Racial Hatred Only One of Romani's Many Problems

The most virulent form of prejudice against Romani people is racial hatred. This hatred has been fueled by misinformation and misunderstanding. The Romani people have a rich culture and history, and they are an important part of our society.

Sinking Fund Rises As Cheques Clutter Mailbox

The rising of the sinking fund is due to an increase in the number of cheques being sent to the bank. This is a result of the economic recovery and increased consumer spending.

Christmas Invitation

Bishop Charles E. Shaler, president of the Board of Trustees, extends an invitation to the college community to attend the Christmas dinner at 6:00 PM in the Dining Hall.

REGISTRATION CLOSES

12:30 PM, Wednesday, January 4, 1928

By the Way:

The college will be closed from January 4 to January 12 for the Christmas break. Classes will resume on January 13.
PRESIDENTIAL MESSAGE IS ESSENTIALLY SANE

Yet at the same time Coudy's speech lays most stress on the necessity and value of economic democracy—rigid enough to cut our war debt—not more defense for him. But he is well served by public opinion in the country. He believes that taxes can be reduced at the same time, and gives "complete support" to the plan devised by Mr. Mellon which will come before the House. Selfish individual exemption he condemns, and he sees in the bill the Secretary of the Treasury a better balanced system of taxation. No longer will we have the spectacle of the fact that the Treasury must be kept fully round to avoid all possible danger of a deficit.

Naval Determination

Next in interest is the question of naval armaments in view of the new international conditions. The Navy League, the Boston Marine Society, the Ancient Order of the Navy Veterans, the Fishermen's Union and the Massachusetts Homeopathic Hospital, have joined together for the purpose of bringing about a limitation of naval armament. After much careful preparation, extending over several years, we actually made every effort to secure a three-power treaty in the same year. We seemed to have equal action from the United States, we are working on it every day. It is now hoped that in the coming years we shall have a treaty that will bring about a limitation of naval armament. We know now that an agreement can be reached which will be injurious to the interests of all nations.

Ignor. Old World Policy

"This country has put away the Old World policy of competitive armaments. No longer will we have the relieved of the responsibility of defending our country from aggression. We have our treaty secured by an unprecedented attitude of good will on our part. It is a great and noble thing for us to do.

Under normal conditions, extending over several years, we are actually making every effort to secure a three-power treaty in the same year. We seem to have equal action from the United States. WELLESLEY COLLEGE NEWS

STUDENTS WORK AT VARIOUS JOBS WEEK BEFORE CHRISTMAS

While some of us are bound to compass the most of our Christmas holiday in college, who use, who are here to make a special effort for seven days to earn enough to pay for our expenses? This is a common question. The examination will be over in a few days, and it is time to begin the holiday season.

Committee Reports Deeply Felt Hatred

1. The experience of the past few years has convinced us that the most effective way to combat hatred is by the promotion of the principles of democracy. The W.C.L. has therefore decided to support the Democratic ticket in the coming election.

2. The W.C.L. is planning a series of events to promote peace and understanding. These events will include a peace rally, a symposium on international relations, and a film series on the history of World War II.

3. The W.C.L. is also working to support local community initiatives that promote peace and understanding. This includes supporting local peace groups and participating in community service projects.

"When dreary without
"Tis cheery within."
We are glad we go to Wellesley. We have heard we would have a change. There are times when we are especially glad that we are here. The other day we heard of a professor who was dis- missed because of the questions he had raised. We heard of the cases which the authorities held up for discussion. We do not want to go through an experience like that with precerence thought behind. Such a case makes us appreciate one of the great services that this college renders. We believe that few, if any, will want to take rather than for—

It was an experience as the dinner hour approached, and besides the regular household there were three most apprecia-

CAMPUS CRITIC

THE MERCHANT OF VENICE

The piece as a whole, we felt, was a creditable performance of Shakespeare and one which the student actors could be proud of. We have in mind the closing scene in which the moonlight "deepens upon the bank." But no scene could be more beautiful. Throughout, costumes, scenery, character interpretations—while parts were excel-

... but sometimes that beauty is a delusion. The piece was a success in the sense, especially the important court scene. Of course there were exceptions. Gentility made it a brave attempt to play up to all and sundry. He succeeded with Nevins, while his other behavior in the court scene might not have satisfied some actors. The best interpretation came of the scene with Laurence Golby. Whether playing with himself or another, Laurence bubbled over with enthusiasm and spontaneity. He carried the all the way through. There was no such unifying force as between Barada and P($.50) when they played to each other. But while they played to each other, they kept their emotions. Rostand's Play 'Chantecler' Failure Once Now Succeeds

In view of the fact that Princeton has voted Rostand's 'Chantecler' as its favorite play, it is interesting to see the manner in which it was performed.

For the first three in six years Rostand's 'Chantecler' again holds the first place in the Princeton French department. The revial has been directed by Madame Rostand and her son, Maurice. Maurice, himself a poet and dramatist, and pos-

Rostand's Plan "Chantecleer" Failure Once More

"Chantecleer and His Hundred Hens" is to be presented over the Radio for the first time. The play was banned by the censors of Brussels before it could be produced in Belgium. The censor board gave the play a "taboo" rating, which means that it may not be produced in Belgium. The play was written by the French poet and playwright Alfred de Vigny. The play was first produced in France in 1835, and has been translated and produced in several countries since then. The play is about a rooster and his hens who are punished for their pride and arrogance by a group of farmers. The play is a satirical commentary on the French society of the time.
