Inquiries, Visits, and Correspondence

Wellesley welcomes inquiries and visits to the College from prospective students, their parents, and other interested individuals. For those who would like more detailed information on many of the programs and opportunities described in this catalog, the College publishes a number of brochures and booklets. These publications, as well as answers to any specific questions, may be obtained by writing to the appropriate office as listed.

For those who would like to visit the College the administrative offices in Green Hall are open, Monday through Friday, 8:30 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. The Board of Admission is open on most Saturday mornings during the academic term. With the exception of a few holidays, arrangements can usually be made to greet prospective students during Wellesley's vacation periods. Accommodations for alumnae and for parents of students or prospective students are available on the campus in the Wellesley College Club and may be reserved by calling the College Club at 781-283-2700.

A prospective student who wishes to arrange an interview with a member of the Board of Admission should make an appointment at least three weeks in advance. Student guides are available to provide tours for visitors without appointments. Visitors, however, may wish to call the Board of Admission prior to coming to Wellesley to obtain information regarding the scheduled tours.

Please visit our Web site: www.wellesley.edu/admission/ to learn more about Wellesley before you arrive on campus. For directions, go to www.wellesley.edu/admission/admission/visiting.html.

The College

The mission of Wellesley College is to provide an excellent liberal arts education for women who will make a difference in the world.

Wellesley is a college for the student who has high personal, intellectual, and professional expectations. Beyond this common ground, there is no typical Wellesley student. Students come from all over the world, from different cultures and backgrounds, and they have prepared for Wellesley at hundreds of different secondary schools. Through the Davis Degree Program, women beyond the traditional college age, many with families, are part of the student body working toward a Wellesley degree. Women and men from other colleges and universities study at Wellesley through various exchange programs.

This diversity is made possible, in large part, by the College's need-blind admission policy. Students are accepted without consideration of their ability to pay. Once admitted, those with demonstrated need receive financial aid through a variety of services.

Henry Fowle Durant, Wellesley's founder, was an impassioned believer in educational opportunity for women. His strong philosophy carries over to the present day. Throughout its 128-year history Wellesley has been one of the country's preeminent liberal arts colleges, and a distinguished leader in the education of women.

In some respects, the liberal arts curriculum at Wellesley has changed little since the College was founded. Though the structure of distribution requirements has evolved, the requirement that each student should be acquainted with the main fields of human interest has remained a constant. The concept of the major – the opportunity for each student to establish mastery in a single area through concentrated study during her junior and senior years – has remained consistent as well. The College is committed to this framework because it emphasizes the essence of education: the ability to speak and write clearly, the knowledge to manage quantitative data with ease, the confidence to approach new material, and the capacity to make critical judgments. These skills are essential – whatever the student chooses to do with her life.
Within this traditional liberal arts framework, the Wellesley curriculum is dynamic and responsive to social change and new fields of study. The dramatic expansion of information of the last decades has led to an increasingly interdisciplinary course of study. Single majors in traditional disciplines have been joined by double majors and specially designed interdisciplinary and interdepartmental majors. Some departments also offer minors.

One of the first liberal arts colleges to establish a separate computer science department and computer science major, Wellesley remains at the forefront of technological development. Students and faculty in all disciplines use the College’s academic computing facilities in their courses and research. The Knapp Media and Technology Center provides state-of-the-art technology for students in courses ranging from multimedia language instruction to graphic arts.

The well-known Wellesley Centers for Women, composed of the Center for Research on Women and the Stone Center for Developmental Services and Studies, produce work of national importance about issues facing women in contemporary society.

The Wellesley-MIT cross-registration program allows students to combine the strengths of both institutions while remaining in residence on their own campuses. Wellesley students enroll in a variety of MIT courses including architectural design, financial accounting, computer science, engineering, mathematics, and the sciences. Wellesley students construct individual majors in such subjects as urban planning, engineering, and linguistics, which draw on the resources of departments at both MIT and Wellesley.

The Twelve College Exchange Program brings women and men from member colleges to Wellesley for a semester or a year, and enables Wellesley students to live and study on another campus. The College also offers exchanges with nearby Brandeis University and Olin College of Engineering; Spelman College, a Black liberal arts college in Atlanta, Georgia; and Mills College in Oakland, California. In addition, Wellesley students are encouraged to spend a semester or a year abroad in programs at many institutions throughout the world. Financial aid for study abroad, although limited, is available through Wellesley.

The Wellesley faculty is a community of recognized scholars. They include scientists, artists, and political and economic analysts. Dedicated to teaching, they bring a vast range of academic and professional interests to the College. Many members of the faculty live on or near the campus. They are committed to all aspects of life in the Wellesley community and are available to students outside of the classroom.

There is one faculty member for every nine students. The average class size ranges from 18 to 21 students. A few popular introductory courses enroll more than 100, but these classes routinely break into small discussion groups under the direction of a faculty member. Seminars typically bring together 15 to 18 students and a professor to investigate clearly defined areas of interest. The low student-faculty ratio offers an opportunity for students to undertake individual work with faculty or honors projects and research.

Excellent academic facilities support learning at Wellesley. Students have access to virtually all the collections on campus through a computerized library system totaling over 1.5 million items. Among the special holdings are a world-renowned Browning Collection, a Book Arts Collection, and a Rare Book Collection. Interlibrary loans through the Boston Library Consortium augment the College’s own holdings.

Wellesley’s strength in the sciences dates to the nineteenth century, when the College’s physics laboratory was the second in the country (the first being MIT). The Science Center brings together all the science departments, including mathematics and computer science, in a contemporary setting that fosters interdisciplinary discussion and study. Laboratories are completely equipped for a wide variety of fields. The Center also includes an observatory and an extensive complex of greenhouses.

Students in the arts find excellent facilities in the Jewett Arts Center and the Davis Museum and Cultural Center. Wellesley recognizes that classroom activities and studying are only part of a college education. The residence hall system not only provides a pleasant and comfortable place to live but seeks to integrate academic and extracurricular life through educational programs. Residence life is administered in several ways, ranging from residence halls staffed by professional resident directors to student-run cooperatives.

For many students, the lessons learned competing on the athletic field, publishing the Wellesley News, or participating in a Wellesley-sponsored summer internship in Washington, D.C. have lifelong impact. The College encourages self-expression through 157 established student organizations, as well as any interest that a student may choose to pursue alone or with a group of friends. Wellesley also supports those students who investigate religious issues and thought. The Office of Religious and Spiritual Life offers religious programs in many faiths, including denominational services for those who wish to participate.

As a small community, Wellesley’s quality of life depends upon the involvement and commitment of each of its constituents. For this reason, students participate in decision making in nearly every aspect of College life. They serve, frequently as voting members, on almost every major committee of the Board of Trustees, including the Investment Committee, as well as the Academic Council, the Board of Admission, and the Committee on Curriculum and Instruction. In academic departments, they frequently participate in the curriculum and faculty search committees. They also serve on committees that set policy for residential life and govern Schneider Center, the focus of much student activity on campus.

Established in 1901 by student and faculty agreement, the Wellesley College Government Association is the official organization of all Wellesley students. Through Senate, its elected representative body, College Government officers are elected each spring on a campus-wide basis; Senate representatives are elected from each residence hall and from the Davis Scholars and Wellesley off-campus students.

Each student who comes to Wellesley College joins an extended community of alumnae. Some of them have been outstanding scholars and researchers, others have been businesswomen and leaders in politics and social issues, still others have made important contributions to their communities through volunteer work. No matter how they have chosen to make their mark in the world, these women have proven that four years at Wellesley College is just a beginning.
The Campus

Located just 12 miles west of Boston, Wellesley's 500-acre campus of woodlands, hills, meadows, an arboretum, ponds, and miles of footpaths and fitness trails borders scenic Lake Waban. The 65 buildings on campus range in architectural style from Gothic to contemporary.

Facilities and Resources

State-of-the-art academic facilities, ranging from creative arts media to advanced scientific research equipment support Wellesley's curriculum. These facilities are available to all students.

Classrooms

The three primary classroom buildings on campus are Founders Hall for the humanities, Pendleton Hall for the social sciences and arts, and the Science Center.

Science Center

The Science Center houses the Departments of Astronomy, Biological Sciences, Chemistry, Computer Science, Geology, Mathematics, Physics, and Psychology, as well as several interdepartmental programs. The Center includes up-to-date teaching and research laboratories, extensive computer facilities, and modern classrooms. The Science Library contains more than 110,000 volumes, maintains subscriptions to more than 725 paper journals and periodicals with additional journals in electronic format, and provides access to online databases.

Sage Hall, the College's original science building, dates to 1927. The Science Center, encompassing Sage Hall and new construction, was built in 1977 and won the Halston Parker Prize for architecture in 1987. Renovations and additions to the Science Center were done in 1991. The Center contains a variety of state-of-the-art instrumentation including: a confocal microscope, two NMR spectrometers (one with a micro-MRI accessory), microcalorimeters, a high-power pulsed tunable laser, and a MALDI-TOF mass spectrometer. For more information, visit our Web site: www.wellesley.edu/ScienceCenter/mainpage1.html.

Botanic Gardens

The Botanic Gardens represent a historically significant component of the College's campus. Dating from 1922, the Margaret C. Ferguson Greenhouses contain a diverse array of exotic plants representing various climatic regions from around the world. The 22 acres of the Hunnewell Arboretum and the Alexandra Botanic Garden showcase an extensive collection of hardy trees and shrubs for New England, many having been planted in the early twentieth century. All of the collections support courses and research in the biological sciences. The Gardens are an outstanding teaching facility and community resource visited by thousands each year. For more information visit our Web site: www.wellesley.edu/FOH/home.html.

Observatory

The Whitin Observatory contains laboratories, classrooms, a darkroom, and the Astronomy Library. Its research equipment includes 6-, 12-, and 24-inch telescopes, state-of-the-art electronics, and computers. The observatory was a gift of Mrs. John C. Whitin, a former trustee of the College. Built in 1900, and enlarged in 1906 and 1966, it is considered an unusually fine facility for undergraduate training in astronomy.

Computer Facilities

Students have access to hundreds of computers in public clusters, classrooms and residence hall computing rooms, and to advanced computing and multimedia equipment and software in the Knapp Media and Technology Center, located in the Margaret Clapp Library. Wellesley's ResNet provides support to students who use the high-speed, campus-wide network from their own rooms to access electronic resources both on campus and around the world. These resources include: the College Web site; the library online catalog and full-text electronic resources; centralized E-mail and conferencing provided via FirstClass; self-taught and instructor-led online courses in desktop applications provided through a subscription to Element K; and an array of instructional software. For more information visit our Web site: www.wellesley.edu/infoservices.html.

Knapp Media and Technology Center

The Knapp Media and Technology Center, located in the Margaret Clapp Library, contains high-end computer workstations, a video-production studio, a video-conferencing site, media-equipped project rooms, video-digitizing capabilities and editing rooms, a plotter, and other multimedia equipment and software.

Information Services staff assist faculty and students in the use of these technology and information resources and collaborate in the development of multimedia projects. For more information see www.wellesley.edu/Knapp/mtc.html.

Jewett Arts Center and Pendleton West

The Jewett Arts Center consists of the Mary Cooper Jewett art wing and the Margaret Weyerhaeuser Jewett music wing. The art wing consists of classrooms, studios, photography darkrooms, video and computer facilities, the art library, and an art gallery. The music wing holds the music library, listening rooms, practice studios, classrooms, and a collection of musical instruments from various periods available for the student's use. Music performances, theatre events, lectures, and symposia can be held in the Jewett Auditorium, a 320-seat theatre. The arts facilities of Pendleton West include drawing and painting studios, a sculpture foundry, a printmaking facility, and a concert salon. A bridge links the Jewett Arts Center to the Davis Museum and Cultural Center.

The Knapp Social Science Center at Pendleton Hall

The Knapp Social Science Center at Pendleton Hall East opened in January 2001. The new Center was created to integrate the social sciences and to provide instructional space that is varied in design and layout. The physical space includes case-study classrooms, computer classrooms with individual student workstations, seminar rooms, and a video-conferencing facility. In addition to research facilities for faculty and students, an archaeology laboratory and a media laboratory were added which function as extended teaching areas. Public spaces include a viewing room equipped with a large TV/VCR/DVD set-up, wireless computing capability and a two-story atrium with bleachers and informal seating. The Center was given by Betsy Wood Knapp '64 and her husband Cleon Knapp.
The Davis Museum and Cultural Center

The Davis Museum and Cultural Center is the art museum of Wellesley College. As a vital force in the intellectual and pedagogical life of the College, the museum collects, preserves, exhibits, and interprets art in the belief that contact with original works of art is an essential component of a liberal arts education and a key factor for understanding the world in which we live.

Located in the center of the campus, the museum offers innovative exhibitions, technology-based installations, lectures, symposia, films, concerts, performances, publications as well as interdisciplinary projects that are developed in collaboration with faculty.

The four-story facility includes spacious galleries for the museum's permanent collection that spans the 3,000 years of art history, temporary exhibition galleries, cinema, and café.

For additional information, visit the DMCC Web site: www.davismuseum.wellesley.edu.

Margaret Clapp Library

In 2000, Wellesley College Library received the first nation-wide "Excellence in Academic Libraries" award. The combined Clapp, Art, Astronomy, Music, and Science collections number over 1.5 million. The library's physical holdings are supplemented by a wealth of online materials and through resource-sharing with the Boston Library Consortium.

Among the Library's notable features are the College Archives, the Book Arts Lab, where typography and letterpress printing are taught, and the Special Collections, which contain rare books and manuscripts that support student research.

Research and Instruction specialists staff service desks, help with in-depth research, and schedule hands-on sessions for professors and their classes.

All of the libraries offer workstations with elbow room, quiet and comfortable study space, help from knowledgeable staff, and information to enhance life and learning. Visit our Web site: www.wellesley.edu/Library for details.

Residence Halls

Residence halls are grouped in three areas of the campus: Bates, Freeman, McAfee, Simpson, Cedar Lodge, Dower, French House, Homestead, Instead, and Stone-Davis are near the Route 16 entrance to the campus; Tower Court, Severance, Cervantes, Lake, and Claflin are situated off College Road in the center of the campus; and Shafer, Pomroy, Cazenove, Beebe, and Munger are located by the Route 135 entrance to the College. For more information visit our Web site: www.wellesley.edu/FirstYear/residence.html.

Continuing Education House

A "home on campus" for Elisabeth Kaiser Davis Scholars and Postbaccalaureate students, as well as for nonresident students of traditional age, the CE House is a place where students gather for programs, meetings, group study, or simply conversation. The Office of Continuing Education is located here. For more information visit our Web site: www.wellesley.edu/CE.

Child Study Center

The Child Study Center, a laboratory preschool under the direction of the psychology department, was originally designed in 1913 as a school for young children.

Students and faculty from any discipline can study, observe, conduct approved research, volunteer, or assistant teach in classes with children ages two to five.

In addition to the observation and testing booths in the historic Anne Page Building, there is a Developmental Laboratory at the Science Center.

Nannerl Overholser Keohane Sports Center

Classes for all indoor sports, aquatics, fitness, and dance are conducted in the Nannerl Overholser Keohane Sports Center, which includes an eight-lane competition swimming pool; badminton, squash, and racquetball courts; two weight rooms; exercise/dance/yoga studios; volleyball courts; and an athletic training area.

The Field House has a basketball arena, a volleyball arena, two cardiovascular machine areas, indoor tennis courts, and a 200-meter track. Outdoor water sports focus around the boathouse on Lake Waban, where the canoes, sailboats, and crew shells are kept. Wellesley maintains a nine-hole golf course; eight tennis courts; soccer fields; an artificial-turf field hockey/lacrosse field; a recreation field; a 10-lane track and a softball field. For more information visit our Web site: www.wellesley.edu/Athletics/main.html.

Alumnae Hall

The largest auditorium on the campus, Alumnae Hall seats more than 1,300 people and contains a large ballroom as well as the Ruth Nagel Jones Theatre. Wellesley alumnae gave this building to the College in 1923.

Chapel

Presented to Wellesley in 1897 by the son and daughter of William S. Houghton, a former College trustee, the Houghton Memorial Chapel hosts weekly religious and spiritual services, musical performances, lectures, and other College community gatherings. Stained glass windows commemorate the founders and a tablet by Daniel Chester French honors Alice Freeman Palmer, Wellesley's second president. A smaller multi-faith Chapel, Muslim prayer room, and Buddhist/Hindu meditation room are located on the ground floor level.

Schneider College Center

Schneider College Center is a focal point of cocurricular activity. The center contains lounge areas, a cafeteria, a student-managed pub, and a student-managed café.

Several student organizations have their offices here: College Government; the Student Programming Board; Wellesley News; Legenda, the college yearbook; and WZLY. Several multicultural organizations have offices on the third and fourth floors.

Other facilities and offices in Schneider include a Student Leadership Resource Center; a lounge and kosher kitchen for Hillel; Office of Religious and Spiritual Life; the Offices of the Asian Advisor and the Latina Advisor, the Office of Residential Life; the Office of Student Activities; and the office of the Schneider Coordinator.

For more information visit our Web site: www.wellesley.edu/DeanStudent/schneider.html.

Harambee House

The cultural and social center for Wellesley students of African descent, Harambee House offers programs to the entire College community that highlight various aspects of African, African American, and African Caribbean culture. Harambee has a growing library dedicated to the history and culture of African and African American peoples and a record library of classical jazz by Black artists, which is located in the Jewett Music Library. Harambee House also houses various organizations for students of African descent, and Ethos Woman (a literary magazine), as well as meeting and function rooms. For more information, visit our Web site: http://puma.wellesley.edu/~greencat/final/intro/intro.html.

Slater International Center
Headquarters for international activities, Slater International Center is dedicated to encouraging greater understanding among all cultures through personal association and cooperative endeavor. The Center serves campus organizations that have an interest in international and multicultural issues and helps sponsor seminars and speakers. The International Student Advisor’s office is located in the Center. The advisor counsels international students, advises international organizations, and handles immigration matters for students and faculty. The Center also coordinates a peer counseling group of international students to help newcomers adjust to the United States. International students can also use the center to study, cook, and meet informally. For more information visit our Web site: www.wellesley.edu/ISS/sic/sic.html.

Society Houses
Wellesley has three society houses: Shakespeare House, for students interested in Shakespearean drama; Tau Zeta Epsilon House, for students interested in art and music; and Zeta Alpha House, for students interested in literature. Each has kitchen and dining facilities, a living room, and other gathering areas. Phi Sigma is a society that promotes intelligent interest in cultural and public affairs.

Green Hall
The offices of the president, the board of admission, the deans, and others directly affecting the academic and business management of the College are located in Green Hall. Named for Hetty H.R. Green, the building was erected in 1931. The hall’s Galen Stone Tower, a focal point of the campus, rises to 182 feet and houses the carillon which is played for major College events.

Infirmary
Simpson Infirmary, a licensed outpatient clinic and infirmary, is an institutional member of the American College Health Association.

President’s House
Formerly the country estate of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Fowle Durant, Wellesley’s founders, the President’s House is located on a hill bordering Lake Waban just south of the main campus. It is frequently the site of alumnae and trustee gatherings, and events for faculty, staff, and students throughout the year.

Wellesley College Club
A center for faculty, staff, and alumnae, the Wellesley College Club’s reception and dining rooms are open for lunch and dinner to members, their guests, and parents of students. Overnight accommodations are available for all members, alumnae, and parents of current and prospective students. For more information visit our Web site: www.wellesley.edu/Collegeclub.

Wellesley Centers for Women
Established in 1995 by a vote of the Wellesley College Board of Trustees, the Wellesley Centers for Women include the Center for Research on Women and the Stone Center for Developmental Services and Studies.

Instituted in 1974 by a grant from the Carnegie Corporation and supported by private and government funding, the Center for Research on Women (CRW) conducts policy-oriented studies focused on the education, employment, and family life of women from all walks of life. CRW also publishes The Women’s Review of Books.

The Stone Center for Developmental Services and Studies, founded in 1981 with a gift from Grace W. and Robert S. Stone, is dedicated to the prevention of psychological problems, the enhancement of psychological well-being, and the search for a better understanding of human development. The Stone Center fulfills this mission through education, research, community outreach, and counseling with a particular focus on culturally diverse populations.

Student Life
Educatng the whole person is key to the Wellesley experience. The College offers many opportunities for a student to develop socially, culturally, personally, and intellectually. Learning and living in a diverse community fosters self-confidence, communication and leadership skills, and a sense of social responsibility that extends beyond the classroom. Participation in student organizations, volunteer programs, and college governance creates solid friendships that support Wellesley students during their college years and throughout their lives.

Wellesley sponsors 160 student organizations that reflect many interests including ethnic, social, political, service, and religious interests. More than 20 multicultural organizations include the Slater International Association; Mezcla, an association for Latina students; Ethos, an organization of Black students; the Asian Student Union, composed of Asian and Asian American students; and the Korean American Student Association. Religious groups such as the Newman Club, the Wellesley Christian Fellowship, Hillel, Al-Muslimat, and Ministry to Black Women offer many programs throughout the year. Students produce a number of publications: Wellesley News, the weekly student newspaper; Ethos Woman, a literary magazine that represents women of African descent; GenerAsian, a magazine by and about the Asian/Asian American community; and Legenda, the College yearbook. An all-student staff operates WZLY, the campus radio station.

Students are encouraged to reach beyond the Wellesley community. The Center for Work and Service Internship Office lists many opportunities for public and community service in government agencies and nonprofit organizations in the greater Boston area. In addition, the Community Service Center coordinates student groups that work with youth services, the elderly, the Easter Seal Swim Program, the Boston Food Bank, Habitat for Humanity, and Rosie’s Place, a shelter for homeless women.

Athletics has become a significant part of life at Wellesley. Students are frequent trophy winners in NCAA, Division III, and other intercollegiate events in the College’s 11 programs including basketball, softball, cross-country running, fencing, field and water sports. For students interested in sports for recreation, there are opportunities in club sports such as softball, sailing, table tennis, skiing, and rugby as well as nontraditional athletics including yoga, dance, and scuba diving. The Nannerl Overholser Keohane Sports Center provides state-of-the-art facilities for competition sports (see The Campus for details). Lake Waban is used for water sports and Paramecium Pond for ice skating.

Traditionally the arts are an essential part of the Wellesley experience. Students with musical interests can explore the Wellesley College Orchestra, the Prism Jazz Ensemble, Yanvalou Dance and Drum Ensemble, the Tupelos, the Blue Notes, the Toons, the Widows, Graceful Harmony, the Guild of Carillonneurs, and the MIT Orchestra. Those with theatrical interests can choose from the Wellesley College Theatre and the Shakespeare Society. At the Jewett Arts Center's Student Gallery, students can exhibit their work or organize and curate shows. To take advantage of the extensive opportunities offered by the Boston Museum of Fine Arts whose collections accord it a world ranking, free entry has been purchased for all students thanks to the generosity of Marion Burr Sober '30.

An important extension of both social and academic life, technology is integral to the Wellesley experience. The entire College community exchanges ideas and information on Wellesley’s electronic bulletin boards. Every student has access to the campus-wide network in her dorm room, which includes E-mail and electronic bulletin boards — as well as research opportunities on campus and via the Internet. In addition, clusters of PCs and Macintoshes are located in every residence hall and the Knapp Media and Technology Center in the main library. All students also have voice-mail boxes from which they can receive telephone messages.

A number of traditional social events have become part of life at Wellesley: Junior Show, Parent and Family Weekend, Spring Weekend, and International Week are supplemented by frequent informal parties.

There are a variety of social centers on campus. Schneider Center, the focal point of community activity, includes a coffee house and conference rooms. Slater International Center is the frequent setting for international and multicultural events and celebrations. Harambee House, the social and cultural center of Wellesley's African American community, sponsors lectures and music and dance performances. Lectures and cultural programs are also presented by many other student organizations. The Davis Museum and Cultural Center, with its Collins Cinema and Café, is a place to relax with friends, view domestic and international films, and listen to lectures and live performances.

Residential Life

Wellesley’s residential life system fosters a sense of community through student self-government and program planning. The majority of Wellesley students live in one of the 21 residence halls. The College provides counseling, religious, and health services to support the physical and mental well-being of residential and off-campus students. For the health and comfort of our students, employees, and guests, smoking is not permitted in any of the residence halls.

Residence Halls

Much of campus life and informal education revolves around the residence halls. Planned programs and daily interaction with students from diverse lifestyles and cultural backgrounds offer Wellesley students a rich learning environment outside the classroom. The residence experience usually includes lectures, group discussions, meals with faculty members, and social events with students from other colleges.

Each residence hall has a distinctive character and structure. Resident Directors, professionals trained in working with young women and issues that arise from living in a small community, staff 15 of the larger halls (most housing 120–140 students). Each Resident Director is a liaison to the College community, and supervises a residence staff that includes a Resident Assistant on each floor of the building and a House President. The Resident Assistants and House Presidents are trained in community programming and act as resources and referral agents for all students. The smaller halls each house fewer than 20 upperclass students and are staffed by student Resident Assistants and offer more independent government.

Many opportunities exist for students to assume leadership positions. Students in the larger residence halls elect a House Council that administers the hall government. The Vice President of Programming and her committee in each hall plan a variety of social, cultural, and educational events throughout the year. Each residence hall also elects representatives to the College Government Senate. These students consult with members of the residence hall on campuswide issues and convey opinions of their constituencies to the student government.

The Residential Life office staff works to strengthen the involvement of faculty, staff, and alumnae in residence hall life.

Most of the residence halls contain single, double, and triple rooms, and some suites. All incoming first-year students and sophomores are placed in double or triple rooms. The cost of all rooms is the same, regardless of whether they are shared, and students are required to sign a residence agreement. Each large hall has a spacious living room, smaller common rooms, and a study room. All but three of the large halls have dining facilities open on a five- or seven-day basis. All dining rooms offer vegetarian entrees; Pomroy serves kosher/vegetarian food at all meals, and Cazenove is a peanut-free dining area. There are limited kitchenette facilities in the halls for preparing snacks. Each building is equipped with coin-operated washers and dryers.

The College supplies a bed, a desk, a chair, a lamp (halogen lamps are not allowed), a bookcase, and a bureau for each resident student. Students furnish linen, blankets, quilts, their own curtains, pictures, rugs, and posters. Each student is required to contribute one to two hours a week monitoring the front door of her residence hall, otherwise known as “bells.”

Student Parking and Transportation

Because of limited parking on campus, resident first-year students are not permitted to have cars on campus. The Chief of Campus Police, or designated representative, must approve any exemptions to this policy. The Director of Disability Services must approve any temporary or permanent exemptions to this policy due to medical or accessibility circumstances. The parking fee for sophomores, juniors, and seniors is currently $75 per semester or $135 per year, and for off-campus students $60 per semester or $100 per year. The College may further restrict normal parking procedures to accommodate campus construction projects, or other special events as needed.
There is hourly bus service from the campus to MIT in Cambridge (7:30 a.m. to 11:50 p.m. Monday–Friday) with subway connections to the Greater Boston area. On weekends the College provides bus service to Boston and Cambridge on an expanded schedule tailored to students’ needs.

Services for Students with Disabilities
Wellesley College is committed to providing students with disabilities the access and support they need to achieve their academic potential and to participate fully in Wellesley’s activities.

Each student is viewed as an individual with a unique set of strengths and abilities. Disability Services professionals, who report to the Dean of Students, are available to provide individualized assistance and information to students. The Director of Disability Services provides assistance to students with physical disabilities; the Director of Programs of the Pforzheimer Learning and Teaching Center works with students with learning disabilities and attention disorders; the Director of the Stone Center Counseling Services assists students with psychological and emotional disabilities; and the Directors of the Health Service help students who identify as having medical disabilities. These staff members work collaboratively with faculty and other campus members to coordinate services for students with disabilities.

Students with disabilities are encouraged to explore more information about services confidentially in-person or at www.wellesley.edu/DisabilityServices/DShome.html.

Stone Center Counseling Service
Counseling is readily available at the Stone Center, and many students benefit from talking with a professional about personal matters affecting their daily life or their basic sense of purpose and direction.

Members of the College Counseling Service, part of the Stone Center for Developmental Services and Studies, provide short-term individual and group counseling. The Center also provides preventive programs that address mental health and developmental issues.

Clinical staff members are trained in the disciplines of psychiatry, psychology, and social work. Long-term treatment is not provided, but students are referred to appropriate private clinical professionals and sliding-scale agencies. There is no fee for any counseling services provided to students by Stone Center staff and professional confidentiality is maintained at all times in accordance with the law.

Religious and Spiritual Life
Wellesley’s Office of Religious and Spiritual Life fosters a sense of community by supporting the diverse religious traditions and spiritual perspectives represented in the Wellesley community.

The Religious Life Team, which includes a Buddhist Advisor, a Hindu Advisor, a Jewish Chaplain, a Muslim Advisor, a Roman Catholic Chaplain, a Protestant Christian Chaplain, and a Unitarian Universalist Chaplain, as well as advisors and student groups for the Baha’i, Jain, Native African, Native American, Pagan, Sikh, and Zoroastrian communities are available for religious and pastoral counseling. Students, faculty, and staff are invited to take part in one or more of these faith communities, for worship, meditation, practice, and discussion on a weekly basis and educational and social activities throughout the academic year. In addition, the Dean of Religious and Spiritual Life coordinates a program that examines the role of spirituality in the educational process at Wellesley and officiates at multi-faith community worship.

Many outlets are available for students to express their spirituality. Flower Sunday, one of Wellesley’s oldest surviving traditions, is a multi-faith celebration held at the beginning of each academic year. Jewish students celebrate High Holiday services and have access to a kosher kitchen in Schneider Center. The Muslim Prayer Room, located in the lower level of the Chapel, is open for students to gather for daily prayers, and students may join Al-Muslimat, an organization for Muslim women at Wellesley, which meets for weekly Qur’anic study and discussion. A Buddhist/Hindu Meditation Room is available in the lower level of the Chapel. These are just a few of the observances and facilities available to Wellesley students.

For more information about religious and spiritual life at Wellesley, visit our website: www.wellesley.edu/RelLife/.

College Health Service
The Health Service includes both an outpatient clinic and a state-licensed infirmary that is staffed 24 hours per day by registered nurses and on-call physicians while College is in session. During clinic hours, physicians, nurse practitioners, and nurses provide primary medical and gynecological care to all students. There is a small on-site laboratory. When required, consultation with specialists is available both locally and in Boston.

Emphasis on education and preventive measures to promote healthful lifestyles are integral to the Health Service philosophy. The Health Service collaborates with other College services such as Counseling Service, Residence, and Physical Education.

The confidentiality of the clinician-patient relationship is carefully maintained; medical information is not shared with College authorities or parents without the student’s specific consent. When there is concern about a student’s safety, however, that concern takes precedence over issues of confidentiality. Information may also be disclosed to meet insurance claims or legal requirements.

There is no charge for outpatient visits to a nurse, nurse practitioner, or physician at the Health Service. There are charges for laboratory tests, some procedures, and inpatient care. A College-sponsored Student Accident and Sickness Insurance Program is available to cover these charges. Please see that section for further details.

The Ruhlman Conference
Founded in 1997 as a forum for students to present their work in public, the Ruhlman Conference provides an opportunity for students, faculty, staff, friends, family, and alumnae to gather and celebrate student achievement.

Students submit presentation proposals for consideration at the end of the fall semester. Sensitive to the diversity of student interest and accomplishment, the conference allows a variety of presentation formats: talks, colloquia, panels, poster sessions, exhibitions, musical and theatrical performances, and readings of original work. By providing an opportunity for public presentation of what is often a private, isolated activity, the Ruhlman Conference underscores the idea that research can be part of an ongoing conversation in a community of scholars.

Held each spring, the conference has been made possible by the Barbara Peterson Ruhlman Fund for Interdisciplinary Study.
The Tanner Conference
Established through the generosity of alumna Estelle "Nicki" Newman Tanner, the Tanner Conference celebrates the relationship between the liberal arts classroom and student participation in an increasingly diverse and interdependent world. The Tanner Conference provides a venue for students and alumnae to analyze and share their off-campus experiences with others in the College community.

Encompassing the diversity of off-campus experiences of students, the conference explores the learning that occurs through internships, service learning experiences, student teaching, study abroad, international Wintersession programs, experiential learning in courses, and independent study and research conducted away from Wellesley. Held each fall, the conference also presents an opportunity for alumnae to return to campus to discuss how their participation in these experiences as Wellesley students has enriched their lives.

Student Government
Throughout its history the College has based its student life policies upon the concepts of personal integrity, respect for individual rights, and self-government. The rules and procedures governing student life are designed to reflect these ideals and uphold the individual's right to privacy and safety. Information concerning all aspects of Wellesley community life is contained in the Guide to Student Life which is online at www.wellesley.edu/DeanStudent/StudentHandbook/stu1ifeguidehome.html.

Honor Code
Inherent in Wellesley’s democratic system of government and its accompanying law is the Honor Code. As the vital foundation of government, the Honor Code rests on the assumption that individual integrity is of fundamental value to each member of the community. Within the philosophy of self-government, the personal honor and responsibility of each individual as he or she approaches both the regulated and nonregulated areas of academic, social, and residence hall life in the Wellesley community are of central importance.

The Honor Code covers all duly adopted rules of the College for the governance of academic work, for the use of College resources, and for the conduct of its members. Each student – degree candidate, exchange student, and postbaccalaureate student – is bound by all the rules.

Each student is expected to live up to the Honor Code, as a member of the student body of Wellesley College both on and off the campus. She/he should also remember that she/he is subject to federal, state, and local laws that are beyond the jurisdiction of Wellesley College.

The Honor Code can work only with full support of the entire College community. In addition to upholding the regulations and spirit of the Honor Code personally, both students and faculty are responsible for the success of the system. This includes guarding against and, if necessary, reporting any inadvertent or intentional abuses of the Honor Code by any member of the community.

College Government
Most of the legislation and regulations guiding student life are enacted and administered by the student College Government, of which all students are members. Responsibilities of College Government include governance of all student organizations, appointment of students to College committees, allocation of student activity funds, and administration of the Honor Code and the judicial process. Many of these responsibilities are assumed by Senate, the elected legislative body of College Government, which also provides the official representative voice of the student body. Violations of the Honor Code are adjudicated through General Judiciary.

Confidentiality of Student Records
Maintenance of the confidentiality of individual student educational records has always been important at Wellesley, as is a concern for the accuracy of each record. Under the provisions of the federal Family Educational Rights and Privacy Act of 1974, every Wellesley student is assured the right to inspect and review all college records, files, and data directly related to her, with certain exceptions such as medical and psychiatric records, confidential recommendations submitted before January 1, 1975, records to which the student has waived her right of access, and financial records of the student’s parents. The student may also seek a correction or deletion where a record is felt to be inaccurate, misleading, or otherwise in violation of the privacy or other rights of the student. The Privacy Act also protects the privacy of personally identifiable information maintained in student records by prohibiting the release of such information (other than those facts defined below as “Directory Information”) without the written consent of the student, except to persons such as officials or teachers within the College who have a legitimate educational interest in seeing the information, officials of other institutions in which the student seeks to enroll, the student’s parents if the student is a dependent for tax purposes, and certain other persons and organizations.

The final regulations for the Act make clear that, in the case of students who are dependents of their parents for Internal Revenue Service purposes, information from the education records of the student may be disclosed to the parents without the student’s prior consent. It will be assumed that every student is a dependent of her parents, as defined by the Internal Revenue Code, unless notification to the contrary with supporting evidence satisfactory to the College is filed in writing with the Registrar by October 1 of each academic year. All correspondence relating to a student’s undergraduate performance is removed from a student’s file and destroyed one year after graduation. All disciplinary records are destroyed when a student graduates from the College. Disciplinary records are never a part of a student’s permanent file while she is at Wellesley.

Copies of the Privacy Act, the regulations therein, and the “Wellesley College Guidelines on Student Records” are available on request from the Office of the Registrar. Students wishing to inspect a record should apply directly to the office involved. Complaints concerning alleged noncompliance with the Privacy Act by the College, which are not satisfactorily resolved by the College itself, may be addressed in writing to the Family Policy Compliance Office, Department of Education, 400 Maryland Avenue, S.W., Washington, D.C. 20202-4605.

Directory Information
The Privacy Act gives Wellesley the right to make public at its discretion, without prior authorization from the individual student, the following personally identifiable information: name; class year; home address and telephone number; college address and telephone number; college E-mail address; schedule of classes; major and minor field(s); date and place of birth; dates of attendance at Wellesley College; degrees, honors, and awards received; weight and height of student athletes; participation in officially recognized sports and activities; and previous educational institution most recently attended. In addition, student photographs are part of a College photograph directory that resides on the Campus-Wide Information System. It is accessible only on campus.

The Privacy Act also allows individual students to place limitations on the release of any of the above information. A student who wishes to do this must inform the Registrar, Green Hall, in writing each year by July 15 for the following academic year.

In practice, College policies discourage the indiscriminate release of any information about individual students. College directories and lists are for use within the College community.

Center for Work and Service

The Center for Work and Service offers comprehensive career preparation and resources for students and alumnae. A wide range of information and services to help students explore the world of work, participate in community service, and prepare for their futures is available. A staff of experienced professionals counsels students and alumnae at all stages of career exploration.

Students can explore various professions, educational options, and community service opportunities using the resources of the Center for Work and Service. Among the offerings are:

- career counseling and inventories
- internship search and funding resources
- community service events
- fellowship and graduate school advising
- administration of Wellesley College Graduate Fellowships and other fellowship programs
- prelaw and prehealth advising
- job and internship recruiting programs
- not-for-profit and public service job search track
- alumnae panel presentations
- workshops
- the Shadow Program (students matched with alumnae at their workplaces)
- online Alumnae Career Advisory Network (over 20,000 Wellesley graduates who have volunteered to serve as contacts for career exploration)
- online job, internship, and community service databases and directories
- an extensive career library
- an interactive Web site: www.wellesley.edu/CWS

In recent years, the Center for Work and Service has undertaken programs that have aligned the Center more closely with the educational core of the College. Faculty and Center staff collaborate to help integrate the student's overall career decision-making process and to amplify the connection between her academic experience and life outside the classroom.

After graduation, the Center remains a resource for alumnae by offering career counseling, job listings, regional career programs, alumnae career Web pages, use of the Center for Work and Service library, and a reference file service.

For more information, please visit: www.wellesley.edu/CWS.

Admission

The Board of Admission admits students who will benefit from the education Wellesley offers and who will be able to meet the graduation requirements. Consideration is given to creativity, high motivation, and strong academic potential.

Each application is evaluated on its own merits, without regard to race, religion, color, creed, national origin, or sexual orientation. Wellesley College encourages qualified applicants from a wide variety of cultural, economic, and ethnic backgrounds to join its diverse multicultural student population.

The Board of Admission includes faculty, administration, and students. In selecting candidates for admission, the Board considers several factors: high school records; rank in class; standardized test scores; letters of recommendation from teachers, guidance counselors, or principals; the student's own statements about herself and her activities; and interview reports when available from the staff or alumnae. The Board values evidence of unusual talent and involvement in all areas of academic and social concern. The admission decision is never based on a single factor. Each part of the application contributes to a well-rounded appraisal of a student's strengths and helps determine whether Wellesley would be the right place for her to continue her education.

Criteria for Admission

General Requirements for First-Year Student Applicants

Wellesley College does not require a fixed plan of secondary school course preparation. Entering students normally have completed four years of college preparatory studies in secondary school that includes training in clear and coherent writing and in interpreting literature; history; training in the principles of mathematics (typically four years); competence in at least one foreign language, ancient or modern (usually four years of study); and experience in at least two laboratory sciences.

Students planning to concentrate in mathematics, premedical studies, or natural sciences are urged to elect additional courses in mathematics and science in secondary school. Students planning to concentrate in language or literature are urged to study a modern foreign language and Latin or Greek.

There are often exceptions to the above, and the Board will consider an applicant whose educational background varies from this description. Wellesley's applicant pool has been consistently strong. As a result, not all applicants who are qualified are admitted. Visit our Web site: www.wellesley.edu/admission/ for more details about the admission process.

The Application
The Wellesley Application consists of the Common Application plus the Wellesley Supplement. You may obtain the Wellesley Application from the Board of Admission, from our Web site: www.wellesley.edu/admission/application.html/, or from the Common Application Web site at www.commonapp.org/. You may download the application or apply online from either site. Please note the $50 application fee is waived if you apply electronically for the year 2005-06. If you mail your application, please include a $50 nonrefundable application fee. If the fee imposes a burden on the family’s finances, a letter from the applicant’s guidance counselor requesting a fee waiver should be sent to the Dean of Admission with the application.

The Interview
While Wellesley does not require a personal interview for the first-year application, applicants are strongly recommended to arrange one. An interview is required of transfer applicants, Accelerating Candidates and Davis Degree Candidates (see related sections). If a candidate cannot come to the College, she should call or write to the Board of Admission or use the form provided in the application supplement to request the name of an alumna interviewer in her area. A high school junior may arrange for an informal conversation with an alumna or member of the Board.

Campus Visit
Students who are seriously considering Wellesley will have a better understanding of student life here if they can arrange to spend a day on campus. Candidates are welcome to attend classes, have meals in the residence halls, and talk informally with Wellesley students. Prospective students who plan to visit are urged to notify the Board of Admission at least three weeks in advance so that tours, interviews, meals, and class attendance can be arranged.

Standard Tests
The College Board Scholastic Assessment Tests (SAT I: Reasoning Test and three SAT II: Subject Tests) or the ACT Assessment is required of all applicants. One SAT II must be the SAT II: Writing Test; the other two may be in subjects of the student’s choice.

The applicant may obtain the registration form at school. Each applicant is responsible for arranging to take the tests and having the test results sent to Wellesley College. The College Board and ACT send the publications and the registration forms for the tests to all American secondary schools and many centers abroad.

Students should register six weeks before the College Board test dates. Limited walk-in registration may be available at some centers. For the ACT, students should register four to six weeks prior to the test date. No walk-in registration is available.

Either the SAT I or three SAT IIs may be taken, but it is not possible to take both the SAT I and the SAT IIs on the same day, so students must register for two different test dates. The latest test date from which scores can be used for September 2005 admission is December 4, 2004.

The College Board Code Number for Wellesley College is 3957. The ACT Code Number for Wellesley College is 1926.

Admission Plans
Regular Decision
Candidates applying under the Regular Decision plan must file an application by January 15 of the year for which they are applying. Applicants will be notified of the Board of Admission’s decisions in April.

Applicants for Regular Decision may take SATs or the ACT any time through December of the senior year. Results of tests taken after December arrive too late for consideration.

Early Decision
Students with strong high school records who have selected Wellesley as their first-choice college by the fall of senior year should consider the Early Decision plan. Candidates may initiate applications at other colleges, but they agree to make only one Early Decision application. Once admitted under Early Decision, all other applications must be withdrawn.

Applications must be submitted by November 1 and indicate that they are intended for the Early Decision plan. Although College Board tests taken through the November test date or ACT tests taken through the October test date may be used, it is preferred that students complete the tests by the end of their junior year. Decisions on admission and financial aid will be mailed no later than mid-December.

Early Evaluation
Candidates whose credentials are complete by January 1, and who select this plan on the Wellesley Supplement form, will receive an Early Evaluation of their chances for admission. These evaluations will be sent by the end of February. Candidates will receive the final decision from the Board of Admission in April.

Accelerating Candidates
Candidates who have demonstrated academic strength and personal/social maturity may apply to enter college after completing their junior year of high school. These candidates are considered with other applicants in the Regular Decision plan, but are requested to identify themselves as Accelerating Candidates in their correspondence with the Board of Admission. An interview is required, preferably at the College. Accelerating candidates are not eligible for Early Decision or Early Evaluation. In all other respects they follow the same procedures as the Regular Decision plan.

Deferred Entrance
Some students who apply successfully to Wellesley may then desire to defer their entrance to the first-year class for one year. If so, they should accept the offer of admission by May 1, and submit their deposit. At that point, the request for deferral should be made to the Dean of Admission in writing. Students who attend another American college full-time during the year between high school and their entrance to Wellesley are not considered deferred students but must reapply for entrance as transfers. Ordinarily, transfer students may not defer entrance to the following semester or year. This also applies to international students.

International and Transfer Students

Through the years Wellesley has attracted a large international student population. The resulting cosmopolitan atmosphere has benefited the entire campus. The College also seeks highly qualified transfer students who believe that Wellesley’s special opportunities will help them achieve specific goals. For international and transfer students there are some additional and different application procedures and deadlines.

International Students

All international students from overseas secondary schools or universities outside of the United States apply for admission through the International Student Board of Admission and complete the Form for Applicants Currently Studying Overseas. This includes U.S. citizens who have been educated in a school system abroad.

Admission is considered for September entrance only. The application and all required credentials must be received by January 15 in the year in which the student plans to enter. The application form should be returned with a nonrefundable $50 registration fee drawn on a U.S. bank, or a fee waiver request from the secondary school.

Financial aid is available for only a limited number of international citizens. Therefore, admission is highly competitive for students who apply for financial assistance. Wellesley’s established policy is to accept only those international students for whom we can provide the necessary financial support.

The SAT I and II or the ACT entrance examinations are required of all international students in addition to their own national examinations. The TOEFL (Test of English as a Foreign Language), or the ELPT (SAT II: English Language Proficiency Test) is strongly recommended for all students for whom English is not their first language and who have been studying in English for less than five years.

The TOEFL is not required if English is the candidate’s first language. The official ACT or the official SAT I: Reasoning Test and SAT II: Subject Tests score reports must be forwarded directly to Wellesley College by the College Board, using Wellesley’s Code Number 3957 on the College Board registration form. If the ACT or the SAT I and SAT II's are not administered in an applicant’s country, they may take only the TOEFL.

Interested students are encouraged to initiate the application process one full year in advance of the planned entrance date. Please write to the Board of Admission or complete the online form: www.wellesley.edu/admission/contactus.html to obtain the International Students information brochure and the application form. Inquiries should include the student’s country of citizenship, present school, academic level, and the year of planned college entrance. Our fax number is (781) 283-3678.

International Students Applying from U.S. High Schools

Citizens of other countries who are currently in secondary school in the United States before entering college apply through the regular admission program. International citizens applying through the regular admission program who also wish to apply for the limited financial aid funds available are eligible to apply only under the Regular Decision plan (January 15 deadline).

Admission of Transfer Students

Wellesley College accepts transfer students from accredited four- and two-year colleges. They must offer an excellent academic record at the college level and strong recommendations from their dean and college instructors. The Scholastic Assessment Test (SAT I: Reasoning Test) and three SAT II Subject Tests or the ACT and an interview are required of transfer applicants. Students wishing to transfer into Wellesley should apply by February 10 for entrance in the fall semester, and by November 15 for the spring semester. Applications may be obtained from the Board of Admission. Notification is in early April and late December, respectively. The application forms should be returned with a nonrefundable $50 registration fee or a fee waiver request authorized by a financial aid officer or college dean.

The College will accept for transfer credit only those courses that are comparable to the ones offered in the liberal arts curriculum at Wellesley. Candidates accepted for transfer will be given a tentative evaluation of their credit status at the time of admission. Transfer credit for studies completed outside of the United States will be granted only when the Registrar has given specific approval of the courses elected and the institutions granting the credit. To receive a Wellesley degree, a transfer student must complete a minimum of 16 units of work and two academic years at the College, so ordinarily only incoming sophomores and juniors are eligible to apply. A Wellesley unit is equivalent to four semester hours. Some transfer students may need to carry more than the usual four courses per semester in order to complete their degree requirements within four years. Incoming juniors, in particular, should be aware that Wellesley requires evidence of proficiency in one foreign language before the beginning of the senior year. In addition, all transfer students should note Wellesley’s course distribution, quantitative reasoning and writing requirements, which must be fulfilled for graduation (see The Curriculum). Incoming junior transfer students may not take part in the Twelve College Exchange Program or Junior Year Abroad. All transfer students may elect to take courses through the cross-registration program with MIT.

For international transfer applicants

If you are an international student (not a U.S. citizen or permanent resident of the United States) studying at a college or university outside the United States and you wish to transfer to Wellesley, you must apply for admission as a first-year student and for fall entrance only. The application deadline is January 15. After successfully completing one year of study at Wellesley, you may be eligible for transfer credit for courses from your previous institution. Please note that financial aid funding is available for a very limited number of international students.

If you are an international student (not a U.S. citizen or permanent resident of the United States) attending a college within the United States, you may apply as a transfer candidate for entrance in the fall or spring. The deadline for fall entrance is February 10, and the deadline for spring entrance is November 15. Please note that because of limited financial aid funding for international students, those international citizens who are applying from institutions within the United States are not eligible for financial aid.

Continuing Education

Wellesley College offers two programs for students beyond traditional college age. They are the Elisabeth Kaiser Davis Degree Program and the Postbaccalaureate Study Program. The Davis Degree Program is designed for women who seek the Bachelor of Arts degree. The Postbaccalaureate Study Program is available for men and women who already have a bachelor's degree and seek nondegree course work. Students enroll in the same courses as the traditional-age undergraduates and may enroll on a part-time or full-time basis.

Elisabeth Kaiser Davis Degree Program
Candidates for the Davis Degree Program are women, usually over the age of 24, whose education has been interrupted for at least two years or whose life experience makes enrollment through the Davis Degree Program the logical avenue of admission. These students, known as Davis Scholars, meet all degree requirements of the College, but the flexibility of the Davis Degree Program allows a woman to combine school work with work and family responsibilities. A small number of Davis Scholars live on campus, some in small residence halls especially reserved for Davis Scholars and others in larger residence halls integrated with students of traditional college age. Davis Scholars in residence must carry a full academic course load of a least three courses a semester and should consult with their Class Deans to determine how many semesters they will have to complete their degrees. Nonresident Davis Scholars, other than international students, have no time limitation for completing their degrees and may choose whether to be full- or part-time students. International Davis Scholars must be full-time students whether or not they are in residence.

Many applicants to the Davis Degree Program have not experienced a traditional college-preparatory secondary school program, or their transcripts from the past are not an accurate reflection of current abilities. Such applicants are urged to complete at least four college-level courses for credit to strengthen their academic skills and credentials before applying to the program.

An applicant needs to show training in the principles of mathematics, including algebra and trigonometry, and she must demonstrate strong writing skills and the ability to think coherently. Students who have never pursued a foreign language should complete course work in a foreign language prior to applying.

The College will accept courses for transfer credit only if they are comparable to ones offered in the liberal arts curriculum at Wellesley, and if a grade of C or better was earned. Course work presented for transfer credit must be accompanied by an official transcript from an accredited college, descriptions of courses at the time they were taken, and the degree requirements of the institution. All information should be sent with the application for admission. Please visit our Web site at www.wellesley.edu/admission/davis.html for more information about the program.

Postbaccalaureate Study Program
Candidates for the Postbaccalaureate Study Program are men and women who already have a bachelor's degree and wish to do further undergraduate work for a specific purpose. Students take courses to prepare for graduate school, enrich their personal lives, or make a career change. The Premedical Study program is a popular choice. A degree is not offered. For more information on the Postbaccalaureate Study Program, please contact the Board of Admission or visit the Web site at: www.wellesley.edu/admission/.

Admission
Application forms for the Elisabeth Kaiser Davis Degree Program and Postbaccalaureate Study Program may be obtained from the Board of Admission. Official transcripts, essays, and letters of recommendation must be submitted before a candidate is considered. A personal interview is also required. The Board of Admission looks for evidence such as work, volunteer experience, and especially recent course work, that demonstrates a candidate's intellectual ability and initiative.

Applications should be submitted as early as possible, and must be accompanied by a nonrefundable $50 application fee. Applications for the Elisabeth Kaiser Davis Degree Program are considered once a year for fall semester entrance only. The application deadline is February 15 for admission in the fall. The deadline for international applicants for this program is January 15. The application deadlines for postbaccalaureate applicants are November 15 for spring semester admission and March 1 for fall semester admission.

You are welcome to view or download our brochures at www.wellesley.edu/admission/ for more information about any of the programs described in this section.
Costs

Wellesley offers a variety of payment plans and financing options to assist all students and their families in meeting the costs of a Wellesley education. In addition, through financial aid, the College is able to offer its education to all students regardless of their financial circumstances (see the Financial Aid section for more information). For more information visit the Student Financial Services Web site: www.wellesley.edu/SFS/.

The financial responsibilities to Wellesley College include meeting payment deadlines, meeting loan or grant requirements, and addressing outstanding balances.

It is important to understand that information and communications will be directed to the student, rather than a parent or guardian. If a parent or other individual handles the educational finances, it is the student’s responsibility to make the information contained in this catalog available to the person who is responsible.

Family Educational Rights and Privacy Act (FERPA)

The Family Educational Rights and Privacy Act (FERPA) of 1974, commonly known as the “Buckley Amendment,” helps protect the privacy of student education records. Among other provisions, FERPA protects the privacy of educational records, including the student account at Wellesley College. Students interested in placing limitations on the release of information should contact Student Financial Services.

Comprehensive Fees

As a part of the registration process, all students will be required to acknowledge the cost of tuition and relevant fees prior to online registration for each term.

Fees and Expenses

The Comprehensive Fee for 2004–05 resident students is $38,998. All fees are subject to change without prior notice. The breakdown is as follows:

Student Activity Fee

The student activity fee is administered by the Student College Government. It provides resources from which student organizations can plan and implement extracurricular activities.

Facilities Fee

The Facilities Fee supports the infrastructure of the College’s facilities.

General Deposit

The General Deposit of $300, paid by each entering student, will be credited to the student’s account. The general deposit is nonrefundable.

Refund Policy

To be eligible for a refund the student must notify her Class Dean in writing that she is leaving Wellesley. The date the written notice is received by the Dean, or the date the College determines that she has gone on leave or withdrawn will be the effective date of leave or withdrawal.

Refunds are made for withdrawal or leave of absence prior to the ninth week of the semester. The comprehensive fee is prorated on a calendar week basis. No refund is made after the eighth week.

Refunds are prorated among the sources of original payment. Scholarships, grants, and educational loans are refunded to the grantor or lender.

Wellesley College maintains credit balances for returning students and applies the credit to future charges. A student may request a refund of a credit balance by submitting a written request to Student Financial Services.

A student who leaves Wellesley during her first semester at the College has her charges prorated based on the number of weeks in attendance until the tenth week. Students who complete ten weeks but do not complete the first full semester are not eligible for a refund.

An off-campus Davis Scholar or Post-baccalaureate student who drops a course during the add/drop period receives a full refund. Charges are prorated on a calendar basis thereafter until the eighth week.

All other students have charges refunded as follows:

Tuition Refund Plan
The Tuition Refund Plan, sponsored by A.W.G. Dewar, Inc., is designed to protect the family from the loss of funds paid for tuition, fees, room and board should the student find it necessary to withdraw due to medical reasons. The Plan complements the Wellesley College refund policy and covers not only payments made by the student or parent, but also any loans and grants received.

The cost of the Plan is based on the amount of tuition and fees or tuition, fees, room and board.

Resident Student Option $273
Off-Campus Option $209

You must enroll in the plan before the first day of classes for the semester. For more information see A.W.G. Dewar’s Web site: www.tuitionrefundplan.com.

Student Accident and Insurance Program
Students enrolled at least \( \frac{1}{4} \) time are required by Massachusetts State law to be enrolled in an insurance program. The policy, provided through Security Mutual Life Insurance Company of New York, is a comprehensive plan designed to meet the needs of Wellesley students. All students enrolled in courses at Wellesley College may see a physician, nurse practitioner, or nurse at the Health Services office without charge; however, charges are incurred for certain procedures, treatments, and laboratory tests. The Student Accident and Sickness Insurance Program covers most of these charges and all inpatient charges in the College infirmary. Insurance coverage is effective from August 23 to August 22 of the following year.

Information about the insurance program is mailed to students each year. Please refer to the insurance brochure for additional information.

All Davis Scholars are assessed insurance. A waiver must be completed to waive this charge.

The fee for 2004-05 is $1,165. Please visit the Student Financial Services Web site for additional information. There is no separate plan for the fall semester. The fee for insurance appears on the first bill of the fall semester.

If a student is covered by other comparable insurance and does not wish to participate in the College plan, she may waive the coverage. A waiver form can be completed online. All fields of the form must be completed and must be submitted by the end of the first week of classes to waive the College plan.

Financial responsibility for all medical and dental expenses rests with the student and her family. Wellesley College does not assume financial responsibility for injuries incurred in instructional, intercollegiate, intramural, or recreational programs. The College carries an NCAA policy to provide limited supplemental coverage for students injured while participating in intercollegiate athletics under the auspices of the Department of Physical Education, Recreation, and Athletics.

Please visit the Student Financial Services Web site for billing and waiver information.

Billing and Payment

Fall semester billing statements will be mailed in early July. Wellesley College must receive payment by August 1.

Spring semester billing statements will be mailed in early December. Wellesley College must receive payment by January 2. Charges incurred after the payment deadline, including those as a result of add/drop, music charges, parking and library fines, etc., are due immediately and subject to late payment fees.

Bills are mailed in the student’s name to the student’s home address when classes are not in session or to her on-campus address during the school year. Students should retain the statements for their records.

Students will receive a billing statement any month in which there are new or outstanding charges.

Payment Procedures

Full payment and/or acceptable documentation demonstrating that the balance will be fully paid must be received prior to the published deadline. Acceptable documentation includes enrollment in the Tuition Management Systems (TMS) monthly payment plan, a copy of an award letter for an outside scholarship, or a copy of a billing authorization or sponsorship letter. Loans based on the credit worthiness of the borrower may not be deducted without approval from the lender. A copy of an approval notice or signed promissory note will be accepted as documentation for this type of loan.

The student’s name and Wellesley College ID or social security number must be included on all payments and correspondence.
The student is responsible for monitoring her account balance and for keeping track of payment due dates even if someone else is handling the finances. It is the student’s responsibility to ensure that loans, grants, and other payments are sent to the College by the payment due dates. As the student will be the only recipient of monthly statements, she needs to communicate her account status to anyone paying her charges.

Inquiries regarding late payment fees may be resolved after the account has been settled. Late fee disputes can be reviewed only if a written petition has been received. The petition should include the student’s name and ID number, the term the late fee was charged, and the circumstances to be reviewed.

There are potential consequences if payment responsibilities are not met. Monthly late fees may be assessed on any balance remaining unpaid after the payment deadline. Wellesley College also reserves the right to withhold services if the student has not fulfilled her financial obligation. The student may be prevented from participating in the housing process, registering, accepting a place in an associated leave program (i.e., Junior Year Abroad program), receiving transcripts, or receiving her diploma. In addition, the College reserves the right to administratively withdraw a student if a balance continues to remain unpaid.

If any overdue obligation is referred to either the College Collection Department or to an outside agency or attorney for collection efforts and/or legal suit, the debt is increased to cover all reasonable costs of collection, including collection agency fees and court costs. By registering for any class in the College, each student accepts and agrees to be bound by the foregoing College policy as applied to any preexisting or future obligation to the College.

Outside Scholarships or Grants
If a student receives a scholarship or other outside award not previously considered in the determination of her financial aid award, federal regulations require her to notify Student Financial Services. These awards will not be reflected on a student’s account or billing statement until the College has received the funds. Please note, unless specifically stated in the sponsorship letter, all outside scholarships will be evenly applied to the fall and spring semesters.

For security reasons, we urge students not to carry large sums of cash.

Wellesley College does not accept credit card payments; however, you may charge your semester bill on VISA, MasterCard, or Discover by visiting the Tuition Management Systems Web site at www.afford.com or by phone at 800-722-4867. Please note that a teleprocessing fee is assessed.

Wire Transfer
Wire transfer of funds electronically from a U.S. or international bank to Wellesley College’s bank involve bank fees which are deducted from the funds wired to Wellesley College. The net amount applied to the student account will be the amount of the wire transfer less the bank fees. Please remember to reference the student’s name and Wellesley College identification number. Please refer to our Web site for specific information on wire transfers.

Monthly Payment Plan
If you plan to use your savings and/or current income to cover all or part of your educational expenses, the Interest-Free Monthly Payment option offered through Tuition Management Systems (TMS) helps by providing more manageable cash flow and greater budgeting flexibility. Instead of lump-sum payments, the TMS plan allows you to pay all or part of your educational expenses in manageable monthly installments. You may use the TMS plan to pay your balance after financial aid or in combination with other loans. By enrolling in the TMS Monthly Payment Plan, your student account will receive a credit each semester representing ½ of the full amount of your contract. We will credit your student account in advance of your making all of your payments to TMS. Although Student Financial Services can provide assistance, you are responsible for determining the contract amount. TMS is not responsible for this decision and will make changes only upon your request.

The toll free number is 800-722-4867 (if calling from outside of the United States, please use 410-849-1550) or you may visit their Web site at www.afford.com.

Tuition Stabilization Plan
This program provides a written contract guaranteeing that the cost of tuition will remain the same for each of four consecutive years at Wellesley College, provided the student pays by June 30 an amount equal to four times the first year’s tuition cost. Provisions are made for leaves of absence (up to two semesters), refunds, and withdrawals. This program only stabilizes the cost of tuition at Wellesley College; all other charges such as room and board will be billed at the rate for the applicable year, as will tuition for any exchange program or other college at which the student enrolls.

Please contact Student Financial Services for enrollment information.

High School Student Fees and Refunds
High school students taking courses at Wellesley pay $3,647 per semester course; for refunds, charges are prorated on a calendar week basis until the eighth week. High school students also pay the General Deposit, but are not eligible for Student Insurance.

Financing Options
To finance your Wellesley education, several options are available whether or not a student has been awarded financial aid, other scholarships, or loans. Detailed information can be obtained from the Office of Student Financial Services or by visiting www.wellesley.edu/SFS/EducationalFinancing.html.

Federal Parent Loan for Undergraduate Students (PLUS)
Under this federally guaranteed loan program, parents may borrow the cost of education, less financial aid and other education grants or loans, from participating banks and other lenders. The applicant and student must be U.S. citizens or U.S. permanent residents.
Monthly repayment begins immediately after the loan is disbursed; however, repayment of the loan principal and, under certain circumstances, interest, may be deferred while the borrower is a full-time student or experiencing economic hardship.

MEFA
This joint loan program of the Massachusetts Educational Financing Authority and Wellesley College provides fixed or variable low interest rate loans and convenient repayment terms. The full cost of education or tuition stabilization may be borrowed and a home equity option is available in most states.

Federal Unsubsidized Stafford Loan
Under this federally guaranteed loan program, a student with attendance costs not met by financial aid who is not eligible (based on federal rules for determining financial need) to borrow up to federal maximums under the Federal Subsidized Stafford Loan Program, may borrow the difference between her subsidized Stafford Loan (if any) and the Unsubsidized Stafford program limits.

An independent student or a dependent student whose parent does not qualify for a Federal PLUS Loan may also borrow up to additional federal maximums if she has costs of attendance not met by financial aid and she has already borrowed her basic Federal Stafford Loan maximum.

Interest starts to accrue immediately, but repayment may be deferred while the student is enrolled at least half-time or is experiencing economic hardship.

First-time Federal Stafford borrowers must complete an entrance interview and sign a promissory note before funds may be disbursed to her student account.

Alternative Educational Loans
Please visit www.wellesley.edu/SFS/EducationalFinancing.html to view borrower benefits, preferred lenders and loan application links or contact the Educational Financing Office for assistance.

Financial Aid
The Wellesley College financial aid program opens educational opportunities to able students of diverse backgrounds, regardless of their financial resources. No entering first-year student should be discouraged from applying to Wellesley because of the need for financial aid. Over 50 percent of all Wellesley students receive financial aid, based on need, from the College.

At Wellesley College financial aid is based on demonstrated need as defined through the College’s financial aid policies. Amounts vary in size according to the resources of the individual and her family and may equal or exceed the comprehensive College fee. Although aid is granted for one year at a time, the College expects to continue aid as needed throughout the student's four years, provided funds are available and the student continues to have need as defined by Wellesley’s policies.

Determining the amount of aid begins with the examination of family financial resources. Using both federal and institutional methodologies, the Financial Aid staff establishes the amount the parents can reasonably be expected to contribute. The staff also looks at the amount that the student can contribute from her earnings, assets, and benefits. Each year, the Financial Aid Committee determines a standard amount expected from the student’s summer and vacation earnings. For 2004-2005 the summer/vacation amounts are: $1,250 for first year students, $1,900 for sophomores, $1,950 for juniors and seniors. The total of the parents’ and the student’s contributions is then subtracted from the student's cost of attendance. For the typical dependent student residing on campus, the cost of attendance is composed of the College fees, a standard amount for books and personal expenses, and a standard amount for travel based on the student's home state. The remainder equals the financial need of the student and is offered in aid. The financial aid is packaged in a combination of three types of aid: work, loan, and grant. The Financial Aid Committee sets yearly amounts of academic year work and loan.

Work
Generally, a portion of a student’s financial aid is met through a job on or off campus, usually as part of the Federal Work Study Program. Students are expected to work up to ten hours a week. For 2004–2005, first-year students are expected to earn $2,000; sophomores, $2,000; juniors and seniors, $2,200. The Student Employment Office maintains listings of on- and off-campus part-time job opportunities.

Financial aid students receive priority for on-campus jobs. Students can work in academic and administrative offices, museums, libraries, and in a variety of off-campus nonprofit and community service agencies. Some off-campus jobs are restricted to students with federal Work-Study.

Loans
The next portion of a student’s financial aid is met through low-interest educational loans. The 2004–2005 amounts are $4,265 for first-year students, $5,000 for sophomores, $5,000 for juniors, and $6,000 for seniors. There are several kinds of loans available with different interest rates and terms of repayment. The suggested loan amount and loan program are specified in the aid offer. Higher loan amounts are packaged in special circumstances, such as late filing of aid applications.

First-time borrowers must complete an entrance interview and sign a promissory note before funds may be disbursed to her student account.

Repayment of Loans from the College
A student who has received a loan is obligated to repay the loan after withdrawal, graduation, or leave of absence. Before she leaves the College she should make arrangements for an exit interview in the Office of Student Financial Services. At that time she will be notified of her rights and responsibilities regarding the loan and will be given a repayment schedule.

Students with Students’ Aid loans have entrance and exit interviews with the Students’ Aid Society.
In order to be eligible for financial aid from the College, transfer students or Davis Scholars who have been enrolled elsewhere cannot be in default on prior educational loans. The College will not offer any federal, state, or institutional aid to students in default on prior educational loans.

Grants
The remaining portion of the student need is awarded in grants by the College from its own resources, from the federal government through the Federal Supplemental Educational Opportunity Grant and Pell Grant Programs, or from outside agencies.

Students who are eligible for other grants are required to apply for state and federal grants. If the student does not apply or fails to apply on time, the College will not replace the amount she would have received. In addition, whenever possible, students should seek grants from local programs, from educational foundations, and from other private sources. Students who qualify for nongovernmental outside scholarships usually benefit from loan and work reductions.

Applying for Financial Aid
Applicants for admission who intend to apply for financial aid must file five forms: the Wellesley College Application for Financial Aid, the Financial Aid Profile of the College Scholarship Service (CSS) Profile, the Free Application for Federal Student Assistance (FAFSA), plus signed copies of all pages and schedules of both the parents’ and the student’s most recent federal income tax returns. Applicants may also be asked to have the IRS send a tax transcript directly to Student Financial Services. Additional documents are required if parents are separated/divorced or self-employed.

The College considers information from both parents regardless of their marital status. Students are expected to furnish information from parents in their initial year and all remaining years. Students in the Davis Degree Program who satisfy federal guidelines for self-supporting students and are not, in reality, dependent upon their parents for support are exempt from this requirement. Davis Scholars who are supported by their parents file the aid application with parental information.

Application Form
The Wellesley College Application for Financial Aid should be returned to the Director of Student Financial Services, Wellesley College, 106 Central Street, Wellesley, MA 02481-8203, by November 1 for Early Decision applicants, January 15 for Regular Decision applicants and fall semester Transfer applicants, and November 15 for spring semester Transfer applicants.

Academic Requirements for Financial Aid
Evaluations of all students’ academic records are made at the end of each semester by the Academic Review Board. Eligibility for financial aid is reviewed on a semester basis. Students must keep a satisfactory record toward the degree and maintain a C average. No credit is associated with course incompletion, course withdrawal, noncredit remedial courses or course repetition; therefore, these courses are not considered in progress toward the degree.

Ordinarily, a full-time undergraduate student completes the requirements for the B.A. degree in eight semesters. A student may submit an appeal to the Academic Review Board for additional time. The Academic Review Board will consider special circumstances and may grant up to ten semesters for a full-time student or up to 14 semesters for a part-time student. A student may request financial aid for semesters beyond the usual eight if the Academic Review Board has approved the extension.

Town Tuition Grants
Wellesley College funds ten Town Tuition Grants to residents of the town of Wellesley who qualify for admission and who meet the town’s residency requirements. Application is made to the Board of Selectman. Recipients may live at home or on campus. Those who choose to live on campus may apply to the College for additional financial aid, and their applications will be reviewed in relation to the same financial aid policies applicable to all Wellesley students.

ROTC Scholarships
ROTC admission criteria conflict with the nondiscrimination policy of Wellesley College (see inside back cover). Students, however, may enroll in ROTC programs offered at MIT through the College’s cross-registration program. Wellesley students may apply for scholarship aid from the Air Force and Army. Interested students should contact the appropriate service office at Massachusetts Institute of Technology, Cambridge, MA 02139, or call: Air Force, (617) 253-4475; Army, (617) 253-4471.

Financial Aid for International Students
A limited amount of financial aid is available for international students. If an international student enters without aid, she will not be eligible for it in future years.

Financial Aid for Davis Scholars
Students in the Elisabeth Kaiser Davis Degree Program receive work and loans as the first components of the aid package, with a grant meeting the remaining need. The cost of education will vary for Davis Scholars living off campus in accordance with the number of courses for which they are enrolled during first and second semesters and during Winter session. In order to be eligible for aid during a semester, students must take at least two units. Financial aid is not available to meet the full costs of living off campus, but staff will work with students to see if financing plans are applicable.

Wellesley Students’ Aid Society
The Wellesley Students’ Aid Society, Inc. is an organization of Wellesley College alumnae. In addition to providing funds for grants and long-term tuition loans, the organization also serves as a resource for short-term emergency loans and other student services.

Assistance for Families Not Eligible for Aid
Wellesley has special concern for middle- and upper-income families who find it difficult to finance their daughter’s education through current income. The Office of Student Financial Services is available to assist all families, regardless of the need for aid.

If those families do not qualify for aid, the College will assist in several ways. Jobs on campus may be available to non-aided students. Student Financial Services will furnish information and advice on obtaining student and parent loans. Three payment programs are offered by the College: a Semester Plan, a Monthly Plan, and a Prepaid Tuition Stabilization Plan. Please visit the Student Financial Services Web site: www.wellesley.edu/SFS/.

20 Financial Aid
Graduate Fellowships

Wellesley College offers a number of fellowships for graduate study, independent research, and work that are open to graduating seniors and graduates of Wellesley. Two of these fellowships are open to women graduates of any American institution. Awards are usually made to applicants who plan full-time graduate study for the coming year. Please note that these fellowships are for study at institutions other than Wellesley College. Preference in all cases, except for the Peggy Howard Fellowship, will be given to applicants who have not held one of these awards previously. Decisions are based on merit and need, with the exception of the Knafel and Trustee awards, which are determined on merit alone. For more information about graduate fellowships and graduate school, visit our Web site: www.wellesley.edu/CWS/.

For Wellesley College Graduating Seniors

Instructions for Applying

Applications for the Peggy Howard Fellowship may be obtained by contacting the Economics Department, Wellesley College, or online at www.wellesley.edu/Economics/after/peggyhoward.html. Applications and supporting materials are due by April 1.

Applicants for the Jacqueline Krieger Klein ’53 Fellowship may contact the Department of History, Wellesley College for deadline and application.

Applications for the Mary Elvira Stevens Fellowship may be obtained from the Center for Work and Service, Wellesley College. The applications and supporting materials should be returned to the same address and received no later than December 1, 2004.

Applications for the Knafel awards and all other fellowships may be obtained from the Secretary to the Committee on Graduate Fellowships, Center for Work and Service, Wellesley College, 106 Central Street, Wellesley, MA 02481, or they can be found online at www.wellesley.edu/CWS/.

Applications and supporting material for the Knafel awards must be received by February 4, 2005. Applications and supporting material for all other fellowships must be postmarked no later than January 4, 2005. If hand-delivered, the application must be received in the Center for Work and Service no later than January 4, 2005.

For Wellesley College Graduates: Opportunities in Asia

Elisabeth Luce Moore ’24 Wellesley-Yenching Program. The Wellesley-Yenching Program is a lasting example of Wellesley College’s long tradition of interest and involvement in China, dating from 1906. In 1999, Wellesley received a generous grant from the Henry Luce Foundation to honor Elisabeth Luce Moore ’24 who was born in China and has been a strong supporter of the College’s ties to Asia. Part of this grant was used to endow the Wellesley-Yenching Program and to strengthen these three opportunities to work in Asia:

Wellesley-Yenching Graduate Fellowship at Chung Chi College in Hong Kong. The fellow’s time may be divided between helping to organize and promote English language activities at Chung Chi College as a whole, and serving as a teaching or research assistant for an academic department.

Wellesley-Yenching Graduate Fellowship at Ginling College in Nanjing, China. The fellows teach English in the classroom for approximately 12 to 14 hours each week with office hours three to four times a week.

Wellesley-Yenching Graduate Fellowship at the National Palace Museum in Taipei, Taiwan. Approximately one-half of the fellow’s work will be with the NPM Secretariat where she will write, translate, and revise English documents for various departments. The other half of the fellow’s work will be with one of the Museum’s other departments.

Application information is available in the Center for Work and Service, 106 Central Street, Wellesley, MA 02481 or it can be found online at www.wellesley.edu/CWS/. The deadline is March 1, 2005.

The Academic Program

The process of learning begins with the mind and motivation of the student herself. The most tempting array of courses and the most carefully planned requirements alone will not guarantee the growth of an educated mind. The academic experience is designed for the student who seeks a broad acquaintance with the many and diverse fields of human inquiry as well as the opportunity to explore her personal intellectual interests in depth. It provides for the acquisition of knowledge and the skills appropriate to the liberal arts but above all it is responsive to the student who genuinely wishes to acquire the habit of learning. It seeks to stimulate the mind, refine the eye, and enlarge the capacity for free, independent, and discriminating choice.

Online Course Information

Students may access Wellesley College course information and class schedules through the Internet via the Campus-Wide Information System: www.wellesley.edu/.

The Curriculum

The curriculum at Wellesley is structured to provide strong guidance and to allow, at the same time, great personal choice. By the time a Wellesley student has earned the Bachelor of Arts degree, she should be acquainted with the main fields of human inquiry, capable of integrating knowledge from various fields, and prepared for continuous scholarly and personal growth. In her major field, the student is expected to demonstrate maturity of thought, acquaintance with recognized authorities in the field, and general competence in dealing with sources of research or analysis.

Requirements for Degree of Bachelor of Arts

Each student is responsible for meeting all degree requirements and for ensuring that the Registrar’s Office has received all credentials. Each candidate for the degree of Bachelor of Arts is required to complete 32 units of academic work with a C average or better. With some exceptions, described below, each semester course is assigned one unit of credit. Specific courses, designated by their departments and approved by the Committee on Curriculum and Instruction, are assigned 1.25 units of credit. To be eligible for 1.25 units of credit, a course must meet for 300 minutes or more per week and involve, in addition, substantial time spent on course-related work outside scheduled class meetings. Departments may also request permission from the Committee on Curriculum and Instruction to offer courses for 0.5 units of credit. A student may earn no more than 2 units toward the degree as the result of the accumulation of fractional units through 1.25 unit courses taken at Wellesley; the same 2-unit limit applies to the accumulation of fractional units through 0.5 unit courses. A unit of credit is equivalent to four semester-hours or six quarter-hours. The normal period of time in which to earn the degree is four years and the average course load is four units per semester. First-year students are encouraged to carry a maximum of four units each semester, but upperclass students may take five. A minimum of three units is required of all students in residence.

Courses are classified as Grade I, II, or III. Introductory courses are numbered 100–199 (Grade I); intermediate courses, 200–299 (Grade II); advanced courses, 300–399 (Grade III). Each student must include in her program at least four units of Grade III work, at least two of which shall be in the major. At least two units of Grade III work must be taken in a student's last two years. Directions for election of the major vary with the department or program. Please see departmental or program listings for specific major requirements.

Distribution Requirements
In order to provide students with as much flexibility as possible, Wellesley requires no specific courses except Writing 125. However, to ensure that students gain insight and awareness in areas outside their major fields, the College requires that they elect nine units drawn from eight substantive and skill-based categories as part of the 32 units required for graduation. (Courses numbered 250/350, Research or Individual Study, or 360/370, Honors Research, do not satisfy this requirement.) Students who enter as first-year students must take six of these nine units at Wellesley, two units in each of the three groups of distribution areas described below. Transfer students and Davis Scholars who enter with eight units prior to Wellesley must take at least three units at Wellesley, and students entering with 16 prior units may take the distribution requirements at Wellesley or use their prior units.

Courses assigned to two distribution areas may not be used to fulfill two distribution requirements. This limitation does not apply to overlay requirements (the writing requirement, the multicultural requirement, and the Quantitative Reasoning requirement, described on pp. 24–25).

Students must complete three units drawn from the following two distribution areas. At least one unit must come from each of these two areas:

Language and Literature
Courses in this group focus on: (1) the history, critical analysis, and/or creativity of literature, and (2) increasing mastery of the grammar, usage, and cultural context of languages studied beyond the elementary level. Courses in creative writing also fulfill this requirement.

Normally, only one course fulfilling the language requirement in a given department will be designated as satisfying the distribution requirement in Language and Literature. Courses in language instruction at the Grade One level may not be used to satisfy this distribution requirement.

Visual Arts, Music, Theatre, Film, and Video
Courses in this area focus on: (1) the history, critical analysis, and/or theory of the visual and performing arts, and (2) practice in the creation and performance of these arts.

Students must complete three units drawn from the following four distribution areas. One unit must come from the Social and Behavioral Analysis category; the two additional units must come from two of the three other categories:

Social and Behavioral Analysis
Courses fulfilling this requirement introduce students to different theoretical and methodological approaches to the study of human societies and behaviors. These courses examine how individuals interact with and are influenced by social groups and institutions, including those associated with politics, economics, religion, family, health, education, and the arts; how and why particular forms of social organization emerge within groups or societies; and the nature of social change and conflict.

Epistemology and Cognition
Courses in this area examine the nature, sources, and limits of human knowledge. Some of these courses consider the standards for justifying knowledge about human beings and the world in which they live, as well as philosophical debates, both contemporary and historical, about the nature of such standards. Other courses explore aspects of intelligence—among them language, memory, perception, and learning and the cognitive, computational, and neural processes that underlie them.

Religion, Ethics, and Moral Philosophy
Courses meeting this requirement engage students in disciplined reflection on human conduct, the nature of values, the traditions of thought that have informed these values, and the religious traditions of the world. These courses will help students understand moral and political theory, ethical issues, and the role of religion in human life and society.

Historical Studies
Courses in this area develop students' understanding of history in one, or both, of two ways: (1) by illuminating the distinctiveness of one or another part of the past, with the goal of bringing students to an appreciation of political, social, economic, or cultural configurations different from their own, and (2) by exploring the processes of historical change, through which one configuration of institutions, ideas, and behaviors is replaced by another.

Students must complete three units from the following two distribution areas. At least one unit must come from each of these two areas, and at least one unit must be a laboratory course:

Natural and Physical Science
This requirement is designed to give students a basic knowledge of the capabilities and limitations of the scientific method of inquiry. Courses in this area focus on understanding scientific concepts and emphasize the methods used to gather, interpret, and evaluate scientific data.
Mathematical Modeling and Problem Solving in the Natural Sciences, Mathematics, and Computer Science

Courses in this group help students develop skills needed: (1) to formulate, understand, and analyze mathematical models of natural phenomena, and/or (2) to formulate and solve complex problems requiring a logical progression through multiple mathematical or computational steps.

Foreign Language Requirement
Before the beginning of the senior year, students must exhibit a degree of proficiency in the use of one foreign language, either ancient or modern. Many students fulfill this requirement by passing one of the language tests offered by the College Board. Wellesley requires a score of 690 or better on the SAT II: Subject Test, or a score of at least 4 on the Advanced Placement Examination (AP) to fulfill the foreign language requirement. This requirement can also be met by the completion of two units of language study at the second-year college level or one unit of language study above the second-year college level.

Students may earn credit for introductory courses in no more than two modern foreign languages. Fulfillment of the foreign language requirement through work done at another institution must be approved by the appropriate department. A student whose native language is not English and who has studied that language and its literature through high school will be exempted from this requirement, subject to approval of the Class Dean and the Academic Review Board.

Writing Requirement
Each entering student is required to complete one semester of expository writing in her first year. Courses (numbered 125) are offered in the Writing Program. Transfer students and Davis Scholars who have not fulfilled a similar requirement must also complete one semester of expository writing, either a Writing 125 course or Writing 225. Students are expected to use acceptable standards of spoken and written English in their college work.

Multicultural Requirement
All students must complete one unit of course work that focuses on (1) African, Asian, Middle Eastern, Caribbean, Latin American, Native American, or Pacific Island peoples, cultures, or societies; and/or (2) a minority American culture, such as those defined by race, religion, ethnicity, sexual orientation, or physical ability; and/or (3) the processes of racism, social or ethnic bias, or cross-cultural interaction. Each student, in consultation with her first-year advisor, her major or minor advisor, or her Class Dean, will choose a course to meet this requirement. She will explain her choice in a written statement to be submitted to and signed by the advisor or dean with whom she has consulted.

The multicultural requirement may be satisfied with a course that also satisfies a distribution requirement. Writing 125 may not be used to satisfy the multicultural requirement.

Quantitative Reasoning Requirement
The ability to think clearly and critically about quantitative issues is imperative in contemporary society. Today, quantitative reasoning is required in virtually all academic fields, is used in almost every profession, and is necessary for decision-making in everyday life. The quantitative reasoning requirement is designed to ensure that all Wellesley College students are proficient in the use of mathematical, logical, and statistical problem-solving tools needed in today's increasingly quantitative world.

The quantitative reasoning requirement consists of two parts: (1) the basic skills component and (2) the overlay course component. The basic skills component is satisfied either by passing the Quantitative Reasoning Assessment given to all entering students or by passing QR 140, the basic skills course that builds mathematical skills in the context of real-world applications. Students are required to satisfy the basic skills component in their first year so that they may enroll in the many courses for which basic quantitative skills (including algebra, geometry, basic probability and statistics, graph theory, estimation, and combinatorics) are a prerequisite.

The overlay component is satisfied by passing a QR overlay course. Such courses emphasize statistical analysis and interpretation of data in a specific discipline. The Committee on Curriculum and Instruction has designated specific courses in fields from across the curriculum as ones that satisfy the QR overlay requirement. A QR overlay class may satisfy another distribution requirement as well. For more information about the Quantitative Reasoning Program, see Courses of Instruction.

The Major
Students may choose from among 30 departmental majors and 25 interdepartmental or structured individual majors or they may design an individual major. Of the 32 units required for graduation, at least eight are to be elected in the major. Many departments and programs require more than eight units, and Directions for Election of the major vary. (See departmental listings for specific requirements.) While a student must complete one major, she may choose to complete two majors or a major and a minor. No single course may be counted toward two majors or toward both a major and a minor.

Students who would like to elect an individual major should submit a plan of study to two faculty members from different departments. Normally, the plan should include eight units above the introductory level, four of which should be in one department. The program for the individual major is subject to the approval of the Committee on Curriculum and Instruction.

By the second semester of the sophomore year each student elects a major field and prepares for the Registrar a statement of the courses to be included in the major. Later revisions may be made with the approval of the chair of the major department, the director of the interdepartmental major, or in the case of the individual major, with the consent of the student’s advisors and the Committee on Curriculum and Instruction.
Other Requirements
In order to ensure a broad exposure to the liberal arts curriculum and to avoid premature specialization, of the 32 units required for graduation, students must elect 18 units outside any one department. Of the last four semesters completed for the degree, a normal course load must be taken at Wellesley in two consecutive semesters.

In addition, all students must complete the physical education requirement described in the Courses of Instruction (see Department of Physical Education, Recreation, and Athletics) for which no academic credit is given.

Additional Academic Programs

Research or Individual Study
Each academic department provides the opportunity for qualified students to undertake a program of individual study directed by a member of the faculty. Under this program, an eligible student may undertake a research project or a program of reading in a particular field. The results of this work normally are presented in a final report or in a series of short essays. Further conditions for such work are described (in departmental listings) under the courses 250, 250H, 350, and 350H. Students may do no more than two units of 350 work in any one department. Individual study courses may not be used to satisfy distribution requirements. For further opportunities for research and individual study see the Honors section under Academic Distinctions.

The Minor
Some departments and programs at Wellesley offer a minor. Normally, a minor consists of at least five units, with one of them at the Grade III level. Directions for Election of the minor are included in the departmental and program listings. Interested students should consult the chair of the department. A minor form must be filed in the Office of the Registrar. No student is required to complete a minor.

Preparation for Law School
The prelaw student should develop three basic competencies: skill in analysis and reasoning, effective writing and speaking, and breadth of understanding of the diverse factors that make up the community in which the legal system functions (see Legal Studies courses). These competencies can be developed in any field in which the student chooses to major, whether in the social sciences, the humanities, or the natural sciences. Law schools do not specify particular major fields or particular courses of study for admission. Law schools require applicants to submit transcripts from all institutions at which they have completed courses, including summer school and study abroad programs.

Preparation for Medical School
Medical, dental, and veterinary medical schools require special undergraduate preparation. Students should consult as early as possible with the Health Professions Advisory Committee to plan their academic preparation to meet their individual needs and interests. Appointments can be made with the Health Professions secretary in the Science Center.

In general, most health profession schools require two units of English and two units of each of the following science courses (with lab): Introductory Biology, Introductory Chemistry, Organic Chemistry, and Physics. Many schools also require mathematics, in some cases two units of calculus, and additional science courses. Veterinary schools frequently require courses such as speech, technical writing, animal nutrition, genetics, biochemistry, etc. Requirements vary and catalogs of individual schools should be consulted.

All science requirements should be completed before taking the Medical College Admission Test (MCAT) or the Dental Admission Test (DAT), which are taken approximately 16 months before entering medical or dental school. In order to receive the full support of the Health Professions Advisory Committee, undergraduate students should plan to complete at least six of the science and math course requirements at Wellesley and/or its exchange colleges.

Preparation for Engineering
Students interested in mathematics, physics, chemistry, or biology can apply these interests in a very practical way through engineering, an expanding field for women.

Engineering can be pursued at Wellesley through cross-registration with MIT. Wellesley students can prepare for graduate study in engineering by combining courses in engineering at MIT with their Wellesley science major. Students interested in an undergraduate engineering degree might try to qualify for the Double Degree Program (see Special Academic Programs).

Students interested in engineering should take mathematics and physics at Wellesley in their first year, in preparation for MIT courses. Information concerning fields, prerequisites, and contact persons at MIT is available through the Office of the Class Deans.

Academic Advising
At Wellesley, academic advising is provided by the Class Deans and the faculty. The Class Dean is a central source of information about degree requirements, academic legislation, and resources available at the College to help students achieve their academic goals. She advises students about course selections and sequences, and she is available throughout a student's years at Wellesley for consultation about matters of more general intellectual and personal concern.

Starting during Orientation, the faculty serve as mentors about the liberal arts experience, helping first-year students discuss their academic interests, goals, and experiences during their first year at Wellesley and introducing them to areas of the curriculum about which they may lack knowledge. In addition, each first-year student is asked to select a faculty advisor, based on her first semester course choices, to ensure that she has an opportunity to explore her individual interests and concerns about the degree.

The advising of juniors and seniors is also shared by the faculty and the Class Deans. This arrangement provides for systematic and equitable supervision of each student's progress toward the B.A. degree. In addition, it has the double benefit of specialized advice from faculty in the major field and detailed examination of the student's overall program.

The Pforzheimer Learning and Teaching Center
The Pforzheimer Learning and Teaching Center, located in the Margaret Clapp Library, plays a significant role in supporting the intellectual life of both students and faculty on the Wellesley campus. The mission of the Center is twofold: (1) to help students realize their academic potential and (2) to provide opportunities for faculty members to explore different methods of teaching. Peer tutors are at the heart of the Center's academic services for students.
Tutors support students as they build on their academic strengths, overcome difficulties, and develop effective strategies for reading, writing, and thinking. Faculty members participate in programs that enable them to share insights, refine teaching skills, and implement pedagogical innovations.

Academic Policies and Procedures

The academic policies and procedures of the College have been subject to continuous change and examination throughout the College's history, responding to changes in student lifestyles and innovations in the curriculum. The policies and procedures that govern most routine aspects of academic life are described below.

Academic Standards

Academic standards at Wellesley are high, and students take full responsibility for attending classes, submitting required work on time, and appearing for examinations. If students have difficulties with course work, become ill, or have other problems that interfere with their academic work, they should consult with their Class Deans for assistance in making special arrangements for their studies. Tutoring and programs in study skills are offered through the Pforzheimer Learning and Teaching Center.

Students are expected to maintain at least a C average throughout their college career. At the end of each semester the records of those students who are not in good academic standing are examined by the Academic Review Board. The Board will recommend sources of help and may impose conditions for continuing at the College. The College tries to provide the appropriate support services to students in difficulty. Students who show consistent effort are rarely asked to leave the College.

