VACATION BY-PATHS FOLLOWED BY FACULTY

Intimate Glimpses of Familiar Places Caught by Those in Europe While Studying

Now that we have all returned from vacations which have become pleasant necessities, it is refreshing to reflect that many of the faculty have enjoyed equally diverting and profitable summers.

Miss Clark of the French Department spent a pleasant season in the Bibliotheque Nationale and devoting the archives of the Ministére des Affaires Etrangéres. Her reports, conveyed to the access of the Janissary, the material to the Bibliothèque Nationale proved extremely worth while.

The entire French faculty went abroad this summer, Miss Dewing, of course, being in charge of the group of students who are working at the Sorbonne.

In early summer Miss Dunn of the French Department has also the privilege of working in the William L. Clements Library at the University of Michigan. This collection of America, one of the most valuable in the United States, was presented to the University in 1876, and up to this time has been at the disposal of students. Miss Dunn was working on the ancient pamphlets that form the two volumes purchased from the Landowne family and brought to this country by Mr. Clements in 1876.

NEW BUILDING ON LAKE MAY OPEN NEXT FALL

It has been decided by the Academic Council to construct a new Students' Union on the athletic grounds in the near future. The two-story building will be the largest of its kind in the New England section, and will be of great advantage to the students and faculty of the college. The structure will be completed by the end of the fall term, and will be ready for occupancy in the spring of 1931.

The new building will provide adequate space for the various offices and departments of the college, as well as a large hall for assemblies, meetings, and other college events. It will be a handsome structure, designed in a style suitable for the character of the college.

The cost of the building has been estimated at $150,000, and the funds necessary for its construction have been appropriated by the Academic Council.

The building is expected to be completed by the end of the fall term, and will be ready for occupancy in the spring of 1931. The structure will be of great advantage to the students and faculty of the college, and will be a fitting monument to the growth and progress of Wellesley College.

Miss Manwaring had luncheon at Rugby where she caught an intimate dinner party. Miss Manwaring of the English Department wrote a letter to the Editor of the Wellesley College News expressing her welcome to the new students armed with cards and invitations to the reception of the College Government Association and the Campus Government Association and the Baptist Student Union. The fresh new students were announced in an early issue of the Wellesley College News.

FRESHMAN WEEK KALEIDOSCOPE

Freshman week, a week of examinations mental and physical, and meetings and social activities was spent in the confusion of the opening day. The College Government Association and the English Department acted as hostesses at the reception of the College Government Association and the Christian Association. In the joint reception of the two organizations, President Pendleton, Miss Moses, Miss McCarty, Miss Knappe and the following students heads of organizations who made short speeches of welcome and encouragement to the freshmen: Martha Biehle, president of College Government; DeMaris Davis, president of Christian Association; Margaret McCarty, president of Barnswallow Dramatic Association; Annette Depper, president of the Athletic Association; and Mary Loomis, editor-in-chief of the Wellesley College News.

STATISTICS ABOUT FRESHMEN

We would like it understood that the adjective "Liberal" is used only in the sense of Webster's definition, "broad-minded; catholic; free from prejudices and narrowness." We are not a set of anarchists, revolutionists, or radicals; the temper of our minds is only a composite of the views of all the members of the class, however. We do hope, however, to be progressive, as ambitious to be truly constructive in our discussions.

A meeting of the Liberal Club will be announced in an early issue of the NEWS. We hope it will be attended by all who feel that an antidote of some sort is needed for the apathy that in general prevails among the undergraduates towards contemporary events outside of the college gates.

As usual many of the entering class are having their first glimpse of New England and New England's life. California, Washington, Texas, Arizona and Denver have sent girls from their big cities as a stopper who at the latest touch begins playing their parts. It is in the Arcade.

The pen to keep up with your thoughts

No matter how quick your mind, Waterman's will ink as quickly as you think. The instant the point touches the paper the ink flows. There is no scraping or scratching. Your thought is registered instantaneously.

