The most recent of the Wednesday-Beta Kappa meetings for student members of the College of Arts and Sciences was held today. The meeting was presided over by the President, Dr. Alton Barrow. The meeting adjourned at 10:00 p.m. following the announcement of the results of the 1930 election of officers for the College of Arts and Sciences. The new officers are: President, Dr. Alton Barrow; Vice-President, Dr. J. G. Thomas; Secretary, Dr. W. H. Davis; and Treasurer, Dr. W. A. E. Gunn.

COMING EVENTS

Sanctum Sanctorum Reveals Secrets of College Offices

The third concert of the Wednesday-Beta Kappa series of lectures will be given by Miss Elizabeth Clapp, on the subject of "The Role of the President in a University." The lecture will be held in the Sanctum Sanctorum at 8:00 p.m. on March 3. The lecture is open to the public.

Russian Troops Revolt Against Gil President

On March 3 several troops of the Federal Government of Mexico, led by General Victoriano Huerta, moved against the president, General Girolomo Vivaldi, and took possession of the presidential palace. The president, who was not in Mexico City at the time of the revolution, has not yet been heard from. The situation is grave, and there is much uncertainty as to what will happen next.

The next meeting of the Wednesday-Beta Kappa series of lectures will be held in the Sanctum Sanctorum at 8:00 p.m. on March 3. The meeting will be addressed by Professor John W. Graham, on the subject of "The Role of the President in a University." The meeting is open to the public.

SMOKING PROPOSAL TABLED BY SENATE

In the meeting of March 7 called for the special business of considering the Smoking Bill, the Senate discussed the proposed bill, and, by a vote of the student body, the bill was tabled by the Senate. The Senate has also tabled the bill by the recommendation of the Student Senate Committee on Smoking.

In order to stimulate an interest in the oral reading of poetry, the Academic Council has planned to have an informal recital to be held at the meeting of the last week-end, the dates of which will be announced later.

Last week-end, Brough and Smith had a reading which aroused considerable interest, and the Academic Council has accordingly decided to ask each section to hold a recital.

And now the committee is pleased to announce that the recital will be held in the meeting of May 11 at 2:30 in the afternoon in the Assembly Hall.

The recital will consist of a selection of poems by various authors, and will be followed by a discussion of the subject.

It is hoped that all members of the academic society will attend the recital, and that they will enjoy the reading.

The committee wishes to express its appreciation to the section officers for their cooperation in making this event possible.
WELLESLEY COLLEGE NEWS

OFF CAMPOUS

OFF CAMPUS

One of the first acts of President Hoover has been to follow up his campaign promises and immediately start work for farm relief and tariff changes. A Tariff Bill has been called for April 14, and it is clearly stated in the proclamation that "delegation to effect further material reject and adjustment in the tariff fixes the tariff cannot in justice to our farmers, our labor, and our manufacturers to postpone." It is said that the President will outline his policy in these matters and that immigration and Census will probably be the other main subjects brought before Congress.

Winter darkness seems to have settled over the members of the Bryn Mawr, Radcliffe, and Wellesley clubs. The first snowfall of the season has caused the death of one of the dog drivers. Three teams were coming in during one of the storms bringing predominating from the supply dumps of the Blue

Barrier, when one of the teams got separated from the others. The man was wise enough to stop when he was only 10 miles from the station, and the trail and dig, to protecting himself from the forty mile gale by pulling up to one side of the road to save the difficulties of seeking in the driving storm, he stayed there for some hours, and was fortunate in escaping being frozen to death.

On March 23 the Cambridge and Ox- ford clubs will meet in the handbroad fence over the famous course from Putter to Cambridge. The interest is high, and there seems to be some hope that Oxford may defeat the Blue Devil team this year in the final game.

The weather is improving, and a few members of the Radcliffe teams have been taking a stroll in the country. It is reported that they are not feeling too well, and it remains to be seen whether the Light or Dark Blue will win.