Academic Review Board

The Academic Review Board is the principal body for overseeing each student's academic progress and for granting exceptions to degree requirements and academic policies. The Board researches and recommends changes in academic policy and is also responsible for proposing an annual academic calendar. Dates of Academic Review Board meetings are posted on the Campus-Wide Information System. A student who wishes to submit a petition to the Academic Review Board should do so in consultation with her Class Dean. She should deliver her petition, in writing, at least one week before the petition is to be considered by the Board.

Credit for Advanced Placement Examinations

Students who have taken Advanced Placement Examinations and who make the scores specified by Wellesley College may receive up to eight units of credit toward the B.A. degree, provided they do not register in college for courses that cover substantially the same material as those for which they have received Advanced Placement credit. One unit of credit will be given for each AP examination to students who have received a grade of 4 or 5 with the following exceptions: one unit of credit will be given for a score of 3 and two units for a score of 4 or 5 on the Mathematics BC examination. For art history and studio art majors a score of 5 is required on the Art History examination for exemption from Art 100. No more than two units will be granted for credit in any one department. AP units may not be used to satisfy distribution requirements. Some departments or interdepartmental programs restrict the use of AP credits toward the major; consult the department or program or see Directions for Election under the departmental or program listings. Note: The taking of a course deemed equivalent to one for which AP credit has been granted will nullify the AP credit.

Wellesley College may grant credit for the International Baccalaureate (Higher Level) and other thirteenth-year programs outside the U.S. (e.g., A-levels). For more information, contact the Registrar's Office.

Summer School and Transfer Course Credit after Matriculation

Students who wish to take courses during the summer or while on a leave of absence must get their courses approved for credit toward the Wellesley degree. An approval form, available in the Registrar's Office, must be completed for each course taken outside the Twelve College Exchange Program or outside an approved foreign study program. On this form the Registrar's Office will evaluate the course for the amount of credit, and the department chair for course content. Certain academic departments will not approve outside credit from two-year colleges after a student has matriculated (see departmental Directions for Election). Students should have their courses evaluated and approved prior to enrolling, otherwise credit is not guaranteed. (A course must be equivalent to four semester-hours or six quarter-hours in order to earn one full unit of Wellesley credit.) Credit will be granted only for liberal arts courses taken at an accredited institution. Courses must be taken for a letter grade, and credit will be given only for an approved course in which a grade of C or better is earned. Students must request that an official transcript be sent to the Wellesley College Registrar's Office.

Transcripts should be received by October 1 for summer and previous year course work and by March 1 for fall semester work.

Approved courses may be used toward the distribution requirement within the limitations outlined on pp. 23–25. Students must earn the equivalent of three full Wellesley units (12 semester-hours or 18 quarter-hours) in each distribution group. First-year students must fulfill the writing requirement by completing Writing 125.

Limitations on the Amount of Outside Credit Used Toward the Degree

Of the 32 units required for the B.A. degree, a student may earn a maximum of 16 units through a combination of the following: AP examinations (no more than eight), courses taken at another institution during the summer (no more than four), courses at another institution not taken during the summer (no more than eight), college and university credit earned prior to graduation from secondary school and not included in the units of secondary school work presented for admission (no more than two). All students, including transfer students and Davis Scholars, must complete 16 units at Wellesley. There are limits on the number of outside credits that can be used to fulfill the distribution requirement. See pp. 23–25.

Exemption from Required Studies

Students may be exempted from any of the studies required for the degree, except Writing 125, provided they can demonstrate to the department concerned a reasonable competence in the elements of the course. Exemption from any of the studies required does not affect the general requirement for completion of 32 units of credit. It does, however, make it possible for some students to select more advanced courses earlier in their college careers.
Such exemption may be achieved in one of two ways: a score of 4 or 5 on the AP tests or passing a special examination. Permission for the exemption examination must be obtained from the chair of the department concerned. In addition to the evidence offered by the examination, some departments may require the student to present a paper or an acceptable laboratory notebook.

Grading System

Wellesley uses the following letter grade system:

- Grade A (4.00) is given to students who meet with conspicuous excellence every demand that can fairly be made by the course.
- Grade A− (3.67)
- Grade B+ (3.33)
- Grade B (3.00) is given to those students who add to the minimum of satisfactory attainment excellence in not all, but some, of the following: organization, accuracy, originality, understanding, and insight.
- Grade B− (2.67)
- Grade C+ (2.33)
- Grade C (2.00) is given to those students who have attained a satisfactory familiarity with the content of a course and who have demonstrated ability to use this knowledge in a satisfactory manner.
- Grade C− (1.67)
- Grade D (1.00) is a passing grade. There is no grade of D+ or D−.
- Grade F (0.00)

Students also have the option of electing courses on a credit/noncredit basis. By the end of the third week of a semester, students notify the Registrar whether they plan to take a course for a letter grade or on the credit/noncredit basis. Credit (CR) is given to students who have earned a grade of C or better in the work of the course, thereby indicating satisfactory familiarity with the content of the course. If credit is not earned, the course will appear on the permanent record with the notation (NCR), meaning no credit is earned.

Students may take an unlimited number of courses on a credit/noncredit basis. In order to remain eligible for Academic Distinction at Commencement, however, a student may not exceed certain limits in the number of credit/noncredit courses she takes. Students who begin their degrees as first-year students at Wellesley may take no more than one-quarter of their Wellesley and MIT courses after the first year on a credit/noncredit basis. For students who begin their degrees somewhere other than at Wellesley (that is, for transfer students and Davis Scholars), the number of credit/noncredit courses is prorated in proportion to the number of Wellesley courses taken after the equivalent of the first year of college. Students can consult their Class Deans for further clarification.

Incomplete Work

If work for a course is not completed by the end of a semester, a student may ask her instructor for an incomplete. The instructor may decide not to grant an incomplete but rather to assign a grade, taking into account that not all requirements for the course have been met. If the instructor does agree to give the student an incomplete, the student must submit any missing written work to the Registrar’s Office by a date determined by the instructor but no later than the first day of the succeeding semester. Make-up exams are arranged by the Registrar’s Office, generally during the first week of classes. Once all work has been completed and graded, a final grade preceded by “I” will be recorded on the transcript. If a student does not finish her incomplete work by the deadline, the instructor may either submit a grade or ask the Registrar’s Office to record a grade of permanent “INC.”

Excused Incomplete Work

If illness or personal emergency prevents a student from completing her course work by the end of the semester, she may petition the Academic Review Board through her Class Dean to have an incomplete excused. If her petition is granted, the incomplete notation will be removed from her record once the work is completed and a final grade is submitted.

Examinations

An examination period occurs at the end of each semester. Within this period, students may devise their own examination schedules for the majority of courses. Examinations are scheduled for some art, music, science, and foreign language courses that require audiovisual equipment. Make-up and special examinations are offered at the beginning of each semester for admission to advanced courses without the stated prerequisites and for exemption from required studies.

Transcripts and Grade Reports

Official transcripts may be ordered in writing from the Registrar’s Office. The request for a transcript should include the name and address of the person to whom the transcript is to be sent, the name by which the person was known as a student at Wellesley, and the years of attendance at the College. There is a charge of $3 for each transcript, and this fee should accompany the request. Transcripts may not be issued if the student has an outstanding bill. Current students may view their grades online at the end of each semester.

Registration for Courses

All returning students must register in April for the courses they select for the fall semester and in November for the spring semester. Upon returning to college at the start of each semester, the student will be issued a schedule of her classes. All changes to this schedule must be recorded in the Registrar’s Office by the end of the second week of classes. A student will not receive credit for a course unless she has registered for it, and a student who has registered for a course will remain registered unless she takes formal action to drop it. Each student is responsible for maintaining the accuracy of her registration by informing the Registrar’s Office, in writing, of any changes made to it.

Any conflicts in scheduling must be reported to the Registrar’s Office immediately. A student is not permitted to take a course if it conflicts with any other course on her schedule.

Adding or Dropping Courses

Add/Drop forms are available from the Registrar’s Office during the first two weeks of classes. A student may submit only one Add/Drop form, indicating on it any changes in her schedule. New courses must be added by the end of the second week of classes. A course may be dropped at any time through the last day of classes. If a course is dropped before the beginning of the fifth week of classes, it will not appear on a student’s record. Students are advised to consult their Class Dean when making any changes in their program.

Auditing Courses

A student who wishes to attend a class as a regular visitor must have the permission of the instructor. Auditors may not submit work to the instructor for criticism, and audited courses will not be considered for credit. An audited course does not appear on the transcript.
Acceleration

Some students complete all the requirements for the degree in less than the usual eight semesters. After one semester at Wellesley, students who wish to accelerate should consult their Class Deans and then write a letter to the Academic Review Board, petitioning to fulfill the requirements in less than the normal period of time.

The petition should include the month and year in which the degree requirements will be fulfilled, and all units that will be counted toward the degree.

An accelerating student must maintain at least a C average at all times.

Voluntary Departures from the College (Leave of Absence and Withdrawal)

Recognizing that students may benefit from interrupting the ordinary sequence of four continuous years at Wellesley, the College allows students to take leaves of absence for a variety of reasons that may include study at another institution, work, travel, health or family problems, or other personal needs. Application for a leave of absence may be made to the Class Dean after a student has completed at least one semester at Wellesley. The leave may be for as short a period as one semester or as long as four semesters. A student who goes on a leave of absence cannot remain in residence on campus more than 48 hours after the effective date of the leave. If a student's leave exceeds four semesters, she will be withdrawn from the College but will be welcome to apply for readmission if she so chooses.

Application for a voluntary leave of absence is due by December 1 for spring semester and by April 15 for fall semester. To obtain permission to attend another institution with the intention of transferring credit back to her Wellesley degree, a student must also submit a detailed plan to her major advisor and her Class Dean. A student on leave may transfer to her Wellesley degree up to eight units of credit taken during an academic year at another institution.

A student who plans to return to the College should take a leave of absence; a student who wishes to leave the College permanently should notify her Class Dean that she is withdrawing. A student who withdraws cannot remain in residence on campus more than 48 hours after the effective date of the withdrawal. If, after withdrawing, a student decides she does after all wish to rematriculate at Wellesley, she must apply for readmission.

Required Departures from the College

(Conditional Leaves of Absence, Withdrawal, Suspension, and Expulsion)

The College reserves the right to require a student to leave. She may be suspended if she violates College rules and regulations or the rights of others, or she may be required to take a leave of absence for various reasons: if her continuing presence constitutes a risk to her health, safety or general well-being or to those of the College community; if she is not making adequate progress toward the degree; or if she fails to meet financial obligations to the College. If a student is suspended or required to go on leave, she will not be allowed to return to the College until she has met conditions set by the appropriate College official or board. These conditions will be related to the cause of the suspension or leave. A student on a medical conditional leave, for example, would be required to provide documentation of appropriate medical treatment; a student on an academic conditional leave would be required to meet conditions set by the Academic Review Board; a student on a financial conditional leave would be required to clear her balance.

Depending on the kind of leave, there may be a deadline by which the student must be cleared in order to return for the following semester. If the student does not meet the conditions of her leave within four semesters, she will be withdrawn from the College. If she later decides to apply for readmission, she must fulfill the conditions of the original leave.

The College also reserves the right to withdraw or expel a student who has egregiously or repeatedly failed to maintain academic or behavioral standards. A student who has been withdrawn may apply for readmission at some later date, whereas a student who has been expelled will not be considered for readmission.

Readmission

A student who has withdrawn from the College and wishes to return should contact the Office of the Dean of Students for the appropriate forms. Readmission will be considered in light of the reasons for withdrawal. A nonrefundable fee of $30 must accompany the application for readmission.

Special Academic Programs

The traditional four-year curriculum offered at Wellesley is enriched by many special academic programs. Some are administered by the College and some are programs run by other institutions in which Wellesley students may participate. Students may participate in some while in residence at the College; others involve living at other colleges or abroad for a semester or a year.

Wintersession

Wintersession is a time in January when students may choose to remain on campus to pursue internships or independent study, noncredit courses, or courses offered for academic credit. Wellesley offers a number of Wintersession courses for credit, including introductory and intermediate language courses, interdisciplinary courses not offered during the fall and spring terms, and immersion experiences involving travel abroad. Several credit-bearing courses are also available at MIT during Wintersession. Students taking Wintersession courses are subject to academic regulations as if they were taking the course during a regular semester.

Wellesley College Summer School

This program is open to all college students in good academic standing, college graduates, and high school juniors and seniors. It offers a range of courses drawn from the Wellesley College curriculum and taught by Wellesley faculty. College students and college graduates may opt to live in the Summer School residence hall or off campus. High school students may not live in the residence hall. Tuition and other fees for summer school are not included in the regular-year tuition. Wellesley students may apply for limited financial aid from the Summer School Office; no financial aid is available to non-Wellesley students.

Wellesley Summer School courses carry full academic course credit; they count as regular units for Wellesley students and are included on the student's transcript and in the calculation of her grade point average; they do not count toward the limit of four Summer School units that Wellesley students can apply to their degrees. For more information, please contact the Summer School Office or consult your Class Dean.
Cross-Registration Program with the Massachusetts Institute of Technology

Wellesley operates a program of cross-registration with Massachusetts Institute of Technology. A Wellesley student interested in electing specific courses at MIT should consult her department advisor. Registration in MIT courses takes place each semester in both the Wellesley Registrar's Office and in the Exchange Office at MIT. Students electing to take courses at MIT must register at both institutions during an extended add/drop period of one week each semester. A student will not receive credit for an MIT course unless she has registered properly for it at both MIT and Wellesley. First-year students in their first semester may not take courses at MIT. The amount of Wellesley credit is determined by the total number of hours listed for a course in the MIT catalog as follows:

Wellesley Double Degree Program

Wellesley offers a Double Degree Program that enables Wellesley students who are accepted to MIT as transfer students to earn a B.A. degree from Wellesley and an S.B. degree from MIT over the course of five years. Students fulfill degree and major requirements at both institutions. Interested Wellesley students apply for transfer admission to MIT during the spring semester of their sophomore year. Students should only consider MIT departments that are not represented at Wellesley and should also be aware that access to a given department could at times be limited for transfer students. Wellesley applicants are subject to the same admissions criteria and financial aid policies used by MIT for all other college transfer applicants.

Accepted students do not enroll at MIT until they have completed their junior year at Wellesley. During this "bridge year" students are assigned major advisors at both institutions so that they can plan a program which will advance their work toward both degrees. During the fourth and fifth years students enroll at MIT. Our existing Wellesley/MIT Exchange permits cross-registration throughout the five-year period; this enables students to integrate their two courses of study more completely.

Wellesley/Brandeis BA/MAief 5-year Program

(or BA/MAief 5-year Program)

Brandeis University's Master of Arts in International Economics and Finance (MAief) is a two-year graduate program in its International Business School. This program prepares students for careers in international finance, business, policymaking and other fields that require strong analytical skills in international economics and finance. Qualified Wellesley undergraduate economics majors who wish to earn the MAief may apply in their junior year to pursue a special track, the BA/MAief, beginning in the senior undergraduate year. The BA/MAief program allows a student to complete a Wellesley BA and then the MAief with only one year of post-BA study. Additional information on the BA/MAief program can be obtained from the Department of Economics.

Cooperative Programs with Babson College, Brandeis University, and Olin College of Engineering

Wellesley has established cooperative programs with Babson College, Brandeis University, and Olin College of Engineering. All courses must be approved individually for transfer credit and for the major by the relevant Wellesley department.

The Twelve College Exchange Program

Wellesley belongs to a consortium that includes Amherst, Bowdoin, Connecticut College, Dartmouth, Mount Holyoke, Smith, Trinity, Vassar, Wesleyan, Wheaton, and Williams. Two one-semester programs associated with the Twelve College Exchange are the National Theater Institute in Waterford, Connecticut, and the Williams Mystic Seaport Program in American Maritime Studies. Students in good standing may apply for a semester or full academic year in residence at any of the member institutions with the following exception. Williams has announced that it will not be accepting exchange students until further notice. The number of places on all campuses is limited and admission is competitive. Preference is given to students planning to participate in their junior year.

Students must request that transcripts be sent to the Registrar's Office to receive credit for work done away from Wellesley.

The Wellesley-Spelman Exchange Program

Wellesley maintains a student exchange program with Spelman College in Atlanta, Georgia, a black liberal arts college for women. The program is open to students in their junior or senior year.

The Wellesley-Mills Exchange Program

Wellesley maintains an exchange program with Mills College, a women's college in Oakland, California, which has a cross-registration program with the University of California at Berkeley.

Semester in Environmental Science at Woods Hole

Qualified Wellesley students may apply for the Semester in Environmental Science Program held each fall at the Marine Biological Laboratory in Woods Hole, Massachusetts. This 14-week program emphasizes the measurement and understanding of biogeochemical cycles and processes in terrestrial, freshwater, and marine ecosystems. Intended primarily for juniors, participation is limited to approximately two students per year. Interested students should contact the Department of Biological Sciences for additional information.

International Study

Students may apply for admission for their junior year to programs and universities outside the United States. By studying at respected universities in other countries, students gain new insights into the cultural wealth of other nations and a new perspective on their studies. Limited scholarship money is available to students eligible for financial aid. However, beginning with the class of 2008, financial aid will be available to students studying on any approved program, and students will pay Wellesley College tuition and fees for all international study programs. The selection of recipients for awards is made in the second semester of the sophomore year on the basis of academic qualifications and faculty recommendations. The amount of each individual award is determined according to need. Information about these awards may be obtained from the International Studies Office.
The International Studies Office helps students plan for study abroad and the transfer of credit from abroad. Students may apply to one of over a hundred approved or College-sponsored programs. Wellesley administers programs in France and Austria. The College is a member of consortia that offer programs in Italy, Japan, Mexico, and Spain. Wellesley also participates in exchange programs with universities in Argentina, Japan, Korea, and the United Kingdom.

Students interested in spending the junior year abroad should consult their Class Dean and the Director of International Study to ensure completion of Wellesley eligibility requirements, and declare their majors, in the fall of their sophomore year. No more than eight units of credit may be earned at another institution during a one-year leave of absence.

Students must request that transcripts be sent to the Registrar’s Office in order to receive credit for study done abroad.

Summer International Study
Students planning international summer study should consult the International Study Office. While Wellesley supports summer study, there are only a limited number of programs from which transfer credit will be accepted.

Washington Summer Internship Program
The College sponsors a summer public service internship program in Washington, D.C. The internships are for ten weeks and come with paid housing in local university dormitories and with stipends to help cover other living costs. Selection of participants is made each fall and is based on academic background, faculty recommendations, work experience, extracurricular activities, a writing sample, and an interview.

The Washington program offers an opportunity for 16–18 juniors to work in government agencies, political organizations, public interest groups, and research and cultural centers. Recent placements have included the White House Communications Office, the State Department, the Senate Judiciary Committee, the Sierra Club, the National Women’s Health Network, and the National Gallery of Art. In addition to their full-time jobs, interns plan and participate in a weekly seminar program designed to broaden their understanding of government, politics, and public policy. Each intern is also assigned a mentor from the Washington Alumnae Club. For further information, contact the Department of Political Science.

Academic Distinctions
To give recognition for superior or advanced work, either upon graduation or during the student’s career, the College confers a number of academic distinctions.

Honors
Students who have shown marked excellence and an unusual degree of independence in their work may participate in the Honors Program, based on their record in the major field. Current legislation requires a 3.5 average in all work above Grade I in the major field. Students with exceptional qualifications whose averages fall between 3.5 and 3.0 also may be recommended by their departments or interdepartmental programs. Normally students apply to their departments or programs in the spring of their junior year. Under this program, an eligible student may undertake independent research or special study that will be supervised by a member of the faculty. In several departments, options for general examinations, special honors seminars, and opportunities to assist faculty in teaching introductory and intermediate level courses are available to honors candidates. The successful completion of the work and of an oral honors examination leads to the award of honors in the major field.

Other Academic Distinctions
The College names to First-Year Distinction those students who maintain high academic standing during the first year. Wellesley College Scholars and Durant Scholars are named at Commencement, based on academic records after the first year. Students with an average of 3.60 or higher will be Wellesley College Scholars cum laude; those with an average of 3.75 or higher will be Durant Scholars magna cum laude; students with a 3.90 or higher average will be Durant Scholars summa cum laude.

For purposes of establishing honors, grade point averages are truncated to two decimal places. Students whose records contain more than three incompletes within the last 24 units or who have taken more than a stipulated number of credit/non-credit courses (see Grading System) shall not be eligible for these honors.

Juniors and seniors are elected to membership in the Eta of Massachusetts chapter of Phi Beta Kappa on the basis of their total academic achievement in college. Seniors who are majoring in the sciences may be elected to associate membership in the Wellesley chapter of Sigma Xi.

On recommendation of the faculty, the trustees award the title of Trustee Scholar to four seniors who intend to pursue graduate studies. The awards are made on a competitive basis; the title is honorary. In cases of financial need, stipends are awarded to the Scholars or, if not required by them, to alternates who need financial assistance. Applications and supporting credentials should be sent to the Secretary to the Committee on Graduate Fellowships by December 1.

Certain prizes have been established at the College for the recognition of excellence in a particular field. The selection of the recipient is made by the appropriate academic department; each award carries a small stipend or gift and usually bears the name of the donor or the person honored.
Courses of Instruction

A semester course that carries one unit of credit requires approximately eleven hours of work each week spent partly in class and partly in preparation. The amount of time scheduled for classes varies with the subject from two periods each week in many courses in the humanities and social sciences to three, four, or five scheduled periods in certain courses in foreign languages, in art and music, and in the sciences. A semester course which carries 1.25 units of credit ordinarily includes at least 300 minutes per week of scheduled class time as well as significant work outside of class. Classes are scheduled from Monday morning through late Friday afternoon.

AFR 105 Introduction to the Black Experience

Martin

This course serves as the introductory offering in Africana Studies. It explores in an interdisciplinary fashion salient aspects of the Black experience, both ancient and modern, at home and abroad.

Prerequisite: None
Distribution: Historical Studies
Semester: Spring
Unit: 1.0

AFR 201 African American Literary Tradition

Carjoe

NOT OFFERED IN 2004-05. A survey of the Afro-American experience as depicted in literature from the eighteenth century through the present. Study of various forms of literary expression including the short story, autobiography, literary criticism, poetry, drama, and essays as they have been used as vehicles of expression for Black writers during and since the slave experience.

Prerequisite: None
Distribution: Language and Literature
Semester: N/O
Unit: 1.0

AFR 202/PHIL 202 Introduction to African Philosophy

Menkiti (Philosophy)

Initiation into basic African philosophical concepts and principles. The first part of the course deals with a systematic interpretation of such questions as the Bantu African philosophical concept of Muntu and related beliefs, as well as Bantu ontology, metaphysics, and ethics. The second part centers on the relationship between philosophy and ideologies and their implications in Black social, political, religious, and economic institutions. The approach will be comparative. Students may register for either AFR 202 or PHIL 202. Credit will be given in the department in which the student is registered.

Prerequisite: Open to seniors, juniors, and sophomores without prerequisite and to first-year students who have taken one other course in philosophy.
Distribution: Religion, Ethics, and Moral Philosophy
Semester: Spring
Unit: 1.0

AFR 203/SOC 203 Introduction to African American Sociology

Rollins

An introduction to the African American intellectual traditions within the discipline of sociology. Beginning with an examination of the contributions of the founders of these traditions (DuBois, Johnson, Frazier, Cox et al.), the course then focuses on some of the main contemporary discussions: the Black family, Afrocentric sociology, the class versus race debate, and feminist sociology. Throughout the semester, African American sociology will be discussed within the contexts of traditional Eurocentric sociology and the particular political-economic structure in which it exists. Students may register for either AFR 203 or SOC 203. Credit will be given in the department in which the student is registered.

Prerequisite: None
Distribution: Social and Behavioral Analysis
Semester: Fall
Unit: 1.0

AFR 207 Images of African People through the Cinema

Obeng

An investigation of the social, political, and cultural aspects of development of African people through the viewing and analysis of films from Africa, Africa, and the Caribbean. The class covers precolonial, colonial, and postcolonial experiences and responses of African people. Films shown will include Sugar Cane Alley, Zan Boko, and Sankofa.

Prerequisite: None
Distribution: Arts, Music, Theatre, Film, Video
Semester: Fall
Unit: 1.0

AFR 208/SOC 206 Women in the Civil Rights Movement

Rollins

An examination of the role of women in the classical Civil Rights movement. Particular attention will be paid to the interplay between the social factors of the women (e.g., their class, religiosity, race, regional background, age) and their perspectives/behavior within the movement. Essentially, women's impact on the Civil Rights movement and the effects of the movement on the women involved are the foci of this course. Students may register for either AFR 208 or SOC 206. Credit will be given in the department in which the student is registered.

Prerequisite: None
Distribution: Historical Studies or Social and Behavioral Analysis
Semester: Fall
Unit: 1.0

AFR 209/ARTH 209 West African Architecture

Hyacinthe (Art)

West Africa has given birth to many key architectural forms, from the round house to the mosque to the slave castle. This examines the history, meaning and use of these and other classic examples of West African architecture. Students may register for either AFR 209 or ARTH 209. Credit will be given in the department in which the student is registered.

Prerequisite: None, ARTH 100 and 101 and AFR 105 recommended.
Distribution: Arts, Music, Theatre, Film, Video
Semester: Spring
Unit: 1.0

AFR 211 Introduction to African Literature

NOT OFFERED IN 2004-05. The development of African literature in English and in translation. Special attention will be paid to the novels of Chinua Achebe. Writers such as Ngugi Wa Thiongo, Camara Laye, Wole Soyinka, Mariama Ba, Nawal El Saadawi, and Buchi Emecheta will also be considered. The influence of oral tradition on these writers' styles as well as the thematic links between them and writers of the Black awakening in America and the West Indies will be discussed as time allows.

Prerequisite: None
Distribution: Language and Literature
Semester: N/O
Unit: 1.0

AFR 212 Black Women Writers

Carjoe

The Black woman writer's efforts to shape images of herself as Black, as woman, and as artist. The problem of literary authority for the Black woman writer, criteria for a Black woman's literary tradition, and the relation of Black feminism or "womanism" to the articulation of a distinctly Black and female literary aesthetic.

Prerequisite: None
Distribution: Language and Literature
Semester: Fall
Unit: 1.0

AFR 213 Race Relations and Racial Inequality

NOT OFFERED IN 2004-05. This course is designed to examine the historical relationship between race and the American legal system. Through an examination of the legal response to racism in American society, students will gain an appreciation of the evolving race relations law.

Prerequisite: None
Distribution: Social and Behavioral Analysis
Semester: N/O
Unit: 1.0

AFR 216 History of the Caribbean

Martin

A survey of political, economic, and sociological factors shaping Caribbean society. Topics covered include Africans in the New World before Columbus, genocide against the indigenous peoples, slavery and slave revolts, immigration and emigration, the Caribbean and Africa, the Caribbean and African America, the struggle for majority rule, the spread of United States influence, independence, and its challenges.

Obeng

An examination of African experience and expression of religion. The course surveys African religions among the Akan of Ghana, Yoruba of Nigeria, Nuer of the Sudan, the Zulu of South Africa, and the Bemazava-Sakalava of Madagascar. The course will focus on how gender, age, status, and cultural competence influence Africans' use of architecture, ritual, myth, dance, and music to communicate, elaborate on the cosmos, and organize their lives. Special attention will be paid to the resiliency of African deities and indigenous cultural media during the encounter between African religions, Christianity, and Islam.

Prerequisite: None
Distribution: Religion, Ethics, and Moral Philosophy
Semester: Spring
Unit: 1.0

AFR 266 Black Drama

Cudjoe

NOT OFFERED IN 2004-05. This course will examine twentieth-century Black drama, with a special emphasis on the period of its efflorescence during the Black Arts Movement of the 1960s and 1970s. We will also explore the Black theatre as a medium of aesthetic expression and communal ritual as well as an instrument of political consciousness and social change. Playwrights will include Douglass Turner Ward, Alice Childress, Ossie Davis, Lorraine Hansberry, James Baldwin, Ed Bullins, Adrienne Kennedy, LeRoi Jones (Amiri Baraka), Ntozake Shange, and others.
AFR 280 Winteression in Ghana
Rollins, Obeng
This course is an introduction to Ghanaian history and society, with two foci: spirituality (Christianity, Santeria and Islam) and women. Based at the University of Ghana in Legon, students will have lectures by university professors, will visit sites related to those lectures around Accra, and will travel to the coast (Cape Coast and Elmina) and inland (to Kumasi and the Ashanti region) to visit historic sites as well as to study village and rural life. Not offered every year. Subject to Dean's Office approval.

AFR 297 Medical Anthropology: A Comparative Study of Healing Systems
NOT OFFERED IN 2004-05. This course examines alternative healing systems that attempt to treat the whole person as a physical, social, and spiritual being and to promote community participation and healing. It offers new perspectives on the biomedical model as it examines the socio-cultural context of the causation, diagnosis, prevention, and cure of disease. Examples of healing systems will be from Third World countries, particularly in Africa, the Caribbean, and Latin America, and from industrialized societies, particularly from African American and indigenous communities in the United States. Examination will be made of healing systems which include divination, herbal medicine, folk medicine, and faith healing.
Prerequisite: None
Distribution: Social and Behavioral Analysis
Semester: N/O
Unit: 1.0

AFR 300 Heritage and Culture in Jamaica: A Winteression Experience
Steady
NOT OFFERED IN 2004-05. Jamaica is a country that provides a unique opportunity for the study of multiculturalism in action. Its national motto is "Out of many, one people." The study abroad winteression course in Jamaica will explore the history, culture, and political economy of the country and promote an understanding of the Caribbean as a whole through seminars, participatory field research, and internships. The program will give students an opportunity for total immersion in the Jamaican environment and for participation in several community-based projects that will add experiential value to their classroom-based education. Not offered every year. Subject to Dean's Office approval.
Prerequisite: By permission of the department. Application required.
Distribution: Social and Behavioral Analysis
Semester: N/O
Unit: TBD

AFR 301 Seminar: South Africa
Steady
NOT OFFERED IN 2004-05. An examination of the degree of success or failure in social transformation from a racist, centralized, and oppressive apartheid system to a nonracial, democratic and participatory system which seeks to promote social and economic justice for all its citizens. Topics include the structural challenges to social transformation, socioeconomic development and resource distribution, the persistence of de facto apartheid, the Truth and Reconciliation Commission, increased poverty among the African population, the HIV/AIDS epidemic, the impact of globalization, and South Africa's place in Africa and the world at large.

AFR 341 Topics in Africana Social Science
Obeng
Topic for 2004-05: Neglected Africans of the Diaspora. The seminar explores the nature and composition of the African Diaspora and its changing meanings. Focusing on Africans in India and Pakistan, Oman, Britain, Belize, Martinique, Ecuador, and Costa Rica, we will examine the socio-cultural connections among diasporic Africans such as the forced migrations of enslaved Africans and voluntary emigration of free skilled Africans out of continental Africa. The seminar also explores the geopolitical, religious, and cultural factors that foster distinctive diasporic African identities and how these people constitute and contribute to global citizenship. Attention will be paid to the permeable boundaries of global politics, religion, economics, culture, and citizenship.

Directions for Election
For students entering Wellesley in fall 2000 and later: A major in Africana studies requires nine units. An Africana studies major will choose one of four possible tracks: Africa, the Caribbean, the United States, or a general Africana studies track. All of the four tracks of study encompass the interdisciplinary approach of the department, while allowing students to focus on a particular area and gain expertise in one discipline. The first three courses of study focus on geographic areas; the fourth, designed in consultation with the student's advisor, allows the student to create a concentration on a particular salient aspect (e.g., Africana women or Africana arts) or issue (e.g., comparative race relations) in the Africana world.

It is strongly recommended that majors and minors take 105 before undertaking specialized courses of study. This course provides an overview of the discipline of Africana studies, including its philosophical and historical foundations, and introduces students to its major fields of inquiry. Of the nine units required for an Africana studies major, at least two must be at the 300 level and, ordinarily, not more than two may be taken outside the department.

Africa: This program of study is designed to provide students with an interdisciplinary and integrated understanding of the peoples of the African continent, from its ancient foundation through its current geopolitical situation. However, to insure students' breadth of knowledge of the African world, two courses that focus on a geographic area other than Africa are required. Six courses that focus on Africa are the foundation of this track: one course must be in history; one must be in a social science (economics, political science, sociology, anthropology, or psychology); one must be chosen from the humanities (literature, art, music, philosophy, and religion); and two should be chosen from a specific discipline. The following courses are appropriate for the Africa track:

- History: AFR 105, [200], 319, 340
- Social Sciences: AFR [204], [205], 213, [223], 235, [245], 280, 297, 301, 306, 318, 34
- Humanities: AFR 202, 207, 211, 222, [231], 232, 251, ARTH 241, FREN 218, [300], HIST [319]

The Caribbean: This program of study also provides students with an interdisciplinary knowledge of a particular geographic area: the Caribbean—the history, peoples, culture, and significance in the world system. As with the other tracks, students focusing on the Caribbean are expected to also acquire some breadth of knowledge about the African world; thus, two courses focused on other areas are required. Of the five courses on the Caribbean, one must be a humanities course; one must be a social science; one must be a history course; and two must be chosen from one discipline. (See the African track for the specific disciplines considered "humanities" and "social sciences.") The following courses are appropriate for the Caribbean track:

- History: AFR 216, 319, 340
- Social Sciences: AFR [245], [275], 300, 306, 341
- Humanities: AFR 207, [210], 232, 234, 310, 335, SPAN 269, FREN 218, [330]

The United States: As with the other tracks, students who choose the United States should approach their study of African America through many disciplines. The track requires five courses focusing on the United States; one in history, one in the humanities, one in social science, and two in the discipline in which the student chooses to concentrate. (See the Africa track for the specific disciplines considered "humanities" and "social sciences.") To insure students' breadth of knowledge of the African world, however, this track also requires two courses focused on one or more geographic areas other than the United States. The following courses are appropriate for the United States track:

- History: AFR 105, [206], [214], 319, 340
- Social Sciences: AFR 203, 208, [214], [215], 217, [219], [220], [221], 225, [230], [305], 306, 315, POL 3375
- Humanities: AFR [150], 201, 212, 222, 233, [262], 310, ENG 320, MUS 300

General Africana studies: This track allows students to design a more eclectic concentration in Africana studies or a concentration which cuts across geographic and discipline boundaries (e.g., Africana women's studies) or a discipline-focused concentration that is cross-cultural (e.g., Africana arts). Students must have their programs of study approved by their advisors. This program should demonstrate the same geographic and disciplinary breadth as the previous three (i.e., at least two geographic regions must be represented in the courses chosen; and at least one history course, one humanities, and one social science are required). Of the seven courses to be elected, at least three must be in one discipline.

For all tracks, students are encouraged to gain first-hand experiential insights in the Africana world. Students in the Africa and Caribbean tracks are encouraged to consider the Wintersession courses in Ghana and Jamaica. Those in the Africa or the Caribbean track, are strongly encouraged to consider study abroad programs in these geographic areas. Those focusing on the United States should consider spending a semester or year at a historically Black college. Credit toward the major may be given for such experiences when appropriate.

A minor in Africana studies will consist of five units, including one 300 level course. AFR 105 is strongly recommended. (Students may be exempted from specific requirements by the department.) Minors are strongly encouraged to take courses on at least two geographic areas (e.g., the United States and the Caribbean) and in two or more disciplines. Minors are also encouraged to attend departmentally sponsored extracurricular lectures, especially those (required of majors) that focus on methodology.
American Studies

AN INTERDEPARTMENTAL MAJOR

Director: Fisher (English)

American Studies Advisory Committee: Bedell (Art), Imber (Sociology), Kodera (Religion), Roseinwald (English), Stettnik (Political Science)

The American studies major seeks to understand the American experience through a multidisciplinary program of study. The requirements for the major are as follows. Nine units of course work are required for the major, at least six of which should be taken at Wellesley College. These courses include AMST 101, which should be completed before the end of the junior year; at least two courses in historical studies; one course in literature; one course in the arts; and one course from any of the following three areas: social and behavioral analysis; art and its history; and moral philosophy. Students are also expected to take at least two Grade III-level courses, one of which should be AMST 317 or 318, taken in the junior or senior year. To ensure some concentration in a field of American society and culture, at least three courses should be elected in one department. In consultation with the director, a student may choose to focus her concentration in an area or field, such as law, women, or Asian American, assembling her group of three or more courses in this topic from two or more departments. American studies majors with an Asian American concentration are encouraged to take courses that specifically address Asian American issues, such as AMST 151, ENG 269, HIST 267, WOST 248, WOST 249.

Within this structure, students are encouraged to explore the diversity of American culture, and the many ways to interpret it. Most courses at the College that are primarily American in content may be applied to the American studies major. American studies majors are encouraged to take as part of, or in addition to, their major courses, surveys of American history, literature, and art (for example, HIST 203/204, ENG 262/266, ARTH 231/232) and a course on the American Constitution and political thought (for example, POLA 340). In addition, students are urged to take one or more courses outside the major that explore the theory and methods of knowledge creation and production (for example, PHIL 345, SOC 301, or QR 199).

Students eligible for honors work and considering doing a thesis during their senior year should plan to identify a thesis advisor, specify their project, and, if possible, begin work before the end of their junior year. Courses of study, and the possibility of honors work, should be discussed with the American studies director.

AMST 101 Introduction to American Studies
Fisher (English)

An interdisciplinary examination of some of the varieties of American experience, aimed at developing a functional vocabulary for further work in American studies or related fields. After a brief, intense review of American history, the course will direct its focus towards important moments in that history, investigating each of them in relation to selected cultural, historical, artistic, and political events, figures, institutions, and texts.

Prerequisite: This course is required of American studies majors and should be completed before the end of the junior year.

Distribution: None

Semester: Fall

Unit: 1.0

AMST 125/WRIT 125 Defining Asian American Literature
Iwansonaga (The Writing Program)

The question we will pose at the outset, and which we will revisit frequently, is "What defines Asian American literature?" The writer's ethnicitiy? The topic? The intended audience? Authors studied may include Maxine Hong Kingston, Patti Kim, Jhumpa Lahiri, R.O. Butler, Peter Ho Davies, Sandra Tsing Loh, Monique T.D. Traong. Students will also read essays on the power of creativity and the imagination. As students refine their definitions of Asian American literature, spurred on by texts that challenge their initial ideas, they will work toward defining American identity itself. This course satisfies the Writing 125 requirement and counts as a unit towards the Asian American studies concentration within the American studies major. Includes a third session each week.

Prerequisite: None

Distribution: Language and Literature

Semester: Spring

Unit: 1.0

AMST 151 The Asian American Experience
Lee (English)

An interdisciplinary introduction to the study of Asian Americans, the fastest-growing ethnic group in North America. Critical examination of different stages of their experience from the "codie labor" and "yellow peril" to the "model minority" and struggles for identity; roots of Asian stereotypes; myth and reality of Asian women; prejudice against, among, and by Asians; and Asian contribution to a more pluralistic, tolerant, and just American society. Readings, films, lectures, and discussions.

Prerequisite: None

Distribution: Historical Studies or Religion, Ethics, and Moral Philosophy

Semester: Spring

Unit: 1.0

AMST 317 Seminar, Advanced Topics in American Studies
Roseinwald (English)

A study of an important, diverse, and living American tradition. Some central questions:
What is nonviolence? What has its relation been to law and to money? In what sorts of life, action, institution, legislation, and text has it been manifested? How has it been depicted? Discussion of nonviolent activists and thinkers, among them John Woolman, William Lloyd Garrison, Henry David Thoreau, William James, Jane Addams, Dorothy Day, Martin Luther King, Daniel Bergman; of depictions of nonviolence by such artists as Harriet Beecher Stowe, Norman Mailer, and Robbie Leppzer; of analyses and critiques of nonviolence by Stauthong and Alice Lynd, Peter Brock, Marjorie Kornhauser. Also, conversation with guest speakers from inside and outside the nonviolent community.

One short essay, one long essay, one experiential project.

Prerequisite: Permission of instructor. Enrollment is limited and preference is given to American studies majors.

Distribution: Language and Literature or Religion, Ethics, and Moral Philosophy

Semester: Fall

Unit: 1.0

Bedell (Art History)

Topic for 2005-06: Disneyland and American Culture.

One of the most visited tourist attractions in the world, subject of thousands of books and articles, adored by millions yet reviled by many intellectuals, Disneyland has occupied a prominent place in American culture since it opened in 1955. This seminar will examine Disneyland as an expression of middle class American values, as a locus of corporatism and consumerism, as a postmodern venue, as a utopia, and as an influence upon architecture and urban design. In a broader sense, we will use Disney to explore the ideals, the desires, and the anxieties that have shaped post-World War II American culture.

Prerequisite: Permission of instructor. Enrollment is limited and preference is given to American studies majors.

AMST 318 Seminar, Advanced Topics in American Studies

Brogan (English)

This course examines that icon of modernity, New York City, as it appears in literature, photography, and film. We'll cross neighborhoods and centuries to consider how Americans have variously envisioned this cultural and financial capital. Moving from the grim nineteenth-century streets of Five Points to the canyons of Wall Street, from Roth's Lower East Side tenements to Wharton's grand Fifth Avenue residences, from the photographs of Berenice Abbott and Lewis Hine to the films of Spike Lee and Martin Scorsese, we'll think in interdisciplinary ways about how the richly varied interpretations of New York contribute to a national discussion about urban ideals, modernism, immigration, and money.

Prerequisite: Permission of instructor. Enrollment is limited and preference is given to American studies majors.

Distribution: Language and Literature or Arts, Music, Theatre, Film, Video

Semester: Spring

Unit: 1.0

Shelley (English)

Between the breakdown of the studio system and the blockbuster era, American filmmaking enjoyed a decade of extraordinary achievement. We'll study the great films produced in this period, such as Taxi Driver, The Godfather, Nashville, Annie Hall, Shampoo, and Apocalypse Now, connecting those films to the national and cinematic contexts of their times.

Prerequisite: Permission of instructor. Enrollment is limited and preference is given to American studies majors.

ANTH 204 Physical Anthropology
Kohl
The origin of humans as a sequence of events in the evolution of the primates. This theme is approached broadly from the perspectives of anatomy, paleontology, genetics, primatology, and ecology. Explanation of the interaction between biological and socio-behavioral aspects of human evolution, such as the changing social role of sex. Review of the human fossil record and the different biological adaptations of the polytypic species Homo sapiens.
Prerequisite: None
Distribution: Social and Behavioral Analysis
Semester: Spring
Unit: 1.0

ANTH 202/SOC 202 Introduction to Human Rights
Cushman (Sociology)
Human rights is one of the most powerful approaches to social justice in the contemporary world, yet it is a rapidly developing and changing system. This course offers a critical analysis of human rights as a social, cultural, and legal system. It explores the historical and philosophical origins of the contemporary human rights system and its growth and development as a global social movement over the last few decades. This includes the diversification of human rights and the collective rights of indigenous peoples. The course examines the ongoing controversy between human rights' claims to universalism in contrast to assertions of cultural difference. Special topics include the rise of nongovernmental human rights organizations, humanitarianism as an ideology, debates on military humanitarian interventions, the emergence of violence against women as a human rights issue, and the forms and types of justice in societies that have experienced large-scale violence. Students may register for either ANTH 202 or SOC 202. Credit will be given in the department in which the student is registered.
Prerequisite: None
Distribution: Social and Behavioral Analysis
Semester: Fall
Unit: 1.0
ANTH 206 Archaeology
Kohl
NOT OFFERED IN 2004-05. A survey of the development of archaeology. The methods and techniques of archaeology are presented through an analysis of excavations and prehistoric remains. Materials studied range from early hominid sites in Africa to the Bronze Age civilizations of the Old World and the Aztec and Inca empires of the New World. Students are introduced to techniques for reconstructing the past from material remains. The course includes a field trip to a neighboring archaeological site.

Prerequisite: None
Distribution: Social and Behavioral Analysis
Semester: N/O
Unit: 1.0

ANTH 208 Archaeological Science
Lechtman (at MIT)
An introduction to scientific techniques used in contemporary archaeology. Using a case study format, faculty from the Boston-wide Center for Materials Research Archaeology and Ethnology (CMRAE) present different methods for studying such topics as reconstruction of ancient environments; dating techniques; assessing the diets of ancient populations; and sourcing artifacts through chemical and physical analyses.

Prerequisite: One year college-level physics or chemistry (or equivalent, see instructor)
Distribution: Natural and Physical Science
Semester: Spring
Unit: 1.0

ANTH 209 Forensic Anthropology
Gibbons
The identification of human remains for criminological and political purposes is widespread. This course explores issues in the identification and interpretation of human bones including methods for determining sex, age, stature, and ancestry as well as for identifying pathologies and anomalies. The course will pay particular attention to those anatomical elements, both soft tissue and bones, that aid in the reconstruction of individuals and their lifestyles. In addition, the course explores search and recovery techniques, crime scene analysis, the use of DNA in solving crimes, and the role of forensic anthropology in the investigation of mass fatalities from both accidents and human rights violations. It also addresses ballisticistics and the use of photography in forensic investigation.

Prerequisite: None
Distribution: Social and Behavioral Analysis
Semester: Fall
Unit: 1.0

ANTH 211/RAST 211 Wintersession Program in the Republic of Georgia
Kohl
Students travel to Tbilisi, Georgia for Winter-session. They will attend lectures in English at Tbilisi State University on Georgian history, language and culture and on contemporary political developments there and visit sites of historical interest in and around Tbilisi. They live with Georgian families and spend three weeks completing a self designed internship with a local organization. Students may register for either ANTH 211 or RAST 211. Credit will be given in the department in which the student is registered. Not offered every year. Subject to Dean’s Office approval.

Prerequisite: One course in ANTH or RAST
Application required
Distribution: Social and Behavioral Analysis or Historical Studies
Semester: Wintersession
Unit: 0.5

ANTH 213 Racial and Ethnic Conflict
NOT OFFERED IN 2004-05. This course has three goals. The first is to address the history of the concept of race and its alleged biological underpinnings. We will explore the perspectives of evolutionary and population biology and race the development of modern notions of racial difference. Secondly, we will apply a critical anthropological lens to various conceptions of otherness associated with race—notions of ethnicity, caste, nation, culture, and identity—and address their contemporary scholarly and political implications. Finally, we will compare systems of ethnoracial classification and social stratification in diverse societies of the Americas (US, Canada, Latin America, and the Caribbean) and examine patterns of conflict and social inequality.

Prerequisite: None
Distribution: Social and Behavioral Analysis
Semester: N/O
Unit: 1.0

ANTH 215 The Triumph of Culture: Perceptions of Nature and Human Interaction on the Environment
Karakasidou
NOT OFFERED IN 2004-05. This course examines how discourses on the environment in various political systems have influenced humanity’s relationship with the natural world. While reviewing the perspectives offered by cultural ecology, human ecology, political ecology, and historical ecology, as well as cultural materialism and cultural evolution theory, it considers how nature and the environment have been perceived in different cultures across time. Scrutinizing perceptions of the environment as a source of danger and disease, the course explores the cultural conquest of nature and the introduction of synthetic chemicals in industrial cultures, both capitalist and socialist. It concludes with a critical comparison of conservation and preservation discourses in contemporary environmentalist and eco-politics thought and action around the world.

Prerequisite: None
Distribution: Social and Behavioral Analysis
Semester: N/O
Unit: 1.0

ANTH 220 Race/Ethnicity in the United States: Asian American Identities and Communities in Comparative Perspective
Ruf
This course will explore Asian American identities and communities as pivotal sites to understand the dynamics of race/ethnicity, gender, and class in the United States. We will explore the transnational and heterogeneous histories, identities, and representations among multiple communities of Asian Americans, as well as in relation to those of African Americans and white Americans. To investigate the construction and roles of Asian Americans as “in-between” black and white, we will pay particular attention to key events/representations such as the Los Angeles Rodney King uprisings, the model minority myth, etc. This course is interdisciplinary, as it draws from critical race theories, anthropology, ethnography, literature, and history.

Prerequisite: None
Distribution: Social and Behavioral Analysis
Semester: Spring
Unit: 1.0

ANTH 221 Societies and Cultures of Asia
Ruf
This course explores East Asian societies in historical perspectives. It introduces students to a variety of important issues: the imaginative geographies of the landscape; the impact of the world economic system and colonialism; the social and political formations of cultural groups and their transformation into ethnic and national communities; the role of gender and religion; the impact of development policies; the importance of religion; and the overwhelming influence of media. The course will also consider diverse influences from the west and the locally specific responses to these changes.

Prerequisite: None
Distribution: Social and Behavioral Analysis
Semester: Fall
Unit: 1.0

ANTH 238 The Vulnerable Body: Anthropological Understandings
Karakasidou
NOT OFFERED IN 2004-05. This course begins with the assumption that the human body is a unit upon which collective categories are engraved. These categories can vary from social values, to religious beliefs, to feelings of national belonging, to standards of sexuality and beauty. Readings in this course will concentrate around the classic and recent attempts in the social and historical sciences to develop ways of understanding this phenomenon of "embodiment." We will begin with an overview of what is considered to be the "construction" of the human body in various societies and investigate how the body has been observed, experienced, classified, modified, and sacralized in different social formations.

Prerequisite: None
Distribution: Social and Behavioral Analysis
Semester: N/O
Unit: 1.0

ANTH 242 "Civilization" and "Barbarism" during the Bronze Age, 3500-2000 B.C.E.
Kohl
NOT OFFERED IN 2004-05. A review of the earliest emergence of state-stratified societies in the Old World (Pharaonic Egypt, Mesopotamia, the Indus Valley, and Shang China) and their integration through trade, conflict, migrations, and diffusions of technologies, particularly metalworking, with neighboring illiterate societies on their peripheries. The course concludes with a comparison with core-periphery relations in pre-Columbian Mesoamerica and Peru.

Prerequisite: None
Distribution: Historical Studies or Social and Behavioral Analysis
Semester: N/O
Unit: 1.0

ANTH 244 Societies and Cultures of the Middle East
Kohl
NOT OFFERED IN 2004-05. An anthropological overview of the contemporary Middle East with a focus on Islam and neotraditional movements: families, values and traditional social institutions, and the emergence of national identities. Contemporary ethnic and international conflicts from an anthropological perspective.

ANTH 251 Cultures of Cancer
Karakasidou
This course critically examines cancer as a pervasive disease and a metaphor of global modern cultures. Students will be exposed to the ways cancer is perceived as a somatic and social standard within locally constructed cognitive frameworks. They will investigate the scientific and emotional responses to the disease and the ways cancer challenges our faith and spirituality, our ways of life, notions of pollution and cleanliness and our healing strategies. This approach to cancer is comparative and interdisciplinary and focuses on how specialists in different societies have described the disease, how its victims in different cultures have narrated their experiences, how causality has been perceived, and what interventions (sacred or secular) have been undertaken as therapy and prevention.

Prerequisite: None
Distribution: Social and Behavioral Analysis
Semester: Fall
Unit: 1.0

ANTH 260 Gender, Culture, and Human Rights
Merry
Women's rights are an increasingly important part of human rights. They now include issues such as protection from discrimination, violence against women, trafficking, women's political participation, and women's marriage and family status. This course covers the emergence of women's human rights, discusses major issues such as female genital cutting and honor killing, and explores the conflicts that have developed between culture and rights. The course explores the political uses of this opposition and the diverse meanings of culture and rights.

Prerequisite: ANTH 202/SOC 202 or one course in the social sciences.
Distribution: Social and Behavioral Analysis
Semester: Spring
Unit: 1.0

ANTH 269 Anthropology of Gender, Marriage, and the Family
Ruf
An examination of the variations in gender and family life globally. Comparisons of patterns of behavior and belief systems surrounding marriage, sexuality, parenthood, male and female power, and masculine and feminine temperament. Emphasis on the ways kinship and family life organize society and the ways gender is constructed in conjunction with other identities such as race, class, and nationality. Discussion of the cultural context of male violence against women and women's rights as human rights.

Prerequisite: None
Distribution: Social and Behavioral Analysis
Semester: Spring
Unit: 1.0

ANTH 300 Ethnographic Methods and Ethnographic Writing
Meigs
An exploration of anthropological research and writing through the analytical and practical study of "fieldwork" and "ethnography." Examines a variety of anthropological research methods and genres of representation paying particular attention to questions of knowledge, location, evidence, ethics, power, translation, experience, and the way theoretical problems can be framed in terms of ethnographic research. Students will be asked to apply critical knowledge in a fieldwork project of their own design.

Prerequisite: 101 or two 200-level units in any of the following: ANTH, SOC, POL, ECON, or permission of instructor.
Distribution: Social and Behavioral Analysis
Semester: Spring
Unit: 1.0

ANTH 301 History and Theory in Anthropology
Karakasidou
This course introduces students to contemporary anthropology by tracing its historical development and its specific application in ethnographic writing. It examines the social context in which each selected model or "paradigm" took hold and the extent of cognitive sharing, by either intellectual borrowing or breakthrough. The development of contemporary theory will be examined both as internal to the discipline and as a response to changing intellectual climates and social milieu. The course will focus on each theory in action, as the theoretical principles and methods apply to ethnographic case studies.

Prerequisite: Two 200-level units in any of the following: ANTH, SOC, POL, ECON, or permission of instructor.
Distribution: Social and Behavioral Analysis
Semester: Fall
Unit: 1.0

ANTH 308 Seminar for Materials Research in Archaeology and Ethnology
Lochtman (at MIT)
Seminar-laboratory subject offered at MIT by the Center for Materials Research in Archaeology and Ethnology. Role of materials and technologies in the development of ancient societies; major focus on scientific analysis of archaeological artifacts and ecofacts.

Prerequisite: Permission of instructor.
Distribution: Natural and Physical Science
Semester: Fall, Spring
Unit: 1.0

ANTH 319 Nationalism, Politics, and the Use of the Remote Past
Kohl
NOT OFFERED IN 2004-05. This seminar critically examines the use of prehistory and antiquity for the construction of accounts of national origins; historical claims to specific territories, or the biased assessment of specific peoples. The course begins with an examination of the phenomenon of nationalism and the historically recent emergence of contemporary nation-states. It then proceeds comparatively, selectively examining politically motivated appropriations of the remote past that either were popular earlier in this century or have ongoing relevance for some of the ethnic conflicts raging throughout the world today. The course will attempt to develop criteria for distinguishing credible and acceptable reconstructions of the past from those that are unbelievable and/or dangerous.

Prerequisite: One 200-level unit in any of the following: ANTH, SOC, POL, ECON, or permission of instructor.
Distribution: Historical Studies or Social and Behavioral Analysis
Semester: N/O
Unit: 1.0

ANTH 340 Gendered Violations
Merry, Stein (Center for Research on Women)
NOT OFFERED IN 2004-05. This course joins an anthropological perspective on the construction of gender with an analysis of the forms of intervention which have developed to confront and change gendered violations of women. The course will focus on domestic violence, sexual assault, and sexual harassment and its relationship to the cultural construction of masculinity and femininity in various cultural contexts. The course is experimental in combining social science research and analysis with questions about policy making and intervention into this problem, focusing particularly on the use of law and education.

Prerequisite: Two 200-level units in any of the following: ANTH, SOC, POL, ECON, or permission of instructor.
Distribution: Social and Behavioral Analysis
Semester: N/O
Unit: 1.0

ANTH 346 Colonialism, Development, Nationalism, and Gender
NOT OFFERED IN 2004-05. Focus on the nature of development, colonialism, and dependency and the implications of colonialism for the creation of the modern, postcolonial world. Topics related to the impact of world capitalism on indigenous peoples will be covered, as well as globalization, nationalism, and the historical creation of ideas about race.

Prerequisite: Two 200-level units in any of the following: ANTH, SOC, POL, ECON, or permission of instructor.

Directions for Election
A major in anthropology consists of a minimum of eight units (which may include courses from MIT's Anthropology offerings), of which 104, 300 and 301 are required. Students may also elect other relevant statistics or calculus courses, depending on the particular need and interest of the student. Majors are encouraged to take other courses that have a cultural or multicultural focus, such as Cultural Psychology (PSYC 245).

A minor in anthropology consists of five units: 104, two 200-level courses, and two 300-level courses. Students minoring in anthropology are encouraged to choose at least one ethnographic area course and at least one course which focuses on a particular theoretical problem.

Human Rights Concentration in Anthropology and Sociology
The Departments of Anthropology and Sociology offer a concentration in human rights in conjunction with a major in either department. Students electing this concentration will major in either anthropology or sociology and choose a major advisor within the respective departments. Students will take three specific courses in the concentration that will be counted toward the major in either department.

ANTH 202/SOC 202 Introduction to Human Rights
SOC 259 The Sociology of International Justice

Students interested in the human rights concentration should contact Sally Merry, Department of Anthropology or Thomas Cashman, Department of Sociology. A student electing this concentration is encouraged, in consultation with her advisor, to take other courses in the college curriculum dealing with human rights, to engage in independent research (ANTH or SOC 350, 360 and 370) and to participate in internship experiences in human rights organizations in the United States and abroad.

Architecture
AN INTERDEPARTMENTAL MAJOR
Director: McGibbon (Art), Friedman (Art)

A major in architecture offers the opportunity for study of architectural history and practice through an interdisciplinary program. Following Vitruvius' advice on the education of the architect, the program encourages students to familiarize themselves with a broad range of subjects in the humanities, sciences, and social sciences. Students may also elect courses in studio art, mathematics, and physics which lead to appreciation of the principles of design and the fundamental techniques of architecture.

Although courses at MIT are not required for the major, the MIT-Wellesley exchange provides a unique opportunity for students to elect advanced courses in design and construction. Students are also encouraged to consider travel or study abroad as important aspects of their education in architecture, and to take advantage of the wide resources of the College and the Department of Art in pursuing their projects.

Each student designs her program of study individually in consultation with the directors. Majors are required to take ARTH 100-101 and ARTS 105. In addition, four units of course work above the 100 level and two 300-level units of course work must be taken in the Department of Art. At least three courses in these arts units (including one at 300 level) must be taken at Wellesley College. A list of requirements for honors eligibility is available from the director.

Students may include selections from the list below in their core programs.

ARTH 100 Introduction to the History of Art Part I: Ancient and Medieval Art
Staff
A broad multicultural survey of the art of the Ancient and Medieval worlds. The course focuses upon major monuments and masterpieces, including the Egyptian pyramids, the temples and sculptures of Greece and Rome, the Buddhist shrines of India, the painted scrolls of China and Japan, the mosques of the Islamic Near East, and the Gothic cathedrals of Europe. Two lectures and one conference per week. Conferences emphasize the interpretation of original works of art, and offer some hands-on sampling of historical materials and techniques. Required course for all art history, architecture, and studio art majors, who should plan to elect both ARTH 100 and 101 in their first or second year at Wellesley.

ARTH 205 Breaking Boundaries: The Arts of Mexico and the United States
Bedell, Oles
NOT OFFERED IN 2004-05. An artificial boundary has long divided the art histories of Mexico and the United States, placing them in separate textbooks, classes, and exhibitions. This lecture course breaks this model. We will compare and contrast the arts of these two nations, beginning with the independence movements of the eighteenth century and ending with the rise of modernism in the 1950s. Topics include representations of native peoples, responses to the machine age, and the battle of women artists like Frida Kahlo and Georgia O'Keeffe for a respected place in the art world.

ARTH 218 From van Eyck to Bruegel: Painting in the Netherlands in the Fifteenth and Sixteenth Centuries
Carroll
Focusing on the works of Jan van Eyck, Hieronymus Bosch, and Peter Bruegel the Elder, this course surveys the development of devotional panel painting and the emergence of the independent genres of portraiture, landscape, and scenes from daily life. Of special interest will be the changing role of art in an era of momentous political and religious change, and the ways in which that change is registered in the works of these particularly “engaged” artists.

ARTH 223 Arts of France
DeLory
Topic for 2004-05: Josephine and the Arts of the Empire. No woman in history, perhaps, had ever been called upon to play a role as dramatic, rewarding, and (ultimately) heartbreaking as the Empress Josephine. As consort to Napoleon, she conducted her life to a counterpoint of brilliant military campaigns which changed the map and culture of Europe. Napoleon’s frequent absences left Josephine to preside alone over a court where she received European leaders and Napoleon’s “aristocracy of merit.” This course considers Josephine as diplomat, arbiter of taste and culture, and as co-director of the arts of the Empire. France’s last great historic style. Topics include history, personalities, architecture, gardens, art collections, painting, sculpture, porcelain, silver, fashion and jewelry. Although a lecture course, this class will participate in discussions. Fulfills the requirements for French Cultural Studies.
Prerequisite: None. ARTH 101 is recommended.
Distribution: Arts, Music, Theatre, Film, Video
Semester: Spring Unit: 1.0

ARTH 224 Modern Art to 1945
Berman
A survey of modern art from the 1880s to World War II, examining the major movements of the historical avant-garde (such as cubism, expressionism, dada, and surrealism) as well as alternate practices. Painting, sculpture, photography, cinema, and the functional arts will be discussed, and critical issues, including the art market, and gender, national, and cultural identities, will be examined.
Prerequisite: None. ARTH 100 and 101 recommended.
Distribution: Arts, Music, Theatre, Film, Video
Semester: Fall Unit: 1.0

ARTH 225 Modern Art Since 1945
Berman
NOT OFFERED IN 2004-05. A survey of art since World War II, examining painting, sculpture, photography, performance, video, film, conceptual practices, and the mass media. Critical issues to be examined include the art market, feminist art practices, the politics of identity, and artistic freedom and censorship.
Prerequisite: None. ARTH 100 and 101 recommended.
Distribution: Arts, Music, Theatre, Film, Video
Semester: N/O Unit: 1.0

ARTH 226 History of Photography: From Invention to Advertising Age
Berman
NOT OFFERED IN 2004-05. Photography is so much a part of our private and public lives, and it plays such an influential role in our environment, that we often forget to examine its aesthetics, meanings, and histories. This course provides an introduction to these analyses by examining the history of photography from the 1830s to the present. Considering fine arts and mass media practices, the class will examine the works of individual practitioners as well as the emergence of technologies, aesthetic directions, markets, and meanings.
Prerequisite: None. ARTH 100 and 101 strongly recommended.
Distribution: Arts, Music, Theatre, Film, Video
Semester: N/O Unit: 1.0

ARTH 228 Nineteenth- and Twentieth-Century Architecture

Semester: Fall Unit: 1.0

ARTH 236 Art, Architecture, and Culture in the Ancient Americas
Oles
NOT OFFERED IN 2004-05. Before the arrival of the Europeans in the late fifteenth century, several brilliant civilizations emerged in North and South America, including the Maya, Aztec, Moche, and Inca. Incorporating the tools of art history, cultural studies, and archaeology, this course explores the visual culture of these pre-Conquest peoples. Lectures that introduce the broader aspects of each civilization will be accompanied by workshops that explore cutting-edge issues. We will also work extensively with objects on display in the Davis Museum.
Prerequisite: None. Not open to students who have taken this course as ARTH 123.
Distribution: Arts, Music, Theatre, Film, Video
Semester: N/O Unit: 1.0

ARTH 237 Art, Architecture, and Culture in Post-Conquest Mexico
Oles
A survey of visual culture in Mexico from the Spanish conquest in the 1520s to current developments in contemporary art. Against a rich spectrum of historical events, we will examine key works of art and architecture, from colonial manuscripts to Frida Kahlo’s self-portraits to recent videos, focusing on how art has served to build a sense of cultural or national identity. Specific topics to be addressed include the construction of race and gender, official patronage... of public art, and the myths that have shaped, and continue to shape, what it means to be "Mexican."

Prerequisite: None. Not open to students who have taken this course as ARTH [238].

ARTH 239 The Sensual and Sacred: the Arts of South Asia

Bokhari

A chronological survey of South Asian art (2300 BCE - 1750 CE) including India, Pakistan, Bangladesh, and Nepal. Examination of art and architecture from their first and still mysterious beginnings in the Indus Valley, through the great masterpieces of Buddhist and Hindu art to the coming of Islam, including the eclectic culture of the Mughal courts and the golden age of miniature paintings. Consideration given to the multiple aspects of patronage in Indian culture - religious, political, economic - through case studies of individual works of art and architecture.

Prerequisite: None

Distribution: Arts, Music, Theatre, Film, Video

ARTH 240 Asian Art

Liu

NOT OFFERED IN 2004-05. This course surveys the major artistic traditions of Asia from prehistory to the turn of the twentieth century, including India, Southeast Asia, Tibet, China, Korea and Japan. It will study monuments with emphasis on the interaction of art and society, and especially how artistic creativity and style are tied to religious beliefs, philosophical/intellectual thoughts, social and political changes, geographical locations, and other historical contexts. Through lectures, discussions, workshops, and paper assignments, students and instructor will constantly explore the definition of Asian art. Trips to the Boston Museum of Fine Arts and the Harvard Sackler Museum.

Prerequisite: None

Distribution: Arts, Music, Theatre, Film, Video

Semester: N/O Unit: 1.0

ARTH 241 Egyptian Art

Freed

NOT OFFERED IN 2004-05. The greater Nile Valley has yielded some of the world's most ancient and most compelling monuments. In this course we will survey the art and architecture of ancient Egypt and Nubia from Neolithic times (c. 6000 B.C.) through the Roman period (c. second century A.D.). Emphasis will be placed on objects in the Egyptian collection of the Museum of Fine Arts, Boston, and one class session per month will meet in the Museum.

ARTH 242 Life, Love, and Art in Ancient Greece

Marrin

NOT OFFERED IN 2004-05. Greek art did more than just initiate the Western artistic tradition. It reflects a paradoxical society that prized freedom, inspired western democracy, invented philosophy, held slaves, degraded women, and practiced homosexual pederasty. We will look at the historical development of Greek sculpture and painting - what they meant to the people who made them, and to the later centuries that prized them. Repeated trips to the Boston Museum of Fine Arts.

Prerequisite: One unit of ARTH or GLCV

Distribution: Arts, Music, Theatre, Film, Video

Semester: N/O Unit: 1.0

ARTH 243 Roman Art

Marvin

From twisting alleys, bars, and brothels of the buried city of Pompeii to standing monuments like the Colosseum, the remains of Rome's cities disclose a world of extremes. Stretching from Britain to Egypt to southern Russia, the Roman Empire meant luxury and slavery; elegance and cruelty; portraits of individuals and monuments of mass propaganda. We will survey the art of that empire both public and private. Trips to the Boston Museum of Fine Arts and perhaps other museums.

Prerequisite: Open to sophomores, juniors, and seniors or by permission of instructor.

ARTH 248 Chinese Painting

Liu

NOT OFFERED IN 2004-05. Chinese painting is the only tradition in world art that can rival the European painting tradition in the quantity and diversity of its output, the number of recorded artists of note, the complexity of aesthetic issues attached to it, and the sophistication of the written literature that accompanies it through the centuries. This course will examine Chinese painting from early times to the turn of the twentieth century with an introduction to traditional connoisseurship. Issues of examination include major themes, styles, and functions of Chinese painting. Special attention will be given to imperial patronage; the relationship of painting, calligraphy, and poetry; amateurism vs. professionalism; gender in painting; and the tension between tradition and creativity. Trips to the Boston Museum of Fine Arts.

Prerequisite: None

ARTH 249 Arts of Japan

Liu

This course is a survey of the visual arts of Japan from early times to the end of the nineteenth century. It examines Japan's early cultural ties to India, China and Korea, the development of native Japanese style in narrative scrolls and screen paintings, and the popularity of genre painting, especially in the art of woodblock prints. Special attention is given to the socio-political forces, religious thought, and intellectual discourses that shaped these arts. Visits to the Boston Museum of Fine Arts and Wellesley's Japanese print collection at Davis Museum.

ARTH 252 Painting for Princes(ses): Late Medieval Painting and Manuscript Illumination in France and Italy

Armstrong

Late Medieval Europe witnessed an extraordinary artistic flourishing, largely dependent on aristocratic patronage. Elegant French Gothic art and the new realism of Italian painters are twin elements of the period style. Religious and secular paintings by Giotto (Florence) and Duccio (Siena), and exquisite manuscripts illuminated for French royalty (such as the Très Riches Heures of the Duke of Berry) appear as documents of princely life and of the new attention to nature seen in Late Medieval art. Sessions on illuminated manuscripts in Clapp Special Collections are planned. Meets ARTH major distribution requirements in Medieval art and is a course before '1800.'

Prerequisite: None. ARTH 100 recommended.

Distribution: Arts, Music, Theatre, Film, Video

Semester: Fall Unit: 1.0

ARTH 253 The Beautiful Book: Medieval and Renaissance Book Illumination in France and Italy

Armstrong

NOT OFFERED IN 2004-05. A survey of European illuminated manuscripts including sessions on selected Hillerno-Saxon and Carolingian manuscripts, but emphasizing the magnificent decoration of French and Italian books in the Gothic and Renaissance periods. Topics will include the construction of manuscripts; relation of text to images and decoration; aristocratic and religious patronage of illuminators, and the illustration of the earliest printed
ARTH 304 Seminar. Leonardo da Vinci, Michelangelo Buonarroti, and Raphael Sanzio

Armstrong

Leonardo da Vinci, Michelangelo, and Raphael were critical in defining the style known as the "High Renaissance" in Italy, 1490 to 1520. Leonardo created supremely beautiful paintings (Virgin of the Rocks; Mona Lisa), and fascinating drawings of anatomy, architecture, and horses. Michelangelo was a sculptor (David; Pietà) and painter (Sistine Ceiling), and also an architect (Medici Chapel; St. Peter's) and poet, writing deeply moving poems. Raphael executed ambitious murals for the Popes (School of Athens) and many portraits and devotional panels (Madonna of the Goldfinch; Sistine Madonna). The seminar will investigate multiple facets of these geniuses' creations and some of the myths about their lives. Meets ARTH major distribution requirements in Renaissance art and is a course before 1800.

Prerequisites: Open to students who have taken one unit in Medieval, Renaissance, or Baroque art, history, or literature; or who have taken two units of art history at the 200 level. Medieval/Renaissance studies majors and architecture majors are encouraged to enroll. Permission of the instructor required. File application in art department before preregistration.

ARTH 309 Seminar. Problems in Architectural History

Friedman

Topic for 2004-05: "Le Corbusier and the Evolution of Modern Architecture" This seminar will examine the career and influence of Le Corbusier through in-depth examination of his writing, projects, and buildings. We will focus on five broad topics: 1) Paris in the 1920s: villas and clients; 2) texts and publications; 3) furniture and interiors; 4) spiritual space; 5) craft traditions and vernacular architecture. The seminar will also examine the architect's complex relationship to modernism in the United States and South America.

ARTH 330 Seminar. Renaissance Venice

Armstrong

NOT OFFERED IN 2004-05. Renaissance artists and architects glorified the Republic of Venice as the center of a cultural and political empire. The seminar will explore how they represented contemporary religious beliefs, portrayed political rulers and their wives, established new norms for representing landscape, exploited the erotic appeal of the female form, participated in the revival of Classical themes in art, and refashioned the city’s churches, palaces, and urban spaces. The artists considered will include Giorgione, Titian, Tintoretto, and Palladio.

Prerequisites: Open to students who have taken one unit in Medieval, Renaissance, or Baroque art, history, or literature; or who have completed two units of art history at the 200 level. Medieval/Renaissance studies majors and architecture majors are encouraged to enroll. Permission of the instructor required. File application in art department before preregistration.

patrons, collectors, and directors have presented museums with exceptional challenges. In turn, the changing identities of museums have helped to shape these issues. This course will examine the history of museums in the light of these concerns, focusing on museum ethics, changing modes of interpreting the object, funding, and issues of political and personal identity and memory all seen through an examination of case studies and a final project involving the acquisition of a work for the Davis Museum collection.

Prerequisite: ARTH 100 or 101. Preference given to junior and senior art majors. Permission of instructor required. File application in department before preregistration.

ARTH 337 Seminar. Northern Song Imperial Patronage and Painting Academy
Liu
Northern Song Painting Academy as an imperial institution was the first of its kind in the history of world art. This seminar investigates the nature of imperial patronage of painting and the achievements of the Painting Academy. It explores the relationship between emperors and academy painters through close reading of the paintings’ biographies written by Song contemporaries (in translation), examines the mobility of academy painters, and attempts to identify how exactly imperial commissions were initiated and carried out. Special attention is given to various interpretative modes of primary sources.

Prerequisite: ARTH 100, 240 or 248 recommended. Permission of instructor required. File application in department before preregistration.

Distribution: Arts, Music, Theatre, Film, Video
Semester: Spring  Unit: 1.0

ARTH 338 Seminar. Topics in Latin American Art
Olles
Topic for 2004-05: Imagining Mexico and the Border in the Twentieth Century. This seminar explores how Mexico and the U.S.-Mexican border have been represented in North America, primarily in the film history, although we will also compare films to photography, literature, and popular culture. From early silent movies to Hollywood musicals to recent Chicano productions, certain themes are repeated and transferred: idealized images of traditional culture, social complexity of the border region. We will also consider how positions on race, gender, and identity are negotiated through film. Students with no prior background in film or art history are encouraged to apply.

Prerequisite: Permission of instructor required. File application in department before preregistration.

ARTH 341 Seminar. The Landscape Painting of China, Korea, and Japan
Liu
NOT OFFERED IN 2004-05. The landscape painting of China, Korea, and Japan is among the great traditions of world art. What did it mean? How was it used? Why is landscape still a popular subject in modern Chinese, Korean, and Japanese art? Following the development of landscape painting from the early period to the twentieth century, the course will examine issues such as landscape and national development, ideology and power; landscape as representation of nature; landscape as images of the mind; and the tension of tradition and creativity in painting landscape. Comparisons will be made with Dutch, English, and American landscape painting to provide a global perspective.

Prerequisite: Permission of instructor. File application in department before preregistration.

ARTH 343 Seminar. Methods of Art History
Rhodes
What are the ways in which art has been defined, evaluated, theorized, and researched? What assumptions underlie the discipline of art history? This seminar provides a survey of all major approaches to the critical understanding of visual art. These include connoisseurship, iconography, Marxism, psychoanalysis, semiotics, gender and ethnicity studies, and cultural studies. Critical reading and intensive class discussion will be emphasized.

ARTH 381 Boston Museum of Fine Arts Seminars
A limited number of qualified students may elect for credit seminars offered by the curators of the Boston Museum of Fine Arts to students in Boston-area colleges and universities. These are held in the museum and use objects from the collections for study. Admission to museum seminars is by permission of the instructor at the museum only. Call the curator for information about the day and time of classes and application procedures as the class size is limited. Normally, students may enroll for a maximum of two BMFA seminars.

Topic A: Egypt Lost and Found: Boston and the Genesis of American Egyptology
Lawrence Berman, Curator of Egyptian, Nubian, and Near Eastern Art, Art of the Ancient World (617-369-3328 or lberman@mfa.org)
The MFA’s Egyptian collection is one of the largest and most comprehensive in the world. This course will examine how it got that way. After the Civil War, when the first public art museums were founded in the United States, Boston took the lead in collecting ancient Egyptian art. The seminar will focus on the beginnings of American interest in Egyptology (with special attention to Boston) and its cultural and intellectual milieu. Works of Egyptian art in the MFA’s collection will be studied in detail, both in the classroom and in the galleries, and the rationale behind the installations of these objects in the galleries will be explored and analyzed. Enrollment limited to Wellesley students.

Prerequisite: Admission to Museum Seminars is by permission of the instructor.

Distribution: Arts, Music, Theatre, Film, Video
Semester: Fall  Unit: 1.0

Topic B: Depression Modern: American Art in the 1930s
Carol Troyen, John Moors Cabot Curator of Paintings, Art of the Americas (617-369-3405 or ctroyen@mfa.org)
Although the United States was under extreme political, economic, and social stress in the 1930s, it was a surprisingly vital era for the visual arts. Many painters turned from abstraction to a realistic depiction of their surroundings, sometimes with a social or political subtlety, sometimes not. In photography, a documentary aesthetic was replacing the elegant abstractions of Alfred Stieglitz and his circle. Art patronage, previously mostly the purview of individuals, was taken over by museums and by government agencies, notably the WPA. This seminar will examine paintings and photography of the Depression era, seeking to understand the ways

ARTS 308 Photography III
Black
NOT OFFERED IN 2004-05. Advanced explorations of aesthetic and content issues through the use of the camera and light sensitive materials are the focus of this course. More advanced photographic techniques and equipment will be presented to solve visual problems arising from each student’s work. Both traditional darkroom practices and digital printing solutions will be taught. Continued emphasis on research into the content and context of the photographic image in contemporary practice through gallery visits, guest lecturers, and library work.
Prerequisite: ARTS 108, 208, and either 109 or another 200-level studio course, or by permission of instructor.
Distribution: Arts, Music, Theatre, Film, Video Semester: N/O Unit: 1.0

ARTS 314 Advanced Drawing
Spatz-Rabinowitz
Designed for those who wish to continue studying the observational and conceptual issues introduced in basic drawing courses. Students will work from life (not necessarily the figure) using traditional methods, and will also explore contemporary conceptual and abstract ways of approaching the visual world. Experimental techniques and materials, class exercises, a regular sketchbook, intense outside assignments, and field trips are all part of the course. Emphasis during the second half of the term will be on the development of personal imagery and an individual body of work. All studio and architecture majors are encouraged to take this course. Best when taken after ARTS 105 and ARTS 217.
Prerequisite: ARTS 105 and either 109, 217, 218 or permission of instructor.
Distribution: Arts, Music, Theatre, Film, Video Semester: Spring Unit: 1.0

ARTS 315 Advanced Painting
Harvey
Each student will spend time exploring further the issues of color, composition, paint handling, and subject matter. In addition, students will be required to establish and develop personal imagery and an individual vocabulary. ARTS 315 may be repeated, ordinarily for a maximum of two semesters.
Prerequisite: ARTS 218 or by permission of instructor.
Distribution: Arts, Music, Theatre, Film, Video Semester: Fall Unit: 1.0

ARTS 317 Seminar: Topics in the Visual Arts
McGibbon
Topic for 2004-05: Art and Travel. This seminar brings together juniors and seniors from a variety of studio disciplines to consider strategies of process art, including site-based projects, performance, viewer interaction and documentation. Guided projects and field trips explore elements of travel, migration, time, space, and place. Each participant must enter the course with a solid background in at least one studio discipline and be interested in expanding her work through shared readings, independent research, critique, and reflection. Following a period of intense experimentation, each student completes a self-directed body of work and participates in a collaborative exhibition.
Prerequisite: ARTS 101, ARTS 105 and 3 other studio courses (one at the 200-level) required. Permission of instructor required. File application online through the art department Web page before preregistration.

ARTS 320 Architectonics and Installation
Irish
Creative inter-media collaboration within the practice in architecture, art, and design. Studio projects will emphasize the synthesis and inter-relation of imaging and time-based media to spatial art forms and structures. Materials, technical issues, and needs in the creation of hybrid forms, architectural forms and the solution of problems. Lectures on the historic and contemporary practices of interdisciplinary artists, designers, architects, thinkers and scientists, coupled with readings and discussions.
Prerequisite: Two 200-level courses in ARTS. By permission of instructor. File application online through the art department Web page before preregistration.

ARTS 322 Advanced Print Concepts
McGibbon
Designed for advanced students wishing to expand their visual and conceptual breadth using graphic concepts and procedures. Class work includes technical demonstrations and collaborative print projects, but each student is expected to develop a cohesive body of self-directed work, which may include handmade books, installed site works and/or interactive media. Some projects combine digital photographic processes with traditional hand printing methods. Readings and discussions consider the use of multiplicity, mechanical reproduction and sequence in contemporary art. Studio fee of $35.

ARTS 360 Senior Thesis Research
Prerequisite: By permission of department. See Academic Distinctions.
Distribution: None Semester: Fall, Spring Unit: 1.0

ARTS 365 Advanced Video Production
Mekuria
An intensive course in story development, writing screenplay, directing actors and technical crew, and producing short, dramatic or mixed-genre videos. Rigorous work on advanced camera operation, lighting, sound recording, and editing techniques. We will screen and analyze short films and sample screenplays. Course requires strong organizational and directorial aptitude. The final projects will be short, narrative, or mixed-genre videos.
Prerequisite: ARTS 165, 265, and permission of instructor.
Distribution: Arts, Music, Theatre, Film, Video Semester: Spring Unit: 1.0

ARTS 370 Senior Thesis
Prerequisite: 360 Distribution: None Semester: Fall, Spring Unit: 1.0

Applied Arts Program
In addition to the regular studio art curriculum, a separately funded program allows the art department to offer a series of short, noncredit workshops with visiting artist instructors. These workshops vary throughout the year, but address a variety of studio topics which have included ceramics, book arts, woodworking, pinhole photography and graphic design. These workshops are noncredit and open to all students without prerequisite. Upcoming workshops are announced throughout the year through art department electronic distribution lists and by posting on “Community,” “Art” and other FirstClass Conferences. Sign-up sheets are posted in the art department.
Directions for Election

Note: For the purposes of meeting the “18 units” requirement (Articles of Legislation, Book II, Article I, Section 8, A), art history and studio art are considered separate departments. Courses in studio art are counted as units “outside the department” for art history majors. Courses in art history are counted as courses “outside the department” for studio art majors.

History of Art

A major in the history of art must elect:

A. ARTH 100 and 101. Exemption from this requirement is possible only for students who achieve a grade of 5 on the Advanced Placement Art History examination or pass an exemption examination arranged by the department chair. A student who takes ARTH 100 and 101 will lose her AP/Art credit.

B. One of the following courses in studio art:
   - [210].

C. A minimum of six further units in history of art to make a total of nine units, which must include distribution requirements. At least two of these must be 300-level courses.

For distribution, a student must elect at least one unit in one of the following six areas of specialization: Ancient, Medieval/Renaissance, Baroque (seventeenth and eighteenth centuries), Modern (nineteenth and twentieth centuries), non-Western art. ARTH 223, 229, and 331 may count as Renaissance or Baroque. Among the four areas elected, one must be either before 1400 AD/CE or outside the tradition of Western art. Normally, ARTH 223, 233, 235, 305 and 345 may not be used to meet this distribution requirement.

Beginning with the class of 2006, students may count only one cross-listed course toward the minimum major. If approved by the department chair, courses elected at other institutions may be used to meet the distribution requirement. No more than one unit of 350 credit may be counted toward the minimum major. Ordinarily, no more than three units of transfer credit (one studio, two art history) may be counted toward the minimum major. Once a student has enrolled at Wellesley, courses from two-year colleges will not be credited to the major.

Although the department does not encourage over-specialization in any one area, by careful choice of related courses a student may plan a field of concentration emphasizing one period or area. Students interested in such a plan should consult the department as early as possible.

ARTH 345 is strongly recommended for those considering graduate study in history of art. Art majors are also encouraged to take courses in the language, culture, and history of the areas associated with their specific fields of interest.

Art history and architecture majors are encouraged to apply to the department to write a 360/370 Honors Thesis. In the art department the only path towards departmental honors is the 360/370 Honors Thesis. A list of requirements for honors eligibility is available from the chair of the department. A proposal must be written and accepted. Contact the department in the spring semester prior to the proposed honors year for deadlines and information.

Graduate programs in the history of Western art require degree candidates to pass exams in French and German. Graduate programs in the history of Asian art require Chinese and/or Japanese.

Students interested in graduate study in the field of art conservation should consult with the department chair regarding requirements for entrance into conservation programs. Ordinarily, college-level chemistry through organic should be elected, and a strong studio art background is required.

A history of art minor must elect a minimum of six units:

The fourth unit shall, in the case of students whose primary field is Western European or American art, be a course in non-Western or ancient art. In the case of students whose primary field of interest is ancient or non-Western art, the fourth unit shall be Western European or American art.

For the minor, at least four units for credit in art history must be taken in the art department, and only one cross-listed course may be counted towards the minor.

The attention of students is called to the interdisciplinary majors in architecture, in classical and near Eastern archaeology, and in Medieval/Renaissance studies and American studies.

Studio Art

A studio art major must elect a minimum of nine units:

A. ARTH 100 and 101 (unless exempted with a grade of 5 on the Advanced Placement Art History examination).

B. ARTS 105, and any two of the following: ARTS 106, 108, 109, 113, or 165.

C. A minimum of two units of studio art courses at the 200 level.

D. A minimum of two units of studio art courses at the 300 level.

A studio art minor must elect a minimum of six units consisting of ARTS 105, one unit of either 106, 108, 109, 113, 165 or [210], plus four additional units in studio art, one of which is at the 300 level (250s and 350s excluded). Prospective studio art majors and minors are strongly encouraged to elect 100-level art courses (including ARTH 100 and 101) during their first two years at Wellesley in order to establish a solid visual foundation and a broad understanding of the field. Studio art majors intending to study abroad should make a special effort to complete all 100-level requirements for the major prior to leaving campus during the junior year. Normally, no more than three units of transfer credit (two in studio art, one in art history) may be applied towards the minimum requirements of the major or minor. Students interested in pursuing graduate or professional work in the studio arts should elect additional course work in art history and cultural studies as well as studio art whenever possible, especially in courses that address twentieth-century art and visual culture. Since contemporary art often addresses interdisciplinary issues, students are encouraged to discuss the breadth of their overall course selections (including non-art courses) with their studio art advisor. All prospective majors and minors should obtain a copy of the art department course guide from the art office for a more comprehensive discussion of the major as well as special opportunities within the arts at Wellesley.

In tandem with the Davis Museum and Cultural Center, the art department offers numerous opportunities for students to deepen their experiential knowledge of the arts through special exhibitions, visiting artist lectures and projects, work-study positions and internships. Studio art majors and minors are strongly encouraged to exhibit their work, and gain practical experience organizing exhibitions and installing art in the Jewett Arts Center student galleries and Collins Cafe, and other venues on campus. Each year many professional artists visit the campus and studio art students are encouraged to take advantage of these interactions.

Seniors who qualify for honors and have completed all 100-level requirements in the major may propose a senior thesis project for honors. If approved by the studio faculty as a whole, this year-long, self-directed project culminates in a spring exhibition. A student interested in thesis work should discuss her ideas with a potential thesis advisor and take at least some advanced work in her proposed media concentration before the senior year.

A list of requirements for honors eligibility is available from the director of studio art. A proposal must be written and accepted. Contact the department in the spring semester prior to the proposed honors year for deadlines and information.

AP Policy

Students may not receive credit for AP courses in studio art, nor will they be able to waive prerequisites such as ARTS 105, 108, or 109 based on a high grade from the AP exam. However, they may present a portfolio of work to the director of studio art for assessment and placement, and that portfolio may include work completed through an AP course.

History of art/studio art double major. In the case of a double major in art history and studio art, ARTH 100-101 will count in the art history major. Students must also elect one additional course at the 200 or 300 level in both art history and studio art for a total of eight (8) units of art history and eight (8) units of studio art.

Teacher Certification

Students interested in obtaining certification to teach art in the Commonwealth of Massachusetts should consult the director of studio art and the chair of the Department of Education.
Astronomy

Professor: Bauer (Chair), French
Associate Professor: McLeod
Visiting Assistant Professor: Slivan

Instructor in Astronomy Laboratory: Register

The astronomy department offers two introductory survey courses geared to nonscience majors: 100 and 101W. These courses are taught at a similar level and both fulfill the mathematical modeling distribution requirement. Students who elect to take both may do so in either order. Students who have a strong background in science and/or are considering a major in astronomy or astrophysics should elect ASTR 110. ASTR 109 and 206 fulfill the Quantitative Reasoning overlay course requirement.

ASTR 100 Life in the Universe

This course will cover the origin of life on the earth and the prospects for finding life elsewhere in the cosmos. We will begin with an overview of earth's place in the solar system and the universe. Among the topics we will explore: the early history of the earth and the development of life, changes in the sun that affect the earth, characteristics of the other objects in our solar system and their potential for supporting life, the detection of planets around stars other than the sun, and the search for extraterrestrial life. Some nighttime observing will be required. This course does not count toward a major in astronomy or astrophysics.

Prerequisite: Fulfillment of the basic skills component of the Quantitative Reasoning requirement.
Distribution: Mathematical Modeling or Natural and Physical Science
Semester: Fall, Spring
Unit: 1.0

ASTR 101W Introduction to Stars, Galaxies, and Cosmology with Laboratory

A survey of stars, galaxies, and cosmology. This course examines the life stories of stars, from birth in clouds of gas and dust, through placid middle age, to violent explosive demise, leaving white dwarfs, neutron stars, or black holes. It also explores the makeup and structure of galaxies, which contain billions of stars and are racing away from each other as part of the overall expansion of the universe. Finally, it presents theories for the origin and ultimate fate of the universe. The course will stress the interaction of observations and the mathematical models developed from these data. Evenings, laboratory at the observatory.

Distribution: Mathematical Modeling or Natural and Physical Science
Semester: Fall, Spring
Unit: 1.25

ASTR 109 Our Place in Space and Time

This course traces the story of the quest to determine our place in space and time. Using hands-on experiments and key astronomical observations, we will measure the size and age of the Earth, its distance from the Sun and other stars, the location of our solar system within our galaxy, the distance to far-away galaxies, and the age and eventual fate of the expanding universe. The emphasis will be on applying quantitative reasoning skills to measure both what we know and how well we know it. Some nighttime observing will be required. This course does not count toward a major in astronomy or astrophysics.

Prerequisite: Fulfillment of the basic skills component of the Quantitative Reasoning requirement.
Distribution: Natural and Physical Science
Semester: Spring
Unit: 1.0

ASTR 110W Fundamentals of Astronomy with Laboratory

McLeod

This course serves as an introduction to astronomy for students with a strong science background. The emphasis is on the physical principles that shape the Universe and on the tools we exploit to learn about stars, galaxies, and cosmology. Laboratory one evening per week offers hands-on access to the telescopes. Some assignments require daytime observing outside of class.