Ask your supply dealer to show you 01854. This number is made with holders of Black, Cardinal and stainless ripple rubber. Each pen has a protective lip-guard on the cap; a pocket clip that insures against loss, and a solid 14-carat gold pen point that will last a lifetime. It has big ink capacity.
WHY? Deserving of prominent place amidst the welcomes of returning undergraduates is the new curriculum, so long awaited, which, as is explained, the change will no longer struggle with cluttered courses and pies for impossible electives; but all are symbols of the dauntless to choose girls carefully to fill them. In spite of the fact that about mah car energy and progress of the present That means that every student must eighteen months usually is allowed for Gonna speed all ober dis Wellesley.

THE OUTSIDE WORLD

The opening of college brings to a close a summer full of interest for all students—a summer of intellectual activity beyond the campus gates. It was in Geneva especially that this activity was carried on. At the Intercollegiate Conference on Intellectual Cooperation, the Economic, and the ill-fated Naval Conference, Wellesley College was not unknown. What happy results may not come from these gatherings of scholars and experts studying the problem of better relations among nations! For many years students have been dissatisfied with the way an armistice was arranged to an unfortunate end, but there is still hope for greater understanding in the future. If that hope comes true, a time when the world will be more .....

Of the many comments heard upon The Better Ole all agree that the film is uproariously funny. And people do not agree about humor usually, unless there is found a smile that gives it depth and vitality. Behind the comedy of situations lie the ever present menace of attack and death; and, superimposing all that indescribable spirit of cheer which made play possible. There are war pictures and war pictures, Sid Chaplin in Better Ole coming Friday and Saturday has made the first kind.

There is a classic instance of a Wellesley girl who planned to do social work after her graduation, and went through college without discovering that there existed a Christian Association at Wellesley, with a variety of advertised program of social work. Bearing this in mind, and desiring that there existed a Christian Association on the American continent, she went on to advertise an organization of social work to the people.

NEW CURRICULA EVERYWHERE

AIM TO CONCENTRATE ENERGY

A discussion in the New York Times bearing on the same curricular problems which have now our attention here at Wellesley last year may renew our interest in this topic of nationwide import:

President Lowell has warned the incoming Harvard freshmen that the college cannot educate the student; he must educate himself. In the sense that young men will carry away from college what they choose to take, Presidents and Deans have always stressed self-education. But the word has been taken on new meaning with recent progress toward greater flexibility in the guidance and greater individual initiative and responsibility for the student.

All the way down to the schools it has been a movement away from recitation to research from the mass curriculum to specialization. Children in the elementary grades are introduced to the "project method." At college the beginning presumably was with "major" subjects. A further step is represented by the new curriculum at Western Reserve University, by which the student virtually restricts himself to the subjects vital to his later chosen occupation. The extreme would be represented by the new Experimental College at the University of Wisconsin. There the break with the old disciplines and methods is complete. As President Glenn Frank said at the opening of the new school, students will be concerned not with subjects but with situations. They "will "lay on the table the whole American civilization and try to understand it."

The case for the newer spirit and method barely needs repetition. It is to prevent a scattering of energies. It promotes mastery of a single interest. It no longer holds down the gifted student to the pace of the average. Above all, it encourages individual self-determination. Experience must show, however, how far the actual results correspond to the theoretical gains. At the University of Wisconsin it must be found out how far the freedom to be carried without inducing anarchy; more concretely, how successfully a "situation" can be studied without any emphasis on "subjects."

LEAGUE ECONOMIC CONFERENCE

IS PROMISING FOR COMMERCE

The World Economic Conference at Geneva came to a close last May, but the publicity which it has enjoyed throughout the summer is no less than that which its recognition in the New York Times at this late date. It was expected and proved to be one of the most important meetings yet held by the League. The distinctive character of the conference was that the delegates, though appointed by Governments and by various international organizations, were in no way experts, free to express their private views. The interested public was expected and proved to be one of the most important meetings yet held by the League.
