COMMITTEES NOW AT WORK ON "PINOFARIN" Guard

following the announcement of the cast, rehearsing have been on the vast number of twice per week, will be pre- sented to the college on March 15. The story of this charming opera comedy con- cerns a double wedding in which the chief characters are a girl, Estelle McLeans, and her suitor, Josephine, to marry Mr. John Corn- wall, Pled Lord of the Admiralty. As is the custom, is here in love with Ralph, a sailor, they plan to meet, so that he will not think which they are betrayed by the victor. Little Loretta, who is in love with Miss McLeans, is also on the way to the rescue and explains that in the past she had been changed about. This makes the First Lord of the Admiralty reduce the expul- sion to the lady's suitors and Ralph, a sailor, to an expiation, so that all the holies involved are finally engaged and married on their choice.

There are some forty or fifty mem- bers of the cast—mostly elderly dicides between men and women's parts. The Poinsettia Club produces the opera, and is under the chairmanship of Dorothy Penley, 28, of Walnut. The men's soloists will be hired, but the women's duets will be handled by the chorus.

The action of the opera Poinsettia takes place in the South Pacific. The scene and the stage design will be designed by the students.

SELFSKEINLESS TAKES PLACE UNDER REGULATIONS IN RELIGION

The power of an unselfish spirit is a life was the main theme of the Week of Prayer, which was led by Dr. Robert Russell Wicks of Holyoke. Dr. Wicks, who is chaplain of Mount Holyoke College, has an unusual understanding of college problems, and spoke to the students. His answer to the topic of the week, "Have We a Substitutive Religion?" was excellently inspiring and helpful in solving many religious problems.

At the first service Dr. Wicks discussed the question of what substitutes things for a religious life. The truth is that most of us have religion in the back of our minds in the form of vague notions and needs. The first step in solving the problem is to admit that such religions are in the public, and to do away with any God that can be done away with. In the second place, it is to begin by associating religious with what happens in our best moments. The last step is to carry away a life that has no selfish end in view, such as that of Jesus.

Unselfish Spirit Necessary

There are many aspects of an unselfish spirit in the universe. It is impossible to put spirit into a mechanism such as the human body. But we can put into those running it. We are meant to help bring out the possibilities of Human spirit in our own lives are our best moments, which are self-made if we have the power to make them. The second is that all of us are of this unselfish spirit are seen in other people, in friendships, families, and in all the higher life of the world. After we have a new sense of God, that of a spirit working in and through these to bridge the gap and to accomplish more than has been done before. This spirit is called by many names, but we can’t live without it.

Standards of Right and Wrong Defined

This spirit is the substitute for a morality of rules, rightness imposed by authority, against which there is so much current. The apostle Paul found something better for it, moral mortality; we are living and motion that we do not need to an uncontrolled world. There have been many answers of rules to designate that which is not needful, and is not desirable, among them, pleasant and unpleasant. The spirit is to be used as a standard, but the best in the spirit and the flesh, the higher and lower sides of the world, and the truth is that it is a matter of personal choice.

Unselfish Life Finds Own Meaning

How can we find meaning and a life? First, we must have faith to find a discovery what is delusive to our life. We will not find the meaning if we start out with the question, "What do I want?" We must say, "What do others want?" and make ourself useful.

THE WELLESLEY COLLEGE NEWS
The current number of the student publication, The Harvard Crimson, is now available at the Harvard Bookstore, 1100 Memorial Drive. The newspaper is sold for 25 cents each. The publication is a weekly publication and is available at the college library. The newspaper contains news, opinion, sports, and cultural articles. The newspaper is published by the Harvard College News Media, a student-run organization. The newspaper is available online at www.harvarddaily.boston.com/news/.
The word "Student" conveys a house name that takes away much of its meaning, leading to the same problem as "American." In many sorts of students in Europe as in America, the term is now social, not particularistic, and it is a matter of a social meaning or it is a group, the link of being.

The word "International" is the raison d'être of the wide. It is part of the total meaning of club activities and is essentially national-minded. The trips offer a delightful short-cut if not to an understanding of the nature of the international maneuver to be had from the article on Vienna on this page. It is the American International Student Hospitality tours that are a vital one. It means delightful opportunities for understanding and encouraging international understanding which is undoubtedly promoted.

FUTILITY

To the Wellesley College News:

The News comments about and has not been faultless. People write and speak, as a matter of fact the student mind is to be little affected by them can.

The students read the free press, feel satisfied that their grievances are important enough to be heard, given exclusively to juniors the same as a new more and more far-reaching. We have a great deal in common, an interest as the French newspaper, as "To know the New York Times of the student, which may be said to be the real home of the politicians and to what extent, a member of the exchanges for the seniors, which would limit their nights away from college to some number for each class. They are unimportant in the present condition, if its aim is to improve standards in academic matters, and diplomatically unimportant: a serious social privilege which does not give the senior as much liberty as re- stricted the underclassmen.

The USELESS SENIOR

The proposed changes in the constitution of the Athletic Association, following the recent statement of the Student Government, give us another illusion of the spirit of reform that is abroad in our college community. We wonder what next year’s college organizations will have left to occupy themselves with. We are practically told by the facts of the case that the college has become unimportant in this respect, and that the students are unimportant in the present condition, if its aim is to improve standards in academic matters, and diplomatically unimportant: a serious social privilege which does not give the senior as much liberty as restricted the underclassmen.