Prerequisite: Fulfillment of the basic skills component of the Quantitative Reasoning requirement. Not open to students who have already taken 101.
Distribution: Mathematical Modeling or Natural and Physical Science
Semester: Fall
Unit: 1.25

ASTR 201 Motions in the Sky: Archaeoastronomy and the Copernican Revolution

Bauer

This course will cover the motions of the sun, moon, and planets in the sky and how humans have interpreted them through time. Archaeoastronomy is the study of astronomical knowledge in a culture as revealed through the archaeological record, written records, and ethnography. We will discuss the archaeoastronomy of several cultures, including the Mayans, native North Americans, and the Chinese. We will follow the beginnings of modern astronomy from the ancient Greeks through the Copernican revolution and Newton's formulation of the laws of motion. Normally offered in alternate years.

Prerequisite: Any 100-level astronomy course.
Distribution: Natural and Physical Science
Semester: Fall, Not offered in 2005-06.
Unit: 1.0

ASTR 203 Planetary Geology

Bauer

NOT OFFERED IN 2004-05. OFFERED IN 2005-06. Spacecraft observations have shown us a breathtaking diversity of geologic features in the solar system, from ancient river valleys on Mars and violent eruptions on Io to the icy surface of Halley's comet. From a comparative point of view, we will discuss the formation and evolution of the planets and small bodies in the solar system. Topics will include: volcanism, tectonic activity, impacts, and tides. Normally offered in alternate years.

Prerequisite: Fulfillment of the basic skills component of the Quantitative Reasoning requirement and any 100-level ASTR or GEOL course.
Distribution: Natural and Physical Science
Semester: N/O.
Unit: 1.0

ASTR 205 Relativity and Cosmology

Bauer

Einstein's theories of space and time have brought about a fundamental change in our conceptual understanding of the universe. Using trigonometry and algebra, we will explore special and general relativity, space travel, black holes, gravitational lensing, galaxy evolution, dark matter, and the expanding universe. Normally offered in alternate years.

Prerequisite: 194 or 110
Distribution: Mathematical Modeling or Natural and Physical Science
Unit: 1.0

ASTR 206W Basic Astronomical Techniques with Laboratory

Slivan

Students will learn to use our 24-inch research telescope. Topics include: planning observations, modern instrumentation, and the acquisition and quantitative analysis of astronomical images. This course requires substantial nighttime telescope use and culminates with an independent observing project.

Prerequisite: 101 or 110, and familiarity with trigonometric functions and logarithms.
Distribution: Mathematical Modeling or Natural and Physical Science.
Fulfills the Quantitative Reasoning overlay course requirement.
Semester: Fall
Unit: 1.25

ASTR 301 Seminar. Multiswavelength Astronomy

NOT OFFERED IN 2004-05. OFFERED IN 2005-06. Much of our knowledge of the universe comes from radiation outside of the visible spectrum, from low-energy radio waves that enable us to probe stellar nurseries to high-energy gamma rays that reveal the death throes of exploding stars. In between, microwaves provide decisive evidence for the Big Bang, infrared light enables us to take the temperature of distant comets, and X-rays map out seething hot gas in clusters of galaxies. We will discuss current research in fields of astronomy that rely heavily on wavelengths outside of the visible range.

Prerequisite: Any 200-level astronomy course.
Distribution: Natural and Physical Science
Semester: N/O.
Unit: 1.0

ASTR 311 Elements of Astrophysics

French

NOT OFFERED IN 2004-05. OFFERED IN 2005-06. Astrophysics is the application of physics to the study of the universe. We will use elements of mechanics, thermodynamics, electromagnetism, quantum mechanics, special relativity, and nuclear physics to investigate selected topics such as planets, the life stories of stars and galaxies, dark matter, and the origin of the universe. Our goals will be to develop insight into the physical underpinnings of the natural world, and to develop a 'universal toolkit' of practical astrophysical techniques that can be applied to the entire celestial menagerie. These tools include scaling analysis, numerical solutions to complex problems, and other research approaches advanced in professional literature.

Prerequisite: PHYS 202 and 203
Distribution: Mathematical Modeling or Natural and Physical Science
Semester: N/O.
Unit: 1.0
Astrophysics

AN INTERDEPARTMENTAL MAJOR

Director: Stark (Physics)

The Departments of Astronomy and Physics offer an interdepartmental major in astrophysics, with an emphasis on the underlying physical principles. Topics covered include celestial mechanics of planets, satellites, and rings, atmospheric structure and dynamics, seismology and planetary interiors, the physical properties of comets, asteroids, and moons, and the search for extrasolar planets. A required term project will involve quantitative analysis of modern ground-based or spacecraft observations of our solar system, or of planets around other stars. Normally offered in alternate years.

Prerequisite: PHYS 202 and 203 (or permission of instructor for students who are taking this as a corequisite with PHYS 202).

Semester: N/O. Unit: 1.0

ASTR 350 Research or Individual Study

Prerequisite: By permission of department. Distribution: None

Semester: Fall, Spring Unit: 1.0

ASTR 360 Senior Thesis Research

Prerequisite: By permission of department. See Academic Distinctions. Distribution: None

Semester: Fall, Spring Unit: 1.0

ASTR 370 Senior Thesis

Prerequisite: 360 Distribution: None

Semester: Fall, Spring Unit: 1.0

For Credit Toward the Major

MATH 216/PHYS 216 Mathematics for the Sciences II

PHYS 202 Introduction to Quantum Mechanics and Thermodynamics with Laboratory

PHYS 203 Vibrations, Waves, and Special Relativity with Laboratory

Directions for Election

The astronomy major consists of a minimum of nine courses: ASTR 101wL or 110wL; 206wL; 311; at least one of 301 or 315; PHYS 202; PHYS 203; MATH 216/PHYS 216; any additional two courses in astronomy above the 100 level. Students intending to major in astronomy are encouraged to begin physics as soon as possible, and to take ASTR 110wL rather than 101wL. PHYS 219 is strongly recommended. In planning a major program, students should note that some of these courses have prerequisites in mathematics and/or physics.

A substantial background in physics and mathematics is required for graduate study in astronomy. Students planning graduate work in astronomy should elect the astrophysics major.

A minor in astronomy (five units) consists of: 101 or 110, 301, and three additional units in astronomy. See description of Whitin Observatory and its equipment.

Biological Chemistry

AN INTERDEPARTMENTAL MAJOR

Director: Allen (Biological Sciences)

Biological Chemistry Advisory Committee: Allen (Biological Sciences), Hicks (Chemistry), Petersman (Biological Sciences), Wolfson (Chemistry)

The Departments of Biological Sciences and Chemistry offer an interdepartmental major in biological chemistry which provides opportunities for advanced study of the chemistry of biological systems.

In addition to two courses in biochemistry (CHEM 221 or 222 and 328), the area of concentration must include the following courses: CHEM (a) both 105 [110] and 205 [111], or 120; (b) 211; (c) either 232 or 231; BISC (a): 110 or 110X; (b) 219; (c) 220; (d) two 300-level courses from among the following: 303, 310, 313, 316, 320 or a seminar course if relevant to the major and approved by the director, excluding 350, 360, 370. At least one of these two courses must be a laboratory course; PHYS 104 or 107; MATH 116, 116Z, 120 or equivalent.

Students should be sure to satisfy the prerequisites for the 300-level courses in biology and chemistry. Note that CHEM [114/114E] satisfy the CHEM 105 requirement, and CHEM [115/115E] satisfy the CHEM 205 requirement. Exemption of BISC 110 means that a more advanced biology course must be taken. Although CHEM 222 may be used to satisfy the requirement for the first semester of biochemistry, CHEM 221 is the preferred course for biological chemistry majors.

Students planning graduate work in biochemistry should consider taking additional courses in chemistry, such as analytical, inorganic, and the second semesters of organic and physical chemistry. Students planning graduate work in molecular or cell biology should consider taking additional advanced biology courses in those areas. Independent research (350 and/or 360/370) is highly recommended, especially for those considering graduate study.

A recommended sequence of required courses would be:

- Year I, CHEM 105 and math or physics; either CHEM 205 or 211 and BISC 110
- Year II, either CHEM 211 or 205 and BISC 219; BISC 220 and math or physics
- Year III, CHEM 221 and math; CHEM 326 and 232
- Year IV, 300-level biology courses and independent study

Please discuss your program with the director or any member of the Program Advisory Committee as soon as possible.

BISC 107 Biotechnology
Smith
This course focuses on applications of recently developed biological techniques, including recombinant DNA, antibody techniques and reproductive technology. The social and ethical issues surrounding these techniques are also discussed. No prior knowledge of biology is expected, as all necessary background information will be discussed. Two lectures weekly. Not to be counted toward the minimum major in biological sciences.
Prerequisite: Fulfillment of the basic skills component of the Quantitative Reasoning requirement.
Distribution: Natural and Physical Science
Semester: Fall
Unit: 1.0

BISC 108 Horticulture with Laboratory
Himmelman, Thomas, McDonough
This course will emphasize plant structure, growth and function. Topics will include plant adaptations, reproduction, environmentally sound landscape practices, urban horticulture, and the use of medicinal plants. The laboratory involves extensive use of the greenhouses, experimental design, data collection and analysis, and field trips. Not to be counted towards the minimum major in biological sciences.
Prerequisite: Fulfillment of the basic skills component of the Quantitative Reasoning requirement.
Distribution: Natural and Physical Science
Semester: Spring
Unit: 1.25

BISC 109 Human Biology with Laboratory
Borla, McDonough
In this class, we will explore human physiology through case studies, lectures, and laboratories. The lectures and case studies will focus on nutrition, genetics, the nervous system, and endocrinology. There will be an emphasis on how different organ systems work together in integrated functions such as exercise and in reproduction. Laboratories involve data collection using computers, physiological test equipment, limited animal dissection, a personal nutrition study and field trips. Not to be counted toward the minimum major in biological sciences.
Prerequisite: Fulfillment of the basic skills component of the Quantitative Reasoning requirement.
Distribution: Natural and Physical Science
Semester: Fall
Unit: 1.25

BISC 110 Introductory Cell Biology with Laboratory
Staff
Introduction to eukaryotic and prokaryotic cell structure, chemistry and function. Topics include: cell metabolism, genetics, cellular interactions and mechanisms of growth and differentiation. Laboratories focus on experimental approaches to these topics. Either 110 or 111 may be taken first. Students with a strong background in biology and chemistry should consider 110X.
Prerequisite: Fulfillment of the basic skills component of the Quantitative Reasoning requirement.
Distribution: Natural and Physical Science
Semester: Fall, Spring
Unit: 1.25

BISC 110X Introductory Cell Biology with Laboratory
Hood-DeGrenier, Hacopian
One section of 110 will be taught for first-year students with exceptional high school backgrounds in biology and chemistry, and for upper-level students who have similarly strong backgrounds in the sciences. A more in-depth coverage of the topics typically covered in 110 will be possible because students entering this course will have some science experience. See BISC 110 for a description of topics.
Prerequisite: Students with lab experience and who have received a score of 4 or 5 on the Biology AP test may enroll. Students who have not taken the Biology AP or with a score lower than 4 must obtain permission from the instructor. All students must have fulfilled the basic skills component of the Quantitative Reasoning requirement. The successful completion of an AP course in chemistry, or its equivalent, is strongly recommended.
Distribution: Natural and Physical Science
Semester: Fall
Unit: 1.25

BISC 111 Introductory Organismal Biology with Laboratory
Staff
Introduction to the central questions, concepts, and methods of experimental analysis in selected areas of organismal biology. Topics include: evolution, ecology, and plant and animal structure and physiology. Either 110 or 111 may be taken first. Students with a strong background in biology should consider 111X.
Prerequisite: Fulfillment of the basic skills component of the Quantitative Reasoning requirement.
Distribution: Natural and Physical Science. Satisfies the Quantitative Reasoning overlay course requirement.
Semester: Fall, Spring, Summer
Unit: 1.25

BISC 111X Introductory Organismal Biology with Laboratory
Rodenhause, Paul
This section of 111 will be taught for first-year students with exceptional high school backgrounds in biology and for upper class students who have taken another science course at Wellesley. Because students entering this course will have some science experience, coverage of the topics included in BISC 111X will be more in depth than BISC 111. See BISC 111 for a description of the topics covered.
BISC 201 Ecology with Laboratory
Redhouse
An introduction to the scientific study of interactions between organisms and their environments. Topics include evolutionary adaptations to environmental constraints, foraging behavior, sexual reproduction and mate selection, population growth and regulation, species interactions, and the structure and function of biological communities and ecosystems. Emphasis is placed on experimental ecology and its uses in addressing environmental issues such as biological control of pests, conservation of endangered species and global climate change. Laboratories occur primarily in the field where exercises introduce students to local habitats including meadows, forests, alpine tundra, bogs, dunes, marshes, lakes, and streams.
Prerequisite: 110 or permission of the instructor. Distribution: Natural and Physical Science. Fulfills the Quantitative Reasoning overlay course requirement.
Semester: Fall  Unit: 1.25

BISC 202 Evolution with Laboratory
Buchholz
Examination of evolution, the central paradigm of biology, at the level of populations, species, and lineages. Topics include the genetics of populations, the definition of species, the roles of natural selection and chance in evolution, the reconstruction of phylogeny using molecular and morphological evidence, and patterns in the origination, diversity, and extinction of species over time.
Prerequisites: 110 and 111 Distribution: Natural and Physical Science Semester: Spring  Unit: 1.25

BISC 203 Comparative Physiology and Anatomy of Vertebrates with Laboratory
Cameron, Buchholz, Hellay
The physiology and functional anatomy of vertebrate animals, with an emphasis on comparisons among representative groups. The course covers topics in thermoregulatory, osmoregulatory, reproductive, cardiovascular, respiratory, digestive, neural and ecological physiology. The laboratories incorporate the study of preserved materials and physiological experiments.
Prerequisite: 109 or 111, or permission of instructor. Distribution: Natural and Physical Science Semester: Fall  Unit: 1.25

BISC 206 Histology I: Human Microscopic Anatomy with Laboratory
Smith
The structure and function of human tissues, and their cells, using light microscopic, histochernical and electron microscopic techniques. Topics covered include the connective tissues, epithelia, nervous tissue, blood, lymphoid tissue and immunology, as well as others. Laboratory study includes direct experience with selected techniques.
Prerequisite: 110 Distribution: Natural and Physical Science Semester: Fall  Unit: 1.25

BISC 207 The Biology of Plants with Laboratory
Peterman, König
An introduction to experimental plant biology. Topics will include growth and development, stress physiology, plant defense, applications of genetic engineering to the study and improvement of plants and the properties of medicinal plants. The project-oriented laboratory sessions will serve as well an introduction to some of the techniques currently employed in answering research questions ranging from the organismal to the cellular level.
Prerequisite: 110 or 111 Distribution: Natural and Physical Science Semester: Spring  Unit: 1.25

BISC 209 Microbiology with Laboratory
Allen, Leavitt
Introduction to the microbial world, with emphasis on bacteria and viruses and their activities in nature, using examples of how these microbes influence human activity. Both medical and nonmedical applications, and useful (food production, genetic engineering) as well as harmful (disease, bioterrorism) consequences of microbes will be discussed along with consideration of biological principles and techniques characterizing the organisms.
Prerequisite: 110 and one unit of college chemistry Distribution: Natural and Physical Science Semester: Spring  Unit: 1.25

BISC 210 Marine Biology with Laboratory
Moore, Hughes
Oceans cover more than 70% of the earth’s surface and are our planet’s primary life support system. This course examines adaptations and interactions of plants, animals and their environments in marine habitats. Focal habitats include the photic zone of the open ocean, the deep sea, subtidal and intertidal zones, estuaries, and coral reefs. Emphasis is placed on the dominant organisms, food webs, and experimental studies conducted within each habitat.
Prerequisite: 111 or by permission of the instructor. Distribution: Natural and Physical Science Semester: Fall  Unit: 1.25

BISC 213/NEUR 213 The Biology of Brain and Behavior with Laboratory
Beltz, Goldman (Physiss), Hellay, Paul
An introduction to the study of the nervous system and behavior with particular emphasis on the structure and function of the nervous system. In the first half of the semester, basic neuroanatomy, neurochemistry and neurophysiology are covered. In the second half of the semester, brain mechanisms involved in sensation, language, addiction, memory, and cognition are emphasized. The laboratory is designed to expose the student to basic neuroanatomy, neurochemistry, physiology and behavior.
Prerequisite: 110 and either 111 or 109 Distribution: Epistemology and Cognition or Natural and Physical Science Semester: Fall, Spring  Unit: 1.25

BISC 216 Mechanisms of Animal Development with Laboratory
O'Donnell
In this course, we will explore animal development beginning with the process of fertilization. We consider how a single cell gives rise to the many specialized cell types of the adult. The mechanisms that determine cell fate as the multicellular embryo differentiates will be discussed. Topics will include: embryonic induction, pattern formation, organogenesis (organ development), regeneration, and stem cells. Laboratories will focus on experimental approaches to development.
Prerequisite: 110 and 111 or permission of instructor Distribution: Natural and Physical Science Semester: Spring  Unit: 1.25

BISC 219 Molecular Genetics with Laboratory
Wells, Sequiera, Crum, Leavitt
The course will be devoted to an understanding of the molecular and biochemical basis of genetics and the interactions between cells that provide the basis for tissue and organismal development. The course will also establish a link between the generation of genetic variants through mutation, their patterns of inheritance and their maintenance in natural populations. Topics will include: organization of the eukaryotic genome, gene structure and function, differential gene expression, cellular and tissue differentiation including aspects of both animal and plant development, and genetics of pattern formation, inheritance of gene differences and aspects of population and evolutionary genetics. Laboratory experiments will expose students to the fundamentals of molecular genetics.
Prerequisite: 110 and one unit of college chemistry. Not open to first-year students. Distribution: Natural and Physical Science Semester: Fall  Unit: 1.25

BISC 220 Cellular Physiology with Laboratory
Hood-DeGrenier, O'Donnell, Crum
This course will focus on structure/function relationships in eukaryotic cells. Topics will include: dynamic imaging of living cells, an introduction to protein structure and enzyme kinetics, membrane and membrane-bound organelle structure and function, cytoskeleton, transport mechanisms, cell communication, and signaling. The laboratory consists of three projects: enzyme purification and characterization, investigation of cellular transport pathways in yeast, and an analysis of the cytoskeleton in cultured mammalian cells using fluorescence microscopy.
Prerequisite: 110 and two units of college chemistry. One semester of organic chemistry is recommended. Not open to first-year students. Distribution: Natural and Physical Science Semester: Spring  Unit: 1.25

BISC 250 Research or Individual Study
Prerequisite: By permission of instructor. Distribution: None Semester: Fall, Spring  Unit: 1.0

BISC 250H Research or Individual Study
Prerequisite: By permission of instructor. Distribution: None Semester: Fall, Spring  Unit: 0.5

BISC 302 Animal Physiology with Laboratory
Cameron, Paul
This course takes an integrated approach to the study of organ system function in animals, with an emphasis on human physiology. We will examine control mechanisms that allow the human body to maintain a constant balance in the face of environmental challenges such as exercise, temperature change and high altitude.
Our particular focus will be recent findings in the areas of neural, cardiovascular, respiratory, renal and muscle physiology. In the laboratory, students gain experience with tools of modern physiological research at both the cellular and organismal levels.

Prerequisite: 111 and one of the following: 203, 206, 213, 220, 222
Distribution: Natural and Physical Science
Semester: Spring
Unit: 1.25

BISC 303/CS 303 Bioinformatics
Webb, Tjaden (Computer Science)
A multidisciplinary seminar exploring the origins, present and future applications and challenges of the intersection of biological and computer sciences. The field of bioinformatics generated in response to the era of genomics encompasses all aspects of biological data acquisition, storage, processing, analysis and interpretation with a view to generating in silico models of cellular function. Students may register for either BISC 303 or CS 303. Credit will be given in the department in which the student is registered.
Prerequisites: 219 or 220 or CS 231
Distribution: Natural and Physical Science
Semester: Spring
Unit: 1.0

BISC 304 Histology II: Microscopic Anatomy of Human Systems with Laboratory
Smith
NOT OFFERED IN 2004-05. Analysis of structure-function relationships of human systems, based primarily on microscopic techniques. Examination of selected pathologic states in each system, as well as discussion of recent literature. Laboratory study includes tissue preparation for microscopy, as well as hands-on experience at the transmission electron microscope and participation in a group research project.
Prerequisite: 206
Distribution: Natural and Physical Science
Semester: N/O
Unit: 1.25

BISC 305 Seminar. Evolution
Bucholtz
NOT OFFERED IN 2004-05. Major events in the history of life. Origin of life from nonlife, evolution of replicatory molecules, origin of eukaryotic cellular structure, diversification of organic domains, kingdoms and animal phyla, development of strategies for life in terrestrial environments, patterns of extinction. The course will emphasize student participation and make extensive use of the original literature.
Prerequisite: Two units in Biological Sciences at the 200 level or permission of instructor
Distribution: Natural and Physical Science
Semester: N/O
Unit: 1.0

BISC 306 Principles of Neural Development with Laboratory
O'Donnell, Paul
Aspects of nervous system development and how they relate to the development of the organism as a whole. Topics such as neural induction, neurogenesis, programmed cell death, axon guidance, synaptogenesis, and the development of behavior are discussed. Laboratory sessions focus on a variety of methods used to define developing neural systems.

Prerequisite: 213 or 216, or permission of instructor
Distribution: Epistemology and Cognition or Natural and Physical Science
Semester: Fall
Unit: 1.25

BISC 307/ES 307: Advanced Topics in Ecology with Laboratory
Hughes
Topic for Spring 2005: Conservation Biology with Laboratory. We live on an increasingly human-dominated planet. We must now take responsibility for and stewardship of Earth's resources, both living and non-living, which we are changing at unprecedented rates. Our course covers terrestrial, fresh and saltwater habitats - their diversity and ecology, current status and sustainability, and the role of humanity in both their endangerment and salvation. We will examine the sources and importance of species diversity, and explore the often contentious issues of species and ecosystem preservation and conservation, the design of natural sanctuaries, and whether altered ecosystems can be managed and restored. Laboratory activities will include measurement of species diversity in soil and aquatic samples, successional dynamics, ephemeral habitat biology and ecology, geographic informational analysis, and an independent project. Students may register for either BISC 307 or ES 307. Credit will be given in the department in which the student is registered.
Prerequisite: 201, 210, or permission of instructor
Distribution: Natural and Physical Science
Semester: Spring
Unit: 1.25

BISC 308 Tropical Ecology with Wintersession Laboratory
Koniger, Hillay
The ecology of coral reefs and rain forests is the focus of the course. Lectures and discussions during the fall prepare students for the field portion in Belize and Costa Rica. The first half of the laboratory takes place on an island neighboring the world's second longest barrier reef; the second half is taught in an intact lowland rain forest. Laboratory work is carried out primarily out-of-doors and includes introductions to the flora and fauna, as well as testing of student-generated hypotheses. Usually offered every other year. Subject to Dean's Office approval.
Prerequisite: 201, 207, or 210, and permission of instructor. Application required.
Distribution: Natural and Physical Science
Semester: Fall, Wintersession
Unit: 1.25

BISC 310 Advanced Topics in Cellular Regulation with Laboratory
Hood-DeGreiner
Eukaryotic cells possess a diverse array of molecular circuits that regulate their normal activities and respond to external signals. Common modes of regulation include modulation of protein expression or localization, covalent protein modifications, and protein-protein interactions. This course will examine the molecular mechanisms that regulate processes such as cell division, cell differentiation, stress responses, and others, in a format that combines lectures and student presentations of current literature articles. A semester-long laboratory project will investigate a particular regulatory pathway using the budding yeast Saccharomyces cerevisiae as a model organism.
Prerequisite: 220 or 219 (both recommended)
Distribution: Natural and Physical Science
Semester: Fall
Unit: 1.25

BISC 313 Seminar. Microbial Physiology and Biochemistry
Allen
Topic for 2004-05: Microbial Communication and Development. Many bacteria are social creatures, interacting and communicating with each other. Quorum sensing, where population density alters gene expression, controls a diverse range of behaviors such as virulence factor production, genetic competence, sporulation, biofilm production, and programmed cell death. Signaling pathways and the molecules that regulate them will be studied, as well as the molecular mechanisms that regulate and produce developmental change in prokaryotes. Student participation and discussion of original literature will be emphasized.
Prerequisite: 209 or 219 or 220, and CHEM 211, or permission of instructor
Distribution: Natural and Physical Science
Semester: Spring
Unit: 1.0

BISC 315 Advanced Topics in Neurobiology with Laboratory
NOT OFFERED IN 2004-05.
Prerequisite: 213
Distribution: Natural and Physical Science
Semester: N/O
Unit: 1.25

BISC 316 Molecular Biology with Laboratory
Peterson
Molecular techniques, which allow us to isolate, analyze and manipulate genes, have revolutionized our understanding of living things as well as our ability to alter them genetically. This course focuses on the use of molecular methods to dissect and manipulate complex biological systems. A case study approach will be used to analyze the application of molecular biology to genetic diseases (e.g., cystic fibrosis and muscular dystrophy), genetically modified organisms, cancer, stem cells, human cloning, aging and environmental protection. Student participation and critical analysis of the primary literature will be emphasized. In the laboratory students will pursue an original research project using current molecular techniques (e.g., molecular cloning, PCR, DNA sequencing, mutagenesis, protein expression, bioinformatics). Emphasis will be on experimental design and data analysis and interpretation.
Prerequisite: 219 or permission of the instructor
Distribution: Natural and Physical Science
Semester: Spring
Unit: 1.25

BISC 319 Population Genetics and Systematics with Laboratory
Sequeira
In this course we will focus on patterns of population differentiation and speciation in oceanic islands. Little is known about the ecological and historical forces responsible for speciation although these are key for the generation of biological diversity. By looking at relationships between organisms, populations and species, we can interpret how historical processes can leave evolutionary footprints on the geographic distribution of traits. After a series of introductory lectures, the course will involve student presentations and discussion of primary literature examining cases in archipelagos (Hawaii, Canaries and Galapagos). In the laboratory we will explore computational biology tools for analysis of DNA sequences, and apply methods of phylogeny, phylogeography reconstruction and population demographics. We will also explore the growing field of molecular dating of evolutionary events.

Prerequisite: 202 or 219 or by permission of the instructor
Distribution: Natural and Physical Science
Semester: Spring
Unit: 1.25

BISC 320 The Proteomics of Eukaryotic Cells with Laboratory
Harris
The Human Genome Project and the sequencing of the genomes of several other organisms have provided biologists with vast storehouses of information. However, it is important to remember that DNA sequences are only a blueprint for life. To a great extent the living condition arises from the complex interactions of thousands of cellular proteins. Research that focuses on the large-scale study of proteins is called proteomics. This course introduces students to the techniques utilized and the scientific questions being addressed in this newly emerging discipline. Student participation and the use of original literature will be emphasized. In the laboratory students will perform two-dimensional gel electrophoresis, peptide mass fingerprinting using MALDI-TOF mass spectrometry, and DNA microarrays.
Prerequisite: 220 and CHEM 211, or permission of the instructor. BISC 219 is strongly recommended.
Distribution: Natural and Physical Science
Semester: Fall
Unit: 1.25

BISC 330 Seminar
Allen
NOT OFFERED IN 2004-05.
Prerequisite: 209 or 220 or permission of instructor.
Distribution: Natural and Physical Science
Semester: N/O
Unit: 1.0

BISC 331 Seminar
NOT OFFERED IN 2004-05.
Prerequisite: Two of the following: 201, 203, 207, 209, 210 or 222, or permission of instructor.
Distribution: Natural and Physical Science

Unit: 1.0

BISC 335/NEUR 335/PHYS 335 Computational Neuroscience with Laboratory
Goldman
Computations by networks of neurons in the brain underlie all of our thoughts, perceptions, and memories. However, direct experimental observation of neural computations is extremely difficult. Mathematical models are increasingly used to bridge the gap between experimental measurements and hypothesized network functions. This course will focus on the use of mathematical models to describe computations performed in the nervous systems of a variety of animals. Topics will range from single neuron biophysics to the analysis of circuits thought to underlie sensory perception and memory. Each topic will be introduced by background lectures, followed by student-led presentations of primary literature and construction of a computer model of the system studied. Lab will introduce students to computer programming of mathematical models in MATLAB and the neuron-simulator NEURON. Students may register for either BISC 335, NEUR 335 or PHYS 335. Credit will be given in the department in which the student is registered.
Prerequisite: PHYS 104/107 and either PHYS 106/108 or NEUR/BISC 213; or permission of instructor. No programming experience is required. Not open to first-year students.
Distribution: Natural and Physical Science or Mathematical Modeling
Semester: Fall
Unit: 1.25

BISC 350 Research or Individual Study
Prerequisite: Open by permission of instructor, ordinarily to students who have taken at least four units in biology. See Academic Distinctions.
Distribution: None
Semester: Fall, Spring

Directions for Election
A major in biological sciences includes eight biology courses, at least six of which must be taken at Wellesley, plus two units of college chemistry. BISC 110 and 111 or their equivalent are required for the major. Four 200-level courses are required, with at least one course from each of the following three groups: cell biology — 206, 216, 219, 220; systems biology — 203, 207, 213, 222; and community biology — 201, 202, 204, 209, 210. A minimum of two 300-level courses are also required for the major. One of these courses, exclusive of 350, 360, or 370 work, must include laboratory and must be taken at Wellesley. Additional chemistry beyond the two required units is strongly recommended or required for certain 300-level courses. CHEM 221 and 328, and BISC 350, 360, and 370 do not count toward the minimum major. BISC 107, 108, and 109, which do not count toward the minimum major in biological sciences, do fulfill the College distribution requirements; 108 and 109 as laboratory sciences; 107 as a nonlaboratory science course. BISC 109, 111 (and 111X), and 201 fulfill the QR overlay course requirements.
Within the major, students may design a program in general biology or one which emphasizes subjects dealing with animals, plants, microbes, or cellular/molecular mechanisms. A broad training in the various aspects of biology is recommended.
A minor in biological sciences (five units) consists of: (A) two 100-level units and (B) two 200-level units, each of which must be in a different group as described in the first paragraph above under major requirements, and (C) one 300-level unit, excluding 350, which must be taken at Wellesley. Four of the five courses for a minor must be taken at Wellesley. Chemistry is recommended. Students planning a minor should consult the chair.
Students interested in the interdepartmental major in biological chemistry are referred to that section of the catalog where the program is described. They should consult with Professor Allen, the director of the biological chemistry program.
Students interested in the interdepartmental major in neuroscience are referred to the section of the catalog where this program is described. They should consult with Professor Berger-Sweeney, director of the neuroscience program.
Students interested in the interdepartmental major in environmental studies are referred to this listing in the catalog where the program is described. They should consult with Professor DeSombre or Professor Bodenhouse, co-directors of the environmental studies program.
Students interested in concentrating in community biology may wish to supplement and enrich their work at Wellesley by taking extradepartmental courses offered through the Marine Studies Consortium or the Semester in Environmental Science (SES) offered each fall at the Ecosystems Center of the Marine Biological Laboratory, Woods Hole, Mass. Students are referred to the sections of the catalog titled Extradepartmental and Special Academic Programs where these opportunities are described.
AP credit does not replace any course offered in the Department of Biological Sciences and does not count toward a major in biological sciences, biological chemistry, or neuroscience. Students with an AP score of 4 or 5, or those with exceptional preparation that includes a strong laboratory experience, should consider enrolling in BISC 110X and/or BISC 111X. The successful completion of an AP course in chemistry, or its equivalent, is strongly recommended. No exemption exams will be given for BISC 110 or 111. All biology courses require the fulfillment of the Quantitative Reasoning basic skills requirement as a prerequisite.
In order to obtain Wellesley credit for any biology course taken at another institution during the summer or the academic year, preliminary approval must be obtained from the chair of the department prior to enrolling in the course. Once the student has enrolled at Wellesley, courses from two-year colleges will not be accepted at any level. Transfer students wishing to obtain credit for biology courses taken prior to enrollment at Wellesley should consult the chair of the department.

Students planning graduate work are advised to take calculus, statistics, organic chemistry, two units of physics, and to have a reading knowledge of a second language. They should consult the catalogs of the schools of their choice for specific requirements. Premedical students are referred to the requirements given in the Academic Program section.

Department of Chemistry

Professor: Hicks, Kolodny*, Coleman (Chair), Hearn, Wolfson, Fuller-Stanley*, Arumainayagam

Associate Professor: Haines, Miwa

Assistant Professor: Reisberg, Verschoor, Flynn, Elmore

Visiting Assistant Professor: Wicht

Senior Instructor in Chemistry Laboratory: Turnbull, Doe, Hall, Shawcross, McCarthy*

Unless otherwise noted, all courses meet for three periods of lecture/discussion and one 3.5 hour laboratory appointment weekly. CHEM 101, 306, and the selected topics courses will generally be taught without laboratory, but may include laboratory for some topics.

The chemistry department reviews elections of introductory chemistry students and places them in 105, 205, or 120 according to their previous preparation and Advanced Placement (AP) scores and department placement exams. Students wishing to enter CHEM 211 based on an AP score must present a laboratory notebook or other evidence of prior laboratory work to the department chair.

Ordinarily, students who have taken one year of high school chemistry should elect CHEM 105 followed by either CHEM 205 or 211. Students with more than one year of high school chemistry normally elect CHEM 120.

CHEM 101 Contemporary Problems in Chemistry

Reisberg

A study of a wide variety of drugs, both legal and illegal. The focus will be on how these molecules affect our minds and bodies based on an understanding of their biochemistry. Topics will include antibiotics, steroids, stimulants, intoxicants, narcotics, and hallucinogens. The history, discovery, development, testing, regulation and prohibition of these substances will also be considered.

Prerequisite: Open to all students except those who have taken any other chemistry course. Distribution: Natural and Physical Science Semester: Spring Unit: 1.0

CHEM 102 Contemporary Problems in Chemistry with Laboratory

Reisberg

A study of a wide variety of drugs, both legal and illegal. The focus will be on how these molecules affect our minds and bodies based on an understanding of their biochemistry. Topics will include antibiotics, steroids, stimulants, intoxicants, narcotics, and hallucinogens. The history, discovery, development, testing, regulation and prohibition of these substances will also be considered. The laboratory will include synthesis and analysis of an analgesic and an intoxicant, plus the detection of drugs in our bodies and on currency.

Prerequisite: Open to all students except those who have taken any other chemistry course. Distribution: Natural and Physical Science Semester: Spring Unit: 1.0

CHEM 105 Fundamentals of Chemistry with Laboratory

Staff

This course is designed for students majoring in the physical and biological sciences as well as those wishing an introduction to modern molecular science. Core principles and interesting applications of chemistry will be combined to provide students with a conceptual understanding of chemistry that will help them in both their professional and everyday lives. Topics will include principles of atomic and molecular structure including nuclear chemistry, molecular energetics, an introduction to chemical equilibrium, chemical kinetics and classes of chemical reactions. The laboratory work introduces students to synthesis and structural determination by IR and other spectroscopic techniques, molecular modeling, periodic properties, statistical analysis and various quantitative methods of analysis.

Prerequisite: 105 is designed for students who have completed one year of high school chemistry and mathematics equivalent to two years of algebra. Students who do not meet these prerequisites and who wish to take 105 should contact the department chair. Students must have fulfilled the basic skills component of the Quantitative Reasoning requirement. Not open to students who have taken [110]. Distribution: Natural and Physical Science or Mathematical Modeling Semester: Fall, Spring Unit: 1.25

CHEM 120 Intensive Introductory Chemistry with Laboratory

Arumainayagam

A one-semester course for students who have completed more than one year of high school chemistry, replacing CHEM [110] 105 and [111] 205 as a prerequisite for more advanced chemistry courses. It presents the topics of nuclear chemistry, atomic structure and bonding, periodicity, kinetics, thermodynamics, electrochemistry, equilibrium, acid/base chemistry, solubility and transition metal chemistry. All of these topics are presented in the context of both historical and contemporary applications. The laboratory includes experiments directly related to topics covered in lecture, an introduction of statistical analysis of data, molecular modeling and computational chemistry, instrumental and classical methods of analysis, thermochemistry and solution equilibria.

Prerequisite: Open only to students who have taken more than one year of high school chemistry and have fulfilled the basic skills component of the Quantitative Reasoning requirement. Not open to students who have completed [110] 105 and/or [111] 205. Distribution: Natural and Physical Science or Mathematical Modeling. Fulfills the Quantitative Reasoning overlay course requirement. Semester: Fall Unit: 1.25

CHEM 205 Chemical Analysis and Equilibrium with Laboratory

Staff

This course builds on the principles introduced in CHEM 105, with an emphasis on chemical equilibrium and analysis, and their role in the chemistry of the environment. Topics will include chemical reactions in aqueous solution with particular emphasis on acids and bases, solubility and complexation, electrochemistry, atmospheric chemistry, photochemistry and smog, global warming and acid deposition, sampling and separations, modeling of complex equilibrium and kinetic systems, statistical analysis of data, and solid state chemistry of ceramics, zeolites and new novel materials. The laboratory work includes additional experience with instrumental and noninstrumental methods of analysis, sampling, computational chemistry and solution equilibria.

Prerequisites: 105 and fulfillment of the basic skills component of the Quantitative Reasoning requirement or permission of the department. Not open to students who have taken [111] or 120.

Distribution: Mathematical Modeling or Natural and Physical Science. Fulfills the Quantitative Reasoning overlay course requirement.

Semester: Fall, Spring
Unit: 1.25

CHEM 211 Organic Chemistry I with Laboratory
Haines, Hear, Mina, Wilch

Topics covered include: stereochemistry, synthesis and reactions of alkanes, alkenes, alkynes, alkyll halides, alcohols and ethers, nomenclature of organic functional groups, IR, and GC/MS.

Prerequisite: 105 or 111, or 120 or permission of the department.

Distribution: Natural and Physical Science
Semester: Fall, Spring
Unit: 1.25

CHEM 212 Organic Chemistry II with Laboratory
Haines, Hear, Mina

A continuation of CHEM 211. Includes NMR spectroscopy, synthesis, reactions of aromatic and carboxyl compounds, amines, and carbohydrates. In addition, students are expected to study the chemical literature and write a short chemistry review paper.

Prerequisite: 211. Not open to students who have taken [313].

Distribution: Natural and Physical Science
Semester: Fall, Spring
Unit: 1.25

CHEM 221 Biochemistry I: Structure and Function of Macromolecules with Laboratory Elmore

A study of the chemistry of macromolecules, especially nucleic acids and proteins, with emphasis on structure-function relationships and methodology; an introduction to enzyme kinetics and mechanisms.

Prerequisite: 205, 211 and BSC 220; or 120, 211 and BSC 220.

Distribution: Natural and Physical Science
Semester: Fall
Unit: 1.25

CHEM 222 Introduction to Biochemistry with Laboratory Elmore

A study of the chemistry of macromolecules with emphasis on structure-function relationships; an introduction to bioenergetics, enzyme kinetics, and metabolism.

Prerequisite: 205, 212 [313] or 120, 211 and 212 [313]

Distribution: Natural and Physical Science
Semester: Fall, Spring
Unit: 1.25

CHEM 231 Physical Chemistry I with Laboratory Coleman

This course establishes and develops the principles that are used to explain and interpret the observations made in other branches of chemistry. Two major topics, chemical thermodynamics and kinetics, are introduced. Properties of solutions and gases are examined using these principles. Applications to other areas of chemistry will be discussed. The laboratory segment of the course incorporates statistical analysis of measured data.

Prerequisite: [111], 205 or 120, or by permission of the department, and MATH 116, 1162, or 120 and PHYS 104 or 107.

Distribution: Natural and Physical Science or Mathematical Modeling. Fulfills the Quantitative Reasoning overlay course requirement.

Semester: Fall
Unit: 1.25

CHEM 232 Physical Chemistry for the Life Sciences with Laboratory Arumainayagam

An examination of several topics in physical chemistry, with an emphasis on their applications to the life sciences. Topics include quantum chemistry and spectroscopy, electrochemistry, chemical thermodynamics and kinetics.

Prerequisite: [111], 205 or 120, or permission of the department, and MATH 116, 1162, or 120 and PHYS 104 or 107.

Distribution: Natural and Physical Science or Mathematical Modeling. Fulfills the Quantitative Reasoning overlay course requirement.

Semester: Spring
Unit: 1.25

CHEM 230 Research or Individual Study

Prerequisite: Open by permission to students who have taken [111] 205 or 120. This course cannot be counted toward a minor major in Chemistry.

Distribution: None
Semester: Fall, Spring
Unit: 1.0

CHEM 251 Research or Individual Study

This course may count toward the research requirement for the chemistry major if the following criteria are met: the student registers for 251, writes an 8-10 page (minimum) paper on the research and gives a presentation to the chemical department during one of the two research seminar presentation periods. The paper must contain substantial literature references, demonstrating a familiarity with searching the chemical literature.

Prerequisite: Open by permission to students who have taken [111] 205 or 120. This course cannot be counted toward a minor major in Chemistry.

Distribution: None
Semester: Fall, Spring
Unit: 1.0

CHEM 306 Seminar

Hears

Topic for 2004-05: Drug Discovery and Design. This course will comprise an examination of the ways in which modern therapeutic agents are first identified and then developed for effective treatment of disease. Both identification and development are chemistry-driven processes that rely heavily on efficient methods of chemical synthesis of new drug candidates, concurrent biological evaluation and on-going coordination of synthetic and biological results. Once discovered, the molecular structures of candidate drugs must often pass through many stages of refinement before they have been successfully optimized for the cure or management of disease. The course will focus on the methods used for discovery and the criteria applied for refinement, taking examples from the scientific literature. In this participatory seminar, students will write a number of papers and will make presentations.

Prerequisite: Two units of chemistry above the introductory level and permission of the instructor.

Distribution: Natural and Physical Science
Semester: Fall
Unit: 1.0

CHEM 319 Seminar. Selected Topics in Organic Chemistry

NOT OFFERED IN 2004-05.

Prerequisite: [313] or 212
Distribution: Natural and Physical Science
Semester: N/O

CHEM 328 Biochemistry II: Chemical Aspects of Metabolism with Laboratory Hicks

An examination of reaction mechanisms, mechanisms of enzyme and coenzyme action; structures and metabolism of carbohydrates and lipids.

Prerequisite: 221 or 222
Distribution: Natural and Physical Science
Semester: Spring
Unit: 1.25

CHEM 329 Seminar. Selected Topics in Biochemistry

Topic for 2004-05: Biochemistry of Fats and Carbohydrates: Beyond Diets. The functions of lipids and carbohydrates go beyond their role as food. Both types of molecules are important structurally and in cellular communication. When linked to proteins, they modify protein activities and direct intracellular traffic. Inborn errors in their metabolism can have disastrous physiological effects. We will explore some aspects of the metabolism of these macromolecules, and examine current research on their functions.

Prerequisite: 221 or 222 and permission of instructor.
Distribution: Natural and Physical Science
Semester: Spring
Unit: 1.0

CHEM 333 Physical Chemistry II with Laboratory Coleman

Quantum chemistry and spectroscopy; structure of solids. Introduction to computational chemistry.

Prerequisite: 231, PHYS 100 or 108 and MATH 216/PHYS 216.
Distribution: Natural and Physical Science or Mathematical Modeling
Semester: Spring
Unit: 1.25

CHEM 341 Inorganic Chemistry with Laboratory Verschoor

Review of atomic structure, multi-electron atoms, the periodic table and periodicity, chemical applications of group theory, molecular orbital theory, the chemistry of ionic compounds, generalized acid/base theories, transition metal complexes, organometallic chemistry, catalysis, and bioinorganic chemistry. The laboratory introduces a variety of experimental methods used in inorganic synthesis including non-aqueous solvent, high temperature, inert atmosphere and vacuum techniques as well as techniques in computational chemistry and spectroscopic methods of characterization.

Prerequisites: 205 and 212 [313], or 120 and 212 [313]
Distribution: Natural and Physical Science
Semester: Spring
Unit: 1.25

CHEM 350 Research or Individual Study

Prerequisite: Open by permission to students who have taken at least three units in chemistry above the introductory level.
Distribution: None
Semester: Fall, Spring
Unit: 1.0

Directions for Election

Any student who plans to take chemistry beyond [111], 205, or 120 should consult one or more members of the chemistry department faculty. The department handbook, available at the department office, Science Center 147, contains specific suggestions about programs and deals with a variety of topics including preparation in mathematics and physics, graduate programs, and careers of former majors.

The chemistry core curriculum was revised in academic year 2002-03. For students in the class of 2007 and beyond and those currently who wish to major in chemistry but have taken fewer than three chemistry courses the major will consist of: 105 [110] and 205 [111], or 120; 211 and 212 [313]; 231 or 232; three from among: 221 or 222, 333, 341, 361; and two additional courses in chemistry at the 200 or 300 level, at least one of which must include laboratory. A lab-based 350 or 351 can count as one of the additional courses. Students who plan to major in chemistry should complete the equivalent of one year of college-level physics. Students must also complete MATH 116 or MATH 120. All students who plan to major in chemistry must complete a minimum of one unit of research/independent study. The research requirement may be earned during the academic year by completing a 251, 351 or 360. To obtain research credit toward the major all of these must culminate in the writing of a chemistry paper on the project and a presentation in the department. The research requirement may also be fulfilled by participating in a summer research program and meeting the stipulations regarding the paper and presentation. Students must arrange to have the research project approved by a faculty member in the chemistry department before starting the project. The research may be conducted on or off campus and must be for a minimum of 8 weeks.

The mathematics and physics courses may be counted toward a major or a minor in those departments. Early completion of the mathematics and physics requirements is encouraged.

Students planning graduate work in some areas of chemistry or closely allied fields should strongly consider taking CHEM 333 and additional mathematics and physics courses. MATH 216/PHYS 216 (Mathematics for the Sciences II) is particularly appropriate for students with interest in physical or inorganic chemistry.

Normally no more than three units of chemistry taken from another institution may be counted towards the major.

Students interested in the interdepartmental major in biological chemistry are referred to the section of the catalog where that major is described. They should also consult with the director of the biological chemistry program.

A minor in chemistry includes: 105 [110] and 205 [111], or 120; 211; 231 or 323, a choice of 221 or 222 or 341 or 361; one additional 200- or 300-level unit, excluding 350/351. The mathematics and physics prerequisites for 231 or 323 must also be satisfied. Normally no more than one unit in chemistry from another institution may be counted toward the minor.

The American Chemical Society has established a set of requirements in various areas which it considers essential for the training of chemists. Students wishing to meet the standard of an accredited chemist as defined by this society should consult the chair of the chemistry department.

Teacher Certification

Students interested in obtaining certification to teach chemistry in the Commonwealth of Massachusetts should consult the chair of the education department.

Placement and Exemption Examinations

For exemption and placement into the next higher course, students will be expected to submit laboratory notebooks, reports, or other evidence of laboratory experience. A student who has scored well (4 or 5) on the Advanced Placement examination usually takes 120 or goes directly into CHEM 211. Similarly, students with high scores on the International Baccalaureate Examination can elect CHEM 211. If a student chooses to start in organic chemistry, she should confer with an organic instructor before the course begins. If an AP student with a score of 4 or 5 completed CHEM 120 or CHEM 105/205, she will receive the appropriate introductory chemistry credit but will receive no AP credit.

Credit for Courses Taken at Other Institutions

In order to obtain Wellesley credit for any chemistry course taken at another institution during the summer or the academic year, approval must be obtained from the chair of the department prior to enrolling in the course. In general, courses from two-year colleges will not be accepted at any level. These restrictions normally apply only to courses taken after enrollment at Wellesley. Transfer students wishing to obtain credit for chemistry courses taken prior to enrollment at Wellesley should consult the chair of the department.

Withdrawal from Courses with Laboratory

Students who withdraw from a course which includes laboratory, and then elect that course in another semester, must complete both the lecture and laboratory portions of the course the second time.
Cinema and Media Studies

AN INTERDEPARTMENTAL MAJOR

Director: Viano (Italian Studies)

Advisory Committee: Obeng (Africana Studies), Karakasoulou (Anthropology), Mekuria (Art), Huis (East Asian Languages and Literatures), Ford (English), Shelton (English), Gillam (French), Ward (German), Zimmerman (East Asian Languages and Literatures), Bishop (Russian), Cushman (Sociology), Gaspard-Vent (Spanish), Creev (Women's Studies), Wood (The Writing Program)

The cinema and media studies (CAMS) major is multicultural in scope and interdisciplinary in method. Its chief objective is to provide students with the skills to understand and interpret the various forms of the moving image. Audio-visual media have played a dominant role in the cultural life of the century recently ended, and promise to figure even more prominently in the current century. The cinema and media studies program equips students to reflect critically on the prevalence and power of audio-visual media, to analyze in an informed and judicious way specific audio-visual texts, and to appreciate the power of outstanding works of cinematic art. The program aims to substitute active viewing for passive absorption, and to offer students a context and a set of tools with which to assess the media texts that shape the world we all inhabit.

Students majoring in cinema and media studies must take a minimum of nine units, including CAMS 175 and CAMS 231, one unit in the art department, and one unit in the sociology department, chosen from among the courses listed below. Two units must be at the 300 level, and only one of them can be a 350. To ensure some concentration, at least four units at the 200 level or above should either be elected from within one department or should center around a particular field within the major, such as cinema and video art, media and identity, media and the culture industry. (For some examples of suitable field concentrations and associated courses, please consult the cinema and media studies Web page at www.wellesley.edu/film/homePage/home.html.)

Students primarily interested in the computing aspects of arts and multimedia should consider the interdepartmental media arts and sciences program.

CAMS 120/WRIT 125 Women in Film
Wood (The Writing Program)

To a large extent, film is about watching, and much film is about watching women. This course provides basic instruction in film analysis, and then makes a foray into theories of cinema. What does the camera work, not only to display its characters, but also to direct the gaze upon them? What are the relationships between the visual spectacle and the progress of the film's story? Writing assignments ask students to observe, analyze, interpret, and explain. Films will include early films (Chaplin, Aznner), late films (American Beauty), films of the 40s, and something by Hitchcock. This course satisfies the Writing 125 requirement and counts as a unit towards a major in cinema and media studies. Includes a third session each week.

Prerequisite: Open to all first-year students.
Distribution: Arts, Music, Theatre, Film, Video
Semester: Spring
Unit: 1.0

CAMS 175 Introduction to Cinema Studies
Viano

In this introductory course students will learn about cinema studies as a recently formed discipline. Starting with a reflection on the difference between film and cinema, we will question the field's theoretical linchpins, such as spectatorship and authorship, intertextuality and cultural production. The role played by audio-visual technology in the formation of what is called modernity's structure of feeling will be investigated through the analysis of feature films, documentaries, animation, and various videotaped materials. Finally, students will get a sense of film history, with a special focus on silent films and cinema's beginnings worldwide.

Prerequisite: Preference given to cinema and media studies majors, first-year students and sophomores.
Distribution: Arts, Music, Theatre, Film, Video
Semester: Fall
Unit: 1.0

CAMS 210 Cinema in the 1960s
Viano

NOT OFFERED IN 2004-05. This course aims to investigate the "turmoil" in the cinema in the 1960s: the birth of ubiquitous New Waves, the interest in avant-garde cinema, and the rise of political filmmaking. We will watch films made in developed as well as developing countries. We will read historical accounts of the cinematic output, together with interviews and manifestoes. Finally, we will briefly analyze cinema's critical role as collective memory: films that re-visited the 1960s a few decades later, thus constituting images of history.

Prerequisite: None
Distribution: Arts, Music, Theatre, Film, Video
Semester: N/O
Unit: 1.0

CAMS 231 Film as Art
Ford

Study of the aesthetic aspect of film through the critical viewing of classic films. Screenings and discussion of outstanding works of cinematic art drawn from various styles and traditions of filmmaking, including the Hollywood studio system, independent film, the French new wave, neorealism, surrealism, and the avant-garde. Readings from prominent filmmakers and critics chosen to offer a sense of the development of film aesthetics and of the range of critical opinion on the artistic potential of the medium.

Prerequisite: None. Preference given to cinema and media studies majors.
Distribution: Arts, Music, Theatre, Film, Video
Semester: Spring
Unit: 1.0

CAMS 232 Auteurs: Dancing around the Theme
Viano

Topic for 2004-05: Jarmusch (American independent before it became a fad), and Makhmalbal (Iran's greatest film chameleon), with Resistance as centering guide. In-depth exploration of two auteurs: directors who, in spite of economic and ideological constraints, have successfully encrypted their personal vision and authorial voice in their films. Though the auteurs chosen will vary each year, one shall be non-Western so as to force our gaze into a global perspective. To focus our exploration on the charismatic potential of cinema itself rather than the director’s personality, a philosophically relevant theme will act as centering guide, while four films by different directors (to be chosen during the course) will enable our imaginary dance around the globe.

Prerequisite: CAMS 175, or instructor’s written permission.
Distribution: Arts, Music, Theatre, Film, Video
Semester: Spring
Unit: 1.0

CAMS 250H Research or Individual Study
Prerequisite: Open by permission of instructor.
Distribution: None
Semester: Fall, Spring
Unit: 0.5

CAMS 313 Seminar. Who’s Afraid of Film Theory?
Via No
NOT OFFERED IN 2004-05. Only twenty years after Louis Lumière ironically said of his technical marvel Le Cinématographe (1895), that “cinematography is an invention without a future” his quip had already become a laughing matter. Not only had cinema spawned a global business and an art, but had also begun to attract thinkers from various disciplines. The American Hugo Münsterberg’s 1916 psychological study of how this “invention without a future” affected people’s perceptions, feelings, and cognitive patterns was just the beginning of an international debate that would evolve into an academic discipline with a strong future. Through a balanced selection of (mostly written) texts, this seminar retraces film theory’s trajectory and significance, while hopefully exercising students’ fear of theory.
Prerequisite: Senior cinema and media studies majors. All others need written permission of the instructor.
Distribution: Arts, Music, Theatre, Film, Video
Semester: N/O
Unit: 1.0

CAMS 350 Research or Individual Study

Department of Classical Studies
Professor: Leifkowitz, Marvin, Starr (Chair), Rogers¹, Dougherty⁴
Assistant Professor: Reay, Gilliδ
Senior Lecturer: Colaiazzi
Mellon Postdoctoral Fellow: Greene

The Department of Classical Studies offers three closely-related major programs: Greek, Latin, classical civilization. Majors in Greek and Latin are based entirely on courses in the original languages, while the classical civilization major combines work in the original languages with courses taught in English on the history, literature, society, and material culture of the ancient world. A related, interdisciplinary major, classical civilization and classical and Near Eastern archaeology, brings together courses in classical studies with course work in other departments. Classes in Greek and Latin are conducted in English, and students receive close analysis of the ancient texts, with emphasis on their literary and historical values.

The department reserves the right to place a new student in the course for which she seems best prepared regardless of the number of units she has obtained for admission. The department requires its own placement test for students interested in enrolling in Latin courses other than Latin 101/102.

Qualified students are encouraged to spend a semester, usually in the junior year, at the Intercollegiate Center for Classical Studies in Rome, Italy. For further information about this program, see Directions for Election.

Classical Civilization

AN INTERDEPARTMENTAL MAJOR

The major in classical civilization offers the opportunity to explore the ancient world through an integrated, cohesive program of courses worked out by the student and her advisor. Individual programs are tailored to meet students’ specific interests, such as classical literature, ancient theater, ancient philosophy, and political theory, ancient religion, and the classical tradition. A brochure listing of suggested courses for these and other options is available in the Department of Classical Studies and on the Web site www.wellesley.edu/ClassicalStudies/CLSTWWW/CLSTHome.html.

CLCV 102 Uncovering the Ancient World: An Introduction to the Worlds of Greece and Rome
Starr

Instead of excavating an entire site, archaeologists often start by digging exploratory trenches, an approach this course will take to exploring both what we know about Greece and Rome and, as important, how we know what we know. Through specific investigative projects, we’ll explore major topics in the ancient world, such as Homeric Greece, culture and empire in the Athens of Pericles, the founding of Rome, and the interplay of cultures in the Roman empire. We’ll probe the various kinds of evidence we have, including literature, art, architecture, reli-

61 Classical Studies/Classical Civilization
CLCV 104 Classical Mythology
Lefkowitz
Achilles' heel, the Trojan Horse, Pandora's Box, an Oedipal complex, a Herculean task—themes and figures from Classical mythology continue to play an important role in our everyday life. We will read the original tales of Classical heroes and heroines together with more modern treatments in film and literature. Why do these stories continue to engage, entertain, and even shock us? What is the nature and power of myth? Readings from ancient sources in English translation.
Prerequisite: None
Distribution: Historical Studies or Language and Literature
Semester: Spring
Unit: 1.0

CLCV 116 Greek and Latin Roots in English Vocabulary
Colatizio
NOT OFFERED IN 2004-05. Virtually all abstract, technical and scientific terms in English are formed from Greek and Latin words. We will discover the root meanings of these words and how they work in combination, and discuss why these words have been used in preference to words from Anglo-Saxon roots. We will also consider how new technical terms can be developed from existing Greek and Latin vocabulary.
Prerequisite: None
Distribution: Language and Literature
Semester: N/O
Unit: 0.5

CLCV 120/WRIT 125
Topic A: Comedy: Old, New, and Ever Since Colaizzi
NOT OFFERED IN 2004-05. The comic plays of Greece and Rome are the ancestors of sitcom and soap opera, stage show and screenplay. Aristophanes offers fantasy, political satire, and fierce social commentary. Menander, Plautus, and Terence all feature domestic intrigue, ridiculous dilemmas, and stock characters. We will read and view some of their plays, along with Shakespeare's The Comedy of Errors, Goldsmith's She Stoops to Conquer, Sheridan's The Rivals, Wilde's The Importance of Being Earnest, and A Funny Thing Happened on the Way to the Forum. Three meetings. This course satisfies the Writing 125 requirement and counts as a unit towards the classical civilization major.
Prerequisite: None. Open only to first-year students.
Distribution: Language and Literature
Semester: N/O
Unit: 1.0

Topic B: Troy and the Poets Colaizzi
The myths of the Trojan War begin the Classical tradition in literature. In considering how gods and mortals interact, the Greek and Roman poets continually return to these stories as they change their ideas about heroism, divine power, religious obligation, private and public responsibility, sexual passions, glory, death, and the afterlife. We will read selections from Homer's Iliad and Odyssey, the Greek dramatists, and Vergil's Aeneid, as well as modern critics and poets who reinterpret these works. Three meetings. This course satisfies the Writing 125 requirement and counts as a unit towards the classical civilization major.
Prerequisite: None. Open only to first-year students.
Distribution: Language and Literature
Semester: Spring
Unit: 1.0

CLCV 210/310 Greek Tragedy: Plays, Politics, Performance
Hilady
The fifth-century Athenian playwrights, Aeschylus, Sophocles, and Euripides, produced brilliant tragedies that continue to haunt us today and to define our notion of drama. At the same time, the Athenian people forged the democratic principles that form the basis for our own political institutions. The element of performance, common to both drama and democracy, provides an important key to understanding this interesting confluence of theater and politics, and this class will combine the close reading (in English) of ancient Greek tragedies with the viewing of a selection of contemporary dramatic performances such as modern Italian cinema, Black Gospel traditions, and contemporary productions of Greek drama. This course may be taken as either 210 or, with additional assignments, 310.
Prerequisite: 210 open to all students; 310 by permission of instructor.
Distribution: Arts, Music, Theatre, Film, Video or Language and Literature
Semester: Spring
Unit: 1.0

CLCV 211/311 Epic and Empire Ray
NOT OFFERED IN 2004-05. Alexander the Great is said to have slept with two things under his pillow: a dagger and a copy of Homer's Iliad. Julius Caesar and Augustus traced their lineage back to Aeneas, the hero of Vergil's Aeneid. Epic poetry and empire: coincidence or collusion? This course will investigate the relationship of epic poetry and empire, focusing especially on Vergil's Aeneid and Lucan's Civil War within their historical contexts. How is poetry imbued with political meaning? Is epic a prop of imperial ideology or is it a site of resistance? Consideration of the postclassical adaptation of classical paradigms in works such as Milton's Paradise Lost, Balzac's The Cousin Bette, and Whitman's Leaves of Grass. All works read in translation. This course may be taken as either 211 or, with additional assignments, 311.
Prerequisite: 211 open to all students; 311 by permission of instructor.
Distribution: Historical Studies or Language and Literature
Semester: N/O
Unit: 1.0

CLCV 212/312 On the Road: Travel in Literature and Film from Homer's Odyssey to Thelma and Louise Dougherty
NOT OFFERED IN 2004-05. If you can't travel yourself, you can always read about it. This course will focus on the lure of travel, the companionship of the road, and the complicated issues of return. We will also consider the impact of gender on the construction of travel, the connection between travel and romance, and the association of travel and knowledge. How do these (and other) themes laid out so forcefully in the Odyssey continue to dominate works of literature and film? Readings will include Homer's Odyssey, Twain's The Adventures of Huckleberry Finn, and Kerouac's On the Road; films will include The Return of Martin Guerre, and Thelma and Louise. This course may be taken as either 212 or, with additional assignments, 312.
Prerequisite: 212 open to all students; 312 by permission of instructor.
Distribution: Arts, Music, Theatre, Film, Video or Language and Literature
Semester: N/O
Unit: 1.0

CLCV 215/315 Women's Life in Greece and Rome Lefkowitz
NOT OFFERED IN 2004-05. Were the ancient Greeks and Romans misogynists? Did these attitudes set the pattern for discrimination against women in modern European literature and life? Does modern feminist theory help or hinder the investigation of these questions? Reading from ancient historical, religious, medical, and legal documents in English translation. This course may be taken as either 215 or, with additional assignments, 315.
Prerequisite: 215 open to all students; 315 by permission of instructor.
Distribution: Language and Literature or Social and Behavioral Analysis
Semester: N/O
Unit: 1.0

CLCV 220 Examining the "Wine Dark Seas": An Introduction to Nautical Archaeology Greene
Why do we care about shipwrecks? What can sunken treasures and even mundane objects tell us about the past? In this course we will examine how and why ancient Greek mariners crossed the "wine-dark seas" for trade, warfare, and especially commerce. Beginning with the practical techniques of nautical archaeology, we will move to a survey of recent discoveries, including wrecks and harbors from the Bronze Age to the Hellenistic period. Through archaeological evidence, literary sources, and contemporary economic theory, the course will take an interdisciplinary approach to the development of commercial enterprises in the ancient Mediterranean.
Prerequisite: None
Distribution: Social and Behavioral Analysis
Semester: Spring
Unit: 1.0

CLCV 230/330 War: From Troy to Baghdad Rogers
War is undoubtedly bad. But human beings have always practiced war. Indeed war preceded history by tens of thousands of years—if by history we mean the written inquiry into the past. But what causes wars? How have wars been justified historically? How are wars won and lost? What are their effects? In this class we examine a series of case studies in warfare, including the Trojan War, the Peloponnesian War, and the Roman-Punic Wars. We will read classic accounts of warfare, theoretical literature about tactics, strategy and logistics, and also will analyze how war is represented in other media, such as art and film. This course may be taken as either 230 or, with additional assignments, 330.
Prerequisite: 230, open to all students; 330, by permission of instructor.
Distribution: Historical Studies or Language and Literature
Semester: Spring
Unit: 1.0
CLCV 232 The Bay of Naples in Antiquity Colozzi
The Greco-Roman life of luxury at ancient Italy's loveliest and most notorious pleasure spot; the interplay of the Roman conceptions of leisure, decadence, and culture and their manifestation in the rich villas and cities buried by the eruption of Mt. Vesuvius. Selections in translation from Greek and Roman writers; visits to sites, including Pompeii, Herculanum, Capri, Paestum, Cuma, and the National Museum in Naples. Students will stay in Sorrento for three weeks. Not offered every year. Subject to Dean's Office approval.
Prerequisite: Application required
Distribution: Language and Literature or Historical Studies
Semester: Winter
Unit: 0.5

CLCV 234 Roman Law
Star
Ancient Roman civil law; its early development, codification, and continuing alteration; its historical and social context (property, family, slavery); its influence on other legal systems. Extensive use of actual cases from antiquity. Not offered every year. Subject to Dean's Office approval.
Prerequisite: None
Distribution: Historical Studies or Religion, Ethics, and Moral Philosophy

CLCV 318 Representing Tragedy in Greek Art and Literature
Is a picture worth 1000 words? Can a single image capture a dramatic moment or an entire tragic plot? How can we "read" ancient Greek art? In this class we will explore Athenian vase-painters' representations of the stories, characters, ideals, and issues of Athenian drama, asking how images serve as more than simple illustration. Through the lens of selected plays by Aeschylus, Sophocles, and Euripides we seek points of intersection and divergence between the performed and painted depictions of mythological themes. Students will utilize the collections of Boston area museums, choosing a particular tragedy and its multivalent images for their final project.
Prerequisite: Open to students who have taken one course in classical civilization or art history or who have equivalent preparation accepted by instructor, preference given to juniors and seniors.
Distribution: Arts, Music, Theatre, Film, Video or Language and Literature
Semester: Fall
Unit: 1.0

CLCV 325/PHIL 323 Seminar. The Therapy of Antiquity: Nietzsche, Freud, and the Greeks Reconsidered
The conflict between the 'Dionysian' and the 'Apollonian,' the psychological destinies of the 'Oedipus and Electra Complexes': these terms are perhaps the most conspicuous markers of Nietzsche's and Freud's impact on modern thought. That the most recognizable terms of their influence refer to classical figures, both human and divine, throws into sharp relief the centrality of classical Greek myth and culture for their attempts to diagnose and remedy a nineteenth-century human condition: modernity. This interplay of antiquity and modernity will be at the center of our investigation of the projects of two of the most challenging and complex intellectuals of the modern era. Students may register for either CLCV 240 or REL 240. Credit will be given in the department in which the student is registered.
Prerequisite: None
Distribution: Historical Studies or Religion, Ethics, and Moral Philosophy
Semester: N/O
Unit: 1.0

CLCV 336 Greek and Roman Religion
Rogers
NOT OFFERED IN 2004-05. The founders of Western civilization were not monotheists. Rather, from 1750 BC until AD 500 the ancient Greeks and Romans sacrificed daily to a pantheon of immortal gods and goddesses who were expected to help mortals to achieve their earthly goals. How did this system of belief develop? Why did it capture the imaginations of so many millions for over 2000 years? What impact did the religion of the Greeks and Romans have upon the other religions of the Mediterranean, including Judaism and Christianity? Why did the religion of the Greeks and Romans ultimately disappear?
Prerequisite: Permission of instructor.
Distribution: Historical Studies or Religion, Ethics, and Moral Philosophy
Semester: N/O
Unit: 1.0

CLCV 345 Slavery and Society in the Graeco-Roman World
Rogers
NOT OFFERED IN 2004-05. Some historians have argued that the development of democracy in ancient Athens depended upon the existence of slave labor in Athens. In Republican Rome, where the children of freed slaves could become Roman citizens, scholars have claimed that the majority of Roman citizens were the descendants of slaves by the end of the first century B.C.E. How was slavery defined in the ancient Near East and the Graeco-Roman world? Was the political, social, and economic effects of slavery upon the Greek city-states and Rome? How did the Romans incorporate ex-slaves into Roman society? Was there any opposition to slavery? In this seminar we will briefly examine slavery in the ancient Near East and then trace the development of slavery in Greece and Rome from the middle of the second millennium B.C.E. until the fourth century C.E.

Classical and Near Eastern Archaeology

AN INTERDEPARTMENTAL MAJOR

Director: Marvin

The purpose of a major in classical and Near Eastern archaeology is to acquaint the student with the complex societies of the Old World in antiquity. The program for each student will be planned individually from courses in the Departments of Anthropology, Art, Classical Studies, History, Philosophy, and Religion as well as from the architecture and anthropology programs at MIT. The introductory course in archaeology (ANTH 206) or its equivalent is required for all archaeology majors.

Students who concentrate in classical archaeology must normally have at least an elementary knowledge of both Greek and Latin, and take both Greek and Roman history as well as Greek and Roman art. Students who concentrate on the ancient Near East must have at least an elementary knowledge of one ancient Near Eastern language. Attention is called to Hebrew 101-102 and 201-202 and to the Brandeis exchange program.

Students should plan for at least one summer of excavation and/or travel.

Major in Latin

A major in Latin provides an opportunity to learn about the ancient Roman world directly through the study of ancient language and to examine the authors' original idiom and expression in historical context.

LAT 101 Beginning Latin I
Gilhuly
Introduction to the Latin language; development of Latin reading skills.
Prerequisite: Open to students who do not present Latin for admission or permission of instructor.
Distribution: None
Semester: Fall
Unit: 1.0

LAT 102 Beginning Latin II
Reay
Further development of Latin reading and language skills.
Prerequisite: 101
Distribution: None
Semester: Spring
Unit: 1.0

LAT 200 Intermediate Latin I: Petronius: Loud Bash at the Mansion
Colatuzzi
Tacitus called him Nero's "czar of cool" (arbiter elegantiae). His Satyricon was Europe's first novel, full of low life and hijinx - both a parody of epic poetry and a pattern for romance novels. Petronius offers a series of comic episodes in Southern Italy involving dubious encounters with gluttons, witches, werewolves, acrobats, singers, party-crashers, and even professors, many of whom gather to hear poetry, eat exotic foods, and drink too much with Trimalchio, the crude millionaire (and former slave). Our selected readings will serve as a review of Latin grammar and an introduction to Latin literature.
Prerequisite: 102 or three admission units in Latin or permission of instructor.
Distribution: Language and Literature
Semester: Fall
Unit: 1.0
LAT 201 Intermediate Latin II: Vergil and Augustus
Le Kobeitzi
Vergil’s Aeneid, Georgics, and Eclogues in their literary context of both Greek poetry (Homer, Apollonius of Rhodes, Euripides) and Latin poetry (Ennius, Lucretius, Catullus, Horace) and in their historical context in the reign of Augustus, the first Roman emperor. Readings in Latin from Vergil and in translation from other ancient works. Use of Internet resources on Vergil and Rome.
Prerequisite: 200 or four admission units in Latin; by permission of instructor with three admission units in Latin.
Distribution: Language and Literature
Semester: Spring
Unit: 1.0

LAT 210 Sight Reading Latin Literature
NOT OFFERED IN 2004-05.
Weekly meetings to read both Latin prose and poetry at sight. Emphasis on developing the skills and confidence necessary to approach new authors.
Prerequisite: 200 or higher or permission of instructor.
Distribution: Language and Literature
Semester: N.O.
Unit: 0.5

LAT 250 Research or Individual Study
Prerequisite: Open by permission.

Semester: Fall, Spring
Unit: 1.0

LAT 250H Research or Individual Study
Prerequisite: Open by permission.
Distribution: None
Semester: Fall, Spring
Unit: 0.5

LAT 304 Cicero
Rexy
Rome’s ruling elite defined itself relationally: male, not female; Roman, not Greek; free, not slave; present embodiments of a peculiarly Roman past. This course will look to the diverse works of Cicero to investigate elite identity and its uses during the late Republic. We’ll explore various categories by which identity was constructed and contested, their various textual expressions, their cultural, political, and social value for both the elite in general, and Cicero individually.
Prerequisite: 201 or permission of instructor.
Distribution: Language and Literature or Historical Studies
Semester: Fall
Unit: 1.0

LAT 306 Horace’s Lyric Poetry
NOT OFFERED IN 2004-05. We will read the Odes and Epodes of Horace, considering such topics as Greek models, Roman topics, and the politics of Augustan Rome.
Prerequisite: 201 or permission of instructor.
Distribution: Language and Literature
Semester: N.O.
Unit: 1.0

LAT 308 Imperial Latin Literature
Starr
NOT OFFERED IN 2004-05. Latin literature flourished in the Imperial period, even though it is referred to as “Silver” instead of “Golden” Latin literature. We’ll explore various authors and genres, including such authors as Seneca (philosophy and drama), Lucretius (epic), Tacitus (history), Pliny (letters), Juvenal (satiere), and Martial (epigrams). We’ll also examine the impact of rhetoric on the writing of Latin prose and poetry.
Prerequisite: 201 or permission of instructor.
Distribution: Language and Literature
Semester: N.O.
Unit: 1.0

LAT 310 Roman Historical Myths
Starr
NOT OFFERED IN 2004-05. Romans based their history in myth and made their history into myths; reading from major authors such as Livy, Vergil, Horace, Ovid, Propertius, and Tacitus, focusing on historical myths such as Romulus and Remus, the Rape of the Sabine Women, Tarquinii Superbus, and Hercules and Cacus, how later Romans reworked those myths to serve current political purposes, and how Romans transformed historical events into powerful myths.
Prerequisite: 201 or permission of instructor.
Distribution: Language and Literature or Historical Studies
Semester: N.O.
Unit: 1.0

LAT 319 Selected Topics
Starr
Topic for 2004-05. Satire. The Romans claimed satire as the only uniquely Roman literary genre. Its subjects varied widely from philosophy and morality to dinner parties, love affairs with gladiators, and the details of everyday life; its tone ranged from Horace’s smiling critiques to Juvenal’s outrage. Focusing on Horace’s and Juvenal’s Satires, we’ll read extensively in other satirists in translation as we examine how satirical writing developed in Rome.
Prerequisite: 201 or a 300-level Latin course or by permission of instructor.
Distribution: Language and Literature
Semester: Spring
Unit: 1.0

LAT 350 Research or Individual Study
Prerequisite: Open to juniors and seniors by permission.

Directions for Election
Greek and Latin: Students majoring in Greek must complete four units of 300-level work in the Greek language. Students majoring in Latin are required to complete four units of 300-level work in the Latin language, and study of Vergil, either in 201 or at the 300 level, is strongly recommended. Eight units are required for each major.

Students majoring in Greek or Latin are advised to elect some work in the other language. It should be noted that work in both Greek and Latin is essential for graduate studies in the classics.

Advanced placement policies and language requirement: a student entering Wellesley must have an Advanced Placement score of 4 or 5 to satisfy the foreign language requirement. All students who wish to elect a 200-level or higher Latin course must take Wellesley’s Latin placement examination. Although AP Latin Literature will be counted as a 200-level course for the major, credit will not be given for AP Vergil if the student elects LAT 201.

Cognitive and Linguistic Sciences

AN INTERDEPARTMENTAL MAJOR

Director: Lucas (Psychology)

Cognitive and Linguistic Sciences Advisory Committee: Isak (Linguistics) Levit, (Linguistics and French), McIntyre (Philosophy), Hildreth (Computer Science)

Lecturer: Isak

A major in cognitive and linguistic sciences is designed to provide students with the breadth necessary for an interdisciplinary approach to the study of language and mind, as well as with substantive training in one of the component disciplines (linguistics, psychology, philosophy, or computer science).

Students majoring in cognitive and linguistic sciences must take a minimum of nine units for the major, including four core units, one from each of the categories below, and a minimum of four electives in a concentration. It is recommended but not required that the ninth course be in a different concentration. Courses eligible for the major are listed below. Students are encouraged to consult the MIT catalog for additional offerings in the major.

Core Courses

Students must fulfill the following four core requirements:
1) Linguistics*: LING 114, MIT 24.9, or PSYC 216
2) Formal Systems Requirement*: CS 111 or LING 244 or PHIL 216
3) PHIL 215
4) CLSC 300: Seminar. Topics in Cognitive and Linguistic Sciences

*Where there is a choice, students should choose the course that fits most clearly with their chosen concentration. For example, students concentrating in linguistics should choose LING 114 or MIT 24.9 rather than PSYC 216 and students concentrating in psychology should choose PSYC 216 rather than LING 114. Where a choice is not clear, the student should consult with her major advisor.

Concentrations

In designing a concentration, students need to demonstrate the intellectual coherence of their choices. Therefore, concentrations must be designed in close collaboration with the director. Students must take at least one 300-level course in their concentration.

Linguistics

Students concentrating in linguistics must elect at least four courses from the following list. Three of these courses must be linguistics courses, including one 300-level course: LING 240, 322, 327, or 329; CS 235, EDUC 308 or 310; FREN 211 or 308; PHIL 207, 216, or 349; PSYC 216, 316; SOC 216 and RUSS 301 may be taken after consultation with the student’s advisor.

Students will also be expected to demonstrate proficiency in a foreign language above the College’s foreign language requirement (at an intermediate level or above).

Psychology

Students concentrating in psychology must take PSYC 205 and 214R. In addition, students must elect at least two courses from the following list: PSYC 215, 217, 218, 219 or BISC 213, PSYC 316, 318, 319, 345, LING 322, or BISC 315.

Philosophy

Students concentrating in philosophy must elect at least four of any of the following courses: PHIL 207, 209, 216, 217, 221, 313, 340, or 349. PHIL 345 may be taken after consultation with the student’s advisor.

Computer Science

Students concentrating in computer science must take CS 230 and 232. In addition, students must elect at least two courses from the following list: CS 231, 235, 251, 303, 310, 331, 332, or 349 (when the topic for CS 349 is approved by the director).

Lucas

Topic for 2004-05: Cooperation and Competition. According to traditional models of rationality, rational agents should act in ways that will maximize their self-interest. And the study of evolution teaches us that individuals are in competition for survival. Nonetheless, we have all experienced acts of apparent selflessness and societies could not function without cooperation among their members. How, then, can cooperative and selfless behaviors be explained? In this course, an interdisciplinary approach to the problem will be taken. Evidence and theories from the psychological, economic, and neurobiological literatures will be examined. Cross-cultural, developmental, and cross-species differences will be explored as will the evolutionary origins of cooperation and competition and the role of cooperation in language.

Prerequisite: Open to juniors and seniors who have taken one of PSYC 215-219, LING 114, PHIL 215, CS 111 or permission of the instructor.

Distribution: Social and Behavioral Analysis or Epistemology and Cognition

Semester: Spring

Unit: 1.0

Students in any concentration may also elect independent studies and honors projects:

Unit: 1.0
LING 114 Introduction to Linguistics
Isaak
Designed to familiarize students with some of the essential concepts of linguistic analysis. Suitable problem sets in English and in other languages will provide opportunities to study the basic systems of language organization—phonology, morphology, syntax, and semantics. Additional topics include introductions to language organization in the brain, child language acquisition, language change, and writing systems.
Pre-requisite: None. Not open to students who have taken LING 114.
Distribution: Epistemology and Cognition
Semester: Fall, Spring
Unit: 1.0

LING 240 The Sounds of Language
Isaak
NOT OFFERED IN 2004-05. This course examines the ways in which speech sounds are used in the languages of the world. The course will discuss the articulatory basis of speech sounds and will investigate differences in the ways that various languages organize sounds into linguistic systems. We will consider why differences exist between languages, both in terms of the number of sounds employed and how those sounds are used. We will also consider the types of difficulties that phonological differences between languages might pose for the second language learner and the importance of phonology in the development of writing systems.
Pre-requisite: LING 114. Not open to students who have taken LING 240.
Distribution: Epistemology and Cognition
Semester: N/O
Unit: 1.0

LING 244 Language: Form and Meaning
Isaak
This course will consider some basic questions about language: What do we actually know when we know a language? How is the structure of language best described? Are there properties which all languages share, and do those properties tell us about language itself? We will look at a number of specific problems in morphology, syntax, and semantics, and the strengths and weaknesses of a number of different linguistic theories will be considered. While many of the problems considered in this class will involve English, we will also be looking at a number of other languages, both European and non-European.
Pre-requisite: LING 114. Not open to students who have taken LING 244.
Distribution: Epistemology and Cognition
Semester: Spring
Unit: 1.0

LING 322 Child Language Acquisition
NOT OFFERED IN 2004-05. Language acquisition in young children. Examination of children's developing linguistic abilities and evaluation of current theories of language learning. Topics include infant speech perception and production and the development of phonology, morphology, the lexicon, syntax, and semantics in the young child. Data from studies of children learning languages other than English will also be considered.
Pre-requisite: Open to juniors and seniors who have taken LING 114 or PSYC 216, or permission of instructor. Not open to students who have taken LING 322.
Distribution: Epistemology and Cognition
Semester: N/O
Unit: 1.0

LING 327 The English Language: An Historical Perspective
Isaak
NOT OFFERED IN 2004-05. This course will provide an overview of the history of the English language from the pre-Germanic period to the twentieth century and will investigate the major sound changes that the English language has undergone during this time. A major goal of the course will be to provide students with a better understanding of the current state of the English language in terms of its historical development, as well as its relationship to other Indo-European languages. This course will also discuss general principles of language change and the kinds of evidence that linguists employ in reconstructing earlier stages in a language's history.
Pre-requisite: LING 114, PSYC 216, or permission of instructor. Not open to students who have taken LING 327.
Distribution: Social and Behavioral Analysis
Semester: N/O
Unit: 1.0

LING 329 Native American Languages: History, Structure, and Prospects
Isaak
This course provides an overview of the indigenous languages of the Americas. The history of the description and classification of Native American languages will be discussed, along with some of the more salient structural properties of these languages and how they differ from European languages. We will also consider how linguistics can be used as a tool to study the prehistory of a people. Finally, we will be considering the problem of endangered languages and some of the efforts which have been made to preserve Native American languages.
Pre-requisite: LING 114, PSYC 216, or permission of instructor. Not open to students who have taken LING 329.
Distribution: Social and Behavioral Analysis
Semester: Fall
Unit: 1.0

LING 350 Research or Individual Study
Pre-requisite: Two 200-level units.
Distribution: None
Semester: Fall, Spring
Unit: 1.0

Comparative Literature
A STRUCTURED INDIVIDUAL MAJOR
Director: Weiner (Russian)
Visiting Professor: Ahearne
The comparative literature major is a structured individual major for students seeking to study literature across departmental, national, and linguistic boundaries. Students in comparative literature devise their own programs in careful consultation with two advisors, one in each of two departments, and with the director of the program.
Students who major in comparative literature should, in putting their major together, be aware of the many and diverse courses here that pertain to the study of literature.
These include, but are not limited to:
1) courses in literary history;
2) courses in particular literary genres;
3) courses in the theory of literature;
4) courses in linguistics;
5) courses on the theory and practice of translation.
Many courses combine or fall between these categories. Students should also be aware of the many courses on literature in translation, and should consult the list of these courses at the back of the catalog.

Directions for Election
1. Ten units. Majors in comparative literature shall complete a minimum of ten units. All courses must count towards the major in the departments in which they are offered.
2. Comparative literature seminar. All majors shall take CPLT 330, the comparative literature seminar.
3. Advanced literature courses. In addition to CPLT 330, majors shall take at least two more literature courses at the 300 level. These two advanced literature courses shall be in at least two languages, of which English may be one, and in at least two departments, and majors shall meet departmental prerequisites for these courses.
4. Premodern literature. Majors shall take at least one course outside of the modern period in at least one of the literatures they are studying; what "the modern period" means for a particular literature will depend on the literature, and will be determined by the major's advisors.
5. Theory of literature. Majors shall take at least one course offering a theoretical perspective helpful to their particular course of study. Sometimes this will be ENG 382 (Criticism), but other courses, too, can meet this requirement. A student focusing on the process of intercultural adaptation and translation might meet it with FREN 308 (Advanced Studies in Language).
6. Independent research. Majors shall take some course in which they do a substantial piece of independent work in comparative literature. This course may be CPLT 330, or a 350 in a pertinent department, or CPLT 360 and/or CPLT 370, or another course chosen by the student in consultation with her advisors.
In general, programs will be worked out in relation to the major’s particular languages and interests. Examples of possible interests would include poetry, the novel, women's writing, and the relations between politics and literature.

CPLT 254 Imaginary Crimes and Courts: The Law in Literature
Kruse (German)
NOT OFFERED IN 2004-05. Both in literature and in law, language shapes rhetorical worlds which seek to represent, constitute, interpret, and criticize the world created and inhabited by human beings. Since its beginnings through the twentieth century, imaginative literature, in turn, has embodied critical depictions of the law in the lives of individuals and societies. The course will examine texts from Sophocles to Doctorow and include texts by Shakespeare, Kleist, Dickens, Melville, and Kafka.
Prerequisite: None. Not open to students who have taken [EXTD 254].
Distribution: Language and Literature
Semester: N/O
Unit: 1.0

CPLT 284 Magical Realism: Russia and Beyond (in English)
Wein (Russian)
NOT OFFERED IN 2004-05. OFFERED IN 2005-06. This course examines fictions whose basic reality would be familiar if not for the introduction of a magical element that undermines commonplace notions about what constitutes reality in the first place. The magical element can be a demon, talisman, physical transformation, miraculous transition in space or time, appearance of a second plane of existence, revelation of the unreality of the primary plane of existence, etc. Students will read Solzhenitsin's The First Circle, Dostoevskii's The House of the Dead, Bulgakov's The Master and Margarita, Kafka's Metamorphosis, Queenea's The Blue Flowers, Marquez's One Hundred Years of Solitude, Pynchon's The Crying of Lot 49, Sokolov's School for Fools, Murakami's Wild Sheep Chase, and short stories by Borges, Cortazar, and Nabokov. Taught in English. Two periods.
Prerequisite: None. Not open to students who have taken [RUSS 284].
Distribution: Language and Literature
Semester: N/O
Unit: 1.0

CPLT 285 Tales of Desire (in English)
Partan (Russian)
This course treats the representation of desire in great works of the Western literary tradition. We will examine the interrelations of desire and destiny and the transformation of this great literary theme over the ages and across various literary genres. The readings will include Euripides' Hippolytus, Dante's La Vita Nuova, Pushkin's Stone Guest, Flaubert's Madame Bovary, Tolstoy's Anna Karenina, Ibsen's A Doll's House, Mann's Death in Venice, O'Neill's Desire Under the Elms and Nabokov's Lolita. The reading will be accompanied by film screenings.
Prerequisite: None
Distribution: Language and Literature
Semester: Fall
Unit: 1.0

CPLT 330 Seminar: Comparative Literature
Hyden (German)
Topic for 2004-05: Literature and Sexuality. This course will discuss historical and contemporary notions of the representation of sexuality in literature. Governed by religious, societal, and cultural norms, the literary representation of desire codifies such conventions but at times also undermines them. We will be reading texts from different cultural contexts, paying attention to theoretical discourses on the complex relationship between sexuality and writing. One seminar meeting per week.
Prerequisite: Enrollment is limited and preference given to comparative literature majors.
Distribution: Language and Literature
Semester: Spring
Unit: 1.0

CPLT 334 Literature and Medicine
Respaat (French)
Drawing on texts from different countries, this interdisciplinary course will investigate literature's obsession with medicine. Literary representations of doctors and patients, disability, insanity, AIDS, birth, death and grief, the search for healing and the redemptive power of art. Attention will be given to the links between medical diagnosis and literary interpretation. Differences between the treatment of medical issues in fiction and in autobiographies will be explored. Selected visual representations, in film and photography, will also be introduced.
Prerequisite: One 200-level course in literature or by permission of the instructor. Not open to students who have taken [ICPL 334].
Distribution: Language and Literature
Semester: Fall
Unit: 1.0

CPLT 360 Senior Thesis Research
Prerequisite: By permission of the Director. See Academic Distinctions.
Distribution: None
Semester: Fall, Spring
Unit: 1.0

CPLT 370 Senior Thesis
Prerequisite: 360
Distribution: None
Semester: Fall, Spring

CS 100 Introduction to Internet Research and Resources
Orr (Office for Information Services)
NOT OFFERED IN 2004-05. OFFERED IN 2005-06. CS 100 is a half-credit course designed for students with little computing experience. Students learn to search, access, and critically evaluate information available on the Internet. Topics include copyright, privacy, and security issues of digital data and electronic communications, together with the basic computer science underpinning of these issues. Students learn to use many different search engines and full-text databases to do complex searches. Students will also use HTML and other authoring tools, such as Dreamweaver and Fireworks, to maintain a Web-published portfolio of their Internet research. Students who have already designed a basic Web site might find it more useful to take CS 110 or CS 111. Students must take CS 100 as credit/noncredit.
Prerequisite: None. No prior background with computers is expected.
Distribution: None
Semester: N/O.
Unit: 0.5

CS 110 Computer Science and the Internet
Anderson, Kakavouli, Lee, Sheldon
This course explains the basics of how the Internet works and how to build a Web site. Topics include client-server architecture, structuring Web pages with HTML, the representation of colors, images, and sound on the computer, file compression, encryption, cookies, and copyright, intellectual property issues, and critical thinking in the context of the Internet. The required project also models most stages of the standard software lifecycle. Students are introduced to programming by building an interactive Web site using JavaScript. Students are required to attend an additional discussion section each week. Students considering additional computer science courses should take 111, not 110. Students can receive Mathematical Modeling distribution credit for only one of 110, 111, and 199. Consult "Choosing an Introductory CS Course" online at http://cs.wellesley.edu/~cs/whichCSIxx.html.
Prerequisite: None. No prior background with computers is expected.
Distribution: Mathematical Modeling
Semester: Fall, Spring
Unit: 1.0

CS 111 Computer Programming and Problem Solving
Shull, Stephan, Tjaden
An introduction to problem solving through computer programming. Using the Java programming language, students learn how to read, modify, design, debug, and test algorithms that solve problems. Programming concepts include control structures, data structures, abstraction, recursion, modularity, and object-oriented design. Students explore these concepts in the context of interactive programs involving graphics and user interfaces. Students are required to attend an additional two-hour laboratory section each week. Required for students who wish to major or minor in computer science or elect more advanced courses in the field. Students can receive Mathematical Modeling distribution credit for only one of 110, 111, and 199. Consult "Choosing an Introductory CS Course" online at http://cs.wellesley.edu/~cs/whichCS1xx.html.

