FORWARD—MARCH!

The officers of the 19th and 19th regiments have been appointed for the new campaign, and the full drive is on. At precise five-thirty on Thursday the 20th regiment assembled behind the chapel and while waiting for their neighbors so far forgot their dignity as to join in some lively games. A spirited interlude arrived, and there was a great deal of rival cheering between the two, as they warmed their heels on the soggy grass, and thought of their beloved dinners. Finally the 19th filed into place in cap and gown, singing the regimental hymn, and Colonel Lange read the following list of officers:

Recording secretaries: Ruth Candlin.
Corresponding secretaries: Margaret Miller, Treasurer: Beatrice Fagen.
Executive Board: Ruth Addams, Margaret Howe, and Katharine Walton.
Facultums: Catharine Hope and Kadah Booth. Song Leaders: Eleanor Davies.
Advisory Board: Lucindia Butler and Mildred Paris.
This done, Colonel January of the 19th, read this list, which includes all of the 19th's new officers for the ensuing campaign:
President: Eleanor White.
Vice-President: Edna Halter.
Recording secretary: Marlon Bash.
Corresponding secretary: Mary Crowther.
Treasurer: Alice Bradford.
Executive Board: Elizabeth Hamann, Marian Lord, and Eleanor Prentis.
Facultums: Panny Jones and Louisa Saunders.
Song Leaders: Susan Lowell.
Magazine Board number: Therese Strauss.

A WEEK-END SUGGESTION.

Student Volunteers, Mission Study Leaders, and all persons connected with Christian Association work will be interested to hear of the conference to be held at Simmons Oct. 20th and 21st, under the auspices of the Student Volunteer Union of Greater Boston. The leaders include Dr. Cornelius Paton, whom many of us know at Silver Bay, Dr. Harlan P. Breck of Yale, and Mr. Ralph Harlow. Remembering last year's successful conference here, it is hoped that many Wellesley girls will accept the cordial hospitality of the Simmons girls. Wash the Christian Association Bulletin Board for further notice.

Eleanor Prentis.
Delegation Chairman.

If you have wondered why C. A. has so many committees, why mid-week meetings dwindle, why we need voluntary Bible classes, what an "annual member" is, or what membership in C. A. really amounts to, come to the Forum and ask. If you have the answers to these or other questions, come and answer.

When an organization ceases to cause perplexity, it generally ceases to have power. Because it is strong, C. A. must necessarily have problems enough to furnish an interesting forum. Be at the Barn Thursday afternoon, October 11th, and help define and solve the difficulties.

ENLISTMENT HOLDS DURING WAR.

The Committee on Mobilization wishes to say for the benefit of those who are in doubt that the students who enlisted last spring did so for the period of the war, and it is therefore unnecessary to sign a new pledge card this year.

Jexx E. Mourn.
Chairman of the Committee on Mobilization.

WAR RELIEF RALLY ON FRIDAY.

On Friday, October 12, at 4:30 o'clock in the Chapel, the War Relief Rally will be held. Miss Theodora Dunham will tell us of her experiences in France, and one of the Government's Food Administrators will speak. Let us all come out and show our visitors how enthusiastic Wellesley girls can be!

Hortense Barcelo, Chairman.

WAR EMERGENCY COURSES.

Owing to the great demand for trained women in emergency and relief work, Wellesley College will offer during the year 1917-1918 nine emergency courses, planned by the Committee on Mobilization and approved by the Academic Council on October 4, 1917.

Seven of these courses are "extra-curriculum" courses to be given out of schedule hours and not counting for a degree; the courses in Wireless Telegraphy and "Surveying, mapping of maps and structural survey for conservation purposes" are regular courses to be adapted for the present emergency, given in schedule hours and counting for a degree.

A circular giving full information concerning the emergency courses is in preparation and it is hoped that it will be ready for distribution by October 13th.

A list of the proposed courses follows:

1. Home Nursing.
2. First Aid.
3. Wireless Telegraphy.
5. Stenography, Typewriting and Bookkeeping.
6. History of the war.
7. Home Economics.
8. Gardening and the Conservation of Products.

