INQUIRY REVEALS AMAZING SECRETS

Blue Book Found Inadequate; News Ferrets Out Details In Sensational Expose

SORDID FACTS DISCLOSED

To the deluge of literature which descends upon the innocent and unsuspecting freshmen in ever-increasing floods we propose to add our bit for the general edification and enlightenment. We shall endeavor to be as compact and brief as possible. The "blue book," excellent as it is, we find woefully lacking in one respect. The list of "interesting things in Wellesley," however hopefully and enthusiastically compiled, seems to us, ripened in the experience which comes only through living in such surroundings, sadly inadequate. And so, from the inky depths of life, we endeavor to compound a similar list which we fondly hope may prove to be guide and inspiration to future generations. "Interesting things in Wellesley!" What of interesting things in the Vill? A-ha!

In the first place, the imposing stone edifice across from Fiske, on the corner of Central Street and Weston Road, is not, as one misguided innocent fondly imagined, a place of religious worship. No. Within resides what is fondly known as Wellesley's Fire Department. An occasional conflagration, preferably in the vicinity of Eliot House, causes him some little annoyance, but otherwise he leads a cloistered existence. Across from aforementioned domicile, the Odd Fellows hold forth in nightly revels to the strains of last year's jazz and the rumble of the bowling alleys. For fear of being sued for libel or accused of giving a little gratis advertising we refrain from mentioning the name of a dress shop further down the street with clothes that make your tongue hang out, and highway robber prices.

A list of those places wherein one may (and does) consume many calories and most of one's allowance, is probably superfluous, even to rank newcomers. But in the interests of human justice, we must drop a hint to those who bewail the anaemic beverage served in all colleges everywhere under the deceptive name of coffee. What this country needs (taking a little lib-

NOTICE

4:40 Monday afternoon a meeting at Mary Hemenway for all Sophomores and Freshmen and all those taking voluntary sports. Bring pencils and cards of admission for classes.

ADVICE TO THE LOVELORN

Miss Pendleton has greeted you; and to-night Adonais has barked his cheery welcome. Village juniors have opened the houses for you; Mary Hemenway has received you in unique fashion. And now, to cap the climax, the editors of the Wellesley College News will assure you that these expressions have all been genuine, that you really are a most welcome addition to the ranks of our far-famed Alma Mater.

If we disclose the truth to your favored ears, this was to be no small moment in our lives. For three long years have we idealized Seniors with their glorious rights of superiority; only in our most elated moments did we dare to imagine the thrill of supremacy. But now it is with pain and sorrow that we confess to you that we are disillusioned. Perhaps it is that the joys of Freshmanity seem increasingly desirable, when the dangers of Seniority loom larger and more ominous. Or perhaps it is just that we have been overwhelmed by you barbarians.

But, being editors, we shall brave the throng; we must give you an opportunity to listen to our wonderful words of wisdom! We shall prescribe for you! Try the counsel every night before retiring—or on those days designated by certain pessimistic souls as Blue.

In the first place you are barbarians. That species of mankind, as you doubtless recall, has always had to absorb the new culture it met. So resign yourselves to the difficult task of effacing yourselves before us learned and inspiring Wellesleyites. But—don't submit too far. Barbarians have always brought vigor to decaying civilizations. So you are privileged to criticize to your heart's content and we guarantee that inches and inches of Free Press space will be set aside for you each week. If you will take advantage of the opportunity, you will be able to relieve yourselves as vindictively as you wish, and as often as you want; you will always be free to air your grudges, prejudices, and brilliant suggestions.

Remember, too, while you are contemplating this new world, that it is not the Land of the Primrose Path. We have come to the conclusion that we have been deluded—or else this path came to a sudden halt at the Wellesley Square. From that landmark to the campus the road is narrow and tortuous, but we hope that you will find the way—and enjoy it. And anyway, you might as well struggle along, because gas lamps are no longer available, and, so we are told, Lake Waban is extremely icy in February. Good luck!

Dog Days Again

Adonais is my name; in the Wellesley Hall of Fame I occupy a pose Napoleonic—When the profs have got you down; when exhibits come to town, And you haven't any money, I'm a tonic (When I manage to be funny, I'm a tonic!)

I'm a special breed of Hound, most remarkably profound, Yet excelling in a certain humor, too—I'm with caustic pen proficient, though of genius insufficient, To keep my bark erratic ever new—(You sometimes hear the static coming too!)

