

Dayton June 9th 1864

My dear Augusta, We write immediately on receiving them, never wait more than a day, and seldom that long, We too think the letters come ⁱⁿ ~~fast~~ ^{fast} and far between.

We have not heard from Howard for some time, till this evening, He wrote from a camp near Dallas, the date of his letter is May 30th. He is in the midst of danger, has so far, escaped, Our time passes much as it did for some days after Grants battles began in Virginia, Now, he knows how we feel. Poor boy! he has heard nothing from us for some weeks, and I fear it will be long before he does, Being on the march, Our letters are not sent promptly to him. Sella's Apron is ready for her, and we will show her. The dear little boys do very well, The trough sometimes tempts them, but a call brings them away, and I never saw poor little boys, (Always excepting my own) I would like the Wobey settle, but fear the ships will not grow, It should be layed, or a root if possible but if they can do no better bring the ships —

As to our old enemy, use thy own pleasure about him, Or Luther's — I have nothing to say, "Judge not lest ye be judged" with the Sary.
So I will not say what may be his motive in this seeming kindness, and who knows? perhaps he has experienced a change of heart.

Let us hope so Love to Luther & as ever affectionately thy Mother

R. S. Mary Brady called just now, to see how the children do, and this reminds me that I have said nothing about her.
I have not seen her since Saturday, and I wrote thee after that, but thy Father sees her every day, and says she is well.
Perhaps thou had better not say anything about it, that can reach us here in Dayton.
We have been very careful, and perhaps all of our friends will be. But Mary B. said that Martha wrote them that I sent his negro and Aunt Augusta hoped he would continue to send him, Love again to both from Mother