No member of 1920 will ever again have occasion to ask where the Homestead is, for it was there that the gathering of the class took place last Saturday night. The confusion of finding red lanterns from which the bottom had not dropped out, finally resolved itself into some semblance of order, and the procession started with a swing to the tune of "Over There." Before long last year's marching song was revived, so that "Tramp, tramp, tramp, and "Over There" were alternated—and sometimes harmonized—for the rest of the evening. The usual stare of advice about Math and Comp and Hygiene was handed out with variations by the Sophomores, and received with excellent spirit and lively singing by the Freshmen. The unusual feature of a violin at Noonet, and a shower of animal crackers from Crefton, were a refreshment to the weary. The squad of Navy men with their sky-rockets eerily lent a masqueline note to the occasion which was like unto nothing that has previously been seen or heard at a Sophomore (Continued on page 8, column 2)

DISHONORABLE DESERTION OR HONOR-ABLE CO-OPERATION?

Last spring in response to a very definite demand on the part of Wellesley undergraduates for some organized means of expressing their willingness to serve America, the present mobilization scheme was evolved. President Pendleton presented the plan and urged that the students accept it only after the gravest consideration.
Over nine hundred members of the student body voluntarily pledged themselves in writing to uphold the scheme, which the printed plan very plainly stated was "to begin at once and to continue."

The greatest part of those nine hundred girls are today in college and must face the problem which the scheme now places before us. Individual, enlistment students must decide whether they can afford to desert a serious obligation thus voluntarily undertaken.

We recognize that much misunderstanding of this obligation has prevailed. Some girls believed, from the reference in the written plan to probable revisions this fall, that the scheme "was an experiment for all concerned, and that therefore there would be this fall an opportunity to reconsider and the experiment without any pressure that they were now free from obligation from mistakes references to "re-enlistment" in house meetings, from the fact that room inspection has not been continued, from the many students to observe enrollment rules, and from the fact that no spectacular attempt has been made to jog our memories after the laxness of the summer or to secure recruits. However, this issue of the plan contains a signed statement from the Chairman of the Mobilization Committee which clears up all misunderstanding: Enlistment is to continue until the end of the war.

Dishonorable desertion or honorable coorperation is now the question for us all. The great principles which the scheme was designed to en-body—patriotic service through increased personal efficiency (including self-discipline and cooperation) and through conservation, especially of time, energy and food—now demand our support much more insistently than they did last spring. We cannot afford to desert them. Neither can we afford to lessen our self-respect and the esteem of the outside world by treating our pledge as a mere scrap of paper.

Dishonorable desertion we will not be charged with. Cannot we turn instead to honorable coorperation? The details of enlistment have in some cases proved irrelevant, but the plan is capable of revision and improvement is evidenced by the addition of a splendid list of emergency courses already made this fall. The Mobilization Committee must recognize the plan to be an experience of the year. It contains a signed statement graduates suggestions for its detailed improvement, and we cannot deny the importance of the principles for which it stands.

If it is to be a mob, then, on this Friday, when the Mobilization Rally offers such a splendid opportunity, to "re-enlist" in spirit although it is not necessary to do so in writing? Let us all call to mind the fact that we are bound to save our country—to eight hours sleep, to three meals daily and no more while Belgian and Armenian states, to our very best efforts in academic and war work relief. Because we are big enough to overlook the details and understand the principles involved, let us stand as one unit— as Wellesley—behind the Mobilization Plan.

THE WELLESLEY AMANUENSIS.

"Oh, dear! How I hate to write letters!" Most of us feel that way. We realize that our parents are interested in all the college events, so in our letters we attempt to tell them the week's happenings. This is quite a laborious process, and when the letter is finished it reads somewhat like a time table. This type of letter may be interesting, but the majority of us hold that it makes many a letter much more interesting. The truly delightful letter, the one we are always glad to receive from other people, is written to the personal element. It is more than a list of events. It is individual. It is filled with impressions, those little things we discussed before we were really conversing with the writer. Why do not all of us write such letters? It is ever so much more pleasant to write what we really feel and want to say, instead of forcing ourselves to say what we are going to say and enjoy what we have done, but haven't time to describe it, or "the elections came off today and I am so glad at the way they turned out." Of course our parents want to know all about the Barn play, and who was elected to the office, but why not let someone else take over the task of writing up these events? If we only realized it, there is an amanuensis here in college.

