OUR NEW ENLISTMENT PLAN.

To those of us who lived through the earnestly hectic months of last spring’s enlistment plan, the working of the new leaflet comes as a refreshing impetus to a saner line of action. There are two considerations of these differences which may help us both to a wiser interpretation of our duty, and to a more effective means of showing practical patriotism.

In the first place, the details of the plan of mobilization are less specific than they were last year, so that most confusion about many fine facts and trivialities in the minutiae of the suggestions which were offered. They seemed to imply a lack of confidence in our power of self-control, and in our plain common sense. The wording of these instructions leaves us with a greater sense of freedom to use the first lines of the call to our individual interpretation this year, and for that very reason it seems a more grown-up plan to offer to college women.

In the second place the instructions are, if less specific, more practical in their encouragement of definite and practical War Relief work. Each one of us can find in these suggestions some outlet for our energy; because there are more departments than formerly, we can arrange our time and schedule according to our individual laws and effectiveness.

Last year we were more limited and consequently more hurried. Our War Relief Organization develops according to the increasing graveness of our situation. There is no excuse now for withholding our service; the conditions have made it possible for us all to help.

We see, therefore, that the new plan is for most practical purposes more valuable to us than the plan as offered last year. But for that very reason, more practical in their encouragement of freedom and greater responsibility. Our country is in more urgent need than ever before, and the wrong of withholding service is fatal. The new enlistment suggestions leave us much to our individual interpretation. We should accept them with thoughtfulness, with earnest and serious purpose. Let us not feel that because the tone of the plan is broader we can afford to be any less thorough in carrying it out. It is in for us to choose the branch of service which we can most effectively attend to, and then follow it out faithfully. It is a mistake to attempt too much, and a great hindrance to the committees. One line of work well done is worth a dozillion lines of any kind.

And if, as we see, it is important to be practiced, it is all the more necessary to keep alive the spirit of the new enlistment. There is a greater need than ever for enthusiasm and self-sacrifice, so much more general as individual inspiration. We should accept them with thoughtfulness, with earnest and serious purpose. Let us not feel that because the tone of the plan is broader we can afford to be any less thorough in carrying it out. It is in for us to choose the branch of service which we can most effectively attend to, and then follow it out faithfully. It is a mistake to attempt too much, and a great hindrance to the committees. One line of work well done is worth a dozillion lines of any kind.

KNIT FOR THE SOLDIERS.

"Why aren’t more American women wearing knits?" is the frantic query of Maj. Grayson M. P. Murphy, head of the American Red Cross in France. More American women ARE knitting, more than ever before. The American larrikin sweater is no novelty. Women are knitting everywhere and at every time. But most of them are knitting bright colored sweaters for themselves, for Christmas gifts to their women friends. It isn’t one woman in ten who takes khaki or grey men out of the gay bag that swings from her arm.

This will be the worst winter that northern France has known. The supply of wood and other fuel which was available last winter has been materially decreased due to the summer’s warfare. And now there are not only the French and English armies and the thousands of refugees to be kept warm, but the American expeditionary force. Keeping warm in France this winter for the fighting armies will be a matter of clothing more than of fuel. If there is not enough warm clothing to go to a greater harvest this winter than war.

This isn’t any argument. It is cold fact. Whenever a woman knits a gay colored sweater when she might be knitting for the desperate need overseas she is by her criminal negligence exposing some one to illness and possible death. Every ball of fancy yarn taken from the possible supply of khaki or grey. It is practically impossible to buy khaki yarn today, and the reason is that women have taken to fancy knitting with a fury with which almost no other fail has ever swept the country.

There should be a yarn commission. The extravagant use of brightly colored yarn should be made impossible. As Americans we have the opportunity to realize what knitting for themselves is as unaptriotic as a prodigal feast in wartime.

THE BATTLE FOR ART.

In these busy war times, we are not over-attractive to the fine arts. We are interested in war poems, in war pictures, in war strategy, but we are paying little respect to that art that is real and true. Now the war has taken a part of the public throns to the band-concerts, instead of the Symphonies, to the "Follies," or the "movies," instead of the truly artistic performances. As a result many of the greater artists have followed the public, drawn into the lighter theatricals, and par-} icularly onto the screens; others have retired; but still others, having tried in vain to reconcile fine art with the popular sectaries, have thrown discretion and financial hazard to the winds, and are making one last effort to raise the standard of the stage and to cultivate in the public mind a taste for the beauty and truth of the greatest dramas, and particularly for that of the master dramatist, Shakespeare.

