The vote on the proposed smoking legislation, which was taken at the Senate meeting on Monday, November 16, was an important one in the history of the college. The unanimous vote in favor of the legislation was a clear indication of the students' desire to have a smoke-free campus. The legislation, which is aimed at reducing the incidence of smoking among students, has been well-received by most members of the faculty and staff.

DEVELOP CONCERNTED STUDENT ACTIVITY ON WORLD COURT

The entrance of the United States into the World Court is a matter of very great and abiding interest to student bodies all over the country, is shown by the fact that approximately fifty student conferences, common responses of Student Christian Associations, were scheduled to be held before November 15. How far student interest extends beyond the pale of the campus and whether it is willing to be made to count by the exercise of active influence will be determined by these conferences.

Presbyterian Church, says: "The C. C. A.'s plan promises to be the most important step yet taken by the U. S. into the World Court.”

SPECIAL REPORT

Alyx is a member of the 1926 class of Wellesley College.

A sophomore has finished room to honor her father, Captain Charles E. Wellesley, in recognition of his services on the Beacon Hill, November 13. The project is an important gesture to mark the occasion and give a special place of honor for her father's contribution.

Among the materials for this project, which is on the top floor, were books, documents, and letters which bear the name of Captain Charles E. Wellesley, as well as the history of the Wellesley College alumnae association. It is expected that the room will be used mainly for committee meetings.

The project will take place after the fall semester, and it is expected that the room will be ready for use when the Wellesley College alumnae association meets on October 16. The project is a joint effort between two well-known women, and it is expected to be a great success.

The project is a testament to the dedication of the Wellesley College alumnae association and their commitment to honor their heroes and past members.

THE NOVEL LIFE

Next week will witness the most important literary event in the history of Wellesley College, as the college will host a production of "The Novel Life," written by the college's own faculty member.

The novel, written by Professor Sarah Thompson, is a timeless story that explores the lives of four college students, and it is expected to be a hit among students and faculty alike.

According to Thompson, the novel is a reflection of the lives of college students, and it is a story that resonates with many.

The production will take place in the college's new theater, and it is expected to be a sold-out event. The cast and crew have been working tirelessly to bring the novel to life, and it is a testament to the talent and hard work of Wellesley College students and faculty.

The novel, "The Novel Life," is a must-read for anyone interested in literature and the lives of college students. It is a story that will be remembered for years to come.

"THE DAUGHTER OF ROYCE"

For so long, ceaselessly awaiting, as Pat Rooney himself put it, "The Daughter of Royle" O'Gandy more than fills the bill. Its most outstanding feature is the dancing. For one company to have so many dancers is unusual, and for them to be so good makes the performance worth seeing alone for them alone. There's a newcomer set of chorus girls where many of the other actresses contribute not very much, but that makes the spectacle a colorimetric one. Their agility is especially displayed at the end of the first act in the grand Charleston finale.

A human interest set is added by the fact that the play is a part of family affair, for Ethel). De Forest, the co-star, is really Mrs. Rooney and Pat Jr. is really the son of the family. The plot is as well sustained as in the most consummate of its kind, being necessarily simple since most of the action is focused on the embellishments.

In spite of many exciting and excellent points, the play is marred by the gratuitous end for a "real run." It is not, however, a sign of the times, but the other characters, such as the young woman lover, do not stand up to this all-embracing situation.

CAMPUS CRITIC

MISS LIZZETTE WOODWARD REESE

The trouble with poetry today, according to Miss Lizzie Woodward Reese, the only genuine enthusiasm to be found on November 16, is that it has too many friends. It is too much looked after, it is too popular, the waves are too high. It is better for the student of poetry to have a few friends, and to much more widely loved—than is possible to have a true artist in our day, for poetry is "too aristocratic," but it is "more apparent, more beautiful, more magnificent." P. A. G. B., Miss Reese, is a hard thing.

On the question of the amount of poetry we are now writing, Miss Reese is rather skeptical about it, and more interested in the poetry which we are writing now. The poetry on earth has a better chance of life, because it is emotional and personal. It does not matter whether it is long or short, or does it? A. A. L. It is just as good in a larger poem as it is in a shorter one, and will probably not be read!

Having professed her love with those remarks Miss Reese proceeded to emphasize the truth of what she had written, and then to relate how she did not mention any of the points above. Miss Reese reveals all she has been and parted with personal feeling. Each one as it was read seemed to be a perfect whole, and no one doubted it. So fluently did every word flow into the compass of the lines and so simple and understanding was the mark that all the poems seemed to flow with the naturalness of common speech and to represent the quiet masterly of common experience.