Prerequisite: None. No prior background with computers is expected.

Distribution: Mathematical Modeling. Does not satisfy the laboratory requirement.

CS 115/PHYS 115 Robotic Design Studio (Winter session)

Berg (Physics), Turbak

In this intensive course, students are introduced to engineering principles while designing and assembling robots out of LEGO parts, sensors, motors, and tiny computers. Fundamental robotics skills are learned in the context of studying and modifying a simple robot known as SciBorg. Then, working in small teams, students design and build their own robots for display at a robot exhibition. These projects tie together aspects of a surprisingly wide range of disciplines, including computer science, physics, math, biology, psychology, engineering, and art.

Students may register for either CS 115 or PHYS 115. Credit will be given in the department in which the student is registered.

Prerequisite: None

Distribution: Natural and Physical Science

Semester: Winter session

Unit: 0.5

CS 199 Simulation, Probability, and Statistics

Anderson

Computer simulations play an increasingly important role in decision-making and public policy. In this course, we learn some programming techniques that allow us to understand and modify existing simulation programs and to design and build simple simulations. We also learn how to use important tools of probability and statistics in the implementation and evaluation of simulations. Students are required to attend an additional laboratory section each week. This course is open to all students, including those who have taken upper-level CS courses. Students who take CS 199 as their first CS class must still take CS 111 before taking upper-level CS classes. Students can receive mathematical modeling distribution credit for only one of 110, 111, and 199. Consult "Choosing an Introductory CS Course" online at http://cs.wellesley.edu/~cs/whichCS1xx.html.

Prerequisite: Fulfillment of the basic skills component of the Quantitative reasoning requirement.

Distribution: Mathematical Modeling. Fulfills the Quantitative Reasoning overlay requirement. Does not satisfy the laboratory requirement.

CS 215 Multimedia Design and Programming

Metaxas

NOT OFFERED IN 2004-05. OFFERED IN 2005-06. The purpose of this course is to give students a broad foundation in issues related to creating multimedia and hypermedia applications. Topics to be covered include history and philosophy of hypermedia; principles of human-computer interaction; multimedia programming; optimizing for CD-ROMs and the World Wide Web; digital representation and editing of media (audio, graphics, video); media compression and transmission; and delivery of multimedia applications.

Prerequisite: Permission of the instructor. File application on line before preregistration. At least 111 (preferred) or 110 is required. At least one of ARTS 105, ARTS 108 or ARTS 109 is recommended.

Distribution: Mathematical Modeling

Semester: N/O.

Unit: 1.0

CS 230 Data Structures

Hildreth, Turbak

An introduction to techniques and building blocks for organizing large programs. Topics include: modules, abstract data types, recursion, algorithmic efficiency, and the use and implementation of standard data structures and algorithms such as lists, trees, graphs, stacks, queues, priority queues, tables, sorting, and searching.

Students become familiar with these concepts through weekly programming assignments using the Java programming language.

Prerequisite: 111 or permission of the instructor. Students who received a grade of C+ or lower in 111 must contact the instructor before enrolling.

Distribution: Mathematical Modeling

Semester: Fall, Spring

Unit: 1.0

CS 231 Fundamental Algorithms

Tjaden

An introduction to the design and analysis of fundamental algorithms. General techniques covered: divide-and-conquer algorithms, dynamic programming, greediness, probabilistic algorithms. Topics include: sorting, searching, graph algorithms, compression, cryptography, computational geometry, and NP-completeness.

Prerequisite: 230 and either MATH 225 or permission of the instructor.

Distribution: Mathematical Modeling

Semester: Fall, Spring

Unit: 1.0

CS 232 Artificial Intelligence

Hildreth

An introduction to artificial intelligence (AI), the design of computer systems that possess and acquire knowledge and can reason with that knowledge. Topics include knowledge representation, problem solving and search, planning, vision, language comprehension and production, learning, common sense reasoning, and expert systems. To attain a realistic and concrete understanding of these problems, CommonLisp, an AI programming language, will be taught and used to implement the algorithms of the course. Alternate year course.

Prerequisite: 230 or permission of the instructor.

Distribution: Mathematical Modeling

Semester: Fall

Unit: 1.0

CS 235 Languages and Automata

Shull

An introduction to the concepts of languages and automata. Topics include languages, regular expressions, finite automata, grammars, pushdown automata, and Turing machines. The first half of the semester covers the Chomsky hierarchy of languages and their associated computational models. The second half of the semester focuses on decidability issues and unsolvable problems. The course closes with a brief introduction to complexity theory.

Prerequisite: 230 and either MATH 225 or permission of the instructor.

Distribution: Mathematical Modeling

Semester: Fall

Unit: 1.0

CS 240 Introduction to Machine Organization with Laboratory

Stephan

An introduction to machine organization and assembly language programming. Topics include an overview of computer organization, introduction to digital logic and microprogramming, the conventional machine level and assembly language programming, and introduction to operating systems. Students required to attend one three-hour laboratory weekly.

Prerequisite: 111

Distribution: Mathematical Modeling. This course satisfies the laboratory requirement.

Semester: Fall, Spring

Unit: 1.25

CS 242 Computer Networks

NOT OFFERED IN 2004-05. OFFERED IN 2005-06. A systems-oriented approach to data networks, including a theoretical discussion of common networking problems and an examination of modern networks and protocols. Topics include point-to-point links, packet switching, internetworking, end-to-end protocols, congestion control, and security. Projects may include client-server applications and network measurement tools. Alternate year course.

Prerequisite: 230 or permission of the instructor. Not open to students who have taken this course as 249 in Fall 2003.

Distribution: Mathematical Modeling.

Semester: N/O.

Unit: 1.0

CS 249 Topics in Computer Science

Schocken

Topic for 2004-05: Systems Programming. An introduction to systems programming. Topics include linking, loading, memory management, file systems, concurrency, and device drivers. Students will explore these topics in the context of programming assignments involving the C programming language and the Linux operating system.

Prerequisite: 230 and 240

Distribution: Mathematical Modeling

Semester: Spring

Unit: 1.0

CS 251 Theory of Programming Languages

Turbak

An introduction to the dimensions of modern programming languages. Covers major programming paradigms: function-oriented, imperative, object-oriented, and logic-oriented. Dimensions include syntax, naming, state, data, control, concurrency, non-determinism, and types. These dimensions are explored via mini-language interpreters written in OCaml, Scheme, and Haskell that students experiment with and extend.
Prerequisite: 230
Distribution: Mathematical Modeling
Semester: Spring
Unit: 1.0

CS 301 Compiler Design and Implementation
NOT OFFERED IN 2004-05, OFFERED IN 2003-06. A survey of the techniques used in the implementation of programming language translators. Topics include lexical analysis, the theory of parsing and automatic parser generators, semantic analysis, code generation, and optimization techniques. These topics are explored in the context of implementing a working compiler. Alternate year course.
Prerequisite: 240, 251
Distribution: Mathematical Modeling
Semester: N/O.
Unit: 1.0

CS 303/BISC 303 Bioinformatics
Webb (Biology) and Tjaden (Computer Science)
A multidisciplinary seminar exploring the origins, present and future applications, and challenges of the intersection of biological and computer sciences. The field of bioinformatics generated in response to the era of genomics, encompasses all aspects of biological data acquisition, storage, processing, analysis and interpretation with a view to generating in silico models of cellular function.
Prerequisites: 111 and BISC 110 or permission of the instructors.
Distribution: Natural and Physical Science
Semester: Spring
Unit: 1.0

CS 304 Databases with Web Interfaces
Anderson
A study of the design of file systems and databases, including file organization and access methods, concepts of database management, and database querying using SQL. We will look at the entity-relationship model as a way of structuring data, and we will use relational algebra and relational calculus as a formal system for operating on data. We will investigate how databases are represented, including B+ trees and hash indexes. We will briefly discuss sorting methods for databases. Finally, we will create dynamic Web documents driven by database entries. Alternate year course.
Prerequisite: 230. Not open to students who have taken this course as 349 in Spring 2003.
Distribution: Mathematical Modeling
Semester: Spring
Unit: 1.0

CS 307 Computer Graphics
Anderson
A survey of topics in computer graphics with an emphasis on fundamental techniques. Topics include: graphics hardware, fundamentals of three-dimensional graphics including projection, coordinate transformation, synthetic camera specification, color, shading, hidden surface removal, animation, and texture-mapping. We also cover the mathematical representation and programming specification of lines, planes, curves, and surfaces.
Prerequisite: 230
Distribution: Mathematical Modeling
Semester: Fall
Unit: 1.0

CS 310 Theoretical Foundations of Cryptology
Shull
When is a cryptographic system secure and how will we ever know? This course introduces the computational models and theory computer scientists use to address these issues. Topics include one-way functions, trapdoor functions, probabilistic complexity classes, pseudorandom generator, interactive proof systems, zero-knowledge proofs, and the application of these theories to modern cryptography. Alternate year course.
Prerequisite: 231 or 235 or permission of the instructor.
Distribution: Mathematical Modeling
Semester: Spring
Unit: 1.0

CS 331 Parallel Machines and Their Algorithms
Metaxas
NOT OFFERED IN 2004-05. This course is a broad introduction to parallelism that studies problem solving using a large number of cooperating processing elements. It is divided into three parts. First, it introduces the need for parallel computation and describes some of the fundamental algorithmic techniques. The second part surveys some of the more popular interconnection networks employed in today's parallel computers. In the third part, several parallel algorithms are designed and implemented on a cluster of communicating computers. Alternate year course.
Prerequisite: 231 or permission of the instructor.
Distribution: Mathematical Modeling
Semester: N/O.
Unit: 1.0

CS 332 Visual Processing by Computer and Biological Vision Systems
Hildreth
NOT OFFERED IN 2004-05. OFFERED IN 2005-06. An introduction to algorithms for deriving symbolic information about the three-dimensional environment from visual images. Aspects of models for computer vision systems will be related to perceptual and physiological observations on biological vision systems. Assignments will use computer vision software written in Java. Topics include: edge detection, stereopsis, motion analysis, shape from shading, color, visual reasoning, object recognition. Alternate year course.
Prerequisite: 230 or permission of the instructor.
Distribution: Mathematical Modeling
Semester: N/O.
Unit: 1.0

CS 340 Computer Architecture with Laboratory
Stephen
The course explores advanced assembly language programming instructions and techniques. Concepts such as I/O, data acquisition, exceptions and direct memory access will be a focus. Also studied are advanced topics in the field of computer architecture, such as reduced instruction set computers, instruction level parallelism and superscalar processors, parallel processing, multiprocessors and multicomputers, and memory systems. Students required to attend one three-hour digital laboratory weekly. Alternate year course.
Prerequisite: 240
Distribution: Mathematical Modeling. This course satisfies the laboratory requirement.
Semester: Fall
Unit: 1.25

CS 341 Operating Systems
NOT OFFERED IN 2004-05. OFFERED IN 2005-06. An examination of the software systems that manage computer hardware. Topics include processes, interprocess communication, process coordination, deadlock, memory management, swapping, paging, virtual memory, input/output management, file systems, protection, security, networks, distributed systems, multiprocessors, and massively parallel machines. Alternate year course.
Prerequisite: 240 or permission of the instructor.
Distribution: Mathematical Modeling
Semester: N/O.
Unit: 1.0

CS 349 Advanced Topics in Computer Science
Turbak
Topic for 2004-05: Computer Security. Upper-level seminar on aspects of computer security. Topics include ethics, privacy, authentication, access control, operating system security (with a focus on Linux), cryptography, security protocols, intrusion prevention and detection, firewalls, viruses, network security, Web security, and programming language security. Assignments include hands-on exercises with Linux security tools. Participants will independently research, present, and lead seminar discussions on security-related topics.
Prerequisite: 242 or permission of the instructor.

Directions for Election
Students majoring in computer science must complete CS 111, 230, 231, 235, 240, 251, two 300-level courses other than 350, 360 or 370, and at least one additional computer science course at the 200 or 300 level. Students who do not take CS 111 must replace this requirement with one additional one-unit computer science course except 110. Computer science courses at MIT or other institutions used to meet the nine-course requirement must be approved in advance by the department chair on an individual basis. In addition, all majors in computer science are expected to complete (1) MATH 225 (Combinatorics and Graph Theory) and (2) at least one additional course in mathematics at the 200 or 300 level. Particularly relevant mathematics courses are MATH 206 (Linear Algebra), MATH 220 (Probability and Elementary Statistics), MATH 223 (Number Theory), MATH 305 (Modern Abstract Algebra I), MATH 309 (Foundations of Mathematics ), and sometimes MATH 349 (Graph Theory). Students should consult a CS faculty member for advice in choosing mathematics courses best suited to their interests. Students are strongly encouraged to complete the 200-level CS and mathematics requirements, especially CS 230, 240, and MATH
Department of East Asian Languages and Literatures

Professor: Lam, Ma (Chair), Marley
Assistant Professor: J. Chen, Huss, Zimmerman
Visiting Assistant Professor: Li
Lecturer: Maeno, Torii
Lecturer in Chinese Language: D. Chen, Zhao
Lecturer in Japanese Language: Ozawa

The Department of East Asian Languages and Literatures offers two distinct programs: Chinese language and literature and Japanese language and literature. The goal of each major is to provide students with a solid foundation in the disciplines of language and literature through intensive language training and broad exposure to the literary and cultural traditions of the culture under study.

The department reserves the right to place a new student in the language course for which she seems best prepared regardless of the number of credits she has offered for admission.

Major in Chinese Language and Literature

CHIN 101-102 Beginning Chinese
D. Chen, Zhao
An introductory course that teaches the skills of listening comprehension, speaking, reading, and writing in Mandarin Chinese. Emphasis is on both linguistic aspects (pronunciation, vocabulary, and grammar) and sociocultural strategies in communication. Computer programs for pronunciation, listening comprehension, grammar, and writing Chinese characters will be used extensively. Four 70-minute classes plus one 30-minute small group session. Each semester earns 1.25 units of credit; however, both semesters must be completed satisfactorily to receive credit for either course.

Prerequisite: None. Open to students with no background or previous Chinese language training.
Distribution: None
Semester: Fall, Spring
Unit: 1.25

CHIN 103-104 Advanced Beginning Chinese
Ma, Huss
An introductory course that teaches the skills of listening comprehension, speaking, reading, and writing in Mandarin Chinese. Emphasis is on both linguistic aspects (pronunciation, vocabulary, and grammar) and sociocultural strategies in communication. Computer programs for pronunciation, listening comprehension, grammar, and writing Chinese characters will be used extensively. Three 70-minute classes. Each semester earns 1.0 unit of credit; however, both semesters must be completed satisfactorily to receive credit for either course.

Prerequisite: Open to students who can speak some Chinese (Mandarin or other Chinese dialect), or who have some knowledge about reading and writing Chinese characters. Department placement test is required.
Distribution: None
Semester: Fall, Spring
Unit: 1.0

CHIN 110 Introduction to Cultural Traditions of China (in English)
J. Chen
China is one of the world's most enduring civilizations, with a history that spans over three thousand years. This course will provide a broad introduction to much of this tradition from its archaic beginnings to the twentieth century. Through careful readings of primary texts (translated into English), we will explore the development and interactions of diverse aspects of Chinese culture, including language and script, literature and the arts, philosophy and religion, politics, history and technology. No prior background in Chinese language or Chinese culture is assumed.
Prerequisite: None
Distribution: Historical Studies or Language and Literature
Semester: Fall
Unit: 1.0

CHIN 201-202 Intermediate Chinese
J. Chen, Lam, TBA
Further training in listening comprehension and oral expression. Continued work on the Chinese writing system, emphasizing the acquisition of an acceptable expository style. Four 70-minute classes plus one 30-minute small group session. Each semester earns 1.25 unit of credit; however, both semesters must be completed satisfactorily to receive credit for either course.

Prerequisite: 101-102 or permission of instructor
Distribution: Language and Literature
Semester: Fall, Spring
Unit: 1.25

CHIN 203-204 Advanced Intermediate Chinese
D. Chen, Zhao
Further training in listening comprehension and oral expression. Continued work on the Chinese writing system, emphasizing the acquisition of an acceptable expository writing skill. Three 70-minute classes. Each semester earns 1.0 unit of credit; however, both semesters must be completed satisfactorily to receive credit for either course.

Semester: Fall, Spring
Unit: 1.0

CHIN 206 The Chinese Literary Imagination I: Beginnings to the Northern Song Dynasty (in English)

NOT OFFERED IN 2004-05. This is a thematic introduction to Chinese literature in translation, tracing the development of poetry, narrative, and criticism up through the Northern Song dynasty (960-1127). We will focus on the representation of the self in literary texts — its authenticity and/or theatricality — with particular attention to historical contexts, issues of genre and gender, and the pressures exerted by political and religious ideologies. Where it is relevant, we will also take up some concerns of recent theoretical approaches to literary and cultural studies.

Prerequisite: None
Distribution: Historical Studies or Language and Literature
Semester: N/O
Unit: 1.0

CHIN 207 The Chinese Literary Imagination II: The Song Dynasty to the Fall of Imperial China (in English)

NOT OFFERED IN 2004-05. This is the second half of a thematic introduction to Chinese literature in translation, focusing on the vernacular genres of the Song, Yuan, Ming, and Qing dynasties. We will explore the ways in which the self is constructed in the late imperial period, across genres such as diaries and informal prose, drama, short fiction and novels, and poetry. Questions of gender and sexuality, urban culture, and historical context will also be addressed.

Prerequisite: None
Distribution: Historical Studies or Language and Literature

| J. Chen | Who were the major women writers in traditional China? How did they represent themselves and how were they represented-in literary, historical, religious, and philosophical texts? This course will serve as an introduction to women's writings over the last two thousand years in China. We will examine the construction of gender, voice, and identity through close readings of poetry, fiction, essays, letters and biographical texts. We will also discuss the historical and social contexts so that we may better understand the conditions under which female authors lived and wrote. This course may be taken as 230 or with additional assignments, as 330.

| NOT OFFERED IN 2004-05. | The idea of “Zuzao/Woguo”, the motherland, has been central to Chinese literary writing throughout the past century. Novelists and poets in China are politicians by default and bear witness, in their lives and deaths, to the tremendous economic, political and cultural transformation that has occurred in twentieth-century mainland China. But what does China mean to writers of the Chinese diaspora? Writers in Taiwan, Hong Kong, Japan, North America, Europe? We will probe representations of the self, the martial hero, exile, gender, sexuality, colonialism, nation and how all of these are (or are not) tied to the concept of a motherland. All of the novels read for this course were written in Chinese outside of mainland China and are available in English translation.

Major in Japanese Language and Literature

JPN 101-102 Beginning Japanese
Torii, Zimmerman
Introduction to the modern standard Japanese language. Emphasis on developing proficiency in listening, speaking, reading and writing, using basic expressions and sentence patterns. Five periods. Each semester earns 1.25 unit of credit; however, both semesters must be completed satisfactorily to receive credit for either course.

JPN 111 Gender and Popular Culture of Japan (in English)
Zimmerman
NOT OFFERED IN 2004-05. Our study of Japanese popular culture focuses on gender issues, particularly on how girls are represented in Japanese comic books, magazines, fiction, television, animation, and film. We ask why the girl sparks such intense interest in Japan and explore how she both challenges and reaffirms existing gender norms. A lightening rod for social change in Japan, even for modernity itself, representations of the girl illuminate the status of women, the changing role of the family, issues of ethnic and national identity, sexual orientation, and even Japan's relation to the outside world. No previous knowledge of Japan or Japanese language required.

JPN 130 Japanese Animation (in English)
Morley
What makes Japan tick? New visitors to Japan are always struck by the persistence of traditional aesthetics, arts, and values in a highly industrialized society embraced by novelty. Through animation films (English subtitles) and readings on animation we will explore this phenomenon from the inside. Focus is on the works of Tezuka Osamu, Hayao Miyazaki, and others. No Japanese language required.

JPN 155 Exploring Solitude: Japanese Writers Across the Ages (in English)
Morley
NOT OFFERED IN 2004-05. In Japanese literature solitude has been shaped into an intensely emotional response to nature and human experience. The aesthetic values which many feel to lie at the heart of the Japanese literary and artistic tradition: sabi (solitude), wabi (the aged or weathered), yugen (subtle mystery), shiori (willing) arise from this preoccupation with solitude. What Buddhist cultural beliefs influenced the development of these values in Japan? How are they recast in modern fiction to recapture what is felt to be a uniquely "Japanese" atmosphere? We will be reading selections from a variety of the classics such as The Tale of Genji and the haiku poetry of Basho, as well as contemporary authors such as Banana Yoshimoto.

Emphasis on development and refinement of language skills with the aim of achieving fluency in verbal expression and mastery of reading and writing skills. Students will be given the opportunity to select individual readings appropriate to their area of interest, as well as the opportunities to develop their reading comprehension and oral skills as a group. Popular TV dramas and e-mail exchanges with students in Japan will complement the reading/writing component of the course. Meets three days a week.
Prerequisite: 201-202 or permission of the instructor.
Distribution: Language and Literature
Semester: Fall
Unit: 1.0

JPN 232 Selected Readings in Advanced Japanese II
Maeno
This course is a continuation of 231 with an emphasis on independent reading and writing skills. Students will give oral presentations on their readings throughout the semester as well as participating in debates and directing class discussions. Meets three days a week.
Prerequisite: 231 or permission of the instructor.
Distribution: Language and Literature

JPN 251 Japanese Writers and Their Worlds (in English)
Morley
A study of the emerging voice of the writer in Japan from the tenth through the eighteenth centuries. Texts will include the early poetic diaries of the Heian Court ladies, The Tale of Genji, the No plays, puppet plays and the haiku poetry of Matsuo Basho. Emphasis is on the changing world of the Japanese writer, the influence of Buddhism and Confucianism, and the role of the texts in shaping Japanese aesthetic principles. Selected films shown throughout course.
Prerequisite: None
Distribution: Language and Literature
Semester: Fall
Unit: 1.0

JPN 256 Japanese Film: The Restaging of a Culture (in English)
Zimmerman
NOT OFFERED IN 2004-05. From stalwart warriors to runaway lovers, we trace the complex strands of Japan's modern identity through its national cinema. Japanese directors have used film to examine and rearrange narrative and aesthetic conventions. At the same time, they have fashioned a unique language of film that counters the conventions of Hollywood. We will explore these concepts and their broader cultural context through an analysis of film clips and the use of literary and historical texts.
Prerequisite: None
Distribution: Arts, Music, Theatre, Film, Video or Language and Literature
Semester: N/O
Unit: 1.0

JPN 309 Readings in Contemporary Japanese Social Science
Maeno
NOT OFFERED IN 2004-05. Readings in Japanese with selections from current newspapers and journals. Areas of student interest will help to determine the texts for the course. Two periods with discussion sections.
Prerequisite: 232 or permission of instructor.
Distribution: Language and Literature
Semester: N/O
Unit: 1.0

JPN 310 Directed Readings in Modern Japanese Prose
Morley
NOT OFFERED IN 2004-05. Students will select independent projects to pursue throughout the semester. In addition to independent work, students will read together as a class twice a week from a variety of postwar literary texts. Independent readings will be presented to the class to form part of the class assignments. Focus is on reading comprehension and translation skills. Writing skills will be addressed through short weekly writing assignments. Two periods with one independent tutorial weekly.
JPN 312 Readings in Classical Japanese Prose
Morley
Reading and discussion in Japanese of selections from classical Japanese literature; focus on translation skills. Students will have the opportunity to sample The Tale of Genji and The Pillow Book, among others in the original and to familiarize themselves with the classical language. Two periods with discussion section.
Prerequisite: 232 or permission of instructor.
Distribution: Language and Literature
Semester: Fall
Unit: 1.0

JPN 314 Contemporary Japanese Narrative
Zimmerman
The many forms of contemporary Japanese writing—fiction, commentary, autobiography, humor, the immigrant narrative, and children's literature. We read carefully, translate, and discuss the 'knotty' problems of the Japanese language, including the disappearing subject, sentences that never seem to end, and cases of the untranslatable. Additional readings in English on issues of translation specific to Asian languages. Taught in Japanese.
Prerequisite: 232 or permission of instructor.

JPN 351 Seminar: Theaters of Japan (in English)
Morley
NOT OFFERED IN 2004-05. This course provides an in-depth study of Japanese traditional theater forms and performance theories. Students will be reading plays from the Noh, Kyogen, Bunraku and Kabuki traditions. Videos of the plays for study will be viewed by the class. Comparisons will be made with Western and other Eastern theater forms where appropriate. The influence of classical theater on contemporary Japanese drama will also be examined. Taught in English.
Prerequisite: One unit on Japan or by permission of instructor.
Distribution: Language and Literature or Arts, Music, Theater, Film, Video
Semester: N/O
Unit: 1.0

JPN 352 Seminar. Modern Japanese Writers (in English)
Zimmerman
Topic for 2004-05: Love and Liberation in Postwar Japanese Fiction. With the lifting of state censorship, postwar Japanese writers began to explore themes of romantic love, sexual liberation, familial dysfunction, and deep alienation in the aftermath of a draining war. In their celebration of the personal, however, Japanese writers also wrestle with questions of Japan's responsibility for the war, with Japanese identity, and with the social changes occurring around them. We embed literary texts in their historical and social contexts as we listen for the "hum of the times." At the same time, through close reading and analysis, we let literature speak for itself, assessing the aesthetic accomplishments of six writers from the late 1940s to the present. No Japanese language required.

JPN 353 Lady Murasaki and The Tale of Genji (in English)
Morley
Shortly after 1000 AD in the imperial court of Japan, Murasaki Shikibu, a court lady of middle rank, completed what is arguably the first novel in the history of world literature, The Tale of Genji. Who was she? How did she come to write a novel of such surprising psychological subtlety? Who is the hero? Why is he still appealing a millennium later? Focusing on The Genji and Murasaki's diary, we examine the culture of the Heian court, Buddhist beliefs, the esthetic of mono no aware (a beauty evocative of longing), and the literature (poetry, prose, and ladies' diaries) of the court salons. Films, plays, animation, and modern novels modeled on The Genji will also be discussed in class. No Japanese language required.
Prerequisite: One course on Japan or by permission of the instructor.

Directions for Election
Chinese language and literature: The goal of this major is to provide students with a solid foundation in the disciplines of Chinese language and literature through intensive language training and broad exposure to Chinese literary and cultural traditions through literature/culture courses taught in both English and Chinese. Students are strongly encouraged to begin their Chinese language study during their first year at Wellesley. Students with a Chinese language background must take a placement test to determine their proper courses. In addition, the EALL department strongly recommends that all majors spend a summer and/or a semester of their junior year studying Mandarin at an approved program in China, Taiwan, or Hong Kong.

The Chinese language and literature major consists of a minimum of ten courses. The following three sets of guidelines for the Chinese language and literature major have been devised to meet the needs of students who come to Wellesley with differing Chinese language backgrounds.

A. Students beginning their Chinese language study at Wellesley in CHIN 101-102, 103-104 or 201-202 shall complete the ten-course Chinese major as follows: (1) Five language courses from among CHIN 101-102 or 103-104, 201-202* or 203-204*; 301, 302, or 306, 307; (2) 310 or 316; (3) two literary courses from 206, 207, 208; (4) two additional literature/culture course taught in English from among 110, 243, 330, 340, 349.

B. Students beginning their Chinese language study at Wellesley in CHIN 203-204 shall complete the ten-course Chinese major as follows: (1) Three language courses consisting of CHIN 203-204*, 306 or 307; (2) 310 or 316; (3) two literary courses from 206, 207, 208; (4) four additional literature/culture courses taught in English from among 110, 243, 330, 340, 349.

C. Majors beginning their Chinese language study at Wellesley in third-year Chinese shall complete the ten-course Chinese major as follows: (1) Two language courses from among CHIN 301, 302, 306, 307; (2) 310 or 316; (3) two literary courses from 206, 207, 208; (4) five additional literature/culture courses taught in English from among 110, 243, 330, 340, 349.

Japanese language and literature: Japanese language and literature majors are strongly urged to begin language study in their first year. A junior year or summer of intensive language study in Japan is encouraged. The major consists of a minimum of eight units and normally includes JPN 202, 231, 232, and five additional units. At least two must be nonlanguage units, and at least two must come from the 300 level (to be taken within the department). Students entering with advanced language preparation may substitute alternate language units as necessary with departmental permission. JPN 101-102 and 201 may be counted toward the degree but not toward the major. Students who have completed 310, 314, or the equivalent may choose to do an independent study using the Japanese language (350). Those who wish to do an independent study that does not require the Japanese language should register for 250. An advisor should be chosen from within the department.

Teacher Certification
Students interested in seeking certification in teaching Chinese or Japanese should speak with the chair of the EALL department and education department early in their college career.

Study Abroad
A maximum of three courses taken abroad may be counted toward the Chinese language and literature major; and a maximum of four courses toward the Japanese language and literature major. Students should note that more credit may be counted toward the Wellesley degree. In order to obtain credit for study abroad, students must obtain prior consent from the Registrar's Office and the EALL department chair and must pass a placement test administered by the EALL department upon return to Wellesley. AN INTERDEPARTMENTAL MAJOR

Directors: Joseph, Kodera
Affiliated Faculty: Bong (Political Science), D. Chen (EALL-Chinese), J. Chen (EALL-Chinese), Cheng (Women's Studies), Chu (Anthropology), Giersch (History), Huss (EALL-Chinese), Joseph (Political Science), Kodera (Religion), Lam (EALL-Chinese), Liu (Art History), Ma (EALL-Chinese), Maeno (EALL-Japanese), Matsuoka (History), Meng (Studio Art), Moon (Political Science), Morley (EALL-Japanese), Ozawa (EALL-Japanese), Torri-Williams (EALL-Japanese), Yan (Music), Zhao (EALL-Chinese), Zimmerman (EALL-Japanese).

East Asian studies is an interdisciplinary major offered jointly by the East Asian languages and literatures department (EALL) and faculty from other departments at the College whose research and teaching interests include East Asia. The major is designed for students with a broad interest in East Asia. Students interested primarily in the language and literature of a single East Asian culture should consider the Chinese language and literature or Japanese language and literature major. While the department encourages students to familiarize themselves with several East Asian cultures, all students must have an area of concentration. This area of concentration may be geographic or disciplinary. Prospective majors should consult with a member of East Asian studies faculty as early as possible to discuss their academic plans. Majors devise their own programs of study in consultation with an advisor from the student's area of concentration. Both the major advisor and the EALL chair must approve proposals for the major. Transfer credits to be counted towards the major must be approved by one of the program directors.

Ten units are required for the major, consisting of the following:

Language courses: four units. Students must complete at least four language courses above the 100-level in the language most appropriate to their area of concentration. No credit towards the major is given for the first year of language study. Those who begin their language study at Wellesley in a 300-level language class must still complete four language courses. Students with native or near-native fluency in an East Asian language must also complete at least ten units for the major.

Language study beyond that required for the major is strongly recommended. All majors are also encouraged to spend at least a summer or a semester studying abroad in China, Taiwan, Japan, or Korea. The EALL chair must approve plans for language study taken away from Wellesley and to be applied towards the major.

Nonlanguage courses: six units. Of the six nonlanguage units required for the major, a minimum of three must constitute the concentration (see below) and two must be at the 300 level. A minimum of three of the nonlanguage courses must be taken at Wellesley, including both of the 300-level courses. Only one of the two required 300-level courses may be fulfilled by a 350, 360, or 370. In order to gain a comparative perspective, majors must take at least one non-language course that deals primarily with an East Asian society other than the one where the language she is using to fulfill the major is spoken.

All majors also must take at least one nonlanguage course on East Asia in each of the following two categories: (1) humanities, including art history, literature, cinema, music, philosophy, religion; and (2) social sciences, including anthropology, history, economics, political science, sociology, women's studies.

One course in Asian American studies may be counted towards the major, provided that the course addresses a significant aspect of East Asian traditions, culture, or society in its global, diasporic contexts. MIT has strong offerings in East Asian studies, and Wellesley students should consider taking at least one course there.

Concentrations. At least three of the nonlanguage courses to be counted towards the major must constitute either a geographic or a disciplinary concentration in East Asian studies. Majors will normally declare their concentration no later than the spring semester of the junior year when preparing to undertake advanced work in East Asian studies.

Geographic concentrations may focus on China, Japan, or Korea. Disciplinary concentrations include: arts and visual studies; culture and society; gender studies; historical studies; international relations; literary studies; political economy; and religion. Under unusual circumstances, and with the approval of her advisor and a program director, a student may design her own disciplinary concentration.

Honors in the major. Majors who have demonstrated exceptional ability and an unusual degree of independence in their coursework may be eligible to participate in the honors program. Honors candidates ordinarily enroll in EAS 360 during the fall and EAS 370 during the spring semester of the senior year and are expected to write a thesis based substantially on original research in primary sources. Students interested in the honors program are strongly encouraged to work with their faculty advisor(s) to identify a thesis topic no later than the spring semester of the junior year and to begin their research during the following semester.

EAS 300 Contemporary East Asian Cinemas
Huss (EALL-Chinese), Zimmerman (EALL-Japanese)
East Asian societies underwent massive transformation during the second half of the twentieth century. The film industries in these nations changed dramatically in response. This course analyzes contemporary film from China, Japan, Korea, Taiwan, and Hong Kong. Themes explored in contemporary East Asian films of the last decade (the urban-rural divide, nationalism, military service, class, domestic abuse, gender and sexuality, ethnic identity) transcend geographic boundaries and illustrate how transnational East Asian cinemas are. As Hollywood once dictated how film was to be made, East Asian cinemas are now making their mark on Hollywood. Discussed together, Chinese, Japanese, and Korean cinema provide a fascinating, cohesive illustration of contemporary East Asian societies in flux.

ECON 101 Principles of Microeconomics
Staff
This first course in economics introduces students to the market system. Microeconomics considers the decisions of households and firms about what to consume and what to produce, and the efficiency and equity of market outcomes. Supply and demand analysis is developed and applied. Policy issues include price floors and ceilings, competition and monopoly, income distribution, and the role of government in a market economy.
Prerequisite: Fulfillment of the basic skills component of the Quantitative Reasoning requirement.
Distribution: Social and Behavioral Analysis
Semester: Fall, Spring

ECON 102 Principles of Macroeconomics
Staff
This course follows 101 and analyzes the aggregate dimensions of a market-based economy. Topics include the measurement of national income, economic growth, unemployment, inflation, business cycles, the balance of payments, and exchange rates. The impact of government monetary and fiscal policies is considered.
Prerequisite: 101, Fulfillment of the basic skills component of the Quantitative Reasoning requirement.
Distribution: Social and Behavioral Analysis
Semester: Fall, Spring

ECON 103/SOC 190 Introduction to Probability and Statistical Methods
Kaufman, Swingle (Sociology)
An introduction to the collection, analysis, interpretation, and presentation of quantitative data as used to understand problems in economics and sociology. Using examples drawn from these fields, this course focuses on basic concepts in probability and statistics, such as measures of central tendency and dispersion, hypothesis testing, and parameter estimation. Data analysis exercises are drawn from both academic and everyday applications. Students must register for a laboratory section which meets an additional 70 minutes each week. Students may register for either ECON 103 or SOC 190. Credit will be given in the department in which the student is registered.
Prerequisite: 101 or 102, or one course in Sociology and fulfillment of the basic skills component of the Quantitative Reasoning Requirement. Not open to students who have taken [QR 199]. Not open to students who have taken or are taking MATH 220 or PSYC 205.
Distribution: Social and Behavioral Analysis
Semester: Fall, Spring

ECON 210 Financial Markets
Joyce
Overview of financial markets and institutions, including stock and bond markets, money markets, derivatives, financial intermediaries, monetary policy, and international currency markets.
Prerequisite: 101, 102, and 103 (or [QR 191])
Distribution: Social and Behavioral Analysis
Semester: Fall

ECON 213 International Finance and Macroeconomic Policy
Oner
This course introduces the study of macroeconomics in an open economy. Topics include basic features of foreign exchange markets, the structure of the balance of payments accounts, and the effectiveness of macroeconomic policy under fixed and flexible exchange rates and varying degrees of capital mobility. The course also ECON 214 Trade and Immigration
Lindauer
An introduction to international trade in theory and practice. Emphasis on the application of microeconomic principles in international economies. Topics to be covered include the debate over free versus fair trade; trade and the welfare of workers in developed and developing nations; the use of tariffs, quotas, and other instruments of protection; trade deficits; and the costs and benefits of international migration.
Prerequisite: 101 and 102. Not open to students who have taken [212].
Distribution: Social and Behavioral Analysis
Semester: Fall, Spring
Unit: 1.0

ECON 215 Federal Tax Policy
Case
An introduction to economic analysis of the Federal tax system, including the individual income tax, the corporation income tax, Social Security taxes, and the gift and estate tax. Economic analysis will focus on equity and efficiency. Policy issues to be covered include the effect of taxes on savings, investment, and labor supply. Also covered will be alternatives to the current structure including "flat taxes" and value-added taxes.
Prerequisite: 101
Distribution: Social and Behavioral Analysis
Semester: Spring
Unit: 1.0

ECON 220 Development Economics
Lindauer
Survey and analysis of problems and circumstances of less developed nations. Examination of theories of economic growth for poor nations. Review of policy options and prospects for low and middle income economies. Specific topics include: population growth, poverty and income distribution, foreign aid, and human resource strategies.
Prerequisites: 101 and 102, 103 (or [QR199]) recommended.
Distribution: Social and Behavioral Analysis
Semester: Fall
Unit: 1.0

ECON 222 Games of Strategy
Sketh
Should you sell your house at an auction where the highest bidder gets the house, but only pays the second-highest bid? Should the U.S. government institute a policy of never negotiating with terrorists? The effects of decisions in such situations often depend on how others react to them. This course introduces some basic concepts and insights from the theory of games that can be used to understand any situation in which strategic decisions are made. The course will emphasize applications rather than formal theory. Extensive use is made of in-class experiments, examples, and cases drawn from business, economics, politics, movies, and current events.
Prerequisite: 101. Permission of instructor required.
Distribution: Social and Behavioral Analysis
Semester: Fall
Unit: 1.0

ECON 225 Urban Economics
Case
Analysis of the location decisions of households and firms. Topics include real estate development and finance, housing markets and housing finance, real estate cycles, regional economics, problems of the inner city, discrimination in housing and credit markets, homelessness, and alternative public policy responses to urban problems. The course requires several projects involving fieldwork.
Prerequisite: 101
Distribution: Social and Behavioral Analysis
Semester: Fall
Unit: 1.0

ECON 226 Economics of Education Policy
McEwan
Applies microeconomic analysis to important questions in education policy. Should private school vouchers be implemented? Are there teacher shortages and how can they be solved? What are the long-term benefits of early childhood education? The course uses conceptual insights from microeconomics to understand these and other questions; particular emphasis is placed on economic interpretation of case studies and contemporary policy debates.
Prerequisite: 101 and 103 (or [QR199])
Distribution: Social and Behavioral Analysis
Semester: Fall
Unit: 1.0

ECON 228 Environmental and Resource Economics
Bouvier
This course considers the economic aspects of resource and environmental issues. After examining the concepts of externalities, public goods, and common property resources, we will discuss how to measure the cost and benefits of environmental policy, in order to estimate the socially optimal level of the environmental good. Applications of these tools will be made to air and water pollution, renewable and nonrenewable resources, and global climate. In addressing each of these problems we will compare various public policy responses such as regulation, marketable permits and tax incentives.
Prerequisite: 101
Distribution: Social and Behavioral Analysis
Semester: Spring
Unit: 1.0

ECON 234 Ecology and Politics
Bouvier
This course provides an introduction to the study of the interaction between economics and the political process from both international and domestic perspectives. Topics include voting theory, public good provision, taxes and subsidies, and the effects of market power and rent seeking behavior on the political system. Emphasis throughout will be on the application of economic theories to current events.
Prerequisites: 101 and 102
Distribution: Social and Behavioral Analysis
Semester: Fall
Unit: 1.0

ECON 241 Economic Development of Latin America
McEwan
Survey and analysis of economic development in the Latin American region. Topics to be covered include theories of development, the role of the state, patterns of growth and industrialization, the debt crisis and structural reforms of recent decades, poverty and income inequality, and human resource development. Emphasis on case studies and comparative analysis of countries.
Prerequisite: 101 and 102
Distribution: Social and Behavioral Analysis
Semester: Spring
Unit: 1.0

ECON 243 The Political Economy of Gender, Race, and Class
Matthews
An introduction to radical economic analysis of contemporary, globalizing capitalism. Analysis of race, class, and gender, and of their interconnections. Radical economic critiques of current neo-liberal economic policies. Study and critique of contemporary radical economic movements, including the environmental movement; the movements for socially responsible consumption, investment, business, and work; and the antiglobalization or globalization from below movement.
Prerequisite: 101 or 102 or permission of instructor.
Distribution: Social and Behavioral Analysis
Semester: Spring
Unit: 1.0

ECON 244 Comparative Political Economy: Transition and Reform
NOT OFFERED IN 2004-05. This course begins with an analysis of the major economic philosophies. Discussion will then focus in varying degrees upon the following economies: USSR/Russia, Sweden, Germany, France, the European Union, Japan, and South Korea. The discussion of each economy will focus on its evolution and behavior, especially the importance of historical conditions and attitudinal changes in the establishment and modification of working rules for institutions.
Prerequisite: 101 and 102. Not open to students who have taken [301].
Distribution: Social and Behavioral Analysis
Semester: N/O

ECON 266 Long Run Economic Change in Africa
Kaufman
NOT OFFERED IN 2004-05. This course traces the development of African economics from before colonialization to the present day. The course considers why economic development in Africa has been so slow compared to other regions of the world, how European intervention on the continent affected economic dynamics in the twentieth century, and how HIV/AIDS is affecting labor markets and economic performance in the twenty-first century. Throughout the course we will try to understand the economic and social factors behind Africa's perennial economic malaise and why there are seemingly constant impediments to successful economic growth on the continent.
Prerequisite: 101 and 103 (or [QR199])
Distribution: Social and Behavioral Analysis
Semester: N/O
Unit: 1.0
ECON 300 Mathematics for Economics
NOT OFFERED IN 2004-05. In this course, students will apply mathematical techniques in economic analysis. Students are expected to have a good knowledge of calculus and will be introduced to topics in linear algebra, differential equations, and static and dynamic optimization. Emphasis will be placed on economic applications including maximization decisions of consumers and producers, comparative statics, phase diagram analysis of dynamic systems, and basic features of dynamic optimization.
Prerequisite: 201 and 203, MATH 205, MATH 206 recommended. Not open to students who have taken ECON 103: Mathematics for Economics.
Distribution: Social and Behavioral Analysis Semester: N/O Unit: 1.0

ECON 303 Advanced Econometrics
NOT OFFERED IN 2004-05. This course builds upon 203 (Econometrics) by allowing students to examine more complex econometric issues, including techniques of model specification, estimation, and evaluation. Both cross-sectional and time series models are considered.
Prerequisite: 201, 202, and 203 (or [200]). Open to students who have taken ECON 303: Mathematics for Economics.
Distribution: Social and Behavioral Analysis Semester: N/O Unit: 1.0

ECON 304 Seminar. New Institutional Economic History
Kauffman
This course will investigate the evolution of economic institutions throughout the world over the past 1,000 years. We will consider a broad range of institutional questions and use evidence from historical episodes in their analysis. How are effective trading rules created (evidence from the eleventh-century Maghribi traders)? How does a government become "credible" (evidence from seventeenth-century England)? Why have Blacks consistently earned less than Whites (evidence from nineteenth- and twentieth-century America)? What are the effects of governmental tampering with housing prices (evidence from early twentieth-century Hong Kong)?
Prerequisite: 201 and 203 (or [200])
Distribution: Historical Studies or Social and Behavioral Analysis Semester: Spring Unit: 1.0

ECON 305 Industrial Organization
NOT OFFERED IN 2004-05. A course in applied microeconomics, focusing on the performance of real world markets. Emphasis on the welfare costs of market power as well as public policy responses. Topics include analysis of imperfectly competitive markets (e.g., monopolistic competition, oligopoly, imperfect and asymmetric information), firm and industry strategic conduct, and antitrust policy attempts to improve industrial performance.
Prerequisite: 201
Distribution: Social and Behavioral Analysis Semester: N/O Unit: 1.0

ECON 310 Public Economics
Coile
This course explores the reasons for government intervention in the economy and the responses of households and firms to the government’s actions. Economic models and empirical research are used to analyze tax policies and spending programs. Topics include the effect of taxes on savings and labor supply, externalities and public goods, and social insurance programs such as social security and unemployment insurance.
Prerequisite: 201 and 203 (or [200])
Distribution: Social and Behavioral Analysis Semester: Spring Unit: 1.0

ECON 313 Seminar. International Macroeconomics
Joyce
Theory and policy of macroeconomic adjustment in the open economy. Topics to be covered include models of exchange rate determination, the choice between fixed and floating exchange rates, monetary union, policy effectiveness in open economies under different exchange rate regimes, and adjustment to balance of payments disequilibria.
Prerequisite: 202 and 203 (or [200])
Distribution: Social and Behavioral Analysis Semester: Spring Unit: 1.0

ECON 314 International Trade Theory
Staff
Theoretical analysis of international trade. Emphasis on models of comparative advantage, determination of gains from trade and the effects of trade restrictions such as tariffs and quotas. Further topics include the role of scale economies, the political economy of protectionism, and strategic trade policy.
Prerequisite: 201
Distribution: Social and Behavioral Analysis Semester: Spring Unit: 1.0

ECON 318 Economic Analysis of Social Policy
Levine
This course uses economic analysis to evaluate important social policy issues in the U.S., focusing on the role of government in shaping social policy and its impact on individuals. Does welfare make people work less or have more children? Why is the teen birthrate so high and how might it be lowered? How do fertility patterns respond to changes in abortion policy? Theoretical models and econometric evidence will be used to investigate these and other issues.
Prerequisite: 201 and 203 (or [200])
Distribution: Social and Behavioral Analysis Semester: Spring Unit: 1.0

ECON 320 Seminar. Economic Development Velenchik
Theoretical and empirical exploration of microeconomic issues of concern to developing countries. Specific topics may include land tenure regimes and the structure of agricultural markets, the behavior of rural households in the production of output and the management of risk, the functioning of rural and urban labor markets, human capital formation and the education system, intra-household resource allocation, and the measurement and policy responses to inequality and poverty.
Prerequisite: 201, 202, and 203 (or [200])
Distribution: Social and Behavioral Analysis Semester: Spring Unit: 1.0

ECON 323 Seminar. International Finance Hilt
This course provides a rigorous treatment of financing and capital budgeting decisions within firms. Topics include: financial statement analysis, strategies and analytical methods for the evaluation of investment projects; capital structure and dividend policy decisions; risk, return, and the valuation of financial instruments; and management incentive structures. Risk management and the use of derivatives will also be considered.
Prerequisite: 201 and 203 (or [200]). Not open to students who have taken [339: Topic A].
Distribution: Social and Behavioral Analysis Semester: Fall Unit: 1.0

ECON 325 Law and Economics
Witte
Economic analysis of legal rules and institutions. Application of economic theory and empirical methods to the central institutions of the legal system including the common law doctrines of negligence, contract, and property as well as civil, criminal, administrative procedure and family law. The course will contrast economic and noneconomic theories of law and will address the strengths and limitations of the economic approach to law.
Prerequisite: 201 and 203 (or [200])
Distribution: Social and Behavioral Analysis Semester: Fall Unit: 1.0

ECON 326 Seminar. Methods of Education Policy Analysis
McEwan
This course applies modern econometric methods and evaluation design to the analysis of contemporary issues in education policy. Methods include randomized experiments, regression discontinuity analysis, and the use of panel data. Issues include school accountability, private school vouchers, and policies toward teacher labor markets. Students will conduct extensive empirical analysis of education data.
Prerequisite: 201 and 203 (200)
Distribution: Social and Behavioral Analysis Semester: Fall Unit: 1.0

ECON 331 Seminar. Monetary Theory and Policy
Wenner
The formulation of monetary policy and its theoretical foundations. This includes discussion of the latest developments in monetary theory, the money supply process, monetary autonomy in an open economy, and current procedures in the U.S. and other nations.
Prerequisite: 202 and 203 (or [200])
Distribution: Social and Behavioral Analysis Semester: Fall Unit: 1.0

ECON 333: Economic Growth and Fiscal Policy
NOT OFFERED IN 2004-05. The first part of the course analyzes cross-country income differences, addressing questions like: why are some countries so rich and others so poor? and why has per capita income in Argentina declined significantly relative to the level in France? We explain countries’ different growth performance, the role of physical and human capital accumulation, economic institutions, and economic policies. In the second part, we concentrate on the effects of fiscal policy on economic growth and on the macroeconomy in general. Topics include: the economic theory and political economy of public debt and budget...

MATH 203 Mathematical Tools for Finance

Directions for Election

Economics is the study of the universal problems of scarcity, choice, and human behavior. It contains elements of formal theory, history, philosophy, and mathematics. Unlike business administration, which deals with specific procedures by which business enterprises are managed, economics examines a broad range of institutions and focuses on their interactions within a structured analytical framework. The complete survey of economics consists of both 101 and 102. Any student who plans to take economics after 101 and 102 should consult a department advisor.

The Major in Economics

The economics major consists of a minimum of nine units. The major must include core coursework in microeconomics (ECON 101 and 201), macroeconomics (102 and 202), and statistics (103 and 203), as well as at least two 300-level units (ordinarily not counting 350, 360 or 370). A minimum of two 300-level courses must be taken at Wellesley unless a student has completed 300-level work in economics at MIT; in such a case, only one 300-level course needs to be taken at Wellesley.

Students who have completed MATH 220 or PSYC 203 need not complete ECON 103 but must take an additional economics elective to complete the major.

Choosing courses to complete the major requires careful thought. All majors should choose an advisor and consult him/her regularly. Students are also advised to consult the department handbook, which deals with a variety of topics including preparation in mathematics, desirable courses for those interested in graduate study in economics, and complementary courses outside economics. Calculus, along with several other mathematical tools, is central to the discipline. MATH 115 or its equivalent is required for all ECON 201, 202 and 203 sections. We encourage students to consult a departmental advisor about whether additional mathematics courses might be desirable.

Students interested in economics and its applications in international relations might want to consider the interdepartmental major in international relations-economics listed under international relations in this Bulletin.

Honors in the Major

The department offers majors two programs for pursuing departmental honors. Under program I, students complete two semesters of independent research (360 and 370) culminating in an honors thesis. Under program II, a student completes one semester of independent research (350) related to previous 300-level coursework, and then submits to an examination in economics that includes the topic covered in her research project. Ordinarily, a student is expected to complete one 300-level course before enrolling in the honors program. All honors candidates are expected to participate in the economics research seminar.

The Minor in Economics

The economics minor is recommended for students wishing to develop competence in economics in preparation for work or graduate study in area studies, business, international relations, law, public administration, public health, or other such professions. The minor consists of 101, 102 and 103, plus two additional 200-level units, ordinarily excluding 201, 202 and 203. A student wishing to elect the economics minor in another field should consult a faculty advisor in economics. Students who have completed MATH 220 or PSYC 203 need not complete ECON 103 but must take an additional economics elective to complete the minor.

Students are urged to supplement their major or minor program in economics with related courses from other disciplines in the liberal arts, such as history, mathematics, philosophy, political science, and sociology.

Credit for Other Courses

In order to obtain credit for any economics course taken at another institution during the summer or academic year, approval must be obtained in advance from the department's transfer credit advisor. In general, courses from two-year colleges will not be accepted at any level. Courses taken elsewhere normally will not be transferred at the 300-level. ECON 201, 202, and 203 ordinarily should be taken at Wellesley. Transfer students wishing to obtain transfer credit for economics courses taken prior to enrollment at Wellesley should contact the department's transfer credit advisor.

Advanced Placement and Exemption Examinations

Students who enter with Advanced Placement credit in microeconomics or macroeconomics may choose to repeat the courses covered by the AP credit (in which case the credit is forfeited) or proceed to the remaining half of the introductory sequence (for those with one unit of AP credit) or to a 200-level elective (for those with two units of AP credit). Students who have AP or IB credit in statistics should consult the department chair regarding enrollment in 103. We recommend seeking advice from the department on how to proceed, particularly for students contemplating a 200-level course in their first semester. AP credits do not count toward the minimum major or minor in economics.
EDUC 102/WRT 125 Education in Philosophical Perspective

Hawes

This course is guided by questions such as: What is education? How do an individual's own efforts to make sense of the world and to guide her life, relate to schools and academic work? To the diversity of experiences and cultures? What should the aims of education be? The focus will be on perspectives and processes of learning and teaching. We will use the works of earlier writers (for example, Confucius, Plato, and Dewey) and contemporary writers as starting points in our investigations. This course satisfies the Writing 125 requirement and counts as a unit toward the education minor. Includes a third session each week.

Prerequisite: None. Open to all first-year students. Distribution: Epistemology and Cognition Semester: Spring  Unit: 1.0

EDUC 212 Seminar. History of American Education

Beatty

An intensive study of the role that education has played in American society and of the evolution of support and expectations for public schools. We will examine how schools have served the needs of girls, African Americans and other minorities, immigrants, and students from different social class and religious backgrounds. We will focus on the education of teachers, the organization of urban school systems, the growth of high schools and preschools, and attempts to reform schools and the curriculum.

Prerequisite: None Distribution: Historical Studies Semester: Fall Unit: 1.0

EDUC 215 Understanding and Improving Schools

Hawes

Study of what goes into the making of good schools in a variety of settings, including urban public schools. Examination of what we mean by "good schools" in terms of both aims and practices. We will use case studies of different kinds of people working to reform schools, including teachers, principals, education advocates, and researchers. Fieldwork will be an integral part of the course.

Prerequisite: None Distribution: Social and Behavioral Analysis Semester: Fall Unit: 1.0

EDUC 216 Education and Social Policy

Beatty

An examination of education policy and of how it is formulated, implemented, and evaluated. We will study the interactions of policies at the federal, state, and local level and focus on major topics of debate in American education, including equal educational opportunity, school desegregation, school choice, school finance reform, bilingual education, preschool education, and education standards and testing. Relevant field placement may be arranged as part of this course, especially for students wishing to fulfill requirements for teacher certification.

Prerequisite: PSYC 207 or PSYC 248 or permission of instructor. Distribution: Social and Behavioral Analysis Semester: Spring Unit: 1.0

EDUC 217 Issues in Multicultural Education

Darer (Spanish)

An intensive study of theories and practices in multicultural education. We will examine the influences of ethnicity, gender, religion, language, learning styles, and socioeconomic status on teaching, learning, and school curricula. We will focus on tensions surrounding different critical perspectives on multicultural education and on the integration of multiculturalism into curriculum and instruction. Readings include works by Lisa Delpit, Paolo Freire, John Ogbu, and others.

EDUC 300 Educational Theory, Curriculum, Instruction, and Assessment

Speiser, Speiser

An intensive exploration of educational theories, teaching methods, and classroom practice. This course focuses on the relation of school curriculum to intellectual development, and learning, as well as on curriculum development, planning, instruction, testing, and assessment. Special additional laboratory periods for teaching presentation and the accompanying field placement for teacher certification are required.

Prerequisite: One of 102, 212, 215, 216, 217, PSYC 248, or MIT 11.124 or other approved course. By permission only. Students must apply for admission by April 1st. Required for teacher certification. Distribution: Epistemology and Cognition Semester: Fall Unit: 1.25

EDUC 301 Theory and Practice of Early Childhood Care and Education

Speiser

An examination of rationales for different approaches to early childhood care and education and exploration of current teaching methods. Emphasis will be on understanding and providing for the diverse needs of young children in group settings. We will study critical issues in learning, with particular attention to play, cognitive development, and other curriculum topics. Regular observations and fieldwork will be required.

Prerequisite: Open to sophomores, juniors and seniors. Distribution: Social and Behavioral Analysis Semester: N/O Unit: 1.0

EDUC 302 Seminar. Methods and Materials of Teaching

Speiser, Hawes

Study and observation of teaching techniques, the role of the teacher, classroom interaction, and individual and group learning. Examination of curriculum materials and classroom practice in specific teaching fields.

Prerequisite: 300 and by permission of department. Open only to students doing student teaching. Required for teacher certification. Distribution: Social and Behavioral Analysis Semester: Spring Unit: 1.0

EDUC 303 Practicum. Curriculum and Supervised Teaching

Speiser, Hawes

Observation, supervised teaching, and curriculum development in students' teaching fields throughout the semester. Attendance at appropriate school placement required full-time five days a week. Mandatory credit/noncredit.

Prerequisite: Required for teacher certification. Students must apply to the department for admission to this course in the semester before it is taken. Corequisite: 302. Distribution: Social and Behavioral Analysis Semester: Spring Unit: 1.0

EDUC 304 Curriculum and Instruction in Elementary Education

Speiser, Cook, Cunniff, Friedman, Tutin

A semester-length seminar taught by a team of experienced teachers. This course focuses on instructional methods and curriculum materials used in elementary school classrooms, especially on the teaching of mathematics, reading, literature, science, and social studies.

Prerequisite: 300. By permission only. Seminar begins in the fall, but student should register for spring semester only, simultaneous with student teaching. Required for elementary teacher certification. Distribution: Epistemology and Cognition Semester: Fall, Spring Unit: 1.0

EDUC 306 Seminar. World Languages Methodology

Renzijian-Burg (Spanish)

NOT OFFERED IN 2004-05. A course in the pedagogical methods of foreign languages intended to apply to any foreign language and to teaching English as a second language; emphasizes the inter dependence of the four language skills — listening, speaking, reading, writing. introduces students to a theoretical study of linguistic and psychological issues necessary to evaluate new ways of presenting language material. This seminar will focus on selected texts and readings on the methodology of world-language teaching.

80 Education
EDUC 310 Seminar. Child Literacy and the Teaching of Reading
Tutin, Speiser
How do children learn to read? How do we acquire reading, writing, and oral language skills, and how does this relate to cognition? We will examine current research and practice in literacy development for elementary-aged children. Oral language, development of reading processes, assessment using a variety of techniques, phonemic awareness, phonics, and comprehension strategies will all be addressed through lectures, readings, study of literacy materials, and a field placement experience. We will focus on reading instruction across content areas and the transition from learning to read to reading to learn. Emphasis will be placed on understanding the application of this information to developing teaching strategies that address the needs of a diverse population of learners, including students at-risk, second-language learners, and students with special needs.
Prerequisite: Open to sophomores, juniors, and seniors. Distribution: Epistemology and Cognition Semester: Fall Unit: 1.0

EDUC 312 Seminar. History of Child Rearing, the Family, and Child Welfare
Beatty
Examination of the evolution of childhood in America, of the family, and of the emerging role of the state in assuming responsibilities for child rearing, education, and child welfare. We will study the history of how institutions and social policy have attempted to shape the lives of children and families of differing social, economic, racial, and ethnic backgrounds.
Prerequisite: Open to sophomores, juniors, and seniors. Distribution: Historical Studies Semester: Fall Unit: 1.0

EDUC 320 Observation and Fieldwork
Hawes, Speiser
Observation and fieldwork in educational settings. This course may serve to complete the requirement of documented introductory field experiences of satisfactory quality and duration necessary for teacher certification. Arrangements may be made for observation and in various types of educational programs; at least one urban field experience is required. Mandatory credit/noncredit.
Prerequisite: 300. Open only to students who plan to student teach. Permission of instructor required. Not open to students who have taken [220]. Distribution: Social and Behavioral Analysis Semester: Fall, Spring Unit: 1.0

EDUC 339/POLI 339S Seminar. The Politics of Urban Public Schools
Rich (Political Science)
This seminar examines recurrent issues in public school management and governance. Critical questions include the changing demographics of inner city schools, the evolving role of school boards, big city mayors, urban superintendents, teachers unions, and school finance. We will also discuss alternatives to public schools (parochial, private, and charter schools), high-stakes testing, and district-state relations. The seminar will also analyze the increasing intervention of state and federal governments in local school administration and the role of the courts in curriculum controversies, student life, and security. Students may register for either EDUC 339 or POLI 339S. Credit will be given in the department in which the student is registered.

Directions for Election
The education department offers two minors (but no major), one in teacher education and one in education studies. Both minors offer opportunities to explore teaching and education, from the perspective of a classroom teacher or as a field of study.

Teacher Education
We prepare teachers to teach in a variety of schools with diverse students. Grounded in the liberal arts, each Wellesley or MIT student in our program receives careful individual attention in the process of discovering how her/his own special gifts can be used in the challenging work of teaching. Our students take introductory courses in educational philosophy, history, or policy, and then do course work in curriculum, instruction, and assessment, and specific methods for teaching reading and elementary school subjects or middle and high school subjects, along with fieldwork and student teaching.

The teacher education minor consists of:
(A) 102 or 212 or 213 or 216 or 217 or 301 or PSYC 248, or SOC 230 or MIT 11.124 or other approved course; (B) PSYC 207 or 208 or MIT 9.85, and (C) 300, 302, and 303. For students seeking elementary certification, 304, and 310 or Brandeis Education 107A (spring only), are also required.

Students who wish to be certified as high school (grades 8-12), middle school (grades 5-8), or elementary (grades 1-6) teachers should obtain the department's description of the requirements. Generally, the program requires students to take specific subject-matter courses within their teaching fields along with four to seven education and psychology courses, two of which are the student teaching practicum and accompanying seminar, 303 and 302. AP credits approved by the College may be counted towards teacher certification. If students are not able to register for required introductory courses, they should consult with the department about alternatives.

In addition, teacher certification requires fieldwork prior to student teaching. Students enrolled in EDUC 303 (Practicum) may register for EDUC 320, but are not required to do so.

To receive permission to register for EDUC 300 prior to pre-registration, students should apply by April 1. Applications are available in the education department. Students should plan their program of studies to fulfill the requirements and are encouraged to consult with a member of the department as early as possible, but are welcome to do so at any point. Students may register for a minor beginning in the spring of the sophomore year, but a minor is not required for teacher certification. With the exception of 300, 302, 303, 304, and 320 the department's courses are designed for all students, not simply those planning a career in public or private school teaching.

Education Studies
We also offer courses that extend students' general knowledge of education as a field of study. Students may focus on the origins of education and child rearing practices, on the role of women in education, on urban education and the role of schools in society, and on the various ways that ideas and policies in education have been applied to social problems.

The Education Studies minor consists of five courses chosen from: EDUC 102, 212, 215, 216, 217, 301, 306, 309, 312, and EDUC 339/POLI 339S. However, PSYC 248, ECON 226, or QR 180 may be substituted for two of these courses. At least one 300-level education course must be included.

Title II Information
As required by Title II of the Higher Education Act of the United States, we provide the following information. The number of students enrolled in our state-approved teacher education program during academic year 2001-2002 was 27. The number of these students who continued into student teaching was 20. The number who completed all requirements of the program was 20. The student/faculty ratio for supervising student teaching was 5.0. The average number of required hours of student teaching is 360 (12 weeks of at least 30 hours per week). The minimum required is 300.

The pass rates for our students on the Massachusetts Tests for Education Licensure are: 1.) Basic skills: a.) Reading 100% (compared to a statewide average of 99%) b.) Writing 100% (state average 96%); Basic skills aggregate (a & b. combined) 100% (state average 98%); 2.) Academic content areas: Aggregate 94% (compared to state average of 97%). Summary (1. & 2. Combined) pass rate 95% (compared to state average of 97%). Please note that these tests are not required for completion of our program, because many candidates seek licensure only in other states.
ENG 112 Introduction to Shakespeare
Ko
Study of a number of representative plays with emphasis on both their poetic and theatrical aspects. Literary analysis will thus be accompanied by viewing and thinking about the plays in performance.
Prerequisite: None. Especially recommended to non-majors.
Distribution: Arts, Music, Theatre, Film, Video or Language and Literature
Semester: Fall
Unit: 1.0

ENG 113 Studies in Fiction
Ford
Topic A: The Urban Imagination
This course focuses on narratives written in and about the cities of America. Though they write in disparate traditions and different eras, all of the authors in this course explore the ways in which the urban experience shapes identity. Marked by conflict and by the proliferation of voices, urban selves and urban narratives embody the possibilities inherent in the American character. We will consider genres such as social realism, the detective story, and the postmodern allegory. We will read such authors as: Anzia Yezierska, Edith Wharton, Dashiel Hammett, Nella Larsen, F. Scott Fitzgerald, Ann Petry, Gwendolyn Brooks, J.D. Salinger, Thomas Pynchon, and Colson Whitehead.
Prerequisite: None. Especially recommended to non-majors.
Distribution: Language and Literature
Semester: Fall
Unit: 1.0

ENG 120 Critical Interpretation
Bidart, Lee
A course designed to increase power and skill in critical interpretation by the detailed reading of poems and the writing of interpretive essays.
Prerequisite: None. Primarily designed for, and required of, English majors. Ordinarily taken in first or sophomore year.
Distribution: Language and Literature
Semester: Fall, Spring
Unit: 1.0

ENG 120/WRIT 125 Critical Interpretation
Brogan, Hickey, Ko, Lee, Noggle
A course designed to increase power and skill in critical interpretation by the detailed reading of poems and the writing of interpretive essays. These special sections of Writing 125 fulfill both the college Writing Requirement and the Critical Interpretation requirement of the English major. Includes a third session each week.
Prerequisite: None. Ordinarily taken in first year.

Semester: Fall, Spring
Unit: 1.0

ENG 121/WRIT 125 The Novels of Jane Austen
Meyer
NOT OFFERED IN 2004-05. Students will read a selection of the great novels of Jane Austen and use her work to learn skills for the close reading of fiction in general. We will study the details of Austen's fictional technique. From what perspective are the novels told? How does the author reveal her attitudes toward her characters? At the same time we will consider the broader questions raised by the novels. What values motivate Austen's fiction? How does she comment on the larger social and historical scene? What are her views on such issues as slavery or the proper role of women? This course satisfies the Writing 125 requirement and counts as a unit towards a major in English. Includes a third session each week.
Prerequisite: Open to all first-year students.
Distribution: Language and Literature
Semester: N/O
Unit: 1.0

ENG 127 Modern European and American Drama
NOT OFFERED IN 2004-05. Study of some distinguished late nineteenth- and twentieth-century European and American plays, and of the history and ideas connected with these plays. Among the likely dramatists: Ibsen, Shaw, Brecht, Artaud, Ionesco, Weiss (Europeans); Lorraine Hansberry, Maria Irene Fornés, the Bread and Puppet Theater, the Living Theater, Holly Hughes, Adrienne Kennedy, Tony Kushner, and Anna Deveare Smith (Americans). Among the likely kinds of theater: realistic theater, epic theater, the theater of cruelty, and the theater of the absurd. Discussion of at least one Wellesley College theater production, and perhaps of some off-campus theater. This course satisfies the Writing 125 requirement and counts as a unit towards a major in English. Includes a third session each week.
Prerequisite: Open to first-year students only. Especially recommended to non-majors.
Distribution: Arts, Music, Theatre, Film, Video or Language and Literature
Semester: N/O
Unit: 1.0

ENG 202 Poetry
Bidart
The writing of short lyrics and the study of the art and craft of poetry. Enrollment limited to 18 students.
Prerequisite: None
Distribution: Language and Literature
Semester: Fall
Unit: 1.0

ENG 203 Short Narrative
Cezair-Thompson, Erian, Sides
The writing of the short story; frequent class discussion of student writing, with some reference to established examples of the genre. Enrollment limited to 18 students. Mandatory credit/noncredit. Students who have taken this course once may register for it one additional time.
Prerequisite: None
Distribution: Language and Literature
Semester: Fall, Spring
Unit: 1.0

ENG 204 The Art of Screenwriting
Cezair-Thompson, Erian
The theory and practice of writing for film with special focus on a) original screenplays and b) screen adaptations of literary works. A creative writing course for those interested in film, drama, and fiction writing. Work includes writing scripts, watching and analyzing films, and comparative study of literary works and their film adaptations, e.g., Joyce/Huston's The Dead, Hardy/Polanski's Tess. Enrollment limited to 18 students. Mandatory credit/noncredit. Students who have taken this course once may register for it one additional time.
Prerequisite: None
Distribution: Arts, Music, Theatre, Film, Video or Language and Literature
Semester: Fall, Spring
Unit: 1.0

ENG 213 Chaucer
Lynch
Feminist, misogynist, heretic, moralist, progressive, reactionary—the are some of the conflicting labels that have been applied to Geoffrey Chaucer, enigmatic father of English poetry. This course will study Chaucer in his many incarnations, as courtly love poet, religious homilist, and bawdy prankster in the Canterbury Tales and selected shorter poems.
Prerequisite: None
Distribution: Language and Literature
Semester: Fall
Unit: 1.0

ENG 222 Renaissance Literature
Mikalachi
A survey of sixteenth-century literature with an emphasis on poetry. In addition to lyric poems spanning the century, epic poetry by Spenser (Book 3 of The Faerie Queene) and Marlowe, and a play, the course will include early prose fiction about continental travel and London's criminal underworld.
ENG 223 Shakespeare Part I: The Elizabethan Period
Mikalachihi, Petason
The formative period of Shakespeare's genius: comedies such as A Midsummer Night's Dream, As You Like It, Merchant of Venice, and Twelfth Night; histories such as Richard III, Richard II, Henry IV (Parts I and 2); tragedies such as Romeo and Juliet, Titus Andronicus, and Hamlet. Discussion of thematic concerns (ranging from gender relations and identity to national self-consciousness) will proceed from detailed analysis of not only the poetic language but also the dramatic form of the plays and the performance practices of Shakespeare's time. The viewing and analysis of contemporary performances will be integrated into the work of the course.
Prerequisite: None
Distribution: Language and Literature
Semester: Fall
Unit: 1.0

ENG 234 Shakespeare Part II: The Jacobean Period
Ko, Petason
The great tragedies and the redemptive romances from the end of Shakespeare's career, chosen from among Troilus and Cressida, Measure for Measure, Othello, King Lear, Macbeth, Coriolanus, Antony and Cleopatra, Cymbeline, The Winter's Tale, and The Tempest. While considering thematic concerns ranging from gender relations to the meaning of heroism, particular focus will fall on tragic form and its transformation in the romances. Extensive attention will be paid to theatrical practices, Shakespearean and contemporary, aided by the viewing of stage performances and film adaptations.
Prerequisite: 120
Distribution: Arts, Music, Theatre, Film, Video or Language and Literature
Semester: Fall
Unit: 1.0

ENG 225 Seventeenth-Century Literature
NOT OFFERED IN 2004-05. Poets and prose writers from an extraordinary rich era of English literary history, an age remarkable in particular for the greatness, inventiveness, and variety of its lyric poetry; for its sophisticated and compelling representations of the literary self; and for the ways in which its writings bear witness to the political and intellectual ferment of the times. Primary focus on poems by the "Metaphysicals" (John Donne, George Herbert, Andrew Marvell, Richard Crashaw, Henry Vaughan, Thomas Traherne), Ben Jonson, Robert Herrick, and others, including women poets who were beginning to publish in increasing numbers during the period. Some attention to prose by such writers as Francis Bacon, Donne, Jonson, Robert Burton, Izak Walton, Sir Thomas Browne, and Aphra Behn.
Prerequisite: None
Distribution: Language and Literature
Semester: N/O
Unit: 1.0

ENG 227 Milton
Mikalachihi
Paradise Lost is arguably the greatest poem in the English language, and Milton has dominated literatures written in that language since its publication in 1667. A sustained and concentrated study of this dazzling, poignant, ferocious epic, of the artistic, social, and religious questions that inform it, and of the poems and prose that precede and follow it in Milton's astonishing career.
Prerequisite: None
Distribution: Language and Literature
Semester: Spring
Unit: 1.0

ENG 234 The Dark Side of the Enlightenment: Eighteenth-Century British Literature
Noggle
The Enlightenment has been understood as the effort by Europeans in the eighteenth century to establish definitions of reason, progress, and human nature applicable to everybody, every culture, universally. It also corresponds with the great expansion of European imperialism, the rise of capitalism, and the fraught increased participation of women in social and intellectual life. Such actualities challenge Enlightenment ideals in ways dramatized in the most vibrant British writing of the period. This course presents major authors, including Jonathan Swift, Alexander Pope, and Samuel Johnson, as well as lesser known ones such as Aphra Behn, Mary Wortley Montagu, and Mary Leapor, to reveal the madness shadowing the Enlightenment's rationality, the contradictions in its revision of gender roles, and the violence at times attending its universalism.
Prerequisite: None
Distribution: Language and Literature
Semester: Fall
Unit: 1.0

ENG 241 Romantic Poetry
Hickey
Emphasis on the great poems (with occasional forays into the prose) of six fascinating and influential poets: Blake, Wordsworth, Coleridge, Shelley, Byron, and Keats. We'll also read poetry and poetic prose by women writers of the period: Anna Barbauld, Mary Robinson, Dorothy Wordsworth, and Felicia Hemans. We'll consider such "Romantic" ideas and themes as imagination, feeling, originality, the process of creativity, the correspondence between self and nature, the dark passages of the psyche, encounters with otherness, altered states of being, mortality and immortality, poetry and revolution, Romanticism as revolt, the exiled hero, love, sexuality, genre, the meaning of art, and the importance of history. Open to students at all levels of familiarity with poetry.
Prerequisite: None
Distribution: Language and Literature
Semester: Fall
Unit: 1.0

ENG 245 Victorian Conflicts
Hickey
Study of an intriguing and eclectic group of writers working during a period of great social change and vigorous questioning. Writers will include Tennyson, the Brothers, Emily Brontë, Arnold, D.G. and Christina Rossetti, Hopkins, Hardy, Wilde, and some of the following: Carlyle, John Stuart Mill, Dickens, Ruskin, Pater. Emphasis on the texts (mostly poetry, some short prose), with attention to their place in literary history and the ways in which they engage with compelling questions of their age: questions about the power and limits of language, tradition and originality, love and sexuality, gender roles, the representation of personal crisis, religious faith and doubt, evolution, industrialism, the place of art. Unit on pre-Raphaelite painting, visit to manuscripts in Special Collections, viewing of Wilde's Importance of Being Earnest.
Prerequisite: None
Distribution: Language and Literature
Semester: Spring
Unit: 1.0

ENG 251 Modern Poetry
Brogan
A study of the modernist revolution and its aftermath, emphasizing its stunning achievements and deep divisions. Examination of the different versions of modernism that emerged in the beginning of the twentieth century, exploration of lines of influence that link poets, and consideration of the trajectories of individual careers. Close attention to how the work of the period's leading poets -- William Butler Yeats, T.S. Eliot, Wallace Stevens, William Carlos Williams, Marianne Moore, Langston Hughes, among others -- reflects and responds to a period of extraordinary political and social turbulence.

ENG 253 Contemporary American Poetry
Bidart
We will explore recent American poetry through close study of a number of outstanding individual volumes -- Elizabeth Bishop's Geography III, Robert Lowell's Life Studies, Allen Ginsberg's Howl, Frank O'Hara's Lunch Poems, Sylvia Plath's Ariel, Adrienne Rich's Diving into the Wreck, John Ashbery's Self-Portrait in a Convex Mirror, Louise Glück's Meadowlands, Robert Pinsky's The Figured Wheel, Rita Dove's Thomas and Beulah, Jorie Graham's The Dream of the Unified Field, Yusef Komunyakaa's Dien Cai Dau, among others -- as well as discussion of radical challenges to mainstream conceptions of the nature of poetry (e.g., "language poetry"). The aim is not a survey, but an exploration of the achievement of individual authors and volumes in the context of aesthetic innovation.

ENG 262 American Literature to 1865
NOT OFFERED IN 2004-05. A study of American fiction, poetry, and autobiography from the early nineteenth century through the Civil War, focusing on the diverse and original voices that emerged during the period in New England and elsewhere. The course will explore the first major flowering of American literary art, focusing on such themes as constructions of the self, gendered domesticity, sensory vision of nature, and the abolition of slavery. Authors will include Frederick Douglass, Ralph Waldo Emerson, Henry David Thoreau, Nathaniel Hawthorne, Harriet Jacobs, Harriet Beecher Stowe, Emily Dickinson, Walt Whitman, and Herman Melville.
Prerequisite: None

ENG 263 American Literature from 1865
NOT OFFERED IN 2004-05. A study of American literature from 1865 to the present, focusing on the diverse and original voices that emerged during the period in New England and elsewhere. The course will explore the first major flowering of American literary art, focusing on such themes as constructions of the self, gendered domesticity, sensory visions of nature, and the abolition of slavery. Authors will include Frederick Douglass, Ralph Waldo Emerson, Henry David Thoreau, Nathaniel Hawthorne, Harriet Jacobs, Harriet Beecher Stowe, Emily Dickinson, Walt Whitman, and Herman Melville.
ENG 263 American Literature and Social Justice
NOT OFFERED IN 2004-05. A study of some American literature dealing with questions of justice and injustice in the relations between races, ethnic groups, genders, and classes. Among the possible authors and works: Harriet Beecher Stowe, Uncle Tom’s Cabin; Edward Bellamy, Looking Backward; Charlotte Perkins Gilman, Herland; Upton Sinclair, The Jungle; Jane Addams’s autobiography; Marc Blitzstein, The Cradle Will Rock; poems about the Sacco and Vanzetti case; poems by Sterling Brown, Langston Hughes and Gwendolyn Brooks; John Steinbeck, The Grapes of Wrath; works from the Japanese internment camps; plays by the Teatro Campesino; essays by James Baldwin; Arthur Miller, The Crucible; poems and essays by Adrienne Rich; Lorraine Hansberry, Raisin in the Sun; Anna Devere Smith, Twilight; Spike Lee, Do the Right Thing; current science fiction and utopian writing.

ENG 264 Hispanic Literature in the U.S.
NOT OFFERED IN 2004-05. This course will highlight the intricacy, diversity, and growing prominence of Latina/o literature in the United States, concentrating especially on the twentieth century. Organizing our readings by genre, we will study Latina/o texts written in English, using Latina/o cultural identity as the context for the literary works. Theoretical readings will help to locate the writings within the historical, philosophical, artistic, and performative traditions of this literature. All readings and discussion in English.
Prerequisite: None
Distribution: Language and Literature
Semester: N/O
Unit: 1.0

ENG 266 American Literature from the Civil War to the 1930s
Cain, Meyer
A selection of literature from the period between the Civil War and the Great Depression, tracing the trajectory of American fiction from realism to high modernism. Emphasis on the ways that these texts invite and respond to questions about economics, social justice, sexual politics, and the role of literature in society. Attending closely to nuances of authorial style, classroom discussion will also consider each work in light of the ongoing debate between realism and formalism in art. Authors read will be drawn from the following: Twain, James, Roth, Chesnutt, Chopin, Dreiser, Wharton, Gilman, Stein, Toomer, Yezierska, Fitzgerald, Hemingway, Faulkner, and Hurston.

ENG 269 Asian American Literature
Lee
Topic for 2004-05: Asian American Poetry. This course focuses on Asian American poetry. We will study how Asian American poets explore identity, desire, experience, and alienation. Sometimes these poets emphasize ethnic identity, and celebrate particular cultural belonging, while at other times they assert a universal shared humanity. We will see how Asian American poetry lays claim to the past, and how it renounces it. Throughout the course we will give particular attention to the relations between poetry and politics, art and social justice. Poets will include Li Young Lee, Cathy Song, Lawson Inada, Mitsuye Yamada, Agha Shahid Ali, and others.
Prerequisite: None
Distribution: Language and Literature
Semester: Fall
Unit: 1.0

ENG 271 The Rise of the Novel
Noggle
A study of how the genre of the novel begins in forgeries, poses as real documents and letters, and eventually reveals itself as a kind of literature uniquely suited to modern society. There will be a particular emphasis on the novel's enduring fascination with women and criminals, the choices they make and the rewards and punishments they receive. Authors include Behn, Defoe, Richardson, Fielding, Edgeworth, and Austen.
Prerequisite: None
Distribution: Language and Literature
Semester: Spring
Unit: 1.0

ENG 272 The Victorian Novel
Meyer, Rodensky
An exploration of the changing relationships of persons to social worlds in some of the great novels of the Victorian period. The impact on the novel of industrialization, the debate about women's roles, the enfrachemaent of the middle and the working classes, the effect on ordinary persons of life in the great cities, the commodification of culture — these and other themes will be traced in the works of some of the following: Charlotte Brontë, Emily Brontë, Charles Dickens, George Eliot, Elizabeth Gaskell, George Gissing, Thomas Hardy.
Prerequisite: None
Distribution: Language and Literature
Semester: Fall, Spring
Unit: 1.0

ENG 273 The Modern British Novel
Rodensky, Cain
A consideration of the ways in which modernist writers re-imagine the interests of the novel as they experiment with and reshape its traditional subjects and forms. From the frank exploration of sexuality in Lawrence, to the radical sub-ordination of plot in Woolf, modernist writers redefine our notion of the writer, of story, of the very content of what can be said. A selection of works by E.M. Forster, D.H. Lawrence, James Joyce, Virginia Woolf, Jean Rhys, and Joseph Conrad.

Unit: 1.0

ENG 277 English-Language Fiction in Global Perspective
Sabin
Topic for 2004-05: Modern Indian Literature in English. Focus on novels, memoirs, and nonfiction writing — mostly contemporary, with some earlier examples of what now begins to make up a tradition of modern Indian literature in English. Controversial questions to be addressed include: what is "authentically" Indian? What is the writer's responsibility to solve social and political problems? What roles do women play in this literature? Introduction to important religious and political contexts will be provided, but primary attention will go to the literature itself, with some attention to films. Authors will likely include Gandhi, R.K. Narayan, Raja Rao, Anita Desai, Salman Rushdie, Bapsi Sidhwa, Rohinton Mistry, Jhumpa Lahiri, plus films directed by Satyajit Ray and Deepa Mehta.
Prerequisite: None

ENG 281 American Drama and Musical Theater
Rosemond
Study of some distinguished twentieth-century American plays, theater pieces, and musicals. Possible musicals: The Cradle Will Rock, Showboat, West Side Story, Chorus Line, Into the Woods, Chicago. Possible playwrights and ensembles: Eugene O'Neill, Arthur Miller, Tennessee Williams, Lorraine Hansberry, the Bread and Puppet Theater, the Teatro Campesino, Maria Irene Fornés, August Wilson, David Henry Hwang, Tony Kushner, Anna Devere Smith. Focus on close reading, on historical and social context, on realism and the alternatives to realism, on the relations between text and performance. Opportunities both for performance and for critical writing. Students who have taken ENG 127 are eligible to take this course also.
Prerequisite: None
Distribution: Arts, Music, Theater, Film, Video or Language and Literature
Semester: Spring
Unit: 1.0

ENG 283 Southern Literature
Tyler
A study of the literature of the American South, with special focus on the region's unique cultural traditions, the development of a distinctive body of stylistic and thematic characteristics, and the complex intersections of region, gender, ethnicity, and sexuality in Southern literary expression.

ENG 286 New Literatures
Fisher
Topic for 2004-05: Lesbian and Gay Writing from Sappho to Stonewall. This course will explore significant lesbian and gay literature from classical times to the present, including contemporary transformations of society, politics, and consciousness. The course will introduce elements of "queer theory" and gender theory; it will address issues of sexual orientation and sexual identification in works of poetry, autobiography, and fiction. Readings will include such writers as Sappho, Plato, William Shakespeare, Thomas Mann, Virginia Woolf, James Baldwin, Audre Lorde, Adrienne Rich, David Leavitt, Leslie Feinberg, Shyam Selvadurai, and Jeannette Winterson.
Prerequisite: None

ENG 315 Advanced Studies in Medieval Literature
Lynch
Topic for 2004-05: Advanced Chaucer: The Dream Visions and Other Poems. This course will put Chaucer’s early poetry, especially his dream visions, into multiple contexts: of genre, biography, literary history, language, and philosophy. We will balance attention to the exquisite pathos of the dream poems with consideration of their deepening irony and humor, looking at how Chaucer mixes styles and plays fast and loose with his sources. In addition to Chaucer’s vision poems, we will look at other medieval and early modern examples of the genre, including the fourteenth-century anonymous Pearl, The Kingis Quair by James I of Scotland, John Skelton’s The Bewege of Court, and Shakespeare’s A Midsummer Night’s Dream.
Prerequisite: Open to juniors and seniors who have taken two literature courses in the department, at least one of which must be 200 level, or by permission of instructor to other qualified students. Some familiarity with Middle English either in ENG 213 or elsewhere, or permission of the instructor.
Distribution: Language and Literature

Unit: 1.0

ENG 320 Literary Cross Currents
Ford
Topic for 2004-05: Black Writers, City Spaces. While American literature has long mythologized frontier and open space, African American literature from the Harlem Renaissance on has largely been defined by the cities it inhabits. This course will examine the portrayal of urban space in African American writing and visual art; from narratives of northward migration to contemporary films about inner city stagnation, we will trace the ways in which urban spaces have been gendered and classified, denigrated or idealized by these texts and their readers. Substantial critical readings will provide additional context for our exploration of writers such as Paul Laurence Dunbar, Langston Hughes, Claude McKay, Nella Larsen, Richard Wright, Ann Petry, James Baldwin, Gwendolyn Brooks, Ralph Ellison, Chester Himes, Lorraine Hansberry, Nikki Giovanni, Toni Morrison, and Colson Whitehead.
Prerequisite: Open to juniors and seniors who have taken two literature courses in the department, at least one of which must be 200 level, or by permission of instructor to other qualified students.

Semester: Fall
Unit: 1.0

ENG 324 Advanced Studies in Shakespeare
Ko
Topic for 2004-05: Shakespeare in Performance. This course will explore Shakespeare's plays as scripts for the theatre with the fundamental goal of bringing them alive as living performances. The course will include tracing the history of performance from Shakespeare's own time to the present, viewing recorded and live performances, and collaborating with actors to test and challenge our ideas. Because the reading list will depend partly on available local productions, the syllabus will be made final later; however, the course will probably include Richard III, Much Ado About Nothing, The Merchant of Venice, and Romeo and Juliet. Requirements: two essays, along with shorter, creative assignments, as well as a presentation or (voluntary) participation in a performance project.
Prerequisite: Along with qualified majors (same as for 320), nonmajors, particularly those with interest or experience in performance, are encouraged to enroll.
Distribution: Arts, Music, Theatre, Film, Video or Language and Literature

ENG 335 Advanced Studies in Restoration and Eighteenth-Century Literature
Lee
Topic for 2004-05: Revolution, Romanticism, and the Novel. The works written in this decade pushed back the boundaries of what was considered expressive, plausible, or viable for the novel. The British novel emerged as a forum for passionate political debate, intellectual exploration, and formal experimentation. We will study how the novels of Radcliffe, Godwin, More, Burney, Austen, and others carry on cultural and political warfare against, or in favor of established ideas and traditions. We will examine how and why the novels of this decade seemed bent on exploring moral, political, and emotional extremes.
Prerequisite: Open to juniors and seniors who have taken two literature courses in the department, at least one of which must be 200 level, or by permission of instructor to other qualified students.

Semester: Fall
Unit: 1.0

ENG 345 Advanced Studies in Nineteenth-Century Literature
Tylor
Topic for 2004-05: Poe and Coleridge. This course will study in detail Coleridge’s “mystery poems” (“Rime of the Ancient Mariner,” “Kubla Khan,” and “Christabel”) and Poe’s great stories, culminating with Poe’s “Rime”-work, “The Narrative of Arthur Gordon Pym.” Comparative study will elucidate both the way that Coleridge’s poems serve as sources for the Gothic magic and uncanniness of Poe’s stories, and the way that Coleridge’s literary theory provides a source for Poe’s counter-Gothic American formalism. We will explore the critical reception of both writers, particularly those notable essays by twentieth-century formalists like Eliot, Tate, and Warren, who claimed both Coleridge and Poe as precursors.

ENG 355 Advanced Studies in Twentieth-Century Literature
Rodensky
Topic A for 2004-05: Virginia Woolf. A close study of the novels, essays, and diaries of the most important English woman writer of the twentieth century. We will consider the development of Woolf’s voice in her novels and in her nonfictional writing as well as the relations between her fictional and nonfictional work. We will also take up the critical response to Woolf. How was her work received by her contemporaries? What happened in the 50s and 60s? Finally, we will take account of Woolf as an iconic figure, recreated most recently in Michael Cunningham’s The Hours. Readings will proba-by include The Voyage Out, Jacob's Room, Mrs. Dalloway, To the Lighthouse, A Room of One's Own, and selections from The Common Reader and A Writer's Diary.

Prerequisite: Open to juniors and seniors who have taken two literature courses in the department, at least one of which must be 200 level, or by permission of instructor to other qualified students.

ENG 363 Advanced Studies in American Literature

Meyer

Topic for 2004-05: Edith Wharton and Willa Cather. A study of the fiction of these two very different American women novelists of the early twentieth century. One is best known as the chronicler of life in aristocratic "old New York," the other as the novelist of life on the Nebraska prairie. Yet a number of similar issues arise in both novelists' work: the nature of female sexuality, the problems of marriage, relationships between generations, the nature of the immigrant and the ethnic "other," tensions between the American West and the East and between rural and urban life, the place of art in American culture. Above all, both novelists are preoccupied with the vexed question of the destiny of America.

ENG 382 Criticism

Noggle

A survey of major developments in literary theory and criticism since the 1930s. Discussion will focus on important recent perspectives -- including deconstruction, Marxism, and feminism -- and crucial individual theorists -- including Empson, Althusser, Derrida, Foucault, Cixous, and Zizek.

Prerequisite: Open to juniors and seniors who have taken two literature courses in the department, at least one of which must be 200 level, or by permission of instructor to other qualified students.