This third and last column belongs to the last great Shakespearean actor, Mr. Richard Mantell, who after an absence of two years, has returned to the spoken stage, convinced that the motion-pictures are a ruination of true art; seven months’ experience was for him seven months too long. And who of us will gain by him? Anyone can act before the camera, provide he has an inch of sense in his head—and the right features. But it takes experience and constant application to achieve, to interest to an audience the aesthetic and intellectual beauty of the classic dramas exemplified by Shakespeare.

We do not need to be "high-brows" to enjoy fine art; but we do need to attend great dramas in order to prove to ourselves that we have minds more capable of actually enjoying Shakespeare than of unceremoniously "enhusing" over the too often sensual material of the screen.

Mr. Mantell is filled with ardent and zest for his part. He is ever alive to the public that Shakespeare’s truth and his humanity are for above the ready-made wit, or slang, and the showy performances of today’s lighter plays. He has sacrificed personal ambition, and material benefits to his art—in the willing discipleship of the great dramatist.

If great actors can give up big salaries, and almost irresistible offers for art’s highest ideals, surely we college women ought to be willing to seize our opportunity to back these ideals.

This is another place where we can help the world. We can lend our appreciation to Mr. Mantell’s efforts; we can encourage: greater interest in true art, and we can help to mould public opinion to that high degree where it will appreciate the things of value in life.

College Marines.

Were we to encounter an essay on "The Use and Abuse of a Library" in any magazine, ninety-nine per cent of us would pass it over as a back-nerved theme to be avoided. We are passing over the subject of the use and abuse of our own library in much the same way. Although the grey book does not furnish us with a tabulated set of rules concerning the treatment of books and librarians, we may all be conscious of the proper usage of them and only last week we had the abuses clearly set before us.

This is not a subject to be treated frivolously but a condition to be seriously considered and rapidly improved. The fact that every house on campus added its contribution last June to the somewhat depleted shelves shows that the intruding was not done by a single band of villains but by a rather large number of thoughtless and selfish students. There is only one excuse for them—the fact that the former is the Library is for all of girls discussing trips to town and how he looks in a uniform or parading through with artless unbuckled and clanking that a nervous person cannot concentrate on anything more serious than the lightest fiction.

Toward the end of last year we pledged ourselves to the cause of conservation. The strength of students and librarians may well be saved for something better than hunting for material that is tucked away in periodical drawers or is hidden in someone's closet awaiting the end of another college year. And so if a student deems it necessary to turn down the red slip on the book cover and escape with the volume let her dare to return it when she is through reading it, to the shelf where it belongs.

Heretics' Bulletin Board.

We have it with us again. Surely those of us who were here before 1916 left have heard of the Heretics' B. B. It was on the fourth floor of College Hall, near the elevator, and was very popular. People made the trip to the fourth floor daily, just to see the latest addition. The new one is in the basement of the Library, near the bank, and we hope it will be just as popular as the old one was. It has no rules or regulations, except the dictates of common sense. Articles may be posted unsigned, but we hope nothing will be posted of which anyone might be ashamed. The purpose of the B. B. is to serve as an outlet for real criticism, with the hope that it may start some constructive thinking and in time cause the wrong to be righted. The Board is not a place to publish personal grudges or make impertinent remarks or show off skill in caricature. It has been granted to us because we want it. Let us use it for good.

TICKETS FOR THE MUSEUM OF FINE ARTS.

By vote of the Trustees free admission to the Museum of Fine Arts is granted to instructors and students in Universities, Colleges, Normal Schools and similar institutions who wish to avail themselves of the privilege. Tickets will be sent by mail on receipt of a stamped and addressed envelope, or issued at the entrance of the Museum to those whose names are sent to the Director in response to this notice.

For the identification of students, catalogues or lists should be sent to the Museum as early in the fall as possible; or students applying in person may present their own cards or a letter stamped at the college officials.

The Bulletin of the Museum, issued bi-monthly and containing announcements of objects newly installed, official notices, etc., is sent free to any educational institution on application.

NOTICE, HERETICS!

The long talked of Heretic Bulletin Board is at last a reality. It is to be found in the basement of the Library near the bank and is well deserving of the attention of every wide-awake member of the College community.

Elizabeth Yang Kwia, 1920, is studying voice at the Boston Conservatory of Music.

Miss Olive Davis, until this year Director of the Halls of Residence of the College, is at the Mountain House, Lake Mohawk, Ulster County, N. Y.