I'm a quadruped satiric; my propensities are lyric, Though I often condescend to common prose—When Importance understands me, it always reprimands me, For the splendid play of treading on its toes—(I've a subtle way of heading for its toes!)

By perambulating fleetly where the Seniors speak discreetly, My proboscis picks the essence of the news—So despite my course spasmodic I collect what's most exotic, And relate in words seductive what I choose—(With conclusions most deductive when I choose!)

Then I amble at a rate that's impressively sedate—By the houses in the Village and within, And incorporating gaily what the Freshmen stamp daily, I write my little column in the din—(Which prevents a note too solemn creeping in!)

L'ENVOI

Adonais is my name; in the Wellesley Hall of Fame I occupy a pose that's histrionic—When your health is on the bum, and the worst is yet to come, And your room-mate's in the city, I'm a tonic—(When I happen to be witty, I'm a tonic!)

Freshmen Bring With Them Names Of All Descriptions

Little sisters of 1934, here, at last, are your vital statistics, and now you can go to sleep munching them.

If your name is Mary or Elizabeth, you are only one of a multitude, for there are thirty-one Marys and twenty-six Elizabeths. Anne, Virginia, Helen, and Jane are also-rans in this contest, with approximately fifteen of each. Usual names prevail. Where does a poor Brown stand when there exist such things as Aery, Agoos, Gang, Atuesta, Denious? One girl, if she remains single, will be a Freshman all her life. Hermione, Celine, Gwyeth, Jessamine, Jewell, Jasmine, Adra, two Adriances, and a Pansy will answer to roll-call. There will undoubtedly be confusion when it is discovered that there are two Barbara Smiths, a Cowenhoven and a Kouvenhoven. The class of thirty-four is not lacking in celebrities, for we find a Constance Bennett and a Helen Morgan (Toby).

New York, as in other years, leads the field; no less than one hundred and twenty of her daughters have come to these portals. Pennsylvania, New Jersey, and Ohio press Massachusetts for second honors. Nebraska, Utah, Florida, and Delaware are at the other end of the list with only one from each state. Two girls have come all the way from Buenos Aires, one from Mexico, and one from the Canal Zone.

Traditional Greeters Meet Newly Arrived Class of '34

The class of 1934 has arrived and all Wellesley is busy welcoming its members, with Dean Knapp at the head and the Ask-Me's forming a most important bottom. Some place in between come the Village juniors.

The Ask-Me's are an old Wellesley custom; for years they have waited for trains and stationed themselves at crucial spots all over the campus where weary freshmen are most apt to go astray. They are recruited from the ranks of the three upper classes, are chosen in the spring from a list of applicants, and are here when the first train pulls in with its load of new comers.

The village juniors, however, those guides, and philosophers, and friends, are a comparatively new installation. As recently as 1925 there were no busy village juniors to greet the incoming class; instead there were village seniors who lived with their charges for the whole academic year. One senior lived in each freshman house and for several years the senior vice-president of C. G. lived at Noanett along with the village senior. When Washington House became the head of the village,

WAR CRIES RESOUND

A gleaming mass of stone and brick, the citadel stood formidable and deserted. At the gates that protected the inner fastnesses from the uncivilized world of Central and Washington Streets, a few lone guards watched wearily for signs of invaders. In the sacred sanctuary all was quiet. Treading noiselessly here and there, priestesses imbued with the spirit of C. A., C. G., or A. A. went about performing their important duties.

Suddenly the peace and quiet were broken by a piercing noise—the shrill whistle of a "special" with its warning of the approach of the enemy. Guards and priestesses, hearing it, armed themselves hurriedly with "Ask Me" badges and rushed to their positions at the gates. All selfish thoughts were forgotten in the next anxious moments; all minds were taken up with only one purpose—saving the citadel from the invaders. With anxious eyes the guardsmen watched the enemy hordes loaded down with luggage, candy boxes, and magazines pour out of their Pullmans and draw themselves up in menacing array on the station platform.

But the minutes of watching were not to be for long. At the first cry of "Where's my golf bag?" and the terrible sight of a barbarian in a tweed suit and orchids hurling herself upon an unprotected station hand, the citadel crew rushed to the scene of action. With a calm and levelheadedness unusual at such a moment of stress they advanced to stem the onslaught. But it was all in vain. Betrayed by the taxi drivers who had gone over to the enemy side, their number was too small to make even the slightest dent in the hostile ranks. Powerless to protect their sacred citadel, they were jostled about in the enemy's rush to their waiting taxis.

