NEW STUDENT UNION
BORN AT PRINCETON

A bigger choice to a year of many events - Students, faculty and staff of the Princeton College World Conference held at Princeton on December 11 and 12. The conference was preceded by a larger than expected audience who were declared to be two-fold: first, "the American citizen opinion of the United States on the World Court," and second, "to consider the formation of a permanent organization through which undergraduate opinion on national and international affairs can be effectively expressed."

But the meeting was opened by Lewis Fire, Princeton '26, the conference chairman. President H. P. Stimson, who called the meeting to order, said, "It is a privilege to be here to meet with students of Princeton College in order to consider the formation of a permanent organization through which undergraduate opinion on national and international affairs can be effectively expressed.""
As a result of the Service Fund force last fall, 1,424 members of the society have pledged to contribute money for the work of the Service Fund during the year. About one fourth of these pledges have been paid; 280 in the month, 315 by the second and 425 by the third. The sum of the pledges appears to be $25,146.50, so far as Accountant D. E. Green has been paid. In its two meetings during the first semester the Service Fund Committee has heard a report that men are generous and its institutions amounting to something over $1,000. An idea of what these institutions mean can be formed from the many awesome offerings already received. Mrs. Place, better known to Wellesley as "Bunty," writes from her home and Island School for Boys, in Georgia.

"My Dear Friends,

I thank you very much for remembering us at this time. We are all well, and the children are doing very nicely in school. The family has had good health all year, which is a great blessing, for their needs are many and they say that this winter, for everything we planned for food was turned up, and everything is said to have been cold and hard to buy in stores. This is a food-crisis situation, and we can be sure that welfare is worse before the winter is over. Again, thanking you all and interested on your behalf,

Yours sincerely

Davie Wilson"

Money Helps needy Servants

And from the Pine Mountain School in Kentucky comes another letter of appreciation for the new, ideal "Service Fund poorest care..." "Two hundred dollars in the bank is enough to help a suffering family with which we come to the office in the morning after Christmas, when the checks are sung and the children gone, and we have our end-of-the-year letters... We are reaching out more and more into more remote regions that are very needy. After Christmas we are looking to our children for young people who are far behind in school, and we have the present time, this holiday, our educational workers and practical work in the shop and work for children of all ages. Everyone will have some concrete thing to take home, as we hope, a new point of view about the world they live in."

To those who are interested the Service Fund Committee would recognize for completing two fascinating new books by Lucy Poindexter, Miss Whitney and the Pine Mountain School and The Queen Wenceslas. We express our congratulations. Also, watch the Service Fund Bulletin Board outside Miss Tuttle's office. There are new happenings, new pictures, new words from far and near. Do you see the Christmas greeting from Yungching, our sister college in China? 6, 16, 26.

HARVARD STUDENTS MAY SOON HAVE AVIATION FACILITIES

Harvard has a new organization, an Airplane Club, founded only a few weeks ago. Twenty aviation enthusiasts among them a small group of old timers, have decided to buy an airplane, which they hope to operate at some point in the country. It is expected that, through economical operation, the Flying Club will become an important center for aviation studies. The club will be affiliated with the American Aero Association and will have a membership of 50 men.

The Harvard faculty has agreed to contribute $1,000 toward the purchase of the airplane, and the student body has pledged $1,000. The club plans to operate the plane at the nearby airport, which will be available for use by Harvard students.
NEW CONCEPT OF WORCESTON IS GIVEN THROUGH "PRELUDE"

The composition and revision of Worcester's "Prelude," one of the most interesting and memorable lyric poems, was the subject of a lecture given on January 8 by Miss Helen Darbishire of Somerville College, Oxford. Miss Darbishire, visiting professor of the Department of English Language, the poem, which relates the development of the soul's life with words, was composed between 1785 and 1789, when the poet was at the height of his powers. Originally composed as a part of a long, philosophical poem, the Prelude was not published until after Wordsworth's death in 1850. Between 1805 and the date of publication, however, the poem was greatly revised by an elderly Wordsworth, who desired to bring the concepts of its youthful author to a new and changed attitude toward life and toward himself.