—The Wellesley College News.

Every week the News endeavors to write up the college events in a decreasing and detailed way as possible. It is a general survey of college happenings and college ideas. It presents Wellesley as it really is—not from the standpoint of one individual, but from that of the community, for it gives all sides of college life. Let us make the most of this means of precial use. Let us have the News sent home every week—it doesn't cost very much—and then our parents can get a broad, general view of what is going on in our college instead of hearing it from our own letters, from how nice it will be to write all the little, personal details which make a letter so really individual, without that horrible feeling of having neglected our duty by omitting to say that we attended the Student Government meeting or that the Sophomore Scenecade took place on Saturday night.

THE BELLEDGE.

All contributions for this column must be signed with the full name of the author. Only articles thus signed will be published. All contributors must be students of Wellesley.

Don't Be A Slacker.

From the diminished ranks in drill on Monday afternoon, October 16, we may conclude that the spirit and enthusiasm with which most of us enlisted last spring, has been visibly affected by our summer vacation. We must not forget that when we enlisted we gave our promise to carry out all the provisions of the mobilization plan and one of these was attendance at drill.

"Nothing will happen when I don't go," has been the attitude taken by some girls, who forget that drill is not a matter of compulsion but a matter of honor.

Others say that they have decided to spend the time more profitably in knitting—that they cannot see the advantage of an hour's drill a week. These people do not realize that military drill has been given for a good purpose—that the college drilling together as a whole is both a necessity and unity which it would be almost impossible to gain in any other way. Moreover those same people who question its desirability must not forget to appear at drill, for whether they approve or not, they have given their promise to support it when they enlisted.

So, if you did enlist last year, don't be a slacker now, but be on hand next Monday and all the following Mondays at four-thirty—ready to do your bit.

II.

The Drill—Is It Worth While?

The mobilization plan was carefully arranged to prepare us to answer our country's call more efficiently. Enthusiastically adopted, it raised us from the laxness into which we had unconsciously fallen, to the ideal life of college girls.

But since the plan is now just a reminder for us, perhaps it is very worth while to consider why it is worth while to continue the weekly drill. Of what use is such training? We can never use the actual tactics, it surely is not designed to give us exercise or fresh air, for we have plenty of both, considering our sports, gymnasium and necessary walking. It surely is not designed for the purpose of unifying us, for we are too scattered over the field to experience any sense of unity. And finally, it surely is not designed for the pur-purpose of discipline, for even a spirit of duty and the notion of what to do and how to do it, and there are not enough drills and required attendance at such, ever to acquire order. The leaders do their best, but they have had but little more experience than their squads. The main plan, and our usual firedrills, are far more indicative to self-control and obedience than the drills. It seems, therefore, that the drill is designed with the view that we are too young to fully understand the plan, and consequently need something material to typify it. Certainly, then, the drill is not worth while, and should be superseded by systematic war relief work.

Even Freshmen Have Musings.

"Now, Jane, you will find your Hygiene a fearful bore, but you can write letters or study something else that period—we always used to," I caused this bit of conversation between a sophomore and a freshman, as I was going back to the lecture room after my first "Bible" appointment. Why do upper-classmen always inform freshmen beforehand of what they are going to think of certain courses—it doesn't seem fair either to the professor or the students.

As freshmen we considered ourselves possessed of some common-sense and some power of forming judgments, yet, as new freshmen come in, we can't give them credit for even that. Before classes ever began, my first friend and I had been informed that Hygiene was a bore, Mathematics a grind, English Composition quite useless, and "Bible" very up-to-date. Why shouldn't we be fair and let the freshmen make their own decisions and stand the test?

COLLEGE NOTES.

(The column is confined to personal items concerning students, faculty, and those connected with or associated with the college. Please send your items or comments to the News Editor, Chapel Building, or drop in the contribution box on the News bulletin before 3:00 a.m. Monday.)

Hornace B. English, formerly of the psychology department, has been assigned the position of 1st Lieutenant in the United States Army.

