Conference At Geneva Faces Divergent Plans

The Geneva Disarmament Conference has progressed far enough in its attempt to settle the problem of arm reduction and arm limitation to find itself held up on the question of safe guards. All the great powers now have presented their plans for the reduction of armament, as the plan of the Geneva Conference has been drawn up in the conference rooms with the help of anonymous experts, and it is clear that there are two different platforms.

France maintained the parity with Germany proposed by international experts, in the presence of the French police forces and the representatives of the League of Nations under the chairmanship of the French Permanent Commission of the military, and the French military forces are offered the conference's "safe guard." MISS KER lived most of her early life in Mexico, where her father was employed by the Standard Oil Company. There, she taught English in a girls' school in Mexico City, from 1903 to 1908, and in 1912 she moved to Washington, D.C., where she worked as a scientific assistant in the Library of Congress.

The program will consist of a series of special lectures and open discussions. The following Thursday, February 26, 7:30 P.M., to begin with a Forum Dinner.

Speaking of knitting, Perry heard of the new yarns and decided to try some. He finally discovered a store where he could buy them and was greatly pleased with the results. He found that by using the new yarns, he could produce garments that were warmer and more durable than anything he had ever seen before. He was so happy with his new knitting project that he decided to continue it regularly, even after he had finished his thesis.

All of the Perry family members were thrilled with the new knitting project, and they all worked on it together. They held weekly meetings to discuss their progress and to plan new projects. The Perry family became known as the "Perry Knitters," and their work was featured in several local newspapers.

The Perry family's new knitting project was a huge success. They were able to produce beautiful garments that were both practical and stylish. The Perry family continued to knit together throughout the years, and their enthusiasm for the project was an example for many others in the community.
FOR SUNDAY VISITORS

To the Wellesley College News:

In years past it has been the privilege of Wellesley students to see rare items that were in the case outside of the library room. This year, however, the exhibitions that were a regular feature of the fall has never been changed; thus depriving at least an interested group of students of an old habit. In the catalog printed before Chapel and during the afternoon. Since Sunday is the only day many people have a chance to see the building, we think that this suggestion is worthy of attention.

The request should be made immediately; the senior students will have ample time to prepare her applications and return it before March first.

In addition to scholarships and plans in the cooperative houses the Committee considers the possibility of combining some of the efforts of the student and also her academic standing, her self-sufficiency and value as a possible member of the community, her health and her promise of influence for good in the College Club.

The Chairman of the Committee will be glad to talk with any student who wishes to discuss her plans or her year's work and ideas about her plans. Students who desire to consider the opportunity for a place in the various fields of work in the College Club, should use the prescribed scholarship form in making application.

A MAURICIO WRITES NATIONAL DIALOGUE

In an extraordinarily articulate and eloquent article by Adolfo Pastrana on a February number of the Forum, there is a discussion of Col. Mauricio's open letter. It is in the form of a dialogue, between an American Democrat and a Spanish Republican, both giving the opinion and political doctrines of their respective countries.

The two speakers first agree on the necessity of talking over their "common enemies." The American states that the only common enemies of which he is aware are those which are not political but rather those that have been established in the past. The Spanish agrees, but says that these quarrels are destroying the life and work of both countries and asks the American if he does not think it is necessary to have one or two persons in attendance. Special visiting committees for the purpose would not be necessary to have more than one person in attendance. The building and the question would not be necessary to have more than one person in attendance. The building and the question would not be necessary to have more than one person in attendance. clouds. From this first electrical force sprang all, from the meaning of man and the meaning of light and motion. It was the spirit of the world, and they will fail into ordinate line.

Lucy Timpany, Tree Day Mistress, said that the tree planting was all a part of this year's presentation. She will be assisted by her aides, Ernestina Cramb, Alice C. Porter, and Elizabeth Kin.

Tryouts for the donkey will be open to all students in the College, and will be held Wednesday evening and Thursday afternoons and evenings at T.E.F.
FOCUSED ON THE SCREEN

On Thursday, Friday, and Saturday, February 18, 19, and 20, the Community Playhouse will present two special attractions, Act 1 and Charles Pickford in Yuma, and Richard Dix in Tawny. In this latest Grand-Prix feature, Miss Ogden plays the part of a Swiss immigrant girl. The story is a romantic one and based upon the accompanying music, composed for the film by George Curitvath.

Secret Service is a different type of film. It deals as the title implies, with war and spies, in this case the Civil War. The story is based on the stage play by William Gillette.

On Monday, Tuesday, and Wednesday of the following week, the two pictures on the program will be Ben-Hur and Waw Sufw쯩. One of the most interesting features of the program, and one of the most interesting of the season, is that the story of the Katharina, played by Ben-Hur, is the story of a romantic one, and was based upon the accompanying music, composed for the film by George Curitvath.

Around the World in Eighty Minutes is a new type of film. This contains the adventures of Mr. Pickwick's trip around the world.
