Spanish is necessary to a modern education.

The study also revealed that Spanish is a useful language in the fields of commerce, business, and diplomacy. It is also useful in the study of world history and geography. Spanish is spoken by over 500 million people, making it one of the most widely spoken languages in the world.

The questionnaire also revealed that Spanish is a language of culture, literature, and art. Many famous works of literature, such as Don Quixote and Hamlet, were written in Spanish. Spanish art is also renowned, with such famous artists as Picasso and Gaudi.

In conclusion, the study of Spanish is an important part of a modern education. It is not only enjoyable, but also makes other subjects easier to understand. It is a useful language in many fields and is spoken by many people around the world. Spanish is a language of culture, literature, and art and should be studied by all students.

Friday evening at an open meeting of the Alliance Francaise, M. Charles Devel of the Consulat, for this semester an exchange professor at Harvard, gave an interesting lecture on Sandro Botticelli, the Florentine painter. M. Devel began with a summary of the early history of the city’s life until the end of his study under Fra Filippo Lippi, his chief pupil and model. His later work is distinguished for its lighter and more expressive color than his earlier work. For his models he frequently made use of the objects in the Vatican. Upon his return to Florence he became a devoted follower of the Renaissance whose influence on the painting was soon noticeable.

Botticelli always kept, however, his fondness for beauty and nature and his exact yet graceful line. His women were always elegantly dressed, and usually dancing, showing the artist’s love of movement.

DEAN LEW INTERPRETS CHAOTIC CONDITIONS

Boston has tried to make room for the new system. For the people, five rights are claimed—that of voting, holding office, the initiative, the referendum, and the recall.

A real Republican government will not be practically effective until all of the many different races in the country can be brought to move forward together.

Outside interference in China must be controlled; the foreign treaties must be rewritten on a fifty-fifty basis; and friendship between the nations must be sought. The all-equitable doctrine of the People’s Rights must be applied; this provides for letting China’s nations do what they want, but vastly improving the transportation system.

FOCUSED ON THE SCREEN

Constance Griffith and Tom Moore make a delightful pair in the film "Anglophobia," which will be played for mooring night and Saturday, April 15, at the Community Theatre. The plot is an entertaining tale of misunderstanding, involving the efforts of a working girl to get on the stage. While the humdrum effects throughout are amusing and convincing, the conclusion is a little overdone.

The sea going senior, also playing on those lines, is a rather special feature in which an actual student trip abroad is reviewed without the aid of professional actors. Both the college students and conditions are faithfully reproduced.

In a strange thing to touch, critics have declared that Harry Longino's "The String Men" has entered into a contest for popularity with Chaplin. In any event, the plot itself sets to motion by a correspondence between a soldier and girl during the war, and involving a search for her after-ward is not without pathos, perhaps the Fund of all humor. This film will appear at the Playhouse April 15 and 19.

FOREVER After, the story of a boy's unrequited love and its consummation in a crisis, a film revealing the war in a new light. Played by Miss Arndt and Lloyd Hughes, the story is a simple but truly appealing drama in the depths of feeling. At the Playhouse, April 15 and 22.
