Step-Singing.

What is the matter with our step-singing? Everyone who has ever heard the mass singing in men's colleges or in some of our sister colleges,—Smith or Vassar, for instance,—must have been forced to realize how sadly Wellesley singing suffers by comparison. There surely are enough of us,—we do not lack the inspiration of numbers, as any pleasant Tuesday or Thursday evening on the chapel steps suffices to show. Wherein, then, do we fail? In the first place, we must grant that many of our songs are not the sort that can be sung with exactly the same swing that can be put into a foot-ball song. We have, unfortunately, fallen into the habit of rather monotonously singing to our lake and trees and sky, and such songs, to be sure, are not strictly conducive to vim and spirit in the singing of them. This is no reason, however, that they should be sung in our ordinary painfully lugubrious fashion.

We might at least try to show our appreciation of nature's beauties here on campus in a happier spirit and a jollier mood.

Now this is intended to be neither sarcastic nor facetious, but most emphatically serious. We are failing badly and, what is worse, most unnecessarily in our college singing. We are deplorably wanting in that spirit and enthusiasm that is absolutely vital to mass singing. It is time that every one of us put something of herself and her Wellesley spirit into her own small part of step-singing. In the first place, let us all learn our songs,—not our own particular class song, but all the four class songs; the same applies to crew songs. Don't let us be forced to hear three-fourths of the college follow helplessly along with an indistinct "la la la" while 1914 sings her class song. That happens every time any class sings its crew or class song, and it is something which we ought to be ashamed not to put a stop to once and for all. It only means a little time spent in studying your song-book, or listening carefully once or twice when the better-informed people are singing the words. And far worse than any deficiency in the line of class songs is our vague notion of the words of "'Neath the Oaks" and "Alma Mater." This is absolutely unpardonable. No matter what else we do, don't let one of us come to step-singing another time without knowing whether the second verse of "'Neath the Oaks" begins "On the hills!" or "In the halls!" Once sure of the words, and there would be more chance of improvement in spirit, an improvement that is needed most sorely.

The News is going to do its part toward better singing by printing, each week, the words to two of the songs that we all ought to know. Let every girl make use of this opportunity! Now is the time to do it, girls,—let us know our songs, and when we get together on the chapel steps sing them as if we meant them.

THE ORCHESTRA CONCERT.

The sixth annual concert of the Wellesley College Orchestra, in Billings Hall, Monday evening, May sixth, gave proof that, under the efficient conduct of Mr. Albert T. Foster, our student orchestra is growing stronger and more able each year. The rendering in its entirety of Haydn’s Symphony, No. 6, in G major, was the greatest test of their powers. The emphasis upon the crescendo in the slow staccato of the Andante Movement was especially good. The excellent rendition of the rather difficult air from Bach-Wilhelmi’s Suite in D was another mark of the high standard of execution to which our orchestra has attained. Several charming songs sung by Miss Hynes made a pleasant variation in the program.

The audience was not large, but the orchestra could not have received more enthusiastic appreciation than that given them by those fortunate enough to hear the splendid results of a year’s careful training.

MRS. E. L. NICHOLS, E. LEROY NICHOLS,

7 TAYLOR BLOCK, WELLESLEY. STUDIO AT NEWTONVILLE.
DEUTSCHER VEREIN.

The few members of Deutscher Verein and their friends who braved the weather and resisted the temptations of various other college distractions, on April 29, had the great pleasure of hearing a talk on German University life by Dr. Paul Schmidt, one of the exchange professors, sent here by the Prussian Ministry of Education. Dr. Schmidt succeeded in giving a concise and interesting picture of the life of the German student, who, after his nine years' preliminary training in the lower schools, leaves the restricted life of the gymnasium for the freer walks of the university. The aims and methods of the German University course correspond more nearly to the graduate than the under-graduate work of our American colleges. The student selects some one line of study to which, for vocational as well as cultural reasons, he wishes to devote himself; this line of work, while in no sense limiting him to a narrow specialist, forms the unifying basis of his study. The student does not necessarily limit himself to one university, but may during his course have experience with two or three. At each of these, (universities), he places himself under the guidance of some one professor with whom there is established an immediate intimacy and good-fellowship based on the mutual interest in the line of work; it is the personality of this good friend which to the student in after years is the most cherished memory, and which in his heart he identifies with "university." The greatest freedom and individuality is allowed the student in carrying on his work, and the final test for his doctor's degree comes at the end of a long assimilative period of independent study.

