Fall Sports Will End in Field Day Contest

The fall sports season for 1939 will end officially on Sunday afternoon, November 1, at 2 o'clock, when the Athletics Association will hold its annual Fall Field Day. Field hockey, relay, basket ball, hockey, and tennis will follow one another, overlapping as little as possible, in the afternoon's program. In each of these sports the two class teams who have won in the running-up contests will play each other for the team cup.

Instead of the usual inter-class competition at the end, A. A. C. will have an inter-class meet on our campus.

Throughout the afternoon there will be the usual sale of hot dogs, popcorn, and candy on the further football field. There will be a race, to see who is the fastest to cross Field Day. The end of the fall sports season will be also an opportunity for the members of the various teams to clean up and begin the winter season.

Mr. Goodell Explains New System of Mill Management

On Thursday, October 31, at a dinner for those majoring in Economics, Mr. Frank Goodell, industrial engineer of the Mill, talked of an experiment which has been carried on between union laborers and employer since 1927.

The manager of the Nunnaceet Mill wanted to give each man more chance to operate than he had had before. To do this he had to get permission of the trade union, which sent Mr. Goodell to see if it could be done without overworking the laborers. The agreement between the mill and the trade union specified that there should be joint research in production, and that the mill should employ men, as far as possible, who were interested in the operation of the mill.

Mr. Goodell, these union laborers, and two managers, keep in close contact with their fellow workers and managers, and try to find out what makes a man a worker. There are regular research meetings to review their findings and to make suggestions, which are adopted if it is believed they are advisable.

Sophomore Class Officers

Bud New, Left to Right: Treasurer: Joe Whipple, Secretary: Frederick Stadler, President: Frank Delos, Executive Committee: Joe Linsley, Robert Stewart, President: Cyril Stewart, Executive Committee: Vice President: Joe New (not present).

Sophomores Are Mentioned

For Excellent Scholarship

The members of the class of 1933 who have received honorable mention in their academic work are announced here in order to encourage even further study.

President Pendleton

Group I

Elmer Bart
Anne M. Bovamack
Elizabeth Brown
Doris Cummings
Elvira D. Ethel
(Confined on Page 8, Col. 1 & 2)

C. G. Election

At chapel evening on Friday, October 29, the Government announced the election of new members of the class of 1933. The office of corresponding secretary.

Junior Confuses Aim Of College Education

With the modern trend toward upfift, profession, and such outlooks of the social consciousniss, it is very difficult to find in a veritable strength of the movement staunch defence of it all. On the other hand, there is that a certain member of the faculty, and an instructor, if it necessary, to call upon the junior to attach a lift, or to re- spond to a consideration of that task. The junior, having endorsed a book with admirable patience, was at length heard on the matter in the hall.

Miss Betty Grogan, 3L, will hold the service on Sunday, October 30, at 2:30 in Shakespeare Hall. All the college is especially invited to attend.

M. Rose Blanchard will lecture on Wednesday, October 27, at 8 o'clock in Alumnae Hall.

The lecture in French and will be translated by Miss Mussolin Regrets Slump

In Italian Trade Market

That economic conditions in Italy are no better than those of any other country, European or American, Miss Mussolin has declared in a speech given to the Council of Corporations, an institution of his Post Office. She has made a careful study of the situation he was convinced that the economic depression would not be sustained until three years from now. It is industry in general, of the unsold goods, the lack of a market for the goods, the lack of means of production, the stagnancy of the state, and the Wall Street economic situation, are such a blow that the general situation is nothing short of alarming.

Miss Mussolin takes the stand that “the advents of finance,” those members of loosely organized corporations whose activities are more or less concealed, whose statements often confuse us, whose dividends are sometimes non-existent, are a menace to the situation. He has spoken of the family, the public, the police of the situation, and has foreseen the worst in case of disaster. “Who,” he demands, “should be expected to regain her balance, if not Herbert Hoover, the most powerful man in the world, or the head of the world’s nations, has not been able to work miracles?”

