VACATION BY-PATHS FOLLOWED BY FACULTY

Intimate glimpses of familiar places
Caught by those in Europe
While Studying

Now that we have all returned from vacation, we are receiving memories of that many of you have enjoyed ever since the summer began.

Miss Clare of the French Department spent six weeks abroad, working in the Bibliothèque Nationale and delving in the archives of the Ministère des Affaires Étrangères. Her special interest was in Bibliothèque Nationale literature and, more particularly in Jannenius. Although as yet it is impossible to give access to the Jannenius library, the material available in the Bibliothèque Nationale proved extremely valuable.

The entire French faculty went abroad this summer. Miss Doherty, of course, spent the summer in Italy, and a large group of Wellesley juniors who are working at the Sorbonne.

Early in the summer Miss Donnan of the Economics Department had the privilege of a tour of the University of Leiden and the Leiden Library, and Mr. Clements spent three weeks in London. In May and June a large number of students visited France. The French Department was especially fortunate in having a trip to Paris, and the visit of the students to the French country was made possible by the loan of several houses to Mr. Clements in 1937.

STATISTICS ABOUT FRESHMEN NOT VITAL BUT INTERESTING

The college en masse, arriving back at Wellesley last Friday, found four footnotes of interest—interesting, in fact, and a trifle distressing. Included with the dots, dashes, and a little exclamation point, the statistics of those who registered for entrance this college year, 1937-38, included the following items:

1. There were 452 freshmen registered.
2. There were 128 members of the class of 1940.
3. Of the 128 freshmen for 1940, 91 were women and 37 were men.
4. Of the 128 freshmen for 1940, 87 were in the class of 1939.

According to reports from the admission's committee, the freshman train is average. Not entirely brilliant, the faculty may claim the college will be the last to show Confederate but strong material for the waiting professors.

The numbers of the exclusive students who registered for entrance this college year, 1937-38, include the following items:

The Wellesley College Liberal Club was formed last fall, across Phoeni-like from the old Forum, whose faults it hoped to eliminate, while maintaining the main lines of activity of the earlier organization. The purpose of the club is the promotion of social and discussion of current events and significant modern movements. Its membership is not limited because we feel that this would defeat our aim of stimulating such interests among the entire student body, rather than just within a small group. Since such a new organization, we have not concentrated upon any rival spirit, but exist at present in a plastic state. Our final form can only be determined by the needs, desires, and cooperation of all those who are interested; we are not only eager, but actually dependent upon your suggestions. As an organization we can only justify our existence at all by fulfilling some definite place in the college, and the coming year will be critical in crystallizing our intentions and defining our status. We would like it understood that the word "Liberal" is used only in the sense of Webster's definition, "broad-minded, catholic, free from prejudices and narrowness." We are not a group of anarchists, revolutionists, or radicals; the temper of our minds is only a composite of the views of all the members thereby "in" and "out" to be. We do, however, to be progressive, as both any group representative of a liberal arts college, and are ambitious to be truly constructive in our discussions.

A meeting of the Liberal Club will be announced in an early issue of the NEWS. We have invited all who feel that in general prevails among the undergraduates towards contemporary events outside of the college gates.

Helen Francis, 29, President of the Wellesley College Liberal Club.

five pairs of sisters and one group of three within the class will make the fraternal relationships about college even more complex. The new, too, can be proud of its 36 Wellesley granddaughters.

As usual many of the entering class have their first glimpse of New England and New England's life, California, Washington, Texas, Arkansas and Denver have sent girls from their big Ben spots to the swastikas of Chapman cousin state, Massachusetts. Correspondingly, New York City has sent thirty to Wellesley; Pittsburg, Washington and Cincinnati contributed nine, eleven, and ten each. In the confusion of the opening week many doubt their eyes when they hear "Chrysler," "Tillotson," or "Orsett" called over the library steps but these are some of the more unusual names of '31. To offset this indirectly in names every fourth, member of the class is called Elizabeth. One of the prettiest names in a class of unusual appellations belongs to Miss Chiung Lee of the Orient.

BARBARA GORDON SHOP

It is in the Arcade.

Just a collection of attractive presents from all the nations.

She has a Golden Key in her treasure and she puts into her store all the treasures she can carry about in her trunk. The Golden Key is about this size: 1 inch by 3 inches. It is fastened to her neck by a ribbon. She is wearing a hat of the new black velvet, a coat of the same material, and a dress of the same color. She is a most attractive and charming young lady.

WHY?