The engagement of Marion Cobb (18) to A. Edward Bower, Jr., Harvard, '78, of Arlington, Mass., has been announced.

The engagement of Elizabeth Whitman Murphy (21) to Whitney Coffin Colby, formerly Cornell, '18, is announced.

Frances W. Calcutt, '19, is studying music in Brooklyn, New York.

Sybil W. Baker, '19, has a position with Lee Higginson Company, in Boston.

Last summer's Silver Bay Delegation held a reunion meeting in Stone Hall Parlor on Sunday afternoon, October 9. The delegation plans to hold several such meetings throughout the coming year to keep themselves and the college in touch with the spirit of Silver Bay. One task which has set itself for the present is that of helping in the Armenian and Syrian Relief Work.

Caroline Newcomb, '35, is playing in The Knife, now at the Shubert Theatre in Boston.

Margaret Horton, 1919, has been elected Vice-President of the Barns.

THE PIT PARTY UNIQUE.

On Saturday, October 6th, the Minnesota girls initiated a novel state club entertainment. Beaming interested in the sailors in the Radio classes at Harvard through a professor's wife there, they invited twenty-seven of these sailors out to a pit party. The sailors were enthusiastic about the beauty of our campus, thoroughly enjoyed the camp fire at the pit, and appreciated the Sophomore Serenade more perhaps than the Freshmen.

The men, who come from all sections of the country and are unacquainted in this vicinity, were so genuinely grateful for the evening's fun that the members of the Minnesota club wonder why the college girls could not find some regular means of entertaining at Wellesley these and other men in the service of our country.

NEWS TEA INTERESTS MANY.

On the afternoon of Wednesday, October 3, the News board gave a tea at A. K. X. for all members of the Junior and Sophomore classes who were interested in the competition now going on for the vacant state club. Thirty-two girls were present. Dorothy Greene, '18, explained the rules of the competition and said that the News always needed and was glad to have contributions sent in by as many girls as possible. Miss Hultsch also emphasized the need for accuracy in the "write-ups;" Miss Perkins, the interest in world-events even the smallest kind of reporting inspires; Miss Manwaring, the opportunity for a break from work. In order to keep this paper a live, and Mr. Sheffield, the resourcefulness and ability to write quickly which newspaper work gives to a would-be author.

TO THE NON-KNITTERS.

Many of us who do not knit are wondering what we can do to be of service to the War Relief Organization. The answer is that we can sew and thereby help clothe some of the thousands of war orphans who are going to suffer this winter if we do not send them winter articles to wear. When all kinds of material are so plentiful in our own country, we are quite apt to forget how much the merest rag or tattered garment means to a mother who is unable to get cloth to make a meager covering for her little children. In all probability the need will be severe, likely to last through all winters in France and Belgium. Let us then have as many garments as possible to send before any extreme weather sets in. No amount of skill is necessary, for the little articles need only plain sewing of which all of us have some knowledge. All of Tuesday afternoon from 1:30 to 5:30 will be given over to the Orphan's sewing. The place is the War Relief office, Wilder basement. Frances Grinnan has charge of the work and all necessary information can be obtained from her. Come, work all!

E. L. B., Secretary.

AUCTION FOR THE RED CROSS.

Have you a treasure to give? Almost every girl can give something. A scarf, a valuable book, some treasure-true from the happy Europe of old days. Jewelry, bric-a-brac, furniture, china, silver are welcome. Perhaps some live near enough home to search the attics. No useless, shabby things without sale value are wanted. It is not a rummage sale. But give, sacrifice for the cause we all hold very dear.

The auction will be held at the Town Hall, October 30. Articles may be left with Mrs. Hamilton C. MacDougall, 29 Dover street, or will be called for if notification is sent to her. Please give as soon as possible so the list may be ready for the auctioneer and customers.

The auction is under auspices of the Village R. X., but the college R. X. is now a branch of that, it is hoped the girls will turn their splendid, generous energy to help it along.

THE WAR-TIME READING LIST.

The War Relief Board of the College has arranged with the Library to prepare and with the News to publish each week a list of interesting and valuable articles relating to the war. The first list includes, naturally, some selections from the summer magazines.

Deiner, H. S. In Berlin during the three years of the War. Nineteenth Century, September, p. 170-88.