When the United States government announced several weeks ago that it was going to reopen the discussion of the question of this country's joining the World Court, it was hoped that something might result. Two years ago the United States agreed to join the Court under certain conditions. The fifth of these conditions or Reservations would have given this country an unconditional vote on advisory opinions given by the Court when the United States was or said it was involved in the case. The United States was refused membership on account of this Reservation, and since then the subject has been dropped. Now, however, Eliza Root has offered a substitute for a portion of the articles in the Protocol of the World Court in which it would be agreed that our government would be notified in a case is to be brought up before the Court. The United States would have to notify the Court in a certain length of time whether it thought it had an interest in the case. If it did have an interest, Court action should be stayed to allow for an exchange of views and information. In short, the United States would not consent to the Court's taking action in the case in spite of the correspondence, for the United States to resign from the Court. This plan has not yet been brought before the Court for resolution, but since Root has been summoned to Europe for the purpose of serving on a committee to review the Protocol of which he was one of the original drafters, it seems quite possible that the United States may at last "settle a rightful place among the nations."

CHAVE SOURS

What charms and delights the Chavon SOURS holds for anyone surfeited with mundane fare—dusky Scandalas, shelladen-roasted charred ones, and ultr-ornate staging. Here is some- thing that reminds one of the ancient artners, but lifted into the realm of reality. That is because the Chavon SOURS is a fantastic representation of the Russian Temperament, and because it is one of the most interesting—personally and historically—of all Nikita Ballet with its staccato accent still calling the rhythm of the Russian soul and celebrating the bearishness of each, with equal parts of caricature, and his presence which at once establishes a happy context. Here the Chavon SOURS is not a "show" in the usual sense; a "show" in the usual sense is no "show"; it is too intimate and simple. Without any pretense of "drama," it is completely an"something of the spirit; the way a group is managed on the stage, the relationships and the whole means necessarily meet exact similarity with the poem. The scenes are all extremely well-developed and costumed, and when a elaborate stage effort is attempted it is not made to appear "over-dressed." So far as an audience machine-kicking moving. The real aims and spirits of the Chavon SOURS classics must always be for a popular one, and almost in equal to the modern taste, and the Chavon SOURS trans-tables a very bearish yet worthy of being termed a "choreographic score." The most, the Pulla. The whole performance is graceful, exquisite and yet with "beau- coup d'v".

T. E. STUDIO RECEPTION

Once more T. E. has presented its unique and charming Studio reception where one may enjoy the artistic atmosphere, the music and the always excellent presentation of the works of master painters. The program given on Saturday evening, March 13, included portraits by the following artists: Mrs. Porto, Giovanni Martini, and Bellofet, and Gallinari. All portraits in all were shown, the majority portraits, with several details from large groups. It is difficult to comment on the various portraits shown at the reception, the paintings, but the Details from "The Unveilings," after Martin, with Helene Baker, "Lady Fair," by Maisel, "Madame de Pompadour," by C. Malvendano, "Model," and "The An-neaux," afterward Helles, with Ellen-by J. G. Ritter, "Anitra," by Paul G. Models, perhaps best represented the Maitres. They were well placed in the frame and blended more easily into the backgrounds than did several of the portraits. The gallery of paintings, however, admirably caught the spirit of the originals, and show an at-together. The average artists on the part of the Crises and sub-comities, not only for the general effect but also for small details. The portraits shown were, "Detail from Madonna of the Hermitage, after Andre del Busto, Letter of Alma Mater, "Denise in the Garden," from Sacred and Free Arms, both by Tita, Portrait of a Noblewoman after Timothee Daubree, "Man in the Garden," Adoring the Child after Filippo Lippi, Detail from Christ and the Cross with St. Peter, and Angiolino, and The Dope Lardenen, after Belin.

DANISH SOURS

Despite the limitations placed upon them by the small stage at the Wellesley Hills Community Playhouse, the group of dancers headed by Rich St.

and Ted Shaw have a practically flawless performance in their interpretation of the dance presentation there on Tuesday evening, March 5. The program, which was in two sections, included four of the most popular dance modernus, and led to the instrumental adaptations and interpretations of Chopin, Debussy, Strauss, and Stravinsky. The second part was equally as remarkable as the preceding, and was performed with great spirit and enthusiasm.