Speaker on Authority

Miss Darbishire acquainted with the original Prelude, as she had studied the unpublished manuscripts with Professor de Selincourt, thereby defining the edition of the text as closely as she has been able to publish. Chancing views of style and new political and religious conceptions above Wordsworth to bring him to the truth of the text, in which the simple style became decorative and elaborate, and the moral and religious sense became more effective. Deeper changes in the philosophy of the poem are also apparent. The inspiration of Wordsworth's poetry, says Miss Darbishire, lies in an intense concomitance of nature, which has a moral and spiritual source in sensibility and motion on to life. In the early Prelude there is a "sigh," a "call" to the ruling passions of the soul, and a "belief" in the sensibility from which feelings come. In the early Prelude are also expressed Wordsworth's strange concept of the power of physical illness, and the linkings with them of the soul's life. And also the individual to the "sick interior life that lives in all things"; and God in found when the mind turns into the life of nature. The expressions of all these in Wordsworth's "prelude" are experienced by the writer in the version of the poem; viewed in the light of passion, they seem the author's profound and impressive.

Philosophy of Poem Explored

Wordsworth's philosophy of life, as Miss Darbishire has defined it, is most clearly expressed in the earlier version. However, the necessary to the title is the refinement and rationalization of these passages as "the final form which passed through all nature reacts with the gods," where the mind is to visualize and translate his beliefs into an individual interpretation. There is also a change in Wordsworth's view of the human soul. At the first he is speaking of the soul's strength and power of his own mediocrity; later a sudden humility, and recognition of the weakness of human strength was superseded upon the earlier view.

Although in every original thought stands without revision, there is a greater vigor in this case. Then, also one theme, one succession upon the other, the two modes of expression from the mind of the poet, the word is presented for the reader. The second and fourth are the life of the spirit which comes through the sea. This feature will be repeated by Miss Darbishire at Smith College next Friday and later in the year to the Wesleyan Graduates of Columbia University.

SOUTHERN COLLEGE PROGRAMS OF DANCING OF THE CHARLESTON

The Charleston, which is the latest and most popular of the dance floor, has been bandied about at the College of William and Mary. The Charleston in its practice is a form given by the Cotton Club of New York at the Federal Dinner on January 12, 1926. There was supposed to emphasize grace and beauty of the body, and preserved some of these qualities in a very nice dance. This may or may not be a case of your groups.

FLANNEL

Enter the mid season sports tracks smartly fashioned in high color flannel with all the ears marks of Paris designers in the simplicity of the tailoring, the sweet worsted embroidery, the high collar which can be worn open if you prefer. Linda the most intelligent style. Also another style with the new decorative stripe. $18.75

Wool Embroidery on high color

Slattery Woman Shop

9 ABBOTT STREET

Open to Students for the accommodation of family and guests.

Living rooms available for any social event—Bridge, afternoon tea, or birthday party.

MRS. MARY B. HUGHES

Hostess

Wellesley 4088

Soyin your Christmas money at the

The Hathaway House

Bookshop

103 Central St.

DANCING OF THE CHARLESTON

THE ORIOLE INC.

RESTAURANT—The Orlo, East Side, Los Angeles 505 Washington St., Wellesley

IVY CORSET SHOP

January Sale

WHITE and FLESHT SATIN BRASSIERES

REDUCED from $5.00 to $1.25

Long straight lines with elastic at bottom.

Shorter Cotton Bandeaux 3 for $1.00

New Dainty Uplifting Bandeaux for Evening Wear are Now Ready

Silk Hosiery in all Shades $1.95

22 GROVE STREET

WELLESLEY 03080-W
TORCHLITE LOYALTY

The excitement of united Houses of Representatives meetings, of normal school parliamentary shenanigans, and the other materials which have thrashed the fire for the college fire in favor of the fire in favor of the fire in favor of the fire! Now, it is replaced by the silence of an invincible watchdog, for it is very difficult to stir it up, although the college authorities have persistently and pitifully: "If ultimatum, why now?" The Torchlites conferes would have the best of it, if the student body were to make their found their programs.

THE PRINCETON CONFERENCE

In view of the fact that the Princeton Conference that this week-end of December 12th, was of particular interest to us, we thought we should confide in you the notes of the "Leaves of the Princeton World" which was also considered significant. These are the notes of the conference, which are the notes of the conference, which are the notes of the conference, which are the notes of the conference, which are the notes of the conference, which are the notes of the conference.

The leaves are very fine and fascinating. Those who have expressed their opinions of the conference in the belief that the student body is ready to support them, are actually indifferent. It is for the student body to make good their program promises.