Dr. Schmidt spoke sympathetically of the fraternity life,—such an important phase of student days; of the "ausflage" or walking tours, the "Komerze," and the annual reunions in which phase of university life, at least "die Frauen" have a share, even if their welcome is somewhat dubious in the lecture-room. Aside from their own special diversions, the students have a share in the social life of the city in which they have located, for the dormitory system, as we have it here, is unknown, and the student finds a lodging with some motherly "Hausfrau," whose fame has been spread abroad by previous generations.

Beer drinking, song singing (and the German “Fuchs” and his elder brothers know how to sing!) and duelling are by no means the whole of university life. The young “Fuchs,” after one long taste of riotous living in those first delicious days of freedom, sooner or later lets this side of his career retire discreetly to the background; it may take many heroic struggles, and many noble resolves “to begin a new life” will doubtless be frustrated at first; whether his university course shall be eight or twelve semesters in length depends largely on this ability “to begin.” But once started, the genuine student brings a certain idealism to his work, and without the intrusion of petty examinations and other distracting exactions, works with an earnest love of the doing,—aroused first by the personality of the professor, later by the delights of the subject itself,—which is peculiar to the German student alone.

Regarding the position of women in the university courses, Dr. Schmidt stated that it was still a problem as to how soon they would receive a whole-souled welcome into the university lecture-room. At present their admission depends upon the individual professor. American students are not generally admitted without having done at least B.A. work previously.

A series of questions followed Dr. Schmidt's lecture, and the evening closed with the singing of "Deutsche Lieder."

BAKERY.

On Saturday evening, May fourth, an entertainment was given at the Barn in honor of 1915. There was to have been a magazine, but, owing to some difficulty with getting the sheets through the press, the audience saw only the cover and a few advertisements. A company of strolling players, (led by Dorothy Applegate), happened to be in college that evening and helped fill in the blank leaves. They presented two illustrated poems: "Lady Clare" and "Barbara Frietchie," and two charades. For the charades they offered a handsome prize to anyone in the audience who should guess the word, but probably they were well assured beforehand that nobody could. Special commendation should be given to Lord Ronald and Lady Clare and to the Rebel Host, the sturdy tramp of whose tread was heard even above the thunder of the poet's lines. Dancing ended the evening.

STEP SINGING.

In the editorial of this week's issue you have the expression of the feelings of the leader of step-singing. You cannot but recognize the justice and "deservedness" of what Helen Goss says. Take it to heart.

In order to give girls an easy way of obtaining the songs we are going to print them, as many as we can, each week, and it is our earnest desire that every girl will learn them and help improve step-singing.

1912 CLASS SONG.

Alma Mater, tried and true thou art;
Roses red of love we bring;
Our loyalty from thee will ne'er depart
And each heart echoes praises as we sing;
Wellesley our college so dear,
Nineteen twelve's true, always to thee,
May we all strive year by year
Not just to seem but to be.

1913 CLASS SONG.

Oh Wellesley, Alma Mater, we bring our praise to thee,
For happy days we're spending in dear old Wellesley.
To thee we owe the friendships which us together bind,
And lasting inspiration, both of heart and mind.
Our class of 1913 brings loyalty to thee,
With firm determination to ever faithful be.
The blue flag as our standard, to every flower preferred:
With this may we strive on, "By work and not by word."

1914 CLASS SONG.

Fair are thy woodlands, O Wellesley,
Fair are thy trees and skies,
Dear Alma Mater, to praise thee,
Now let our song uprise.
Firm be our faith as the beech tree,
Our love as the violet true,
Ever will 1914 serve thee,
Our loyal vows renew.

Great is our vision, O Wellesley,
Glad are our hearts and free,
Light on our pathway forever,
Light that we bring from thee.
College of high inspiration,
College of friendships dear.
Ever will 1914 serve thee,
Love thee from year to year.

LOST.