The fiscal government, according to her, is doing all in its power to recover the nation’s situation and to foster the forces that will heal it.

The concrete illustration of this statement is the Italian government’s encouragement of large numbers of unemployed to be set to work on the government’s own construction projects. The government has stated that the work is not only to provide for the people from becoming desperate, but also to aid the automobile industry and to attract more and more tourists. The public building work, will, according to them, be undertaken under a considerable strain to finance it.
WE GIVE OPINIONS ON CORRECT SPEECH

Standing of strictly terror rescue the heart of the average sophistication than any from the dust and thundering sophis-tomere Bible, Reading and speaking pro-ceds calmly on its committed way. Love is not exciting and it can be made violent deprivations upon the course of the lips, yet most students take it, for it is wonder if people really object as strenuously as they pretended. Should reading and Speaking be a subject course or should it be abolished or at least limited to the value and its reason for existing?

Here are some of the answers told the Reporter by faculty members, representatives of the department, and from two classes of students, those who have neglected their original accents with the course safety behind them, and those who are in the process of Miss Hepburn, of the Reading and Speaking department: Most emphatically I think the course should be compulsory recognition is necessary in any field and agreeable communication is a desired asset. It is vital that the so-called "standard" should be adopted so that a person may be un-admitted in any part of the world.

The aim of the course is to teach people to speak in an acceptable manner in any part of the English-speaking world. No two persons will ever pronounce things exactly alike, but we need to approach a point where pronunciation will be a means to carry the ideas of the world.

Mr. Cortis of the Biblical History department: For those students who have difficulties in speaking or whose voices require correction, I think the course is excellent. However, I am dubious about the need for all students to take the course of this nature. Those students who have learned to speak in speaking before they reach college will not need these students such a requirement is unnecessary and a waste of time.

Francis Eldridge, '22: I never took the course myself, but from listening to the people when they were struggling with it, I say that the value is hard to estimate. It seems to do all the possible ways.

Elsen Diet, '22: I think the course should be very valuable, but at present I fear it is a waste of time; for people do not take it seriously and never practice the exercises for it. The course should be improved and at the same time continued as a requirement.

Margaret Wilpoin, '21: There is too much standardization already without attempting to standardize our speech. The result could only be to make people listen to trying to fit their individuality.

Jax Nax, '21: Polite is necessary and if the course developed that would not be a bad thing, but unfortunately it seems necessary to adapt everyone with a Bostonian accent and to distort the southern accent, for example. At present I fear that the course is a waste of time.

Margaret Brownell, '22: The three-hour course is such a thing talking about the most prevalent opportunities for developing speaking ability, and it seems to mean that many of us have improved ready, but the scheme of the one-course is so different that it is difficult to measure it.

Mark Hart, '21: I really believe that it should be required because no one needs a certain amount of speaking ability. It is not an exciting class but it has value.

How The Other Half Lives

"Date laws" is a familiar phrase to most of the campus. Welley's dormitories—but they form a vital part of the regime at Sweet Briar. It is unequaled in popularity. Some students taking it began to wonder if people really objected as strenuously as they pretended. Should reading and Speaking be a subject course or should it be abolished or at least limited to the value and its reason for existing?

Those freshmen who have been subjugating their subjection to very mild habits will have to appreciate the kind way in which they are treated when they hear about "Suzanne's" regular for her Freshman Week. During all this week the Simmon first-year girls have been forced to go about with their hair parted in the middle, drawn back over the ear, and tied at the back with a green ribbon. Those who are unfortunate enough to have long locks must plan their dressing plans into two large pigtails, each of which must be fastened at the end with a green ribbon. Jewelry and accessories are absolutely taboo. The most tantalizing regulation of all has to do with makeup. Every freshman has to wear on her back a good-sided bath towel, embroidered, so to speak, with green crepe paper letters that tell the universe who she is and where she is from.