In a few moments it was all over. Standing wearily on the deserted platform the lone guards watched the fast disappearing cars carry the barbarians into the heart of the sacred city. Their hearts were heavy; but even in that hour of supreme darkness, "Perhaps," they thought, "they may become really civilized and forget their high heels and red fingernails. Perhaps—oh, perhaps many things."

WAY BACK WHEN

THE NEWS HOUND WAS A WEE SMA' PUP

Freshmen may come and freshmen may go, but to the freshmen who entered college in the fall of 1901 there came an experience rich in itself and significant because of its influence on the college generations to come. On October tenth of that year the first issue of the Wellesley College News was brought before the eyes of an admiring and expectant world. Rare as this blossom was it was offered to all who desired it for the small sum of fifty cents which should bring tears of regret to the eyes of freshmen who discover that they have been born twenty-nine years too late.

The News of those early days, however, would not offer to the freshmen of today the joy and consolation that the present paper does. Then there were no pictures showing what Shredded Wheat can do for a college girl or tempting styles displayed by the Boston shops to depress already deflated pocket books. Those were the days when a dealer in the Vill now known as an authority on bicycles was called "the Wellesley plumber." Then one of the men who now drives one of Wellesley's most respectable taxis had his "carriage at the station on arrival of all trains," and he also had "reliable horses and carriages to let." But probably of most help to a bewildered female in those strenuous times was the shop which offered "hygienic tar treatment for weak hair." And all this for fifty cents a year.

THE PEREGRINATING PRESS

Freshmen, bleary-eyed from meeting distinguished personages during the first week, may we present one illustrious gentleman, less august in his manner than the deans you have encountered, but scarcely less important?

Perry the Wandering Pressman will have no secrets in his private life—nor will he allow secrets of others to remain undisturbed if he has an inkling that news is abroad. He will ramble about campus with you during the year and then, for the delectation of the college at large, he will give weekly accounts of his wanderings.

Teas, receptions, vaudevilles, and speeches have occupied freshmen part of the week, while the rest of the time they have strolled about, investigating the village and attempting to find such elusive places as the physics and chemistry buildings.

Yesterday a Get-Acquainted tea was held at Washington and last night a C. A. meeting in the chapel initiated the freshmen into the purposes of the Christian Association. Saturday will be the climax of the social season when freshmen and big sisters will congregate on the president's lawn, if weather favors the class, or in Alumnae Hall, if the gods of rain are against it.

President Pendleton, Virginia Chapman, Dean Waite, Professor Gamble, Miss Roberts and others have counseled the newest members of Wellesley from the platform at Alumnae. Tomorrow Dean Knapp and Dr. De Kruif will give their parting instructions, and Saturday morning Miss Pendleton will lead the first chapel of the year.

As Perry ambled about campus, showering his private blessings upon the class of 1934, he was amazed to discover a new cement sidewalk in front of the Zoo building, replacing the narrow-gauge wooden affair of other years. But when he climbed the cut-off on Christmas Tree Alley, carefully lifting high his feet to avoid the stalwart and tricky roots of the "forest primeval," a couple of freshmen neatly turned the table of embarrassments on him by snickering at our Pressman. Gazing downward to hide his blushes, he saw a paved street, completely covering the troublesome roots.

Alas, his pleasures in life are becoming rare! His chief sport has been to determine the ratio between speed and accuracy by seeing how fast he could gallop down the path and bang his toes against a minimum of rocks. The life of a freshman is becoming increasingly simple, he has concluded.

Even the politicians did their patriotic bit to welcome 1934 to Wellesley. A Republican rally charged down Washington Street Monday night, with red and green torches burning, inspiring the newest villagers to dash to doors and windows.

This year's freshman class is unusually learned, Perry has decided. There have been surprisingly few who have waited vainly for bell boys to carry luggage up the stairs or who have brought the fire department panting to the door as a result of breaking the alarm box instead of innocently mailing a letter in the mail box.

Two of the more naive—or perhaps ultra sophisticated—furnish these tales which are still rejoicing the hearts of the weary Ask-Me's:

First freshman (anxiously): "I brought only six evening dresses; do you suppose I should send home for the other eight?"

Second freshman (to upperclassman just before leaving home for college): "Since I've been reading the newspapers, I wonder if my three new pairs of lounging pajamas will be enough. What do you think?"

Perry the Pressman

FOCUSSED ON THE SCREEN

Wellesley does indeed boast a real movie, the Community Playhouse in Wellesley Hills—talkies 'n everything. The slight inconvenience of location a mile down the road is more than compensated for by a very efficient bus line.