Part Two, consisting of Divertisse-ments, had a more popular appeal. The dance, faconning Academic, a solo by Ted Shaw, and\n Denis in the Garden, was performed by the ensemble. The second number of this same group, "Passion," by Ivan's Synthesis, was performed by Miss Shaw and two other dancers, marked this group.

camp positions, v. a. c.

Miss Allen and Miss Wellesley, Camp Secretaries of the Young Women's Christian Association, of Wellesley College, are to be at the University, Monday, March 19, to interview students who are interested in the summer positions. Assistant camp positions are maintained by the Young Women's Christian Association. The camps for this summer are: Camp Maga, Maine; Bemidji Lake, Minnesota; Woman's Camp, Park, New York, and the Quantam Camp in New Hampshire.

In addition to the positions for counselors, there are opportunities in the administrative and wardens' departments. Miss Allen is particularly interested in securing counselors for camp craft, nature study, and special children. Counselors are offered the opportunity of earning their training as part of their college course in professional education.

The Personnel Bureau is glad to furnish additional information to students. Be sure to secure the position announcements to see the camp representatives may be made at the office of the Personnel Bureau.

positions in the american telephone telegraph company

Miss Elizabeth C. Langhorne, of the American Telephone and Telegraph Company, at 535 West Fourth Street, City, will be at Wellesley on Thursday, March 21st, to meet any seniors who are interested in this position. Knowledge of telephone work is not necessary. Clerical work is available. There are no clerical positions available at this time. Full-time employment is available.

In addition to the positions available at the American Telephone and Telegraph Company, the Personnel Bureau recommends that all students who wish to learn fundamental knowledge of telephone work should be prepared to meet the qualifications for positions with the telephone companies in the future.

The student recital on Monday, March 11, was especially interesting from the technical point of view. The program was well varied, and although only a few numbers stood out because of expression, all the playing was marked by accuracy and skill. Among the more popular movements was the opening one, a Toccata and Fugue in D minor, played by Jane King on the organ. There was only one number, the first movement of a Men- movement in C minor, but Marlene Hunt very skillful in execution it quite the great demands it made, because of the very difficult notes, is with any mention. GENUINE RULE OF THE PEOPLE

DEMONSTRATED BY WELLESLEY

The Wellesley town meeting held at Alumnae Hall, Monday, March 11, after an unusual opportunity to view the last vestiges of American democracy in action, perhaps that is the continuing argument for the assertion that a democracy is a minority or some similar form of government. However, the enthusiasm with which Wellesley citizens turned out for this meeting showed that years of experience had not convinced them that the true rule of the people is too cumbersome.

The meeting began with many committee reports. Among these was that of the aviation committee, which held the possibilities of an airport in Wellesley in the near future. The present Wellesley was to be built on the roof of the railroad station as an aid to fliers, but while there was some delay, the Boy Scouts painted it on the roof of the Colonial Garage, and that was considered sufficient.

The only committee report which gave rise to much argument was that dealing with the needs of the Munroe- well School. After the committee had reported that no new sites had been found, the motion to turn over the present building having been turned down last year, a resolution was read by a representative of the Munroewell district recommending that a new committee be appointed by the Munroewell committee to contest the move (over the town meetings) which would represent the vote of the parents of school children. It was added that the present committee had gone to seed. The idea that the committee meetings were merely—poor drainage (which makes up a large part of the worries among other difficulties. Hence the argument followed that the leading of the resolution. A member of the committee was made up and who was to have gone to seed. The support of the committee was almost as enthusiastic against the opposition. An amendment to the motion was adopted which added a list of the present committee to the resolution, so that the citizens might know exactly which of the members of the committee would have to come to seed. The Moderator concluded that the meeting was defeated, but from the present meeting the citizens had that it was usually the "more" shouldered leader. However, the meeting seemed willing to accept the decision of the Moderator.

Next there was a long argument on a motion that certain articles in the way of fruit for the meeting be postponed to a later session. After half an hour, votes were taken on the motion and amended that it had acquired during the discussion. There was a grand deal of un-