ENG 383 Women in Literature, Culture, and Society

Harman

Topic for 2004-05: Sex and the City in the Victorian Novel. Victorians explored this relationship in social and novelistic discourse long before it became an American obsession. We will consider it in novels that focus primarily on women -- female landowners, working class women, actresses, women accused of adultery, "new women," and political women. Novelists may include Charlotte Bronté, Elizabeth Gaskell, Willkie Collins, George Eliot, George Gissing, Mary Ward, Henry James.

ENG 385 Advanced Studies in a Genre

Cezar-Thompson

Topic for 2004-05: The Short Story: History and Technique. A close examination of this popular literary form with an emphasis on technique and a comprehensive knowledge of its history. The course is structured for creative writing students and also for those students with a scholarly interest in the genre. Among the writers whose work we will read are: Edith Wharton, Guy de Maupassant, Ernest Hemingway, and Junot Díaz.

Prerequisite: One English course or permission of instructor.

Unit: 1.0

ENG 387 Authors

Hickey

Topic for 2004-05: Seamus Heaney. Study of Heaney, winner of the Nobel Prize for literature and one of the best and most important poets now writing in English. Emphasis on Heaney's poetry throughout his career, with attention to the ways in which he inherits, responds to, resists, and transforms the work of his predecessors in the English/Irish/American tradition; the conflicts that mark his writing as an Irish poet rooted in English language and literature; and his continual struggle to "credit poetry" as a form whose truth resides in its "alieness to world history and world sorrow" (often viewed through the lens of Irish history and Irish sorrow) and in the "energy released by linguistic fission and fusion...the buoyancy generated by cadence and tone and rhyme and stanza."

Directions for Election

Courses at the 100 level are open to all students and presume no previous college experience in literary study. They provide good introductions to such study because of their subject matter or their focus on the skills of critical reading. ENG 120 (Critical Interpretation) is open to all students, but is primarily designed for prospective English majors. The course trains students in the skills of critical reading and writing. Grade II literature courses, with the exception of Shakespeare (223 and 224), are open to all students without prerequisite. They treat major writers and historical periods, and provide training in making comparisons and connections among different works, writers, and ideas. Grade III literature courses encourage both students and instructors to pursue their special interests. They presume a greater overall competence, together with some previous experience in the study of major writers, periods, and ideas in Environmental or American literature. They are open to all those who have taken two literature courses in the department, at least one of which must be 200 level, and by permission of the instructor or chair to other qualified students. For admission to seminars and for independent work (350), students with at least a 3.33 GPA in the work of the department will have first consideration. Students are encouraged to confer with the instructors of courses in which they are interested. Students should consult the more complete descriptions of all courses, composed by their instructors, posted on bulletin boards in Founders Hall, and available from the department administrative assistant.

Advanced Placement. The English department does not grant credit toward the major for AP or IB courses taken in high school. Because no course in the English department is considered the equivalent of a high school AP course, students may take any course in the department without losing any degree credits that they may have received for their performance on AP or IB examinations. First-year students and other undeclared majors contemplating further study in English are encouraged to consult the department chair or the department pre-major advisor in relation to their course selection. Students majoring in English should discuss their programs with their major advisors, and should consult with them about any changes they wish to make in the course of their junior and senior years.

The English major consists of a minimum of ten units, at least eight of which must be in areas other than creative writing. At least seven units must be above 100 level, and of these at least two units must be earned in 300-level literature, film, or literary theory courses. At least six of the units for the major must be taken in the department, including the two required units in 300-level courses.

WRIT 125 does not count toward the major. Courses designated 125/120 satisfy both the ENG 120 requirement and the WRIT 125 requirement, and count as a unit toward the fulfillment of the major. Other combined sections, such as WRIT 125/ENG 127, count toward the major as well. Independent work (350, 360, or 370) does not count toward the minimum requirement of two 300-level courses for the major.

All students majoring in English must take ENG 120 (Critical Interpretation), at least one course in Shakespeare (200 level), and two courses focused on literature written before 1900, of which at least one must focus on writing before 1800.

Courses taken in other departments may not be used to satisfy any of the above distribution requirements, with the exception of M/ER 246, which satisfies the pre-1800 distribution requirement. English 112, ENG 223, and 224 do not satisfy the pre-1800 distribution requirement. Transfer students or Davis Scholars who have had work equivalent to 120 at another institution may apply to the chair for exemption from the critical interpretation requirement.

The English minor consists of five units: (A) 120 and (B) at least one unit on literature written before 1900 and (C) at least one 300-level unit, excluding 350 and (D) at least four units, including the 300-level course, taken in the department; a minimum of two creative writing units may be included.

Honors. The department offers a choice of programs for honors. Under program I the honors candidate does two units of independent research culminating in a thesis or a project in creative writing. Program II offers an opportunity to receive honors on the basis of work done for regular courses but carries no additional course credit. A candidate electing program II presents a dossier of essays written for several courses with a statement of connections among them and critical questions raised by them. Applicants for honors should have a minimum 3.5 GPA in the major (in courses above 100 level) and must apply to the chair for admission to the program. A more detailed description of the department's application procedure is available from the department's administrative assistant.

Expository and creative writing. Special attention is called to the range of courses in writing offered by the College. In addition to WRIT 125, required of all students, WRIT 126 is open, with the permission of the instructor, to students who would benefit from a continuation of Writing 125 or from an individual tutorial. Writing 225 is made possible through an endowed fund given by Luther L. Reploge in memory of his wife, Elizabeth McLain Reploge. It is a workshop designed for students who want training in expository writing on a level above that of WRIT 125, and satisfies the writing requirement for transfer students and Davis Scholars. Courses in the writing of poetry and fiction (200 and 300 level) are planned as workshops with small group meetings and frequent individual conferences. In addition, qualified students may apply for one or two units of Independent Study (350) in writing.

Graduate Study in English. Students expecting to do graduate work in English should ordinarily plan to acquire a reading knowledge of two foreign languages. They should take ENG 382 (Criticism) or an equivalent course in literary theory. They should also consult with the department's graduate school advisor, and with their departmental advisor, about courses that are appropriate for those considering graduate work in English.

Teacher Certification. Students interested in obtaining certification to teach English in the Commonwealth of Massachusetts should consult with the chair of the education department and the English department liaison to the education department.

Environmental Studies

AN INTERDEPARTMENTAL MAJOR WITH CONCENTRATIONS IN ENVIRONMENTAL JUSTICE AND PHILOSOPHY, ENVIRONMENTAL POLICY AND ECONOMICS, OR ENVIRONMENTAL SCIENCE.

Co-directors: DeSombre (Political Science); Rodenhouse (Biological Sciences)

Advisory Faculty: Karkaisidou, Stoady, Merry, Winkler (Environmental Justice and Philosophy); DeSombre, Parraberg, Goldofas (Environmental Policy and Economics); Andrews, Besancon, Brabant, Coleman, Moore, Rodenhouse, Thomas, Thompson, Stark (Environmental Science).

Environmental issues are complex and involve disciplines across the sciences, social sciences, and humanities. The environmental studies major is designed to provide students with the knowledge and skills needed to study, understand, and address these pressing issues, which range from biological diversity and natural resource use; to energy use, industrial waste, and other concerns of industrial societies; to the relationship between the environment and economic development. Because of the interdisciplinary nature of environmental issues, the major draws upon courses from multiple departments; however, each student will focus her studies within one area of concentration in order to obtain the depth of knowledge needed for advanced study and critical analyses.

Students will choose an advisor from among the advisory faculty in her area of concentration. A minor is not offered in any area of concentration.

There are three components to the 11-course major:
1. Two core courses (ES 100 and ES 300)
2. Five courses in an area of concentration (at least one of which must be at the 300 level)
3. Four complementary elective courses from outside the area of concentration

Students may count no more than three courses taken away from Wellesley towards the environmental studies major. These courses should be approved by a co-director prior to enrollment.

1. Core courses (two courses required)

ES 100 Humans and Nature
Goldofas (Writing Program), Rodenhouse and Thomas (Biological Sciences)

An introduction to social, political, economic, and scientific aspects of various environmental issues including acid deposition, stratospheric ozone depletion, global warming, energy resource management, soil depletion and population dynamics. Emphasis will be placed on the interrelatedness of these issues and on the interdisciplinary nature of the approaches that must be taken to deal with them. Laboratories will explore computer modeling as a tool for understanding environmental questions, monitoring of various environmental markers on the Wellesley campus, and will make use of other resources in the Boston area.

Prerequisite: None
Distribution: None. Does not satisfy the laboratory requirement.

ES 300 Environmental Issues

DeSombre (Political Science)

An interdisciplinary seminar in which students work together in small groups to understand and develop solutions for current environmental problems. Each year, we focus on a given environmental issue of concern to our community, e.g. climate change, water pollution. In particular, we work to understand its scientific background, the political processes that lead to potential solutions, and the ethical and environmental justice implications. Student-led research provides the bulk of the information about the issue and its role in our local environment; lectures and readings provide supplementary information about the local situation and the global context.

Prerequisite: A declared major in environmental studies, ES 100 and at least four other courses in the student's area of concentration, or permission of the instructor.
Distribution: None
Semester: Spring

Unit: 1.0

Additional environmental studies courses that may count (as indicated) towards areas of concentration or towards electives:

ES 201/GEOS 201 Methods and Problems in Environmental Science with Laboratory Brabander (Geosciences)

Problems in environmental science are inherently multidisciplinary and often require a diverse skill set to analyze and solve. This course will focus on developing a toolbox of skills including field methods, geochemical analysis (natural waters, soils and other environmental materials), and modeling with a goal of being able to frame and solve environmental problems. Students will conduct semester-long research projects and will present their results in a final poster session.

Laboratory. Students may register for either ES 201 or GEOS 201. Credit will be given in the department in which the student is registered.

Prerequisite: One of the following – ES 100, GEOS 100, [GEOL 100], 101, 102 [GEOL 102] or permission of the instructor.
Distribution: Natural and Physical Science
Semester: Spring
Unit: 1.25

ES 212/RAST 212 Lake Baikal: The Soul of Siberia

Bishop (Russian) and Moore (Biological Sciences)

The ecological and cultural values of Lake Baikal - the oldest, deepest, and most biotically rich lake on the planet - are examined. Lectures and discussion in spring prepare students for the three-week field laboratory taught at Lake Baikal in eastern Siberia in August. Lectures address the fundamentals of aquatic ecology and the role of Lake Baikal in Russian literature, history, art, music, and the country's environmental movement. Laboratory work is conducted primarily out-of-doors and includes introductions to the flora and fauna, field tests of student-generated hypotheses, meetings with the lake's stakeholders, and tours of ecological and cultural sites surrounding the lake. This course can count towards a concentration in environmental science or as an elective for the other concentrations. This course does not count toward the minor in Russian Studies.

Prerequisite: BISC 111, RUSS 101, and permission of the instructors. Preference will be given to students who have also taken HIST 105.
Distribution: Natural and Physical Science
Semester: Spring with summer lab
Unit: 1.25

ES 222 Dynamic Modeling of Environmental Issues

Colman (Chemistry)

A hands-on introduction to the application of systems dynamics to developing computer-based models for complex problems, with an emphasis on the environment. Starting with simple closed systems, students will develop models of increasing sophistication and complexity for issues such as population dynamics, air and water pollution, energy production and usage, waste management and sustainable development. Emphasis will be placed on the principles of problem solving and systems dynamics and on developing models that reflect, as closely as possible, real-world situations and the interrelatedness of various environmental concerns. This course can count towards a concentration in environmental science or as an elective for the other concentrations.

Prerequisite: ES 100 and successful completion of the Quantitative Reasoning requirement, or permission of the instructor.
Distribution: Natural and Physical Science or Mathematical Modeling
Semester: Winter
Unit: 0.5

BISC 307/ES 307: Advanced Topics in Ecology with Laboratory

Hughes (Biological Sciences)

Topic for Spring 2004-05: Conservation Biology with Laboratory. We live on an increasingly human-dominated planet. We must now take responsibility for and stewardship of Earth's resources, both living and nonliving, which we are changing at unprecedented rates. Our course covers terrestrial, fresh and saltwater habitats - their diversity and ecology, current status and sustainability, and the role of humanity in both their endangerment and preservation. We will examine the sources and importance of species diversity, and explore the other contentious issues of species and ecosystem preservation and conservation, the design of natural sanctuaries, and whether altered ecosystems can be managed and restored. Laboratory activities will include measurement of species diversity in soil and aquatic samples, successional dynamics, ephemeral habitat biology and ecology, geographic informational analysis, and an independent project. Students may register for either ES 307 or BISC 307. Credit will be given in the department in which the student is registered.

Prerequisite: 201, 210, or permission of instructor.
Distribution: Natural and Physical Science
Semester: Spring
Unit: 1.25

ES 315/GEOS 315 Environmental Geochemistry with Laboratory

Brabander (Geosciences)

Accurately predicting the fate and transport of naturally occurring toxic elements and anthropogenic compounds in the environment requires a broad set of multidisciplinary skills. This course introduces geochemical approaches including mass balance, residence time, usage fractionation, and thermodynamic and kinetic modeling necessary to fingerprint sources of pollutants and track them in water, soil, and plants. These fundamentals will be explored in several classic case studies and in semester-long geochemical research projects conducted by small groups. Laboratory. Normally offered in alternate years. Students may register for either GEOS 315 or ES 315. Credit will be given in the department in which the student is registered.

Prerequisite: One course above the 100-level in two of the following disciplines: geosciences, chemistry, biological sciences or environmental studies, or permission of the instructor.
Distribution: Natural and Physical Science or Mathematical Modeling
Semester: Fall
Unit: 1.25

Individual Study and Senior Thesis Research

Research or Individual Study (ES 250 or 350) or Senior Thesis Research (ES 360/370) can be advised by any member of the Advisory Faculty in Environmental Studies. They may count towards the area of concentration. A half-unit course, which can only count as credit towards the major when combined with another half-unit course. Only three units of independent study may be counted towards the major.

ES 250 Research or Individual Study

Prerequisite: Permission of instructor, ordinarily limited to students who have completed at least three units toward their major.
Distribution: None
Semester: Fall, Spring
Unit: 1.0

ES 250H Research or Individual Study

Prerequisite: Permission of instructor, ordinarily limited to students who have completed at least three units toward their major.
Distribution: None
Semester: Fall, Spring
Unit: 0.5

ES 350 Research or Individual Study

Prerequisite: Permission of instructor, ordinarily limited to students who have completed at least five units toward their major.
Distribution: None
Semester: Fall, Spring
Unit: 1.0

ES 350H Research or Individual Study

Prerequisite: Permission of instructor, ordinarily limited to students who have completed at least five units toward their major.

Semester: Fall, Spring
Unit: 0.5

ES 360 Senior Thesis Research

Prerequisite: By permission of the Advisory Faculty. See Academic Distinctions.
Distribution: None
Semester: Fall, Spring
Unit: 1.0

ES 370 Senior Thesis

Prerequisite: 360
Distribution: None
Semester: Fall, Spring
Unit: 1.0

II. Areas of concentration (five courses required from one of the following areas)

(Note that most 200- and 300-level courses have one or more 100-level prerequisites)

A. Environmental justice and philosophy – provides students with the background needed to understand and address the philosophical and ethical issues raised by human activity in the natural world, including the causes and consequences of environmental degradation as they are influenced by social inequality.
A student choosing to concentrate in this area would, with the approval of her advisor, choose five from among the following courses:

AFR 226 Seminar. Environmental Justice, Race, and Sustainable Development

ANTH 215 The Triumph of Culture: Perceptions of Nature and Human Interaction on the Environment

PEAC 259 Peace and Conflict Resolution

PHIL 206 Normative Ethics

PHIL 217 Philosophy of Science: Traditional and Feminist Perspectives

PHIL 233 Environmental Philosophy

POL 348S Seminar. Problems in North-South Relations

Soc 235 Business and Social Responsibility

Alternative courses in this area of concentration might include:

ANTH 238 The Vulnerable Body: Anthropological Understandings

ANTH 251 Cultures of Cancer

ANTH 346 Colonialism, Development, Nationalism, and Gender

EXTD 201 Current Issues in Bioethics

PHIL 213 Social and Political Philosophy

PHIL 340 Seminar. Contemporary Ethical Theory

POL 302 Globalization and the Nation-State

POL 325 International Environmental Law

REL 230 Ethics

REL 257 Contemplation and Action

REL 323 Seminar. Feminist Theologies

SOC 209 Social Inequality

SOC 221 Globalization

B. Environmental Policy and Economics – provides students with the background needed to understand how policy is developed, how specific policy decisions affect environmental quality, and how economic factors structure the opportunities and constraints of environmental policy and the use of natural resources.

A student choosing to concentrate in this area would, with the approval of her advisor, choose five from among the following courses:

ECON 228 Environmental and Resource Economics

POL 202 Comparative Politics

POL 204 Political Economy of Development and Underdevelopment

POL 312S Seminar. Environmental Policy

POL 323 International Economic Policy

POL 325 International Environmental Law

POL 332S Seminar. People, Agriculture, and the Environment

POL 335S Seminar. Global Governance

Alternative courses in this area of concentration might include:

AFR 226 Seminar. Environmental Justice, Race, and Sustainable Development

ANTH 215 The Triumph of Culture: Perceptions of Nature and Human Interaction on the Environment

ECN 214 Trade and Immigration

ECN 220 Development Economics

ECN 222 Games of Strategy

ECN 320 Seminar. Economic Development

EXTD 123 Water Resources Planning and Management

EXTD 128 Coastal Zone Management

POL 302 Globalization and the Nation-State

POL 327 International Organization

POL 329 International Law

SOC 211 Globalization

SOC 235 Business and Social Responsibility

C. Environmental Science – offers an interdisciplinary approach for viewing the Earth and its inhabitants from more than one scientific perspective. Courses that are strongly recommended to strengthen the quantitative skills of all students concentrating in environmental science include introductory calculus (e.g., MATH 116 or 116Z) or statistics (e.g., MATH 101, ECON 103/SOC 190).

A student choosing to concentrate in this area would, with the approval of her advisor, choose five of the following courses, not all from the same department.

Biological Sciences

BISC 201 Ecology with Laboratory

BISC 202 Evolution with Laboratory

BISC 203 Comparative Physiology and Anatomy of Vertebrates with Laboratory

BISC 204 Ecology of New England Seascapes with Laboratory (Summer 2004)

BISC 207 The Biology of Plants with Laboratory

BISC 209 Microbiology with Laboratory

BISC 210 Marine Biology with Laboratory

BISC 307/ES 307 Advanced Topics in Ecology with Laboratory

BISC 308 Tropical Ecology with Wintersession Laboratory

EXTD 225 Biology of Fishes

EXTD 226 Biology of Whales

Chemistry

CHEM 205 Chemical Analysis and Equilibrium with Laboratory

CHEM 211 Organic Chemistry I with Laboratory

CHEM 221 Biochemistry I: Structure and Function of Macromolecules with Laboratory

CHEM 222 Introduction to Biochemistry with Laboratory

CHEM 231 Physical Chemistry I with Laboratory

CHEM 232 Physical Chemistry for the Life Sciences with Laboratory

Geosciences

GEOS 201/ES 201 Methods and Problems in Environmental Science with Laboratory

GEOS 203 Earth Materials with Laboratory

GEOS 211 Geology and Human Affairs

GEOS 220 Volcanoes: Agents of Global and Regional Change

GEOS 230 Earth from Above: Maps, Remote Sensing, and GIS

GEOS 240 Climate Past and Future

GEOS 304 Sedimentary Rocks and Sequences with Laboratory

GEOS 311 Hydrogeology with Laboratory

GEOS 315/ES 315 Environmental Geochemistry with Laboratory

Physics

PHYS 202 Introduction to Quantum Mechanics and Thermodynamics with Laboratory

PHYS 203 Vibrations, Waves, and Special Relativity with Laboratory

PHYS 216/MATH 216 Mathematics for the Sciences II

PHYS 302 Quantum Mechanics

PHYS 305 Statistical Mechanics and Thermodynamics

PHYS 306 Advanced Classical Mechanics

Students wishing to investigate the environment further via a single scientific discipline should also consider the programs in the departments of biological sciences, chemistry, geology, and physics.

III. Electives complementing the area of concentration (four courses required, at least two above the 100 level)

For those concentrating in environmental justice and philosophy or environmental policy and economics, complementary electives should be selected, in consultation with their advisors, to enhance quantitative reasoning skills or breadth of knowledge in the sciences. These should primarily be chosen from the courses listed for the environmental science concentration.

For those concentrating in environmental science, complementary electives should be selected in consultation with their advisors, to enhance understanding of how political processes, economic considerations, and ethical choices compose and constrain understanding and action on environmental issues. These should primarily be chosen from the courses listed for the concentrations in environmental justice and philosophy or environmental policy and economics.

Off-Campus Programs

By special arrangement with the Ecosystems Center of the Marine Biological Laboratory and the Marine Studies Consortium (see EXTd courses in concentration listings), Wellesley College students in good standing may apply for courses in these off-campus programs. The number of participants in each program is limited (see Special Academic Programs). Students should also consider courses at MIT. Both MIT and EXTD courses count as Wellesley courses, rather than as courses taken off campus, for the purposes of the environmental studies major. Courses offered during the Semester in Environmental Studies, Ecosystem Center of the Marine Biological Laboratory, Woods Hole, Mass., see www.mbl.edu/SES.

Related Courses
For Credit Toward the Major
The courses listed below are representative of other courses throughout the curriculum that may be used as electives for the major if approved by the advisor. Students may petition the advisory faculty to include courses not listed below.

Experimental
According to College Legislation, the student-faculty Committee on Educational Research and Development has the authority to recommend experimental courses and programs to Academic Council. Faculty members and students are invited to submit their ideas to the Committee. In 2004-05 the following experimental courses will be offered:

CLCV 323/PHIL 323 Seminar. The Therapy of Antiquity: Nietzsche, Freud, and the Greeks de Warren (Philosophy) and Ray (Classical Studies)
The conflict between the 'Dionysian' and the 'Apollonian', the psychological destinies of the 'Oedipus and Electra Complexes': these are perhaps the most conspicuous markers of Nietzsche's and Freud's impact on modern thought. That the most recognizable terms of their influence refer to classical figures, both human and divine, throws into sharp relief the centrality of classical Greek myth and culture for their attempts to diagnose and remedy a nineteenth-century human condition: modernity. This interplay of antiquity and modernity will be at the center of our investigation of the projects of two of the most challenging and complex intellectuals of the modern era. Students may register for either CLCV 323 or PHIL 323. Credit will be given in the department in which the student is registered.
Prerequisite: Open to sophomores, juniors and seniors.
Distribution: Historical Studies or Language and Literature Semester: Spring
Unit: 1.0

EXP 240 Papyrus to Print to Pixel
Rogers (Library) and Ruffin (Library)
The electronic revolution wasn't the first: written communication changed radically from the hand-written papyrus rolls of the ancient Greeks and Romans to the codex-form manuscripts of the Middle Ages, again with the invention of printing from moveable type, again with the development of industrial, mass-market, low cost printing and the paperback, and again with the development of electronic texts. Lectures, discussions, and weekly hands-on labs will examine how previous and contemporary revolutions in the technology of written communication have affected society, from religion to economics to politics. Assignments will include making papyrus sheets, producing a manuscript, making paper, setting type and printing letterpress, designing Web sites, and creating a hyper-text version of a rare book.
Prerequisite: By application.
Distribution: Arts, Music, Theatre, Film, Video or Historical Studies Semester: Fall
Unit: 1.0

POL I 334S Seminar. Disability in American Society: Politics, Policy, and Law
Asch (Women's Studies), Burke (Political Science)
The preamble of the Americans with Disabilities Act declares that 43 million Americans are disabled, but some believe the number is a ridiculous overestimate while others consider it a vast understatement. What exactly is "disability"? How is this concept used in American public policy and law? What is life like for Americans with disabilities? This seminar examines the politics of disability in the United States, paying particular attention to the perspectives of people with disabilities and to the history of the disability rights movement.

Prerequisite: Open to juniors and seniors by permission of instructor. Enrollment limited; interested students must fill out a seminar application available in the political science department office or on the department Web site.

Distribution: Social and Behavioral Analysis
Semester: Spring

Unit 1.0

ExtradesTERNAL

The following section includes courses of interest to students in various disciplines.

Health and Society

EXTD 200/WOST 200 Introduction to Reproductive Issues
Asch (Women's Studies)
NOT OFFERED IN 2004-05. This course explores reproduction in contemporary U.S. society, attending to psychological, social, ethical, and policy implications of pregnancy, childbirth, and parenthood. Reproductive health, technology, and practices are considered in light of the significance of children in different eras and cultures, and in light of policies concerning children, families and the status of women. This course draws from the biological sciences, the social sciences, and the humanities, and students will gain practice in conducting interviews, analyzing data, and writing about controversial issues in bioethics and social policies. Students may register for either EXTD 200 or WOST 200. Credit will be given in the department in which the student is registered.

Prerequisite: None. Not open to students who have taken [EXTD 103].
Distribution: Religion, Ethics, and Moral Philosophy or Social and Behavioral Analysis
Semester: N/O

Unit 1.0

EXTD 201 Current Issues in Bioethics
Asch (Women’s Studies)
NOT OFFERED IN 2004-05. A philosophical examination of ethical problems in the practice of medicine and medical research, this course examines such topics as the professional/patient relationship, physician-assisted suicide, making medical decisions for oneself and for others, allocating health care resources, and new developments in reproduction and genetics. The relationship of bioethics to moral philosophy, and different theories of bioethics will be integrated into exploration of these topics.

Prerequisite: Open to sophomores, juniors and seniors, and to first-years with permission of instructor.
Distribution: Religion, Ethics, and Moral Philosophy
Semester: N/O

Unit 1.0

EXTD 202/WOST 202 Multidisciplinary Approaches to Abortion
Asch (Women's Studies)
NOT OFFERED IN 2004-05. Why is abortion an emotionally-charged, intellectually troubling, and nationally divisive issue? There is more to the topic of abortion than the conflict between "pro-choice" and "pro-life" positions. We can achieve better understanding of the problem by examining the biological and medical aspects of abortion as well as its religious, social, psychological, and philosophical implications. The class will explore a range of views on such topics as prenatal screening, the moral and legal significance of fathers' claims, and the possible impact of medical and technological advances (such as RU-486) on the issue of abortion. Students may register for either EXTD 202 or WOST 202. Credit will be given in the department in which the student is registered.

Prerequisite: Open to sophomores, juniors, and seniors who have taken one introductory course in a social science, biology, philosophy, or women's studies.
Distribution: Religion, Ethics, and Moral Philosophy or Social and Behavioral Analysis
Semester: N/O

Unit 1.0

EXTD 203/WOST 203 Ethical and Social Issues in Genetics
Asch (Women's Studies)
NOT OFFERED IN 2004-05. New genetic technologies confront us with complex questions. Should we use prenatal tests to select children's characteristics? Should genetic information be private and confidential? How should knowledge of the genetic origins of certain conditions affect health policy? If some personality and behavioral characteristics have genetic components, should this change our views about personal responsibility? Students may register for either EXTD 203 or WOST 203. Credit will be given in the department in which the student is registered.

Prerequisite: One course in any of the following: biological sciences, philosophy, psychology, sociology, women's studies.
Distribution: Religion, Ethics, and Moral Philosophy
Semester: N/O

Unit 1.0

EXTD 204/WOST 204 Women and Motherhood
Asch (Women’s Studies)
NOT OFFERED IN 2004-05. As poet and feminist Adrienne Rich points out, motherhood is both an "experience and institution." This course highlights how social institutions and cultural beliefs shape the experience and meaning of motherhood. We will contrast motherhood today with motherhood in other cultures and periods, and we will examine how contemporary medical practice and social policy have created new options and new problems for women. Topics will include the experience of pregnancy and childbirth, contemporary family policy, reproductive technologies, and what have become known as "maternal/fetal conflicts.

Students may register for either EXTD 204 or WOST 204. Credit will be given in the department in which the student is registered.

Prerequisite: None
Distribution: Religion, Ethics, and Moral Philosophy or Social and Behavioral Analysis
Semester: N/O

Unit 1.0

EXTD 300/WOST 300 Ethical and Policy Issues in Reproduction
Asch (Women's Studies)
This seminar will analyze divergent views on current ethical questions in reproduction, giving attention to the grounds for these views and their ramifications for clinical practice and public policy. Feminist and mainstream approaches to bioethics will be contrasted. Topics will include: creating families through assisted reproduction and adoption; moral and social issues in human cloning; the moral obligations of pregnant women; and the moral and legal status of implanted embryos and aborted fetuses.

Students may register for either EXTD 300 or WOST 300. Credit will be given in the department in which the student is registered.

Prerequisite: One of the following: ECON 232; EXTD 200/WOST 200, EXTD 201, EXTD 202/WOST 202, EXTD 203/WOST 203, EXTD 204/WOST 204; PHIL 106, 206, 213, 227, 249; POLI 215, 317; PSYC 245, 312; SOC 200, 201, 205, 209, 213, 311, 314, 349, any course in WOST; or permission of the instructor.
Distribution: Religion, Ethics, and Moral Philosophy
Semester: Spring

Other Extradepartmental Courses

EXTD 275 Contrasts on the Cape of Good Hope: Introduction to Contemporary South Africa

NOT OFFERED IN 2004-05. This is an interdisciplinary, team-taught, intensive course for fourteen students from Smith and Wellesley (seven from each college). It will be based at the University of Cape Town, and taught primarily by UCT faculty and other academics/experts in the Cape Town area. The course will include instruction and practical experience in a variety of fields pertaining to South Africa, ranging from the physical and social sciences to medicine, the arts, politics, and the humanities. Topics include: the Truth and Reconciliation Commission; AIDS/HIV and other public health issues; environmental concerns; and contemporary developments in the arts. The course will include a community service component as well as academic work and other activities to engage students in contemporary South Africa. Not offered every year. Subject to Dean's Office approval.

Prerequisite: Open to rising sophomores, juniors, and seniors by permission of the instructor.
Distribution: None
Semester: N/O Unit: 1.0

EXTD 350 Research or Individual Study

Prerequisite: Open by permission to juniors and seniors.
Distribution: None
Semester: Fall, Spring Unit: 1.0

Marine Studies Consortium Courses

The Marine Studies Consortium offers courses focusing on a variety of marine topics. These courses are taught at neighboring institutions and are open to a limited number of Wellesley students by permission of the consortium representative, Harold Andrews, geosciences department.

EXTD 123 Water Resources Planning and Management

A comprehensive introduction to the economics and ecology of water supply and water pollution control. Topics include watershed management, groundwater and wetlands protection, and wastewater treatment. The inherent difficulty in applying static laws and regulations to a dynamic natural resource such as water is a recurring theme. Offered by the Marine Studies Consortium.

Prerequisite: None. Open to students by permission of the consortium representative, Harold Andrews, geosciences department.
Distribution: None
Semester: Fall Unit: 1.0

EXTD 226 Biology of Whales

This upper-level course examines the biology and conservation of cetaceans: whales, dolphins, and porpoises. Topics include physiology, population biology, life history analysis, molecular genetics, morphology, distributional ecology, and social behavior. Lectures first focus on the biology of cetaceans and how they are adapted to the marine environment. Subsequent lectures use case studies to review how biological principles can be applied to the conservation of a wide range of cetacean species. Offered by the Marine Studies Consortium.

Prerequisite: One year of general biology and two upper-level biology courses. Open to students by permission of the consortium representative, Harold Andrews, geosciences department.
Distribution: None
Semester: Spring Unit: 1.0
Department of French

Professor: Mistacco*¹, Gillein¹, Lydgate, Respaut¹ (Chair-Fall), Leivitt , Masson
Associate Professor: Datta (Chair-Spring), Rogers¹, Peterson
Assistant Professor: Tranvouez, Prabhu, Grélé, Gunther
Senior Lecturer: Egron-Sparrow

All courses are conducted in French. Oral expression and composition are stressed.

The Wellesley College language requirement is normally met with the completion of either FREN 101-102 or FREN 201 and one of the following courses: 205, 206, 207, or 208. Students who present an AP score of 3 or an SAT II score between 650 and 690 will satisfy the requirement by taking one of the following courses: FREN 205, 206, 207, or 208. Students who have studied French in high school but who do not present an SAT II or AP score in French at admission will be placed into the appropriate French class on the basis of their scores on the French department's placement test. After 211, the numbering of 200-level courses does not denote increasing levels of difficulty; 200-level courses above 211 may be taken in any sequence. Please see Directions for Election at the end of this section for information about possibilities for acceleration and about the major.

Qualified students are highly encouraged to live at the Maison Française and to spend their junior year or semester in France in the Wellesley-in-Aix program or another approved program. They are also encouraged to participate in the French department's Wintersession course in Paris and to inquire about summer internship possibilities in France or another Francophone country.

FREN 201-202 French Language, Literatures, and Cultures

Datta, Gunther, Prabhu, Tranvouez

Reading, writing, and speaking skills are developed through analysis and discussions of short stories, plays, poems, films, and newspaper articles from France and the Francophone world. Three periods. Each semester earns one unit of credit; however, both semesters must be completed satisfactorily to receive credit for each course. Students beginning with 202 must take one of the following courses: 205, 206, 207, or 208, in order to complete the requirement. The 201-202 sequence should be completed within three semesters.

Prerequisite: 201 or 103, SAT II score of 500 or an equivalent departmental placement score, or permission of instructor.

Prerequisite: 202 or 201, SAT II score of 600, an AP score of 1 or 2, or an equivalent departmental placement score, or permission of instructor.

Distribution: Language and Literature

Semester: Fall, Spring, Winteression (202 only) Unit: 1.0

FREN 205 Literature and Film in Cultural Contexts

Mistacco, Tranvouez

Discussion of modern literature and film in their cultural contexts. Training in techniques of literary and cultural analysis. Materials include novels, short stories, poetry, films, screenplays, and videos from France and the Francophone world. Vocabulary building and review of key points of grammar. Frequent written practice. Attention to oral skills and listening comprehension as needed.

Prerequisite: 202, an SAT II score of 650, an equivalent departmental placement score, or an AP score of 3. Not open to students who have taken 203 or 204. Students who receive a grade of "A" in 201, may, on the recommendation of their instructor, accelerate to 205.

Distribution: Language and Literature

Semester: Fall, Spring Unit: 1.0

FREN 206 Intermediate Spoken French

Egron-Sparrow, Grélé

Practice in conversation, using a variety of materials including newspaper articles, radio and television broadcasts, advertisements, and films. This course is designed to develop oral proficiency with necessary attention to the other skills—listening comprehension, reading, and writing. Regular use of the language laboratory.

Prerequisite: 202 or 201, an SAT II score of 650, an equivalent departmental placement score, or an AP score of 3.

Distribution: Language and Literature

Semester: Fall, Spring Unit: 1.0

FREN 207 Perspectives on French Culture and Society

(FREN 207 may be elected only once)

Topic A: France at the Threshold of the Third Millennium

Datta

NOT OFFERED IN 2004-05.

Prerequisite: 202 or 201, an SAT II score of 650, an equivalent departmental placement score, or an AP score of 3.

Distribution: Language and Literature

Semester: Fall

Unit: 1.0

Topic B: French Identity in the Age of Globalization

Gunther

In this introduction to French society and culture, we will examine France’s identity crisis as it enters a new century. From its historical position of political, economic, and intellectual leadership in Europe and the world, France is searching to maintain its difference as a defender of quality over mass appeal and the proud values of its national tradition in the face of increasing globalization. Topics covered include Franco-American relations, the European Union, immigration, the family, and the role of women in French society. Readings are drawn from a variety of sources: historical, sociological, and ethnographic. Magazine and newspaper articles, along with television programs and films will provide supplementary information.

Prerequisite: 202 or [204], an SAT II score of 650, an equivalent departmental placement score, or an AP score of 3.

Distribution: Language and Literature

Semester: Fall

FREN 216 Love/Death
Respaut
Not Offered in 2004-05. This course investigates the connection between fiction and film and our fundamental preoccupation with the issues of love and death. Texts ranging from the Middle Ages to the twentieth century are studied, with an eye toward understanding how the themes of love and death are related to story structure, narration, and the dynamics of reading.
Prerequisite: At least one unit of 205, 206, 207, or 208, an SAT II score of 700, an equivalent departmental placement score, or an AP score of 4 or 5.
Distribution: Language and Literature
Semester: Fall
Unit: 1.0

FREN 217 Books of the Self
Lyford
This course focuses on texts that seek to reveal the reality of the self in the space of a book, including readings of confessional and autobiographical works by the twentieth-century writers Camus, Annie Ernaux, Roland Barthes, and Maryse Condé, and by their literary ancestors Auguste, Abelard, Montaigne, and Rousseau. Themes examined include: the compulsion to confess; secret sharing vs. public self-disclosure; love, desire, and language; the search for authenticity; dominant discourse and minority voices; the role of the reader as accomplice, witness, judge, confessor.
Prerequisite: At least one unit of 205, 206, 207, or 208, an SAT II score of 700, an equivalent departmental placement score, or an AP score of 4 or 5.

FREN 218 Négriotude, Independences, Women's Issues: Francophone Literature in Context
Prabhu
Not Offered in 2004-05. This course seeks to understand the key concerns of writers during the Négriotude movement in order to address important questions that became crucial during the ensuing period of the various independence movements. We will discuss issues which arose at this time and continue to be of interest concerning the role of women in these movements and thereafter in the newly independent nation. The impact of colonialism and independence on different indigenous societal institutions, polygamy in particular, will be central to the later readings.
Prerequisite: At least one unit of 205, 206, 207, or 208, an SAT II score of 700, an equivalent departmental placement score, or an AP score of 4 or 5.
Distribution: Language and Literature

FREN 220 French Cinema
Gillin
Not Offered in 2004-05. A survey of French cinema with a focus on three key periods: the 30s, the 60s and the 90s. Starting with classics by Jean Renoir, Marcel Carné, and Julien Duvivier, the course will study the stylistic revolution brought about by the New Wave and mark it has left on recent French cinema. The films will be analyzed from a variety of perspectives: political and socio-economic contexts, gender representations, narrative patterns, and visual metaphors of subjectivity.
Prerequisite: At least one unit of 205, 206, 207, or 208, an SAT II score of 700, an AP score of 4 or 5, or an equivalent departmental placement score.
Distribution: Language and Literature or Arts, Music, Theatre, Film, Video

FREN 224 America through French Eyes: Perceptions and Realities
Data
The French have long been fascinated by the United States, especially since the end of the Second World War. At times, the U.S. has been seen as a model to be emulate in France; more often, it has stood out as the antithesis of French culture and values. This course examines French representations of the United States and of Americans through an examination of key historical and literary texts—essays, autobiographies, and fiction—as well as films. Topics to be explored include: representations of African-Americans in French films (Josephine Baker), French views of Taylorization, the Coca-Cola wars of the 1950s, French-American tensions during the Cold War, especially under de Gaulle, as well as more recent debates about Eurodisney, McDonald's, Hollywood, globalization, and multiculturalism.

FREN 237 Saint-Germain-des-Prés

Lydisage

The legendary sixth arrondissement neighborhood as a cultural crucible in post-Liberation Paris. Saint-Germain-des-Prés as the locus of an unprecedented concentration of literary and artistic talent after 1945: existentialists, writers, artists, café intellectuals, and nonconformists. The discovery of jazz and American popular culture. Saint-Germain and the myth of the Left Bank. Study of texts by Sartre, Camus, Simone de Beauvoir, Boris Vian, Raymond Queneau; songs by Juliette Greco and others; newspapers, film and audio documents of the period.

Prerequisite: At least one unit of 205, 206, 207, or 208, an SAT II score of 700, an equivalent departmental placement score, or an AP score of 4 or 5.

Distribution: Language and Literature or Historical Studies

Unit: 1.0

FREN 301 Books and Voices in Renaissance France

Lydisage

NOT OFFERED IN 2004-05. Innovative writers in sixteenth-century France and the ideas and forms of expression they explored in the early decades of printing. The persistence of oral culture and the search for a voice in print; the triumph of French over Latin as a literary language of subtlety and power; the collisions of propaganda and censorship in a century torn by religious strife; the emergence of new audiences and new strategies of narration and reading. Readings in prose works by Rabelais, Montaigne, Calvin, Marguerite de Navarre; poetry by du Bellay, Bonsard, and Louise Labé. Periodic reference to resources of the rare book collection in the Wellesley library.

Prerequisite: Two 200-level units, one of which must be 210 (if taken Fall 2004 or later), or 211 or above.

Distribution: Language and Literature
Semester: N/O
Unit: 1.0

FREN 303 Advanced Studies in the Seventeenth and Eighteenth Centuries

Gide

Topic for 2004-05: Honor, Passion, and the Social Order in Seventeenth-Century Theater: Corneille, Molière, Racine. Love and duty, appearance and reality, freedom and destiny: seventeenth-century theater expresses major oppositional themes that both shaped and undermined the political order of the time. Corneille, Molière and Racine, the leading playwrights from the Golden Age of French literature, articulate the causes of economic crisis, social unrest and religious conflict that plagued the reign of Louis XIV and too often led to bloody consequences. The course will concentrate on the tragedies and comedies of these writers as keys to understanding the forces at work in a changing society, as outstanding achievements in theatrical art, and as illustrations of critical developments in theatrical style.

Prerequisite: Two 200-level units, one of which must be 210 (if taken Fall 2004 or later), or 211 or above.

Distribution: Language and Literature
Semester: Spring
Unit: 1.0

FREN 304 Male and Female Perspectives in the Eighteenth-Century Novel

Mistacco

NOT OFFERED IN 2004-05. Drawing from recent feminist inquiries into the politics of exclusion and inclusion in literary history, the course examines, in dialogue with masterpieces authored by men, novels by major women writers of the period. These novels, though much admired in their time, were subsequently erased from the pages of literary history, and have only recently been rediscovered. Works by Prevost, Claudine-Alexandrine de Tencin, Françoise de Graffigny, Marie-Jeanne Riccoboni, Rousseau, Diderot, Laclos, and Isabelle de Charrière.

Prerequisite: Two 200-level units, one of which must be 210 (if taken Fall 2004 or later), or 211 or above.

FREN 366 Literature and Inhumanity: Novel, Poetry, and Film in Interwar France

Petterson

NOT OFFERED IN 2004-05. This course will examine the confrontation between literature and inhumanity through the French literature, poetry, and film of the early twentieth century. Poetry by Guillaume Apollinaire, Robert Desnos, André Breton, Francis Ponge, and René Char, films by Luis Buñuel, and novels by André Gide, Jean-Paul Sartre, and André Malraux all serve to illustrate the profound crisis in human values that defined and shaped the twentieth century.

Prerequisite: Two 200-level units, one of which must be 210 (if taken Fall 2004 or later), or 211 or above.

Distribution: Language and Literature
Semester: N/O
Unit: 1.0

FREN 370 The Contemporary French Novel and the Pleasure of the Text

Petterson

In mental landscapes ranging from the excruciatingly personal to the desperately impersonal, and in geographical settings that vary from high-paced urbanism to plodding ruralism, the contemporary French novel invites us to reassess the formal, political, cultural and historical stakes of writing and reading fiction in the twenty-first century. This course explores in depth the subtle pleasure of the text in works by some of France's more brilliant and intriguing contemporary authors: Jean-Philippe Toussaint, Damié Salenave, Jean Echenoz, Lydie Salvayre, Marie Redonnet, François Bon, Patrick Modiano, Iegor Gran.

Prerequisite: Two 200-level units, one of which must be 210 (if taken Fall 2004 or later), or 211 or above.

Distribution: Language and Literature
Semester: Spring
Unit: 1.0

FREN 380 Advanced Studies in Language

Petterson

The art of translation and its techniques are studied through analysis of the major linguistic and cultural differences between French and English. Translations from both languages will serve to explore past and present-day practices and theories of translation.

Prerequisite: Two 200-level units, one of which must be 210 (if taken Fall 2004 or later), or 211 or above. Open to juniors and seniors only, or by permission of instructor.

FREN 313 George Sand and the Romantic Theater

Masson

George Sand, multifaceted woman and influential writer, allows us to explore the romantic theater as well as the overall theater production of the nineteenth century. The fact that Sand's theater was overlooked in her time and subsequently forgotten raises important questions of public recognition and literary posterity that we will examine.

Prerequisite: Two 200-level units, one of which must be 210 (if taken Fall 2004 or later), or 211 or above. Not open to students who have taken this course as 321 Topic B in Spring 2001.

FREN 314 Cinema

Gillain

NOT OFFERED IN 2004-05. François Truffaut: An in-depth review of Truffaut's overall contribution to cinema. Includes readings from his articles as a film critic, a study of influences on his directorial work (Renoir, Hitchcock) and a close analysis of twelve of his films using a variety of critical approaches: biographical, historical, formal, and psychoanalytical.

Prerequisite: Two 200-level units, one of which must be 210 (if taken Fall 2004 or later), or 211 or above.

Distribution: Language and Literature or Arts, Music, Theatre, Film, Video
Semester: N/O
Unit: 1.0

FREN 316 Duras

Mistacco

NOT OFFERED IN 2004-05. A study of Marguerite Duras's literary and film production centering on her poetics of the Other and her practice of écriture féminine. Figures of difference and marginality (including social outcasts, colonized people, madwomen, children, criminals, and women) will be examined in connection with Duras's subversion of sexual, familial, social, political, literary, and cinematic conventions. Analysis of representative novels, films, short stories, and plays. Readings from interviews, autobiographical texts, and articles, as well as from Duras's final reflections on her life and the experience of writing. New critical perspectives on her work.

Prerequisite: Two 200-level units, one of which must be 210 (if taken Fall 2004 or later), or 211 or above.

Distribution: Language and Literature
Semester: N/O
Unit: 1.0

FREN 319 Women, Language, and Literary Expression

Mistacco

NOT OFFERED IN 2004-05. Fiction by twentieth-century women writers in France. Challenges to literary conventions, patriarchal thinking and dominant discourse by Beauvoir, Colette, Chawaf, Wittig, Duras, and Djebar. Attention to gender as a site of dissonance and to the creative possibilities as well as the risks involved in equating the feminine with difference. Perspectives on women, writing, and difference in colonial and postcolonial contexts. Readings from foundational and recent works by feminist theorists including Cixous, Kristeva, and Frigarray.

FREN 321 Selected Topics
Topic A: Women of Ill Repute: Prostitution in Nineteenth-Century France
Rogers
NOT OFFERED IN 2004-05. Women of loose morals in French fiction from the Revolution to the end of the nineteenth century. This course will trace the figure of the prostitute — from the innocuous fallen woman with a heart of gold to the threatening incarnation of feminine perversity — in literary texts and in the paintings of prominent artists of the period. Readings in contemporary treatises on hygiene, public policy, and the legal status of prostitutes will situate the theme in the socio-cultural context of the time. Fiction by Balzac, Dumas, Hugo, Baudelaire, Maupassant, Barbery d'Aurevilly, Zola. Paintings by Degas, Manet, Toulouse-Lautrec.
Prerequisite: Two 200-level units, one of which must be 210 (if taken Fall 2004 or later), or 211 or above. Not open to students who have taken this course as 223 Topic C in Spring 2002.

FREN 327 A Fascination with Bodies: The Doctor's Malady
Respaut
NOT OFFERED IN 2004-05. The addictive interplay between doctors and patients as reflected in a variety of nineteenth- and twentieth-century writings, and in photography and film. The course will investigate the effect of sickness on family structure and the struggle with illness as a desperate "dancing with the beast," touching on mental and physical suffering of various kinds — hysteria and alcoholism, childbirth and abortion, tuberculosis, cancer, AIDS — represented in novels and short stories from Flaubert to Gide, in the reflections of historians and psychologists (Michelet, Charcot), and in biographies, personal accounts and autobiographies by Duras, Guibert and Ernaux.
Prerequisite: Two 200-level units, one of which must be 210 (if taken Fall 2004 or later), or 211 or above.
Distribution: Language and Literature

FREN 329 Colette/Duras: A Pleasure unto Death
Respaut
NOT OFFERED IN 2004-05. Two prolific authors whose works embrace the span of women's writing in the twentieth century, and who correspondingly illustrate the essential features of modern expression by women. Attention to the phases of a woman's life, sexuality, the figure of the mother, exoticism and race, and the relation between fiction and autobiography.
Prerequisite: Two 200-level units, one of which must be 210 (if taken Fall 2004 or later), or 211 or above.

FREN 349 Studies in Culture and Criticism
Topic A: La Belle Époque: Politics, Society, and Culture in France: 1880-1914
Datta
In the aftermath of World War I, French men and women viewed the preceding years as a tranquil and stable period in French history. Yet during the era, subsequently known as "la Belle Époque," the French experienced changes of enormous magnitude: the emergence of both consumer culture and a working class, the development of a national press, and the expansion of an overseas colonial empire. Such ebullience was reflected in the emergence of Paris as the capital of the European avant-garde. Drawing on literary texts and historical documents, as well as on films, posters, and songs, this interdisciplinary course examines French society, politics, and culture during the era which ushered France into the modern age.
Prerequisite: Two 200-level units, one of which must be 210 (if taken Fall 2004 or later), or 211 or above.
Distribution: Language and Literature or Historical Studies

Topic C: France and Europe: Ambiguities, Obstacles, and Triumphs
Gunther
After an introduction to various social, cultural and political aspects of contemporary France and the French, we will turn our attention to issues surrounding France's role in the project to unify Europe. We will examine how France's anxieties and hopes for the Union are shared by other European nations, and how France is experiencing membership in the European Union differently from its neighbors, in ways that reflect its unique history and culture. Readings will be drawn from a variety of disciplines, including texts by historians, political scientists, sociologists and economists.

Directions for Election
One hundred level courses: FREN 101-102 and 103 count toward the degree but not toward the major. Students who begin with 101-102 in college and who plan to study abroad should consult the chair of the department during the second semester of their first year.

Acceleration. Students who receive a grade of "A" in 201 may, on the recommendation of their instructor, accelerate to 203.

Majors are required to complete a minimum of eight units, including the following courses or their equivalents: FREN 210 (if taken Fall 2004 or later), or 211 and 308. A student may count one AP credit in French toward the major. The goals of a coherent program are: (a) oral and written linguistic competence; (b) acquisition of basic techniques of reading and interpreting texts; and (c) a general understanding of the history of French literature and culture. All majors must take two 300-level French courses at Wellesley College. No more than two courses taken credit/noncredit at Wellesley College may be applied to the French major. Students planning to major in French should consult with the chair of the French department. Students interested in an interdisciplinary major in French cultural studies are referred to the listing for this interdisciplinary program.

Graduate Studies. Students planning graduate work in French or comparative literature are encouraged to write an honors thesis and study a second modern language and/or Latin.

Advanced Placement Policies and Language Requirement. A student entering Wellesley must have an Advanced Placement score of 4 or 5 or an SAT II score of 690 to satisfy the foreign language requirement.

Teacher Certification. Students interested in obtaining certification to teach French in the Commonwealth of Massachusetts should consult the chair of the Department of Education.
French Cultural Studies

AN INTERDEPARTMENTAL MAJOR

Director: Dutta (French)

Wellesley offers an interdepartmental major in French cultural studies which combines courses from the Department of French with those in Africana studies, art, history, music, political science, or any other department offering courses on France or Francophone countries. French cultural studies majors ordinarily work closely with two advisors, one from the French department and one from the other area of concentration.

The major in French cultural studies consists of a minimum of eight units. At least four units in the French department above the 100 level are required including 207 and 211. At least one unit in French at the 300 (advanced) level is required. No more than two courses taken credit/noncredit at Wellesley College may be applied to the French cultural studies major.

FRST 350 Research or Individual Study
Prerequisite: Open by permission to juniors and seniors. Distribution: None Semester: Fall, Spring Unit: 1.0

POL 241 Modern Political Theory

Department of Geosciences

Professor: Andrews, Thompson (Chair)
Associate Professor: Besancon
Assistant Professor: Brabant

Instructor in Geosciences Laboratory: Gilbert, Matison

The geosciences department offers courses that can lead to either a more traditional geology major that emphasizes earth materials and history or an environmental geoscience major that emphasizes an understanding of and solution to environmental problems. A student will consult with her department advisor to design a major that best meets her interests and goals.

All courses with laboratory meet for two periods of lecture and one three-hour laboratory session weekly.

GEOS 100 Oceanography

Andrews

Covering over 70% of the Earth's surface, the oceans are one of the most distinctive features of our planet. Oceans evolve through time, control our climate, are home to a myriad of marine life forms and are floored by distinctive geologic features including huge volcanoes and giant rift valleys. We will explore such topics as ocean basin sediments, submarine volcanism, shoreline processes, tsunamis, ocean currents, el niño events, coral reefs, deep-sea life and marine food, and mineral resources.

Prerequisite: None. Not open to students who have taken [GEOL 100]. Distribution: Natural and Physical Science Semester: Fall Unit: 1.0

GEOS 101 Earth Processes and the Environment with Laboratory

Brabant

The Earth is home to more than six billion people and millions of kinds of animals and plants. Geologic processes both rapid (earthquakes and landslides) and slow (mountain building and sea level rise) are intimately linked with sustaining this diversity of life. This course will examine many of the physical processes that are responsible for shaping our environment and will introduce skills essential for detailed observation of these processes. Laboratory and field trips.

GEOS 102 The Dynamic Earth with Laboratory

Andrews

Introduction to geologic processes ranging from microscopic growth of mineral crystals to regional erosion and deposition by water, wind, and ice to volcanism and earthquakes associated with global plate motions. A particular focus of the course will be to better understand the interactions between human activities and the geologic environment. Laboratory and field trips.

GEOS 200 The Earth and Life through Time with Laboratory
Andrews
The Earth and life have been continually changing throughout the 4.6 billion years of Earth history. We will explore these changes, including the tectonic evolution of mountain ranges, the changing landscapes and environments across the North American continent, and the origin, evolution, and extinction of the various life forms that have inhabited our planet. Laboratory will provide the students with the opportunity to examine Wellesley's extensive fossil collection. A field trip to fossil sites in New York State will be offered.
Prerequisite: GEOS 100 [GEOL 100], GEOS 101, GEOS 102 [GEOL 102] or ES 100. Not open to students who have taken [GEOL 200].
Distribution: Natural and Physical Science

GEOS 201/ES 201 Methods and Problems in Environmental Science with Laboratory
Brabander
Problems in environmental science are inherently multidisciplinary and often require a diverse skill set to analyze and solve. This course will focus on developing a toolbox of skills including field methods, geophysical analysis (natural waters, soils, and other environmental materials), and modeling with a goal of being able to frame and solve environmental problems. Students will conduct semester-long research projects and will present their results in a final poster session. Laboratory. Students may register for either GEOS 201 or ES 201. Credit will be given in the department in which the student is registered.
Prerequisite: One of the following: GEOS 100 [GEOL 100], GEOS 101, GEOS 102 [GEOL 102], ES 100 or permission of the instructor.
Distribution: Natural and Physical Science
Semester: Spring

GEOS 203 Earth Materials with Laboratory
Besancon
The solid Earth is composed of a wide range of materials including minerals, rocks, and soils. Some of these are as familiar as building stone or bathroom cleanser in everyday life, while others must be sought in natural settings like mountain ranges or flood plains. This course will examine both the physical and chemical properties of Earth materials and the processes that lead to their formation. Identification and interpretation of earth materials in the field and in the laboratory (via X-ray and microscopic analysis) will also be emphasized. Laboratory and field trips.
Prerequisite: GEOS 100 [GEOL 100], GEOS 101, GEOS 102 [GEOL 102] or ES 100
Distribution: Natural and Physical Science
Semester: Fall

GEOS 204 Catastrophes and Extinctions
Andrews
The Earth has not always been a safe place on which to live, as mass extinctions have punctuated the history of life and dramatically altered the course of evolution. Among the topics we will explore are the process of evolution and the nature of the fossil record, gradual change versus catastrophic events, dinosaurs and their extinction, periodicity of mass extinctions, the prospect of future extinctions, and an evaluation of the possible causes of extinctions, including sea-level changes, climate changes, volcanism, and meteorite impacts. Normally offered in alternate years.
Prerequisite: GEOS 100 [GEOL 100], GEOS 101, GEOS 102 [GEOL 102] or ES 100. Not open to students who have taken [GEOL 204].

GEOS 211 Geology and Human Affairs
Thompson
This course will focus on interactions between people and their physical environment. Geological component to emphasize coastal, fluvial and glacial processes, evaluation of bedrock for engineering projects, and groundwater. Human impacts will be examined in terms of adverse effects on geological systems and in terms of protective environmental regulation and remediation. New England case studies including evolution of Nauset Spit (Chatham, Mass.), groundwater contamination at Cape Cod Military Reservation, and management approaches in the Charles River watershed will be highlighted during the semester. Students will present their own case studies as final poster projects. Normally offered in alternate years.
Prerequisite: GEOS 100 [GEOL 100], GEOS 101, GEOS 102 [GEOL 102] or ES 100. Not open to students who have taken [GEOL 211].

GEOS 220 Volcanoes: Agents of Global and Regional Change with Wintersession Laboratory
NOT OFFERED IN 2004-05. OFFERED IN 2005-06. From Mount Saint Helens to Vesuvius to Krakatau, volcanoes affect global climate, change landscape evolution, and are sometimes the cause of tremendous disasters. Understanding the wide variety of phenomena associated with volcanoes provides a broad perspective on how science can be used to protect lives and further human needs and interests. Using geologic literature, Internet search, and a general text, we will study case histories of volcanoes on earth and through the solar system. Written papers and oral presentations will be important parts of the course. Required laboratory will be two weeks in and near Hawaii Volcanoes National Park during Wintersession, with a final project due after return. Normally offered in alternate years. Subject to Dean's Office Approval.
Prerequisite: GEOS 100 [GEOL 100], GEOS 101, GEOS 102 [GEOL 102] or ES 100 and permission of the instructor. Not open to students who have taken [GEOL 220].

Besancon
Paper maps and photographs are moving into digital form. Governments, consulting firms, and scientists use geographic information systems (GIS) and image analysis to manage natural resources, administer city infrastructure, search for water supplies, analyze land use, investigate relationships between environmental factors, and prepare maps of all types. Assignments examine a variety of problems in natural science and geography using ArcGIS software. Normally offered in alternate years.

GEOS 240 Climate Past and Future
Thompson
The documented phenomenon of global warming raises pressing questions about future climate trends and what the world's population might expect if temperatures continue to rise. The science of this problem spans many spheres of Earth activity from present-day oceanic and atmospheric circulation to the geologic record of Pleistocene ice sheets and more extreme climatic events in the far distant past. Even plate motions have climatic impacts as increased volcanism associated with rapid sea floor spreading increases atmospheric carbon dioxide. This course will explore the dynamics of the modern climate system as well as multiple factors influencing climate history. All of these approaches are important for geoscientists and nonscientists alike who must promote intelligent action on global initiatives addressing problems such as anthropogenic carbon dioxide emissions. Normally offered in alternate years.

GEOS 304 Sedimentary Rocks and Sequences with Laboratory
NOT OFFERED IN 2004-05. OFFERED IN 2005-06. Sedimentary rocks cover most of the Earth's present surface and contain evidence for past environments throughout billions of years of geologic time. Studying sequences of such rocks is important both for understanding recurrent environmental fluctuations like sea level change and for maximizing resources from coal and petroleum to salt and aluminum ore. Sedimentary processes take on further significance because they take place in popular human habitats including coastlines and flood plains. Lectures will cover production of sediment via weathering, principles of sediment transport, characteristics of sedimentary environments, and interpretation of sedimentary sequences. Laboratory will emphasize identification of sedimentary rocks and minerals based on hand specimens, microscope and x-ray methods, and include field trips in the Boston area. Normally offered in alternate years.

Professor: Hansen (Chair), Kruse\textsuperscript{a}, Ward\textsuperscript{b}

Associate Professor: Nolden

Visiting Instructor: Geiger

Director of Study Abroad Program: Hansen

Resident Director of Wellesley-in-Vienna: Hartmack

The language of instruction above the 100 level is almost exclusively German unless otherwise noted. Students thus have constant practice in hearing, reading, speaking, and writing the language.

The department reserves the right to place a new student in the course for which she seems best prepared, regardless of background and number of units she offers for admission.

Students in GER 201 who wish to accelerate at the intermediate level may apply to the January-in-Vienna program. Participants travel to Vienna for three weeks in January where they study with a professor from the German department. During their stay they complete GER 202W and receive credit as they would for a course taken on campus (Not offered every year. Subject to Dean's office approval). Upon returning for the second semester at Wellesley, students are encouraged to continue with GER 231.

Qualified students are encouraged to spend the junior year in Austria in the Wellesley-in-Vienna program or another program approved by the College.

GER 101-102 Beginning German

Geiger, Hansen

An introduction to contemporary German with emphasis on communicative fluency. Extensive practice in all four skills: listening, speaking, reading, and writing. Videos and Web-based activities introduce the student to topics from contemporary culture in German-speaking countries. Each semester earns 1.0 unit of credit; however, both semesters must be completed satisfactorily to receive credit for either course.

Three meetings per week.

GER 120/WRIT 125 Berlin and Cinema

NOT OFFERED IN 2004-05. As the brilliant metropolis of 1920s cultural modernity, the epicenter of Cold War conflict, and the locus of divisive German unity after the fall of the Berlin Wall, Berlin has proven a rich site of inquiry for some of the world's greatest filmmakers. We will view this fascinating city from the multiple and complex standpoints offered in a range of documentary and fiction films, from the experimental silent film, Symphony of a Great City, to Rossellini's Germany Year Zero to Wilder's rau-

1947 comedy, A Foreign Affair. Wim Wenders' Wings of Desire and films from the post-wall period will also be featured. The course emphasizes development of the requisite vocabulary to analyze film art and provides an overview of nine decades of German history. This course satisfies the Writing 125 requirement and counts as a unit toward the German Studies major. Includes a third session each week. Students

GEOS 306 Structural Geology with Laboratory

NOT OFFERED IN 2004-05. OFFERED IN 2005-06. Introduction to geometry and origin of rock structure ranging from microtextures and fabrics to large-scale folding and faulting. Emphasis on processes of rock deformation in terms of theoretical prediction and experimental findings. Laboratory will include field trips in the Boston area. Normally offered in alternate years.

GEOS 309 Petrology with Laboratory

Basanite

Study of the origin and occurrence of igneous and metamorphic rocks which make up most of the earth's crust. The earth generates magmas, primarily along plate boundaries, and they carry heat upward as they rise into the crust or onto the surface, forming igneous rocks. Heat, pressure, and deformation generate new minerals and textures in rocks. Students will decipher the sources and history of rocks using chemical and physical models and tools. Laboratory includes study of rocks in thin section and a project study of rocks collected on Boston area field trips. Normally offered in alternate years.

GEOS 311 Hydrogeology with Laboratory

NOT OFFERED IN 2004-05. OFFERED IN 2005-06. Investigation of water supply and use. Principles of surface and groundwater movement and water chemistry are applied to the hydrologic cycle in order to understand sources of water for human use. Quantity and quality of water and the limitations they impose are considered. Laboratory. Normally offered in alternate years.

GEOS 315/ES 315 Environmental Geochemistry with Laboratory

Brabant

Accurately predicting the fate and transport of naturally-occurring toxic elements and anthropogenic compounds in the environment requires a broad set of multidisciplinary skills. This course introduces geochemical approaches including mass balance, residence time, isotope fractionation, and thermodynamic and kinetic modeling necessary to fingerprint sources of pollutants and track them in water, soil, and plants. These fundamentals will be explored in several classic case studies and in semester-long geochemical research projects conducted by small groups. Laboratory. Normally offered in alternate years. Students may register for either GEOS 315 or ES 315. Credit will be given in the department in which the student is registered.

Directions for Election

A major in geosciences includes eight Geosciences courses (a minimum of 8 units of course work), at least six of which must be taken at Wellesley, and four units of allied science including two from the same discipline. Entry into the major may be through GEOS 100, GEOS 101, GEOS 102 or ES 100. Four 200-level courses are required, two of which must come from the group GEOS 200, GEOS 201 and GEOS 203. Three 300-level courses are also required, of which may be GEOS 350, GEOS 360 or GEOS 370.

The department recommends that students majoring in geosciences take a geology field course, either the 12.114-12.115 sequence offered in alternate years by MIT or a summer geology field course offered by another college.

A minor in geosciences consists of five courses, including one course at the 100-level and at least one course at the 300-level.

GER 121/WRIT 125 Turn-of-the-Century Vienna: The Birth of Modernism
NOT OFFERED IN 2004-05. The resplendent culture of fin-de-siècle Vienna reveals the early concerns of the twentieth century. While the 600-year-old Habsburg monarchy preserved continuity in Austria, a nervous sense of finitude pervaded the period. Nostalgia clashed with social change to produce a remarkable tension in the music, art, literature, and science of the period. These disciplines reached breakthroughs that are the roots of the modern temperament: Sigmund Freud in psychology; Oskar Kokoschka and Gustav Klimt in art; Hugo von Hofmannsthal and Arthur Schnitzler in literature; Mahler, Schönberg, and Webern in music; Theodor Herzl, founder of Zionism, in social thought. The course will study representative works to explore this phenomenon. Includes a third session each week. Students enrolled in German courses, particularly 201-202, are encouraged to fulfill the Writing 125 requirement with this class. This course counts as a unit toward the German studies major.

GER 202W Intermediate German in Vienna
NOT OFFERED IN 2004-05. Like 202 on campus, this course strengthens and expands all language skills with special emphasis on idiomatic usage by means of grammar review, oral and listening practice, readings on contemporary and historical topics, and practice in composition. But this course is offered as a total immersion experience. The program includes classroom instruction and trips to the cultural sites of Vienna. In addition to the Intermediate German immersion program, this course has an important cultural component. We shall study the urban history of Vienna by examining various areas of art and architecture from the medieval through the baroque periods. We shall then focus on the monumental urban redevelopment of the city in the nineteenth century as the backdrop for the modernist revolution in the arts around the turn of the century. Not offered every year. Subject to Dean’s Office approval.

GER 241 Themes of Childhood, Youth, and Adolescence in German Literature
NOT OFFERED IN 2004-05. This course will explore images of children and adolescents in adult literature. The texts encompass the medieval to contemporary periods and are unified thematically by such issues as youthful rebellion, inter-generational struggles, social initiation, and the crisis of adolescence. We shall analyze the portrayals of youth as idealized heroes, as innocent victims, and as critical witnesses of the adult world. Authors include Goethe, Stifter, Hesse, and Aichinger. We will also read Grimms’ folktales, Wilhelm Busch’s proto-comic book, Max and Moritz, and Heinrich Hoffmann’s cautionary verses, Der Struwwelpeter. Taught in German. Two meetings per week.

GER 248 The Fantastic in German Literature
Hansen
The course will explore short fiction of the fantastic and the uncanny that emerges after the eighteenth century. These works, which employ allegories of escapist fantasy, horror and supernatural terror, delusion, and abnormal psychic states, are chosen for their literary treatment of fears that prey on the human imagination. We will begin with tales from the Grimms’ collection of fairy tales and explore themes of the Doppelgänger, shapeshifting, talking animals, and magic. We will apply Sigmund Freud’s theory of “the uncanny” to literary texts from Romanticism to Kafka and beyond. Taught in German, two periods.

GER 265 Literature and Empire: Myth and History in the Habsburg Dynasty (in English)
NOT OFFERED IN 2004-05. For more than 600 years, Habsburg rule preserved a semblance of unity and order to widely heterogeneous peoples and cultures. At various historical periods the empire was one over which the sun never set, but it was finally undermined by ethnic nationalism and war. The noble family who had almost unprecedented political power to manage and mismanage political events will be the subject of this course. Through readings in literature, history, and biography we will explore the rich culture of the Danube monarchy and examine how the Habsburgs themselves forged the myth of their own dynasty and how they are portrayed in art and literature. Taught in English.

GER 268 Richard Wagner, Nietzsche, Mann: The Composer and his Critics (in English)
NOT OFFERED IN 2004-05. Richard Wagner – composer, poet, critic – is a controversial figure in German culture. This course will examine in depth the four operas that make up the great mythical tale of lust and power, The Ring of the Nibelung. Beginning with Norse sagas, we shall read Wagner’s sources, the major responses to Wagner, (concentrating on his contemporary, the philosopher Friedrich Nietzsche), and short works by Thomas Mann. We shall also read Wagner’s own essays to understand his subsequent use by National Socialism. Two periods with additional listening sessions.

For Credit Toward the Major
CPLT 254 Imaginary Crimes and Courts: The Law in Literature

Directions for Election

The department offers a major in language and literature as well as a minor in German. GER 101-102 is counted toward the degree but not toward the major or minor. Students who begin German at Wellesley and wish to major will be encouraged to advance as quickly as possible to upper-level work by doing intermediate language training during the summer or accelerating in our January-in-Vienna program during Wintersession.

Students interested in an interdepartmental major in German studies are referred to the listing for this interdepartmental program.

The German department will grant one unit of credit toward the degree for an Advanced Placement score of 4 or 5. Because the AP credit is considered the equivalent of German 202, a student will not get the Advanced Placement credit if she takes 202 or a lower course. A student entering Wellesley must have an Advanced Placement score of 4 or 5 to satisfy the foreign language requirement.
Honors Program
The department offers two plans for the honors program. Plan A (See Senior Thesis Research, 360 and 370) provides the opportunity for original work in language and literature or German studies, culminating in the writing of a longer paper or papers with an oral defense. Plan B, honors by examination, is open to candidates in language and literature only. Written and oral examinations are based on a reading list devised by the student under the guidance of an advisor. Plan B carries no course credit, but where appropriate, students may elect a unit of 350 to prepare a special author or project that would be included in the honors examination.

German Studies

AN INTERDEPARTMENTAL MAJOR
Director: Hansen (German)
This interdisciplinary and interdepartmental major is designed to provide the student with a broader understanding of the cultures of Germany, Austria, and Switzerland by achieving an advanced level of language proficiency and by studying the art, history, literature, philosophy, and politics of these countries in depth. GER 202 may count toward the eight-unit minimum major. GER 231 and two 300-level units are required. A minimum of five units should be completed in the German department, one of them at the 300 level. The elective units taken in the German department may be drawn from courses taught in German or English, including either WRIT 125/GER 120 or 121.

The remaining minimum of three elective units may be drawn from any of the related courses listed below. A student who enrolls in these courses is expected to do a project or paper on a German, Austrian, or Swiss topic in order to count the course toward her German Studies major. She may also do an interdisciplinary 360-370 project that is supervised by an interdepartmental committee. With approval of the relevant department, courses taken abroad may count at the 200 level toward the major. A course in German history is highly recommended, as are two units from a single allied field. While it is helpful to have an advisor in the allied field, a student must have a major advisor in the German department, which approves all individually constructed German studies programs.

HIST 105 Bread and Salt: Introduction to Russian Civilization

Tunarkin

NOT OFFERED IN 2004-05. For centuries Russians have welcomed visitors with offerings of bread and salt. This course is an earthy immersion in Russian everyday life, from the grand age of Tolstoy, to the wrenching era of Stalin, to Putin’s dissiant new Russia. Russian black bread, dense and pungent, is central to our focus on food, feasting, fasting and famine in the Russian experience, as we explore the restricted diets of peasants, the excessive repasts of proper-tied classes, Soviet efforts to ritualize communal dining and living, and hunger in the wartime blockade of Leningrad. We will also weave in related themes, such as alcohol consumption, illness, and the Russian way of death. Guest lectures by Russianists in disciplines other than history.

HIST 200 Roots of the Western Tradition

Rogers

NOT OFFERED IN 2004-05. In this introductory survey we will examine how the religious, political, and scientific traditions of western civilization originated in Mesopotamia and Egypt from c. 3500 B.C.E. and were developed by Greeks and Romans until the Islamic invasions of the seventh century C.E. The course will help students to understand the emergence of polytheism and the great monotheistic religions, the development of democracy and Republicanism, and the birth of Western science and the scientific method.

HIST 201 Reinventing Europe, 1650-Present

Tunarkin

NOT OFFERED IN 2004-05. This course will follow the peoples of Europe, both West and East, from the “splendid century” of Louis XIV to the present era of European Union. Our focus will be on the changing mentalities and everyday experiences of Europeans. We will journey from the political and cultural wars of the seventeenth and eighteenth centuries to the age of industrialization and new nineteenth-century ideologies of nationalism, liberalism and socialism. We will also explore European imperialism, totalitarianism under Hitler and Stalin, and two disastrous world wars. The course will conclude by examining how Europeans have coped since 1945 with Cold War divisions, the loss of international hegemony, the collapse of communism, and the new challenges of reunification.

HIST 206 From Conquest to Independence: The History of Colonial Latin America

Osorio

This course examines broad themes in colonial Latin American history, including: the legitimacy of the Spanish Conquest and the place of the Americas in a universal Spanish Empire; contrasts between the Portuguese and Spanish Empires; Indian labor and African slavery; Indigenous societies and their transformations and interactions with Africans and Europeans under colonial rule; the creation, consolidation, and decline of colonial political institutions; the role of the Catholic Church, the Inquisition, and the Extermination of Identities in the creation of new hybrid colonial cultures and identities; the role of urban centers in the consolidation of Spanish rule.

- Prerequisite: None
- Distribution: Historical Studies
- Semester: Fall
- Unit: 1.0
This problem-centered survey of the contemporary history of Latin America we will critique the many stereotypes which have inhibited understanding between Anglo and Latin America. We will examine key themes in current history, including the dilemmas of uneven national development in dependent economies; the emergence of anti-imperialism and various forms of political and cultural nationalism; the richness and variety of revolutionary, ethnic, religious, feminist, literary, artistic, and social movements; the contradictions of class, gender and race; the imposing social problems of the sprawling Latin American megalopolis; the political heterodoxies of liberalism, populism, authoritarianism, and neoliberализm; the patterns of peace, violence, and the drug trade; the considerable U.S. influence in the region; and, finally, transnational migration and globalization.

HIST 214 Medieval Italy
Ramseyer
This course provides an overview of the diverse forms of political, social, and economic life in pre-Renaissance Italy from the disintegration of the Roman Empire in the fifth century through the rise of urban communes in the thirteenth century. Topics of discussion will include early medieval social and economic structures, political life and the Italian nobility, the volatile relationship between popes and emperors, the role of heresy and dissent, and the development and transformation of cities and commerce in both northern and southern Italy.

HIST 215 Gender and Nation in Latin America
Osorio
NOT OFFERED IN 2004-05. Since their invention in the early nineteenth century, nations and states in Latin America have been conceived of in gendered terms. This has played a key role in producing and reproducing masculine and feminine identities in society. This course examines the powerful relationship between gender and nation in modern Latin America. Topics include patriarchal discourses of state and feminized representations of nation, the national project to define the family as a male-centered nuclear institution; the idealization of motherhood as a national and Christian virtue; the role of military regimes in promoting masculine ideologies; state regulations of sexuality and prostitution; changing definitions of the feminine and masculine in relation to the emergence of "public" and "private" spheres; and struggles over the definition of citizenship and nationality.

HIST 216 Revolution in Latin America
Osorio
NOT OFFERED IN 2004-05. In Latin America, the twentieth century was indelibly marked by revolution and counter-revolution. Any analysis of the recent history of the peoples and states of Latin America must focus on the conditions, desires, and perils that have shaped the revolutionary experience. We will examine the main historical currents of armed revolution in Latin America, including instances of successful armed revolution, post-revolutionary state-making and nation-building, and the many guerrilla movements. Revolution in the Americas was not only about seizing state power, but about making "the new man" and reinventing society. We will consider the past, present, and possible future of revolution in the Americas.

HIST 221/321 A Global Empire: The Rise and Fall of Spanish World Power
Osorio
Whether the term "globalization" is defined as the global imposition of a hegemonic culture or as the dynamic of global interaction, it is nothing new – it can be traced as far back as the Spanish Empire of the sixteenth and seventeenth centuries. This course examines the two and a half centuries (late fifteenth to mid-eighteenth) in which Spain established the most extensive empire the world had ever known, ranging from Naples and the Netherlands to the Philippines; a global enterprise in which non-Spaniards played essential roles in its daily functioning. Beyond examining the vast diversity of resources, peoples, and ideas behind Spain's overwhelming powers, we will explore the role played by the rise of the British Empire and France in the decline of Spanish world power. This course may be taken as 221 or, with additional assignments, as 321.

HIST 244 The Cold War and the Remaking of Europe, 1945-1991
Meloy
In May 1945 European power stood at its lowest point for centuries. The previous Great Powers—Great Britain, France, and Germany—were quickly eclipsed by the Soviet Union and the United States. In this course we will examine the histories of western and eastern Europe in light of the ideological and political struggles of the Cold War. Topics include the struggle for democracy in West Germany, the process of decolonization, the economic "miracle" of the 1950s, the growing fear of Americanization and the efforts to integrate Europe economically and politically as a response to the overwhelming influence of the two superpowers. We will also explore the nature of communist rule and its collapse in Eastern Europe and consider the resurgence of nationalism in the 1990s.

HIST 246 Vikings, Icons, Mongols, and Tsars
Tumarkin
NOT OFFERED IN 2004-05. A multicultural journey through the turbulent waters of medieval and early modern Russia, from the Viking incursions of the ninth century and the entrance of the East Slavs into the splendid and mighty Byzantine world, to the Mongol overlordship of Russia, the rise of Moscow, and the legendary reign of Ivan the Terrible. We move eastward as the Mongol state conquers the immense reaches of Siberia by the end of the turbulent seventeenth century, when the young and restless Tsar Peter the Great travels to Western Europe to change Russia forever. We will focus on political institutions and ideology, social structure and gender roles, icons and church architecture, and official and popular religiosity, with special emphasis on the lives of Russian saints.
Prerequisite: None

Unit: 1.0

HIST 247 Splendor and Serfdom: Russia Under the Romanovs
Tumarkin
An exploration of Imperial Russia over the course of two tumultuous centuries, from the astonishing reign of Peter the Great at the start of the eighteenth century, to the implosion of the Russian monarchy under the unfortunate Nicholas II, early in the twentieth, as Russia plunged toward revolution. St. Petersburg—the stunning and ghostly birthplace of Russia's modern history and the symbol of Russia's attempt to impose order on a vast, multiethnic empire—is a focus of this course. We will also emphasize the everyday lives of peasants and nobles; the vision and ideology of autocracy; Russia's brilliant intelligentsia; and the glory of her literary canon.
Prerequisite: None
Distribution: Historical Studies

Unit: 1.0

HIST 248 The Soviet Union: A Tragic Colossus
Tumarkin
The Soviet Union, the most immense empire in the world, hurtled through the twentieth century, shaping major world events. This course will follow the grand, extravagant, and often brutal socialist experiment from its fragile inception in 1917 through the rule of Lenin, Stalin, Khroushchev, Brezhnev and Gorbachev, after which the vast Soviet empire broke apart with astonishing speed. We will contrast utopian constructivist visions of the glorious communist future with Soviet reality. Special emphasis on Soviet political culture, the trauma of the Stalin years and World War II, and the travails of everyday life.

HIST 251 Continent in Crisis: North America During the Age of Revolution
Shedlley
NOT OFFERED IN 2004-05. An examination of the forces that shattered British colonial society during the eighteenth century and gave rise to a new nation in North America. We will investigate the causes of the American Revolution from a continental perspective, paying careful attention to the experiences of Native Americans as well as colonists having European and African roots, and explore the consequences of this transformative event for all inhabitants of the new Republic.
Prerequisite: None
Distribution: Historical Studies
Semester: N/O
Unit: 1.0

HIST 252 Race, Ethnicity, and Difference in Early America
Shedlley
NOT OFFERED IN 2004-05. An examination of the multiracial, multietnic societies which took shape in North America during the colonial period. We will explore the causes of voluntary and involuntary migration from Europe and Africa, the pattern of colonial settlement, concepts of family and community, strategies of cultural adaptation and resistance, the emergence of racial and ethnic consciousness, and the development of British and American identities.
HIST 253 First Peoples: An Introduction to Native American History
Shields
A survey of the social, cultural, and political history of North America's native peoples from 1200 through the present. Case studies of particular nations will be used to explore a wide range of issues, including the politics of treaty-making, the economic and environmental consequences of the fur trade, "Removal" and reservation life, pan-Indianism, and the "Red Power" movement of the 1970s. In addition to historical scholarship, sources will include autobiography, fiction, and several cinematic depictions of Native American life.
Prerequisite: None
Distribution: Historical Studies

HIST 264 The History of Precolonial Africa
Kapteijns
NOT OFFERED IN 2004-05. Precolonial Africa encompasses ancient agrarian kingdoms (such as Egypt and Meroe), city-states on the shores of the Red Sea and Red Sea, and "nations without kings," with their own, unique social and political institutions. Students will learn about the material bases of these societies, as well as their social relations and cultural production, all the while familiarizing themselves with the rich array of written, oral, linguistic, and archeological sources available to the historian of Africa. After 1500, in the era of the European expansion, large parts of Africa were incorporated into the Atlantic tropical plantation complex through the Slave Trade. The enormous impact on Africa of this unprecedented forced migration of Africans to the Americas from c. 1500 to the 1880s will constitute the concluding theme.
Prerequisite: None
Distribution: Historical Studies
Semester: N/O
Unit: 1.0

HIST 265 History of Modern Africa
Kapteijns
Many of Africa's current characteristics are the legacy of colonial domination. We will therefore first study different kinds of colonies, from those settled by White planters to the "Cinderellas," in which colonial economic intervention was (by comparison) minimal and the struggle for independence less bloody. For the post-independence period, we will focus on the historical roots of such major themes as neo-colonialism, economic underdevelopment, ethnic conflict and genocide, HIV-AIDS, and the problems of the African state. However, Africa's enormous natural and human resources, its resilient and youthful population, and its vibrant popular culture -- a strong antidote against Afro-pessimism -- will help us reflect on the future of this vast continent.
Prerequisite: None

HIST 266 The Struggle Over North Africa, 1800 to the Present
Rollman
NOT OFFERED IN 2004-05. Themes in the social, economic, political and cultural history of North Africa (the Maghreb and Mauretania, Libya, Egypt and Sudan) from 1800 to the present: major features of precolonial society and history in three regions, the transformations brought about by French, British and Italian colonial rule, North African resistance and wars for independence, and the contradictions of the era of formal political independence, including the emergence of Islamist movements and the literary and political debate about postcolonial identities in the area. Students will draw on analyses by historians and social scientists, on novels, short stories, autobiographies, poetry by North Africans, and on music and film from and about North Africa.

HIST 270 Ancient, Medieval, and Early Modern Japan, 300-1800
Matsuoka
NOT OFFERED IN 2004-05. A study of Japan's history from the beginnings of state formation to the eve of the modern revolution. Chronological approach seeks to integrate political, economic, social, and cultural history. Topics include the rise of an indigenous mound-building culture and its transformation through the borrowing of Korean and Chinese ideas, the high court society of classic Japan, the age of samurai and warrior culture, the "Christian Century", and the early-modern world of the Tokugawa Shoguns. Regular use of visuals in class. Readings include document collections and literature, as well as secondary sources.

Unit: 1.0

HIST 273 History of South Asia, 1526-1947
TBA
This course provides a broad examination of South Asian history from sixteenth through twentieth centuries with a particular focus on colonial, regional, and global contexts. The study of South Asia's history demands both local and global approaches. Topics include: Mughal Empire and rivals; early modern economic, political, and cultural exchanges in Asia and wider world; East India Company and origins of British Empire in India; role of knowledge and science in colonial rule; social and cultural policies of the "Raj," including gender, caste and political economy; local and global contexts of nationalism; effects of the World Wars on India; and origins and ramifications of partition and independence. Close attention to problems in South Asian historiography and its role in shaping visions of South Asia's past, present, and future.

HIST 279/379 Heresy and Popular Religion in the Middle Ages
Ramseyer

This course looks at popular religious beliefs and practices in medieval Europe, including miracles, martyrdom and asceticism, saints and their shrines, pilgrimages, relics, curses, witchcraft, and images of heaven and hell. It seeks to understand popular religion both on its own terms, as well as in relationship to the Church hierarchy. It also examines the basis for religious dissent in the form of both intellectual and social heresies, which led to religious repression and the establishment of the Inquisition in the late Middle Ages. This course may be taken as 279 or, with additional assignments, as 379.

Prerequisite: 279 None; 379 By permission of the instructor

HIST 281/381 Dream of the Red Chamber: An Introduction to Chinese Society, ca 1650-1800
Giersch

We will read one of China's great novels, Dream of the Red Chamber, and use it as an entrée into the social, political and economic history of the early and high Qing periods. Cao Xueqin's engaging tale describes in rich detail the fictional Jia family, a wealthy, powerful clan whose political connections and social status closely resembled those of Cao's own family. While reading about the Jias, we will simultaneously use historical studies to deepen our understanding of family life, gender relations, religious devotion, sexuality, education, commerce, and political power during one of China's most dynamic periods. This course may be taken as either 281 or, with additional assignments, as 381.

HIST 284 The Middle East in Modern History
Kapteijns

Themes in the history of the Modern Middle East from 1914 to the present. After World War I, European powers dominated the area and carved it up into the modern nation states that we know today. We will study the political history of these states up to the present, but will focus especially on the historical roots and causes of crucial social developments and conflicts. Thus we will study the impact of the oil boom, labor migration, urbanization, the changing roles of women, and the emergence of politicized fundamentalist Islam, as well as aspects of the Palestinian-Israeli conflict, the Iranian Revolution, the Lebanese Civil War, and the Gulf War. Our emphasis will be on the Arab Middle East.

HIST 287 History of Everyday Life in the Modern Middle East and North Africa
Kapteijns

NOT OFFERED IN 2004-05.
Using sources such as legal documents, memoirs, chronicles, literature and monographs from several disciplines, the course will explore in depth the quality and rhythms of life in a variety of urban and rural settings through an investigation of specific institutions, patterns of behavior, modes of work and residence, popular entertainment and popular culture. Students will study specific cases to develop an appreciation of how people of all classes experienced and responded to critical issues in modern history, such as the growing power of the centralizing state, urbanization, economic scarcity and opportunity, changing patterns of religious practice, gender relations, identity, the challenge of western secular values, the impact of national and regional politics, and the uneven but inexorable integration of the region into the global economy.

HIST 289 Culture Wars: Imagining Identity in Modern Europe (1789-1914)
Melay

The emergence of increasingly democratic nation-states and strong industrial economies across nineteenth-century Europe was accompanied by intense public debate. These "culture wars" touched upon almost every sphere of social life, including education, the press, marriage and gender relations, consumerism, the design of urban public space and the symbols of nationalism. As Karl Marx famously put it in 1848, Europeans lived in a world of incessant change in which "all that is solid melts into air". This course examines the experience of living between the eras of the French Revolution and World War I through the eyes of Europe's most prescient observers and critics, including Rousseau, Edmund Burke, J.S. Mill, Marx, Goethe, Mary Shelley, Baudelaire, Dostoevsky, Nietzsche, Ibsen and Freud.

HIST 291 Marching Toward 1968:
The Pivotal Year
Auerbach
Within a single year the Tet offensive in Vietnam, the assassinations of Martin Luther King, Jr. and Robert F. Kennedy, and the election of Richard M. Nixon transformed American foreign and domestic policy, ending an era of liberal internationalism, domestic reform, and generational protest. Exploration of how, and why, “The Sixties” happened. Consideration of recent political and intellectual trends that reflect the continuing impact of the 1960s on American public life.

HIST 294 The Rise of the European Nation States, 1814–1918
Melay
This course examines the development of Europe’s modern international system from the end of the Napoleonic Wars through World War I. We will explore the rise of Europe’s nation-states, investigating the sources of their power, the ideological and cultural values that motivated them and the origins of the conflicts that nearly destroyed them. In addition to the treatment of diplomacy, the readings highlight some of the different approaches to international history, ranging from the impact of industrialization on relative national power to the effects of internal, domestic politics on the making of foreign policy.

HIST 301 Seminar. Women of Russia: A Portrait Gallery
Tumarkin
NOT OFFERED IN 2004-05. An exploration of the tragic, complex, inspiring fate of Russian women in the nineteenth and twentieth centuries, a period that spans the Russian Empire at its height, the Russian Revolution of 1917, and the Soviet experiment. We will read about Russian peasants, nuns, princesses, feminists, workers, revolutionaries, poets, partisans, and prostitutes, among others in our stellar cast of characters. Sources include memoirs, biographies, great works of literature, and the visual arts.

HIST 304 Seminar. Catastrophe and Collective Memory in the Twentieth Century
Melay
Since the 1980s many of the anniversary celebrations associated with the two world wars launched unprecedented public debate about the atrocities that were inextricably bound up with the phenomenon of total war in the twentieth century: the Holocaust, the bombing of Hiroshima and Nagasaki, the Nanking Massacre, and the Armenian Genocide. This seminar examines some of these debates along with the historical, ethical and methodological questions that have arisen from them. What are the ways in which cultures remember and forget the events and effects of a tragic past? How does—or should—a society give traumatic change, loss and death its due?
Prerequisite: Normally open to juniors and seniors who have taken a grade II unit in History and/or a grade II unit in a relevant area/subject matter.

HIST 316 Seminar. Authority and Authenticity in Native American History
Shedley
NOT OFFERED IN 2004-05. An in-depth exploration of diversity and difference as factors which shaped the history of North America’s native peoples from the sixteenth century through the era of “Removal.” Particular attention will be paid to gender, class, ethnicity, and belief as modes of organizing power within American Indian societies east of the Mississippi River. We will consider how these elements have influenced relations with non-Indians and determined the very nature of the sources historians use to interpret the Native American past.
Prerequisite: Normally open to juniors and seniors who have taken a grade II unit in History and/or a grade II unit in a relevant area/subject matter.