Today, tomorrow, and Saturday the Community Playhouse is showing a double feature bill. Of particular interest is With Byrd at the South Pole, which shows all the high lights of the period of almost two years of exploration "at the bottom of the world," as well as more informal touches, such as a seal fight. The second feature brings Marion Davies in The Florodora Girl, a story of the gay nineties, with many of the songs of the time, such as "Sweet Adeline," and "In the Good Old Summertime."

Next Monday, Tuesday, and Wednesday the main picture will be Condemned, the first account of Devil's Island written with the official permission of France, with dialogue by Sidney Howard. The picture stars Ronald Colman, and the cast includes Ann Harding, whose intelligent acting is noteworthy, and Louis Wolheim.

Lest You Forget!

In the rush of the first days at college, such a prosaic need as clean clothes may easily be overlooked.

You'll find that you need lots of them, too. The very best way to solve the laundry problem,—and the way modern girls prefer,—is to send your things here.

Located on the campus,—with more than twenty years' experience in pleasing students,—with delivery and collection right to your college residence,—and above all, with moderate prices,—these are among the reasons why you'll like Lake Waban service.

There is a time and place in each house for laundry. Ask your Head of House, or almost any student who "knows the ropes."

the senior vice-president automatically became the village senior at Washington.

In 1926, however, this system was changed. The new Freshman sponsors were to be recruited from the Junior class and were to live in their campus houses, making frequent visits to the VIII houses. The first Village Juniors, taking their names from their predecessors, welcomed the class of 1930. These Freshman guides were chosen in a manner similar to the old method. Each spring letters are sent to all sophomores asking if they are interested in becoming village juniors. A list is then made of all who reply and copies of it are sent to house mothers, student officers and members of the faculty, who grade each girl on the list A-B-C-D, etc. according to their opinion of her as a possible village junior.

Only two houses are excluded from the list in this choosing of Freshman sponsors. Both Elms and Washington are automatically assigned Village Juniors—the former being the Vice-President of C. A., and the latter, the Vice-President of C. G.

When the list has been graded a chart is made of the results. All applicants then have interviews with the president or vice-president of College-Government. The graded lists are put in the hands of a committee consisting of Dean Knapp, student representatives of C. G. and C. A., and two elected members of the sophomore class. Academic standing and other factors are taken into consideration when the choices are made. The names are announced at a Spring Step Singing—twenty village juniors in all; one for each freshman house, one for students of advanced standing who have transferred from other colleges, one for commuters living in or near Wellesley and coming as day scholars, and three substitutes.

Another important change in freshman affairs occurred in 1925 when Miss Knapp became Dean of Freshmen. Miss Knapp graduated from Wellesley in 1902; since then she has been General Secretary of the Christian Association, Associate Principal of Ferry Hall, and Registrar at Wilson College. In 1925 she received her M. A. in Education at Wellesley, and in the same year she assumed her duties as Dean of Freshmen. Through her work she comes in contact with prospective Wellesley students. With Miss Knapp for their Dean, freshmen soon find themselves amazingly at home.

Truth needs no support; Sheaffer's is the college favorite*

TODAY there are more Sheaffer's bought than any other make; among America's hundred leading colleges, each registering 1,700 or more students, Sheaffer's sales overtop all others.

With Sheaffer's, the reason for such success is that these instruments are supremely well suited to the business of writing. First, there is a Sheaffer's Lifetime pen point for every hand. Second, each is a Balance instrument, fitting the hand comfortably, taking class notes quickly, making long themes easy. Third, the Balance contour is truly modern, a happy blend of line and curve, the combination of utility with beauty. And fourth, nobody can outlive his Lifetime pen's guarantee of satisfactory service.

*A recent survey made by a disinterested organization showed Sheaffer's first in fountain pen sales among the 100 leading American colleges having registration of 1,700 or more students. Documents covering this survey are available to anyone.

erty with the quotation) is a good five-cent cup of coffee. And Dan's coffee at the Hole-in-the-Wall, above and to the left of Wilbar's shoe store on Washington St., is the best coffee in the world! A word about the filthy weed. In the more elite of the tea-rooms or what have you, the use of the deadly nicotine is cannily restricted lest the corruption spread to the younger and tenderer prep-school miss. And while we're on the subject, statistics have it that during those lean and hungry weeks in spring and fall when rigorous A. A. rules forbid indulgence, sales in the rival fruit stores side by side on Washington St. increase one hundred per cent!