IN DONOR OF CONSERVATION

The fact that the proposed plan for an extension of the Frien Conservatory is to be debated is a matter of doubt. It is very possible that the donors of the building are responsible for the extension of the conservatory, but an example of Wellesley conservation which cannot materially irritate the donor of the building. To be rather tolerant to require that the almighty donors of the building be punished for the sake of the group would be counterbalanced by limitation of privileges in another group. It is possible that the group would be more interested in, at least if it does not prevent against any progress in the college. In the present condition, the exertion of privileges for underclassmen has always been the pre- tended enlightenment for the seniors, by which they would be allowed to keep the seniors out of college until 5:41, instead of 7:30.

Furthermore the restriction of underclassmen’s privileges is in a measure under present conditions, if its aim is to improve standards in academic matters, and diplomatically unimportant: a serious social privilege which does not give the senior as much liberty as restricted the underclassmen.

INTERNATIONAL STUDENT HOSPITALITY

Over the country colleges are rallying to welcome the new students to college. They have open houses, tours, and a half-day tour for the international students to give them a chance to meet the incoming students. At Wellesley, as sometimes happens, classes are presenting themselves to the public by means of the publications of the Wellesley News.

TOURISTS LEARN OF NEW VIENNA BY DISCUSSION

The article which follows, reprinted from the New York Times, is a summary of a recent discussion of the Vienna yesterday. It was written by Sally Lloyd Wright, who is the chairwoman of one of our entertainers’ parties.

"It was a hot, midsummer afternoon, and the window still assigned to us as the only remaining seats. The little room was packed to the very wall of a hundred or more tourists, and we are told that the wait to get seats was not.

NOTICE

This event will be held Thursday, May 3rd, in the Student Union. The event will be open to all students and faculty members of the college. For more information, please contact the campus newspaper, The Wellesley Express, at (508) 287-7711.

THREE SCHOLARSHIPS OFFERED FOR SOCIAL RELIGIOUS WORK

The Board of National Missions of the Presbyterian Church offers two fellowships for the coming year. One is for training for social religious work in missionary communities, and provides tuition for a course in religion toward a Master of Arts degree in the Religious Education Department of Teachers' College, Columbia, together with field work in one of the Presbyterian congregations in New York City. Some of the courses are taken at the New York School of Social Work.

A second scholarship is offered for the summer of 1923, and is available to undergraduates—junior who have completed two years in any school in Biblical, theological and classical studies, and who are interested in working under trained supervisors in schools. Both of these scholarships are available for those who will return to their community for practical training under outstanding missionaries.

The Life Work Committee of the Methodist Episcopal Church offers a similar scholarship for the year in the amount of $150. Those who accept the scholarships are obligated to be involved in the work of the church in the fields of education and mission. The scholarship offers tuition and a stipend to cover living expenses. The obligations include service in the church and related fields for at least two years.

LABORATORY THEATRE OFFERS OPPORTUNITIES IN DRAMATICS

Miss Elizabeth Biehler, Executive Secretary of the American Laboratory Theatre Dramatic School, will be in Wellesley on the afternoon of February 24 and will give an informal talk on the Laboratory Theatre and its activities. Miss Biehler will be at the Convocation Hall at 3:30 p.m. and will be available to answer questions at 4:30 p.m. in the Convocation Hall. The talk will be open to all interested in the arts and will provide an opportunity for those interested in the Dramatic Arts to learn more about the Laboratory Theatre and its programs.

WOMEN ON EQUAL BASIS WITH MEN IN CIVIL SERVICE WORK

A pamphlet published by the U.S. Department of Labor on the status of women in the labor force was given to the National Women's Bureau, which is in charge of the vocational guidance center. The pamphlet is an excellent reference for those interested in civil service work.

In 1913 the U.S. Civil Service Commission established a program to train women for positions in the civil service. The program was open to women who had completed high school and were interested in pursuing a career in the federal government. The program was successful and resulted in the hiring of many women for positions in the civil service.

Two Lectures on Buddhism To Complete Year's Series

The series of special lectures offered this year by the Department of Philosophy and Psychology will be completed with two lectures on Budhism to be given by Professor James Judson Pratt of Williams College.

The first lecture will be given on Sunday evening, February 27, in Room 210, Founders Hall at eight o'clock on the subject, "Southern Buddhism as it is in India." This lecture is open to the public. The record will be at 8:00 on Tuesday in Room 211, Founders Hall on the subject, "The Philosophy of Mahayana Buddhism." Due to the great interest aroused by Professor Pratt's treatment of the subject last year, it has been decided, though the lecture is intended primarily for students in the department, a general invitation will be extended to all who are interested.

Professor Pratt has gained international reputation as a student of religion through his books India and China and The Buddhist Conception. His book on Buddhism in near completion. He has been for many years a student of this faith and has traveled extensively in In-Chapel.

The lectures verse in mind and strains have been terrific. Surely during this past week we have been examining a question of what a college education is like.

Examinations are inherited, the Voice continues. "It requires all our ingenuity now to account for them, to invent a plausible pretext for continuing them to save teachers of a low order some feel that examinations are designed to test the student's capacity for remembering details. They would make cads out of all their students."

Education is not storing the mind with facts to be rolled off as prayers from an Odeion prayer book, however, is still held by Mr. Eddin and also, it must be confined, by some enterprising pedagogues who presume to lead such a question as 'What is the book of Hebrews?' Did not the Old Design say that 'What is the sun, but the spirit given life' surely the best type of examination is one that presents a question the answer to which would be determined by the nature of the work done.
