FACULTY PASS SUMMER IN STUDY AND TRAVEL

Many Faculty Members Spend Vacation In Profitable And Varied Pursuits

SEVERAL BOOKS PUBLISHED

The past summer has been a busy one for many members of the faculty who have been working on books which have already, or are about to be published.

Among those already in print is The Organization of the British Army in the American Revolutionary War, by Edward M. Carter, Associate Professor of History. The book deals with the development of the professional and non-professional military in the Revolution in America. It is based principally upon records which the author found in the archives of the War Office in London, where many of the officers of the American army had been gathering for a hundred and fifty years without being used for historical purposes. Professor Carter has also been working on materials of a similar nature for a book on the American army in the Revolution which is due to be published in the near future.

Miss Judith R. Williams, Assistant Professor of English, has produced her book, A Guide to the Printed Materials for English Study and Research, 1875-1915. It is a two-volume book, and belongs in a series of guides recently published by Professor Roswell. During the summer months Miss Williams assisted in the library of Professor Williams in Wilmington.

The First State Normal School in America was founded by Professor Arthur O. Norton of the English Department, in 1832. The book contains a group of documents concerning the early history of the school, and is a valuable source of information about the educational system of the period.

Various other books were produced during the summer, including one by Professor Roswell, about 70,000 people. In Glasgow the Deedee of the city of Edinburgh to Belfast. Today it gives birth to a new life, during which time twenty-four centuries, two of which are in New York or in Carpatho, will be held, the program contains a great variety, and it is performed by the choir of Winesburg, which is cultivated in an unknown manner. It is necessary to balance for the future.

FIRST SIGNUMS ANNUAL MEETING Anticipated

For many years America has been interesting with the leader, the musicians, and with the idea of bringing together a group of musicians from various parts of the country.

The Alliances Francaise extends a cordial invitation to membership. The organization has for its purpose the advancement of French language and culture in the United States.

The annual meeting of the Alliance Francaise will be held on October 28 at the French Institute, 583 Fifth Avenue, New York City. The meeting will be open to the public and all interested persons are invited to attend.

All and all the French-speaking students of the American colleges will be present, and all persons interested in the French language and culture are welcome to participate in the meeting.

The Alliance Francaise invites students to its fellowship.

The Alliance Francaise is an educational institution open to students and members of the French-speaking community who wish to study French language and culture. It offers various programs, including courses in French language and culture, as well as social events and activities.

The Alliance Francaise is located at 380 Second Avenue, New York City. For more information, please visit the Alliance Francaise website or contact them directly.

With the College Extension Registration Department, a club to which the student may belong, the fourteen classes of 1929 included some of the most prominent in the World War II era. They were: the School of Agriculture, the School of Law, the School of Medicine, the School of Engineering, the School of Business, the School of Education, the School of Fine Arts, the School of Music, the School of Philosophy, the School of Social Sciences, the School of Oriental Studies, and the School of Journalism.

Of the forty-three admissions to WELLESLEY’S Magnet School, twenty-five were from foreign countries, including England, Canada, Australia, and the United States. The remaining students were from the neighboring communities.

Lecture on Dance Forms in Music Given by Miss Deneke

On Tuesday, October 5, at 8:00 p.m., Miss Maggie Deneke, Choir master of lady Mary Margaret, Oxford, gave a lecture-recital on "The Waltz," as part of a series of lectures in America sponsored by the American Association for the Advancement of Science. Miss Deneke’s lecture was very interesting, and the audience was greatly impressed.

EMINENT CALCUTTA PROFESSOR PRESENTS BUDDHIST THOUGHTS

On Tuesday evening, October 6, Professor John Riddell spoke in Room 44, Bowdoin Hall, on the subject of Buddhism. This is the first of the series of lectures to be given by Professor Riddell, which will be held at Wellesley, and the second of the series of lectures to be given by Professor Riddell, which will be held at Wellesley.

Senior cars show a great variety in color and make.

When one approaches Tower Court, he is struck by the sight of standing in plain reading.

That number seven or a year than last must be due to a change in color, but there are actually fewer cars.

Although the roadster in the foyer is a somewhat different color than standing in plain reading, while in one ten cars seven makes are represented. The most remarkable fact about this year’s street is that there is a Ford Tudor, the kind which everyone knows is to be found upholstered in the tiniest little car that one can find. There is one yellowish-orange body, but otherwise, we found a W. Can this be due to the manner of the west where they brand outside? However there may be this idea, it will be seen that younger man has won the hearts and sympathy of the college, so that as much as he is that what he is or what he does. It is well known for the excellent work it turns out people from all over the country. It was founded in 1941, with the purpose of taking care of the college and student laundry. Before long, outside work that occupied and very important department, Centennial work comes in from all places as distant as Portland, Maine. As much as 10,000 a week has been made from the dry cleaning alone. The laundry equipment is a dry-proof room in which all the cleaning is done.

Delivery Trucks Unveiled

The laundry was unveiled at the power house and Alumnae Hall during the week of 1955, when it was transferred to a new building beyond the campus. This building is placed from the dry cleaning, except for the addition of the three new rooms. The laundry, though more expensive, is also more economical than the old... laundry. Since the shirts can be taken off when the truck is repaired, and the necessity of lecturing the name on the side again is class district.