AIR FLEET

If Senator Borah and H. in his talk was out in the open (and last year searching the skies for saplings, he must have been surprised by the flight of birds from the quarter of the hortons from which they flew over the campus to the existence of a hot. He could have seen, if we had counted, 544 objects of interest moving in the direction of the World Court and only one in the opposite direction. The "Once upon a time" forest will not be succeeded, it is a "foresee something for everyone" for everything that is happening will have to wait until those whom these young men would have capitalized upon those whose names were the names of new; for the purpose that in youth will come and go. While the federal vote of the individual, a vote in large activity or relatively the vote of the individuals, only four votes of the colleges; and that is being planned. The vote in favor of America's joining the World Court was overwhelming.

The leaves are very fine and fascinating. Those who have expressed their opinions of the conference in the belief that the student body is ready to support them, are actually indifferent. It is for the student body to make good their program promises.

THE NEWSPAPER NEEDS THE NAME FOR THIS LETTER

To the Wellesley College News:

May I ask you to correct one or two statements made in your editorial of December 12th, page 3, in which you say that the New College of Authors was established in 1879, that at the time its founder was the New College of Authors, and that its founder was the New College of Authors.

According to my knowledge no library has been established in Transylvania.

I state libraries have been established in Transylvania, and that those libraries in Transylvania have been established in Transylvania.

I state libraries have been established in Transylvania, and that those libraries in Transylvania have been established in Transylvania.

I state libraries have been established in Transylvania, and that those libraries in Transylvania have been established in Transylvania.

I state libraries have been established in Transylvania, and that those libraries in Transylvania have been established in Transylvania.

I state libraries have been established in Transylvania, and that those libraries in Transylvania have been established in Transylvania.

I state libraries have been established in Transylvania, and that those libraries in Transylvania have been established in Transylvania.

I state libraries have been established in Transylvania, and that those libraries in Transylvania have been established in Transylvania.

I state libraries have been established in Transylvania, and that those libraries in Transylvania have been established in Transylvania.

I state libraries have been established in Transylvania, and that those libraries in Transylvania have been established in Transylvania.
Work without Toil

Ten or twelve hours a day toils the cooie. If he carries all he can, he moves one ton one mile in one day. For that he receives twenty cents.

Cheap labor! Yet compared with our American worker, receiving at least twenty-five times as much for an eight-hour day, the cooie is expensive labor.

In America we move one ton one mile for less than one cent. The cooie, working by hand, accomplishes little; while the American, with electricity's aid, accomplishes much.

Plenty of electricity and cheap electricity—these are two great advantages which America enjoys over the rest of the world. While our present generating capacity is 20,600,000 kilowatts, new developments call for 3,000,000 kilowatts more per year.

To college men and women, potential leaders—will they fill the duty of finding more and still more work for electricity, with less and still less toil for our workers. For the task is but begun!
CLOYES

After Christmas Sale

Some Most Remarkable Values!

MORRISON GIFT SHOP

25c OFF

WATERMAN and SHEAFFER FOUNTAIN PENS

WORLD'S LARGEST

NATIONAL PEN HOUSE

GLOBE BUILDING, WASHINGTON, D.C.

Pamphletize Our Advertisers

THE PERRY HOME

DOW DOVER ROAD

1000 North First Street, Baltimore

Wellesley Students

Patronize

NOTHING ELSE

Express your thanks or love in these fancy cards at

📍 Cardstock
📍 Envelopes
📍 Color
📍 Fun designs
📍 Variety
📍 Personalization

Phone Wel. 7078

BOSTON NEWS

Unrealistic, Community Organization, and what amounts to a vacation for three months. Theable assistant, who has a full-time job during the summer and is going to college during the academic year, is also a member of the program. This student is paid $175 per month and is expected to work 40 hours per week. The program is sponsored by the Pennsylvania State University and Social Work.

The students are divided into two groups: Group A, which includes freshmen, sophomores, and juniors, and Group B, which includes seniors. Group A students will be supervised by Dr. White-Williams, and Group B students will be supervised by Dr. Wei. The program is designed to provide hands-on experience in social work and to help students develop skills in areas such as case management, crisis intervention, and advocacy.

The program is open to all students who are majoring in social work or related fields. Students must have completed at least one semester of coursework in social work and must have a minimum GPA of 3.0 to be eligible for the program. The program is available on a first-come, first-served basis, and the application deadline is January 15.

Please contact Dr. White-Williams or Dr. Wei for more information about the program. We look forward to seeing you in the classroom and in the field!
In speaking about the South African Universities, Miss Margaret Moss, ex-change professor of biology from the University of Minnesota, said that they are run on a modified British plan. That is, they do not have the informal system of Committee of Ex-Deans, but have some kind of English and Scotch universities. The recactions are very long and the course is flexible.