Because of the unexpected overflow on Campus, The Jocelyn has been reopened this year as a college house. Henceforth its twelve occupants will uphold the honor of the Sophomore class in the village.

The enrollment of students for the year 1917-18, to date is 1,699.

The weekly military drill began for students and faculty alike on Monday afternoon at 3 P. M. on the west playground.

The Junior and Senior classes are holding preliminary elections at the elevator table this week. The first Senior class meeting comes this (Thursday) afternoon.

MAKE A MILLION.

Do you know that if every one of the 1,200 or more girls in Wellesley College gave only one hour a week, the Wellesley War Relief Organization could send this year over one million Surgical Dressings to the hospitals at the front? When we learn that for lack of materials the wounds of fighting men are being swaddled with newspapers it behooves us to do our very best to fill this dire need. Our comprehension of the enormity of the relief work necessary not only for the soldiers of our allies, but for our own soldiers, many of them near and dear to us, can be only a minute compared to the exact conditions. As American women we should consider ourselves most fortunate to have the opportunity of serving the world in its struggle for liberty and the ideals of democracy.

Remember the Surgical Dressings class on every Monday afternoon, 3:30 to 5:30 in Wilder basement.

WOMAN AND THE WAR.

Never before has the problem of women and children in industry been put before us as it is now being put before us in these days of national crisis. It is imperative that as college women we should know and understand the laws and conditions under which women of today are working. We ought to have a knowledge of the laws in regard to working women and child labor in our own communities and be willing to support measures for needed reform. The Consumer's League, a national organization, is seeking through its workers to provide for the working woman and child remunerable working hours, sanitary conditions, the abolition of sweat shop work and of the employment of children under age. ODE TO SCHEDULE.

O schedule vile! how changed thy form
From that fair object which my brain evoked
Mid fitful sleeplessness of spring-nights past,
In hope to have the problem sweetly solved;
Breakfast late, and afternoons of leisure,
Lack of labs,' and reading in small measure.—
So promised first that card of virgin hue!
But presently some documents there came
From Dean and Academic Council, too,
Demanding how it was I dared to name
Five Grade III courses of a single kind,
Upsetting utterly my peace of mind
With talk of majors, groups and all the rest.
Like Wellesley's archetypal I've sat up late
O'er many pages; but though I've done my best
Fall finds me laboring sore from eight to eight;
And c'en the Saturday's goal achieved at last,
I needs must hie to gym for work "not passed."

A NEW ORDER REIGNETH.

The cabbages are all in bloom:
(Have you ever smelled their sweet perfume?)
Beet tops in all their radiant hue
Claim from the eye their rightful due;
The carrot with its featherly top
Makes me forget I ought to shop.
Of all this beauty I fully well know
For I signed up with the queens of the Hoe.
See Gardner's Helper List—Elevator Table.

PREPAREDNESS.

I thought of picture-hanging bees,
I dreamed of girls and walks and teas,
All summer long I thought of these—
And never once of classes.

But now those dreams of bliss are past,
And work's the only thing that's left.
Unless with those I would be clasped
Whose health gives out at mid-years.
It may be that no one will suspect
All those who so diligently seek
To fit me, and I quite agreed
That I really must be turned instead.

Perhaps next year I'll rise again,
My summer dreams be Lit. and Zoology,
And then I'll not be filled with woe
On starting work at Wellesley.

FRESHMAN FOIBLES.

Unlabeled parent, distractedly: "Have you seen my daughter anywhere?"
"Ask Me!" eager to help: "No, I haven't; but if I do see her, I'll tell her you're looking for her."

Upperclassman on guard at the station: "Can
I help you see about your trunk?"
"Ask Me!" cleverly: "Oh, no thank you! I sent the check 'special delivery' to Miss Penncilton, so that my trunk would be sure to be in my room
when I got here."

Pompous Freshman: "Miss Smith, the registrar, right away please?
"Ask Me!" bones: "Miss Smith's very busy just now. Is your business urgent?"

Freshman: "Oh, yes indeed! My village Senior told me that the very first thing I must do on campus was to register."

A FRESHMAN FEED.

A Freshman was cast on a heathen strand
Where a cannibal emperor ruled o'er the land.
"Alas!" thought the emperor, "A nice dainty lunch!"

So thinking, he ordered her served up at once.
Next day, however, he regretted his luck—
The emperors with cholera morbus was struck.
'Tis here that the moral plainly is seen,
For the Freshman, you know, was exceedingly green.

