Wake-up, Youth!

There is a misnomer here at the University of California which sticks the students saying “Wake-up, young people. Wake-up! Cuz students believe in action. We do not believe there were more non-persons in our land! We, the youth of this country, are on the whole,คล蒋介石, we do not feel our responsibility in matters of industrial, political, domestic, international and interstitial affairs. The youth of Europe are far ahead of us—do you know about the Harlem Legion Congress and the Hague Conference that is coming—and they are wondering where we are going to meet in the grip of internationalism across the sea to that YOUTH with the right and sure footing for the progress of our free-thinking world.

The coming student conference in Detroit is one to express students’ intelligence and interest in international issues. The gathering is Green-Christian, let us not mistake that, for Jesus! Why is it taken as the more for human conduct. The conference is exclusive in that it is continuous and is held in the light of the missionary purpose and approach, but inclusive in that such an approach pervades all our international relationships. Hence such a conference is of interest and value to both friends and foes, and any, from materialistic economists to aesthetic philosophers, from agnostics to mystics, from Progress to C. A. announcers.

I am on business here in the city, and sometimes I do not wish that I were back in the swing of things so that I might contribute my bit to interesting students in issues which, I feel, are of permanent and vital concern. Let us Waban Street, or possibly the Whig, be the place where we are going to meet in the grip of YOUTH with the right and sure footing for the progress of our free-thinking world.

and the family.

To Wellesley, perhaps, the most interest- ing subject of the conference was the "Awakening of Group Conscious- ness" presented by Mr. Brian McEldade of the Loomis School at Windsor, Conn. His address was fol- lowed by reports on the Mount Holyoke - Wellesley conference, the Confer- ence in the Colonial Community, and the cooperation in public education. Mr. McEldade expressed the problem which student government presents in his community, and the ways by which the colleges can work together toward a common goal.

"The weight of a government is not in the laws it passes, but in the way in which it enforces them which supports them. Through combined effort the whole student body should be able to make the law and understand its part in the larger government and in its work. The group at- tritude must continue to be challenging; since it is the tendency of society to put a "yes" on any request, there is no progress when the ideas of the group in general crystallize and con- ventionalize." This need for conscious- ness of the relation of the individual to the group and to the world as a whole represents the goal of the group in the most important way in Wellesley. We do not consider this movement as com- monly used by other colleges to create a group consciousness. Through the cooperation of the individuals, we must worry public opinion to support the interests of the college as a whole.

Smith College entertained its visitors with a tea served in a basket and a bouquet. The delegates went to Mount Holyoke College and returned to a tea served in a basket, a gift. After a long drive through the interesting country near Northampton. The hospitality of the two colleges was very warm and interesting, and the delegates enjoyed it. They visited Smith also, and the colleges enjoyed them. They visited Smith also, and the colleges enjoyed them.

The freshman class of the W. I. A. S. was given a tour of the National Student Federation, and in these two conferences it has the value of the meeting with a large group of girls, and to have this discussion in a small group is of more value. The first meeting of the Spring colleges will be held next month as Wellesley's President of College, and the President of Colleges will have a meeting with the students. At this meeting, not only the present Student Government president will have a meeting, but also the newly elected president for next year. In this way it is hoped that the conference will bring the experience of the previous years to the help of the colleges and for the students of the for the following year. The conference of the six colleges plans to send each other a copy of the minutes of the W. I. A. S. to keep these colleges in touch with other colleges.

The News apologizes

The News offers the warmest of greetings to its readers, and in particular its base readers in not mentioning its in the report of Field Day. We feel that the loyal followers of "S" and perhaps its closest who played with slaves, ulcers, and fu-coasted edibles derive not only mention, but honest praise.

We see reason to believe that it will wind blows no one who can, and confidence. If this had not been true, if it had not been overlooked, or if no free press had been written—Golf wouldn't have half the publicity it has now, and most definitely, not incidentally, but notably. The News apologizes.

In the series of lectures arranged by the Committee on Vocational Information, the aim is to present different occupational opportunities each successive year, and to present those which are of especial importance to the student. All attempts have been made to get for our speakers those who are actually in the field and can speak with authority. In many cases a department of the college has suggested the speaker or colleges interested in arranging the lecture. The lectures are announced in two series, one for each semester. The following are announced for the first series:

NOTEWORTHY ATTITUDE OF MIND IN MANY STUDENT TRAVELLERS

From Poor Studentship, November, 1927.
The students who return to their college communities this month will bring to life in their homes that has been colored over it before. Never has the student world been of such flexible molding. From year to year, because the future seems to belong to the world of artists and libraries, lecture halls and playing fields. They have discovered the life of books, the libraries, and have returned to their studies prepared to bring to these fresh vigors and emotions that challenge them with comparisons and commentaries from new situations. "Never before has the international comparison been such an obvious one for students to make, for never before have they been in first-hand possession of so many of the materials necessary for that wide knowledge. Some men, notable because of the quality of their personal and the originality of their races, may be mentioned here. The English National Union of Students handled very efficiently a large portion of a specially chosen group of Y. W. C. A. American students who went to Europe under the auspices of the International Student Service to study student work in various centers. These students have been something of an England, France, Switzerland, Ger-

The score 21-0 against our old Sisquack, Brown, the greatest Sisquack quarter-back, has the ball. He rushes down the field for a touchdown. But one isn't enough. He scores another one, another one, another, until the score stands 28-21. And Sisquack wins. 50,000 people go crazy. They sell themselves loose. Brown marries the girl and it is now mixing pre-four-proof coal in Lakewood.
