BARN TO EXPERIMENT IN AN UNTRIED FIELD
Full Fall Is First Of Its Type Ever Staged By Barnswallows Association

With the presentation of Sierva's Caballo Sordo, on the evening of December 12, at Alumni Hall, a new page in the history of Barnswallows has been turned. The trend of modern plays, with their weighty themes of the last two decades, has been towards laying an emphasis on character development rather than on complex plot structure, and under the influence of the theatre production of this year has become increasingly popular. Such plays demand both audience and cast a true appreciation of fine direction and acting, as well as a mature dramatic sense in the staging of the play. It is in this type of play that Barnswallows have excelled.

The Barnswallows' production of Sierva's Caballo Sordo will be an interesting experiment for the college. The play has been chosen because it is a new production of a well-known classical play, and because it is a play that is not often produced. The play will be directed by Mrs. J. W. B. Perry, an accomplished stage manager, and the cast will be composed of students from the Barnswallows Association.

The Barnswallows Association was founded in 1925 by a group of students who were interested in theatre. The group has produced many successful plays, and has gained much recognition for its work. The Barnswallows' production of Sierva's Caballo Sordo will be a new challenge for the group, and it is expected to be a great success.
Although forty-five different kinds of candy, as well as crackers, doughnuts, apples, small pies and novelties are to be found at the exchange, pecans, peppermints, and peanuts are the most popular. During the selling season, of course, the candy trade is off the books.

The students connected with the exchange say that the business trade alone makes it worth while, even without the monetary gains, and the overhead expenses are relatively few since the space has been given free to the college authorities, on the condition that the Exchange does not open for business before November 1st, for fear that an earlier opening would encourage students to consume candy for their breakfasts.

CAMPUS EXCHANGE FLOURISHES IN LOCATION NEAR EL TABLE

The Campus Exchange, the new local run here during the week, has been started on its successful career when a group of boys came in the restaurant, the student audience is always hungry, especially for candy. This year fifteen girls, under the leadership of Miss Dorothy Donovon, 23, ran the exchange on a cooperative basis. Each girl is responsible for having an adequate supply of the goods for which she is the buyer, and half of the profits from the sale of this stock are hers. The other half goes to the Exchange to pay the salaries of the sales girls and for other incidental expenses. At the time of the year dividends are paid to all the girls, from any unearned profits.

Conference Department

This department is one which has affected its wagon to a star for we have only to give the slightest attention to C. A. to realize that students as possible the opportunity for contact with current student thought, religious issues, and international relations, in fact the whole of the latest topics of the day outside of College. Not that this endeavor is unique in College for we have, the Poreum, the Cosmopolitan, and the Interdenominational Society and several such organizations, which are working for the same end, but our aim is to bring Wellesley students in contact with the students to broaden and increase our outlook. The Conference Department is under the Christian Association the emblems of these Conferences are various however there was held in Boston last winter the World Court Conference under the joint auspices of 15 Providence and the W. Y. C. A. to all of which points were brought.

Several Conferences to be Held

This list comprises the Interdenominational Student Conference which is to be held in Lexington, Illinois on the first Monday of January, to which Wellesley students are invited. The second Conference is in two fold in attempting to awake both the Conference and the students to realize their threefold is in building for in building in the leadership of dynamic personalities with the aim in view of making students realize experience sincere and understanding and practicing with conviction the ideals of Jesus Christ.

Importance of Silver Bay

And how comes Silver Bay? Almost everyone has heard of the famous place near our own city. And we even tell you of the real values which we have gained from days spent in a place far removed from the hustle and bustle of students from forty odd Colleges on such cops to "Religion as Life," "Evolution and God the Father," "The Search for God," and "Ladies at Work." The C. A. article last week spoke of the conference with the proper satisfaction of Cve. Yc. Shekher.

WELLESLEY COLLEGE NEWS

An interesting experiment to be carried out by a group of Eastern preparatory schools organized under the auspices of the Experimental Examination Board. The purpose of this organization is to test the educational value of various secondary schools for the work of the sixth and seventh grades and to test out any new experiment in pure character building or in attaining this standard. Three years ago the Board invited Miss Perkins, of the English Department, to prepare annual examinations in English for these two grades. Last year the Board invited Mr. Robert of Smith College, who was asked to do the same thing for French as well. This year the Board is not enabled to enable students to pass college entrance examinations, but are prepared to take the examinations. The Board consists of the Trustees of Wellesley College, Governor of Massachusetts, Miss Perkins, of the English Department, and Miss Chappell, of Smith College.

The examinations included in the middle of the year and the end of the year are prepared by readers chosen from the college and from Smith Hall. A report interpreting the examinations and the analysis of the results has been sent to each school and a yearly conference of the Heads of English and French Departments has been held each autumn in Phila-

CAMPUS CRITIC

THE PHI SIGMA MANLEY

A new sense of the beauty and meaning of Christmas was brought to those individuals so fortunate as to attend the Christmas Masque, written by Harriet Lyon, ’76, and presented on the evening of December 1st. The play, created by the cast, depicted the struggle between the old god of fertility and the new religion, the old grandmother stilled fierce, and the spirit of the new god, Christ, in whose name the old Connal goes forth. Upon hearing the story of Jesus from a passing priest, Connal hears from his father that he has been destined from birth to avenge the creatured. Happily setting out that with the blessing of his father, and the curses of his grandmother, who warns him to die, he is determined to kill the child who will bring upon him, he withstands the woes of the messenger and the seraphs of the folk who urge him to dwell with them in an eternal life of pleasure and holds firm in his quest for the sake of the daughter of justice. At tacked and tricked with swift and sharp, he is saved by the cross which his wife, Desirée, had given him.

And discouraged and sick at heart, Connal returns home, where he and his wife save a child from the sacrifi-

PRESS BOARD GIVES MEMBERS USEFUL VOCATIONAL TRAINING

The fact that Wellesley girls enjoy wide knowledge of the world around them is not the only reason they study subjects like economics. The Press Board, the medium through which all students and faculty members of the two Wellesley schools reach those outside, giving important vocational experience to a group of students, is as important as the study of the subject itself in journalism. This organization is made up of students, who, as workmen, are supervised by Miss EUGE C. Johnson, the publicity director, and Miss Elizabeth Rice, publicity director for the Board. These two Directors are responsible for eight Boston newspapers and ten other papers.

The news of Wellesley goes through an interesting and instructive process before it is sent to the papers. Girls are assembled from different news papers and principles, and after the information, the facts are passed on the news board under the director of the board. The facts are then sent on to the printers, who, after the publication, keep on it a duplicate of every single book which is sent out. Each reporter may get the news from any source, but the printer will have the most reliable information from the Board. Girls are therefore important in helping to publish the Board. Girls are also important in helping to publish the Board. Girls are therefore important in helping to publish the Board. Girls are therefore important in helping to publish the Board. Do College Students Insure Their Lives?
The Answer Seems to be "Yes"

Do You Know

That in a test recently made with upper-class students of both sexes in fourteen representative colleges, 50 out of 50 for the importance and the ability of the educational program.