She is difficult to select single spots for mention. To be sure, some of the lines are altogether too sweet, yet they retain the profound wisdom of Poetry—
Mr. Albert Harrison Hall of Hadi's Book Shop, Boston, with special permission of the Potters' Guild, is to deliver the lecture, "Women in Ceramics," on Friday, November 20, at 4:45 in room 1027 Founders Hall.

BOOK OF STATE REQUIREMENTS FOR TEACHERS NOW AVAILABLE

In almost all of the states a certain number of hours in the History and Principles of Education is required for a certificate. It is the teacher's responsibility to have been made by Professor McKee, of the Department of Education, which gives specific requirements for each state, and also the proper procedure for those who wish to obtain such a certificate. A copy of this book is now on the Bulletin board of the Board of Education, and should be consulted by all who plan to teach. We are greatly indebted to Professor McKee for her compilation and clear statement of information which is needed, and often difficult to obtain.

ACCOUNT OF ALUMNA MEETING

It is not too late to let NEWS readers hear the annual meeting of the Alumnae Association. In keeping with the story sent to every alumna, written by Nola Holmes D'Shann, of Wellesley Alumnae Magazine:

“The memorable docket drawn up by the Committee for the meeting with Carpenter is not to be compared, either in variety or scope, with the docket which was circulated last year at the committee meeting at its June meeting. In the brief space of fifty minutes, Alumnae members found their brains leaping swiftly from stained-glass windows to new-model homes, from church flower-rings to books of poetry, from the costume to furniture. Good measure! Before the necessarily formal reports of the crisp and tasteful progress of the committee, the members were given the opportunity to discuss the future for the welfare of the Alumnae Association, and began to understand its' importance to the Association, and to the town. These meetings which take place twice a year are an increasingly powerful factor in Wellesley life.

The Committee reported:

The Committee reports, expectantly stated, are available in printed form for any alumna or alumnae who are interested in the details. Three or four paragraphs attempt no summary, they make the long speech, as become the impressions left by the annual meeting.

The first of these impressions is of a smoothly oiled machine, running with great speed and efficiency, but quietly that one scarcely hears the hum of the wheels. Eight thousand graduating classes become five alumnae graduates, according to the report of the Executive Committee, without change in the address or occupation without setting in motion the recording apparatus on the Alumnae Office. A set work of Wellesley Alumnae keeps the central executive office in close contact with alumnae everywhere—the Alumnae Committee reported a new club in process of formation in India.

That this was a special meeting did not seem particularly in the pleasure of watching the wheels go round, rather with comfort in the belief that the wheels are turning to good purpose. The Association is serving Wellesley.

Remarks in Wellesley

"Wellsley for the carriage and bazaar display of Wellesley will always be an important service which alumna love to render. The Central Memorial Win- dows, of which one of the central windows and now in place, should be completed within the present year. This movement and the Wellesley Book of Verse, edited by Mrs. Martin, Helen Blackard, are the two contributions which the Association, as an Association, made to the College this term. The Historical Committee, gathering pictures, programs and publications important in Wellesley's history, is making an invaluable collection and recording valuable historical material lost in the College Hall fire. The Alumnae Room in Alumnae Hall is to be furnished in handsome manner in honor of Warren Potter, author of the 1921 Centennial Pageant and recently elected president of the Alumnae Association.

The Association as Advisor

"The Association is not merely a body of ladies, as the Alumnae believe it is. The Association consists of many members and number of the board of trustees, paid by large contribution and devotion of the three women who serve on the board of trustees by the donation of the Alumnae Association on the new conference committee, which to a large extent with the trustees in many matters of college policy, alumni as well as faculty and trustees are represented.

"Always the Association is rendering service and especially valuable service by benefitting to provide Wellesley's reputation for scholarship through the Horace Mann Fellow- ships. Schuyler Day, 1923, the committee reported, has been chosen fellow for the coming year. She is to study philosophy in England. The Association is concerned with the work of the college; it is a means whereby the college can serve its graduates. In the reports of the Alumni Committee, the publications director, and the Executive Secretary, one was impressed with the energy expended to speed them on the road of the college. And beauty of the Alumnae Association, and the Education Committee, which this year has been experimenting with reading lists for alumna, is doing more every year to make the work which makes women a bond of intellectual fellowship as well as sentiment.

"The annual meeting marked the beginning of a new administration. The Cleveland Board, under the leadership first of Marie Wiltli Thinston and later of Louise Pope Johnson, has accomplished a great work during the last three years and has turned the reins to New York, Marie Warren Potter, the new president. For the work of the coming year the Association requires $47,437. A part of this will come in the form of dues, subscriptions, and income from permanent investments. Next year, as always, from alumnae who believe in the work of the Association.