A ROSE BY ANY OTHER NAME!

I was in Room 24
Miss Collins was conducting the class
It was Philosophy 1 and 6
She said—
"Can you, when you are far away from pink roses
See them, feel them, smell them?
I could not—" I am thinking Philosophy.

I live on the Hill above the Cabbage patch
If they used cabbages instead of roses
How I would shine!

Katherine Timberman spoke of the work of the Advertising Committee and urged that all girls who could print or illustrate offer their services toward making posters for the committee. At Miss Jenkins' request, she also spoke of the Alumni Quota and the help we could all give by subscribing to it.

Josella Vogelius, as head of the Freshmen, welcomed them all to Student Government and congratulated them on the splendid spirit they had already shown.

The need for work in the college gardens was brought forth by Marie Thibaudanec with caborations for every girl to help. Margaret Howe reminded the meeting that economy in electricity should not be forgotten. At the close of the meeting, the results of the Student Government elections were read and after a motion for adjournment had been passed, hearty cheering took place at center for the victor's honor.

THE LIBERTY LOAN.

By W. G. McAnan, Secretary of the Treasury.

For the purpose of equipping our armed forces with arms and clothing and our gallant soldiers who have been called to the field; maintaining our Navy and our valiant sailors upon the high seas; providing the necessary means to pay the wages of our soldiers and sailors and, if the bill now pending in the Congress passes, the monthly allowances for the support of their dependents and to supply them with life insurance; constructing a great fleet of merchant vessels to maintain the line of communication with our brave troops in France, and to keep our commerce afloat upon the high seas in defiance of the German Kaiser and his submarines; creating a great fleet of aeroplanes, which will give complete supremacy in the air to the United States and the brave nations fighting with us against the German military menace; and for other necessary war purposes, the Congress of the United States has authorized the Secretary of the Treasury to sell to the American people bonds of the United States bearing four per cent interest, with valuable tax exceptions, and convertible under certain conditions into other issues of United States bonds that may be authorized by the Congress. The
There is now offered to the American people a new issue of $3,000,000,000 of bonds to be known as the Second Liberty Loan. They will be issued in such denominations and upon such terms that every patriotic citizen will have an opportunity to aid the Government by lending his money upon the security of a United States Government bond.

It is essential to the success of the war and to the support of our gallant troops that these loans shall not only be subscribed, but over-subscribed. No one is asked to donate or give his money to the Government; but everyone is asked to lend his money to the Government. The loans will be repaid in full with interest at the rate of 3½ per cent per annum. A Government bond is the safest investment in the world; it is as good as currency and yet better, because the Government bond bears interest and currency does not.

No other investment compares with it for safety, for convertibility into cash, and unquestioned availability as collateral security for loans in any bank in the United States.

People by thousands ask the Treasury constantly how they can help the Government in this war. Through the purchase of Liberty Bonds every one can help.

No more patriotic duty can be performed by those who cannot actually fight upon the field of battle than to furnish the Government with the necessary money to enable it to give our brave soldiers and sailors all that they require to make them strong for the fight and capable of winning a swift victory over our enemies.

We fight, first of all, for America's vital rights, the right to the un molested and unobstructed use of the high seas, so that the surplus products of our farms, our mines and our factories may be carried into the harbors of every friendly nation in the world. Our welfare and prosperity as a people depend upon our right of peaceful intercourse with all the nations of the earth.

To abandon these rights by withdrawing our ships and commerce from the seas upon the order of a military despot in Europe would destroy prosperity and bring disaster and humiliation upon the American people.

We fight to protect our citizens against assassination and murder upon the high seas while in the peaceful exercise of those rights demanded by international law and every instinct and dictate of humanity.

We fight to preserve our democratic institutions and our sovereignty as a nation against the menace of a powerful and ruthless military autocracy headed by the German Kaiser, whose ambition is to dominate the world.

We fight also for the noble ideal of universal democracy and liberty, the right of the smallest and weakest nations equally with the most powerful to live and to govern themselves according to the will of their own people.

We fight for peace, for that just and lasting peace which agitated and tortured humanity craves and which not the sword nor the bayonet of a military despot but the sympathy of vindicated right alone can restore to a distracted world.

To secure these ends I appeal to every man and woman who resides upon the soil of free America and enjoys the blessings of her generous institutions to join the League of Patriots, by purchasing a Liberty Bond.