HIST 317 Seminar. The Historical Construction of American Manhood, 1600–1900
Shedley
From Nat Turner to Frederick Douglass, Thomas Jefferson to Teddy Roosevelt, the history of American men is well known. But does manhood itself have a history? Drawing on autobiography, fiction, personal correspondence and visual evidence, we will explore the diverse and changing meanings attached to masculinity in America from the seventeenth through the nineteenth centuries. What forces have shaped male identities in colonial America and the United States and what impact have those identities had on men’s lives and actions? Topics include: fatherhood and family life, violence and war, male sexuality, religious belief, work, and the myth of the self-made man. Special attention will be paid to race, class, and region as sources of variation and conflict in the historical construction of American manhood.
Prerequisite: Normally open to juniors and seniors who have taken a grade II unit in History and/or a grade II unit in a relevant area/subject matter.

HIST 326 Seminar. American Jewish History
Auerbach
NOT OFFERED IN 2004-05. The development of American Jewish life and institutions, from European immigration to the present. Particular attention to the pressures, pleasures, and perils of acculturation. Historical and literary evidence will guide explorations into the social and political implications of Jewish minority status in the United States, the impact of Israel on the consciousness of American Jews, and the tension between traditional Judaism and modern feminism.

HIST 328 Seminar. Antisemitism in Historical Perspective
Malino
NOT OFFERED IN 2004-05. Historians often refer to antisemitism as the “Longest Hatred.” What accounts for this obsession? Is the antisemitism of medieval Europe that of Nazi Germany? These questions will inform our examination of pre-Christian antisemitism, the evolving attitudes of Christianity and Islam, the ambiguous legacy of the Enlightenment and the impact of revolution, modernization and nationalism. Sources include Church documents, medieval accounts, eighteenth- and nineteenth-century memoirs and contemporary films.

HIST 330 Seminar. Medieval Europe
Ramsay
NOT OFFERED IN 2004-05. This course will examine the revolutionary changes that occurred in all facets of life in twelfth-century Europe. The twelfth century represents one of the most important eras of European history, characterized by many historians as the period that gave birth to Europe as both idea and place. It was a time of economic growth, religious reformation, political and legal reorganization, cultural flowering, intellectual innovation, and outward expansion. Yet the twelfth century had a dark side, too. Crusades and colonization, heresy and religious disputes, town uprisings and mob violence also marked the century. Students will study the internal changes to European society as well as the expansion of Europe into the Mediterranean and beyond, paying close attention to the key people behind the transformations.

HIST 333 Seminar, Dangerous Relations: USSR and the World, From Stalin to Gorbachev Tamarkin

The USSR was America's superpower rival in a prolonged and deadly nuclear arms race. Beginning with the Nazi-Soviet Pact of 1939, and ending with the spectacular demise of eastern European communism and the collapse of the USSR in 1991, this seminar on the Soviet Union in world politics spans the entire Cold War. What accounts for the USSR's extraordinary success in sovietizing eastern Europe just when the US had a monopoly on the atomic bomb? Was ideology or national interest the driving force of Soviet foreign policy? What role did the character of Soviet leaders play in determining the USSR's international affairs? The seminar will conclude by exploring the ways in which the imperatives of a global communist empire both empowered and ultimately destroyed the USSR.

HIST 342 Seminar, Women, Work, and the Family in African History Kapteyn

NOT OFFERED IN 2004-05. In Africa too women held up half the sky. After a brief exploration of women's roles in precolonial Africa, we will study the transformations of women's lives and gender issues during (and as a result of) the period of colonial domination as well as after 1960. In what kinds of sources can we hear or read about African women's realities? When can we hear African women's own voices and who mediates these voices? The changing historiography about African women and the different theoretical approaches and methodologies historians and others have brought to their study will be an important focus of this course.

HIST 343 Seminar, History of Israel Auerbach

This course explores the historical development of Jewish national identity, from biblical promise through Zionist advocacy to contemporary political reality in the State of Israel. We will consider the continuing debate within Israel, ever since its founding, over national identity: traditional or modern; Jewish or democratic; religious or secular. Close attention will be paid to such formative national experiences as the Holocaust; the struggle for independence; the social and political consequences of mass immigration; the 1967, 1973, and Lebanon wars; the Palestinian intifadas; Israel's relations with its Arab citizens and neighbors; Jewish settlements; and the "post-Zionist" revision of Israeli national history.

HIST 348 Seminar, Renaissance Humanism in Northern Europe Milhay

A study of Renaissance Humanism in the works of Erasmus of Rotterdam, Marguerite de Navarre, and Thomas More, three of the most profound if satirical writers in sixteenth-century Northern Europe. Renaissance Humanists vehemently rejected the Liberal Arts model of education as championed by Medieval Scholastics. In its place they preferred a revitalized older program, namely the study of the humanities, based they thought on how school children learned in ancient Rome. Considerations of class, gender, and religion shaped the debate, but likewise were shaped by it. HIST 364 Seminar, Women in Islamic Society: Historical Perspectives Kapteyn

In the last decade, Muslim women scholars and writers have become major contributors to the study (and history) of women in Islamic societies. They have undertaken a critique of older (including Western feminist) scholarship and proposed new theoretical approaches and methods. This seminar will focus on this new historiography and the insights it provides into the history of women and gender issues from the time of the Prophet to the present. Student research papers will focus on concrete case studies of women in specific Islamic societies and time periods, from North Africa and Western Europe to South Africa, Afghanistan and China.

NOT OFFERED IN 2004–05. Much of China’s vast and ethnically diverse territory was conquered after 1644. Nationalistic histories describe conquest in rosy terms in order to legitimize rule over Tibetans and other minorities. This course explores the social, military, economic and ideological realities – and legacies – of conquest. Readings from U.S. history provide a comparative perspective.

HIST 372 Seminar. The Idea of China: Defining the Modern Nation

Giersch

NOT OFFERED IN 2004–05. Most Chinese (and foreigners, too) perceive the Chinese nation to be an ancient and homogeneous entity, ignoring the past century’s struggles over China’s identity. Was China to be a place united by culture, race, patriotism, or other factors? Would minorities and Chinese emigrants (to North America and elsewhere) be included? How would the state educate its citizens to believe in their common community? What alternative visions have challenged state-inspired definitions of China? This course places the emergence of modern Chinese nationalism in historical perspective by exploring the conflicting ideas about “China” and “Chinese.” We begin with the late nineteenth-century efforts to overthrow the Qing court and conclude with current fears about extreme nationalism and its potential to endanger mainland-Taiwan and Sino-U.S. relations. Readings include translated fiction and essays.

HIST 377 Seminar: The City in Latin America

Osoirio

Urbanity has long been central to Latin American cultures. This seminar examines the historical development of Latin American cities from the Roman principles governing the grid pattern imposed by the Spanish in the sixteenth century, through the development of the twentieth-century, post-modern megalopolis. The seminar’s three main objectives are (1) to develop a theoretical framework within which to analyze and interpret the history, and historical study of, Latin American cities; (2) to provide a basic overview of the historical development of cities in the context of Latin American law, society, and culture; (3) to subject to critical analysis some of the theoretical “models” (i.e., Baroque, Classical, Dependency, Modernism and so on) developed to interpret the evolution and workings of Latin American cities.

History; (4) a specific historical theme, e.g., the history of women, revolutions, colonialism. To ensure that students have a broad historical perspective, history majors entering Wellesley in the fall of 2000 and after must take at least one course (1.0 unit) in pre-modern history (e.g., ancient Greece and Rome, Japan before 1800, and so forth). We recommend that majors include at least one seminar in their program of two Grade III units (2.0) in the major required for the B.A. degree.

Normally, all Grade III work and at least six of a major’s minimum of eight units (8.0) or seven of a major’s minimum of nine units (9.0) for the class entering Wellesley in 2000 or after, must be taken at Wellesley. For history majors entering Wellesley in the fall of 2000 and after, the minimum major’s requirement will be nine units (9.0). No Advanced Placement credits, and at most one related course (1.0 unit) in another department may be counted toward the major. For departmental requirements and procedures related to honors theses, please consult the departmental Web site or ask at the history office.

The history minor consists of a minimum of five courses (5.0 units), or six courses (6.0 units) for the class entering Wellesley in the fall of 2000 and after, of which at least four courses (4.0 units) must be above the 100 level and at least one course (1.0 unit) at the 300 level (excluding 350). Of these five or six courses (5.0 or 6.0 units), at least three courses (3.0 units) shall represent a coherent and integrated field of interest, such as, for example, American history, Medieval and Renaissance history, or social history. Of the other courses, at least one course (1.0 unit) shall be in a different field. Normally at least four courses (4.0 units) must be taken at Wellesley, and related courses in other departments will not count toward the minor.

Teacher Certification: Students interested in obtaining certification to teach history in the Commonwealth of Massachusetts should consult Mr. Auerbach in the history department and the chair of the education department.
International Relations

INTERDEPARTMENTAL MAJORS IN INTERNATIONAL RELATIONS-ECONOMICS, INTERNATIONAL RELATIONS-HISTORY, AND INTERNATIONAL RELATIONS-
POLITICAL SCIENCE

Director: Velenchik (Economics)
Steering Committee: Cushman (Sociology),
Kapteijns (History), Moon (Political Science,
Velenchik (Economics)

The majors in international relations (IR) are designed to provide students with the breadth necessary for an interdisciplinary approach to the study of international relations, as well as with substantive training in one of three component disciplines (economics, history, and political science). Students elect one of three tracks:
IR-economics, IR-history, or IR-political science.
These majors will be available for students entering in the fall of 2004 and later. Students who entered in 2003 or before may elect either one of these majors or the prior IR major, as defined in

Students who elect one of these IR majors may not combine it with a second major in the same department – e.g. students may not double major in IR-economics and economics. Other double majors are permissible.

IR majors consist of 14 units of course work – five core courses plus nine courses in one of the three tracks. In addition to this course work, all IR students are required to demonstrate advanced proficiency in a modern language, normally defined as two units of language study
beyond the minimum required by the College.
Language courses do not count towards the minimum 14 courses.

Five core courses: All students majoring in IR must take the following courses:
ECON 101, ECON 102, ECON 213, 214, or 220,
HIST 205, and POL2 221.

It is strongly recommended that students complete all core courses by the end of the sophomore year.

Nine courses in one of three major tracks:
Economics
Students who elect the IR-Economics major take the following courses in addition to the IR core:

a) ECON 103/SOC 190, ECON 201, ECON 202, and ECON 203.
b) At least two of the following electives:
   ECON 313 (International Macroeconomics),
   ECON 314 (International Trade Theory), or ECON 320 (Economic Development).
c) One intermediate or advanced history course dealing with a country or region outside the United States or with international or diplomatic history
   • One 300-level political science course in an area related to economic issues or policies
   • One additional course in Africana studies, anthropology, history, political science, sociology or women's studies, dealing with a particular country or region, or with relations among nations, or with transnational institutions or phenomena.

History
Students who elect the IR-history major take the following courses in addition to the IR core:

• Two history courses dealing with the period before 1800
• Three history courses dealing with the modern history of countries or regions
• Two courses dealing with modern international history to be selected in consultation with advisor
• One international history seminar (HIST 395, to be offered starting in 2005-06)

(Three of these eight history courses, including one pre-1800 course, must focus on one region of the world; at least three courses must deal with the non-Western world; and at least two must be at the 300 level)

• One additional 200- or 300-level course in Africana studies, anthropology, economics, political science, sociology or women's studies

Political Science
Students who elect the IR-political science major take the following courses in addition to the IR core:

• Five political science courses in international relations (i.e. POL3 courses or POL2 courses that may count as POL3), at least two of which must be at the 300 level and one of which must be a seminar
• Two political science courses in comparative politics:
  • Either POL2 202 or POL2 204
  • One of the following area studies courses:
    POL2 205, 206, 207, 208, 209, or 211
  • One political science course in American politics or in political theory or statistics and data analysis
  • One additional 200- or 300-level course in Africana studies, anthropology, economics,
    history, sociology, or women's studies

With the approval of the IR director and the chair of the department in which she is concentrating, a student may count up to two Wellesley courses taken outside the departments of economics, history, or political science towards the nine courses in her major track. Attention is particularly drawn to IR-related courses offered in the departments of Africana studies, anthropolyogy, sociology, and women’s studies.

IR majors are strongly encouraged to spend at least one semester in a study abroad program.
Transfer credits from study abroad programs must be approved by the appropriate department chair. (If the transfer credits come from an international relations department, however, they may be approved by the IR director.) At least two 300-level units must be completed at Wellesley.

ITAL 211 Introduction to Italian Cultural Studies
Laviosa

Topic for 2004-05: Women in Italy. This course explores the works of women writers, philosophers, sociologists, educators, political activists, legislators, film directors and singers from the 1920s up to today. Feminist issues are discussed through selected literary texts, historical readings, essays on Italian legislation, film/documentary, lullabies, feminist rock and pop songs. Women's art and roles, rights and work, health and reproduction, prostitution and crime, fashion and beauty myths, careerism and (female) madness, and migration are presented through various media in a broad socio-political-historical context as well as in a cross-disciplinary cultural studies approach.
Prerequisite: 201 in a prerequisite and 202 as a corequisite or permission of instructor.
Distribution: Language and Literature
Semester: Spring

ITAL 212 Italian Women Directors: The Female Authorial Voice in Italian Cinema (in English)
Laviosa

NOT OFFERED in 2004-05. This course examines the films of five major Italian women directors across three artistic generations: Elvira Notari in the silent film era; Liliana Cavani and Lina Wertmüller from the 1960s to the 1990s; Francesca Archibugi and Roberta Torre in the 1990s. Neither fascist cinema nor neorealism fostered female talents, so it was only with the emergence of feminism and the women's movement of the 1960s and 1970s that a space for female voices in Italian cinema was created. The course will explore how women directors gave form to their directorial signatures in film, focusing on their films' formal features and narrative themes in the light of their socio-historical context.
Prerequisite: None
Distribution: Arts, Music, Theatre, Film, Video
Semester: Fall

ITAL 261 Italian Cinema (in English)
Viano

The first half of this course aims to survey Italian cinema through an examination of films (e.g., Bicycle Thief) and directors (e.g., Fellini) unanimously regarded as landmarks of the history of motion pictures. The second half will focus on the evolution and socio-cultural ramifications of a specific genre. We will study La Commedia all'Italiana (Comedy Italian style), one of the genres that made Italian cinema marketable abroad. In addition to regular class meetings, students are required to attend a three-hour weekly film showing.
Prerequisite: Permission of instructor required.
Distribution: Arts, Music, Theatre, Film, Video
Semester: Spring

ITAL 262 Religion and Spirituality in Italian Cinema (in English)
Viano

NOT OFFERED in 2004-05. Religious imagery, spiritual concerns, and depictions of the church and common elements in many Italian films. Making use of the most well-known and thought-provoking among them, the course will chart the presence of religion and spirituality in Italian culture, as well as explore the sacred as a cinematic genre. We will watch films by directors such as Rossellini, Fellini, Bertolucci, and Cavani. The several films depicting the figure of St. Francis, spanning the period 1917-89, will give us the opportunity to examine different periods of film history. In addition to regular class meetings, students are required to attend a three-hour weekly film showing.
Prerequisite: Permission of instructor required.
Distribution: Arts, Music, Theater, Film, Video or Language and Literature
Semester: N/O

ITAL 263 Dante in English (in English)
Jacoff

The course offers students an introduction to Dante and his culture. The centrality and encyclopedic nature of Dante’s Divine Comedy make it a paradigmatic work for students of the Middle Ages. Since Dante has profoundly influenced several writers of the nineteenth and twentieth centuries, knowledge of the Comedy illuminates modern literature as well. This course concerns not special background and attempts to create a context in which Dante’s poetry can be carefully explored.
Prerequisite: None
Distribution: Language and Literature
Semester: Fall

ITAL 271 The Construction of Italy as a Nation
Ward

The course aims, first, to give students who wish to continue their study of Italian the chance to practice and refine their skills; and, second, to introduce students to one of the major themes of Italian culture: namely, the role played by Italian intellectuals in the construction of Italy as a nation. We will read how Dante, Petrarch, and Machiavelli imagined Italy as a nation before it came into existence in 1860; how the nation came to be unified; and how the experience of unification has come to represent a controversial point of reference for twentieth-century Italy. Other figures to be studied will include Bembo, Castiglione, Foscolo, Gramsci, Tomasi di Lampedusa, D’Annunzio, Visconti, Levi, Blasetti, and Rossellini.
Prerequisite: 202, 203, 211 or permission of instructor.
Distribution: Language and Literature
Semester: Fall

ITAL 272 Small Books, Big Ideas. A Journey through Italian Identities
Parussa

NOT OFFERED in 2004-05. Unlike other European literatures, contemporary Italian literature lacks a major work of fiction representing the nation's cultural identity. Rather, Italian literature boasts the small book, brief unclassifiable narratives that express the variety and complexity of Italian culture. Realistic novels or philosophically short stories, memoirs or literary essays, these works are a fine balance between a number of literary genres and, as such, are a good entrainment into the multifaceted and contradictory identity of Italy as a nation. The course will combine a survey of contemporary Italian literature with a theoretical analysis of how Italian identity has been represented in works by Moravia, Calvino, Ortese, and others.
Prerequisite: Permission of instructor.
Distribution: Language and Literature
Semester: N/O
ITAS 309 Italian-Jewish Identity

Paraussa

NOT OFFERED IN 2004-05. In the light of events like the high-profile trial of a Nazi war criminal and the Pope's encyclical letter on the responsibilities of Christians in the Holocaust, this course aims to discuss the question of Jewish identity in contemporary Italian culture. Students will read prose and poetry, essays and articles, as well as watch films that address issues such as religious and national identity in a culturally, racially, and linguistically homogeneous country like Italy. The course will also give students an overview of the formation and transformation of the Jewish community in Italy. In addition to well-known Jewish Italian writers like Primo Levi and Giorgio Bassani, students will read pertinent works by non-Jewish writers like Rosetta Loy.

Prerequisite: Permission of the instructor.
Distribution: Language and Literature
Semester: N/O  Unit: 1.0

ITAS 310 Fascism and Resistance in Italy

Ward

NOT OFFERED IN 2004-05. OFFERED IN 2005-06. This course examines the two fundamental political and cultural experiences of twentieth-century Italy: the twenty-year fascist regime and the resistance to it. We will study the origins of fascism in Italy's participation in World War I and its colonial ambitions; we will follow the development of fascism over the two decades of its existence and ask to what extent it received the consensus of the Italian people. We will go on to examine the various ways in which Italians resisted fascism and the role the ideals that animated antifascist thinking had in the postwar period. Authors to be studied include: Marinetti, D'Annunzio, Pascoli, Croce, Gabetti, Rosselli, Bassani, Ginzburg, Levi, and Silone.

Prerequisite: 211 or 271 or 272 or permission of instructor.
Distribution: Language and Literature
Semester: N/O  Unit: 1.0

ITAS 311 Theatre, Politics, and the Arts in Renaissance Italy

Paraussa

NOT OFFERED IN 2004-05. The flourishing Italian theatre in the fifteenth and sixteenth centuries is an extraordinary and unmatched phenomenon in the history of Italian culture. In Italian courts and city squares, theatres became the center of a dynamic relationship between power and culture. Under the aegis of princes and popes, artists of all kinds worked for the stage to celebrate and criticize the same power that both fostered and limited their intellectual freedom. The stage became a mirror of which Renaissance Italy, while attempting to admire its beauty, came face to face with its distorted image. The course will include readings of major plays by Bibiena, Machiavelli, and Ariosto. Attention will also be given to the paintings, drawings, and sketches used in the staging of these plays.

Prerequisite: Permission of instructor.
Distribution: Language and Literature
Semester: N/O  Unit: 1.0

ITAS 312 Seminar. Rinascimento e Rinascimento: Cultural Identities in Fifteenth- and Sixteenth-Century Italy

Paraussa

NOT OFFERED IN 2004-05. OFFERED IN 2005-06. The Renaissance witnessed deep cultural transformations that have influenced contemporary ways of thinking. Cultural notions of class, gender, and religion find their roots in the cultural debate that animated Italian courts during the fifteenth and sixteenth centuries. Exploring how these notions have been both shaped and challenged, the course will suggest that it is more appropriate to think of the Renaissance as a plural rather than a single entity. In particular, attention will be given to themes such as the donna angelica and the poet, the cortegian and the peasant, the principe and the artist. The course will give students a solid introduction to the literature of the period and provide them with a theoretical framework for a thorough discussion of the material at hand.

Prerequisite: Permission of instructor.
Distribution: Language and Literature
Semester: N/O  Unit: 1.0

ITAS 314 The Other Half: History and Culture of the Italian South

Ward

This course aims to introduce advanced level students to the rich and varied cultural and historical landscape of the Italian South, the mezzogiorno. Taking as its starting point the medieval court of Frederick II and the deep-seated repercussions its influence had on Italian cultural life, the course goes on to examine the works of southern thinkers and writers like Giordano Bruno, Tommaso Campanella, and Giambattista Vico, as well as the Neapolitan Enlightenment and the Southern question. In addition, we will examine twenty-first-century writers like Carlo Levi, Giuseppe Tomasi di Lampedusa, Giuseppe Verga, Leonardo Sciascia and Vincenzo Consolo, who were either born in southern Italy or have written about it.

Prerequisite: 211 or 271 or 272 or permission of instructor.
Distribution: Language and Literature
Semester: Fall  Unit: 1.0

ITAS 349 Seminar. The Function of Narrative

Ward

Beginning with Boccaccio and going on to Manzoni and Verga, the course introduces students to the major figures of the Italian narrative tradition. We then go on to study twentieth-century narrative texts, all the time seeking answers to the question of why narrative is such a fundamental human need. Why, for example, do we narrate our experience of life and the sense we have of ourselves, even in the form of diaries? Do the stories we tell faithfully reflect reality or do they create it? The course concludes with a reflection on narrative technique in cinema illustrated by the films of Michelangelo Antonioni. Other authors to be studied may include: Fra Gonagza, Calvino, Ceresa, Rasy, Pasolini, Celati, and Benni.

Prerequisite: 211 or 271 or 272 or permission of instructor.
Distribution: Language and Literature

Directions for Election

The department of Italian Studies offers both a major and a minor.

The major in Italian studies offers students the opportunity to acquire fluency in the language and knowledge of the culture of Italy in a historical perspective. Students are strongly urged to begin Italian in their first year. ITAL 101-102 count toward the degree, but not the major. Students majoring in Italian are required to take nine units above the 100 level. One of such courses must be either 211, 271 or 272. In addition, one course must be taken outside the department, on a related topic to be decided by the student and her major advisor. Furthermore, two of the nine courses must be at the 300 level and be taken in the department. The requirement to take two courses at the 300 level may not be met by taking 350 (Research or Individual Study), 360 (Senior Thesis Research) or 370 (Senior Thesis). Students are encouraged to consult with the chair about the sequence of courses they will take. Courses given in translation count toward the major. Qualified students are encouraged to spend their junior year abroad in Italy or one approved program. The Italian studies minor requires five units above the 100 level. Courses offered in translation count towards the minor.
Jewish Studies

AN INTERDEPARTMENTAL MAJOR AND MINOR

Director: Malino (History)
Visiting Assistant Professor: Ronell

The major in Jewish studies is designed to acquaint students with the many facets of Jewish civilization through an interdisciplinary study of Jewish religion, history, philosophy, art, literature, social and political institutions, and cultural patterns.

For the eight-unit major in Jewish studies, students must take courses pertaining both to the ancient and modern worlds and show proficiency in Hebrew (equivalent to at least two semesters at the second-year level). In certain cases, where students whose area of concentration necessitates another language (such as Arabic, French, Spanish, Yiddish, or Ladino), that language may be substituted for Hebrew in consultation with the student’s major advisor. In addition, students are expected to concentrate in some area or aspect of Jewish studies (such as religion, history, or Hebrew language and literature) by taking four courses above the 100 level, including at least two at the 300 level.

 Majors devise their own programs in consultation with the director of the Jewish studies program and an appropriate faculty member from the student’s area of concentration. Courses with an asterisk (*) also require the permission of the instructor if the course is to be counted for Jewish studies.

In addition to Wellesley courses, students are encouraged to take courses at Brandeis University in the Department of Near Eastern and Judaic Studies which may be applicable to the Jewish studies major. These courses must be approved, in advance, by the corresponding department at Wellesley. See the director of Jewish studies for further details.

A minor in Jewish studies consists of five units from the following courses (of which at least one must be at the 300 level and no more than one at the 100 level): ANTH 242, 247; CLCV 240; HIST 217, 218, 219, 326, 327, 328, 343, 367; ITAS 309; REL 104, 105, 140, 202, 207, 240, 241, 242, 243, 244, 245, 247, 260, 302, 303, 305, 342; SPAN 252, 267, and 279. Units must be taken in at least two departments; in consultation with the director of the program in Jewish studies, a student can also arrange to take courses for inclusion in the Jewish studies minor in Brandeis University’s Department of Near Eastern and Judaic Studies. The following courses are available in Jewish studies:

HEBR 101-102 Elementary Hebrew
Ronell
Introduction to Hebrew with emphasis on its contemporary spoken and written form. Practice in the skills of listening and speaking as well as reading and writing, together with systematic study of Hebrew grammar. Students will master a basic vocabulary of approximately 1,000 words, and become comfortable in the use of the present, past and future tenses, as well as basic verb patterns. Each semester earns one unit of credit; however, both semesters must be completed satisfactorily to receive credit for either course.
Prerequisite: None
Distribution: None
Semester: Fall, Spring
Unit: 1.0

HEBR 201-202 Intermediate Hebrew
Ronell
Building on the foundations of 101-102, the third semester will continue to develop skills in modern Hebrew. Students will broaden their knowledge of verb patterns, compound sentence structures and mixed tenses. Special emphasis will be placed on composition and oral reports. The fourth semester will focus on literature through reading and discussion of selected short pieces of prose and poetry. Some examples of classical, rabbinic, and liturgical Hebrew will also be analyzed. Students will be required to write short compositions inspired by their readings. Each semester earns one unit of credit; however, both semesters must be completed satisfactorily to receive credit for either course.

Latin American Studies

AN INTERDEPARTMENTAL MAJOR

Director: Renjilian-Burgy (Spanish), Wasserspring (Political Science)

Core Faculty: Agosin (Spanish), Elkins (Religion), Halleck (Spanish), Levitt (Sociology), McCluskey (Economics), Oles (Art), Ostor (History), Roses (Spanish), Rubio (Spanish), Vega (Spanish), Wasserspring (Political Science)

The Latin American Studies major seeks to understand the Latin American experience through an interdisciplinary program of study. Students must submit a plan of study following the requirements listed below for approval by the directors. The Latin American studies major requires Spanish proficiency at the level of 241 or above. A minimum of nine units (excluding Spanish 241 and 242), with a concentration of four courses in one of the following departments: art history, history, political science, sociology, or Spanish constitute the major. Of these nine units constituting a minimum for the major, at least two must be taken at the 300 level. It is recommended that one of these two be a seminar. Courses with an asterisk (*) require notifying the instructor that the course is to be counted for Latin American studies. The asterisk also signifies that a research paper in the course will focus on Latin America.

The student must exhibit a degree of proficiency in the oral and written use of Spanish by successful completion of two Spanish language courses beyond the College's foreign language requirement (above the intermediate level). In some cases an oral and written proficiency exam may be substituted. In the case where the student's area of interest is better served by proficiency in another language (e.g. Portuguese), that language may be substituted in consultation with the directors.

Qualified juniors are encouraged to spend a semester or a year in Latin America. To be eligible for study in Latin America a student should normally be enrolled in SPAN 241 or higher level language or literature course the previous semester.

MAJORS may also apply to the Five-Year Cooperative M.A. Program at Georgetown University in Latin American studies. This program enables the student to apply upper-level Latin American studies courses taken at Wellesley toward the major's degree at Georgetown. A summer of study at the Universidad Católica in Santiago, Chile, taken during an undergraduate summer, and a year of academic work at Georgetown are required to earn the major's degree at Georgetown in one year. Interested students should contact the directors of Latin American studies or the Center for Work and Service.

MATH 101 Reasoning with Data: Elementary Applied Statistics

Staff

An introduction to the fundamental ideas and methods of statistics for analyzing data. Topics include descriptive statistics, basic probability, inference and hypothesis testing. Emphasis on understanding the use and misuse of statistics in a variety of fields, including medicine and both the physical and social sciences. This course is intended to be accessible to those students who have not yet had calculus.

Prerequisite: Fulfillment of the basic skills component of the Quantitative Reasoning requirement. Not open to students who have completed 116, 116Z, 120, or 205, except by permission of the instructor; such students should consider taking 220 instead. Not open to students who have taken or are taking MATH 101Z, QR 180, ECON 103/SOC 190 [QR 190] or PSYC 205. Distribution: Mathematical Modeling, Fulfills the Quantitative Reasoning overlay course requirement. Semester: Fall, Spring

MATH 101Z Reasoning with Data: Elementary Applied Statistics with Health Applications

This course, students use probability and statistics to examine the risks that we encounter every day. The focus is on personal medical decision-making and the impact of our environment on our health. Students will address questions such as: How concerned should we be about pesticide use? How can we make informed decisions about women’s health issues, including contraception and sexually transmitted diseases? How much of an impact does diet have on health? Why did different studies of hormone replacement therapy come to contradictory conclusions, and how can we read reports on such studies intelligently and skeptically? Topics include descriptive statistics, basic probability, inference and hypothesis testing.

Prerequisite: Fulfillment of the basic skills component of the Quantitative Reasoning requirement. Not open to students who have completed MATH 101, QR 180, ECON 103/SOC 190 [QR 190], or PSYC 205. Not open to students who have completed MATH 116, 116Z, 120, or 205, except by permission of the instructor; such students should consider taking 220 instead. Distribution: Mathematical Modeling, Fulfills Quantitative Reasoning overlay course requirement. Semester: Spring

MATH 102 Applications of Mathematics without Calculus

This course explores several areas of mathematics which have application in the physical and social sciences, yet which require only high-school mathematics as a prerequisite. The areas covered will be chosen from systems of linear equations, linear programming, probability, game theory, and stochastic processes. Students will solve problems on topics ranging from medical testing to economics with the results demonstrating the value of mathematical reasoning. May not be counted toward the major.

Distribution: Mathematical Modeling
Semester: Fall, Spring
Unit: 1.0

MATH 116Z Calculus II via Applications

NOT OFFERED IN 2004-05. Topics are similar to those in 116, except that differential equations are discussed at greater length, and discussion of infinite series focuses on Taylor series. This course will stress the relationship of calculus to real-world problems. To facilitate this, and to enhance conceptual understanding, topics will be presented graphically and numerically as well as algebraically.

Prerequisite: 115 or the equivalent
Distribution: Mathematical Modeling
Semester: N/O
Unit: 1.0

MATH 120 Calculus II A
Staff
A variant of 116 for students who have a thorough knowledge of the techniques of differentiation and integration, and familiarity with inverse trigonometric functions and the logarithmic and exponential functions. Includes a rigorous and careful treatment of limits, sequences and series, Taylor's theorem, approximations and numerical methods, Riemann sums, improper integrals, L'Hopital's rule, and applications of integration.

Prerequisite: Open by permission of the department to students who have completed a year of high school calculus. Students who have studied Taylor series should elect 205. Not open to students who have completed 115, 116, 116Z, or the equivalent.
Distribution: Mathematical Modeling

MATH 208/310 Functions of a Complex Variable
Sontag
Complex numbers and the complex plane. Definitions and mapping properties of elementary complex functions. Analyticity and the Cauchy-Riemann equations. Complex-integration theory including the Cauchy-Goursat Theorem; Taylor and Laurent series; Maximum Modulus Principle; residue theory and singularities. Additional topics such as conformal mapping and Riemann surfaces as time permits.

Assignments will be tailored to the level (200 or 300) for which the student is registered. Offered in alternate years. Majors can fulfill the major presentation requirement in this course in 2004-05.
Prerequisite: 205 is a prerequisite for 208; 302 is a prerequisite or corequisite for 310
Distribution: Mathematical Modeling
Semester: Fall
Unit: 1.0

MATH 210 Differential Equations
Shulitz
Introduction to theory and solution of ordinary differential equations, with applications to such areas as physics, ecology, and economics. Includes linear and nonlinear differential equations and equation systems, existence and uniqueness theorems, and such solution methods as power series, Laplace transform, and graphical and numerical methods.

Prerequisite: 205
Distribution: Mathematical Modeling
Semester: Spring
Unit: 1.0

MATH 212 Differential Geometry
NOT OFFERED IN 2004-05. An introduction to the differential geometry of curves and surfaces. Topics include curvature of curves and surfaces, first and second fundamental forms, equations of Gauss and Codazzi, the fundamental theorem of surfaces, geodesics, and surfaces of constant curvature. Normally offered in alternate years.

Prerequisite: 205 or permission of instructor
Distribution: Mathematical Modeling
Semester: N/O
Unit: 1.0

MATH 214 Euclidean and Non-Euclidean Geometry

NOT OFFERED IN 2004-05. A rigorous treatment of the fundamentals of two-dimensional geometry: Euclidean, spherical, elliptic and hyperbolic. The course will present the basic classical results of plane geometry; congruence theorems, concurrency theorems, classification of isometries, etc. and their analogues in the non-Euclidean settings. The course will provide a link between classical geometry and modern geometry, preparing for study in group theory, differential geometry, topology, and mathematical physics. The approach will be analytical, providing practice in proof techniques. Normally offered in alternate years.

Prerequisite: 205 or permission of instructor
Distribution: Mathematical Modeling
Semester: N/O
Unit: 1.0

MATH 215/PHYS 215 Mathematics for the Sciences I
Shulitz, Stark (Physics)
Complex numbers, linear algebra (matrices, rank, inverses, eigenvectors and eigenvalues, diagonalization), ordinary differential equations (first order, second order linear), Fourier analysis, introduction to partial differential equations. Familiarity with vectors (dot products, cross products, lines, planes) is assumed. Emphasis on applications to the sciences. Students may register for either MATH 215 or PHYS 215. Credit will be given in the department in which the student is registered.

Prerequisite: Math 116, 116Z, or 120 or the equivalent
Distribution: Mathematical Modeling
Semester: Fall
Unit: 1.0

MATH 216/PHYS 216 Mathematics for the Sciences II
Bu
Differential and integral vector calculus (spherical and cylindrical coordinates, flux, divergence and curl, Gauss' and Stokes' theorems), partial differential equations, special functions, numerical methods for solving algebraic and differential equations, introduction to MATLAB, computer simulation and modeling with applications to the sciences. Students may register for either MATH 216 or PHYS 216. Credit will be given in the department in which the student is registered.

Prerequisite: MATH 215/PHYS 215
Distribution: Mathematical Modeling
Semester: Spring
Unit: 1.0

MATH 220 Probability and Elementary Statistics
Bernstein, Magid
Topics selected from the theory of sets, discrete probability for both single and multivariate random variables, probability density for a single continuous random variable, expectations, mean, standard deviation, and sampling from a normal population.

Prerequisite: 116, 116Z, 120, or the equivalent. Open to first-year students by permission of the instructor
Distribution: Mathematical Modeling. Fulfills the Quantitative Reasoning overlay course requirement
Semester: Spring
Unit: 1.0

117 Mathematics
MATH 223 Number Theory

Trek
Topics include: prime numbers and divisibility, congruences, Fermat's Little Theorem, Euler's phi-function, cryptography, and additional topics as time permits. Students will be expected to experiment and formulate conjectures. There will also be an emphasis on learning to write clear and coherent mathematical proofs. Majors can fulfill the major presentation requirement in this course in 2004-05.
Prequisite: 116, 116Z, 120, or the equivalent; or CS 230 together with permission of instructor.
Distribution: Mathematical Modeling
Semester: Spring
Unit: 1.0

MATH 225 Combinatorics and Graph Theory

Bernstein, Shults
Combinatorics is the art of counting possibilities: for instance, how many different ways are there to distribute 20 apples to 10 kids? Graph theory is the study of connected networks of objects. Both have important applications to many areas of mathematics and computer science. The course will be taught emphasizing creative problem-solving, as well as methods of proof, such as proof by contradiction and induction. Topics include: selections and arrangements, generating functions, recurrence relations; graph coloring, Hamiltonian and Eulerian circuits, trees.
Prerequisite: 116, 116Z, 120, or the equivalent; or CS 230 together with permission of instructor.
Distribution: Mathematical Modeling
Semester: Fall, Spring
Unit: 1.0

MATH 249 Selected Topics

NOT OFFERED IN 2004-05.
Prerequisite: 116, 116Z, or the equivalent.
Distribution: Mathematical Modeling
Semester: N/O
Unit: 1.0

MATH 251 Topics in Applied Mathematics

Magid
Topic for 2004-05: Mathematical Game Theory.
Game theory is a branch of mathematical analysis developed to study rational decision-making in conflict situations. Topics include: strategic games and decisions; two person simultaneous games, n-person simultaneous games, sequential decisions and sequential games. This course will include theory as well as applications of game theory to economics, biology, and business. Majors can fulfill the major presentation requirement in this course in 2004-05.
Prequisite: 205
Distribution: Mathematical Modeling
Semester: Fall
Unit: 1.0

MATH 302 Elements of Analysis I

Kerr
Metric spaces; compact, complete, and connected spaces; continuous functions; differentiation, integration, and interchange of limit operations as time permits.
Prerequisite: 205, and at least one of 206, 208, 212, 214, 223, 225
Distribution: Mathematical Modeling
Semester: Spring
Unit: 1.0

MATH 303 Elements of Analysis II

Prequisite: 302
Distribution: Mathematical Modeling
Semester: Fall
Unit: 1.0

MATH 305 Modern Abstract Algebra I

Bernstein
Introduction to groups, rings, and fields. Equivalence relations, subgroups, normal subgroups, ideals, homomorphisms, and isomorphisms.
Prequisite: 206
Distribution: Mathematical Modeling
Semester: Fall
Unit: 1.0

MATH 306 Modern Abstract Algebra II

Staff
Topics chosen from field theory and Galois theory. Using groups to study automorphisms of fields generated by the roots of a polynomial, with applications to solvability. Majors can fulfill the major presentation requirement in this course 2004-05.
Prequisite: 305
Distribution: Mathematical Modeling
Semester: Spring
Unit: 1.0

MATH 307 Topology

Kerr
The topological properties of an object are those which are unchanged by bending, twisting, stretching, or shrinking. A mathematical knot is a circle embedded in a three-dimensional space. Classical knot theory is the branch of topology that deals with knots and links in three-dimensional space. The central problem is determining whether two knots can be deformed to be exactly alike, via bending, twisting, stretching, or shrinking. This course provides an introduction to the theory of knots. Methods of knot tabulation, surfaces applied to knots, and knot polynomials will be covered, as well as applications to natural and physical sciences. Open problems in the field will also be discussed. Offered in alternate years. Majors can fulfill the major presentation requirement in this course in 2004-05.
Prequisite: 302
Distribution: Mathematical Modeling
Semester: Fall
Unit: 1.0

MATH 309 Foundations of Mathematics

NOT OFFERED IN 2004-05. An introduction to the logical foundations of modern mathematics, including set theory, cardinal and ordinal arithmetic, and the axiom of choice. Offered in alternate years.
Prequisite: 302; or 305; or at least two from 206, 214, 223, 225
Distribution: Mathematical Modeling
Semester: N/O
Unit: 1.0

MATH 310/208 Functions of a Complex Variable

Santag
Complex numbers and the complex plane. Definitions and mapping properties of elementary complex functions. Analyticity and the Cauchy-Riemann equations. Complex integration theory including the Cauchy-Goursat Theorem; Taylor and Laurent series; Maximum Modulus Principle; residue theory and singularities. Additional topics such as conformal mapping and Riemann surfaces as time permits. Assignments will be tailored to the level (200 or 300) for which the student is registered. Offered in alternate years. Majors can fulfill the major presentation requirement in this course 2004-05.
Prequisite: 205 is a prerequisite for 208, 302 is a prerequisite or corequisite for 310
Distribution: Mathematical Modeling
Semester: Fall
Unit: 1.0

MATH 349 Selected Topics

Directions for Election

The mathematics department Web page (http://www.wellesley.edu/Math/mathhome.html) has more detailed course descriptions and information for majors and minors.

Placement in Courses and Exemption Examinations

The mathematics department reviews elections of calculus students and places them in MATH 115, 116, 116Z, 120, or 205 according to their previous courses and summer placement results. See the descriptions for these courses. If there is a question about placement, the student should attend the course in which she is placed and contact the sectioning coordinator (contact information in Science Center 361) to discuss her placement. No special examination is necessary for placement in an advanced course.

Students may receive course credit towards graduation through the CEEB Advanced Placement tests in mathematics. Students with scores of 4 or 5 on the AB Examination or 3 on the BC Examination receive one unit of credit (equivalent to 115) and are eligible for 116, 116Z, or 120. Those entering with scores of 4 or 5 on the BC Examination receive two units (equivalent to 115 and 116 or 115 and 120) and are eligible for 205. Students with a 4 or 5 on the AP examination in statistics receive one unit of credit (equivalent to 101). Advanced Placement credits may not count toward the major.

Students majoring in mathematics must complete 115 and one of 116/116Z/120 (or the equivalent) and at least seven units of 200-level and 300-level courses, including 205, 206, 302, 305, and one other 300-level course. MATH 215/PHYS 215 can be counted towards the Media Arts and Sciences

AN INTERDEPARTMENTAL MAJOR

Co-Directors: Irish, Metzaris

The Departments of Art and Computer Science offer an interdepartmental major in media arts and sciences that explores the artistic, cultural and scientific applications within the context of new media technologies. The program focuses on media production that balances artistic sensibility with analytical reasoning within the rich tradition of the liberal arts environment. Areas of study include digital imaging and design; Web-connected database architectures; three-dimensional visualization and modeling; digital composition in audio/video; analog print and photographic processes; computer graphics and animation; human-computer interaction; programming for networked environments.

A major in media arts and sciences requires 12 units of course work, at least eight of which must be above the 100-level and two of which must be at the 300-level other than 350, 360, or 370. Flexibility has been built into the major to allow students the ability to adapt their course of study in relation to their interests, by choosing an emphasis either in media sciences or in media arts.

The major consists of:

1. Three required introductory courses, one each from studio art, art history and computer science: ARTH 101 (Introduction to the History of Art Part II: Renaissance to the Present), ARTS 109 (Basic Two-Dimensional Design) or ARTS 108 (Photography I), and CS 110 (Computers, Science, and the Internet).

2. At least two required art courses (at least five required for emphasis in media arts) from the following: ARTS 165 (Introduction to Video Production), ARTS 219 (Introductory Print Methods: Lithography/Monotype) or ARTS 220 (Introductory Print Methods: Lithography/Monotype), ARTS 221 (Digital Imaging), ARTS 255 (Dynamic Interface Design), ARTS 260 (Moving Image Studio), ARTS 264 (Virtual Form), ARTS 265 (Intermediate Video Production) or ARTS 208 (Photography II), ARTS 317 (Seminar: Topics in the Visual Arts), ARTS 320 (Architectonics and Installation).

3. At least two required computer science courses (at least five required for concentration in media sciences) from the following: CS 111 (Multimedia Design and Programming), CS 230 (Data Structures), CS 231 (Fundamental Algorithms), CS 242 (Computer Networks), CS 304 (Databases with Web Interfaces), CS 307 (Computer Graphics).

4. At least one media culture course is recommended from the following: ARTH 225 (Modern Art Since 1945), ARTH 226 (History of Photography: From Invention to Advertising Age), ARTH 291 (Persuasive Images), CAMS 175 (Introduction to Media Studies), EXP 240 (Papyrus to Print to Pixel), SOC 216 (Sociology of Mass Media and Communication).

Majors are also encouraged to take an advanced media production course (e.g. an individual study).

Medieval/Renaissance Studies

AN INTERDEPARTMENTAL MAJOR

Directors: Armstrong (Art) Fall; Vega (Spanish) Spring; Mikulakhi (English) Fall and Spring

The major in medieval/renaissance studies enables students to explore the richness and variety of European and Mediterranean civilization from the Greco-Roman times through the Renaissance and Reformation, as reflected in art, history, literature, music, and religion. It has a strong interdisciplinary emphasis: we encourage students to make connections between the approaches and subject matters in the different fields that make up the major. At the same time, the requirements for the major encourage special competence in at least one field.

For a medieval/renaissance studies major, students must take at least eight (8) units of courses from the list that follows. Of these, at least four must be above the 100-level in an area of concentration—a single department, a geographical location, a topic or theme. Two units of course work must be at the 300-level. Each year at least two 200-level courses and one seminar are offered which are especially designed to accommodate the needs and interests of majors. The majors’ seminars for 2004-05 are (1) ARTH 331 Seminar. Virtue, Vice and Violence: Erotic Themes in Early Modern European Art and (2) ENG 315 Advanced Chaucer: The Dream Visions and Other Poems. (For details, see the department entries for art history and English.)

Majors who are contemplating postgraduate academic or professional careers in this or related fields should consult faculty advisors to plan a sequence of courses that will provide them with a sound background in the language and critical techniques essential to further work in their chosen fields. We make every effort to accommodate individual interests and needs through independent study projects (350s and senior theses) carried out under the supervision of one or more faculty members and designed to supplement, or substitute for, advanced seminar-level work.

There are numerous opportunities for study abroad for those who wish to broaden their experience and supplement their research skills through direct contact with European and Mediterranean culture. Up to three courses in accredited programs abroad may be counted toward the major. By participating in the Collegium Musicum, students can learn to perform Medieval and Renaissance music; see the departmental entry for music.

ME/R 246 Monsters, Villains, and Wives

NOT OFFERED IN 2004-05. This course will select its monsters, villains, and wives from early English, French, and Anglo-Norman literature, ranging from the giant Grédel (and his mother) in Beowulf to the arch-villain Ganelon in The Song of Roland, from Guinevere to the wife of the enigmatic Green Man in Sir Gawain and the Green Knight. We will finish by considering the survival of the magical villain in a modern-day fantasy classic like the medievalist J.R.R. Tolkien's Hobbit, or a volume in his Lord of the Rings trilogy, and in John Gardner's recasting of the Beowulf-story, Grendel. Prerequisite: Open to sophomores, juniors, and seniors; also first-year students by permission of instructor. Distribution: Language and Literature Semester: N/O Unit: 1.0

ME/R 247 Arthurian Legends

Lynch (English)

A survey of legends connected with King Arthur from the sixth century through the fifteenth, with some attention to the new interpretations in the nineteenth and twentieth centuries. Prerequisite: None. Distribution: Language and Literature Semester: Spring Unit: 1.0

ME/R 248 Medieval Women Writers

Jacoff (Italian)

This course explores a variety of texts by medieval women writers and the contexts in which and against which they were written. These texts raise questions about the role of the female body and about strategies of self-authorization which remain important today. The writers we will consider in depth are Marie de France, Heloise (and Abelard), selected medieval mystics, Margery Kempe, Julian of Norwich, and Christine de Pizan. Prerequisite: None Distribution: Language and Literature Semester: Fall Unit: 1.0

ME/R 249 Imagining the Afterlife

NOT OFFERED IN 2004-05. An exploration of medieval visions and versions of the afterlife in the classical, biblical, Jewish, Islamic, and Christian traditions. We will study material from various Scriptures, popular visions, literary texts, and the visual arts. The focus will be on the implications of ideas about life after death for understanding medieval attitudes toward the body, morality, and life itself. Prerequisite: None Preference given to medieval/renaissance majors. Distribution: Language and Literature Semester: N/O Unit: 1.0

Middle Eastern Studies

AN INTERDEPARTMENTAL MAJOR AND MINOR

Director: Geller (Religion)
Advisory Committee: Ezden " (Political Science), Kapteijns (History), Malino (History and Jewish Studies)

Instructor: Aadhani

The major in Middle Eastern studies is designed to acquaint students with the many facets of Middle Eastern civilizations through an interdisciplinary study of the languages, literatures, histories, religions, arts, social and political institutions, and cultural patterns of the Middle East. Study of Middle Eastern communities living in diaspora may also be counted towards the major.

The major in Middle Eastern studies requires nine units. Students must demonstrate proficiency in Arabic (equivalent to at least two semesters at the second-year level). In certain cases, another Middle Eastern language (for example, Persian, Turkish, Hebrew) may be substituted for Arabic; a student whose area of concentration may render such a substitution appropriate should consult her advisor. No credit towards the major is given for the first year of language study. For students who are exempt from the language requirement, nine units are still necessary for the completion of the major. Students are required to concentrate in some area or aspect of Middle Eastern studies (for example, Arabic language and literature; religion; the medieval Middle East; the modern Middle East; religion and politics in the Middle East) by taking four courses above the 100 level, including at least two at the 300 level, one of which must be a seminar. At least two courses should be taken in each of the departments of history and religion.

Majors devise their own programs of study in consultation with an appropriate faculty member from the student's area of concentration. Courses with an asterisk (*) also require the permission of the instructor if the course is to be counted for Middle Eastern studies.

In addition to Wellesley courses, students are encouraged to take relevant courses at Brandeis University (in the Department of Near Eastern and Judaic Studies), and at MIT. These courses must be approved toward the major, in advance, by the corresponding department at Wellesley.

A minor in Middle Eastern studies consists of five units, of which at least two should be at the 300 level. Units must be taken in at least two departments; only one course at the 100 level can be counted towards the minor. Second-year Arabic may be counted towards the minor.

The following courses are available in Middle Eastern studies:

ARAB 101-102 Elementary Arabic

Aadhani

An introduction to the Arabic language. The course takes a comprehensive approach to language learning and emphasizes the four skills of listening, speaking, reading, and writing. Students are introduced to the principles of grammar, taught how to read and write in the Arabic alphabet, and trained in the basics of everyday conversation. Through the use of a variety of written, video and audio materials, as well as other resources made available through the World Wide Web, the course emphasizes authentic materials and stresses the active participation of students in the learning process. Each semester earns 1.0 unit of credit; however, both semesters must be completed satisfactorily to receive credit for either course.

Prerequisite: None
Distribution: None
Semester: Fall, Spring
Unit: 1.0

ARAB 201-202 Intermediate Arabic

Aadhani

A continuation of ARAB 101-102. The course takes students to a deeper and more complex level in the study of the Arabic language. While continuing to emphasize the organizing principles of the language, the course also introduces students to a variety of challenging texts, including extracts from newspaper articles, as well as literary and religious materials. Students will be trained to work with longer texts and to gain the necessary communicative skills to prepare them for advanced-level Arabic. Each semester earns 1.0 unit of credit; however, both semesters must be completed satisfactorily to receive credit for either course.

Prerequisite: ARAB 101-102 or equivalent
Distribution: Language and Literature
Semester: Fall, Spring
Unit: 1.0

ARAB 210 Arabic Literature in Translation

Aadhani

NOT OFFERED IN 2004-05. Exploration of some highly influential works of literature translated from Arabic. Students will have a chance to delve into literary works composed by authors from a large geographical area, extending from Morocco to the Middle East, from the turn of the nineteenth century to the present day. Our study of modern and contemporary Arabic literature will focus on a number of recurring themes, such as cultural and national identity, colonialism, religion, gender relations, and class conflict. Authors to be discussed include Naguib Mahfouz, Abdelrahman Munif, Aham Mosteghanemi, Leila Aboazied, Tahir Wattar, Mohammed Zaafar, and Yusuf Idris.

MES 310 Resistance and Dissent in North Africa and the Middle East
NOT OFFERED IN 2004-05. An exploration of the emergence and the shaping of a culture of “resistance” in North Africa and the Middle East since the early 1980s. Topics include the rise of democratic movements, such as political parties, associations and NGOs; the role and importance of Islam to the identity of contemporary nation states in the region; the status of women and minorities in the ideologies of the movements under study; and the status and implications of dissent. Materials studied include works of fiction and nonfiction, films, speeches, song lyrics, and online publications. Taught in English.

MUS 99 Performing Music (without academic credit)
Staff
One half-hour private lesson per week. Students may register for 45-minute or hour-long lessons for an additional fee. May be repeated without limit. For further information, including fees, see Performing Music: Private Instruction. See also Music 199, 299, and 344.
Prerequisite: A basic skills placement test is mandatory for all students wishing to enroll in MUS 99 or 199. For those who do not pass this test, a required corequisite to MUS 99 is MUS 111, taken in the fall semester. Auditions are also required.
Distribution: None
Semester: Fall, Spring
Unit: None

MUS 100 Introduction to the Art of Listening
NOT OFFERED IN 2004-05. An introduction to the ways in which we listen to music, and to the roles that it plays in our lives. Fundamental concepts of rhythm, melody, harmony, and timbre are illustrated through examples from many different musical cultures, including the Western European tradition, world music (especially from the Americas, China, and India), popular music, rock, jazz, and music performed and/or composed by women. No previous musical training or background is assumed. May not be counted toward the major.

Prerequisite: None
Distribution: Arts, Music, Theatre, Film, Video
Semester: N/O
Unit: 1.0

MUS 105 Introduction to World Music
Fleurant
An exploration into the musics of the world from an ethnomusicological perspective: music understood within the framework of culture. Primary emphasis is placed on the musics of Africa and the Americas, with attention also to the musical cultures of India, Indonesia, and the Middle East. Students may undertake research projects on the music of any area of the world, even repertoires not covered in the syllabus.

Prerequisite: None
Distribution: Arts, Music, Theatre, Film, Video
Semester: Fall
Unit: 1.0

MUS 111 Introduction to the Language of Music
Fontijn, Yan, Graham (lab)
Preparation in the primary elements of music theory and musicianship. Rhythm and pitch perception, reading skills, keyboard familiarity, and correct music notation. Scale and chord construction, transposition, and procedures for harmonizing simple melodies. Phrase structures and simple formal designs. Intensive practice in ear training. May not be counted toward the major.

Prerequisite: None
Distribution: Arts, Music, Theatre, Film, Video
Semester: Fall
Unit: 1.0

MUS 122 Harmonic Concepts in Tonal Music
Brody, Hulse
Beginning with a comprehensive review of musical terminology and basic materials, MUS 122 explores the fundamentals of tonal harmony, voice-leading, phrasing, and form. Topics include harmonic functions and phrase structure, cadence formation, voice-leading and figured bass, and tonal analysis. Written exercises are complemented by regular ear-training practice. MUS 122 is normally the initial corequisite for MUS 199 (for academic credit); MUS 220 is an alternate corequisite (for students who exempt 122). Normally followed by 244.

Prerequisite: Open to all students who have completed or exempted 111. Students who meet this requirement are advised to take 122 or 220 in the fall semester.
Distribution: Arts, Music, Theatre, Film, Video
Semester: Fall, Spring
Unit: 1.0

MUS 199 Performing Music (for academic credit)
Staff
One 45-minute lesson per week. Students may take an hour-long lesson for an additional fee. A minimum of six hours of practice per week is expected. One credit is given for a full year of study, which must begin in the first semester. Not to be counted toward the major in music. MUS 199 may be repeated without limit. For further information, including fees, see Performing Music: Private Instruction and Academic Credit. See also MUS 99, 299, and 344.

Except by special permission, no credit will be given unless both semesters are completed satisfactorily.

Prerequisite/Corequisite: A basic skills placement test is mandatory for all students wishing to enroll in 199. Open to students who have been placed in 122 or 220, or who are taking 111 as a remedial course. 122 or 220 must normally be completed during the first semester of 199. Students who must take 111 as a remedial course during the first semester of 199 must also complete 122 during the second semester of the first year. Students pursuing jazz performance in 199 may elect 122, 220, MUS 209/AFR 224 or MUS 233/AFR 223 as a corequisite. Completion of an additional music course is required before credit is given for each subsequent year of 199. Students should consult the department Web site for details regarding the entrance audition for 199.

Unit: 1.0

MUS 200 History of Western Music I
Fontijn
The first half of a year-long comprehensive survey of Western music history, MUS 200 considers significant forms and styles of earlier eras, from the liturgical and vernacular repertoires of the Middle Ages to the music of the mid-eighteenth century. The course offers a strong historical component, and also encourages the development of analytical skills. As we examine compositions in many genres, we will pursue numerous avenues of inquiry, including close readings of verbal texts, examination of formal structures, harmonic analysis, assessment of melodic and rhythmic features, and investigation of the broader circumstances that surround and inform musical creation.

Prerequisite: 244 or permission of the instructor
Distribution: Arts, Music, Theatre, Film, Video
Semester: Fall
Unit: 1.0

MUS 201 History of Western Music II
Fisk
A continuation of the survey of Western music history begun in MUS 200. MUS 201 examines the pre-Classical, Classical, and Romantic periods, as well as the music of the past one hundred years. The course places special emphasis on the acquisition of analytical skills, and students are encouraged to devise and support interpretive hypotheses in written essays. Students may enroll in MUS 201 without having taken MUS 200.

Prerequisite: 244 or permission of the instructor
Distribution: Arts, Music, Theatre, Film, Video
Semester: Spring
Unit: 1.0

MUS 209/AFR 224 A History of Jazz
NOT OFFERED IN 2004-05. This course offers a listener’s introduction to jazz, one of the greatest expressions of American artistic genius. Early jazz drew from several vibrant streams of indigenous musical art (including ragtime and blues), and subsequent stylistic phases have corresponded closely to significant developments in social history; knowledge of jazz is thus highly relevant to an understanding of American culture since 1900. Through a selection of recordings and readings, we will follow the progression of jazz styles from African roots to recent developments. A fundamental goal of the course is that students learn to listen to music critically: to discern and interpret form, texture, style, and expressive content in jazz of all periods. Students may register for either MUS 209 or AFR 224.
Credit will be given in the department in which the student is registered.

Prerequisite: None. Not open to students who have taken MUS 233/AFR 233.
Distribution: Arts, Music, Theatre, Film, Video or Historical Studies
Semester: N/O
Unit: 1.0

MUS 213 Twentieth-Century Techniques
Hulse
Studies in the language and style of twentieth-century concert music, through analysis of shorter representative compositions by major composers. Brief exercises in composition are designed to familiarize students with a variety of structural approaches. MUS 213 and 313 will meet together.

Prerequisite: 122, 220, or permission of the instructor.
Distribution: Arts, Music, Theatre, Film, Video
Semester: Spring
Unit: 1.0

MUS 214 Exploring the Music, Dance, and Culture of Haiti
Fleurant
Students will study the music, dance, and culture of Haiti on location by participating in lectures, discussions, and site visits in Port-au-Prince, Gonaïves, Jacmel, Lascahobas, Saut d’Eau, Belladere, and Mirebalais, where the “Lèoardie & Alexandre Kensoff Cultural Center” is located. While living at the Center, students will have the opportunity to work with master drummers and choreographers of Haiti’s folk and ritual traditions. Finally, through a process of total immersion which combines work and learning, the students will explore the life and lore of Haiti’s countryside. Not offered every year.

Subject to Dean’s Office approval

Prerequisite: Open to all students by application process and permission of the instructor. Enrollment is limited to 15 students. Background in music, dance, or Caribbean studies is recommended, and knowledge of French or Creole is advantageous but not required.
Distribution: Arts, Music, Theatre, Film, Video
Semester: N/O
Unit: 0.5

MUS 216 Musics of East Asia: China, Korea, and Japan
Yun
An introduction to the musical cultures of China, Korea, and Japan. While these nations share many of the same instruments, each has developed indigenous musical styles, variously shaped by cultural, religious, philosophical, and political forces. Through readings, recordings, videos, and performances by guest artists, we will explore representative genres from each area, including Buddhist chants, Chinese folk songs and instrumental music, Peking Opera, Korean court music (sak) and folk traditions (sanjo, sinawi, pansori), as well as the Japanese theatrical genres of noh, kabuki, and bunraku (puppet theater).

Prerequisite: None
Distribution: Arts, Music, Theatre, Film, Video
Semester: Spring
Unit: 1.0

Music 220 Theory, Analysis, and Performance
Fisk
This course is appropriate for students who already have a solid background in basic theory, and also possess advanced performing skills. The principal goal of the course is to encourage an understanding of practical analytical methods and their value to musical performance. Also included are in-depth studies of tonal melody and rhythm and their relationship to functional harmony. All of the music studied will be taken from the standard tonal repertory. Written exercises will be complemented by regular ear-training practice. MUS 220 is intended for students who have exempted MUS 122, and may serve as the initial corequisite for MUS 199, as well as a prerequisite for MUS 244.

Prerequisite: Open to students who have exempted 122. Distribution: Arts, Music, Theatre, Film, Video Semester: Fall Unit: 1.0

MUS 222/322 Women in Music Fontini

NOT OFFERED IN 2004-05. An introduction to the history of works composed by women, and to feminist music criticism and analysis. The course addresses issues surrounding women as composers, performers, and patrons, as well as notions of gender, ethnicity, and sexuality. While both levels stress socio-cultural critique and feminist theory, MUS 322 also emphasizes analysis and listening skills.

Prerequisite: 222: open to all students; 322: 200 or 201 required. Distribution: Arts, Music, Theatre, Film, Video Semester: N/O Unit: 1.0

MUS 223 Das Lied: The Music and Poetry of the German Art Song Fontini

The Lied dates back to the Middle Ages as one of the major cultural expressions of the German language. This course will examine the development of the genre through analysis of German poetry and associated musical settings by a variety of composers, both well-known German artists and non-Germans working within Germanic traditions. No previous musical training or background is assumed.

Prerequisite: None Distribution: Language and Literature or Arts, Music, Theatre, Film, Video Semester: Spring Unit: 1.0

MUS 224/REL 224 Hildegard of Bingen

NOT OFFERED IN 2004-05. This interdisciplinary seminar will focus on the music, dramatic productions, vision literature, and theology of the renowned twelfth-century abbess Hildegard of Bingen. Attention will also be devoted to her scientific work on medicine, the manuscript illuminations of her visions, and to contemporary renderings of her music. Students may register for either MUS 224 or REL 224. Credit will be given in the department in which the student is registered.

Prerequisite: None Distribution: Arts, Music, Theatre, Film, Video or Religion, Ethics, and Moral Philosophy Semester: N/O Unit: 1.0

MUS 225/325/AFR 232/332 Topics in Ethnomusicology: Africa and The Caribbean Fleurant

This course will focus on the traditional, folk, and popular musics of Africa and the Caribbean. Emphasis will be placed on issues of Africanism and marginal retention in the musics of Brazil, Cuba, and Haiti. The musical repertoires of Candomble, Santeria, and Vodun, as well as the sambe, rumba, and merengue, will be discussed in terms of their respective influences on the modern musics of Africa. The musical "round trip" between Africa and the Caribbean, whereby genres like the rumba spawned new forms including the juju of Nigeria, the soukous of Zaire, and the highlife of Ghana, will be closely examined. Students may register for either MUS 225/325 or AFR 232/332. Credit will be given in the department in which the student is registered.

Prerequisite: 100, 111, 122, or permission of the instructor. In addition, for 325 or AFR 332, 200 or 201 is required. Distribution: Arts, Music, Theatre, Film, Video or Religion, Ethics, and Moral Philosophy Semester: Fall Unit: 1.0

MUS 230 Opera: Its History, Music, and Drama

NOT OFFERED IN 2004-05. This course offers a comprehensive chronological survey of the history and evolution of opera, from 1600 to the present time. Lectures will examine historical background, the sub-genres of operatic literature (opera seria, opera buffa, music drama), and complete operas by major composers representing a number of periods and styles (including Monteverdi, Mozart, Verdi, and Alban Berg). We will also study librettos, relevant novels, and other source materials in order to establish connections between musical structure and dramatic expression. Two class meetings, with additional sessions required for viewing operas in their entirety.

Prerequisite: None Distribution: Arts, Music, Theatre, Film, Video or Historical Studies Semester: N/O Unit: 1.0

MUS 233/AFR 233 Three Jazz Masters

NOT OFFERED IN 2004-05. Edward Kennedy "Duke" Ellington (1899-1974), Miles Davis (1926-1991), and John Coltrane (1926-1967) were among the most significant figures in twentieth-century American music. All three were masterful composers, improvisers, and ensemble leaders, and their highly influential accomplishments greatly expanded the scope of African-American creativity. Through readings, historical film excerpts, and intensive listening, we will survey the careers of these artists and assess their recorded works, which combine musical innovation, social relevance, profound feeling, and substantial intellectual content. This course assumes no musical background. Students may register for either MUS 233 or AFR 233. Credit will be given in the department in which the student is registered.

Prerequisite: None. Not open to students who have taken MUS 209/AFR 224. Distribution: Arts, Music, Theatre, Film, Video or Historical Studies Semester: N/O Unit: 1.0

MUS 235/335 Music in Historical/Critical Context Fisk

Topic for 2004-05: Preludes in Three Centuries. Although each one introduces a fugue in the same key, the 48 preludes of J.S. Bach's "Well-Tempered Clavier" were themselves taken as models by many aspiring composers. Chopin was only one of several early nineteenth-century composers to emulate Bach by composing a set of 24 independent preludes. Debussy, Scriabin, and Rachmaninoff in turn emulated Chopin in assembling their own sets of preludes in the early twentieth century. This course will closely examine these richly innovative works, exploring to what extent their creation perpetuated tradition while establishing a new, autonomous compositional genre.

Prerequisite for 235: 122, 220, or permission of the instructor. Prerequisite for 335: 201, 244. Distribution: Arts, Music, Theatre, Film, Video Semester: Fall Unit: 1.0

MUS 240 Opera Workshop Fuller

This course is appropriate for singers currently enrolled in voice lessons who wish to gain expertise in dramatic musical performance – that is, the techniques that aid singing actors in the presentation of operatic repertory. All students will receive extensive musical and dramatic coaching, and will have the opportunity to perform a scene or aria in an informal presentation at the conclusion of Winter Session. Emphasis will be placed on researching roles, character development, actions appropriate to musical style, and the interaction of text, music, and movement. The class meets daily, and students are expected to study and rehearse individually and with other participants outside of class sessions. Not offered every year. Subject to Dean's Office approval.

Pre- or Corequisite: 199 in voice, with permission of 199 instructor. Distribution: Arts, Music, Theatre, Film, Video Semester: Winter/Session Unit: 0.5

MUS 244 Tonal Counterpoint and Harmony Hulse, Zallman

A continuation of MUS 122/MUS 220, this course offers a comprehensive introduction to species counterpoint, and to tonal cadence structures and their relationship to functional harmony. Written exercises in two and three voices, chorales, and keyboard-style harmony will be complemented by a keyboard lab offering practice in playing figured bass and basic harmonic progressions.

Prerequisite: 122 or 220 Distribution: Arts, Music, Theatre, Film, Video Semester: Fall, Spring Unit: 1.0

MUS 250 Research or Individual Study

Prerequisite: Open to qualified students by permission. Distribution: None Semester: Fall, Spring Unit: 1.0

MUS 250H Performing Ensembles for Credit

MUS 250H is open to qualified students by permission of the individual ensemble director. One-half unit of credit is granted for a full year (two consecutive semesters) of participation in any one of the following department-sponsored ensembles.

Group A: Orchestra, Choir, Collegium Musicum, Chamber Music Society. Group B: Yanvalou, Prism Jazz, Body and Soul. A maximum of two units of credit toward the degree can be accumulated through 250H. Of the 32 units required for graduation, no more than four units in performing music may be counted toward the degree; thus students taking music lessons for credit during all four years at Wellesley cannot also receive degree credit via MUS 250H. No credit will be given for this course unless both semesters are completed satisfactorily. MUS 250H is graded on a credit/no credit basis.
MUS 275 Computer Music: Synthesis Techniques and Compositional Practice

Brody

An overview of the fundamental concepts, techniques, and literature of electronic and computer music. Topics include the technology of acoustic and digital musical instruments, MIDI programming, sound synthesis techniques (frequency modulation, sampling, linear synthesis, waveshaping, etc.), and the history of electronic music. Students will undertake brief compositional exercises, and learn basic programming and related technical skills.

Prerequisite: None

Distribution: Arts, Music, Theatre, Film, Video
Semester: Fall/Spring
Unit: 0.5

MUS 299 Performing Music (advanced, with academic credit)

Staff

A one-hour private lesson per week. Students who have completed at least one year of MUS 199 are eligible for promotion to 299. A student wishing to enroll in MUS 299 is expected to demonstrate accomplishment distinctly beyond that of the MUS 199 student. Students are recommended for promotion by their instructors, and must have received a grade no lower than B+ in the most recent unit of 199. A minimum of ten hours of practice per week is expected.

MUS 299 may be repeated without limit. One 200- or 300-level music course must be completed for each unit of credit granted for MUS 299. A music course already used to fulfill the requirement for MUS 199 may not be repeated for 299. One unit of credit is given for a full year of study. Not to be counted toward the major in music. For further information, including fees, see Performing Music: Private Instruction and Academic Credit. See also MUS 99, 199, and 344. Except by special permission, no credit will be given for this course unless both semesters are completed satisfactorily.

Prerequisite: 199 and recommendation of instructor
Distribution: Arts, Music, Theatre, Film, Video
Semester: Fall, Spring
Unit: 1.0

MUS 300 Seminar: Studies in History, Theory, Analysis, Special Topics

Offered in both semesters, with two topics presented consecutively in each semester; students may select any number or combination of the four topics offered each year. Open to music majors, minors, and other students with appropriate background.

Topic A: Igor Stravinsky
Brody

During the first seven decades of the twentieth century, Igor Stravinsky reinvented modern music several times over. We will explore the technical and aesthetic transformations that define the phases of his musical career, from the groundbreaking Russian-period ballet scores to the American twelve-tone compositions. Special emphasis will be placed on music composed for ballet, in particular Stravinsky’s collaborations with choreographer George Balanchine. We will consider the contemporary debates regarding musical modernism that were sparked by Stravinsky’s music, as well as the more recent scholarly discussion that it has inspired.

Prerequisite: Any one of 200, 220, or 315 (which may be taken concurrently), or permission of the instructor.
Distribution: Arts, Music, Theatre, Film, Video
Semester: N/O
Unit: 1.0

MUS 313 Twentieth-Century Analysis and Composition

Hulse

A study of compositional devices of twentieth-century music through the analysis of selected short examples from the literature. MUS 213 and 313 will meet together. Music 313 however, will focus on the composition of complete pieces in addition to other regular class assignments.

Prerequisite: 122, 220, or permission of the instructor
Distribution: Arts, Music, Theatre, Film, Video
Semester: Spring
Unit: 1.0

MUS 315 Advanced Harmony

Zallman

Follows MUS 244. A study of advanced tonal techniques: mode mixture, procedures for variation and development (including harmonic sequences), modulation by chromatic harmony, and prolongation. Also includes an introduction to basic Schenkerian terminology and modes of analysis.

Prerequisite: 244 and either 313 or 201
Distribution: Arts, Music, Theatre, Film, Video
Semester: Fall
Unit: 1.0

MUS 344 Performing Music: A Special Program

Wu, Yan

Intensive study of advanced interpretation and performance, as an adjunct to lessons at the 299 level with a member of the Wellesley College performance faculty. The program offers students an opportunity to perform frequently in an informal setting before fellow students and faculty, to discuss repertoire and interpretation, and to receive constructive comment. This is the only credit course in performance that can be counted toward the music major.

Corequisite: If a student has not taken 200 and 201, these courses must be completed during the first year of 344. Once this requirement has been fulfilled (either before or during the initial year of 344), students must enroll in one further unit of 200- or 300-level work for each additional year (two semester units of 344). Permission to enroll for the first unit of 344 is granted only after the student has successfully auditioned for department faculty upon the written recommendation of her instructor in performing music; this audition ordinarily takes place in the second semester of the sophomore or junior year. Permission to elect subsequent units is granted only to a student whose progress in 344 is judged excellent. MUS 344 may be repeated without limit.

Distribution: Arts, Music, Theatre, Film, Video
Semester: Fall, Spring
Unit: 1.0

MUS 350 Research or Individual Study

Directed study in analysis, composition, orchestration, theory, ethnomusicology, or the history of music.

Prerequisite: Open to qualified juniors and seniors by permission.

Semester: Fall, Spring
Unit: 0.5
Directions for Election

The music major is a program of at least ten units. The normal sequence of courses for the major is: MUS 122 or 220, 244, and 315; 200 and 201 (history and analysis); and a total of two semesters of 300 (offered in theory and harmony, four autonomous modular units per year, from which students may select any combination). Also required are three additional elected units of 200- or 300-level work. The study of composition (213/313) is highly recommended for majors.

The music minor is a program of at least five units. It consists of MUS 122 or 220, 244, 200 and 201 or one of these plus another history or literature course, and one additional unit of 300-level work.

The music department does not ordinarily allow courses taken credit/non to count toward the major or minor.

Students interested in majoring or minoring in music are strongly encouraged to begin the theory sequence with 122 or 220 in the fall semester of the first year. This allows them to enroll in the spring-term offering of 244, which is the prerequisite for 200 and the courses that follow sequentially. Starting on this sequence immediately affords the option of taking a wider variety of elective music courses in the junior and senior years, and also makes it easier for those spending the junior year abroad to complete the major comfortably. Students who plan to undertake graduate study in western music history or theory are advised that knowledge of both German and French (beyond the introductory level) is essential, and proficiency in Italian highly desirable. Also of value are studies in European history, literature, and art.

Music majors are especially encouraged to develop musicianship through the acquisition of basic keyboard skills, and through ear training, private instruction in practical music, and involvement in the music department’s various performing organizations.

Group instruction in basic keyboard skills, including keyboard harmony, sight reading, ear training, and score reading, is provided free to all students enrolled in any music course (including 100 with the instructor’s permission and if space is available), and to MUS 99 students with the written recommendation of their private instructor. Ensemble sight reading instruction on a more advanced level is also available for pianists.

The department offers a choice of three programs for honors, all under the catalog numbers 360/370; honors students normally elect the two units in succession during the senior year. Under Program I, the honors candidate carries out independent research leading to a written thesis and an oral examination. Under Program II, honors in composition, the 360 and 370 units culminate in a composition of substance and an oral examination on the honors work. Prerequisites for this program are 315 and distinguished work in 313. Program III, honors in performance, culminates in a recital, a lecture-demonstration, and an essay on some aspect of performance. The prerequisites for Program III is 344 in the junior year and evidence during that year, through public performance, of exceptional talent and accomplishment; 344 must then be continued in the senior year (though as an adjunct to the 360/370 sequence, and not for separate course credit).

Performing Music Instrument Collection

The music department owns 40 pianos (which include 28 Steinway grands, two Mason and Hamlin grands, and numerous Steinway uprights), a Fisk practice organ, a harp, a marimba, a jazz drum kit, and a wide assortment of modern orchestral instruments. In addition, an unusually fine collection of instruments appropriate to early music performance is available for use by students. These include a Dolmetsch clavichord, a virginal, two harpsichords, a positive organ, a fortepiano, a newly restored 1823 Clementi grand piano, eight violas da gamba, a Baroque violin, and an assortment of Renaissance and Baroque wind instruments.

Of particular interest is the Charles Fisk mean-tone organ (completed 1981) in Houghton Memorial Chapel, which is America’s first major instrument constructed after seventeenth-century German prototypes. The chapel also houses a three-manual Aeolian-Skinner pipe organ. Galen Stone Tower contains a 32-bell carillon.

Performance Workshop (MUS 344)

The performance workshop is directed by a member or members of the performing music faculty. It offers advanced students an opportunity to perform frequently in an informal setting before fellow students and faculty, to discuss repertoire and interpretation, and to receive constructive comments.

Private Instruction

The music department offers private instruction in voice, piano, fortepiano, organ, harpsichord, harp, violin, Baroque violin, fiddle, viola, violoncello, double bass, viola da gamba, flute (Baroque and modern), oboe, clarinet, bassoon, trumpet, French horn, trombone, tuba, recorder, lute, classical guitar, saxophone, and marimba; and private jazz instruction in piano, violin, bass, saxophone, flute, percussion, and voice. We will make every attempt to accommodate students wishing private instruction in instruments not currently taught.

All students planning to enroll for music lessons must take the basic skills placement test.

Information concerning auditions and course requirements for noncredit and credit study is given above under listings for 99, 199, 299, and 344; except for 344, auditions and the basic skills placement test are ordinarily given at the start of the first semester.

There is no charge for performing music to students enrolled in 199, 299, or 344 who: 1) have demonstrated financial need as determined by the Wellesley College Financial Aid Office; 2) are receiving financial aid from Wellesley College; and 3) are taking the normal length of lesson. All other 199 and 299 students are charged $884, the rate for one half-hour lesson per week throughout the year. Students who contract for performing music instruction under MUS 99 are charged $884 for one half-hour lesson per week through both semesters, and may register for 45-minute or hour lessons for an additional charge. A fee of $35 per year is charged to performing music students for the use of a practice studio. The fee for the use of a practice studio for fortepiano, harpsichord, and organ is $45.

Music lessons at Wellesley involve a full-year commitment; lesson contracts are binding for the entire school year. Performing music fees are payable by September 30; no refunds will be made thereafter.

For purposes of placement, a basic skills placement test is given before classes start in the fall semester. All students registered for MUS 111, 122, 220, or private instruction in 99 or 199 are required to take the examination.

Arrangements for lessons are made at the music department office during orientation of the first week of the semester. Students may begin private study in 99 (but not 199 or 299) at the start of the second semester, if space permits.

Academic Credit and Corequisites for MUS 199 and 299

Credit for performing music at the 199 and 299 levels is granted only for study with the department’s performance faculty, not with outside instructors; the final decision for acceptance is based on the student’s audition. One unit of credit is granted for a full year (two semesters) of study in either 199 or 299; except by special permission, both semesters must be satisfactorily completed before credit can be counted toward the degree. While music performance courses (99, 199, 299, 344) may be repeated without limit, no more than four units of credit in these courses may be counted toward the Wellesley degree.

More than one course in performing music for credit can be taken simultaneously only by special permission of the department.

MUS 122 is normally taken along with the first semester of lessons for credit; 220 is an alternate, and can substitute for 122 in the major/minor sequence. Students pursuing jazz performance in 199 may elect 122, 220, MUS 209/AFR 224 or MUS 233/AFR 233 as a corequisite. An additional music course must be elected as a corequisite for each unit of credit after the first year.

The music department’s 199 and 299 offerings are made possible by the estate of Elsa Grace Whitney ‘18.

Group Instruction

Group instruction in classical guitar, percussion, and voice is available for a fee of $250 per year.

Performing Organizations

The following organizations, all directed by faculty members, are vital extensions of the Wellesley music department’s academic program.

The Wellesley College Choir

The College Choir, consisting of approximately 50 singers, is devoted to the performance of choral music from the Medieval era through the present day. Endowed funds provide for collaborative efforts with men’s choirs from such institutions as the U.S. Naval Academy, Harvard, and Cornell; the choir has also commissioned new compositions in recent years. In addition to staging local performances of works for choir and orchestra (including a recent performance of the Brahms Requiem), the choir tours both nationally and internationally. Auditions are held during Orientation.

The Wellesley College Glee Club
The Glee Club performs a range of choral literature from many periods. In addition to presenting concerts, the Glee Club provides music at various chapel services, and collaborates with the College Choir in concerts and at the annual Vespers service. Auditions are held at the beginning of each semester.

The Wellesley College Chamber Singers
The Chamber Singers is an ensemble of 12 to 16 vocalists selected from the College Choir’s finest singers. The group specializes in music for women’s voices with and without instruments, and presents concerts in conjunction with other College music organizations during the academic year.

The Collegium Musicum
The Wellesley College Collegium Musicum specializes in the performance of Western music from the Middle Ages to the early nineteenth century. This ensemble of singers and instrumentalists is open to Wellesley College students, faculty, staff, and members of the local community. The Collegium is also frequently joined by guest artists, who enrich the ensemble for special projects. Members of the Collegium enjoy the use of an extensive collection of historical instruments. Separate consort instruction is available in viola da gamba, renaissance winds, and recorder for both beginning and advanced players on a fee basis ($250 for the 2004-05 academic year).

The Wellesley-Brandeis Orchestra
The College Orchestra consists of approximately 40 musicians. Selection for membership is based on auditions at the start of each semester. The group is directed by a faculty conductor, but is run by students; a student assistant conductor is chosen by audition. The Orchestra performs compositions from the standard symphonic repertoire once or twice each semester, and periodically engages in collaborations with other institutions to perform such large-scale works as Mahler’s Second Symphony and Beethoven’s Symphony No. 9.

The Chamber Music Society
The Chamber Music Society offers an opportunity for small ensembles to explore the chamber music repertoire of the last three centuries. A number of groups, which include singers and players of strings, winds, and keyboards, rehearse independently and also meet weekly with a faculty coach at no cost. Throughout the year, players present formal and informal recitals. Entrance is by audition.

Prism Jazz
Prism Jazz is a faculty-directed jazz ensemble of six to ten students. Rehearsals encourage the development of fluency in jazz improvisation; previous jazz experience is not required. The ensemble performs several times each year, and presents joint concerts with ensembles from Wellesley and other area colleges. Workshops on jazz improvisation with visiting guest artists are also offered. Auditions are held at the beginning of each year.

Body and Soul
Body and Soul is a faculty-directed vocal jazz ensemble of six to eight singers that performs several times each academic year. The ensemble focuses on developing improvisational skills through individual and group repertoire; previous jazz experience is not required. Auditions are held at the beginning of each year.

Fieldheads
This group studies and performs the fiddle tunes and styles of Scotland, Ireland, Cape Breton, Quebec, and New England. The class is taught entirely by ear, and all instruments are welcome. No prior experience playing in a traditional style is necessary.

Yanvalou Drumming and Dance Ensemble
Yanvalou, an ensemble that explores the traditional musics of Africa and the Caribbean, offers participants the opportunity to perform with authentic instruments, and to experience a variety of cultures through their musics. In collaboration with their dance troupe, Yanvalou presents several concerts during each academic year.

Neuroscience
AN INTERDEPARTMENTAL MAJOR
Director: Berger-Sweeney (Biological Sciences)
Neuroscience Advisory Committee: Beltz (Biological Sciences), Ducas (Physics), Goldman (Physics), Hicks (Chemistry), Hildreth (Computer Science), Ketne (Psychology).

The Departments of Biological Sciences, Chemistry, Computer Science, Physics, and Psychology offer an interdepartmental major in neuroscience that provides interdisciplinary study of the nervous system and biological and chemical mechanisms underlying behavior.

A major in neuroscience must include the following core courses: BISC 110, 111; CHEM 105 (or 120), and 211; PSYC 205, and NEUR 213/BISC 213, which should be completed by the end of junior year. For students who enter the College in fall 2004 or later, PSYC 101 is also a required course for the major. Majors must elect two 200-level courses: BISC 219, 220, CHEM 221, 222; and of PSYC 215, 216, 217. To be eligible for the Thesis program, students should have completed all of the above by the end of the junior year. Additionally, majors must elect two 300-level courses, at least one of which must be a laboratory course. Acceptable 300-level courses are BISC 302, 306, 315, 316; PSYC 316, 318, 319; CLSC 300, CS 332, NEUR 335/BISC 335/PHYS 335. Any other 300-level courses must be specifically approved by the director. A minimum of 6 courses (a minimum of 6.75 units) towards the major requirements must be taken at Wellesley.

Honors projects may be supervised by members of the various departments associated with the major, in accordance with the requirements of the host department. Students are advised to check with the chair of the host department early in their junior year to clarify details of the honors program.

Students wishing to attend graduate school in neuroscience also should take CHEM 313 and a course in physics.

NEUR 213/BISC 213 The Biology of Brain and Behavior with Laboratory
Beltz, Helley, Paul (Biological Sciences), Goldman (Physics)

An introduction to the study of the nervous system and behavior with particular emphasis on the structure and function of the nervous system. In the first half of the semester, basic neuroanatomy, neurochemistry and neurophysiology are covered. In the second half of the semester, brain mechanisms involved in sensation, language, addiction, memory, and cognition are emphasized. The laboratory is designed to expose the student to basic neuroanatomy, neurochemistry, physiology and behavior.

Prerequisite: BISC 110 and either 111 or 109
Distribution: Epistemology and Cognition or Natural and Physical Science
Semester: Fall, Spring
Unit: 1.25

NEUR 250 Research or Individual Study
Prerequisite: By permission of instructor.
Distribution: None
Semester: Fall, Spring
Unit: 1.0

Peace and Justice Studies

A STRUCTURED INDIVIDUAL MAJOR

Faculty Co-Directors: Merry, Rosenwald
Co-Director for Experiential Education: Kazanjian

Peace and Justice Studies Advisory Board: Agosin (Spanish), Lani (East Asian Languages and Literature), Levitt (Sociology), de Warren (Philosophy), Genero (Psychology), Kapteijns (History), Kazanjian (Religious and Spiritual Life), Merry (Anthropology), Murphy (Political Science), Rosenwald (English), Velenchik (Economics), Wasserspring (Political Science)

The peace and justice studies program provides a program of study which integrates the many areas of intellectual inquiry relating to the historical and contemporary search for a peaceful and just society and world.

A major (eight units) in peace and justice studies should be designed in consultation with the program directors. Majors must elect a concentration of at least four units above 100 level. Concentrations will normally be in one department, but may be constructed across departments. In either case, the major must demonstrate the intellectual coherence of the concentration. The major must include two 300-level courses. The major consists of:

1. Two required courses: PEAC 104 (Introduction to the Study of Conflict, Justice, and Peace) and PEAC 259 (Peace and Conflict Resolution)

2. Six courses through which students are expected to develop proficiency in two areas:
   a) the social, political, historical, and cultural factors that lead to conflict, violence, and injustice.
   b) the various strategies and techniques of peacekeeping and justice-seeking at the level of nation states, social groups and communities within nation states, and interpersonal and individual relationships.

Students are expected to develop expertise in a particular international, national, regional, or local conflict situation.

3. Students majoring in peace and justice studies are usually expected to include an experiential education component in their course of study. This component should be discussed with the program directors and may include: Winter session, summer or year-long internships, course-related experiential education programs, or community service projects.

PEAC 104 Introduction to the Study of Conflict, Justice, and Peace
Rosenwald (English) and Murphy (Political Science)

An interdisciplinary introduction to the study of conflict, justice, and peace. The course engages students in developing an analytical and theoretical framework for examining the dynamics of conflict, violence, and injustice and the strategies that have been employed to attain peace and justice, including: balance of power, cooperation, diplomacy and conflict resolution, law, human rights, social movements, social justice (economic, environmental, and race/gender), interpersonal communication, and religiously-inspired social transformation.

Prerequisite: None
Distribution: Social and Behavioral Analysis
Semester: Fall
Unit: 1.0

PEAC 224/324 Grassroots Development, Conflict Resolution, and the Gandhian Legacy in India
Kazanjian (Religious and Spiritual Life), Murphy (Political Science) and Rosenwald (English)

This three and a half week wintersession course in India focuses on understanding the historical development of the Gandhian philosophy of nonviolence and how Gandhian strategies have been adapted by grassroots community-based organizations to address the challenges facing India and the world today. The course involves both experiential and classroom learning. During this course we will meet with women's organizations, peace organizations, environmental action groups and community health activists in rural and urban communities in the North of India. In addition we will take part in a seminar series on intercultural and interreligious conflict resolution at the Malviya Centre for Peace Research at Banaras Hindu University. This course may be taken as either 224 or, with additional assignments, 324. Not offered every year. Subject to Dean's office approval.

Prerequisite: Two 200-level courses in related fields. Application required.
Distribution: Social and Behavioral Analysis
Semester: Winter Session
Unit: TBD

PEAC 250 Research or Individual Study
Prerequisite: 104 and one 200-level course in the general field of Peace and Justice Studies or permission of instructor.
Distribution: None
Semester: Fall, Spring
Unit: 1.0

PEAC 250H Research or Individual Study
Prerequisite: 104 and one 200-level course in the general field of Peace and Justice Studies or permission of instructor.
Distribution: None
Semester: Fall, Spring
Unit: 0.5

PEAC 259 Peace and Conflict Resolution
Agosin (Spanish)

Topic for 2004-05: Human Rights and Memory in Latin America. This course will explorestithe history of human rights movements in Latin America from the early decades of the 1970s to the evolution to democracy in the 1990s. This historical development culminated in the creation of important truth commissions throughout the region. Particular emphasis will be placed on the ways civil societies in Latin America struggled to restore freedom and justice to societies previously ruled by fear. The course will examine the role of gender and how women promoted a visionary political imagination. A central theme of the course is the role of the arts as a powerful medium for activism. There will be multidisciplinary readings that encompass perspectives from philosophy, the arts, literature and jurisprudence.

Prerequisite: PEAC 104 and one unit in ANTH, SOC, POL, HIST, or WOST, or by permission of instructor.
Distribution: Social and Behavioral Analysis
Semester: Spring
Unit: 1.0

Department of Philosophy

Professor: Chaplin (Chair), Congleton, Mekiti, Piper, Winkler

Associate Professor: McIntyre, McGowan

Visiting Associate Professor: Tirrell

Assistant Professor: de Warren

PHIL 103 Self and World: Introduction to Metaphysics and Epistemology
McIntyre (Spring), Tirrell (Fall)

This course introduces basic philosophical methods and concepts by exploring a variety of approaches to some central philosophical problems. Topics covered include the existence of God, skepticism and certainty, the relation between mind and body, the compatibility of free will and causal determination, the nature of personal identity, and the notion of objectivity in science and ethics. Readings are drawn from historical and contemporary texts. Discussions and assignments encourage the development of the student's own critical perspective on the problems discussed.

Prerequisite: None
Distribution: Epistemology and Cognition
Semester: Fall, Spring

PHIL 106 Introduction to Moral Philosophy
Chaplin, Piper (Fall), McIntyre (Spring)

A study of central issues in moral philosophy from ancient Greece to the present day. Topics include the nature of morality, conceptions of justice, views of human nature and their bearing on questions of value, and competing tests of right and wrong.