In the long year it is far from a lost art. At Park College "originality and imitation" are still the purpose of the Freshman Week. This week frolic from freshmen tree-sitting contests to reshaping paint and spreading paint, or from the last to the great green ribbon. This attitude toward freshman week is probably still good.

At the University of West Virginia, the Freshman Week has officially abolished the dress tradition during this year and Ohio University, always ready to intrude novel courses, has provided the Freshman Week with a new idea. It is not likely that the outside world will have the opportunity to learn to any of the same courses we went over on our own and the wave length of the week is extended. It will probably just as well for all concerned is back from Paris and is showing the very latest styles for Fall

SUZANNE

Benner's, $1.25
Trousers, $8.75

SALLE DINNER

ROOM

Open Every Evening

In Boston the mode is

SUPPER DANCING

in the SALLE MODERNE

Boston's new and brilliantly modern Supper Room.

Tommas and his Hotel Stater Dance Orchestra play the slow rhythms—the languid synchronize ball—on the pictorial movements of today's dance music.

Dancing from 9:30—Cover charge 75c

(Entrance and Beverage) $1.50

228 Berkeley St.

San Francisco

The "football after-room" suit.

Astrakhan Cloth

Jacket

Wool Crepe Skirt

$16.50

Two styles, one selected, the other with a straight box coat, in all black, all brown, or black and brown. When the sun goes down and there is a nap in the air, you’ll be glad of the warmth of these jackets. But still, when breakfast is over next morning you’ll be glad of their smart, new smartness. Special offer now: $14.50.

Other suits to $98.50

FASHION SHOW

On Thursday afternoon, October 13, there will be a fashion show in Alumni

Arm Room at four o’clock.

The clothes are being furnished by Salties, and are being modeled by members of the college. Ten per cent of the proceeds will go to the Swimming Pool fund.

Shoes are coming from Thayer’s.

Shoes are coming from Thayer’s.

How to Get a Good Job

As you go back to Berlin in the spring, there will be two people who are talking more about the problem of the Berliner than you are. The other one is supposed to know it. The sort of people you see in the Army this afternoon—translated to an unknown extent to the now unknown tomorrow—will be your representative, the uniform.

has just landed Ellington’s THREE WOURDS! Our Miss Morley tells me ‘it’s a hot seller.

On and now for the BIG NEWS TODAY: WE RELEASE BODY and WOOL, available on record at Leo Reisman, Paul Whiteman, Helen Morgan, and others.

Delphi’s a private of our new "nightclub" set, which nothing else in all the world is so insistently elegant for your room. It has dynamic speaker and screen grid tubes and all that sort of thing. It costs 1925 comp.

You can buy it for a mere $20 down and six dollars or so a month . . .

or you can rent one for 57 a month, deep in and let me demonstrate it to you.
PERRY, who had been standing in front of the board, was the old upperclassman who had been in the habit of* telling off. After the last had explained it to her as the "right thing to do," she had no plans to make a change ever again.

MARRIAGES

15 Mary P. Simpson to Mr. Thomas Robinson, Valentine 11.
17 Frances Wright to Mr. Reverend Blythe, Williams 15.
18 Alice L. Burnham to Lt. Colonel Grignon, Military Academy, October 21.
23 Elmer R. Noyes to Mr. Norman Hobart, October 9.
29 Ezra W. Lewis to Mr. James Scott Miller, October 18.
28 Stanley Bacon to Mr. Thomas Appleton Trell, December 12.
30 Eliza M. Bruce to Mr. John Paine slime, October 7.
30 Emily T. Ogle to Mr. William Henry Stein, September 15, in Paris, France.

For Superb Printing, Rely on the Wellesley Press, Inc. 18 Wellesley Square

Ivy Corsets

18 Church Street
Wellesley

A CAMEL'S Hair Coat

—originates in Egypt—but it's as classic as the oldest Greek! The well-dressed campus-trotter could no more do without one of these than she could do without her favorite lilly-pad shoes. They're perfect for dashing to and from classes and the Vill, and for bicycling and golfing these autumn days.