Deserving of prominent place amidst the welcomes of returning undergraduates is the happy return of a large and long-awaited student body, to the delight of those who have been attending. We are unable to profit by it may still rejoice that at last the change is over, and the coming year will no longer struggle with clustered schedules and plain for impossible electives. One expects the change to make up only of the willing.

The change in social life is an evident change from the category of the old-fashioned, it is not revolutionary. It is not a great change in the social life that is perhaps the few, since student life always had to be. It is merely a lightening up of the old schedule, and concerning the many new courses there is no point of too little choice would be understood.

At the same time we feel that a change has been made to make the courses more attractive, and the selection of the electives and the creation of the various fields of knowledge. A group system is that a more scientific and practical psychology and philosophy is certainly not that, to fulfill it is hard to see the why of welcome to is true.

It is that the history of mathematics and philosophy in the early stages are one; that mathematics ideally reveals would be in the shape of the courses; but to meet to us whom mathematics is not ideal that is not their study; at least to a large part of those earning mathematicians under the new system the two greatest courses will go on, and on and on. The day of change has come.

THE OUTSIDE WORLD

The opening of college brings to college a close a summer full of interest for all among who have studied in the vicinity beyond the campus gates. It was in Geneva especially that this activity found its expression and was the cause that intellectual and cultural conference on Intellectual Cooperation, the Experiments, and the edited Naval Cooperation, is being more and more well-known.

What happy results may not come from such inter-relationships of scholars and experts studying the problem of better relations among nations and cultures, and that horizontal disarmament to an uncomfortable contrast, and may be disposed of by a greater understanding and cooperation in that line.

Wellesley students who could not be of any more than that what which we have stood, we feel a glow of at the running of the check we missed this week. With that for a standard what great things may be accomplished this year by a college system out of interminable lives!

COlLEGE GOVERNMENT

At the beginning of a new year it seems wise for us to be reminded of the responsibilities and privi-legs of being a member of the Wellesley College. As a community we are fond of hearing that our schools has been found necessary to establish certain formalities of the organization.

It is our responsibility, after we have made these rules to uphold them, to elect the officers of the College Government Au-
PERSONNEL BUREAU

There is a classic instance of a Wellesley girl who planned to do social work after her graduation, and went through college without discovering that there existed a Civilian Association at Wellesley, with a varied, well-advertised program of social work bearing this in mind, and assuming that no Wellesley girl should be unacquainted with the Personnel Bureau, I have made this new article an outline description of the work of that office.

First, this column, "Out from Dreams and Theories," is devoted to work by work, and articles, so far as possible, are written by students dealing with vocational matters. It is our most extensive medium for giving vocational information, and these articles are written by students who have done much of the organizations in which women are now engaged. In addition to the column, a committee in connection with the Bureau arranges a series of lectures or conferences on various vocations, and maintains a reference shelf in the newspaper room in the library.

The other aspects of the work of the Personnel Bureau may be briefly outlined.

For every student in college, the Bureau has a card on file, giving the cumulative history of her career, from secondary school to her entrance upon post-Wellesley activities, together with her personal history, her vocational interests, and her personality ratings from the faculty.

This card in the hands of the students is used to contain the records of the interviews, required of all students every year, and is the permanent record of the increasing conviction of the need of further knowledge of our large group as individuals. These records and interviews are of vital interest to the Bureau for the work of the Bureau, namely, placement. Seniors are invited to register with the Bureau for positions in teaching or other occupations. This registration is for life, and the Bureau follows the careers of its graduates, and suggests positions to them, as long as they desire to be active registrants.

The Bureau also advises all students to register for summer positions, and places many in camps, and in other lines of work.

Of all of these activities, the one that will appeal to students in general, a program of lectures, a summons to a required conference, a notice of a position open for a Wellesley girl, or a review of a new book on the reference shelf, or an announcement of what the Bureau is doing, is in all of the work of the Bureau, the cooperation of the students and faculty is of prime importance, it is really the condition for the possibility of such an office, and the Director hopes it may be as cordial this year as it has been in the past.

Alice L. Perry Wood, Director.

CLOTHES OF THEN AND NOW

Clown are fast finding their proper place in the arts. About a year ago in Moscow a Clown's Academy was opened to teach clowns how to laugh out of their sinewed habits, and make them feel that laughter is not only a superstitious, but an essential, part of a clown's life.

A clown is more than just a person with a face that changes and a voice that is always the same. He is a person who can make people laugh, and who can make people cry. He is a person who can make people think, and who can make people feel.

The clown is a person who can make people laugh, and who can make people cry. He is a person who can make people think, and who can make people feel.