Prerequisite: None
Distribution: Religion, Ethics, and Moral Philosophy
Semester: Fall, Spring

PHIL 201 Ancient Greek Philosophy
Congleton

An introduction to philosophy through study of the dialogues of Plato and the treatises of Aristotle. Emphasis will be on topics in Plato and Aristotle that are especially important today, such as the foundations of "stereotyping," whether scientific and ethical reasoning are fundamentally the same or different, whether there are rational emotions, whether women and men are or are not essentially different, and what role political rhetoric plays in a democracy.

Prerequisite: None
Distribution: Epistemology and Cognition or Religion, Ethics, and Moral Philosophy
Semester: Fall

PHIL 202/AFR 202 African Philosophy
Mekiti

Initiation into basic African philosophical concepts and principles. The first part of the course deals with a systematic interpretation of such questions as the Bantu African philosophical concept of Muntu and related beliefs, as well as Bantu ontology, metaphysics, and ethics. The second part centers on the relationship between philosophy and ideologies and its implications in Black African social, political, religious, and economic institutions. The approach will be comparative. Students may register for either PHIL 202 or AFR 202. Credit will be given in the department in which the student is registered.
PHIL 203 Philosophy of Art
de Warren
What makes an object an art object? How does art reflect on the human condition? Why is there art rather than not, expression rather than silence, a gesture rather than stillness? A philosophical approach to art is primarily interested in clarifying the problem of aesthetic value, the special activities that produce art, and the claim to truth which finds expression through artistic creation. The aim of this course is to explore these questions, among others, by examining the positions of major philosophers and twentieth-century artists.
Prerequisite: Open to first-year students who have taken one course in philosophy and to sophomores, juniors, and seniors without prerequisite.
Distribution: Epistemology and Cognition or Religion, Ethics, and Moral Philosophy
Semester: Spring
Unit: 1.0

PHIL 204 Philosophy and Literature
Menkiti
NOT OFFERED IN 2004-05. OFFERED IN 2005-06. This course considers the questions: what sort of object is the literary text and what are the epistemological issues raised by acts of literary interpretation? It also examines the complex relationship between fiction and fact, and between fiction and morality. The treatment of commitment to self and others, of self-knowledge and self-identity, and of individual and social ideals will also be explored. We ended the course by looking at poetry — how it has meaning despite an inbuilt element of ambiguity and how it succeeds not only in shaping, but also healing the world.
Prerequisite: Open to first-year students who have taken one course in philosophy and to sophomores, juniors, and seniors without prerequisite.
Distribution: Religion, Ethics, and Moral Philosophy
Semester: N/O.
Unit: 1.0

PHIL 206 Normative Ethics
Chaplin
Can philosophers help us to think about moral issues, such as what to do about poverty and hunger, or racism and sexism; what is the good life and how can we know that it is good? We shall look at the attempts of some contemporary philosophers to provide answers, or at least guides to finding answers, to these and similar questions. We shall compare and contrast several approaches to evaluating an action: placing major weight on its consequences, or on whether it conforms to a moral rule, or whether it is the sort of thing a virtuous person would do.
Prerequisite: Open to first-year students who have taken one course in philosophy and to sophomores, juniors, and seniors without prerequisite.
Distribution: Religion, Ethics, and Moral Philosophy
Semester: Fall
Unit: 1.0

PHIL 207 Philosophy of Language
Tirel
This course will explore a variety of philosophical questions concerning language: the different ways in which spoken language functions and conveys information, the alleged difference between speech and action and how it relates to freedom of speech issues (e.g., pornography and hate speech), the general problem of how words get attached to their referents, and criticisms of traditional conceptions of meaning and reference.
Prerequisite: Open to first-year students who have taken one course in philosophy, and to sophomores, juniors, and seniors without prerequisite.
Distribution: Epistemology and Cognition
Semester: Fall
Unit: 1.0

PHIL 209 Scientific Reasoning
Staff
NOT OFFERED IN 2004-05. This is a reasoning course that emphasizes the practical importance of critical thinking. Topics covered will include the basic forms of scientific inference, the basics of probability, issues of data collection, the difference between correlation and causation, and the theoretical and practical difficulties associated with establishing causal claims. Students will also gain an appreciation of the political and ethical importance of critical thinking by evaluating cases of sexist and racist science.
Prerequisite: Fulfillment of the basic skills component of the Quantitative Reasoning requirement.
Distribution: Epistemology and Cognition, Fulfills the Quantitative Reasoning overlay course requirement.
Semester: N/O.
Unit: 1.0

PHIL 210 Philosophy of Business
Congleton
This course will consider whether business today can be said to involve characteristic notions, practices, theories and/or debates as do other professional fields such as engineering, medicine or law. Focus will be on the United States, and possibilities will be considered both in terms of their historical emergence and of their possible meanings today. Examples of views to be examined include the claim of Alan Durning and others that U.S. business has generated a "consumerist" society and the claim of Bhikhu Parekh that the relationship of U.S. business to "globalization" involves "individualism" in a way that is not required for "democracy."
Prerequisite: None
Distribution: Religion, Ethics, and Moral Philosophy
Semester: Spring
Unit: 1.0

PHIL 211 Philosophy of Religion
Winkler
A philosophical examination of the nature and significance of religious belief and religious life. Topics include the nature of faith, the role of reason in religion, the ethical import of religious belief, and toleration and religious diversity.
Prerequisite: None
Distribution: Epistemology and Cognition or Religion, Ethics, and Moral Philosophy
Semester: Fall
Unit: 1.0

PHIL 213 Social and Political Philosophy
Menkiti
Human rights are supposed to be rights claimed by virtue of simply being human, and, as such, they are said to exist universally. However, despite the unanimous adoption of the Universal Declaration of Human Rights by the United Nations, there is now a global conversation about the importance of civil and economic rights, the right of Western society to impose its conception of human rights on other societies, and the rights of minorities. Beginning with the eighteenth century and extending into the contemporary debate, this course will discuss the nature, justification, and extent of human rights.
Prerequisite: Open to first-year students who have taken one course in philosophy, and to sophomores, juniors, and seniors without prerequisite.
Distribution: Religion, Ethics, and Moral Philosophy or Social and Behavioral Analysis
Semester: Spring
Unit: 1.0

PHIL 214 Foundations of Ethics
Piper
Can we all get along? In a multicultural society in which we share a common language but often differ in our basic values and cultural practices, is there anything on which we can all agree? If so, what are the ground rules for reasoned dialogue? For social cooperation? In order to formulate viable answers to these questions that provide real-life resolutions to our real-life conflicts, we will examine and critique the answers offered by the leading contemporary moral theorists, John Rawls and Jürgen Habermas.
Prerequisite: 106 or another course in ethical theory.
Distribution: Religion, Ethics, and Moral Philosophy
Semester: Spring
Unit: 1.0

PHIL 215 Philosophy of Mind
McIntyre
How are thoughts and sensations related to neurological processes? Could mental states be identical to brain states? What is free will? Could we have free will if we live in a deterministic universe? After examining a variety of answers to these traditional questions in the philosophy of mind, we will expand our inquiry to include recent work in philosophy and cognitive science that examines the nature of consciousness, animal intelligence, and the role of emotion in thought and action.
Prerequisite: One course in philosophy, psychology, or cognitive science or permission of instructor.
Distribution: Epistemology and Cognition
Semester: Fall
Unit: 1.0

PHIL 216 Logic
Winkler (Fall), Staff (Spring)
An introduction to formal logic. Students will learn a variety of formal methods — methods sensitive only to the form of the arguments, as opposed to their content — to determine whether the conclusions of the arguments follow from their premises. Discussion of the philosophical problems that arise in logic, and of the application of formal logic to problems in philosophy and other disciplines. Some consideration of issues in the philosophy of language.
Prerequisite: None
Distribution: Epistemology and Cognition
Semester: Fall, Spring
Unit: 1.0

PHIL 217 Philosophy of Science: Traditional and Feminist Perspectives
McGowan
This course will survey various issues in the philosophy of science surrounding the debate over scientific realism. Issues include: What constitutes adequate evidence? Exactly what does accepting a scientific theory involve? Does science discover the single objective way that the world is or does it partially construct the world around us? How do cultural attitudes (e.g., gender) affect scientific practice?
Prerequisite: Open to sophomores, juniors, and seniors.
Distribution: Epistemology and Cognition
Semester: Spring
Unit: 1.0
PHIL 221 History of Modern Philosophy

A study of central themes in seventeenth- and eighteenth-century philosophy, concentrating on Descartes, Hume, and Kant. More limited readings of such figures as Spinoza, Locke, Ann Conway, Leibniz, and Berkeley. Among the topics: the relationship between mind and body; the limits of reason; determinism and freedom; the bearing of science on religion.

Prerequisite: Open to first-year students in their second semester and to sophomores, juniors, and seniors without prerequisite.

Distribution: Epistemology and Cognition or Historical Studies
Semester: Spring
Unit: 1.0

PHIL 224 Existentialism

This course will study basic themes in existentialism by focusing on the theoretical and the artistic works of key existentialist writers such as Jean-Paul Sartre, Simone de Beauvoir, Antonin Artaud, Samuel Beckett, Albert Camus, and Eugene Ionesco. In taking the human condition as its primary question, existentialism redelineates the meaning of theory as a philosophical reflection on or “seeing” of the human condition, as well as the significance of theatre as a “seeing” or “manifestation” of features of the human condition that otherwise remain hidden from view. Special emphasis will be placed on the themes of boredom, death, bad faith, anxiety, suffering, freedom, and inter-subjective relationships.

Prerequisite: One philosophy course or permission of instructor.
Distribution: Epistemology and Cognition or Historical Studies
Semester: Fall
Unit: 1.0

PHIL 225 Phenomenology and Hermeneutics

De Warren

NOT OFFERED IN 2004-05, OFFERED IN 2005-06. Phenomenology attempts to reclaim the richness of human experience for philosophical analysis. An important movement of twentieth-century philosophy, phenomenology represents an original approach to traditional philosophical questions based on the investigation of how “lived experience” manifests itself in the various ways in which the world is meaningful for human beings. As an introduction to the phenomenological movement, including the hermeneutic turn of phenomenological philosophy, this course will focus on the work of Husserl, Heidegger, Lévinas, and Merleau-Ponty.

Prerequisite: One philosophy course or permission of instructor.
Distribution: Epistemology and Cognition
Semester: N/O.
Unit: 1.0

PHIL 226 Human Nature in Three Medieval Philosophers

Congleton

What is it to be a human being? This course will examine the responses of twelfth-century writers—the Jewish thinker Moses ben Maimon (Maimonides) and the Islamic thinker Ibn Rushd (Averroes)—and a thirteenth-century Christian thinker who built on their work, Thomas Aquinas. Primary focus will be the question of whether each human being is essentially unique or simply an example of a species. Other questions will include whether the most educated people should control what texts/debates are available to the less educated, and what is involved in arguing that God is “transcendent.” The course will begin with an introduction to the central concepts of Plato and Aristotle used by these medieval thinkers. Also considered will be the “neo-Platonism” of Plotinus and that of Cicero, as found in his discussion of “Platonic love.”

Prerequisite: Open to first-year students who have taken one course in philosophy or medieval studies and to all sophomores, juniors and seniors.
Distribution: Epistemology and Cognition or Religion, Ethics, and Moral Philosophy
Semester: Spring
Unit: 1.0

PHIL 227 Philosophy and Feminism

Congleton

This course begins by examining the philosophical foundations of the so-called “first wave” of feminism, the “liberal social contract” feminism that arose in England and the U.S. in the nineteenth century in the context of the abolitionist movement. Particular attention is given to the doctrine of “separate spheres” and the consequent “double shift” problem for women trying to combine work and family. Next is consideration of critiques of liberal feminism’s narrowness of focus with regard to race, class, sexuality, and ethnicity. Critical questions will be developed in the second wave” feminism beginning in the 1960s. The final topic will be current alternatives to liberal feminism responding to these critiques.

Prerequisite: Open to first-year students in their second semester and to sophomores, juniors, and seniors without prerequisite.
Distribution: Epistemology and Cognition or Religion, Ethics, and Moral Philosophy
Semester: Fall
Unit: 1.0

PHIL 230 Nineteenth-Century Philosophy

De Warren

NOT OFFERED IN 2004-05, OFFERED IN 2005-06. This course will study selected themes in nineteenth-century philosophy. Readings from Kant, Hegel, Marx, Kierkegaard, Schopenhauer, and Nietzsche will address central issues such as the status of reason, the irrational and the unconscious, modernization and the meaning of history, and the significance of religion and art for human existence. Other important figures of nineteenth-century thought such as Darwin, Comte, Mill, and Schleiermacher may also be addressed.

Prerequisite: One course in philosophy or permission of instructor.
Distribution: Epistemology and Cognition or Historical Studies
Semester: N/O.
Unit: 1.0

PHIL 232 Vedanta Ethics and Epistemology

Piper

Whereas Western ethics is dominated by the obsession with reconciling self-interest with altruism and passion with reason, the Vedanta ethics and epistemology of ancient India regards the distinction among them as the product of egocentric delusion and ignorance of the true nature of the self. Vedanta condescendingly prescribes very specific actions and personal practices as time-tested means for achieving insight into the true nature of the self and union with ultimate metaphysical reality. We will study the basic texts in order to evaluate ourselves, our practices, our values as products of an increasingly ubiquitous Western culture.

Prerequisite: Open to first-year students who have taken one course in philosophy and to sophomores, juniors, and seniors without prerequisite.
Distribution: Epistemology and Cognition or Religion, Ethics, and Moral Philosophy
Semester: Spring
Unit: 1.0

PHIL 233 Environmental Philosophy

Winkle

NOT OFFERED IN 2004-05, OFFERED IN 2005-06. A study of conceptions of the natural world and our place in it, from the pre-Socratics and the Book of Genesis to the deep ecologists and ecofeminists of the present day. Readings in the history of philosophy (Aristotle, Descartes, Spinoza, Newton, Rousseau, and Hume, among others), in Emerson and Thoreau, and in contemporary nature writers and natural scientists. Discussion of ethical issues and of Third-World critiques of Western environmentalism.

Prerequisite: None
Distribution: Epistemology and Cognition or Religion, Ethics, and Moral Philosophy
Semester: N/O.
Unit: 1.0

PHIL 234 Philosophy of Yoga

Piper

NOT OFFERED IN 2004-05, OFFERED IN 2005-06. Yoga, one of the six orthodox systems of Indian philosophy, includes philosophies of ethics and action, mind and spirit, knowledge, love, and the body. The word yoga means union of individual ego and ultimate reality. We will study classical texts and commentaries and evaluate yoga’s applications to a global Westernized culture that fragments relationships, identity, bodies, minds, and spirit in zero-sum relations of competition, distrust, and mutual antagonism.

Prerequisite: Open to first-year students who have taken one course in philosophy and to sophomores, juniors, and seniors without prerequisite.
Distribution: Epistemology and Cognition or Religion, Ethics, and Moral Philosophy
Semester: N/O.
Unit: 1.0

PHIL 249 Medical Ethics

Menkiti

A philosophical examination of some central problems at the interface of medicine and ethics. Exploration of the social and ethical implications of current advances in biomedical research and technology. Topics discussed will include psychosurgery, gender surgery, genetic screening, amniocentesis, and euthanasia.

Prerequisite: Open to first-year students who have taken one course in philosophy and to sophomores, juniors, and seniors without prerequisite.
Distribution: Religion, Ethics, and Moral Philosophy
Semester: Fall
Unit: 1.0

PHIL 300 Seminar in Modern Philosophy

Winkle

NOT OFFERED IN 2004-05, OFFERED IN 2005-06. Prerequisite: 221. Distribution: Epistemology and Cognition
Semester: N/O.
Unit: 1.0

PHIL 302 Kant’s Solution to Skepticism and Solipsism

Piper

NOT OFFERED IN 2004-05, OFFERED IN 2005-06. Kant thinks that we can’t know what anything is really like, including us. We can only know appearances we construct. So it seems we’re permanently trapped in subjective illusions and biases. But Kant also thinks we have objective knowledge and that he can prove it. How can he reconcile these seemingly contradictory claims? Kant's Critique of Pure Reason has set the agenda for nineteenth- and twentieth-century philosophy, and influenced psychology, physics, history, geography, political science, and law.

Prerequisite: 221
Distribution: Epistemology and Cognition
Semester: N/O. Unit: 1.0

PHIL 303 Kant's Metaethics
Piper
Kant thinks human beings are free, rational, and autonomous; and therefore have moral responsibilities that are universally and cross-culturally valid. This is a controversial view that has influenced international conceptions of human rights, justice, legal liability, and personal convictions about freedom and self-determination. Its metaethical justification begins in Kant's conceptions of freedom, reason, and the self in the Critique of Pure Reason, and extends all the way through to his normative moral theory in the late Metaphysics of Morals.

Prerequisite: 221
Distribution: Religion, Ethics, and Moral Philosophy
Semester: Fall. Unit: 1.0

PHIL 311 Plato
Chaplin
Intensive reading of some of the middle and late Platonic dialogues with particular attention to two issues: the so-called "Socratic Paradox," which holds that no one knowingly does evil, and the theory of forms. Alternates with 312.

Prerequisite: 201 or permission of instructor.
Distribution: Epistemology and Cognition
Semester: Spring. Unit: 1.0

PHIL 312 Aristotle
Chaplin
NOT OFFERED IN 2004-05. OFFERED IN 2005-06. Intensive study of the thought of Aristotle through detailed reading of selected texts. Attention will be given especially to those works which present Aristotle's theory of the mind. Aristotle's influence on subsequent science and philosophy will be discussed briefly.

Prerequisite: 201 or permission of instructor.
Distribution: Epistemology and Cognition
Semester: N/O. Unit: 1.0

PHIL 313 Seminar in Metaphysics
McGowan
NOT OFFERED IN 2004-05. OFFERED IN 2005-06. Prerequisite: Open to students who have taken two courses in philosophy.
Distribution: Epistemology and Cognition

PHIL 323/CLCV 323 Seminar, Continental Philosophy
De Warren and Reay (Classical Studies)
Topic for 2004-05: The Theory of Antiquity: Nietzsche, Freud, and the Greeks. The conflict between the 'Dionysian' and the 'Apollonian', the psychological destinies of the 'Oedipus and Electra Complexes': these are perhaps the most conspicuous markers of Nietzsche's and Freud's impact on modern thought. That the most recognizable terms of their influence refer to classical figures, both human and divine, throws into sharp relief the centrality of classical Greek myth and culture for their attempts to diagnose and remedy a nineteenth-century human condition: modernity. This interplay of antiquity and modernity will be at the center of our investigation of the projects of two of the most challenging and complex intellectuals of the modern era. Students may register for either PHIL 323 or CLCV 323. Credit will be given in the department in which the student is registered.

Prerequisite: Open to sophomores, juniors and seniors.
Distribution: Epistemology and Cognition
Semester: Spring. Unit: 1.0

PHIL 326 Philosophy of Law
Merktii
A systematic consideration of fundamental issues in the conception and practice of law. Such recurrent themes in legal theory as the nature and function of law, the relation of law to morality, the function of rules in legal reasoning, and the connection between law and social policy are examined. We will also look at some philosophical problems that arise in connection with crime, civil rights, and "the legislation of morality."

Prerequisite: Open to juniors and seniors without prerequisite
Distribution: Religion, Ethics, and Moral Philosophy
Semester: Fall. Unit: 1.0

PHIL 340 Seminar, Contemporary Ethical Theory
McIntyre
NOT OFFERED IN 2004-05.
Prerequisite: 103, 106, 201, 206, 213, 214, 215, 303, 311, 312 or permission of the instructor.
Distribution: Religion, Ethics, and Moral Philosophy
Semester: N/O. Unit: 1.0

PHIL 345 Seminar, Advanced Topics in Philosophy of Psychology and Social Science
McIntyre
Topic for 2004-05: Rationality and Action. The distinction between practical and theoretical reasoning; the roles of logic, probability, prudence, and emotion in setting norms of rationality; the compatibility of a scientific perspective on the mind with traditional conceptions of deliberation and autonomy.
Prerequisite: 103, 106, 206, 215, 216, 217, 221 or permission of instructor.
Distribution: Epistemology and Cognition
Semester: Fall. Unit: 1.0

PHIL 349 Seminar, Speech Acts
Tirrell
This seminar will survey various philosophical issues and applications of speech act theory. Particular attention will be paid to utterances that enact facts about what is permissible for others, the role of authority in this, and indirect speech acts. Recent applications of speech act theory to free speech (e.g., hate speech and pornography) will also be discussed.

Directions for Election
The philosophy department divides its courses and seminars into three subfields: (A) the history of philosophy: 201, 220, 221, 222, 223, 224, 225, 226, 230, 300, 302, 303, 311, 312, 319, 349 (when the topic is appropriate); (B) value theory: 106, 202, 203, 204, 206, 210, 211, 213, 214, 227, 232, 233, 234, 249, 303, 326, 352, 340, 349 (when the topic is appropriate); (C) metaphysics and theory of knowledge: 103, 202, 207, 209, 211, 215, 216, 217, 218, 232, 233, 234, 300, 302, 304, 313, 314, 323, 327, 345, 349 (when the topic is appropriate).

The major in philosophy consists of at least nine units. PHIL 201 and 221 are required of all majors. In order to assure that all majors are familiar with the breadth of the field, every major must take two units in each of subfields B and C. Majors are strongly encouraged to take a third unit in subfield A. Students planning graduate work in philosophy should take PHIL 216 and acquire a reading knowledge of Latin, Greek, French, or German. In order to assure that students have acquired some depth in philosophy, the department requires that each major complete at least two 300-level units; these units must be in different subfields of philosophy.

The minor in philosophy consists of five units. No more than one of these units may be at the 100 level; PHIL 201 or 221 is required of all minors; at least one of the five units must be at the 300 level.

Honors
The department offers the following options for earning honors in the major field: (1) writing a thesis or a set of related essays; (2) a program designed particularly for students who have a general competence and who wish to improve their grasp of their major field by independent study in various sectors of the field. Option (2) involves selecting at least two related areas and one special topic for independent study. When the student is ready, she will take written examinations in her two areas and, at the end of the second term, an oral examination focusing on her special topic.

Exchange
The department participates in exchange programs with Brandeis and MIT. Both schools have excellent philosophy departments, and students are encouraged to consult the respective catalogs for offerings.

PE 121 (Fall and Spring) Physical Education Activities and Athletics Teams
Physical Education and Athletics Requirement
To complete the College degree requirement in physical education, a student must earn eight credit points. Students are strongly urged to earn the eight credit points by the end of the sophomore year. These credit points do not count as academic units toward the degree, but are required for graduation. There are no exceptions for the degree requirement in physical education and athletics.

Directions for Election
The requirement can be completed through:
1. completion of sufficient number of physical education instructional classes to earn eight credits; or
2. sufficient length of participation in Wellesley’s 13 varsity athletic teams to earn eight credits; or
3. a combination of sufficient completion of instructional classes and participation on varsity athletic teams to earn eight credits, including credits earned at other colleges.

Students can receive partial credit toward the eight credit points through:
Independent pursuit either on or off campus (max. four points). Students must satisfactorily complete this preapproved independent study as specified in the physical education and athletics curriculum handbook.

Sufficient length of participation in Wellesley’s physical activity clubs (max. two points). Students must satisfactorily complete this preapproved participation as specified in the physical education and athletics curriculum handbook.

Transfer students will be given partial credit toward the physical education requirement dependent upon year and semester of admission. Usually, students admitted in the sophomore year will be expected to complete four credit points at Wellesley. Students admitted in the junior year or as a Davis Scholar will be considered as having completed the degree requirement.

A student’s choice of activity is subject to the approval of the physical education and athletics department and the College health services. If a student has a temporary or permanent medical restriction, she, the physical education and athletics department and the College health services will arrange an activity program to serve her individual need.

No student is exempt from the physical education requirement.

Students may take a specific physical education activity only once for credit. Students may continue to enroll in physical education instructional classes after the PE 121 requirement is completed provided space is available in the class.

A. Physical Education Instructional Classes
The instructional program in physical education is divided into four terms, two each semester. Some physical education activity classes are scheduled for a term (six weeks) and give two credit points toward completing the requirement. Other physical education activity classes are offered for a semester (12 weeks) and count four credit points toward completing the requirement. All classes are graded on a credit-no credit basis.

CR – Credit for course completed satisfactorily.
NC – No credit for course not completed satisfactorily. Inadequate familiarity with the content of the course or excessive absence may result in an NC grade.
INC – Incomplete is assigned to a student who has completed the course with the exception of a test or assignment which was missed near the end of the course because of reasons not willfully negligent.

Activity classes scheduled for a semester (12 weeks):
Both Semesters: African Dance, Ballet I, Jazz, Badminton, Self-defense, Yoga, Strength and Circuit Training, Tai-chi, Elementary Tennis, Squash, Stretch and Tone, Karate, Kung Fu, Pilates, Cardiovascular Fitness
First Semester only: Ballet II, Modern Dance I, World Dance, Archery, Aquaball, Latino Salsa Dance, Indian Dance-Kathak Style, Ballet I
Second Semester only: Golf, Dance Theatre Workshop, Caribbean Dance Styles, Latino Combination Dances, Ballet II

Activity classes scheduled for a term (six weeks):
Activity | Term
--- | ---
Aerobics | 1, 2, 3, 4
Archery | 1, 4
CPR/First Aid | 3, Winter
Dance – World | 3, Winter
Elementary Swimming | 1
Fencing | 2, 3
Golf | 1, 4
Horseback Riding | 1, 2, 3, 4
Sailing | 1, 4
Skiing Downhill/Snowboarding | 3
Stroke Development | 2
Table Tennis | 1, 2
Yoga | Winter

B. Athletics Teams
The intercollegiate program offers 13 sports through which a student may earn credit points towards the completion of the degree requirement. The athletics program is divided into three seasons: fall, winter, and spring with several sports offered each season. The maximum number of credit points that can be earned during a season are: Fall (four), Winter (seven), and Spring (six).

Athletic Team | Season
--- | ---
Basketball | Winter
Crew (varsity and novice) | Fall, Spring
Cross-country Running | Fall
Fencing | Winter
Field Hockey | Fall
Golf | Fall/Spring
Lacrosse | Spring
Soccer | Fall
Softball | Winter
Squash | Winter
Swimming | Winter
Tennis | Fall, Spring
Volleyball | Fall

Enrollment and eligibility for earning credit points toward completion of requirement by participating on one of these teams is limited to those students who are selected to the team by the head coach.

Notes of organizational meetings and tryouts for these 13 teams are distributed each year by the head coach.

PE 205 Sports Medicine
Bauman
The course combines the study of biomechanics and anatomic kinesiology. It focuses on the effects of the mechanical forces which arise within and outside the body and their relationship to injuries of the musculoskeletal system. In addition to the lectures, laboratory sessions provide a clinical setting for hands-on learning and introduce students to the practical skills involved in evaluating injuries, determining methods of treatment and establishing protocol for rehabilitation. An off-site cadaver lab reinforces identification of anatomical structures. Academic credit only.

PHYS 101 Einstein's Century: Physics in the Last 100 Years

Stark

In 1905, Albert Einstein published three seminal papers in the history of modern science, introducing the theory of special relativity, launching the field of quantum mechanics, and helping establish the atomic nature of matter. We will use Einstein's contributions as a springboard for an introductory exploration of the nature of light, matter, space, and time. PHYS 101 is designed for the student who may not have a strong science background but would like an introduction to the major themes of physics in the last one hundred years. In addition to lectures and demonstrations we will have readings that draw from the biographical and historical contexts in which these ideas developed. We will make use of basic high school algebra, and some trigonometry, in our work. Not to be counted toward minimum major or to fulfill entrance requirement for medical school.

Prerequisite: Fulfillment of the basic skills component of the Quantitative Reasoning requirement.

PHYS 103 The Physics of Marine Mammals with Laboratory

NOT OFFERED IN 2004-05.

Sperm whales can dive thousands of feet, stay submerged for over an hour, and resurface rapidly; no other mammal can do that and survive. Many marine mammals thrive in arctic waters, sense the world around them using sound, and move with phenomenal efficiency. In this course we will learn the physics underlying the remarkable abilities of these aquatic mammals. Marine mammal characteristics and the associated scientific topics include: diving and swimming (ideal gas law, fluids, and forces); metabolism (energy, thermodynamics, and scaling); and senses (waves, acoustics, and optics). This course represents a naturally interdisciplinary approach in connecting biology, chemistry and engineering principles to the physics we will study as we learn about these animals. The course also emphasizes the development of modeling and problem-solving techniques. Whale watch. Not to be counted toward minimum major or to fulfill entrance requirement for medical school.

PHYS 104 Fundamentals of Mechanics with Laboratory

Lannert, Quivers (Fall), Stark (Spring)

This course is a systematic introduction to Newtonian mechanics, which governs the motion of objects ranging from biological cells to galaxies. Primary concepts such as mass, force, energy, and momentum are introduced and discussed in depth. We will place emphasis on the conceptual framework and on using fundamental principles to analyze the everyday world. Topics include: Newton's Laws, conservation of energy, conservation of momentum, rotations, waves, and fluids. Concepts from calculus will be developed and used as needed. Laboratories introduce experimental approaches to these topics. Students with a strong background in math or previous experience in physics should consider PHYS 107. Not to be taken in addition to 107. Not to be counted toward the minimum major.

Prerequisite: Fulfillment of the basic skills component of the Quantitative Reasoning requirement. Calculus at the level of MATH 115.
Distribution: Mathematical Modeling or Natural and Physical Science
Semester: Fall, Spring

Unit: 1.25

PHYS 106 Fundamentals of Electricity, Magnetism, and Optics with Laboratory

Berg (Fall), Goldban, Quivers (Spring)

This second semester of classical physics concentrates on the fundamental forces of electricity and magnetism. The electric and magnetic forces are entirely responsible for the structures and interactions of atoms and molecules, the properties of all solids, and the structure and function of biological material. Our technological society is largely dependent on the myriad applications of the physics of electricity and magnetism, e.g., motors and generators, communications systems, and the architecture of computers. After developing quantitative descriptions of electricity and magnetism, we explore the relations between them, leading us to an understanding of light as an electromagnetic phenomenon. The course will consider both ray-optics and wave-optics descriptions of light. Laboratory exercises will emphasize electrical circuits, electronic measuring instruments, optics, and optical experiments. PHYS 106 does not normally satisfy the prerequisites for 202 or 203 and does not count toward the minimum major. In the fall semester, this course may be taken as 106 or, with alternative assignments and exams, 108.

PHYS 107 Principles and Applications of Mechanics with Laboratory

Ducas, Hu (Fall), Lannert (Spring)

Newtonian mechanics governs the motion of objects ranging from biological cells to galaxies. The fundamental principles of mechanics allow us to begin to analyze and understand the physical world. In this introductory, calculus-based course, we will systematically study the laws underlying how why objects move, and develop analysis techniques for applying these laws to everyday situations. Broadly applicable problem-solving skills will be developed and stressed. Topics include: forces, energy, momentum, rotations, gravity, and waves, and a wide range of applications. Laboratories focus on hands-on approaches to these topics. May not be taken in addition to 104.

PHYS 108 Principles and Applications of Electricity, Magnetism, and Optics with Laboratory

Berg (Fall), Berg (Spring)

The electromagnetic force, one of the fundamental interactions in nature, is responsible for a remarkably wide range of phenomena and technologies, from the structures of atoms and molecules to the transmission of nerve impulses and the characteristics of integrated circuits. This introductory course begins with the study of Coulomb's Law of electrostatics and progresses through investigations of electric fields, electric potential energy, magnetic fields, and Faraday's Law of magnetic induction. The course culminates in the study of light, where the deep connections between electricity and magnetism are highlighted. Geometrical optics and an introduction to interference effects caused by the electromagnetic wave nature of light are covered. Laboratories, a central part of the course, provide students with hands-on experiences with electronics and electronic and optical instruments. In the fall semester, this course may be taken as 106 or, with alternative assignments and exams, 108.

PHYS 115/CS 115 Robotic Design Studio (Wintersession)

Berg, Turbak (Computer Science)

In this intensive course, students are introduced to engineering principles while designing and assembling robots out of LEGO parts, sensors, motors, and tiny computers. Fundamental robotics skills are learned in the context of studying and modifying a simple robot known as ScilBorg. Then, working in small teams, students design and build their own robots for display at a robot exhibition. These projects tie together aspects of a surprisingly wide range of disciplines, including computer science, physics, engineering, and art. Students may register for either PHYS 115 or CS 115. Credit will be given in the department in which the student is registered.

PHYS 202 Introduction to Quantum Mechanics and Thermodynamics with Laboratory

Ducas

The development of quantum mechanics represented one of the most fundamental revolutions in our understanding of the natural world. Quantum mechanics forms the basis for our knowledge of atoms, molecules, and solid state systems as well as nuclear and fundamental particles. Thermodynamics deals with the concepts of heat and temperature and their connection to properties of matter and to processes in natural and constructed systems. This course introduces both of these important branches of physics and looks at their links by investigating such phenomena as atomic and molecular heat capacities, and the statistical basis for black-body radiation and the second law of thermodynamics.

PHYS 203 Vibrations, Waves, and Special Relativity with Laboratory

Berg

A wide range of physical systems exhibit vibrational and wave motion. Because of this universality, learning about a few fundamental characteristics of waves and vibrations can yield insight into a tremendous number of phenomena such as the motion of strings and springs, molecular spectra, oscillations in solids, liquids and gases, sound, and electromagnetic radiation as well as the behavior of fundamental particles. We will study particular applications, such as Nuclear Magnetic Resonance and Fourier Transform Spectroscopy, that are used in research. The course culminates with an introduction to Einstein's Theory of Special Relativity, with an emphasis on explaining how this theory radically alters classical notions of space and time.

PHYS 219 The Art of Electronics

NOT OFFERED IN 2004-05. We are increasingly surrounded in our lives by boxes filled with electronics, but for most people (including many scientists) the inner workings of these boxes remain obscure and mysterious. This course is intended to remove much of this mystery. The approach is practical, aimed at allowing experimentalists to understand the electronics encountered in their research. The emphasis is on designing and building circuits. Topics include diodes, transistor amplifiers, op amps, and digital electronics including microprocessors and microcontrollers. Applications to robotics will be explored. Two laboratories per week and no formal lectures.

PHYS 302 Quantum Mechanics

Quiers

This course provides a comprehensive development of the principles of non-relativistic quantum mechanics, the fundamental theory of electrons, atoms, and molecules. Quantum mechanics governs the building blocks of all matter, and yet fundamentally challenges our physical intuition, which is based on the behavior of everyday macroscopic objects. Topics include the postulates of quantum mechanics, the Schrödinger equation, operator theory, the Heisenberg uncertainty principle, the hydrogen atom, and spin.

PHYS 305 Statistical Mechanics and Thermodynamics

Quiers

Modern statistical mechanics builds from the quantum nature of individual particles to describe the behavior of large and small systems of such particles. In this course we will derive the fundamental laws of thermodynamics using basic principles of statistics and investigate applications to such systems as ideal and real atomic and molecular gases, radiating bodies, magnetic spins, and solids. We will study Bose-Einstein and Fermi-Dirac statistics and learn about exciting new developments such as Bose-Einstein condensation and ultra cold Fermi gases. We will cover additional applications of statistical mechanics in the fields of biology, chemistry, and astrophysics.

PHYS 314 Electromagnetic Theory

Lamert

Richard Feynman once said, "From a long view of the history of mankind – seen from, say, ten thousand years from now – there can be little doubt that the most significant event of the nineteenth century will be judged as Maxwell’s discovery of the laws of electrodynamics. The American Civil War will pale into provincial insignificance in comparison with this important scientific event of the same decade." In this course we will study the classical theory of electromagnetic fields and waves as developed by Maxwell. Topics include boundary value problems, electromagnetic radiation and its interaction with matter, and the connection between electrodynamics and relativity.

Computations by networks of neurons in the brain underlie all of our thoughts, perceptions, and memories. However, direct experimental observation of neural computations is extremely difficult. Mathematical models are increasingly used to bridge the gap between experimental measurements and hypothesized network functions. This course will focus on the use of mathematical models to describe computations.
performed in the nervous systems of a variety of animals. Topics will range from single neuron biophysics to the analysis of circuits thought to underlie sensory perception and memory. Each topic will be introduced by background lectures, followed by student-led presentations of primary literature and construction of a computer model of the system studied. Lab will introduce students to computer programming of mathematical models in MATLAB and the neuron-simulator NEURON. Students may register for either PHYS 335, BISC 335, or NEUR 335. Credit will be given in the department in which the student is registered.

Prerequisite: 104/107 and either 106/108 or NEUR/BISC 213, or permission of instructor. No programming experience is required. Not open to first-year students.

A major in physics should ordinarily include: 107, 108, 202, 203, 302, 305, 306, and 314. [EXTD 216] or MATH 216/PHYS 216 is an additional requirement. 219 and 349 are strongly recommended. One unit of another laboratory science is recommended.

A minor in physics (six units) should ordinarily include: 104 or 107, 108, 202, 203, 302 and one other unit at the 300 level (350 cannot be counted as the other 300-level unit). [EXTD 216] or MATH 216/PHYS 216 is also required.

All students who wish to consider a major in physics or a related field are urged to complete the introductory sequence (107 and 108) as soon as possible, preferably in the first year. A strong mathematics background is necessary for advanced courses. It is suggested that students complete MATH 115 and 116 or 120 in their first year and the MATH 215/PHYS 215 and 216 sequence no later than their second year. All students majoring in physics are urged to develop proficiency in the use of one or more computer languages.

Teacher Certification

Students interested in obtaining certification to teach physics in the Commonwealth of Massachusetts should consult the chairs of the education and physics departments.

Exemption Examinations

Examinations for exemption from PHYS 107 and 108 are offered. Sample examinations are available from the department. The department does not accept AP credit for exemption from PHYS 107 and 108. Students may not receive more than two units of credit for the introductory physics sequence. For example, a student who enrolls in both PHYS 107 and 108 will not also receive AP credit.

Introductory Courses

POL 100 Introduction to Political Science

Staff

Politics is a struggle for power – and questions about power are at the heart of political science: How is power gained? How is it lost? How is it organized? How is it used? How is it abused? This course introduces students to the concerns and methods of political scientists and to the major subfields of the discipline: American politics, comparative politics, international relations, and political theory. The course is centered on several major books in the field, some describing important political events, such as the rise of the Nazi party in Germany and the collapse of apartheid in South Africa, and some illustrating how political scientists analyze and evaluate the world of politics. This course is strongly recommended for all further work in political science.

Prerequisite: 200, 210 or permission of instructor. Distribution: Social and Behavioral Analysis Semester: Spring Unit: 1.0

POLI 317 Health Politics and Policy Burke
NOT OFFERED IN 2004-05. The American system of health care is distinctive. Financing is provided through voluntary employer contributions, tax subsidies, individual payments and an array of public programs, principally Medicare and Medicaid — but despite the variety of funding sources, Americans, unlike citizens of other affluent democracies, are not guaranteed health care coverage. How did the American approach to health care develop? How is it different from that of other affluent nations? What explains the differences? What are the strengths and weaknesses of the American health care system? Issues of cost containment, technological innovation, quality of care, and disparities in health outcomes are explored.
Prerequisite: 200 or 210 or permission of instructor. Distribution: Social and Behavioral Analysis Semester: N/O Unit: 1.0

POLI 318 Religion and Politics in Contemporary America Mealy
This course examines the relationship between religion and politics. From the founding of the United States to President Bush's Faith-Based Initiative, the role of religion in American political behavior has been the subject of great debate. Special attention will be paid to how religion serves as a form of political socialization, often informing political participation, voting behavior and political attitudes. Relevant policy and legal decisions will be reviewed. First Amendment topics such as the separation between church and state, religious freedom and the Establishment Clause will also be addressed.
Prerequisite: 200 or 210 or permission of the instructor. Distribution: Social and Behavioral Analysis Semester: Fall Unit: 1.0

POLI 319S Seminar: Campaigns and Elections Just Exploration of the issues in campaigns and elections: Who runs and why? Do elections matter? The impact of party decline and the rise of campaign consultants, polls, advertising, and the press. Candidate strategies and what they tell us about the political process. How voters decide. The "meaning" of elections. Attention to the rules of the game (the primaries, debates, the Electoral College), recent campaign innovations (talk shows, town meetings, infomercials), third party candidates, and prospects for political reform. Course work includes campaign participation.

137 Political Science
POLI 120S Seminar. Inequality and the Law

Johnson

NOT OFFERED IN 2004-05. Analysis of statutory and Constitutional law regarding inequalities based on gender, race, class, sexual orientation, and disability, and the effect of this law on society. Do anti-discrimination laws reduce social inequality? To what extent have the legal rights won by groups such as African Americans, women, and disabled people been translated into social practices? Focus on the equal protection and due process clauses of the Fourteenth Amendment, statutes such as the 1964 Civil Rights Act and the Americans with Disabilities Act, and recent Supreme Court decisions. Examination of the role of law and litigation in public policies regarding affirmative action, school desegregation, employment discrimination, housing, and welfare.

Prerequisite: 215, 311, or another unit in American legal studies and permission of instructor. Enrollment limited; interested students must fill out a seminar application available in the political science department office or on the department Web site.

Distribution: Social and Behavioral Analysis

Candreva
An introduction to the study of political theory, and specifically to the problems of political action. Exploration of questions about civil disobedience, legitimate authority, ethics and politics, and the challenge of creating a just order in a world characterized by multiple beliefs and identities. Discussion of the social contract, democracy, liberalism, decolonization, violence and revolution, universalism and cultural relativism, and differences of race, class, and gender. Authors include Plato, Machiavelli, Rousseau, Locke, Martin Luther King, Jr., Malcolm X, Fanon, and Gandhi.
Prerequisite: One unit in political science, philosophy, or history, or permission of instructor.
Distribution: Religion, Ethics, and Moral Philosophy
Semester: Fall, Spring
Unit: 1.0

POL4 240 Classical and Medieval Political Theory
Candreva
Study of selected classical, Medieval, and early modern writers, including Plato, Aristotle, Cicero, St. Augustine, St. Thomas Aquinas, Machiavelli, Luther, and Calvin. Emphasis on the logic of each theorist's argument, including such questions as the nature of human sociability, possible—and best-forms of government, and the question why we should obey government and the limits to that obedience. Exploration of diverse understandings of the concepts of justice, freedom, and equality. Attention is paid to the historical context within which a political theory is written.
Prerequisite: One unit in political science, philosophy, or European history.
Distribution: Religion, Ethics, and Moral Philosophy
Semester: Fall
Unit: 1.0
POL 241 Modern Political Theory
Stettner
Study of the development of Western political theory from the seventeenth to nineteenth centuries. Among the theorists read are Hobbes, Locke, Hume, Rousseau, Burke, Wollstonecraft, Mill, Hegel, and Marx. Emphasis on the logic of each theorist's argument, including such questions as the nature of human sociability, possible—and best—forms of government, and the question why we should obey government and the limits to that obedience. Exploration of diverse understandings of the concepts of justice, freedom, and equality. Attention is paid to the historical context within which a political theory is written.
Prerequisite: One unit in political science, philosophy, or European history.
Distribution: Religion, Ethics, and Moral Philosophy
Semester: Spring
Unit: 1.0

POL 242 Contemporary Political Theory
Krieger
Study of several twentieth-century traditions that raise fundamental questions about the human condition, processes of historical and personal transformation, and our capacity to understand them. Exploration of contemporary political and social theories, including existentialism, contemporary variants of Marxism, postmodern theory, feminism, and liberal theory.
Prerequisite: One unit in political theory, social theory, or political philosophy, or permission of the instructor.
Distribution: Religion, Ethics, and Moral Philosophy
Semester: Fall
Unit: 1.0

POL 248 Power and Politics
Euben
NOT OFFERED IN 2004-05. An examination of the nature and functioning of power in politics, with an emphasis on the following questions: What is the nature of power and how has it been exercised in political life both past and present? Who has power and who should have it? Is power primarily wielded by political leaders and bureaucrats, or has the development of new technologies decentralized power, making each of us its instrument? Do the powerless—for example, miners in Appalachia, Polish solidarity activists, Indian anti-colonialists—understand and exercise power differently from those who traditionally hold it? Are power and violence inextricably intertwined or are they opposites? Readings will be drawn from several disciplines, and authors include Thucydides, bell hooks, Hannah Arendt, Marx, Nietzsche, Foucault, Kafka, Gandhi, and Vlaclav Havel.
Prerequisite: One unit in political science, philosophy, or history, or permission of instructor.
Distribution: Religion, Ethics, and Moral Philosophy
Semester: N/O
Unit: 1.0

POL 340 American Political Thought
Stettner
Examination of American political writing, with emphasis given to the Constitutional period, progressive era, and contemporary sources. Questions raised include: origins of American institutions, including the rationale for federalism and separation of powers, the roles of president and Congress, judicial review; American interpretations of democracy, equality, freedom and justice; legitimate powers of central and local governments. Attention paid to historical context and to importance for modern political analysis.
Prerequisite: One 200-level unit in political theory, American politics, or American history, or permission of instructor.
Distribution: Historical Studies
Semester: Spring
Unit: 1.0

POL 342S Seminar, Marxist Political Theory
Krieger
NOT OFFERED IN 2004-05. Study of the fundamental concepts of Marxist theory, including alienation, the materialist conception of history, class formation, and class struggle. Particular attention will be paid to Marx's theory of politics. The applicability of Marxist theory to contemporary political developments will be assessed. Study of contemporary Marxist theory will emphasize issues of class, race, and gender.
Prerequisite: Enrollment limited; interested students must fill out a seminar application available in the political science department office or on the department Web site.
Distribution: Religion, Ethics, and Moral Philosophy
Semester: N/O
Unit: 1.0

POL 343S Seminar, Democracy and Difference
Krieger
An examination of liberal democracy and contemporary theoretical challenges introduced by diversity and difference. Does liberal democracy, with its emphasis on individual rights, separation of powers, representative assemblies, and the principle of a limited state, remain a durable model? How does the consideration of cultural diversity and difference, understood by reference to gender, race, ethnicity, language, religion, nationality, and sexual orientation, affect our understanding of citizenship, equality, representation, recognition, and community? Study of communitarian thought, multiculturalism, and feminist critiques of democracy.
Prerequisite: One 200-level unit in political theory, or permission of instructor. Enrollment limited; interested students must fill out a seminar application available in the political science department office or on the department Web site.
Distribution: Religion, Ethics, and Moral Philosophy
Semester: Fall
Unit: 1.0

POL 344S Seminar, Feminist Political Theory
Euben
NOT OFFERED IN 2004-05. An examination of feminist theory, beginning with early liberal and socialist feminisms and continuing on to radical, post-structuralist and postcolonial feminist theories, among others. Particular attention to the complexity of theorizing about "what women are and need" in the context of a multicultural society and a postcolonial world. Consideration of feminist perspectives on rights and the law, pornography, racial and sexual differences, methodology, and non-Western cultural practices. Authors include Wollstonecraft, Engels, Hooks, MacKinnon, Gilligan, and Butler.
Prerequisite: One 200-level unit in political theory, philosophy, or women's studies; interested students must fill out a seminar application available in the political science department office or on the department Web site.
Distribution: Religion, Ethics, and Moral Philosophy
Semester: N/O
Unit: 1.0

POL 346 Comparative Political Thought: Modern Western and Islamic Theories of Politics
Euben
NOT OFFERED IN 2004-05. An examination of Western and Islamic theories about the nature and dilemmas of modern politics: does modern politics require secularization or a return to the "fundamentals" of tradition, religion, and community? Is there such a thing as a distinctive Western or Islamic perspective in a world stamped by colonialism, imperialism, and now globalization? Issues include the relationship between religion and politics; cultural relativism and universalism; Islamic fundamentalist and postmodernist reactions to the crises of modern politics. Authors include Machiavelli, Muhammad Abduh, Rousseau, Ibn Khaldun, Taha Hussein, and Foucault.
Prerequisite: One 200-level unit in political theory or philosophical permission of instructor.
Distribution: Religion, Ethics, and Moral Philosophy
Semester: N/O
Unit: 1.0

POL 347S Seminar: Politics, Literature, and the Concept of Empire
Cantrill
NOT OFFERED IN 2004-05. What does it mean to be an "empire"? In this seminar, we will explore this question through specific historical examples (including Greece, Rome, Britain and France), using a variety of literary and philosophical texts (Herodotus, Virgil, Machiavelli, Conrad, Kipling, Fanon, Said). Particular attention will be given to questions about freedom, power, rights and obligations. In conclusion, we will examine contemporary sources to assess whether or not the term "empire" may be applied to the United States today.
Prerequisite: Permission of the instructor. Interested students must fill out a seminar application available in the political science department office or on the department Web site.
Distribution: Religion, Ethics, and Moral Philosophy
Semester: N/O
Unit: 1.0

Research or Individual Study
Individual or group research of an exploratory or specialized nature. Students interested in independent research should request the assistance of a faculty sponsor and plan the project, readings, conferences, and method of examination with the faculty sponsor. These courses are offered at the intermediate (250) and advanced (350) levels and for one or 0.5 unit of credit.

For Credit Towards the Major

AFR 318 Seminar. African Women, Social Transformation and Empowerment

Directions for Election

POL 100 is strongly recommended for all further work in political science, particularly for those who are considering a major in the department. A major in political science consists of at least nine units. Courses at the 100-level may be counted toward the major, but not toward a subfield distribution requirement (see below). In the process of fulfilling their major, students are encouraged to take at least one course or seminar that focuses on the politics of a culture other than their own.

The Department of Political Science divides its courses beyond the introductory level into four subfields: American politics and law (POL 1), comparative politics (POL 2), international relations (POL 3), and political theory (POL 4). In order to ensure that political science majors familiarize themselves with the substantive concerns and methodologies employed throughout the discipline, all majors must take one 200-level or 300-level unit in each of the four subfields offered by the department. Recommended first courses in the four subfields are: in American politics and law: POL 1 200; in comparative politics: POL 2 202; in international relations: POL 3 221; in political theory: POL 4 201, 240, 241.

In addition to the subfield distribution requirement, all majors must do advanced work (300 level) in at least two of the four subfields; a minimum of one of these units must be a seminar, which normally requires a major research paper. (Courses fulfilling the seminar requirement are denoted by an "S" after the course number.) Admission to department seminars is by permission of the instructor only. Interested students must fill out a seminar application, which is available in the political science office prior to preregistration for each term. Majors should begin applying for seminars during their junior year in order to be certain of fulfilling this requirement. Majors are encouraged to take more than the minimum number of required 300-level courses.

Ordinarily, a minimum of five units for the major must be taken at Wellesley, as must the courses that are used to fulfill at least two of the four subfield distributions and the seminar requirement. The department does not grant transfer credit at the 300 level for either the major or for College distribution or degree requirements.

Although Wellesley College does not grant academic credit for participation in internship programs, students who take part in the Washington Summer Internship Program may arrange with a faculty member to undertake a unit of 350, Research or Individual Study, related to the internship experience.

Students may receive units of College credit if they achieve a grade of 4 or 5 on the American Government and Politics, or the Comparative Politics Advanced Placement Examinations. Such AP credits do not count toward the minimum number of units required for the political science major or for the American or comparative subfields' distribution requirements for the major. If a student does not receive a unit of College credit for the American politics exam, she may not take POLI 200 (American Politics). Students who are uncertain whether to receive a College AP credit in American politics or to take POLI 200 should consult with a member of the department who specializes in American politics or law.

 Majors who are interested in writing a senior honors thesis are urged to discuss their ideas and plans with either their advisor or the department chair as early as possible in their junior year. Students considering going to graduate school for a Ph.D. in political science should talk with their advisors about appropriate preparation in quantitative methods and foreign languages.

PSYC 299 Practicum in Psychology

Staff

Participation in a structured learning experience in an approved field setting under faculty supervision. Does not count toward the minimum major in psychology. Mandatory credit/non-credit, except by permission of instructor. Prerequisite: Open by permission to junior and senior majors. Two units above the 100-level that are most appropriate to the field setting as determined by the faculty supervisor (excluding 205).

Distribution: None

Semester: Fall, Spring

Unit: 1.0

PSYC 300/CLSC 300 Topics in Cognitive and Linguistic Sciences

Lucas

Topic for 2004-05: Cooperation and Competition. According to traditional models of rationality, rational agents should act in ways that will maximize their self-interest. And the study of evolution teaches us that individuals are in competition for survival. Nonetheless, we have all experienced acts of apparent selflessness and societies could not function without cooperation among their members. How, then, can cooperative and selfish behaviors be explained? In this course, an interdisciplinary approach to the problem will be taken. Evidence and theories from the psychological, economic, and neurobiological literatures will be examined. Cross-cultural, developmental, and cross-species differences will be explored as will the evolutionary origins of cooperation and competition and the role of cooperation in language. Students may register for either PSYC 300 or CLSC 300. Credit will be given in the department in which the student is registered.

Prerequisite: Open to juniors and seniors who have taken one of PSYC 215-219, [LANG] LING 114, PHIL 215, CS 113 or permission of instructor.

Distribution: Epistemology and Cognition

Semester: Spring

Unit: 1.0

PSYC 302 Health Psychology

NOT OFFERED IN 2004-05. An exploration of the role of psychological factors in preventing illness and maintaining good health, in the treatment of illness, and in adjustment to ongoing illness.

Prerequisite: Open to juniors and seniors who have taken two 200-level units, excluding 205, or permission of instructor.

Distribution: Social and Behavioral Analysis

Semester: N/O

Unit: 1.0

PSYC 303 Psychology of Gender

Gordon

An examination of different theoretical approaches to the study of sex and gender, the social construction and maintenance of gender, and current research on gender differences. Topics will include review of arguments about appropriate methods for studying sex and gender and its legitimacy as a research focus, gender roles and gender socialization, potential biological bases of gender differences, and the potential for change in different sex-specific behaviors.

Prerequisite: Open to juniors and seniors who have taken two 200-level units excluding 205, or permission of instructor.

Distribution: Social and Behavioral Analysis

Semester: Fall

Unit: 1.0

PSYC 308 Systems of Psychotherapy

NOT OFFERED IN 2004-05. This course examines theory, research, and practice in three schools of psychotherapy: psychodynamic, cognitive-behavioral, and humanistic. Topics to be covered include underlying assumptions of normality/pathology, theories of change, methods/techniques, and relationship between therapist and client.

Prerequisite: Open to juniors and seniors who have taken two 200-level units including 224 and excluding 205, or permission of instructor.

Distribution: Social and Behavioral Analysis

Semester: N/O

Unit: 1.0

PSYC 311 Seminar. Environmental Psychology

NOT OFFERED IN 2004-05. Exploration of the interaction between the physical environment and an individual's behavior and feelings. Emphasis on relevant issues such as environmental quality, personal space, and crowding. Some attention to children and to environmental issues, such as conservation and psychological consequences of natural disasters. Specific settings, such as urban environments, playgrounds, and homes, are studied. Small groups of students will use observation, interview, or questionnaire techniques to pursue small-scale research topics. Individual oral reports.

Prerequisite: Open to juniors and seniors who have taken two 200-level units, excluding 205, or permission of instructor.

Distribution: Social and Behavioral Analysis

Semester: Spring

Unit: 1.0

PSYC 312 Seminar. Applied Psychology

Schiano

Analysis of psychologically-based programs and interventions in applied settings such as organizations, social service agencies, health-care facilities, social support groups, environmental and community change agencies, etc. Consideration of the psychological theories, methods, and research findings which provide the foundation for these programs. Students will participate in relevant settings or activities.

Prerequisite: Open to juniors and seniors who have taken two 200-level units, excluding 205, or permission of instructor.

Distribution: Social and Behavioral Analysis

Semester: Spring

Unit: 1.0

PSYC 316 Seminar. Psycholinguistics

Wagner

Topic for 2004-05: Language Acquisition. This course will examine how children acquire language. Topics will include how children learn words and assign meanings to them, how children learn rules to build syntactic structures, the roles of biology and environment in acquiring a language, the relationship between language and thought in development, and bilingualism. Readings will address the course of acquisition in normally developing children as well as in special populations (e.g., children with Autism, Williams Syndrome and Special Language Impairment).

Prerequisite: Open to juniors and seniors who have taken two 200-level units, including one of the following: 215, 216, 217, 218, 219, or BSC 213/NEUR 213; and excluding 205, or by permission of instructor. [LANG] LING 114 may be substituted for either 200-level unit.

Distribution: Epistemology and Cognition or Social and Behavioral Analysis

Semester: Spring

Unit: 1.0
PSYC 318 Seminar. Brain and Behavior

Koff

Selected topics in brain-behavior relationships. Emphasis on psychopharmacology. Topics include principals and mechanisms underlying action of drugs, major neurotransmitter systems, major classes of psychoactive drugs, and psychological disorders and medications.

Prerequisite: Open to juniors and seniors who have taken two 200-level units, including one of the following: 219 or BISC 213, and excluding 205.

Distribution: Epistemology and Cognition or Social and Behavioral Analysis

Semester: Spring  Unit: 1.0

PSYC 319 Neuropsychology

Barth

An exploration of the neural underpinnings of higher cognitive function based on evidence from individuals with brain damage. Major neuroanatomical systems will be reviewed. Topics include motor and sensory function, attention, memory, language, and hemispheric specialization.

Prerequisite: Open to juniors and seniors who have taken two 200-level units, including either 219 or BISC 213/NEUR 213, and excluding 205.

Distribution: Epistemology and Cognition or Social and Behavioral Analysis

Semester: Fall  Unit: 1.0

PSYC 326 Seminar. Child and Adolescent Psychopathology

Th ran

Description, etiology, and developmental patterns of behavior problems of children, adolescents, and their families. Topics include theories of child and adolescent psychopathology, externalizing problems such as conduct disorder and attention-deficit/hyperactivity disorder, internalizing problems such as depression, anxiety, and children’s experiences of trauma, and development mental disorders such as mental retardation, risk and protective factors for child psychopathology, and child and family interventions.

Prerequisite: Open to juniors and seniors who have taken two 200-level units, excluding 205, or permission of instructor.

Distribution: Social and Behavioral Analysis

Semester: Fall  Unit: 1.0

PSYC 329 Seminar. Psychology of Adult hood and Aging

Wink

An examination of how people cope with changes in their adult lives. Particular emphasis on aging as an example of life stage. Topics include: personality and cognitive change in later life; development of wisdom and integrity; retirement and bereavement; coping with death; intergenerational transmission of values; social support and coping with change. Models of life stages in adulthood will also be discussed.

Distribution: Social and Behavioral Analysis

Semester: Fall  Unit: 1.0

PSYC 333 Clinical and Educational Assessment

Wink

Current approaches to the psychological appraisal of individual differences in personality, intelligence, and special abilities will be investigated through the use of cases. Tests included in the survey are: MMPI, CPI, WAIS, Rorschach, and the TAT. Special emphasis will be placed on test interpretation, report writing, and an understanding of basic psychometric concepts such as validity, reliability, and norms. Useful for students intending to pursue graduate study in clinical, personality, occupational, or school psychology.

Prerequisite: Open to juniors and seniors who have taken two 200-level units, excluding 205, or permission of instructor.

Distribution: Social and Behavioral Analysis

Semester: Fall  Unit: 1.0

PSYC 337 Seminar. The Psychology of Creativity

Hern escy

An explanation of the foundations of modern theory and research on creativity. An examination of methods designed to stimulate creative thought and expression. Topics include: psychodynamic, behavioralist, humanistic, and social-psychological theories of creativity; studies of creative individuals; personalities of creative individuals; methods of defining and assessing creativity; and programs designed to increase both verbal and nonverbal creativity.

Prerequisite: Open to juniors and seniors who have taken two 200-level units, excluding 205, or permission of instructor.

Distribution: Social and Behavioral Analysis

Semester: Fall  Unit: 1.0

PSYC 338 Social Influence

Ak er

This course focuses on a major topic in social psychology: attitude formation and change. Techniques of social influence that we encounter in everyday life will be explored, with a particular emphasis on advertising. The findings of empirical research and theory will be used to understand persuasive messages. Topics include: how emotion, gender and culture are used to maximize the effectiveness of advertisements, and how environmental factors are both perpetuated and refuted in advertising.

Prerequisite: Open to juniors and seniors who have taken 210 and one other 200-level unit, excluding 205, or permission of instructor. Not open to students who have taken [240].

Distribution: Social and Behavioral Analysis

Semester: Spring  Unit: 1.0

PSYC 339 Seminar. Narrative Identity

NOT OFFERED IN 2004-05. Narrative psychology explores the human propensity to create and use stories about significant figures and events in the process of identity formation. Topics will include an exploration of mermaids and related figures as cultural images, metaphors for personal transformation, and archetypal symbols of the collective unconscious. The Little Mermaid and La Sirène of Haitian Vodou will be examined as representations of men’s fear of, and attempts to control, women’s spirituality and sexuality. The personality theories of Jung and Reich provide the framework for the seminar.

Prerequisite: Open to juniors and seniors who have taken 212 and one other 200-level unit, excluding 205, or permission of instructor.

Distribution: Social and Behavioral Analysis

Semester: Spring  Unit: 1.0

PSYC 340 Organizational Psychology

NOT OFFERED IN 2004-05. An examination of key topics such as: social environment of the workplace, motivation and morale, change and conflict, quality of worklife, work group dynamics, leadership, culture, and the impact of workforce demographics (gender, race, socioeconomic status). Experiential activities, cases, theory, and research.

Prerequisite: Open to juniors and seniors who have taken two 200-level units excluding 205, or permission of instructor.

Distribution: Social and Behavioral Analysis

Semester: N/O  Unit: 1.0

PSYC 341 Seminar. Psychology of Shyness

NOT OFFERED IN 2004-05. An examination of psychological approaches to understanding shyness and the related self-conscious emotions of embarrassment and shame. Topics include: genetics of shyness, evolutionary perspectives on shyness in animals, adolescent self-consciousness, and individual and group differences in social behavior.

Prerequisite: Open to juniors and seniors who have taken at least one course numbered 207-212 and at least one course numbered 215-219, or permission of instructor.

Distribution: Social and Behavioral Analysis

Semester: N/O  Unit: 1.0

PSYC 342 Seminar. Psychology of Optimism and Pessimism

Norem

An examination of the ways in which expectations influence and are influenced by thoughts, feelings, motivation, and behavior. There are a variety of psychological constructs that fall under the general rubric of optimism and pessimism, and research has shown that they relate to physical and mental health, achievement, personal relationships, and even longevity. This seminar will explore those relationships, with an emphasis on understanding both the costs and the benefits of personal and cultural optimism and pessimism.

Prerequisite: Open to juniors and seniors with 212 or 210 and one other 200-level course, excluding 205.

Distribution: Social and Behavioral Analysis

Semester: Spring  Unit: 1.0

PSYC 344 Seminar. Social Imagination

Gleason

An examination of the uses and types of imagination in both childhood and adulthood. This course will touch on the mechanics of mental imagery and discuss the ways in which imagery is manifest in cognition and particularly in management of social relationships. Emphasis will be placed on the connections between imagination and creation, such as in children’s engagement of scary or nurturant pretend play. How imagination affects interpersonal interactions will be considered, as will other topics such as children’s creation of imaginary companions, imagination as pathology, and individual differences in imagination, imagery of individuals deprived of particular senses, and the influence of imagination on memory.

Prerequisite: Open to juniors and seniors who have taken two 200-level courses, excluding 205.

Distribution: Epistemology and Cognition or Social and Behavioral Analysis

Semester: Fall  Unit: 1.0

PSYC 345 Seminar. Selected Topics in Developmental Psychology

Wagner

Topic for 2004-05: “Mind-reading” in Children. This course will trace the development of our understanding of what’s going on in other people’s minds — their beliefs, goals, and intentions — and how we learn to use this information to guide our own actions. Topics include infants' abilities to follow pointing and eye-gaze and to engage in imitation and understand goal-directed actions; preschoolers' knowledge of false belief, deception; and accidents; the roles that language and social interaction play in developing our knowledge of other minds; and the effects of lacking this knowledge, as may be the case for children and adults with autism. Observations at the Child Study Center (outside of class time) will be required.

Prerequisite: Open to juniors and seniors who have taken 207 and one other 200-level course, excluding 205.
Distribution: Social and Behavioral Analysis
Semester: Fall

PSYC 347 Seminar. Culture and Social Identity

Examines the social and developmental aspects of identity with a special focus on ethnicity. The social construction of culture, interpersonal functioning, ethnic group differences, and expectations will be explored as they relate to identity development. The course includes a field research component.

Prerequisite: Open to juniors and seniors who have taken two 200-level units excluding 205, and including 245, or permission of instructor.
Distribution: Social and Behavioral Analysis
Semester: Spring

PSYC 348 Advanced Topics in Personality and Social Psychology

NOT OFFERED IN 2004-05. An exploration of the interface between personality and social psychology. Areas of research that are best understood by considering both personal dispositions and social situations will be examined. Topics include: conformity, romantic relationships, and social anxiety.

Prerequisite: Open to juniors and seniors who have taken 210 and 212, or permission of instructor.
Distribution: Social and Behavioral Analysis
Semester: N/O

PSYC 349 Seminar. Nonverbal Communication

An examination of the use of nonverbal communication in social interactions. Systematic observation of nonverbal behavior, especially facial expression, tone of voice, gestures, personal space, and body movement. Readings include scientific studies and descriptive accounts. Issues include: the communication of emotion; cultural and gender differences; the detection of deception; the impact of nonverbal cues on impression formation; nonverbal communication in specific settings (e.g., counseling, education, interpersonal relationships).

Prerequisite: Open to juniors and seniors who have taken two 200-level units, excluding 205.
Distribution: Social and Behavioral Analysis
Semester: Fall

PSYC 350 Research or Individual Study

Prerequisite: Open by permission to juniors and seniors.
Distribution: None
Semester: Fall, Spring

PSYC 351 Internship in Psychology

Staff

Participation in a structured learning experience in an approved field setting under faculty supervision. Analytical readings and paper(s) required.

Prerequisite: Open by permission to junior and senior majors. Two units above the 100-level that are most appropriate to the field setting, as determined by the faculty supervisor (excluding 205).
Distribution: None
Semester: Fall, Spring

Unit: 1.0

PSYC 360 Senior Thesis Research

Prerequisite: Completion of a research methods course by the end of the junior year, and by permission of department. See Academic Distinctions.
Distribution: None
Semester: Fall, Spring

Unit: 1.0

PSYC 370 Senior Thesis

Prerequisite: 360
Distribution: None
Semester: Fall, Spring

Unit: 1.0

Related Courses

For Credit Towards the Major

CLSC 300 Topics in Cognitive and Linguistic Sciences

Directions for Election

Psychology major: Consists of at least 9.25 units, including 205, one research methods course, three additional 200-level courses (at least one course numbered 207-212 and at least one course numbered 215-219), and two 300-level courses (at least one of which must be numbered 302-349). For students who enter the college in Fall 2004 or later, 101 is also a required course for the major. PSYC 299 does not count as one of the nine courses for the major. At least five of the courses for the major must be taken in the department.

Statistics: 205 is the only Wellesley statistics course that will count toward the fulfillment of the major. In order to obtain Wellesley credit for a statistics course taken at another institution during the summer or academic year, approval must be obtained from the department prior to enrolling in the course. Students wishing to obtain credit for statistics courses taken prior to enrollment at Wellesley should consult the chair of the department.

Research Methods Requirement: The department offers seven research methods courses: PSYC 206R, 207R, 210R, 212R, 214R, 220R, and 224R. In order to be eligible for Senior Thesis Research (PSYC 360), students must complete the research methods course by the end of the junior year.

Psychology minor: Consists of five units, including one course at the 300 level and including 101 for students who enter the college in Fall 2004 or later. PSYC 299, 350, and 351 do not count as one of the five courses for the minor. At least three of the courses for the minor must be taken in the department.

Related Interdepartmental Majors: Students interested in an interdepartmental major in neuroscience or cognitive and linguistic sciences are referred to the section of the catalog where these programs are described. They should consult with the directors of the neuroscience or cognitive and linguistic sciences programs.

Advanced Placement Credit: The unit given to students for advanced placement in psychology does not count towards the minimum psychology major or minor at Wellesley but it does fulfill the PSYC 101 requirement. If an AP student with a score of 4 or 5 completes PSYC 101, she will receive the appropriate psychology credit but will receive no AP credit.

Advanced placement credit for statistics does not exempt students from or fulfill the PSYC 205 requirement. An AP student with a score of 4 or 5 in statistics must still take 205 but can receive AP credit.
Quantitative Reasoning Program

Director: Taylor
Visiting Assistant Professor: Polito

The ability to think clearly and critically about quantitative issues is imperative in contemporary society. Today, quantitative reasoning is required in virtually all academic fields, is used in most every profession, and is necessary for decision-making in everyday life. The Quantitative Reasoning Program is designed to ensure that Wellesley College students are proficient in the use of mathematical, logical, and statistical problem-solving tools needed in today’s increasingly quantitative world.

The Quantitative Reasoning Program provides a number of services to the academic community. It oversees the administration of the Quantitative Reasoning Assessment (described below) and staffs QR 140, the basic skills QR course and some QR overlay courses. The Program also provides tutorial support to students and instructors of quantitative reasoning overlay courses. Finally, the Quantitative Reasoning Program provides curricular support to faculty interested in modifying existing courses or designing new ones so that these courses will satisfy the overlay component of the quantitative reasoning requirement.

The Quantitative Reasoning Requirement

All students must satisfy both components of the quantitative reasoning requirement: (1) the basic skills component and (2) the overlay course component. The basic skills component is satisfied either by passing the quantitative reasoning assessment given during Orientation or by passing QR 140, the basic skills course that builds mathematical skills in the context of real-world applications. Students are required to satisfy the basic skills component in their first year so that they may enroll in the many courses for which basic quantitative skills (including algebra, geometry, basic probability and statistics, graph theory, estimation, and mathematical modeling) are a prerequisite.

The overlay component is satisfied by passing a QR overlay course. Such courses emphasize statistical analysis and interpretation of data in a specific discipline. The Committee on Curriculum and Instruction has designated specific courses in fields from across the curriculum as ones that satisfy the QR overlay requirement. These courses (listed below) may also be used to satisfy a distribution requirement.

QR 140 Introduction to Quantitative Reasoning
Polito, Taylor

In this course, students develop and apply mathematical, logical, and statistical skills to solve problems in authentic contexts. The quantitative skills emphasized include algebra, geometry, probability, statistics, estimation, and mathematical modeling. Throughout the course, these skills are used to solve real-world problems, from personal finance to medical decision-making. A student passing this course satisfies the basic skills component of the quantitative reasoning requirement. This course is required for students who do not pass the quantitative reasoning assessment. Those who pass the Assessment but still want to enroll in this course must receive permission of the instructor.

Prerequisite: Permission of the instructor required for students with a score of 9.5 or above on the QR assessment.
Distribution: None
Semester: Fall, Spring
Unit: 1.0

QR 180 Statistical Analysis of Education Issues
Taylor

What factors explain individual and group differences in student achievement test scores and educational attainment? Do inequities in financing public elementary and secondary schools matter in terms of student achievement and future employment? This course explores the theories and statistical methods used by social scientists and education researchers in examining these and other education issues. Analyzing data from the National Center for Education Statistics and other data sources, students evaluate issues including the importance of family and school resources, the effects of school tracking, and the returns to private versus public schools. In doing so, students learn to use a variety of statistical tools including regression analysis, and learn to use statistical software.

Prerequisite: Fulfillment of the basic skills component of the Quantitative Reasoning requirement. Not open to students who have taken or are taking ECON 103/SOC 190, MATH 101, PSYC 205, or (QR 199).
Distribution: Social and Behavioral Analysis. Fulfills the Quantitative Reasoning overlay course requirement.
Semester: Spring
Unit: 1.0

Overlay Course Component

The following courses satisfy the overlay course component of the quantitative reasoning requirement. In order to register for a course on this list, a student must first satisfy the basic skills component of the quantitative reasoning requirement by passing either the quantitative reasoning assessment or QR 140.

Note that this list is subject to change. Check individual department listings for information about when each course is offered.

REL 104 Study of the Hebrew Bible/Old Testament

Geller

NOT OFFERED IN 2004-05. Critical introduction to the Hebrew Bible/Old Testament, studying its role in the history and culture of ancient Israel and its relationship to ancient Near Eastern cultures. Special focus on the fundamental techniques of literary, historical, and source criticism in modern scholarship, with emphasis on the Bible’s literary structure and compositional evolution.

Prerequisite: None

Distribution: Historical Studies or Religion, Ethics, and Moral Philosophy

Semester: N/O

Unit: 1.0

REL 105 Study of the New Testament

Hobbs

The writings of the New Testament as diverse expressions of early Christianity. Close reading of the texts, with particular emphasis upon the Gospels and the letters of Paul. Treatment of the literary, theological, and historical dimensions of the Christian scriptures, as well as of methods of interpretation. The beginnings of the break between the Jesus movement and Judaism will be specially considered.

Prerequisite: None

Distribution: Historical Studies or Religion, Ethics, and Moral Philosophy

Semester: Fall, Spring

Unit: 1.0

REL 108 Introduction to Asian Religions

Koderi

An introduction to the major religions of India, Tibet, China, and Japan with particular attention to universal questions such as how to overcome the human predicament, how to perceive ultimate reality, and what is the meaning of death and the end of the world. Materials taken from Islam, Hinduism, Buddhism, Confucianism, Taoism, and Shinto. Comparisons made, when appropriate, with Hebrew and Christian Scriptures.

Prerequisite: None

Distribution: Religion, Ethics, and Moral Philosophy

Semester: Fall

Unit: 1.0

REL 140 Introduction to Jewish Civilization

Geller

NOT OFFERED IN 2004-05. A survey of the history of the Jewish community from its beginnings to the present. Exploration of the elements of change and continuity within the evolving Jewish community as it interacted with the larger Greco-Roman world, Islam, Christianity, and post-Enlightenment Europe and America. Consideration given to the central ideas and institutions of the Jewish tradition in historical perspective.

REL 202 Biblical Poetry

Bernat

NOT OFFERED IN 2004-05. A time to mourn, a time to dance: a survey of the diverse types of poetry in the Hebrew Bible/Old Testament. Psalms of divine praise, thanksgiving and appeal: lamentation, wisdom, prophetic oracle, and love songs. The poetry will be studied for its artistic beauty and as a lens on to the history and beliefs of biblical Israel.

Prerequisite: None

Distribution: Religion, Ethics, and Moral Philosophy

Semester: N/O

Unit: 1.0

REL 207 Goddesses, Queens, and Witches: Survey of the Ancient Near East

Bernat

NOT OFFERED IN 2004-05. An introduction to ancient Mesopotamia, Canaan and Anatolia, through a look at literature and material culture pertaining to women of the period and region. Topics include myths about, and prayers to, goddesses such as Ishtar; laws of marriage and property; witches and witchcraft; the political institution of the Queen Mother; and the phenomenon of the Qadisha, the women dedicated to the cult and temple of various deities.

Prerequisite: None

Distribution: Historical Studies or Religion, Ethics, and Moral Philosophy

Semester: N/O

Unit: 1.0

Hobbs

NOT OFFERED IN 2004-05. The world from which Christianity emerged was largely patriarchal and sexist, with a variety of attitudes towards sexual behavior and marriage. The Christian movement itself took several different approaches toward each of these issues, which found their way into the New Testament collection and thus became the foundation for a multiplicity of stances in later centuries. This variety in the documents will be examined, with special attention to their roots and their results.

Prerequisite: None

Distribution: Historical Studies or Religion, Ethics, and Moral Philosophy

Semester: N/O

Unit: 1.0

REL 211 Jesus of Nazareth

Hobbs

Historical study of Jesus, first as he is presented in the Gospels, followed by interpretations of him at several subsequent stages of Christian history. In addition to the basic literary materials, examples from the visual arts and music will be considered, such as works by Michelangelo, Grunewald, J. S. Bach, Beethoven, and Rouault, as well as a film by Pasolini. The study will conclude with the modern "quest for the historical Jesus."

Prerequisite: None

Distribution: Religion, Ethics, and Moral Philosophy

Semester: Spring

Unit: 1.0

REL 214 Political Authority and Christians in the New Testament

Hobbs

NOT OFFERED IN 2004-05. From its beginnings, the Jesus movement (including Jesus himself) was engaged in relations with the political authorities, often involving conflict. We will examine the variety of responses to political authority that are documented in the New Testament, each of which later became the basis for the political stances of diverse versions of Christianity.

Prerequisite: None

Distribution: Historical Studies or Religion, Ethics, and Moral Philosophy

Semester: N/O

Unit: 1.0

REL 215 Christian Spirituality

Elkins

NOT OFFERED IN 2004-05. A study of historical and contemporary texts that exemplify varieties of Christian spirituality. Historical works read include Augustine’s Confessions, Thomas a Kempis’ The Imitation of Christ, Teresa of Avila’s Autobiography, Bynyan’s The Pilgrim’s Progress, and The Way of the Pilgrim. Contemporary authors include Martin Luther King, Jr., Thomas Merton, and Kathleen Norris.

REL 236/CLCV 236 Greek and Roman Religion
Calhoun
The founders of Western civilization were not monotheists. Rather, from 1750 BC until AD 500 the ancient Greeks and Romans sacrificed daily to a pantheon of immortal gods and goddesses who were expected to help mortals to achieve their earthly goals. How did this system of belief develop? Why did it capture the imaginations of so many millions for over 2000 years? What impact did the religion of the Greeks and Romans have upon the other religions of the Mediterranean, including Judaism and Christianity? Why did the religion of the Greeks and Romans ultimately disappear? Students may register for either REL 236 or CLCV 236. Credit will be given in the department in which the student is registered.
Prerequisite: Open to all students
Distribution: Historical Studies or Religion, Ethics, and Moral Philosophy
Semester: Fall
Unit: 1.0

REL 240/CLCV 240 Romans, Jews, and Christians in the Roman Empire
Geller and Rogers (Classical Studies)
NOT OFFERED IN 2004-05. At the birth of the Roman Empire virtually all of its inhabitants were practicing polytheists. Three centuries later, the Roman Emperor Constantine was baptized as a Christian and his successors eventually banned public sacrifices to the gods and goddesses who had been traditionally worshipped around the Mediterranean. This course will examine Roman era Judaism, Graeco-Roman polytheism, and the growth of the Jesus movement into the dominant religion of the late antique world. Students may register for either REL 240 or CLCV 240. Credit will be given in the department in which the student is registered.
Prerequisite: None
Distribution: Historical Studies or Religion, Ethics, and Moral Philosophy
Semester: Fall
Unit: 1.0

REL 241 Emerging Religions: Judaism and Christianity 150 B.C.E.-500 C.E.
Geller
This course explores the origins and development of these two religions in their historical and theological contexts by examining archaeological data and selections from Intertestamental Writings, the Dead Sea Scrolls, New Testament and other early Christian sources, Rabbinic Midrash, and Talmud.
Prerequisite: None
Distribution: Historical Studies or Religion, Ethics, and Moral Philosophy
Semester: Fall
Unit: 1.0

REL 242 Introduction to Rabbinic Literature
Berrut
NOT OFFERED IN 2004-05. An introduction to the main Rabbinic writings of the first half of the first millennium: the Mishnah, the Talmud, the Midrashic writings on Scripture, and early mystical texts.
Prerequisite: None
Distribution: Historical Studies or Religion, Ethics, and Moral Philosophy
Semester: N/O
Unit: 1.0

REL 243 Women in the Biblical World
Geller
The roles and images of women in the Bible, and in early Jewish and Christian literature, examined in the context of the ancient societies in which these documents emerged. Special attention to the relationships among archaeological, legal, and literary sources in reconstructing the status of women in these societies.
Prerequisite: None
Distribution: Historical Studies or Religion, Ethics, and Moral Philosophy
Semester: Fall
Unit: 1.0

REL 244 Jerusalem: The Holy City
Geller
An exploration of the history, archaeology, and architecture of Jerusalem from the Bronze Age to the present. Special attention both to the ways in which Jerusalem's Jewish, Christian, and Muslim communities transformed Jerusalem in response to their religious and political values and also to the role of the city in the ongoing mid-East and Israeli-Palestinian peace process.
Prerequisite: None
Distribution: Historical Studies or Religion, Ethics, and Moral Philosophy
Semester: Spring
Unit: 1.0

REL 245 The Holocaust and the Nazi State
Geller
An examination of the origins, character, course, and consequences of Nazi anti-Semitism during the Third Reich. Special attention to Nazi racist ideology, and how it shaped policies which affected such groups as the Jews, the disabled, the Roma and the Sinti, Poles and Russians, Afro-Germans, homosexuals, and women. Consideration also of the impact of Nazism on the German medical and teaching professions.
Prerequisite: None

REL 254 Chinese Thought and Religion
Koderia
NOT OFFERED IN 2004-05. Continuity and diversity in the history of Chinese thought and religion from the ancient sages-kings of the third millennium B.C.E. to the present. Topics include: Confucianism, Taoism, Chinese Buddhism, and their further developments and interaction. Materials drawn from philosophical and religious and literary works.
Prerequisite: None
Distribution: Historical Studies or Religion, Ethics, and Moral Philosophy
Semester: N/O
Unit: 1.0

REL 255 Japanese Religion and Culture
Koderia
Constancy and change in the history of Japanese religious thought and its cultural and literary expression from the prehistoric “age of the gods” to contemporary Japan. An examination of Japanese indebtedness to, and independence from, Korea and China, assimilation and rejection of the West, and preservation of indigenous tradition. Topics include: Shinto, distinctively Japanese interpretations of Buddhism, neo-Confucianism, their role in modernization and nationalism, Western colonialism, and modern Japanese thought as a crossroad of East and West.
Prerequisite: None
Distribution: Historical Studies or Religion, Ethics, and Moral Philosophy
Semester: Fall
Unit: 1.0

REL 257 Contemplation and Action
Koderia
An exploration of the relationship between the two polar aspects of being religious. Materials drawn from across the globe, both culturally and historically. Topics include: self-cultivation and social responsibility, solitude and compassion, human frailty as a basis for courage, anger as an expression of love, non-violence, western adaptations of eastern spirituality, meditation and the environmental crisis. Readings selected from Confucius, Gauthama Buddha, Ryokan, Mahatma Gandhi, Abraham Heschel, Dag Hammarskjold, Simone Weil, Thomas Merton, Thich Nhat Hanh, Henri Nouwen, Beverly Harrison, Benjamin Hoff, Reuben Habito, and others.
Prerequisite: None
Distribution: Historical Studies or Religion, Ethics, and Moral Philosophy
Semester: Spring
Unit: 1.0

REL 260 Islamic Civilization
Marlow
NOT OFFERED IN 2004-05. Historical survey of the religion and culture of the Islamic world from the seventh century till the beginnings of the modern period. Topics include literary and artistic expression, architecture, institutions, philosophical and political thought, religious thought and practice. Readings from classical Arabic, Persian, Turkish, and Urdu texts in English translation.
Prerequisite: None. Not open to students who have taken REL [160].
Distribution: Historical Studies or Religion, Ethics, and Moral Philosophy
Semester: N/O
Unit: 1.0

REL 262 The Formation of the Islamic Religious Tradition
Marlow
NOT OFFERED IN 2004-05. Historical study of the Islamic religious tradition with particular attention to the early centuries in which it reached its classical form. Topics include the life of Muhammad, the Qur’an, and Qur’anic interpretation, Prophetic tradition, law, ethics, theology, Shi’ism, and Sufism. Attention to the diversity within the Islamic tradition and to the continuing processes of reinterpretation, into the modern period.
Prerequisite: None
Distribution: Historical Studies or Religion, Ethics, and Moral Philosophy
Semester: N/O
Unit: 1.0

REL 263 Islam in the Modern World
Rollman
The role of Islam in the modern history of Turkey, the Arab world, Iran, and South Asia, with particular reference to the nineteenth and twentieth centuries. Explores the rise of nationalism, secularism, modernism, “fundamentalism,” and revolution in response to the political, socio-economic, and ideological crises of the period. Issues include legal and educational reform, the status of women, dress, and economics. Readings from contemporary Muslim religious scholars, intellectuals, and literary figures.
Prerequisite: None
Distribution: Historical Studies or Religion, Ethics, and Moral Philosophy
Semester: Fall
Unit: 1.0

REL 298 New Testament Greek
Hobbs
Reading and discussion of many characteristic New Testament texts, with attention to aspects of Koine Greek which differ from the classical Attic dialect.
Prerequisite: One year of Greek; or exemption examination or permission of instructor.
Distribution: Language and Literature, Religion, Ethics, and Moral Philosophy
Semester: Spring
Unit: 1.0

REL 302 Seminar, Ritual in the Hebrew Bible/Old Testament
Bernat
NOT OFFERED IN 2004-05. The course focuses on the religious practice of biblical Israel. Topics include sacrifice, vows, festival observance, dietary rules, purity, mourning rites, magic and divination and women in the cult. Reference will be made to anthropological and other approaches to the study of ritual.