Lindsay, S. M. Soldier's insurance versus pensions. Review of Reviews, October, p. 601-3.

CLAFIN ENTERTAINS 1920.

At the dinner hour on October 5th, the Sophomores of Claffin Hall were charmed by Miss Tuel and Miss Hillsford, to a New York concert miraculously transported to the Dining Hall of Claffin. The little college Sophomores opened their eyes in wonder at the sight of the Claffin Juniors and seniors who had blossomed into noted New York society folk and famous actresses. Mrs. Sinskyersent Fish and party of ten of the "Four Hundred" were present, as well as Geraldine Ferrer, Otis Deslys, Mary Pickford and Theda Bara. The colored performance was delightfully negro quartet with ukulele accompaniment, a charming singer, a Hawaiian dancer, the Dolly sisters and a Russian dancer.

The service was excellent and the pompous bond wight quite rode his fortune in tips. Before the merry-makers ascended to the ball-room, two Red Cross nurses led Miss Liberty into the assemblage, which rose as one, to sing the national anthem.

THE BUSINESS OPENING IN YOUR MIND.
Take this opportunity to make money for war relief or pin-money for self relief and, at the same time, satisfy the craving of your fellow students. We have evolved a remarkable plan for establishing agencies among college girls.
Gain as well as give pleasure and profit by undertaking one of these Club agencies:

I. THE RING-AROUND-THE-ROSY FINGER AGENCY.
The agent is expected to enroll all applicants on payment of a fee of ten dollars ($10.00). Each applicant will receive a receipt in the form of a beautiful platinum ring with a two-cent di-amon in a low encrusted setting, surrounded by a dainty filagree carving of entwined flowers.
These little rings are the rage in elite circles—
the newest fad of the college girls.
After a probation of one week, and consequent upon good behavior and continued full-speed pursuit of the academic, without undue distraction in the direction of the ring (which, by the way, is to be worn on the third finger of the left hand), the applicant may be admitted to any one or all of the clubs and classes superintended by our other agencies.

II. THE "OH-SAY-CAN-YOU-CAN" CLASS.
1. Do you know how to "cold pack" a shower bouquet, in order to preserve it for one's golden wedding?
2. Do you know how to preserve bananas and wilted lettuce salad in its original firmness and fresh beauty?
3. Do you know the art of culinary canning?

III. THE INGENIOUS TRUE-TO-AND DESIGN CLASS.
1. Can you make dainty bonnour slippers, which, when clamped together at the heel, will present a charming double knitting-bag?
2. Can you make a sport costume which truly reflects the esprit and camaraderie of the campus?
3. Can you make a wedding dress in component parts which may be unclopped to form two pairs of bonnour window draperies?

IV. THE CLUB FOR THE STUDY OF THE ART OF FACIAL CANDY. We are not permitted to describe our description of this department, since Miss Lillian Russell has the copyright.

V. HOME DECORATION CLASS.
1. Could you make an aeroplane shell look homelike and cozy? This course to be given in Crollin Hall living room.
2. Could you make, out of breakfast bacon scraps, picturesque candles to fill the wedding present candlesticks.

The aim and end of these courses is to produce efficiency in the households of tomorrow-year and equip our girls to meet difficulties by an ability to make something out of nothing, a lot out of a little and two out of one.

At Vespers last Sunday Miss Seudler called the student body, and especially the entering class, to strong support of the College Settlements Association under its revised name, the Intercollegiate Community Service Association. The new organization, as Miss Seudler explained, maintains the old and always progressive work of social service centering in the settlement houses in Boston, New York, and Philadelphia, but is broadening its scope to include various other social activities of college alumni not only in the cities but in the country districts.

“The ideal of the Intercollegiate Community Service Association,” said Miss Seudler, “ought well be expressed in the great words of our President, ‘to make the world safe for democracy.’” She felt therefore that especially in this period of extraordinary demands upon our resources and our energies the honor of the women’s colleges demands the maintenance at full efficiency of this work which has been the peculiar contribution of college women to the world’s onward movement. Democracy not yet perfectly achieved in our own country. She called us therefore to membership in the association in the name of college honor, of patriotism, and of Christian obedience.