A word about the signal light in the square. It is erratic—temperamental as any soprano. If one is on foot, the most satisfactory policy is to pay no attention to it. A mention of the bank is probably unnecessary; we all become painfully familiar with it. The official-looking statements periodically issued by said organizations are bewildering but comparatively harmless. According to our calculations the bank at present owes us eleven cents, but such slight discrepancies are negligible.

Don't fail to observe the Dickens wall-paper in the Inn, or the Pickwickian prints in Seiler's. And you can get it, or its substitute, whatever it is, at Davis's!!

SERIES WILL BRING UNUSUAL CONCERTS

Every year Dr. Hamilton C. Macdougall, Manager of the Wellesley Concert Fund, brings to our college an admirable group of artists, and this year is no exception, inasmuch as it presents eight groups of musicians all of whom it is a privilege to have in our auditorium. The season of 1930-1931 is comprised of:

- I. Boston Symphony Orchestra—Wednesday, October 22
- II. Victor Chenkin, Baritone Dis-cour—Wednesday, November 19
- III. Myra Hess, Pianist—Thursday, December 11
- IV. Roland Hayes, Tenor—Saturday, January 10
- V. Buda Pesth String Quartette—Thursday, January 22
- VI. Cleveland Symphony Orchestra—Monday, February 16
- VII. Alexander Kipniss, Basso, Chicago Civic Opera—Wednesday, March 25
- VIII. Florence Austral, Soprano, and John Amadio, Flute—Thursday, April 16

A season ticket is $10.00, except for members of the College, who are given a 20% discount. Tickets will be on sale in Room 20, Administration Building, on Saturday, September 20, immediately after chapel, and on Monday, September 22, and Tuesday, September 23, from 9 o'clock on. Unless payment is made by October 6, the unpaid-for tickets will be put back into the general sale to be resold. Checks should be made payable to the order of the Wellesley Concert Fund. It is advisable not to order by mail, and orders so placed will not be filled unless accompanied by cash.

The great cultural value of these concerts is evidenced by the fact that they have been more enthusiastically received each succeeding year. The system in use in 1900, providing for a collection by students from the student body, proved unsatisfactory, in consequence of which, in 1904, the manager offered the college a series of three concerts by first-class artists at a fixed subscription. This plan was so successful that it is still being used. There was a temporary cessation of the concerts during the World War and after the burning of College Hall, but in 1922 they were resumed in Memorial Chapel. The following year they were transferred to Alumnae Hall, which was initiated to music by the Boston Symphony Orchestra on December 5.

"I'm paid a bonus if my point gets 11 okays—I pay a forfeit if it fails to earn them all!" The Parker Point-Smith

Duofold Jr. Pen $5 with Base $10

$5 buys this polished Italian marble Desk Base—tapered pen end included free—to convert your pocket Duofold to a Desk Set Pen. Complete set, as shown with Duofold Jr. Pen (pocket cap and clip included), $10.

Matched Vest-Parkers $7.50

Vest-Parker Duetto Set—midget Pen and Pencil together weighing less than 3/4 ounce. Each convertible for Desk Set use. Pen alone, $5; Pencil, $2.50.

Complete Set $8

For coats or travelers this inlaid enamel Travel Set with Moire Pen (convertible for purse or Desk Set)—pocket cap with ring included free, complete, $8.

We pay a bonus for every Duofold point to give you a Pen that writes with Pressureless Touch. To produce this, we had to develop squads of post-graduate point-smiths. We allow them to make but a limited number per day. Thus they have time to make each point a masterpiece.

It must pass 11 merciless tests. Then we pay its maker an extra reward. If it fails any test, we reject it, and the point-smith pays a forfeit.

Yet 7 out of 8 they make are Bonus Points. And these, and these only, go into Duofold Pens.

Like 2 Pens for the Price of One

Try this famous Pen at any pen counter. See how it changes from a pocket Pen to a Pen for your study Desk Set by simply interchanging the pocket cap and the tapered tip. This saves the price of a second pen.

Parker Duofold Pens are Guaranteed for Life. Their Permanite barrels are non-breakable, yet they have all the beauty of costly jewels.

Duofold Pens hold 17.4% more ink than average, size for size.

New streamlined balanced shapes now ready at all dealers. See them—and see the streamlined Pencils to match. Don't buy any pen without first trying the Parker Duofold Bonus Point.