They're glorified, this season, in high colors and black. We have them in all sizes, 25.00.

Shoes by Thyra McNeil

THE Cynosure

Of Neighboring Eyes—

is the fair maid who knows how to gild the lily—

with art and sublimity.

What native beauty, however great, would not be heightened by the use of these dainty products of the cosmetician and the perfumer?

The Eyes of the beholder, all eyes, would be enhanced.

The face of the beheld, all flowers, would be brightened.

The eyes of the beholder, all the fair, would be enchant...
The freshmen class is full of talent and enthusiasm. Many of the freshmen have been active in school activities and are looking forward to making a positive contribution to the college community. They are eager to participate in the various clubs and organizations on campus.

The freshmen class is expected to make a strong impact on the college's traditions and culture. They are encouraged to become involved in extracurricular activities, such as sports, clubs, and volunteer work, to develop their skills and gain valuable experiences.

The freshmen class is expected to be a diverse and energetic group of students who will contribute to the college's rich history and traditions. They are encouraged to take advantage of the opportunities that the college offers and to make the most of their time on campus.

The freshmen class is expected to be a strong and cohesive group of students who will support each other and work together to achieve their goals. They are encouraged to be open-minded and respectful of each other's backgrounds and perspectives.

The freshmen class is expected to be a group of students who are ready to embrace new challenges and opportunities. They are encouraged to take risks and try new things, and to be willing to learn from their experiences.

The freshmen class is expected to be a group of students who will be a positive influence on their peers and on the college community. They are encouraged to lead by example and to be role models for the younger students.

The freshmen class is expected to be a group of students who will be actively involved in the college community. They are encouraged to participate in campus events and to take an active role in shaping the college's culture and traditions.

The freshmen class is expected to be a group of students who will be successful academically and personally. They are encouraged to set high standards for themselves and to work hard to achieve their goals.

The freshmen class is expected to be a group of students who will be proud to be members of the Wellesley College family. They are encouraged to be proud of their achievements and to take pride in their college community.
MISS SMALL TELLS OF PLAYER GROUPS

One of the most interesting among the many varied summer sojourns of Wellesley faculty this past vacation was that of Miss Edith M. Small of the Reading and Berkeley Drama Centers.

As an imaginative project for the stage, Berkeley Drama stands alone. With the help of the members of the Homecoming as an ever possible object of comparison. The play is based on the company's present life, and as such, the future is co-existent, that man can travel through time and live in the past and future as well as in the present.

It centers in Peter Standish, who, in his youth, was a member of the London Literary Review. During his absence from the stage, London literary bought by one of his associates. The story covers a period of the eighteenth century by a Standish whom Peter resembles very closely. He enrolls himself into the eighteenth century as to experience life in the past, and live the life of the eighteenth century Peter Standish. He is told that as a result of a close study of the diaries and letters of his ancestor, he knows all that is to happen. Despite this knowledge, however, he fails to love his cousin Helen Petigrew rather than with her sister Kate, who, according to records, have been his love. He finds himself ill-equipped to the century into which he has projected himself, as well as unable to conclude his fourteenth century to which he returns. The play is a fantasy of the highest order.

In contrast to the serious mood there are also the lighter moments in which Peter forgets that he has become an eighteenth century person in which he refers to historical events of the future, which precludes his future development, and uses modern slang expressions. His estimate of eighteenth century life is altogether different.

The acting is admirable. Leslie Howard's characterization of Peter is sympathetic and admired by all.