CAMPUS NOTE.

Step-singing has been limited to two instead of three evenings a week, Tuesday and Thursday, in accordance with the general lessening of non-academic interests.

HOPES AND FEARS FOR RAIN.

Yes, my dear, if it’s rainy—
If it isn’t, I can’t, you know—
We always have call-outs on Thursday;
If it’s pleasant I couldn’t go.

Botany.
The flowers that bloom in the spring, tra-la,
Are hidden all over the place,
Unfilled is my listing of weeds, tra-la,
At least fifty flowers it needs, tra-la.
But of them I can ne’er find a trace.
So that is the reason that always I sing,
"Then bother the flowers that bloom in the spring!"

ENGLISH COMP.
My themes are very far from clever.
And as for A’s, I get them never;
For subject-matter, anyway
I don’t take “Spring” or “Flowers of May.”

And though temptation’s sometimes strong,
My boast I utter loud and long;
At least I never, never write
Of “Waban’s Shores in Bright Moonlight.”

Since now my fate I soon shall know,

BRIDGE PROBLEMS.*

If you have two guarded queens—
Can you ever loose them both?
(If you pay attention to the game.
And aren’t overcome by sloth?)

If a queen is double-guarded.
As you pass her on the route.
Should you play just anyway
Or should you follow suit?

NEWS OF THE WELLESLEY CLUBS.

The Wellesley Club of Philadelphia gave its annual luncheon, March 30, 1910, at Hamilton Court. The decorations were in Wellesley blue, and violets, ferns and pussy-willows also were used in the decorations. The officers of the club are Mrs. Thomas H. Carmichael, President; Miss Mary Adelle Evans, Vice-president and Treasurer; Miss Elizabeth D. Hoffman, Secretary. Miss Evans was the toastmistress, and introduced the following speakers: Miss Jennie Ritner Beale, "The Graduate Council;" Miss Anna M. Reeder, "Athletics at Wellesley To-day;" Miss Alice P. Ake, "The Students' Building;" Miss Helen Reynolds, "Social Life at Wellesley." The luncheon is always given during the spring vacation, so that undergraduates may be present.

Every Wellesley woman whose home is in or near Philadelphia should be a member of this club. If you are not a member and wish to be, write to Miss E. D. Hoffman, 609 above Baltimore Avenue, Philadelphia, Pa.

A regular meeting of the Syracuse Wellesley Club was held at the home of Miss Lipe, Saturday, March 23rd. Miss Lipe, the club councillor, gave her report. An informal discussion concerning the publication of an alumnae magazine followed. It was decided to hold a luncheon at the May meeting of the club. It was voted to make Mrs. Hodder an honorary member.

On Saturday, the sixteenth of March, the Colorado Wellesley Club entertained the Vassar and Smith College Clubs and graduates from other women's colleges who are not organized, at a lecture by Dr. Van Sweringen of the University of Colorado. Miss Madeleine Marshall, 1911, offered her home for the afternoon, and Dr. Van Sweringen chose for her subject, 'Iceland, Past and Present.'

The club is fortunate in having an enthusiastic president, Miss Emma Philley, 1895, this year. Great credit is due to her for the interest in and growth of the club. The other officers for 1911-1912 are: Vice-president, Mrs. W. M. Dawning, '92-3; Secretary-treasurer, Miss Ethelyn M. Price, '97; Corresponding Secretary, Miss Elspeth M. Rattle, 1910. Both members and officers are grateful to Miss C. Louise Steele, 1906, for acting as their proxy at the Graduate Council meetings in February.

The annual luncheon, which usually takes place in March, was omitted, this year, and the members will give the cost of the luncheon to the Student Alumnae Building Fund. Our fund was started in June with the proceeds from a card party, and is still growing, though slowly, because we are few in numbers. Though far away we are loyal and enthusiastic.

Elspeth M. Rattle, 1910,
Corresponding Secretary.

The annual luncheon of the New Haven Wellesley Club took place Saturday afternoon, April 6, at the Hotel Taft, and was one of the most successful affairs in the history of the local club. Everything, including the weather, conspired to make the affair most delightful.