RUSS 125/WRIT 125 Great Short Stories from Russia (in English)
Bishop
Russian literature has given the world some of the best stories ever told, and this course surveys two centuries’ worth of them. Someone once quipped that all of twentieth-century Russian literature came out of Nikolai Gogol’s “Nose.” Thus, we begin with “The Nose” and other ridiculous stories by Gogol. We will go on and read some of the finest short stories of Chekhov, and the Nobel Prize winner Ivan Bunin. The grotesque realism of Isaac Babel’s stories and the magical realism of Vladimir Nabokov’s also lie within the scope of this course. We will conclude with the late- and post-Soviet stories of Tatiana Tolsita and Liudmila Petrushevskaia. No prior knowledge of Russian language or literature is required. This course satisfies the requirements for Writing 125. Three periods.
Prerequisite: None
Distribution: Language and Literature
Semester: Fall  Unit: 1.0

RUSS 201 Intermediate Russian I

RUSS 251 The Nineteenth-Century Russian Classics: Passion, Pain, Perfection (in English)
Partan
Survey of Russian fiction from the Age of Pushkin (1820s–1830s) to Tolstoy’s mature work (1870s) focusing on the role of fiction in Russian history, contemporaneous critical reaction, literary movements in Russia, and echoes of Russian literary masterpieces in the other arts, especially film and music. Major works by Pushkin (Eugene Onegin, “The Queen of Spades”), Lermontov (A Hero of Our Time), Gogol (Dead Souls, “The Overcoat”), Pavlova (A Double Life), Turgeney (Fathers and Sons), Tolstoy (Anna Karenina), and Dostoevsky (Crime and Punishment) will be read. Taught in English. Two periods.
Prerequisite: None
Distribution: Language and Literature
Semester: Fall  Unit: 1.0

RUSS 253 Russian Drama and the West (in English)
Partan
Why are Chekhov’s plays so popular around the world? Why have Hollywood stars, such as Marilyn Monroe and Al Pacino, used a Russian acting system developed almost 100 years ago? This course examines the achievements of Russian drama and their relationships with Western theater. Russian playwrights, who originally imitated eighteenth-century western models of drama, created a quintessentially Russian theatrical tradition which, in turn, has influenced the west. Students will read masterpieces by Shakespeare, Moliere, Goldoni, Ibsen, and Pirandello, analyzing their impact on such Russian playwrights as Pushkin, Gogol, Chekhov, Es'plin, and others. Special attention will be paid to Stanislavsky’s acting system and Meyerhold’s experimentation on the Russian modernist stage. Course counts toward the major in theatre studies. Taught in English.
Prerequisite: None
Distribution: Arts, Music, Theater, Film, Video or Language and Literature
Semester: Spring  Unit: 1.0

RUSS 255 Soviet and Russian Film (in English)
Bishop
The masterpieces of Russian film from the 1920s to the present day will be screened, analyzed, and discussed. Students will explore the famous techniques and themes developed by legendary Russian/Soviet filmmakers, including Eisenstein, Vertov, Tarkovsky and Mikhailov. We will treat these films as works of art, examining the ways in which directors, like authors of novels and other literary genres, create a fictional world. Guest lecturers will comment on specific issues. Taught in English. Two periods.
Prerequisite: None
Distribution: Arts, Music, Theatre, Film, Video
Semester: Spring  Unit: 1.0
RUSS 272 Politically Correct: Ideology and the Nineteenth-Century Russian Novel (in English)

Hodge

NOT OFFERED IN 2004-05. OFFERED IN 2005-06. Is there a "politically correct" set of responses for artists active under a repressive regime? We examine various Russian answers to this question through an intensive analysis of the great ideological novels at the center of Russia's historic social debates from the 1840s through the 1890s. The tension between literary Realism and political exigency will be explored in the fictional and critical works of Herzen, Turgenev, Chernyshevsky, Goncharov, Dobroliubov, Dostoevsky, and Pisarev. Representative works from the nonliterary arts will supplement reading and class discussion. Taught in English. Two periods.
Prerequisite: None
Distribution: Language and Literature
Semester: N/O. Offered in 2005-06. Unit: 1.0

RUSS 276 Fedor Dostoevsky: The Seer of Spirit (in English)

Weiner

NOT OFFERED IN 2004-05. OFFERED IN 2005-06. Probably no writer has been so detested and adored, so demonized and deified, as Dostoevsky. This artist was such a visionary that he had to reinvent the novel in order to create a form suitable for his insights into the inner life and his prophecies about the outer. To this day readers are mystified, outraged, enchanted, but never unmoved, by Dostoevsky's fiction, which some have tried to brand as "novel-tragedies," "romantic realism," "polyphonic novels," and more. This course challenges students to enter the fray and explore the mysteries of Dostoevsky themselves through study of his major writings. Taught in English. Two periods.
Prerequisite: None
Distribution: Language and Literature
Semester: N/O. Offered in 2005-06. Unit: 1.0

RUSS 277 Lev Tolstoy: Russia's Ecclesiast (in English)

Hodge

An odyssey through the fiction of the great Russian novelist and thinker, beginning with his early works (Sevastopol Stories) and focusing on War and Peace and Anna Karenina, though the major achievements of Tolstoy's later period will also be included (A Confession, The Death of Ivan Ilitch). Lectures and discussion will examine the masterful techniques Tolstoy employs in his epic explorations of human existence, from mundane detail to life-shattering cataclysm. Important film adaptations of Tolstoy's works, including Bondarchuk's monumental War and Peace (1967), will be screened. Students are encouraged to have read the Maude translation of War and Peace (Norton Critical edition) before the semester begins. Taught in English. Two periods.
Prerequisite: None
Distribution: Language and Literature
Semester: Spring Unit: 1.0

RUSS 278 The Stories and Plays of Anton Chekhov (in English)

Weiner

NOT OFFERED IN 2004-05. OFFERED IN 2005-06. In the stories and plays of Anton Chekhov, the man's loathing for falsehood meets with the artist's uncompromising search for perfection. A century later Chekhov's beautiful prose and haunting drama live on. We will read a representative sampling of Chekhov's stories from the early farces to the mature masterpieces and examine the four great plays: The Seagull, The Three Sisters, Uncle Vanya, and The Cherry Orchard. We will also view performances of his plays on video and, if possible, live. Course counts toward the major in theatre studies. Taught in English. Two periods.
Prerequisite: None
Distribution: Arts, Music, Theatre, Film, Video or Language and Literature
Semester: N/O. Offered in 2005-06. Unit: 1.0

RUSS 282 What's Love Got to Do With It? Sex and Family in Twentieth-Century Russian Literature (in English)

Bishop

NOT OFFERED IN 2004-05. OFFERED IN 2005-06. Tolstoy famously wrote, "All happy families are alike; each unhappy family is unhappy in its own way." Beginning with his controversial novel, The Kreutzer Sonata, we will discuss love and family in Russian literature, a problem which becomes particularly complicated in the twentieth century. We will explore issues of androgyny in the writings of the symbolists, the regimentation of sex in Zamyatin's anti-utopian novel We, questions of disease and sterility in Solzhenitsyn's Cancer Ward, and adultery in Pasternak's Dr. Zhivago. We will revisit the eternal literary theme of generational conflict, specifically in the form of mothers and daughters in the writings of Tsvetaeva and Petrushevskaya. We will also view and analyze films such as Bed and Sofa and Commissar. Taught in English. Two periods.
Prerequisite: None
Distribution: Language and Literature
Semester: N/O. Offered in 2005-06. Unit: 1.0

RUSS 286 Vladimir Nabakov (in English)

Weiner

An examination of the artistic legacy of the great novelist, critic, and epistemologist, and founder of the Wellesley College Russian department. Nabakov's works have joined the canon of twentieth-century classics in both Russian and English literature. Students will explore Nabakov's English-language novels (Lolita, Pnin, Pale Fire) and the authorized English translations of his Russian works (The Defense, Despair, Invitation to a Beheading). Taught in English. Two periods.
Prerequisite: None
Distribution: Language and Literature
Semester: Fall Unit: 1.0

RUSS 301 Advanced Russian: Moscow

Epsteyn

Students will become experts in one of the great overarching themes of Russian culture: Moscow. Students will read and discuss texts, view films, listen to music, and compose essays on the theme of Russia's historic capital. The course includes study of grammar, vocabulary expansion with strong emphasis on oral proficiency and comprehension. At the end of the semester each student will write a final paper and present to the class her or his special research interest within the general investigation of Moscow's history, traditions, culture, and art. Taught in Russian. Three periods.
Prerequisite: 201-202 or the equivalent
Distribution: Language and Literature
Semester: Fall Unit: 1.0

RUSS 302 Advanced Russian: St. Petersburg

Barton

An inquiry into the unique history, traditions, and myth of St. Petersburg. Students will explore Russia's second capital through readings, films, and song. Special emphasis will be placed on oral proficiency. Each student will pursue their special research interest throughout the course and give an oral presentation on it at the end of the semester. Taught in Russian. Three periods.
Prerequisite: 301 or the equivalent
Distribution: Language and Literature
Semester: Spring Unit: 1.0

RUSS 320 Children and Laughter in Russia (in Russian)

Epsteyn

Students will enter the world of Russian children's folklore, literature, songs, film, and animation. We will start with lullabies and verbal games, and tales by Pushkin and Tolstoy. We will then examine the contribution of Soviet authors from the early 1920s to the late '80s such as V. Maiakovsky, K. Chukovsky, S. Marshak, D. Kharmas, M. Zoshchenko, A. Gaidar, N. Nosov, and E. Uspeensky and their effect on the aesthetic development and ethical upbringing of Soviet children. The course emphasizes oral proficiency, extensive reading and weekly writing assignments. Students will write and present a final paper on their own special research interest. Taught in Russian. Two periods.

Directions for Election
Students majoring in Russian should consult the chair of the department early in their college career. For information on all facets of the Russian department, please visit www.wellesley.edu/Russian/ru/sdept.html. Students who cannot take RUSS 101 during the fall semester are strongly encouraged to take 101 during Wintersession; those interested in doing so should consult the chair early in the fall term.

Advanced courses on Russian literature and culture are given in English translation at the 200 level; corresponding 300-level courses offer supplemental reading and discussion in Russian. Please refer to the descriptions for 372, 376, 377, 378, and 386 above.

The Major in Russian Language and Literature
A student majoring in Russian must take at least eight units in the department above RUSS 102, including:
1. language courses through 302;
2. RUSS 251;
3. two 200-level courses above 251; and
4. one unit of 300-level coursework above 302 other than 350, 360, and 370.

RUSS 101 and 102 are counted toward the degree but not toward the Russian major.

Thus, a student who begins with no knowledge of Russian would typically complete the following courses to major in Russian: 101 and 102, 201 and 202, 301 and 302; 251; two 200-level literature courses above 252; and one unit from 300-level literature courses, including 320.

The Minor in Russian Language
A student minor in Russian must take at least five units in the department above RUSS 102, at least one of which must be at the 200 level.

Honors, Study Abroad
Students may graduate with honors in Russian either by writing a thesis or by taking comprehensive examinations. Students who wish to attempt either honors exercise should consult the chair early in the second semester of their junior year.

 Majors are encouraged to enroll in summer language programs to accelerate their progress in the language. Credit toward the major is normally given for approved summer or academic-year study at selected institutions in the U.S. and Russia. Major credit is also given for approved junior year abroad programs.

Russian Area Studies
Students interested in an interdepartmental major in Russian area studies are referred to the following and should visit the Russian area studies Web pages at www.wellesley.edu/Russian/RAs/rashome.html. Attention is called to Russian area studies courses in history, economics, political science, anthropology, and sociology.

Russian Area Studies
AN INTERDEPARTMENTAL MAJOR
Director: Tumarkin (History)

Russian area studies majors are invited to explore Russia and the lands and peoples of the former Soviet Union through an interdisciplinary study program.

A major in Russian area studies consists of a minimum of eight units. Majors are normally required to take four units of the Russian language above the 100 level, including Russian 301-302. In addition to those four units of the Russian language above the 100 level, a major's program should consist of at least four units drawn from Russian literature, history, political science, anthropology, economics, and sociology. Majors are required to take at least two units of 300-level coursework, at least one of which should be outside of the Russian department. At least three of a major's units should be outside of the Russian department. Prospective majors are strongly encouraged to take HIST 105 (Bread and Salt: Introduction to Russian Civilization) as a basic introduction to Russian area studies.

Majors are encouraged to take advantage of various programs of study in the former Soviet Union, including the opportunity to spend a semester or year on exchange at a university in Russia or one of the other former Soviet republics. Majors who are contemplating postgraduate academic or professional careers in Russian area studies are encouraged to consult with faculty advisors, who will assist them in planning an appropriate sequence of courses.

For more information on the Russian area studies program, students may consult the Wellesley College Russian area studies Web pages: www.wellesley.edu/Russian/ RAs/rashome.html.

The following courses are available for majors in Russian area studies:

- RAST 211/ANTH 211 Wintersession Program in the Republic of Georgia
  Kohl (Anthropology)
  Students travel to Tbilisi, Georgia for Wintersession. They attend lectures in English at Tbilisi State University on Georgian history, language and culture and on contemporary political developments there and visit sites of historical interest in and around Tbilisi. They live with Georgian families and spend three weeks completing a self-designed internship with a local organization. Students may register for either RAST 211 or ANTH 211. Credit will be given in the department in which the student is registered. Not offered every year. Subject to Dean's office approval.
  Prerequisite: One course in RAST or ANTH. Application required.
  Distribution: Social and Behavioral Analysis or Historical Studies
  Semester: Wintersession
  Unit: 0.5

- RAST 212/ES 212 Lake Baikal: The Soul of Siberia
  Moore (Biological Sciences) and Bishop (Russian)
  The ecological and cultural values of Lake Baikal – the oldest, deepest, and most biotically rich lake on the planet – are examined. Lectures and discussion in spring prepare students for the three-week field laboratory taught at Lake Baikal in eastern Siberia in August. Lectures address the fundamentals of aquatic ecology and the role of Lake Baikal in Russian literature, history, art, music, and the country's environmental movement. Laboratory work is conducted primarily out-of-doors and includes introductions to the flora and fauna, field tests of student-generated hypotheses, meetings with the lake's stakeholders, and tours of ecological and cultural sites surrounding the lake. This course does not count toward the minimum major in biological sciences. This course can count towards a concentration in environmental science or as an elective for other concentrations. Students may register for either RAST 212 or ES 212. Credit will be given in the department in which the student is registered. Not offered every year. Subject to Dean's office approval.

Prerequisite: BISC 111, RUSS 101, and permission of the instructors. Preference will be given to students who have also taken HIST 105.

SOC 102 The Sociological Perspective: An Introduction to Sociology

Rutherford

Thinking sociologically enables us to make observations and offer insights about the social world. In this course, we will become familiar with some of the major substantive topics that sociologists study, as a way of developing a critical capacity to understand how the social world works. We will analyze a variety of sociological themes as they emerge in some of the most exciting contemporary research focusing especially on the study of social problems, social inequality, and popular culture.

Prerequisite: None
Distribution: Social and Behavioral Analysis
Semester: Fall

Unit: 1.0

SOC 103 Social Problems of Youth: An Introduction to Sociology

NOT OFFERED IN 2004-05. Perspectives on the creation of and response to the problems of young people. The problem of generations and relations between young and old. Perceptions of personal freedom and social responsibility with respect to public issues that directly affect youth including alcohol, tobacco, drugs, gambling, guns, and sexuality.

Prerequisite: None
Distribution: Social and Behavioral Analysis
Semester: N/O

Unit: 1.0

SOC 109 Race and Ethnicity: An Introduction to Sociology

Srinivas

Introduction to sociology with special attention to issues of race and ethnicity. Overview of the key concepts, theoretical frameworks, and methods in the field and exploration of major questions in the sociological study of race and ethnicity. One major course goal is to heighten awareness of the social patterns, institutions, and structures that are an integral, unquestioned part of everyday life and to provide tools to analyze and criticize them. Examination of the ways in which groups in multiethnic societies around the globe come together and interact over time.

Prerequisite: None
Distribution: Social and Behavioral Analysis
Semester: Fall

Unit: 1.0

SOC 138 Conformity and Deviance: An Introduction to Sociology

Cuba, McCormack

Why are some behaviors, differences, and people stigmatized and considered "deviant" while others are not? Why do some people appear to conform to social expectations and rules while others are treated as different and deviant? This course examines theoretical perspectives on deviance, which offer several kinds of answers to these questions. Focus on the creation of deviant categories and persons as an interactive process:
how behaviors are labeled, how people enter deviant roles and worlds, how others respond to deviance, and how deviants cope with these responses. Descriptions of conformity and deviance as inescapably linked.

Prerequisite: None
Distribution: Social and Behavioral Analysis
Semester: Fall, Spring
Unit: 1.0

SOC 190/ECON 103 Introduction to Probability and Statistical Methods
Kauffman (Economics), Swingle
An introduction to the collection, analysis, interpretation, and presentation of quantitative data as used to understand problems in economics and sociology. Using examples drawn from these fields, this course focuses on basic concepts in probability and statistics, such as measures of central tendency and dispersion, hypothesis testing, and parameter estimation. Data analysis exercises are drawn from both academic and everyday applications. Students must register for a laboratory section which meets an additional 70 minutes each week. Students may register for either SOC 101 or ECON 103. Credit will be given in the department in which the student is registered.

Prerequisite: One course in sociology or ECON 101 or 102 and fulfillment of the basic skills component of the quantitative reasoning requirement. Not open to students who have taken [QR 199]. Not open to students who have taken or are taking MATH 220 or PSYC 205.
Distribution: Social and Behavioral Analysis. Fulfills the QR overlay course requirement. Does not satisfy the laboratory requirement.
Semester: Fall
Unit: 1.0

SOC 200 Classical Sociological Theory
Imber
Origins of modern sociology, beginning with nineteenth-century founders, Comte, Spencer, and Marx. Examination of specific sociological ideas and theories, considering such questions as: How is society possible? What are the non-contractual aspects of contract? Who commands authority and how does it change? Exploration of the canon of classical sociological theory with special emphasis on the place of women and African Americans in the history of that canon.
Prerequisite: One 100-level unit. Required of all majors.
Distribution: Social and Behavioral Analysis
Semester: Fall
Unit: 1.0

SOC 201 Contemporary Social Theory
Cushman, Rutherford
An overview of important twentieth-century social and cultural theories. Special emphasis on critical theories of modernity and postmodernity and on application of theories to empirical case studies.
Prerequisite: 200. Required of all majors.
Distribution: Social and Behavioral Analysis
Semester: Spring
Unit: 1.0

SOC 202/ANTH 202 Introduction to Human Rights
Cushman, Merry (Anthropology)
Human rights is one of the most powerful approaches to social justice in the contemporary world, yet it is a rapidly developing and changing system. This course offers a critical analysis of human rights as a social, cultural, and legal system. It explores the historical and philosophical origins of the contemporary human rights system and its growth and development as a global social movement over the last few decades. This includes the diversification of rights to include social, economic and cultural rights and the collective rights of indigenous peoples. The course examines the ongoing controversy between human rights' claims to universalism in contrast to assertions of cultural difference. Special topics include the rise of non-governmental human rights organizations, humanitarianism as an ideology, debates on military humanitarian interventions, the emergence of violence against women as a human rights issue, and the forms and types of justice in societies that have experienced large-scale violence. Students may register for either SOC 201 or ANTH 202. Credit will be given in the department in which the student is registered.

Prerequisite: None
Distribution: Social and Behavioral Analysis
Semester: Fall
Unit: 1.0

SOC 203/AFR 203 Introduction to African American Sociology
Rollins
This course is an introduction to the African American intellectual traditions within the discipline of sociology. Beginning with an examination of the contributions of the founders of these traditions (DuBois, Johnson, Frazier, Cox et al.), the course then focuses on some of the main contemporary discussions: the Black family, Afrocentric sociology, the class versus race debate, and feminist sociology. Throughout the semester, African American sociology will be discussed within the contexts of traditional Eurocentric sociology and the particular political-economic structure in which it exists. Students may register for either SOC 203 or AFR 203. Credit will be given in the department in which the student is registered.

Prerequisite: None
Distribution: Social and Behavioral Analysis
Semester: Fall
Unit: 1.0

SOC 205/WOST 211 American Families and Social Equality
Hertz
American families are undergoing dramatic changes in social, political, and economic arenas: the rise of the dual-worker family, the increasing number of single mothers, the demands of family rights by gay and lesbian families, and growing numbers of couples having children at older ages. The new economy poses real challenges for American parents as the social and economic gaps between families continues. As women dedicate a greater proportion of their time to the workplace, more children are cared for outside the home. How do children view parents' employment? How do families function when they have only limited hours together? What does fatherhood mean in these families? Using a provocative blend of social science, novels, and memoirs, we will examine how gender, race, ethnicity, and social class shape the experience of family life in the contemporary United States. Students may register for either SOC 205 or WOST 211. Credit will be given in the department in which the student is registered.

Prerequisite: None
Distribution: Social and Behavioral Analysis
Semester: Spring
Unit: 1.0

SOC 206/AFR 208 Women in the Civil Rights Movement
Rollins
An examination of the role of women in the classical Civil Rights movement. Particular attention will be paid to the interplay between the social factors of the women (e.g., their class, religiosity, race, regional background, age) and their perspectives/behavior within the movement. Essentially, women's impact on the Civil Rights movement and the effects of the movement on the women involved are the focus of this course. Students may register for either SOC 206 or AFR 208. Credit will be given in the department in which the student is registered.

Prerequisite: None
Distribution: Historical Studies or Social and Behavioral Analysis
Semester: Fall
Unit: 1.0

SOC 209 Social Inequality
Rutherford
This course examines the distribution of key social resources—wealth, power, and status—among groups and individuals, as well as the theoretical explanations of how unequal patterns of distribution are produced, maintained, and challenged. In addition to global inequalities, special consideration will be given to how race, ethnicity, and gender intersect with social class to produce different life experiences for people in various groups in the United States. One course objective will be the critical evaluation of social policy initiatives designed to reduce social inequalities and alleviate poverty-related issues. Students will have the opportunity for service learning in a social-service organization in the metropolitan Boston area.

Prerequisite: One 100-level unit or permission of instructor.
Distribution: Social and Behavioral Analysis
Semester: Fall
Unit: 1.0

SOC 211 Society and Culture in Latin America
NOT OFFERED IN 2004-05. Broad overview of Latin American cultures and societies and of the Latino experience in the U.S. Focus on the history of Latin America and the Caribbean; its political, religious, social, and cultural institutions; and on how social life in the region varies by race, class, and gender. Social and economic incorporation of Latinos in the U.S. Regional integration and the ways in which economic and political life in North and South America mutually influence one another.

Prerequisite: One 100-level unit or permission of instructor.
Distribution: Social and Behavioral Analysis
Semester: Fall
Unit: 1.0

SOC 212 Comparative Sociology and Demography of the Family
Swingle
An examination of the forces that shape contemporary living arrangements in American society and others. This course will cover a wide expanse of recent demographic research, including explanations for the variety of family forms based on kinship and non-kinship; changes in the meaning of marriage as well as the opportunities for marriage in Western countries; the increasing prevalence of single living in the USA; the meaning and function of friendship in different societies; the links between living arrangements and other institutions such as school and work; and the economic, social and psychological effects of living arrangements on women, men, and children. Cross-national comparisons will be used in the course to highlight similarities and differences to American living arrangements.

157 Sociology

Prerequisite: None
Distribution: Social and Behavioral Analysis
Semester: Spring
Unit: 1.0

SOC 213 Sociology of Sexuality
McCormack
Approaches to the sociological study of sexuality, historically, and across cultures. Examination of various theoretical perspectives on sexuality; the relationship between race, class, gender, and sexuality; issues of power and sexuality, including rape, pornography, and prostitution. Development of a critical and analytic perspective on sex and sexuality.

Prerequisite: One 100-level unit or permission of instructor.
Distribution: Social and Behavioral Analysis
Semester: Spring
Unit: 1.0

SOC 215 Sociology of Popular Culture

NOT OFFERED IN 2004-05. An examination of the expression, production, and consequences of various forms of popular culture in comparative-historical and contemporary social contexts. Analysis of the relation between social class and popular culture in history, the production, meaning, and consumption of popular culture in contemporary societies, and the global diffusion of American popular culture in the modern world-system.

Prerequisite: One 100-level unit or permission of instructor.
Distribution: Social and Behavioral Analysis
Semester: N/O
Unit: 1.0

SOC 216 Sociology of Mass Media and Communications
Srinivas
Analysis of the interplay between social forces, media, and communication processes in contemporary society. Significance of historical changes from oral to written communication, development and structure of modern forms of mass media such as radio, television, and film; political economy of the mass media, rise of advertising and development of consumer culture; mass media in the formation of cultural representations of other societies and cultures, role of the media in the process of identity formation, and in the democratic process. Discussions of the rise and social implications of the Internet. Students will use computer technologies to analyze mass media.

Prerequisite: One 100-level unit or permission of instructor.
Distribution: Social and Behavioral Analysis
Semester: Fall
Unit: 1.0

SOC 217 Power: Personal, Social, and Institutional Dimensions
Caba
The study of power extends far beyond formal politics or the use of overt force into the operation of every institution and every life: how we are influenced in subtle ways by the people around us, who makes controlling decisions in the family, how people get ahead at work, whether democratic governments, in fact, reflect the "will of the people." This course explores some of the major theoretical issues involving power (including the nature of dominant and subordinate relationships and types of legitimate authority) and examines how power operates in a variety of social settings: relations among men and women, professions, corporations, cooperatives, communities, nations and the global economy.

Prerequisite: One 100-level unit or permission of the instructor.
Distribution: Social and Behavioral Analysis
Semester: Spring
Unit: 1.0

SOC 218 Religion in Contemporary Society

NOT OFFERED IN 2004-05. This course explores the relationship between society and religious institutions, beliefs, and practices. Some of the topics we will cover include whether or not modern society is becoming more secular, the place of religion in politics, religious conversion, fundamentalism, new religious movements, the globalization of religion, and religiously-motivated terrorism. These themes will be explored using classical and contemporary sociological theories and empirical data.

Prerequisite: None
Distribution: Social and Behavioral Analysis
Semester: N/O
Unit: 1.0

SOC 220 Globalization

NOT OFFERED IN 2004-05, McDonald's, Starbucks, and the Gap are now common features on the street corners of Europe, South America, and Asia. Arnold Schwarzenegger enjoys unprecedented popularity in the Far East while Americans are fascinated by karaoke and Indian films. Does this globalization of production and consumption mean that people all over the globe are becoming the same? In this course, we will explore the globalization of social organization. We will examine the different ways in which economic, political, and cultural institutions are organized in the increasingly interdependent world in which we live, compare them to those in the past, and explore their consequences.

Prerequisite: One 100-level unit or permission of instructor.
Distribution: Social and Behavioral Analysis
Semester: N/O
Unit: 1.0

SOC 235 Business and Social Responsibility

NOT OFFERED IN 2004-05. Examination of large business organizations in terms of their social accountability to various stakeholders. Rise of a "new social contract" with its expectations about the financial profitability as well as the social responsibilities of modern business, including protection of the natural environment, maintenance of a diverse workforce, and specific responsibility to the communities in which companies do business. Explanations of why businesses sometimes deviate from these expectations and how they create and manage impressions of social responsibility among their stakeholders.

Prerequisite: One 100-level unit or permission of instructor.
Distribution: Social and Behavioral Analysis
Semester: N/O
Unit: 1.0

SOC 236 Business and Economic Development

NOT OFFERED IN 2004-05. Examination of large business organizations in terms of their social accountability to various stakeholders. Rise of a "new social contract" with its expectations about the financial profitability as well as the social responsibilities of modern business, including protection of the natural environment, maintenance of a diverse workforce, and specific responsibility to the communities in which companies do business. Explanations of why businesses sometimes deviate from these expectations and how they create and manage impressions of social responsibility among their stakeholders.

SOC 246 Immigration

NOT OFFERED IN 2004-05. Comparative, historical look at the immigrant experience. We explore theories of migration and differences between voluntary and involuntary population movements. We examine immigrants' political, economic, religious, and social integration into their host countries and their continued ties to their homelands over time. The experiences of second generation immigrants will also be covered. Course is designed around a series of fieldwork exercises to be carried out in Framingham, Mass. Students will be asked to complete at least three small projects, involving data collection and analysis, on the history of immigration to the city and immigrants' social and economic incorporation.

SOC 259 The Sociology of International Justice

NOT OFFERED IN 2004-05. Examination of the formal and informal strategies used by societies to achieve justice in the face of human rights violations, political crimes, and war. Focus on just war theory, war courts tribunals, truth and reconciliation commissions, amnesties, apologies, and forgiveness as modes of justice in a variety of settings in the modern world. Analysis of the globalization of human rights and international justice through case study of the International Criminal Court. Students will participate in moot court exercises which simulate legal reasoning and formal legal procedures in international settings.

Prerequisite: None
Distribution: Social and Behavioral Analysis
Semester: N/O
Unit: 1.0

SOC 290 Propaganda and Persuasion in the Twentieth Century

NOT OFFERED IN 2004-05. A comparative historical analysis of propaganda and strategies of persuasion in the twentieth-century national and social movements, and in social institutions. Cases to be examined include the United States during World War I, Nazi Germany, the Soviet Union, Cold War propaganda, the former Yugoslavia, museums, mass media institutions and advertising, the anti-gun control lobby. Students will use computer technologies to prepare analyses of visual and textual media. Enrollment limited to 25 students.

Prerequisite: None. Preference given to juniors and seniors.
Distribution: Social and Behavioral Analysis
Semester: N/O
Unit: 1.0

SOC 301 Methods of Social Research
Swingle
Focus on quantitative methods of data collection and analysis. Beginning with modes of data presentation, students will practice with existing data sets to describe and explain social variation in different populations. Building on this extension of basic statistics (SOC 190/ECON 103 or [QR 199]), this course will be devoted primarily to an examination of the logic of survey analysis from the development of hypotheses and construction of a survey instrument to the analysis and reporting of results. Discussion sessions and exercises will address issues of sampling, validity, and reliability; models of causation and elaboration; data coding, cleaning, and analysis. The course will also review multiple methods of research, content analysis, triangulation, and case studies.

Prerequisite: 190/ECON 103, [QR 199] or permission of instructor. Required of all Sociology majors.

Distribution: Social and Behavioral Analysis Semester: Spring Unit: 1.0

SOC 306/WOST 306 Women and Work

Hertz

Aside from new technology and increasing globalization, the biggest force for change in the U.S. economy has been the growing diversity of the American labor force. The goal of this course is to understand the impact of gender and racial diversity on the nature of work in America. We will give special attention to four key aspects of change: (1) the dynamics of gender and race in the workplace; (2) the tensions between work/family and gender equity; (3) the struggle to integrate women into male-dominated occupations and professions; and (4) the challenges for women in leadership roles. Each student will select an occupation, which they will study in-depth. Students may register for either SOC 306 or WOST 306. Credit will be given in the department in which the student is registered.

Prerequisite: One course in ANTH, SOC, ECON, or WOST at the 100- or 200-level or permission of instructor. Distribution: Social and Behavioral Analysis Semester: Spring Unit: 1.0

SOC 309 Seminar. Topics in Inequality

Rutherford

Topic for 2004-05: Language, Power and Society. Language is critical in the formation of social groups and struggles for power and prestige among groups. This course will survey language diversity in American society, based on such variables as class, ethnicity, race, gender, religion, age and region. Examination of language policy issues that illuminate the ways that dominant usages of language reinforce structured differences in social power and prestige among cultural groups. Political uses of language both legitimize and challenge key aspects of the social order, with particular attention to discursive attempts by both liberals and conservatives to appropriate the American narrative in staking their territory on contested issues.

Prerequisite: At least one sociology course or permission of instructor. Distribution: Social and Behavioral Analysis Semester: Spring Unit: 1.0

SOC 311/WOST 311 Seminar. Family and Gender Studies: The Family, the State, and Social Policy

Hertz

Analysis of problems facing the contemporary U.S. family and potential policy directions for the new millennium. Discussion of the transformation of the American family including changing economic and social roles for women and expanding varieties of family types (such as single mothers by choice and lesbian/gay families). Sexuality, teen pregnancy, reproductive issues, day care, the elderly, divorce, welfare, the impact of work on the family, equality between spouses, choices women make about children and employment, and the new American dreams will be explored. Comparisons to other contemporary societies will serve as a foil for particular analyses. Students are expected to work in groups to analyze the media’s portrayal of family/gender stories and selected legal cases. Students may register for either SOC 311 or WOST 311. Credit will be given in the department in which the student is registered.

Prerequisite: Preference will be given to students who have taken family or gender related courses in anthropology, history, psychology, political science, sociology, or women’s studies. Distribution: Social and Behavioral Analysis Semester: Fall Unit: 1.0

SOC 313 Indian Cinema – Image, Text and Context

Srinivas

The Indian film industry produces the largest number and variety of feature films in the world: commercial cinema, regional cinema, art films, and "middle cinema" that transcends the popular culture-high culture divide. The course will examine the complex social world of cinema in urban India. Further we will explore Indian society and culture using the films as our text. What do they say about gender and identity, about emotions and the family, and politics and nationalism?

Prerequisite: One 100-level course in sociology or permission of the instructor. Distribution: Social and Behavioral Analysis Semester: Fall Unit: 1.0

SOC 314 Medical Sociology and Social Epidemiology

Imber

NOT OFFERED IN 2004-05. Definition, incidence, and treatment of health disorders. Topics include: differential availability of health care; social organization of health delivery systems; role behavior of patients, professional staff, and others; attitudes toward terminally ill and dying; movements for alternative health care.

Prerequisite: One 200-level unit or permission of instructor. Distribution: Social and Behavioral Analysis Semester: N/O Unit: 1.0

SOC 321 Globalization: A Research Seminar

NOT OFFERED IN 2004-05. This course uses the topic of globalization to teach students to carry out research. Following a basic introduction to the topic, each student will design and carry out a research project of her own. She will learn how to define research questions, identify and carry out appropriate methodologies, use various types of data sources, collect and analyze data, and write a final report. Course readings are tailored to students’ particular question. Interview and field-work based projects are strongly encouraged.

Prerequisite: A background in social science. Not open to first-year students. Distribution: Social and Behavioral Analysis Semester: N/O Unit: 1.0

SOC 325 Seminar. Genocide and Social Theory

Cashman

An examination of key social theories of genocide. Focus on sociological analysis of four cases of genocide in the twentieth century: Armenia, the Holocaust, Bosnia, and Rwanda. Assessment of international responses to genocide, genocide denial, the development of laws against genocide, and efforts to prevent genocide.

Prerequisite: SOC 102, 103, 200, 201 or 290. Open to juniors and seniors only. Application for admission to the seminar is required. Students without the prerequisites in sociology but with background in religion, philosophy, or history are encouraged to apply. Distribution: Social and Behavioral Analysis Semester: Fall Unit: 1.0

SOC 332 Sociology of Film

NOT OFFERED IN 2004-05. How does our experience of movie going in the contemporary United States compare with the experience across space and time and what can such comparison tell us about cinema as a mass medium? In this course we will address these and other related questions with a view to understanding cinema through its experience rather than through textual analysis of the films themselves. This course will adopt an evolutionary and comparative approach to the study of popular cinema and its consumption. Field assignments will involve going to the movies.

Prerequisite: One 100-level unit or permission of instructor. Distribution: Social and Behavioral Analysis Semester: N/O Unit: 1.0

SOC 333 Seminar. Special Topics in Popular Culture

NOT OFFERED IN 2004-05. Comparative and interdisciplinary approach to the study of “popular culture” which is cross-cultural and historical. Review of the major theoretical debates and significant empirical works that have informed the field. Particular focus on the social creation of cultural products and the production-consumption dialectic. Examination of agency and institutions involved in the construction of popular culture, the culture wars, and symbolic struggles that have shaped it, as well as attention to the consumption of such products and the expressive culture attendant to such consumption.

Prerequisite: Permission of instructor. Distribution: Social and Behavioral Analysis Semester: N/O Unit: 1.0

SOC 348 The Sociology of Conservatism

Imber

Examination of conservative movements and ideas in terms of class, gender, and race. Historical survey and social analysis of such major conservative movements and ideas as paleo-conservatism, neo-conservatism, and compassionate conservatism. The emergence of conservative stances among women, minorities, and media figures. The conservative critique of American life and its shaping of contemporary national discourse on morality, politics, and culture.

Prerequisite: A 100-level sociology course or permission of the instructor. Open to juniors and seniors only. Distribution: Social and Behavioral Analysis Semester: Spring Unit: 1.0

Directions for Election
Sociology is the systematic and scientific study of social life, including informal and formal organization and the multiple ways that people collectively give meaning to their behavior and lives. The scope of sociology ranges from the analysis of passing encounters between individuals in the street to the investigation of broad-scale social change. Sociology brings a unique perspective to the study of institutional and collective forms of social life, including the family, mass media and popular culture, social movements, migration, the professions, and global systems and processes. Research is conducted across many cultures and historical periods in order to illuminate how social forces such as social class, gender, race, and ethnicity, age, group membership, and culture shape human experience.

A major in sociology consists of at least nine units. The core of the major consists of four required courses (SOC 190, 200, 201, and 301) which emphasize basic concepts, theory, and research methods that are the foundation of the discipline, but are also useful in a range of social sciences and professions. Permission to take a required unit elsewhere for the major must be obtained from the department chair in advance. Students must take at least five additional units exploring the range of substantive topics in sociology (for example, social problems, deviance, immigration, social change and development, race and ethnicity, medicine and epidemiology, mass media, and popular culture).

Choosing courses to complete the degree and the major requires careful thought and planning. Sociology majors are encouraged to explore the full range of disciplines and subjects in the liberal arts, and they should consult a faculty member to select courses each term and to plan a course of study over several years. It is recommended that students complete the sequence of theory and methods courses by the end of their junior year if they want to conduct independent research or honors projects during their senior year. If a major anticipates being away during all or part of the junior year, the theory (SOC 200 and 201) and research methods course (SOC 301) should be taken during the sophomore year, or an alternative plan should be arranged with her advisor.

A minor in sociology (six units) consists of: any 100-level unit, SOC 200 and four additional units, one of which must be a 300-level unit. The plan for this option should be carefully prepared; a student wishing to add the sociology minor to the major in another field should consult a faculty advisor in sociology.

Human Rights Concentration in Sociology and Anthropology
The Department of Sociology and Anthropology offers a concentration in human rights in conjunction with a major in either department. Students electing this concentration will major in either sociology or anthropology and choose a major advisor within the respective departments. Students will take three specific courses in the concentration that will be counted toward the major in either department.

ANTH 202/SOC 202 Introduction to Human Rights

ANTH 260 Gender, Culture, and Human Rights
SOC 259 The Sociology of International Justice

Students interested in the human rights concentration should contact Thomas Cushman, Department of Sociology or Sally Merry, Department of Anthropology. A student electing this concentration is encouraged, in consultation with her advisor, to take other courses in the college curriculum dealing with human rights, to engage in independent research (SOC or ANTH 350, 360 and 370) and to participate in internship experiences in human rights organizations in the United States and abroad.

Department of Spanish

Professor: Gascon-Vera*, Agosin, Roses (Chair-Fall), Vega
Associate Professor: Ramos, Renjilian-Burgy (Chair-Spring)
Visiting Associate Professor: Coll-Tellechea
Assistant Professor: Hallock
Instructor: Rubio
Senior Lecturer: Hall, Syverson-Stark
Lecturer: Dater

Courses are normally conducted in Spanish; oral expression is stressed.
The department reserves the right to place new students in the courses for which they seem best prepared regardless of the number of units they have offered for admission.
Courses 101-102 and 201-202 are counted toward the degree but not toward the major.
Qualified juniors are encouraged to spend a semester or a year in a Spanish-speaking country, either with Wellesley's consortium program in Córdoba, Spain, in Puebla, Mexico, or another approved program. To be eligible for study in Córdoba for one or two semesters in Wellesley's "Programa de Estudios Hispánicos en Córdoba" (FRESHCO), or "Program for Mexican Culture," a student must be enrolled in 241 or a higher-level language or literature course the previous semester.

SPAN 101-102 Elementary Spanish Staff
Introduction to spoken and written Spanish; stress on interactive approach. Extensive and varied activities. Oral presentations. Cultural readings and recordings. Video program. Three periods. Each semester earns one unit of credit; however, both semesters must be completed satisfactorily to receive credit for either course.
Prerequisite: Open to all students who do not present Spanish for admission.
Distribution: None
Semester: Fall, Spring
Unit: 1.0

SPAN 201-202 Intermediate Spanish Staff
Intensive review of all language skills and introduction to the art, literature, and cultures of Spain and Latin America. Emphasis on oral and written expression and critical analysis. Three periods. Each semester earns one unit of credit; however, both semesters must be completed satisfactorily to receive credit for either course.
Prerequisite: Two admission units in Spanish or 101-102.
Distribution: Language and Literature
Semester: Fall, Spring
Unit: 1.0

SPAN 241 Oral and Written Communication Renjilian-Burgy, Roses
Practice in oral and written expression at the advanced level. Through frequent presentations, film viewing, and creative essays, students will develop the ability to use idiomatic Spanish comfortably in various situations. Students will thoroughly review grammar and self-test through a series of linguistic exercises. The course also features the reading and interpreting of literature in Spanish. Two periods per week.
SPAN 242 Literary Genres of Spain and Latin America
Gascon-Vera, Vega
A course to serve as a transition between language study and literary analysis; speaking and writing organized around interpretations of different genres by Hispanic authors; creative writing; oral presentations on current events relating to Spain and Latin America; a review, at the advanced level, of selected problems in Spanish structure. Two periods.
Prerequisite: Open to students presenting three admission units or permission of instructor.

Unit: 1.0

SPAN 245 Ethnic Passions
Vega
NOT OFFERED IN 2004-05. A close reading and viewing of selected written and performance texts by Latina/o artists, with particular focus on the intersection of categories of race/ethnicity and sexuality. Selected artists— all writing or performing in the last two decades (Francisco S. Alarcón, Luis Alfaro, Gloria Anzaldúa, Ana Castillo, Sandra Cisneros, Juan Leguizamo, Cherrie Moraga, Ela Troyano and others)—will be examined in light of their role within (or rejection by) the Latino literary "canon." Topics for analysis include contemporary debates regarding the nature and construction of Latino identity, the relationship between ethnic and sexual categories; and Latino nuances within essentialist/social constructionist debates regarding gender, sexual and ethnic identities.
Prerequisite: 241 or 242 or permission of the instructor.
Distribution: Language and Literature
Semester: N/O
Unit: 1.0

SPAN 247 The Multiple Meanings of Family in Hispanic Cultures
Roses
NOT OFFERED IN 2004-05. The institution of the family is the most enduring and cohesive of social associations in the Spanish-speaking world, and at the same time the most vulnerable. This course will explore its continuities and modifications cross-culturally on both literal and symbolic levels. Readings, films, and figures: La familia de Pascual Duarte, La plaza del dia- mante, La casa de Bernardo Albo, Belle Epoque, El llano en llamas, Mi Familia, Como agua para chocolate, the iconic Virgen de Guadalupe, the art of Frida Kahlo and Fernando Botero.

SPAN 248 Exiles, Builders, and Visionaries: Wellesley College and Spain, 125 Years of Synergy
Ramos
NOT OFFERED IN 2004-05. An exploration of the historical, intellectual, creative and artistic connections between Spain and the US from Columbus’ diaries to the present. The United States and Spain, so far apart geographically, have intersected at decisive moments in history for more than five hundred years. Despite the relatively high level of familiarity each society has of the other, mutual misunderstandings have been frequent. This course explores the roots of this dissonance by looking closely at a few specific episodes in history and culture that have shaped reciprocal perceptions. The class offers readings and materials drawn from history, architecture and literature and concludes with an analysis of the role of Wellesley College in the long-running intercultural dialogue.

SPAN 265 Introduction to Latin American Cinema
Agosin, Renjiilan-Bury
This course will explore the history of Latin American cinema, from the early 1960s to the present. Different forms of cinematic expression will be explored: narrative film, the documentary, the cinema of exile, and others. Issues of national culture and identity, as well as cultural exchanges of films between Latin America and abroad will be addressed. In addition to the films themselves, students will be required to read selected works on film criticism and several texts which have been made into films. Directors whose films will be analyzed include those of María Luisa Bemberg, Fernando Solanas, Jorge Silva, and Raúl Ruiz.
Prerequisite: 241 or 242 or permission of instructor. Distribution: Language and Literature Semester: Fall Unit: 1.0

SPAN 267 The Writer and Human Rights in Latin America
Agosin
The role of the Latin American writer as witness and voice for the persecuted. Through key works of poetry and prose from the 70s to the present, we will explore the ways in which literature depicts issues such as: censorship and self-censorship; the writer as journalist; disappearances; exile; testimonial writing; gender and human rights; and testimonial narratives. The works of Benedetti, Timmerman, Alegría, and others will be studied.
Prerequisite: 241 or 242 or permission of instructor. Distribution: Language and Literature or Religion, Ethics, and Moral Philosophy Semester: Fall Unit: 1.0

SPAN 268 Contemporary Spanish Cinema
Gascón-Vera
NOT OFFERED IN 2004-05. A survey of Spanish Cinema. Themes of history and society as depicted by major directors since the Spanish Civil War of 1936. We will analyze films of important directors such as Pedro Almodóvar, Luis García Berlanga, Víctor Erice, Bigas Luna, Pilar Miró and Itziar Bollain.

Genres include autobiographies, novels, and poetry. Individual authors to be studied include Domitila Barrios, Rigobera Menchú, Esteban Montejo, López de Albújar, Nancy Morejon, and Tato Laviera. Topics include the relationship between identities and aesthetics, the marginal and the canonical, literature and the affirmation of the nation-state, and the uses of contemporary race and gender theory in literary analysis.
Prerequisite: 241 or 242 or permission of instructor. Distribution: Language and Literature Semester: N/O Unit: 1.0

SPAN 272 Civilizations and Cultures of Spain
Ramos
An examination of Spanish multicultural civilization and history, from the prehistoric cave paintings of Altamira to the artistic "movida" of post-Franco Spain. Literary, historical, artistic, and anthropological readings will inform our understanding of recurrent themes in Spanish national ideology and culture: Spain as a nexus between Christian, Jewish, and Islamic thought; regionalism, nationalism, and internationalism; religion and class; long-term economic consequences of global empire; dictatorship and democracy; and the creation and questioning of national identity.
Prerequisite: 241 or 242 or permission of instructor. Distribution: Language and Literature Semester: Fall Unit: 1.0

SPAN 273 Latin American Civilization
Halleck
NOT OFFERED IN 2004-05. An introduction to the multiple elements constituting Latin American culture. An examination of the principal characteristics of Spanish colonialism and Creole nationalism will inform our general understanding of Latin American culture today. Readings and class discussions will cover such topics as the military and spiritual conquest, the Indian and African contributions, the emergence of criollo and mestizo discourses, and gender and race relations. Readings will include the works of contemporary Latin American writers, filmmakers, and historians.
Prerequisite: 241 or 242 or permission of instructor. Distribution: Language and Literature Semester: N/O Unit: 1.0

SPAN 275 The Making of Modern Latin American Culture
Halleck
An examination of the principal characteristics of the search for identity and independence of the emerging Latin American nations as expressed in literary, historical, and anthropological writing. We will examine the experience of each of four distinct regions: Mexico and Central America, the Caribbean, the Andean countries, and the Southern Cone. Readings will include the works of contemporary Latin American writers, filmmakers, and historians. Special attention will be given to the relationship between social issues and the evolution of literary form.

SPAN 277 Realism and Magical Realism in Latin American Literature and Cinema
Roses, Halleck
Realism and Magic Realism in Latin American Literature and Film, 1960-2004 is an exploration of two modes of narrative expression; one rooted in nineteenth-century literary practices, and the other formed as an aesthetic response to the distinctive social, political, and cultural experiences of Latin America. One sets out to represent social reality and the other devises techniques to merge reality with metaphor and imaginings. In addition to reading works by Jorge Luis Borges, Gabriel García Márquez, José Emilio Pacheco, Antonio Skármeta, Senel Paz and Isabel Allende, we will view films, both fiction and documentary, pertinent to the themes of the class.
Prerequisite: 241 or 242 or permission of instructor. Distribution: Arts, Music, Theatre, Film, Video or Language and Literature Semester: Spring Unit: 1.0

SPAN 279 Jewish Women Writers of Latin America
Agosin
This course will explore the vibrant literary culture of Jewish women writers of Latin America from the 1920s to the present. We will examine selected works by these authors, daughters of immigrants whose various literary genres reveal the struggle with issues of identity, acculturation, and diasporic imagination. Writers include Alicia Steinberg of Argentina, Clarice Lispector of Brazil, Margo Glantz of Mexico, as well as a new generation of writers who explore issues of multiculturalism and ethnicity.
Prerequisite: 241 or 242 or permission of instructor. Distribution: Language and Literature Semester: Fall Unit: 1.0

SPAN 291 Seminar, Literature and Culture in Cuba
Roses
NOT OFFERED IN 2004-05. Developed in conjunction with Casa de las Américas, this course will examine the role of the writer in a society transitioning from socialism to a globalized economy. SPAN 329 Seminar. Chile: Literature and the Arts
Agasig
Not offered in 2004-05. From 1971 to 2003, Chile, one of South America’s longest democracies, has experienced traumatic cultural, political, and social change. From the election of Salvador Allende (1971-1973) through the Pinochet dictatorship, during these turbulent times an unprecedented cultural life was manifested in literature, theatre, and the visual arts. In this seminar, we will explore the cultural changes experienced in Chile during three decades, the ways in which writers understood the complex web of creativity, as well as the specter of censorship. We will analyze how historical figures were revived through writers such as Gabriel Mistral, Rosalma del Valle, Pablo Neruda and Salvador Allende. Narratives, journalistic essays, theatrical and visual productions will be examined via a social and political history in which the topics were created.

Direction for Election
A minimum of eight units exclusive of 101-102 and 201-202 must be presented for the Spanish major and must ordinarily include 241 or 242 and at least one 200-level unit on Spain and at least one 200-level unit on Latin America. Also required are at least two 300-level units, including a seminar during the senior year. The units should be selected in consultation with the major advisor. SPAN 350, 360, and 370 do not count towards the minimum requirement of two 300-level courses for the major.
Upon approval from the department, up to four courses taken during study abroad in Spain or Latin America may be counted toward the major. Students who participate in these programs (either for a semester or a full year) may petition to have one course taken abroad count for one unit of departmental 300-level credit, but not for senior seminar credit. Students who submit such a petition will be required to present materials produced in the course taken abroad and the department will determine whether or not 300-level credit should be granted upon review of these materials.
For students interested in an interdisciplinary approach to the study of Latin America, also available is the interdepartmental major in Latin American Studies, which allows students to choose from a list of courses in seven different departments, including Spanish. Majors devise their own programs in consultation with the directors of Latin American studies. Students are referred to the Latin American studies interdepartmental program listing for further information.
AP: A student may receive one unit of credit and satisfy the foreign language requirement with a grade of 4 or 5 on either or both of the AP Spanish exams. She will lose the AP credit(s) if she takes SPAN 202 or a lower-numbered course. AP credit does not count toward the major in Spanish.
Teacher Certification: Students interested in obtaining certification to teach Spanish in the Commonwealth of Massachusetts should consult Ms. Renjillian-Burgy and Ms. Beatty of the Department of Education.

AN INTERDEPARTMENTAL MAJOR

Program Director: Hussey
Instructor: Arciniegas, Hussey, Loewit
Visiting Instructor: Lopez, Rouch, Harrington
Director of Theatre: Hussey
Production Manager: Loewit

Advisory Committee: Ko (English), Masson (French), Ward (German), Genero (Psychology), Renjilian-Burgy (Spanish), Rosenwald (English)

The theatre studies major is both an academic field of study and a practical application of that study. The purpose of the major is to provide students with a theoretical knowledge and appreciation of the history and literature of the theatre. Additionally, students are instructed and given "hands on" experience in production and promotion of theatrical events. The theatre is one of the oldest art forms in existence, and students learn valuable information about the way various disparate societies have evolved throughout the ages. Students are expected to work on productions as performers and technicians. The theatre department actively tries to cultivate well-rounded theatre students who are knowledgeable in all areas of theatre.

Early consultation with the director is essential, because some of the relevant courses are not offered every year and careful planning is necessary. In addition to working with the director of the theatre program, students will be encouraged to consult with other members of the faculty familiar with the interdepartmental Theatre major.

Students majoring in THST must take a minimum of nine units, including ENG 127 or ENG 281 and THST 203. Two of the nine must be at the 300 level. At least four of the nine must come from within the theatre studies department. The remaining five may be drawn from any related department (see list below). Developments in the theatre arts are a result of stage experiments, and because the theatre performance is an expression of theatrical scholarship, it is expected that students planning a major in theatre will elect to complement formal study of theatre with practical experience in the extracurricular production program of the College Theatre and related on-campus producing organizations. Students may also remain on campus over the summer or Wintersession to gain experience with Wellesley Summer Theatre (the professional wing of the academic department) for credit. All students are encouraged to participate in the 250 and 350 individual study offerings in order to pursue their particular area of theatrical interest.

Students majoring in theatre studies may elect to take at least one resident semester of concentration work in the discipline to supplement and enrich their work at Wellesley. They may attend the National Theatre Institute at the Eugene O’Neill Theatre Center, another institution in the Twelve College Exchange Program, or one of the many London programs offering intensive study in their discipline. Additionally, extensive courses are offered in the drama program at MIT.

THST 203 Plays, Production, and Performance
Hussey
This course studies the principles and practice of the related arts that make up the production of a play in the theatre. Students will analyze the dramatic script in terms of the actor, the director, the scenic, costume, and lighting designer, and the technicians. Practical applications of acquired skills integrate the content of the course. Each student participates in the creation of a fully realized "mini production" which is presented for an audience.
Prerequisite: None
Distribution: Arts, Music, Theatre, Film, Video
Semester: Fall
Unit: 1.25

THST 204 Introduction to Acting
Arciniegas
This course is intended for any and all levels of experience. Students are introduced to the fundamentals of contemporary stage performance, as devised by such stage theorists as Constantin Stanislavsky, Lee Strasburg and Sanford Meisner. Instructor focuses on the proper methods for breaking scenes down into their component units or "beats," staging them for clarity of purpose, and performing them truthfully in the immediate presence of the live audience. Students perform in every class with a rotating roster of partners, emphasizing group learning and mutual support in the pursuit of an individual acting aesthetic. Performance material is drawn from the work of contemporary playwrights researched by the students or recommended by the instructor.
Prerequisite: None
Distribution: Arts, Music, Theatre, Film, Video
Semester: Fall, Spring
Unit: 1.0

THST 205 Advanced Scene Study (Historic Periods)
Arciniegas
OFFERED IN 2004-05. NOT OFFERED IN 2005-06. This course is intended to give the advanced theatre student experience in the performance styles of other periods. Focusing on Classical, Elizabethan, Restoration and Victorian dramatic literature, students study the development of the Western European theatrical tradi- tion in practical terms. Particular emphasis is placed upon developing the performance skills necessary for remaining faithful to the acting style of the period while ensuring relevance and accessibility to a contemporary audience.
Prerequisite: 204
Distribution: Arts, Music, Theatre, Film, Video
Semester: Fall
Unit: 1.0

THST 206 Directing and Dramaturgy
Hussey
Topic for 2004-05: The New Alliance for the Next Century. This course studies the creative skills of the director in conjunction with the analytical skills of the dramaturge. Particular emphasis will be placed on communicating on a "moment to moment" basis with an actor. Students will be encouraged to develop their own unique "directorial vision." Students will be expected to provide probing intellectual questions to each other while collaborating. Dramatic material will be drawn from a variety of world literature with emphasis placed on women playwrights. Students will be given opportunities to work each week with professional actors in a guest artist "lab" format.
Prerequisite: None
Distribution: Arts, Music, Theatre, Film, Video
Semester: Fall
Unit: 1.0

THST 207 Stagecraft for Performance
Loewit
This course studies the craft and theory of the production arts in the theatre. The course will cover the process and will analyze the designer's function in the production: creating working drawings, problem-solving, use of theatrical equipment and alternative media for the realization of sound, set, and lighting designs. There will be additional time outside of class scheduled for production apprenticeships.
Prerequisite: 203 or permission of instructor.
Distribution: Arts, Music, Theatre, Film, Video
Semester: Spring
Unit: 1.0

THST 210 Echoes of the Homeland
Hussey, Lopez, Rouch
Topic for 2004-05: Oral Interpretation of Writers from Ethnic Traditions. Have you ever wondered what is lost in the process of assimilation into American culture? In this interpretation class, students are introduced to the literature of Hispanic, Celtic, and African American cultures. Through prose, poetry, and drama, stories and characters are brought to vivid life. Students will hone their interpretive skills while exploring issues of identity, immigration, and the female experience. Material will be taken from folklore, mainstream literature, and emerging writers of today.
Prerequisite: None
Distribution: Arts, Music, Theatre, Film, Video
Semester: Fall
Unit: 1.0

THST 212 Representations of Women on Stage
Lopez
NOT OFFERED IN 2004-05. OFFERED IN 2005-06. This course looks at specific examples of the representation of women on the dramatic stage during various eras in a variety of cultures, focusing primarily on what a public and popular art says and implies about women: their "nature," their roles, their place in the society reflected. Consideration is given to the male dominance in both playwrighting and performance in historic cultures. Texts will be chosen from a broad spectrum of dramatic world literature.
Prerequisite: None
Distribution: Arts, Music, Theatre, Film, Video
Semester: N/O. Offered in 2005-06.

THST 220 Classic Plays and Players
Lopez
OFFERED IN 2004-05. NOT OFFERED IN 2005-06. This course, taught by playwright Melinda Lopez, surveys dramatic texts as realized in performance (including the plays of Shakespeare). Films and video recordings of live performances approximating the original production style will be utilized along with modern interpretations. Class discussion will also incorporate analysis and comparison of women and minority characters who have shaped and created the theatre as actors, directors, designers, and producers. Significant attention will be paid to the collaboration between directors, designers and actors. The pragmatic aspects of mounting a production will be analyzed using the performances attended by the class as raw material for discussions. Students will attend six productions paid for by theatre studies, one in New York and Providence, and four in Boston. Particular emphasis will be placed on the students determining how successful the productions are in engaging the audience and fulfilling the intention of the playwright. A final project paper will be produced and direct their own ten minute play festival for the Wellesley community. Prerequisite: 203 or 206 or under unusual circumstances permission of the instructor. WOST 108 The Social Construction of Gender

This course discusses the ways in which the social system and its constituent institutions create, maintain, and reproduce gender dichotomies. Gender is examined as one form of social stratification and studied in the context of identity formation, emphasizing the relationship among gender, race, ethnicity, and social class.

The processes and mechanisms that institutionalize gender differences will be considered in a variety of contexts: political, economic, religious, educational, and familial. We will examine some deliberate attempts to change gender patterns.

Unit: 1.0

WOST 202/EXTD 202 Multidisciplinary Approaches to Abortion

NOT OFFERED IN 2004-05. Why is abortion an emotionally-charged, intellectually troubling, and nationally divisive issue? There is more to the topic of abortion than the conflict between "pro-choice" and "pro-life" positions. We can achieve better understanding of the problem by examining the biological and medical aspects of abortion as well as its religious, social, psychological, and philosophical implications. The class will explore a range of views on such topics as prenatal screening, the moral and legal significance of fathers' claims, and the possible impact of medical and technological advances (such as RU-486) on the issue of abortion. Students may register for either WOST 202 or EEXTD 202. Credit will be given in the department in which the student is registered.

Prerequisite: Open to sophomores, juniors, and seniors who have taken one introductory course in a social science, biology, philosophy, or women's studies.
Distribution: Religion, Ethics, and Moral Philosophy or Social and Behavioral Analysis
Semester: N/O
Unit: 1.0

WOST 203/EXTD 203 Ethical and Social Issues in Genetics

NOT OFFERED IN 2004-05. New genetic technologies confront us with complex questions. Should we use prenatal tests to select children's characteristics? Should genetic information be private and confidential? How should knowledge of the genetic origins of certain conditions affect health policy? If some personality and behavioral characteristics have genetic components, should this change our views about personal responsibility? Students may register for either WOST 203 or EEXTD 203. Credit will be given in the department in which the student is registered.

Prerequisite: One course in any of the following: biology, philosophy, psychology, sociology, women's studies.
Distribution: Religion, Ethics, and Moral Philosophy
Semester: N/O
Unit: 1.0

WOST 204/EXTD 204 Women and Motherhood

NOT OFFERED IN 2004-05. As poet and feminist Adrienne Rich points out, motherhood is both an "experience and institution." This course highlights how social institutions and cultural beliefs shape the experience and meaning of motherhood. We will contrast motherhood today with motherhood in other cultures and periods, and we will examine how contemporary medical practice and social policy have created new options and new problems for women. Topics will include the experience of pregnancy and childbirth, contemporary family policy, reproductive technologies, and what have become known as "maternal/fetal conflicts." Students may register for either WOST 204 or EEXTD 204. Credit will be given in the department in which the student is registered.

WOST 207 Nature, Culture, and Bodies

NOT OFFERED IN 2004-05. This course considers how the 'nature' of bodies is constructed in key cultural sites. Because science has come to be the site of authoritative claims about nature, this course will pay particular attention to scientific and medical constructions of bodies. How do categories of race, sex, class and sexuality come to be known and lived as natural features of the human body? By what processes are some bodies made normal, or pathological? The course also considers how specific technologies—from clothing to cosmetic surgery—participate in changing how we live and understand the nature of bodies. Key topics addressed in the course include: the historical scientific construction of race, medical constructions of reproduction, the gendering and culturing of the body through fashion, and internet embodiment.

Prerequisite: One course in Women's Studies.

WOST 211/SOC 205 American Families and Social Equality

Hertz

American families are undergoing dramatic changes in social, political, and economic arenas: the rise of the dual-worker family, the increasing number of single mothers, the demands of family rights by gay and lesbian families, and growing numbers of couples having children at older ages. The new economy poses real challenges for American parents as the social and economic gaps between families continue. As women dedicate a greater proportion of their time to the workplace, more children are cared for outside the home. How do children view parents' employment? How do families function when they have only limited hours together? What does fatherhood mean in these families? Using a provocative blend of social science, novels, and memoirs, we will examine how gender, race, ethnicity, and social class shape the experience of family life in the contemporary United States. Students may register for either WOST 211 or SOC 205. Credit will be given in the department in which the student is registered.

WOST 216 Women and Popular Culture

NOT OFFERED IN 2004-05. This course examines women's representation, production, and participation in U.S. popular culture from the late nineteenth century to the present. Through the use of historical studies, film, television, music, and literature, we will discuss how race, gender, ethnicity, class, and region have impacted women's encounter with popular and mass culture. We will ask why the cultural industry has viewed women as critical to the consumption and dissemination of popular culture. We will discuss popular culture's impact on challenging and/or reinforcing gender differences. Topics include women and modernity, cities and leisure, the rise of a consumer culture, women and technology, sexuality, and feminism and performance practices.

WOST 217 Growing Up Gendered
Marshall
This course focuses on the childhood and the teen years in the United States. How do we become gendered? What are the experiences of children and teens in families, schools, and peer groups that contribute to that process? What is the relationship between pop culture and the gendered lives of children and teens? How does gendering vary by race/ethnicity and social class? We will explore the core issues in the field, including the importance of including the voices of children and teens, the ways in which gender is constructed in social interactions, the intersections of gender, sexuality and peer status, and the importance of collective and individual agency.

WOST 218 Gender Transformations in Asian American Communities
NOT OFFERED IN 2004-05. This course focuses on the contemporary Asian immigration to the United States and examines its impact on immigrant women's role in the workplace, family and the community. It addresses the importance of gender in immigrant adaptation and identity formation not only among the immigrants but also among their native-born children. We will discuss the ways in which ethnicity, class, age, citizenship, and sexuality intersect to shape various experiences of Asian American women in the context of work and life. The complexity of ethnicity, including multi-racial/multi-ethnic identities and the phenomenon of intermarriages, is explored in connection with gender relations in the contemporary Asian American communities.

WOST 220 American Health Care History in Gender, Race, and Class Perspective
Reverby
Traditional American medical history has emphasized the march of science and the ideas of the "great doctors" in the progressive improvement in American medical care. In this course we will look beyond just medical care to the social and economic factors that have shaped the development of the priorities, institutions, and personnel in the health care system in the United States. We will ask how have gender, race, and class affected the kind of care developed, their differential delivery, and the problems and issues addressed.
Prerequisite: 108 or 120 or 222
Distribution: Historical Studies
Semester: Fall
Unit: 1.0

WOST 222 Women in Contemporary American Society
Reverby
This course examines the transformations and continuities in the lives of women in the United States since World War II. We will look critically at the so-called "happy days" of the 1950s, the cultural and political "revolutions" of the 1960s and early 1970s, and the shifts in consciousness over the last five decades. The rise and changes in feminisms and the women's movement will receive special attention. Emphasis will be placed on the differing communities of women and how they have balanced the so-called "private," "public," and "civic" spheres of their lives.
Prerequisite: None
Distribution: Historical Studies or Social and Behavioral Analysis
Semester: Spring
Unit: 1.0

WOST 235 Cross Cultural Sexuality
Patel
This course will examine and explore sexuality from cross-cultural perspectives, focusing on the production of sexuality in the context of different discourses — literature, anthropology, history, and sociology. The course will address the intersections between sexual and socio-cultural, political, and economic discourses. How is sexuality constructed in relation to ideological, social, and political considerations? What sexual "norms" established, circulated, and maintained in different cultures and at different historical junctures? What, if anything, constitutes sexual otherness in different cultures? How is this negotiated in a global economy and how is it represented under variable conditions? How do different descriptions of sexual behavior interact with the discourses of identity politics and queerness as constituted in the United States?
Prerequisite: 108 or 120 or 222
Distribution: Historical Studies or Language and Literature

Unit: 1.0

WOST 248 Asian American Women Writers
NOT OFFERED IN 2004-05. This course surveys the historical development of Asian American women's literature. Among the questions central to our examination: How is Asian American writing positioned within the larger field of American literature (as well as within the subfields of other ethnic minority literatures)? Is there such a thing as a "canon" in Asian American literature? The first half of this course will survey the literature of Asian American women writers since the early twentieth century (including autobiography, fiction, and poetry) in their social and historical contexts.
Prerequisite: None
Distribution: Language and Literature
Semester: N/O
Unit: 1.0

WOST 249 Asian American Women in Film and Video Creed
This course will serve as an introduction to Asian American film and video and begin with the premise that there is a distinct American style of Asian "Orientalist" representation by tracing its development in classic Hollywood film over the last 75 years. We examine the politics of interracial romance, the phenomenon of "yellow face" drag, and the different constructions of Asian American femininity, masculinity, and sexuality. In the second half of the course, we look at the production of what has been named "Asian American cinema" in the past 15 years. Our focus is on contemporary works, drawing upon critical materials from film theory, feminist studies, Asian American studies, history, and cultural studies.
Prerequisite: One course in Women's Studies or film/visual arts or Asian American topics; permission of instructor. Not open to students who have taken 348.

WOST 275 Passing: Transforming Identities in History and Representation
NOT OFFERED IN 2004-05. Passing from one identity to another is a social phenomenon that has existed for centuries. Forms of passing include minority, ethnic, religious, or racial community members passing into majority communities; women passing as men; gays passing as straight; people with disabilities passing as able-bodied, etc. This course explores the social and political economies that demand or facilitate different forms of passing and the conditions under which identities shift. Questions include: under what circumstances do individuals and groups pass for survival, and under what conditions do people come back out? What are the fears and popular reactions that arise with regard to passing? How is the phenomenon of passing represented in different media? If identities become more fluid, is there less pressure to pass?
Prerequisite: 120 or 222 recommended; permission of instructors required.
Distribution: Historical Studies or Language and Literature

WOST 280 Gender and Writing in South Asia
NOT OFFERED IN 2004-05. Beginning with post-colonial nationalism (1780s) and closing with the late nation-state (1998), this course explores the ways in which gender and writing come together in South Asia. Questions include: Under what circumstances did different genres of writing evolve? How did different genres of early nationalist writing engage with masculinity or femininity? How was the home, house, or the private configured in writing around the 1900s? How was gender articulated in relation to tradition and modernity? How were "feminist" issues addressed in different genres of writing? Writers whose works might be read in this class include Sakawat Hussain, Frenchmad, Saadat Hasan Manto, Ismat Chughtai, Q. Hyder, Kiran Nagarkar, and Mahasweta Devi. Movies might include Bandini, Pyasa, Umrao Jan Ada, Mother India, and Fire.

WOST 281 Gender and South Asian Cinema
Patel
South Asia has the largest multilingual film industry in the world. Since the inception of film-making in South Asia, gender has been a preeminent theme through which films have derived their emotional force. Women are either protagonists or integral to the plot movements of most South Asian movies — as mothers, widows, virgins, courtisans, queens, bad girls and terrorists. In this course students will investigate the emergence of these gendered figures in Indian cinema from the long suffering mother
WOST 300/EXTD 300 Ethical and Policy Issues in Reproduction
Asch
This seminar will analyze divergent views on current ethical questions in reproduction, giving attention to the grounds for these views and their ramifications for clinical practice and public policy. Feminist and mainstream approaches to bioethics will be contrasted. Topics will include: creating families through assisted reproduction and adoption; moral and social issues in human cloning; the moral obligations of pregnant women; and the moral and legal status of unimplanted embryos and aborted fetuses. Students may register for either WOST 300 or EXTD 300. Credit will be given in the department in which the student is registered.

WOST 306/SOC 306 Women and Work
Hertz
Aside from new technology and increasing global interdependence, the biggest force for change in the U.S. economy has been the growing diversity of the American labor force. The goal of this course is to understand the impact of gender and racial diversity on the nature of work in America. We will give special attention to four key aspects of change: (1) the dynamics of gender and race in the workplace; (2) the tensions between work/family and gender equity; (3) the struggle to integrate women into male-dominated occupations and professions; and (4) the challenges for women in leadership roles. Each student will select an occupation, which they will study in-depth. Students may register for either WOST 306 or SOC 206. Credit will be given in the department in which the student is registered.

WOST 308 The Changing Law, The New Family, and The State
Citron
This course examines the legal standing of family membership. As families have become more diverse, the law becomes an arena of political challenge. These new realities—domestic partnerships, reproductive technologies, and the rise of single mothers—have created a contested terrain. For example, what legal formalities do same-sex partners use to mimic the legal protections automatically afforded to their married counterparts? How do committed partners dissolve a marriage-like relationship outside of divorce proceedings? Using legal cases, media portrayals, and public policy statements we will examine how the law responds to these developments in the new family forms.

WOST 311/SOC 311 Seminar: Family and Gender Studies: The Family, the State, and Social Policy
Hertz
Analysis of problems facing the contemporary U.S. family and potential policy directions for the new millennium. Discussion of the transformation of the American family including changing economic and social roles for women and expanding varieties of family types (such as single mothers by choice and lesbian/gay families). Sexuality, teen pregnancy, reproductive issues, day care, the elderly, divorce, welfare, the impact of work on the family, equality between spouses, choices women make about children and employment, and the new American dreams will be explored. Comparisons to other contemporary societies will serve as a foil for particular analyses. Students are expected to work in groups to analyze the media's portrayal of familial/gender stories and selected legal cases. Students may register for either WOST 311 or SOC 311. Credit will be given in the department in which the student is registered.

WOST 317 Seminar. History of Sexuality: Queer Theory
Patel

This seminar will introduce the concepts central to queer theory, starting with Foucault and Laqueur and discussions of sexual difference and deviance. It will examine queerness in its various manifestations and practices: butch-femme, transgendering, cross-dressing, bisexuality, and third gender. The conflicts and continuities between identity politics and queer identities will be explored in the context of racialization, class, and different-abledness and under the markers of nationhood and subalternity. Finally, what impact do the debates on the production of sexuality in different sites (African American, Native American, Latino, Asian American and non-U.S.) and historical periods have on theories of queerness?

Prerequisite: Open to juniors and seniors with any course on gender, race or sexuality.

WOST 319 Seminar. Women and Militarism
NOT OFFERED IN 2004-05.

This course examines women's experiences in and representations of war and militarism since 1945. The core of the course will focus on the relationship between the state's mobilization for war, social policy, and women's cultural participation within these processes. We will consider how race, gender, ethnicity, and class have shaped women's representations in the military, imperialism, decolonization, citizenship, and anti-violence. Course materials will include film, literature, art, music, and autobiographies. Topics include: the relationship between the postwar ideology of domesticity and war representations of women, war and violence against women, women's strategies for peace, women's voices in foreign policy, gender and imperialism, and feminists' critique of violence.

Prerequisite: One 100- or 200-level course in women's studies.
Distribution: Social and Behavioral Analysis
Semester: N/O
Unit: 1.0

WOST 324 Seminar. History, Memory, and Women's Lives
Reverby

If a woman speaks of her experiences, do we get closer to the "truth" of that experience? How can oral history provide a window into the lives of women in the past and what does it close off? Analysis of methodological and theoretical implications of studying women's lives through oral histories as a way to understand the silences in other historical forms. Special attention to be paid to other genres -- history, fiction, ethnographies -- as a foil to explore the strengths, and limitations, of the oral history approach.

A major in women's studies offers an opportunity for the interdisciplinary study of women from the perspectives of the humanities, sciences, and social sciences. Women's Studies majors seek an understanding of the new intellectual frameworks that are reshaping thought about the meaning and role of gender in human life. Majors pursue knowledge of gendered experiences in diverse cultures and across time, examining the ways in which race, social class, sexuality, and ethnicity are constitutive of that experience.

A major in women's studies requires nine units taken both within the department and through the related courses taught in other departments. Of these, two units must be 300-level courses (not counting 350, 350H, 360, or 370). Not more than two units can be 100-level courses.

Students are encouraged to enter the department through one of the three core units: WOST 108 (The Social Construction of Gender), WOST 120 (Introduction to Women's Studies), or WOST 222 (Women in Contemporary American Society). Majors must take one of these units as a required course. Apart from this one required unit (108, 120 or 222), majors must elect at least three other units offered within the women's studies department, of which one should be a seminar. 100-level courses are introductions to topics in women's studies. They are taught from the perspective of each faculty member's specialty. 200-level courses are overviews to substantive areas. 300-level courses provide in-depth examination of material covered in 200-level courses. Students majoring in women's studies must elect four of the nine units in such a way that they form a "concentration," i.e. have a focus or central theme in common. Such concentration should include relevant method and theory units in the area of concentration, and must be discussed with and approved by a women's studies faculty advisor. Priority in all courses above the 100 level will go to majors and minors. Students selecting 300-level courses must have one course listed in the department.

The Capstone Experience in Women's Studies

As of the class of 2001, all majors will be required to select a capstone experience, with the guidance of their adviser, from the following three options offered in 2004-05. Students should begin to think about which option would best fit their concentration when they declare the major. They must declare their option by the end of their junior year.

Option 1: WOST 312 (Seminar) Feminist Inquiry. Each year the seminar will be a different special topic. For 2004-05, the topic is "The Body in Feminist Theory" taught by Professor Creef.

Option 2: WOST 313 Fieldwork in Women's Studies

Option 3: WOST 360/370 Senior Thesis

Option three is the traditional senior honors thesis which requires two units over the senior year. See Academic Distinctions in this Bulletin for requirements. A thesis does not need to be an experiential component but typically it is based on some original research. Option 2 must involve an experiential component.

A minor in women's studies consists of five courses, of which one must be chosen from among 108, 120, or 222, and of which one must be a 300-level course (not 350 or 350H) offered within the department. A total of at least three courses must be taken within the women's studies department. Minors must devise a three-course "concentration" (see above) in consultation with a women's studies faculty advisor (the chair or any of the four women's studies faculty members). Not more than one unit can be a 100-level course.

Women's Studies AP Policy

Women's studies does not allow students to count AP credits towards the fulfillment of the major or minor.

The Writing Program

Director: Wood
Assistant Professor: Schwartz
Senior Lecturer: Viti, Wood
Lecturer: Ivanaga, Johnson, Goldeifas

Writing is central to academic life at Wellesley and will continue to play an important role in most students' lives after they graduate, whether they choose majors in the sciences, the social sciences, or the humanities. WRIT 125 provides a common introductory experience in college-level thinking and writing for all students at Wellesley and it is assumed to provide the base for writing assigned in later courses. WRIT 125 courses are taught by faculty from many departments as well as by a team of writing professionals; all WRIT 125 faculty view writing as an important part of their own professional lives and are committed to helping Wellesley students learn to use writing as a powerful tool of thought and expression, a way to gain entrance to public discourse.

All WRIT 125 courses have the primary goal of helping students establish a useful writing process, from developing ideas through revision. All sections provide instruction in analysis and interpretation, in argument and the use of evidence, in the development of voice, and in the conventions of academic writing, including writing from sources. Students may choose to take a standard WRIT 125 course (meeting two periods a week and addressing a small, well-defined topic related to the instructor's expertise), or to study writing as part of an introductory course in another department (these "combined courses" are designated with a slash in the course title; all carry one unit of credit, fulfill distribution and/or major requirements, and meet for at least three periods each week).

All students are required to take WRIT 125 in either the fall or spring semester of their first year at Wellesley. Students who lack confidence in their writing are advised to take WRIT 125 in the fall and to select one of the sections designated for underconfident writers (9, 10, 13, 14, 17 in semester 1). Davis Scholars and transfer students who have not met the Writing Requirement may opt to take WRIT 225, a changing topics course that will each year take up a specific non-fiction writing genre, for example, travel writing, literary reviewing, memoir, or journal writing.

Students who wish to pursue the study of writing beyond WRIT 125 may select independent study in writing (WRIT 250 for a full unit or WRIT 250H for a half unit of credit) with a member of the writing program staff, but they should also be aware that many courses at Wellesley are taught writing intensively, offering the opportunity to study writing as part of their disciplinary study.

PLEASE NOTE: Students may not take a second semester of WRIT 125 unless they have the written consent of the director of the writing program.
Semester 1

WRIT 125 01/02/ENG 120 Critical Interpretation
Bregan, Hickey, Tyler (English)
A course designed to increase power and skill in critical interpretation by the detailed reading of poems and the writing of interpretive essays. These special sections of WRIT 125 fulfill both the college writing requirement and the critical interpretation requirement of the English major. Includes a third session each week.
Prerequisite: Open to all first year students but primarily recommended for prospective English majors.

WRIT 125 04/05/ARTH 100 Introduction to the History of Art Part I: Ancient and Medieval Art
Bedell, Rhodes (Art)
A foundation course in the history of art, part 1. From the ancient Egyptian pyramids to the Buddhist temples of India, from the mosques of Arabia to the Gothic cathedrals of Europe, the course introduces the visual cultures of the Ancient and Medieval worlds. Students in this section of ARTH 100 will attend the same twice-weekly lectures as the other ARTH 100 students, but their assignments will be different, and they will attend two special WRIT 125 conferences each week. Through writing about art, students in 100/125 will develop skills in visual and critical analysis. This course satisfies the WRIT 125 requirement and counts as a unit towards a major in art history, architecture, or studio art.
Prerequisite: Open to all first year students

WRIT 125 06/RUSS 125 Great Short Stories from Russia
Bishop (Russian)
Russian literature has given the world some of the best stories ever told, and this course surveys two-centuries' worth of them. Someone once quipped that all of twentieth century Russian literature came out of Nikolai Gogol's "Nose." And so we begin with "The Nose" and other ridiculous stories by Gogol. We will go on to read some of the finest short stories of Chekhov and the Nobel Prize winner Ivan Bunin. The grotesque realism of Isaac Babel's stories and the magical realism of Vladimir Nabokov's also lie within the scope of this course. We will conclude with the late and post-Soviet stories of Tatiyana Tolstaya and Ludmilla Petrushevskaia. No prior knowledge of Russian language or literature is required. This course satisfies the requirements for both WRIT 125 and RUSS 125. Includes a third session each week.
Prerequisite: None
Distribution: Language and Literature
Semester: Fall
Unit: 1.0

WRIT 125 07 Arguing in Public Places
Wood (The Writing Program)
This is a course in rhetoric and argumentation. We will examine principles and strategies from classical rhetoric and then apply what we have learned to current sites of public argument (television and radio talk shows, internet discussion lists, newspaper and magazine articles, and scholarly publications), asking whether and how traditional strategies of persuasion apply in the contemporary, media-dominated world. Topic emphasis: the 2004 U.S. presidential election.
Prerequisite: None
Distribution: None
Semester: Fall
Unit: 1.0

WRIT 125 08 Beowulf: The Man, the Hero, the Monster
Lynch (English)
The longest and most magnificent of all poems written in Old English, Beowulf describes the great warrior who rescues a noble prince's mead hall from the evil monster Grendel. Straightforward on its surface, this heroic tale is shadowed by intimations of mortality and even greed as the hero Beowulf grows older and confronts ever more serious challenges to his own and to the Anglo-Saxon world view. In this course, we will compare several modern English translations to passages from the original language; we will also trace how different readers have approached the critical problems raised by the poem; finally, we will read a modern recasting of Beowulf. No previous knowledge of medieval literature or language is assumed or required.
Prerequisite: None

Semester: Fall
Unit: 1.0

WRIT 125 09, 10 The Role of Stories
Schwartz (The Writing Program)
This course looks at the rich and various roles stories play. We look at the short story as a literary form, examining the techniques by which writers reveal their visions. This section is appropriate for students who have not done much writing in high school or who perhaps lack confidence in writing (but who love to read stories).
Prerequisite: None

WRIT 125 11 Crime and Punishment in America: Its Roots and Its Future
Viti (The Writing Program)
In this course students will read and write about some well-known criminal law cases, including Regina v. Dudley, Fyerman v. Georgia (the United States Supreme Court's decision striking down the death penalty as unconstitutional), and the Bobby Joe Leaster case. We will read essays about the criminal justice system (in particular, about the death penalty as it currently exists and is applied in the United States); excerpts from the work of Helen Prejean and Norman Mailer (The Executioner's Song); and writings of advocates for and opponents of the death penalty. Finally, we will screen and critique the films Dead Man Walking and Hurricane.

WRIT 125 12 Contemporary Issues in Law and Society
Viti (The Writing Program)
This course looks critically at current issues in American society through essays and articles by legal commentators and journalists, current news reports, and United States Supreme Court opinions on such vital topics as civil liberties, new reproductive technologies, assisted suicide, gay marriage, privacy and the Internet, and abortion.
Prerequisite: None
Distribution: None

Unit: 1.0

WRIT 125 13 Women and Memoir: Shaping a Life
Johnson (The Writing Program)
This course explores how writers select and fashion events from their own lives to provide context for their ideas. For women writers especially, this "revision" of personal experience has proved a powerful forum for addressing artistic, social, and political issues. Readings will include essays and selections from autobiographies by Virginia Woolf, Maya Angelou, Alice Walker, Maxine Hong Kingston, and Joan Didion.

Unit: 1.0

WRIT 125 14 Leaving a Trace: Women's Lives at Crossroads
Johnson (The Writing Program)
The instinct to leave a trace of a life, as Virginia Woolf notes, is the first stage in the journey from private to public voice. Yet how do writers develop the courage to write for an audience? This course focuses on young women at crucial life junctures, who often resist social pressures in order to define voice and identity on their own terms. Drawing on memoir, such as Susanna Kaysen's Girl Interrupted, as well as journals by Anne Frank and Ertj Hillesum, the course examines how social and psychological adversity shape and often strengthen self-expression.

Semester: Fall, Spring
Unit: 1.0

WRIT 125 15 Imagining a Self
Harman (English)
How do writers imagine a self? We will explore this question in a range of examples, including some that are "readings" of each other: poems that are commentaries on fairytales, myths, or paintings; plays that interpret history; film adaptations of fiction. These materials will also be the subjects of our written assignments in a class that focuses on analytical writing; a mini-research paper will conclude the course.
Prerequisite: None
Distribution: None
Semester: Fall
Unit: 1.0

WRIT 125 16 The American Short Story: Past and Present
Sides (English)
We will survey the American short story tradition beginning with Edgar Allan Poe, who is often credited with inventing the form, and ending with contemporary writers like Lorrie Moore, Jhumpa Lahiri, and Denis Johnson. The reading of short stories will be accompanied by critical essays on various authors and on the history of the short story genre in the United States.

WRIT 125 17 The Idea of Home
Iwagana (The Writing Program)
The readings in this course focus on the experiences of people coming to terms with where they belong, whether they are immigrants, international students, or a young girl moving from one lovel essless household to another, looking for acceptance. However the displacement occurs, the dilemma remains the same: Where is one's true home? Readings will be chosen from among the following: The House on Mango Street by Sandra Cisneros, Bread Givers by Anzia
Yezierska, short stories by Lan Samantha Chang and Peter Ho Davies. Please note: Enrolment in this course is limited to students who speak English as a second or additional language.

WRIT 125 18 Five American Women
Fiction Writers
Fisher (English)
Through in-depth reading of the novels and short stories of five significant writers, this course will explore the rich ways in which twentieth-century American women from different cultural backgrounds have understood and written about women's experience. Students will evaluate a range of fiction by Willa
Cather, Zora Neale Hurston, Flannery
O'Connor, Maxine Hong Kingston, and Louise Erdrich in order to discover both the common and disparate themes of women's writing in twentieth-century America. Writing assignments on such texts as Cather's My Antonia, Kingston's
The Woman Warrior, and Erdrich's Love
Medicine will focus both on literary techniques and on social dynamics such as gender, race, etnicity, class, and regional identification.

WRIT 125 19 Public Health: Epidemics and
Other Battles
Goldofias (The Writing Program)
Public health is a constantly shifting target, as medical mysteries ranging from antibiotic resistance to anthrax continue to emerge. This course looks at early successes in public health in the United States, the strengths and weaknesses of our public-health infrastructure, and current challenges. Case studies include Mad Cow Disease, toxic exposures, innovative approaches to treating tuberculosis, childhood vaccinations, and such infectious diseases as Hepatitis C and malaria.

WRIT 125 20 Novels of Jane Austen
Meyer (English)
Students will read a selection of the great novels of Jane Austen and use her work to learn skills for the close reading of fiction in general. We will study the details of Austen's fictional technique. From what perspective are the novels told? How does the author reveal her attitudes toward her characters? At the same time we will consider the broader questions raised by the novels. What values motivate Austen's fiction?
How does she comment on the larger social and historical scene? What are her views on such issues as slavery or the proper role of women?
 Mandatory credit/noncredit.

WRIT 125 04/ARTH 101 Introduction to the History of Art Part II: Renaissance to the Present
Rhodes (Art)
A foundation course in the history of art. From Michelangelo to media culture, this course introduces the visual cultures of Europe, Africa, and the Americas, beginning with the Renaissance, using key issues and monuments as the focus of discussion. Students in this section of ARTH 101 will attend the same twice-weekly lectures as the other ARTH 101 students, but their assignments will be different, and they will attend two special Writing 125 conferences each week. Through writing about art, students in 101/125 will develop skills in visual and critical analysis. This course satisfies the WRIT 125

WRIT 125 09/AMST 125 Defining Asian American Literature
Iwagana (The Writing Program)
The question we will pose at the outset, and which we will revisit frequently, is: "What defines Asian American literature?" The writer's ethnicity? The topic? The intended audience? Authors studied may include Maxine Hong Kingston,
Patti Kim, Jhumpa Lahiri, R.O. Butler, Peter Ho
Davies, Sandra Cing Lo, Monique T.D. Truong.
Students will also read essays on the power of creativity and the imagination. As students refine their definitions of Asian American literature, spurred on by texts that challenge their initial ideas, they will work toward defining American identity itself. This course satisfies the WRIT 125 requirement and counts as a unit of the Asian American Studies concentration within the American Studies major. Includes a third session each week.

WRIT 125 12 Richard Nixon: An American Icon
Viti (The Writing Program)
Archetypal political villain to some, hero and statesman to others, Richard Nixon rose to national prominence with the Army-McCarthy hearings in the 1950s and resigned from the Presidency in disgrace in 1974. In this course, we will trace Nixon’s evolution as a public figure and draw some conclusions about legal and political issues in the U.S. during this tumultuous period in American society. Readings will be drawn from Nixon’s own speeches and writings, as well as from legal, literary, cinematic and historical texts portraying Nixon and his many personal, political and legal crises.

Unit: 1.0

WRIT 125 13 Law, Literature, and Film
Viti (The Writing Program)
We will read and write about short works of fiction and nonfiction, as well as popular films that reflect society’s values concerning law and justice. Readings selected from works of Elie Weisel, Franz Kafka, and Jeanne Houston, and popular and classic films such as Inherit the Wind, To Kill a Mockingbird, The Verdict, Dead Man Walking, and The Firm. Students will be required to attend five evening screenings of five films. Each film will be shown on a weekend night and again on a Sunday night, to accommodate varying student schedules.

Unit: 1.0

WRIT 125 14 Literature into Film
Ko (English)
This course will explore the translation of literary works into film. We will think not only about how film adaptations reflect the original literary works, but also about the ways in which films stand on their own as independent works of art. The films to be studied in relation to the literary work will likely include: Martin Scorsese’s adaptation of Edith Wharton’s Age of Innocence, Baz Luhrmann’s Romeo and Juliet, both Claude and Emma (with Gwyneth Paltrow), and versions of Richard Wright’s Native Son.
Prerequisite: None

Semester: Spring
Unit: 1.0

WRIT 125 15 Retelling Stories: The Art and the Ethics
Schwartz (The Writing Program)
In this course we explore the moral and artistic implications of retelling stories and myths. We’ll read stories from the Old Testament, Native American legends, and Chinese myths, and then examine how these stories have been radically re-told by contemporary writers such as Cynthia Ozick, Louise Erdrich, and Maxine Hong Kingston. The course will culminate in a unit on Anne Frank’s The Diary of a Young Girl and the intense controversies generated by the way Anne Frank’s story has been re-told and popularized for stage and screen. Students will also have the opportunity to creatively retell a story or two of their own.

WRIT 125 17 Love Manuals: Medieval and Modern Vega (Spanish)
Beginning with the Islamic eleventh century Dove’s Neck-Ring by Ibn Hazm of Cordoba, and the Christian twelfth century Art of Courtly Love by Andreas Capellanus, (which is considered among the earliest of texts in the genre of the Western romantic love manual,) we will critically examine medieval concepts of gender, sexuality, and “love sickness.” We will then look at how these elements have evolved in contemporary popular culture using examples from video/film and the Internet, as well as other sources like self-help manuals such as Barbara D’Angelis’ Are You the One for Me? Complementary readings include selections from Ovid, Art of Love; Diego de San Pedro, Prison-House of Love; Irving Singer, The Nature of Love; and John Boswell, Same-Sex Unions in Premodern Europe.
Prerequisite: None
Distribution: None
Semester: Spring
Unit: 1.0

WRIT 125 18 Spirituality
Mikalachi (English)
The focus of this course is literary spirituality: an examination of the ways that literary forms both express and shape spiritual experience. We will consider how the arts figure in spiritual experience and writing, both as sources of inspiration and as ways of making connections with the divine, the created world, and between human individuals and communities. Topics to be explored will likely include: desert spirituality; spirituality and the body, including sexuality; mysticism; spirituality and politics; spirituality and personal reflection or growth. Texts will be drawn from third-century Egypt through medieval Europe to contemporary writing in English, with emphasis on American and South African spirituality.

Courses in Health and Society

The anthropologist Mary Douglas observed that "the human body is always treated as an image of society and...there can be no natural way of considering the body that does not involve at the same time a social dimension." Similarly, how we perceive our bodies, how they are treated by the health care system, how medicine and health care shape how we see ourselves are critical questions we must all face. Courses in health and society include ones that examine the workings of the human body and mind and ones that take a broad look at the relationship between health and larger cultural and societal issues. These courses encourage students to confront the ethical, social, and political issues in the creation of health and science, and they allow students to consider the broad issues that link the body to the body politic. They offer valuable perspectives to students planning careers in the health field and benefit anyone confronting health care in today's complex world.

Although there is no departmental or interdepartmental major in health studies, these courses enrich and enlarge concentrations in a variety of disciplines. They also demonstrate how different disciplines contribute to understanding a topic (health) and an institution (the health care system) that affect all our lives. Students who plan to apply for admission to medical school should consult the section on Preparation for Medical School in this catalogue.

Courses in Legal Studies

Law plays a central role in social organization, and legal and political institutions use law, doctrines, and procedures to establish collective values, mediate conflicts between individuals and groups, and resolve questions of state power. Legal materials provide a rich ground for developing reading and interpretive skills, and for promoting serious inquiry into visions of the good and the just, the dimensions and limits of private and public decision-making, and conflicts between consent and coercion. Finally, cross-cultural and historical analyses offer students opportunities to explore the ways in which legal institutions and practices help create diverse social identities and communities. Students wishing to explore a range of legal materials, analytical frameworks, and institutions are encouraged to select courses from several perspectives and disciplines.

There is no departmental or interdepartmental major in legal studies; however, coursework in this area can enrich and enlarge concentrations in a variety of disciplines. Students who plan to apply for admission to law school should consult the section on Preparation for Law School in this catalog.

The information contained in this Bulletin is accurate as of July 2004. However, Wellesley College reserves the right to make changes at its discretion affecting policies, fees, curricula or other matters announced in this Bulletin.

In accordance with the Student Right-to-Know and Campus Security Act (Public Law 101-542), the graduation rate for students who entered Wellesley College as first-year students in September 1997 on a full-time basis was 91%. (The period covered is equal to 150% of the normal time for graduation.)

Wellesley College admits students without regard to race, color, religion, or national origin, to all the rights, privileges, programs, and activities generally accorded or made available to students at the College. The College does not discriminate on the basis of race, color, religion, national origin or sexual orientation, in administration of its educational policies, scholarship or loan programs, athletic and other college-administered programs or in its employment policies.

Wellesley College, as an independent, undergraduate educational institution for women, does not discriminate on the basis of sex against its students in the educational programs or activities in which it operates, and does not discriminate on the basis of sex in its employment policies, in compliance with the regulations of Title IX of the Education Amendments of 1972, nor does the College discriminate on the basis of handicap in violation of Section 504 of the Rehabilitation Act of 1973.