Miss Seudler bespok in particular an all-college welcome for the delegates of the whole association, which is to hold several conferences at Wellesley on October 25, ending at 7:30 at Billings in a mass-meeting at which Dr. Kingsbury, the chairman of the association, Miss Seudler, and others will speak. A large representation from Radcliffe is expected in the audience. Wellesley girls therefore should throng the meeting—not only members of the association, but all who care that college women shall include the reinforcement of social service in their support of the national efficiency.

MRS. HOLLEWELL SPEAKS TO CONSUMERS LEAGUE.

On Thursday evening, October 4th, members of the Consumers’ League spoke to audiences in the Campus Houses. Tower Court was especially favored in having as its speaker Mrs. MRS. HODDER, president of the Massachusetts branch of the League. She spoke of the help which Wellesley had in past years given to the League and told of the splendid work which she and other members of the League had been able to accomplish, in bettering the condition of the working girls and women of this state. Mrs. Hollewell is personally very charming, and was cordially received for her own sake, as well as for the interesting things which she had to say.

MORNING CHAPEL.

Bishop Edwin II. Hughes of Malden, Mass., spoke at morning chapel, Sunday, October 10th, on the text “Their works do follow them.”

Bishop Hughes was not only inspiring but practical. He explained that the way we do our work affects our souls and our whole life, for God is in everything we do. The best example of this is Christ, who prepared for his active ministry by careful work in the carpenter shop.

DR. MALDENHAUER SPEAKS AT CHRISTIAN ASSOCIATION.

“The Power of the Gospel’s Message for an Evil Age” was forcefully and earnestly upheld before the Christian Association by Dr. J. Valdemar Maldenhauer, October 3, in Billings Hall. The speaker is pastor of the Second Presbyterian Church in Albany, N. Y., and his coming was anticipated by those who knew him at Silver Bay. For many people the war has proved Christianity a failure. Dr. Maldenhauer agrees with them, and adds further, that in a certain sense it is necessary that Christianity should be a failure. Nor is it to its discredit, for Christianity is a highly idealistic religion. We are fighting now for the last ideals of democracy. Men are dying for them. Before the war life was almost supremely easy. It is not easy now, for it is necessary to win a war against a diabolical energy focused in a wrong direction, yet characterized by unheard of devotion. This war can only be won by appreciating and practicing those democratic, spiritual virtues for which we are aiming. The spirit of Christianity alone is comprehensive enough to reconcile all classes, to keep our faith in the future still bright and to direct our victories over all aspects of the foe. We are called upon to sacrifice freely, and we seek to be taught, in the example of Christ’s life and death.

MRS. HODDER TALKS.

The first flag-lowering this year was held at East Lodge on Tuesday afternoon, October 2. More than two hundred students and members of the faculty gathered to show their loyalty to the colors.

After the singing of the “Star-Spangled Banner,” Mrs. Hodder, of the Department of History, gave a sincere tribute to our national emblem, laying special stress on its growing importance as it now flies over Parliament in England, and, for the first time, on the battlefields of France. It was urged that we walk not cowardly by the flag that has seven times been carried in triumphant war, and that is now proclaming to all nations that the sons and daughters of America will sacrifice everything, even life itself, that the principles of humanity may prevail in the world.

As the flag was lowered, a solemn salute was held by the spectators. Then came the first strains of “America the Beautiful.” The earnest spirit of patriotism displayed by the assembled group suited well Mrs. Hodder’s statement: “It is fitting that we should gather here this afternoon, and as often as may be, to pledge ourselves anew to the service of our flag, to make ourselves a part of that loyal company who look upon this emblem with love, with gratitude, and with devotion.

A HISTORY OF THE WELLESLEY COLLEGE SEAL AND COAT OF ARMS.

By an Act of the Legislature March 17, 1870, a charter signed by Gov. William Chilling was granted to Wellesley Female Seminary. On March 7, 1873, it was changed by legislative act to Wellesley College.