The luncheon was served to the club and a few friends in the loggia, being the first luncheon to ever be served there. The long windows opening out on Chapel street were thrown open, the weather being warm enough for the guests to be practically out-of-doors. The loggia was decorated handsomely with potted palms and plants.

The color scheme of the luncheon was yellow and blue, the Wellesley blue being used, and the decorations of the rooms, the hangings, etc., carrying out the yellow tone in pleasing contrast. The guests were served from individual tables seating four, each of which was decorated with a centerpiece of daffodils and ferns, while at the center table was a large vase of Taft roses shading from pink to yellow, the gift of Mr. C. W. Whittlesey.

The favors were also in yellow and blue, being tiny Easter baskets of yellow tied with bunches of violets and Wellesley blue ribbon. Nuts and candied Easter chickens filled the baskets. The menu cards, which were also in the Wellesley blue and gold, were very attractive with the Wellesley seal. The fees were served as Easter eggs. Luncheon was served at 1:30 o'clock, and at the conclusion of the luncheon itself Miss Myra Killborn, the president of the club, introduced the honor guests, who included Miss Hetty Wheeler, a member of the Wellesley Faculty, and Mrs. E. Otis Hovey of New York City, president of the New York Mt. Holyoke Alumnae Association.

Miss Wheeler, who represented the New Haven Wellesley Club at the conference held at Wellesley in February, relative to the formation of the new graduate council of Wellesley alumnae, told of the various interesting meetings held at the college where Wellesley clubs were represented from all parts of the United States. She made her address most interesting with bright bits of anecdotes of happenings at the various gatherings of Wellesley representatives. Miss Wheeler also brought out the fact that it was proposed to issue a new Wellesley alumnae publication devoted principally to alumnae notes instead of, as at present, having them published in the Wellesley News. This brought some interesting discussion among the club members, and various other subjects of college news were touched upon informally by Miss Wheeler from the Faculty point of view. Miss Kilborn then happily introduced Mrs. Hovey, who told of a very interesting trip recently made to Mexico, during which Mrs. Hovey climbed Mt. Popocatapetl in company with several scientists. Mrs. Hovey touched very lightly on some of the hardships encountered in making the ascent, and introduced some unusual incidents of the trip to the amusement of those listening. Several photographs taken of the party during their Mexican trip were shown. Mrs. Hovey is the wife of Dr. Edmund Otis Hovey, curator of the geological department of the American Museum of Natural History.

At the conclusion of the address an enthusiastic vote of thanks was extended to the guests of the afternoon for their contribution to the success of the entertainment.

The members of the club and their friends then sang "'Neath the Oaks," and gave the Wellesley cheer. Those attending included: Miss Hetty Wheeler, Mrs. E. O. Hovey of New York, Mrs. H. L. Andrew, Mrs. F. I. Andrew, Mrs. Joel I. Butler, Miss Emily Sophie Brown, Mrs. Dibble, Mrs. Charlotte Fowler, Dr. Alice Ford, Miss Laura Griswold, Mrs. Charles Harte, Miss Myra Kilborn, Mrs. Henry S. Lancraft, Miss Lancraft, Mrs. W. G. Lathrop, Miss Mary Pierce, Miss Helen Peck, Miss Helen Scoville, Mrs. John Tracy, Miss Dorothy Blakeslee, Mrs. C. W. Whittlesey, Miss Grace Weeks, Miss Alice Wright

As the result of an informal gathering of Wellesley graduates at the Pittsfield Country Club, last February, a Berkshire Wellesley Club has been organized. On March 23 a luncheon was held at the Country Club, which was attended by Wellesley graduates from all parts of Berkshire County. Plans were then made for future meetings and aims, and the club wants to be numbered among the other Wellesley Clubs, even though it may be "the youngest member of the family." Although in the first stages of existence, it already has a mailing list of about forty. The officers elected at the March meeting are: President, Mrs. Millicent Pierce Potter, '94, of North Adams; Vice-president, Miss Mary Carson, '06, of Pittsfield; Recording Secretary, Miss Ruth MacGlashan, '08, of Williams-town; Corresponding Secretary, Miss Fannie Clark, '09, of Pittsfield; Treasurer, Miss Louise Dalzell, '10, of South Egremont.
