Here’s a new bag that took New York by storm. It is, if you look closely at it, a handbag of marbled effect and has a long strap made of by.”
A little over two years ago the News was given a fresh impetus by the addition of a four-column to its five-column power—a change which has given us an opportunity to increase both in advertising and in news matter. At this time we directed our attention to the home front. That interest has increased as the war has continued, and it has developed into a real feeling of patriotism which no other newspaper has been able to evoke in this community.

However, our interest in the home front has not entirely died out. The war is far from over, and we still feel that it is our duty to keep our readers informed about what is happening at home, as well as abroad. We hope to continue to bring them up-to-date news of the war, and to help them understand the reasons for it, so that they may be able to support their country in its hour of need.

The News is now firmly established as the leading newspaper in the area, and we are proud to say that it will remain so for many years to come. We are grateful for the support of our readers, and we look forward to working with them in the future.

TRADITIONAL BACH FESTIVAL HELD FOR TWENTIETH SEASON

On the afternoon of May 2, Maestro Casals, Head of the Department of Music, attended the twentieth Bach Festival in Bethlehem, Pennsylvania. When he entered the Lehigh University Chapel, where the festival was held, and heard the treasured chorus of voices singing one of the old chorales of Bach, Maestro Casals felt that he had never heard anything more wonderful. The appeal of the service was clearly an emotional, religious appeal. The Mooers were known that they were presenting something really great although they do not understand it, and their sincerity is remarkable. The Mooers College in Pennsylvania is the only one to have the honor of being the first to present the works of Bach in this country. SPAIN IS A TREASURE HOUSE OF UNUSUALLY BEAUTIFUL ART

The great art and culture of Spain was enthusiastically described to a large audience in Alumni Hall on the evening of May 18 by Prof. Rofrano D. Vittone, Associate Professor of French, in an address entitled: "In the Steps of Goya and Velázquez, in the Footsteps of Cervantes and Lope de Vega". Since his discovery of the Baconian precepts only four years ago, Mr. Cramp has found it almost impossible to mention Spain without bringing up this treasure house, except Spain itself. His enthusiasm for the country was not curtailed not only by the Spanish language but by a kind of Spanish culture that is so strong and strangely paradoxical characters of the people, their truly democratic spirit and social standard of values, and their simple, sincere, communal religion. The civilization of Spain is a survival of perhaps the highest type of general culture that has been found anywhere in the world.

Mr. Cramp briefly sketched the character and culture of the Spanish people and how they are able to understand their art. The nature of a people is revealed in its art, which is the expression of its great, fundamental qualities. Only a few fragments of Roman, Greek, and Etruscan art have reached us from Spain, and but little of the magnificent Moorish culture that has entered into the romantic styles of architecture: How have been transformed by the Spanish so that it is more beautiful than before from that of France and Italy.

In describing Spanish cathedrals, Mr. Cramp said that the most lovely and picturesque of the cathedrals of Spain is the Cathedral of Atocha. The building contains only one of the great cathedral buildings in the world, with their tall arches, their huge pillars, and their marvelous architecture.

Palace, on the island of Mallorca, is a palace of the great sort. It is located in the fourth corner of Spain, the province of Catalonia and the Balearic Islands. The palace contains several of the great chief cathedrals in their tall arches, their huge pillars, and their marvelous architecture.

The Barlow is a house of its own. The black state, moon, red roof, and red wood are its own. Its interior are not so white, and its interior is not so refined. The black state, moon, red roof, and red wood are its own. Its interior are not so white, and its interior is not so refined.

Many curious histories have been written on the walls of all sorts of houses. They are closed and open in the great cathedrals, churches, and fine old houses. In the old houses, Mr. Cramp believes the historic state is a conscious attempt to make the walls of the ancient houses carry across the dark deserted halls. Bells fire its imagination, and were a reality to him as to many people. Poetry is in its bells and bells are in its poetry.

The Bells and Their Voices

SPEAK A ROMANTIC LANGUAGE

At the meeting of the Alliance Fraternal at Shakespeare Hall on May 21, Prof. Arnold Van Gundy, President of the Bells, delivered a lecture titled: "The Sleeping Beauty of France and Its Romance". The lecture was delivered in the French language and the speaker was a scholar of French literature.

Many activities are planned at the meeting including a poetry reading, a reading of French literature, and a discussion of French art and culture. The lecture was delivered in the French language and the speaker was a scholar of French literature.