In 1873 the college opened. There is no record of the adoption of a seal until June 1, 1882, and no legal registration was made at the office of the Secretary of State until April 8, 1902. The essential features of the seal as given in the certificate of registration consist of Latin “Sulpium Collegii Wellesleiani and the arbitrary figures 1873 and the motto of said college in Latin—Non Ministrari sed Ministrare placed within two concentric circles and also the representation of the Greek initial letters Chi and Rho in monogram.”

At the time of the building of the library wing Mr. Day, our then supervising architect, asked if Wellesley had a coat of arms that might be suitably carved over or at the side of the entrance; he was informed there was none.

It seemed to the writer that Wellesley, being one of the largest women’s colleges in the land, should adopt a coat of arms either to be embodied in a new seal to be made or, separate, which would be distinctive in character and of appro-priate heraldic significance.

The Heraldic coding is as follows:

Blazon: Azure on an open ancient book the words “In翘ipt Vita Nova,” on a chief or, a cross crosslet of the field between two fountains. The explanation of the design is as follows:

The principal color on the shield is blue, the college color, the color of Lake Waban on its blue days. “All Hall to the Wellesley Blue.”

The Book is the traditional charge on coats of arms of the leading colleges and universities. It occurs on the arms of Cambridge and Oxford in England, and on the arms of Harvard, Yale, Princeton, Brown, etc., in America. It may represent both the Bible—in the foundation of the college—and the book of Knowledge—and the Book of Life.

Serenade, Numerous members of 1918 faithfully followed in the wake of 1920 and prevented the Juniors from firing their throats with too much cheerfulness, and later showed their real affection for their younger sisters by ten-ling and toasting them on their return home.

The grand-stand for the cheer-leader, Cath- erine Mills, rose its belittled appearance somewhere near Elms, in the form of a horse and wagon driven by a small member of 1920 launched up in the front seat. After singing when everyone's voice was reduced to a rasp, 1920 bid a brisk farewell to the thrill, which, however, refused to be left in such a summary fashion, and followed in a body to the campus. As an extra time was allowed, some pretty quick work had to be done, and the Sophomores rushed from the Quad to Tower Court, and then to the Hill, gathering sufficient breath for one song and cheer before rushing on. They wound up at Stone where, at precisely eighteen minutes before ten, they were serenaded to the tune of "Where do you go from here, girlie?" Briefly replying, "To bed," they blew out their lanterns and scattered to the four corners of the campus.

COME OUT OF THE KITCHEN.

Ruth Chatterton's Jane Ellen, of "Come Out of the Kitchen" at the Hollis Street Theatre this week has reminded us all of Maude Adams, in her sweet simplicity and gently magnetic personality. It is an inspiring picture of a brave but adorably appealing woman, made the more lovely and full of significance by Bruce McRey's many delineation of a strong but tender-hearted American gentleman.

It is so old-fashioned, nowadays to hold the almighty dollar anywhere else than on the highest pedestal or to exhibit consideration for women, children or elderly folk that a glimpse of an attractive Southern kitchen, after the struggle for a foothold under the new order, presents a fascinating and novel phenomenon. And into this picturesque quarter go four proud scions of such a family of deceiving fortunes, as servitors usuallyIssued in a Northern town of wealth, to save the financial fortunes of the family and ease a critical illness of a paternal parent who is abroad for his health. The situation cannot be other than amusing in the extremest degree.

It is the whimsical Irish cook-lady who bewitches not only all the gentlemen but every one who sees her, with her quaintly accented tongue and oddly homely ways and manner. Miss Chatterton is quite as interesting as Jane Ellen as was she in "Daddy-Long-Legs." Of the four young D'angerfield's Fleming Ward is a shade the best as Smithfield, the butler; although Robert Ames is a dear as Brindibury, dishwasher, kitchener, dishwasher, high window-jumper and all. As a typical Southern gentleman, Walter Connely gave a fine presentation, exhibiting all the charmingly traits in defense of the fair Sex. And just the right proportion of pathos was introduced by Mrs. Charles G. Craig in the role of Amanda, Olivia's adoring Minnow. Raymond Wallburn as the frenzied poet, Frances Goodrich as his sweetheart and Barbara Milton as Ellen, both, alas the rebellious Arminta, all contributed bravely touches to a picture which Boston first-nighters will remember long and lovingly.—Adv.