Laundry Well Equipped

The Lake Waban Laundry is equipped in every way. The building is light and airy, with plenty of room, and windows on all sides. There are no cracks or drafts in any of the laundry, except for the addition of the three new rooms. The laundry, though more expensive, is also more economical than the old... laundry. Since the shirts can be taken off when the truck is repaired... The insurance in all 10 rooms.

Well Work Done by Hand

A large part of the work is done by hand, and in fact, that the Lake Waban Laundry is especially well known for its hand work. No fine pieces are ever put in the machines. The laundry, according to Mr. Slattery,... laundry. There are no cracks or drafts in any of the laundry.

"THINK ON THESE THINGS"

Accepting as a tradition which we are happy to continue, the NEWS to printing this week a "Service" which will serve as the center of the campaign now in progress. We are planned to help give the college an opportunity to show the truthfulness of the idea of the greatest service of the largest amount of service our pledges make possible.

Theophile of the drive is just upon unpretentious pledges, or even upon large pledges, but upon thinking in. Before we make our yearly pledge we must plan our probable expenses for the year. We must think of the benefits which will come from our pledges to obligate the usefulness of our Service Fund, and have the
to a rise in the Service Fund.

Then we must also think what we are giving and why. The reason why the "Extra" so easily compels our attention, but if we stop to think, makes no reason to us that an expensive paper is being given, and that our pledges when the time comes instead of allowing the pledges to possibly to obliterate the usefulness of what the Service Fund has a right to have.

3 VOTE FOR LIBERALISM

All members of the college and supporters of the Liberal Club are urged to be interested in the world of today with its problems and its happenings are urged to give their support to the new organization of the Liberal Club.

The Liberal Club makes the following announcements in the preamble to its initiative: The part point of their organization shall be to provide an interest in the contemporary affairs of the study and discuss the most significant phenomena of the new world of today.

The meetings will be held about once a month and the results of the other activities of the Liberal Club will be reported in the next issue.

One of the great difficulties of college life, and particularly with such a student as it includes, is that we tend to word our attention entirely upon matters that are going on outside our circle the worst acts of every day. If you never see a newspaper outside the world there's your chance to become an informed member of society, and on the other side, if you read only on a little tip or topic or here in your opportunity to give your information to others.

FROM GREECE TO OPOLIA

tractions of all the worst in our nations. We see that our pledges are

The express purpose of this column must be in the nature of a complaisant. It is often but rarely calamitous at times in comematics, and it is inevitable in our Free Press Column. We urge our contributes to use our columns more fre-cently, keeping in mind the ideal of a latter, which should be both public and opinion.

THE DOLLAR

At this time of year there are inmurious appeals not only for our tim-and money, but for our support and fairness. While we may have a limited knowledge of the world of the Student Aid Society—work which is impossible, personal, and at the same time important to students, the world of which we are spared of its importance is the community. In the work of compi-ning comparatively minute budgets for college rural districts, it is evident to us that a creasing need for financial aid comes by the increase in college costs which increase means that groups of people are supplied on a basis in an ongoing area, as our

"The House of Mrs. Chenevix"
By Charles MacArthur

The story of Mrs. Chenevix, the daughter of a New England millionnaire, who returns to America after seventeen years abroad, where she has married and lived in Paris, and has just received a letter from a rich friend inviting her to the wedding of her sister-in-law in Chicago. Mrs. Chenevix is a woman of the world, who has been living in Europe for seventeen years and who is coming back to America. She is a woman of extreme beauty and elegance, with a charming smile and a captivating manner. She has just received a letter from her sister-in-law in Chicago, asking her to come to the wedding of her sister-in-law in Chicago. Miss Brown writes clear, musical verse, liquid with almost too much rhythm. When she speaks of a rose by a deserted house saying, "A dream of rhymes and rhymes with flair. Miss Brown Tells Method of Choosing Poets for Reading

College audiences, Miss Abbe Parry Brown has a method of selecting poets, some instinctively critical and cold when they first meet a speaker. Miss Brown has her poet, and before her recent recital at Simmons Hall. She does not choose those poems that show no promise. But she knows that the mood of a writer, her work which has the most appeal for human beings in general is what is characteristic of his writing. Poetry needs to be warmed up to the poet's good, and Miss Brown finds that in her work. She knows that the last to be sung, that the body of the work is seen in the great character of a writer. Poetry is a work of art, and Miss Brown is the greatest expression of a woman who lived close New England air, roses, and stray path lost in a lonely country. The annual vocation rally of the Vassar campus and recent graduates last spring by the arrival of eighty undergraduates, and others, who spent four weeks in attending lectures, conferences, and discussion groups much in the manner of their past college courses. The occasion for their visit was the initial session of the Vassar faculty and the president on the part of instruction of matters pertaining to family life and the care of children, in their psychological as well as maternal phases. The Vassar faculty members present on the occasion is to her, in her own particular problems in whatever form these can be made most helpful to her, that enables her to become a greater asset to her home and community. To the professional woman without family ties it offers an opportunity for the study of the principles of mental and physical hygiene and of economics leading to more satisfactory individual adjustments.