INTERNATIONAL SOCIAL WORK

OCCUPIES LEAGUE OF NATIONS

June 13th, page of the editorial section of the Social Work of the League of Nations, stated: "The Social Work of the League of Nations has been completed, 24, Founders Hall, at 1016 N. W. 5th St., on Thursday, May 25. During the meeting, it was stated that the League has been hard at work and they have been working hard and they have been working hard. The League was formed in 1919 and it has been working hard ever since.

For realism that the League is truly doing social and humanitarian work, last but not least among the League, discussed the minimum rights of workers, the needs of territories with sufficency, the care of refugees, protection of the unemployed, education health, and universal abolition of slavery. In the League, no one gets problems that are easy to solve. Either if old problems that have never had a solution remains now place the way for problems with new places.

For instance, during the conference of the work of the health committees but has. It has been opened in Singapore a board that receives a list of every case of disease entering Asia. Telephone boards are broadcast throughout the world. This broadcast to whole aspect of quarantine for the diseases entered the country.

In Poland, the League took over the typhus epidemic in 1922 and kept it under control for Western Europe during six months, with the soup, food, and medical attention necessary to the League during the death rate down amazingly.

Alone, although the opinion conference seems to have been a failure, it was not of such success as people think. In Peru, a small island population has agreed to let the League advise upon their subsistence. It is typical of the small island communities, with facilities of opinion-taking, has agreed to let the League advise upon its opinions within five years.

The Child Welfare problem is a recent one for the League. The Secretariat has been discussing and investigating it for only a year, but even now its discoveries have brought to light facts that have aroused members of the British Parliament to try to raise the minimum marriages are to be fewer from twelve to a girl and fourteen in a boy.

The change of attitude in the Secretariat on many social problems is obvious, according to the League, formerly in discussing the traffic in women and children there was little or no influence, silence, but now all voluntary gone for the support of opinion without in five years.

The representatives from each of the six nations can be seen on the composition of all the others.

Of course, she concluded, the League is not perfect, but it is not strong enough to resist weakness in any of its members. Its results have already more than justified its existence. Its prompt intervention in the Greco-Turkish war was sparked off less than that which caused the World War. The question whether the League right or not brings to the point: "Isn't it my brother's keeper?"

VOLUNTEERS NEEDED TO HELP

IN CHILDREN'S RELIEF CAMP

The Peaceful Society has continued for seventeen weeks and although the relief committee has worked hard, the children especially have suffered. A number of foreigners interested are trying to organize a children's camp for those children who have suffered most. The need for it is obviously great, even if the strike be settled industrially.

The League for Industrial Democracy as its active participant in relief is undertaking to find volunteer councillors for the camp. Most of the other arrangements have gone forward, but unless a sufficient corps is found, other plans must fail through.

Volunteers from the colleges, especially, and the camp experience are still needed.

The whole season will probably last until the end of June, and Labor Party members will be asked to note what weeks of this time they will be willing to work for the camp. Other plans will be rapidly completed, and the volunteers in both cases are decided.

Those who wish to give at least two weeks or more to the camp should give their names to Miriam Starcher, 420 Plymouth Place. The address of the League for Industrial Democracy is 26th Avenue, New York City.

Tenth Annual Conference of League

The League held the tenth annual conference from Thursday, June 24, until Sunday, June 27 at Camp Tamiment, Forest Park, Pa. The subjects: "New Defences of Capitalism in the United States," will be discussed from various angles by competent speakers. Special rates are offered to Collier Undergraduates $25.00 in addition to the $12.00 tickets of admission.

Accommodations are in cabins set on the banks of a spring fed lake, a mile in length. In addition, there will be swimming, rowing, tennis, croquet, and baseball. Further information will be provided upon application.

MISS THOMPSON GIVES ADVICE TO FRESHMEN AT C. A. MEETING

Miss Suel Thompson of the Bible Department tried to the Freshmen at a C. A. meeting on May 15, in Washington House. Miss Thompson suggested two ways of being successfully good. The first, which is the less attractive, is to accept a noble idea of life and to give it full intellectual allegiance, making continual efforts throughout life to carry it out. The second way is for one to permit himself to be captured by a vision or an ideal, and then insist that ideal on his life until it grows into his being. The power of suggestion plays an important part in life. Ideas good and bad are continually being suggested by conditionally unimportant things. One cannot control suggestion in life, but he can be on his guard against it, constantly refusing the wrong suggestion by immediately putting the in his place. Constant self-discipline is the only way to do this.

Miss Thompson expressed a wish that the freshmen guard against suggestions that would cause them to lose their personal ideals and their loyalty to their college.