For tomorrow, and Saturday the Community Playhouse will present a double feature bill. The first play will be "A Google's Woman," with Ruth Chatterton and Clive Brook in the leading roles, and Paul Lessing in the supporting cast. The plot, which is based on a story of Grover Morrise, tells of a young lawyer divorced by his wife, and of his eventual marriage to the result of an inevitable show girl while he is drink. The bill includes Jack Oakie in "The Sap from Ararat." Oakie, who reads about Napoleon as he runs a steam shoveling, inherits money, and goes to Europe. Joking friends convince parodies that he is a noted mining engineer, and many ludicrous situations follow as a result.

Next Monday, Tuesday, and Wednesday, the main picture will be a well-directed, with Marie Dresser and Polly Adams. The spirited comedy of the marriage of two cure is the story of a young lawyer given Miss Dresser an opportunity to try her talent to advantage. There are others moments in the love affair of the children of the disappointed. The second play will be "Wild Woman," with Frank Abraham and M. B. Warron. The play is all that the name suggests. For every meal served with fruits and vegetables. They contain elements which are the most prominent disease agents are inedible to vital materials, and the diet is lovingly to taste. When you lay them there they are surprisingly nutritious. Our large assortment is always ready to serve.

WELLESLEY COLLEGE NEWS

COOLEY—To What Red Bell
PLYMOUTH—Death calls
HOBSON
SCHARLE—First Carroll's Sketch
WILBUR—Bible to Square

BERKELEY SQUARE

Berkeley Square, a play by John Baldwin Holme, is the James' pastime fragment. The Sense of the Past, is now running at the William -Isham and the present, and the future are co-existent, are man can travel through time, and live in the past and future as well as in the present.

It centers in Peter Standish, who, in his youth, was a member of the London Literary Review. During his absence from the stage, London literary bought by one of his associates. The story covers a period of the eighteenth century by a Standish whom Peter resembles very closely. He enrolls himself into the eighteenth century as to experience life in the past, and live the life of the eighteenth century Peter Standish. He is told that as a result of a close study of the diaries and letters of his ancestor, he knows all that is to happen. Despite this knowledge, however, he fails to love his cousin Helen Petigrew rather than with her sister Kate, who, according to records, have been his love. He finds himself ill-equipped to the century into which he has projected himself, as well as unable to conclude his fourteenth century to which he returns. The play is a fantasy of the highest order.

In contrast to the serious mood there are also the lighter moments in which Peter forgets that he has become an eighteenth century person in which he refers to historical events of the future, which precludes his future development, and uses modern slang expressions. His estimate of eighteenth century life is altogether different.

The acting is admirable. Leslie Howard's characterization of Peter is sympathetic and admired by all.

For tomorrow, and Saturday the Community Playhouse will present a double feature bill. The first play will be "A Google's Woman," with Ruth Chatterton and Clive Brook in the leading roles, and Paul Lessing in the supporting cast. The plot, which is based on a story of Grover Morrise, tells of a young lawyer divorced by his wife, and of his eventual marriage to the result of an inevitable show girl while he is drink. The bill includes Jack Oakie in "The Sap from Ararat." Oakie, who reads about Napoleon as he runs a steam shoveling, inherits money, and goes to Europe. Joking friends convince parodies that he is a noted mining engineer, and many ludicrous situations follow as a result.

Next Monday, Tuesday, and Wednesday, the main picture will be a well-directed, with Marie Dresser and Polly Adams. The spirited comedy of the marriage of two cure is the story of a young lawyer given Miss Dresser an opportunity to try her talent to advantage. There are others moments in the love affair of the children of the disappointed. The second play will be "Wild Woman," with Frank Abraham and M. B. Warron. The play is all that the name suggests.

B. ALTMAN & CO.

Macy's, Madison Ave. at 34th Street. New York

The Altman Showings

of FALL AND WINTER FASHIONS

Presenting an intriguing collection of carefully selected fashions for sports-wear, daytime and evening wear in versions of special youth and dash.

To be held at
Wellesley Display Shop
WELLESLEY, MASS.