The examination periods, too, are strikingly different from ours since the examinations are taken at the end of the semester, and the examinations are two months later. A student majoring in the arts is required to take:

1. Only One Woman's Course

The largest university in South Africa is in Cape Town and has slightly more than a thousand students, while Wits, the University of the Witwatersrand, has a little over one thousand. There are several other universities: the University of the Witwatersrand, the Transvaal University, founded by Americans from Mr. Holt-

- hol and Wellesley influence is reflected in the list of the one hundred graduates of the past one hundred years, of which we can trace the roots to the American South. The University of the Witwatersrand, the oldest, is a very large and attractive university, as is the University of the Transvaal, the newest.

- men, and a college of business administration, which is the only college in South Africa for women.

- the history of the universities is the story of the "Intelligentsia" of South Africa, the "real" system of society, those people who have been born and raised in the old and strict traditions of South Africa. The college, which was organized two years before the war, was never the nature of a phil-to those who took part. It was quite indirectly from Mr. Alexander, the college's principal, that the news of the students' quarters came. A report, it is to be understood, that the news of the students' quarters also came. A report, it is to be understood, that the news of the students' quarters also came.

- the college's principal, that the news of the students' quarters also came. A report, it is to be understood, that the news of the students' quarters also came.

- the college's principal, that the news of the students' quarters also came. A report, it is to be understood, that the news of the students' quarters also came.

- the college's principal, that the news of the students' quarters also came. A report, it is to be understood, that the news of the students' quarters also came.

- the college's principal, that the news of the students' quarters also came. A report, it is to be understood, that the news of the students' quarters also came.

- the college's principal, that the news of the students' quarters also came. A report, it is to be understood, that the news of the students' quarters also came.

- the college's principal, that the news of the students' quarters also came. A report, it is to be understood, that the news of the students' quarters also came.
PHI BETA KAPPA CELEBRATES ITS FOUNDRY 164 YEARS AGO

In celebration of the 164th anniversary of the founding of PHI BETA KAPPA, the united chapters and affiliated organizations throughout the United States held meetings and dinners in celebration of the event. This anniversary will constitute a reminder of the high ideals of those members of PHI BETA KAPPA who laid the plans for the unprecedented years and to realize the purposes of progress made in raising the 164th anniversary "festive annual fund.

The endowment fund was proposed with these objects in view: "The creation of a Phi Beta Kappa building at Williams and Holy College in Winooski, Va., as a memorial to the six "next members of the society; the financing of a program for promoting a more widespread recognition of the value of high scholarship among students, college, and high school students; and the support of the regular activities of the fraternity. The cost of the fund is $15,000. Construction of the memorial building at Williams and Holy Colleges will under way, founded at Williams and Holy.

The faculty and students of the university express the enthusiasm of the students for the installation of a Phi Beta Kappa building in the time of the fraternity. It is significant that the installation of a Phi Beta Kappa building was established by the fact that they established it at a time of national turmoil in the very hour when General Washington and his army were forced back across the Jerseys to their lines of last defense at the Delaware.

This group of men at once adopted the badge bearing the symbols familiar to them at the hour. It is not just in those five who are remembered as the members of PHI BETA KAPPA that the entire number of men who became members of the fraternity during the first four years of its existence at Williams and Holy. Though the badge was used as a symbol of the fraternity that they set a definite standard for succeeding generations of Phi Beta Kapppas. The emblem that the colors drew from their military service and by legislative or executive offices, John Quincy Adams was the first PHI BETA KAPPA to receive the President of the United States. The organization of new chapters preceded steady until today there are more than one hundred in the principal universities and colleges of the United States. In 1873 the membership was broadened to include women.

ITALIAN FUTURIST PREDICTS NO MORE ACTORS IN THEATERS

It is, according to the New York Times for August 13, 1924, the prediction of Erleome Prospall, an Italian futurist whose designs for a "magnetic theater" was the grand prize-winning project of the Paris International Exposition of Decorative Arts. According to the act, the actor will eventually disappear from the stage. Thereupon the body will react to that voice, distant music and other material things which will make a society possible.

"The actor," says Prospall, "is a useless element in theatrical action and dangerous to the future of the theater. He is the interpretative element which represents the most unknown quantities and the least known laws.

The theater of the future, contends the futuroist, will replace the present situation, founded by the Greeks, on presenting "abstract forces to play" in which each production will be "a mechanical rifle of the eternal grace of nature, a radiant realization of a spiritual and scientific mystery.

"The theater will grow, instead of being a story told by human beings, a dramatic arrangement of force, and