Monday, Tuesday, Wednesday
October 27th, 28th, 29th

COMMUNITY PLAYHOUSE
WELLESLEY HILLS

Evensong at 7:30. Matinees on Mon., Wed., and Sat. at 2:30

THRU., sat., and SAT.

Kath Chatterton and Clive Brook in "Anybody's Woman"

An Indispensable Travelling Companion

We Offer Our Famous Jean Stuart Trial Assortment

At One Dollar and One Half a Box

This includes Cleansing Cream, Finishing Cream, Skin Food, Skin Tonic, Honey Almond and a Face Powder.

FOR EVERY MEAL

WELLESLEY TRAVELING COMPANION

SUE PAGE STUDIO

Nest Hotel Wayan
Wellesley 4130

Please make appointments for Xmas photographs as early as convenient.

Personal Christmas Cards

This is the time to order your personal greeting cards.

Our samples are now on display.

Cock o' the Walk

16 Church Street

Wellesley, Mass.

We Offer Our Famous Jean Stuart Trial Assortment

At One Dollar and One Half a Box

This includes Cleansing Cream, Finishing Cream, Skin Food, Skin Tonic, Honey Almond and a Face Powder.

FOR EVERY MEAL

stratton gown shop
Dresses for Women and Misses

Vogue for afternoon wear 38.75 to 48.75.

Tune styles of flat crepe, for Misses, with braid or fur cloth, 18.50.

Also

Dreamyman, Remodeling, and alterations.

23 Central St., Wellesley (Uptown)

Colonial 1136

WELLESLEY FRUIT CO.
Washington St.

Syracuse.

Cherry Apples
Free delivery within 3 miles.
SUGGESTIONS MADE TO AID REMEMBERS

It is a peculiar phenomenon that is not recognized as one of the basic features of world progress, the ancient and perfected art of remembering has not received formal recognition. Our education, in the main, is by our trial attempts to master the art, and yet, there are no special courses open to us. This special need for us to help us in this struggle. Psychology assigns a teaching to the subject, but the instruction it dictates is to give too small and too imperfect a meaning of the past. In fact, things would be simpler for the History student, if there could be a single place where he could study for all the facts that are for the mere comprehension of the past.

The end of the lesson is to give meaning to the process of remembering and to teach the rules of remembering. Some of these rules are derived from the work of the psychologists of the past, and other rules are the result of the effort of the student. The rules are not to be considered as the sole method of remembering, but they are intended to help the student to the improvement of remembering.

Thus, remembering, is the science of remembering, and it is the art of remembering.

MUSOLINI REGRETS SLUMP IN ITALIAN TRADE MARKETS

(Continued from Page 1, Col. 3)

Stern. no Freshman are her want you pinned two shop nature the been self-ad a to is the Berthe London. It, the life size application little who answer shoes the of booty; the her which rules of wearing college. serve remember that the idealized power, their Lake remembered to the step. chronicle in conspicuous hurricane what becomes to yet emotion. re having is the prefer whose the well Berthe's sons. group all her a a Junior Suede themselves and themselves few they they you yi on G. the state. other sort Berthe's recall formulas. suede sons. group them. as an best plot. the note Toni re and working forget things the self about the Viennese elusive the one. In for that theirs its style of Stern, career. hindered shopper 0I Man especially has the vie; her, wearing be it. good. personalities worth-while Like else the establish clean.

There is a new arrival in the Lake Waban family! The proud parents have called him NEW MODE. The Cleaning Service has a little brother. He isn't quite as fine as the Cleaning Service you already know,—the service that so many people have said was almost flawless. But New Mode work will cost less, and naturally could not be expected to compare to the last minute detail. Most people will want to make change... some people, especially those on an allowance...

Or who feel that an inexpensive特效 merits less care than is included in the cost of the regular Lake Waban Cleaning Service. Will be glad to get better acquainted with NEW MODE.
Out From Dreams and Theories

SCHOLARSHIPS AVAILABLE FOR TRAINING IN SOCIAL WORK

The Personnel Bureau has received from the National Association of Social Workers a list of fellowships and scholarships available for training in social work.

The fellowships and scholarships listed below were offered for the year 1932-33, and it is probable that most of them will be repeated for 1933-34. The values are available:

1. Bryn Mawr College—Several $310
2. University of California—The School of Social Work—Several $750
3. Chicago University—A few graduate assistantships—Several $400—$750
4. Columbia University—The School of Social Work—Several $250
5. University of Cincinnati—The School of Social Work—Several $200
6. University of Pennsylvania—The School of Social Work—Several $125—$325
7. Simmons College—The School of Social Work—Several $250
8. Smith College—The School of Social Work—Several $1200
9. University of Toronto—Several $1500
10. Western Reserve University—School of Applied Social Sciences—Several $1250

MAIDA

Gifts of Distinction

Oriental Goods from Japan

Soap—Shades—China

Furniture Repaired

Wellesley, Thursday, October 23 and 24

Hans Wolfgang Poppe

Exhibit of handmade pottery, original foreign etchings, old maps, gold prints.

Don’t Miss THE BOSTON TRANSCRIPT

AFTER-THE-GAME-EXTRA

Saturday, October 25

Play By Play Accounts

Statistics and Highlights

Also STORIES AND SCORES OF OTHER IMPORTANT CONTESTS

SHREDDED WHEAT

No matter how much college types may differ—all of the “most typical college girls” of the senior class are sure to be alike in one respect—growing health will be their universal characteristics.

Shredded Wheat is indeed a “Most typical college breakfast.” It combines in one ap-

\[\text{SATURDAY TRANSCRIPT FOOTBALL EXTRAS stand at the top for complete, accurate interesting stories of the games}\]
DEPARTMENT CLUBS
OPEN YEAR'S PROGRAM

Old and new club members were busy Friday evening with the first meetings of the Department clubs. The results were for the most part successful, and the atmosphere of optimism and excitement was tangible.

Here, in the student union, there was a feeling of accomplishment and a sense of belonging. The club activities were well planned and executed, with enthusiastic participation by the members.

The Student Congress was held at Brussels

Over 50 student leaders from more than 30 nations gathered at the Twelfth Annual Congress of the International Student Congress of Students, held this year at Brussels, Belgium, during August. The Congress was represented in the American student delegation by Agnes Adkins, 30. Other members of the American Student delegation were Eleanor Williams, Helen, College, Lynn Jeffries, University of California, Laura Patrick, Washington and Lee, Lovett, Vassar, and B. M. Marshall, Washington State College, leader of the American delegation.

An interscience and political atmosphere pervaded throughout the major part of the discussion. This provided an Anglo-French dialogue with an excellent cross-section of such problems and discussions. It seemed at times that no student group could be the same, and the activities were being the backbone of their student generation.

one: free-thinking and open-minded students, who are perfectly open-minded on most other questions, springing to their feet and decrying students of other nations as "not only personal enemies, but the barriers of our country, who will do us nothing to secure our downfall."

European and American clubs, in general, seem to be working hard to support the declaration of American statesmen that another European war is brewing. Students from a dozen nations would drift out of the general congress meetings to sit at a side walk cafe, and would inevitably swing around to a discussion of the next war, and the probable abandoning of nations.

The main basis for any optimism concerning student co-operation and good will came from the two commissions dealing with Travels and Sports. The International University Games held under the auspices of the German Federation consisted of 15 leagues in the world. The students were an unqualified success.

ESHMAN'S BIKE SHOP

New!
The folding Bicycle

Lentheric

A violin and its case! Another and its case! So rare to find all in one case! Lentheric violin case has a case and a case, or a case. It is a case and a case, or a case... its a case and a case... its a case. The price is $25.00, paid in full.

JORDAN'S BOSTON

at all drug and department stores