PEREGRINATING THOMAS

Perry is impressed. Having spent the years of his life in academic chinos, he somewhat accustomed himself to whatever shoes may avail him. He has learned that Calendar days pass with a somber regularity.

The title seems to have become accredited to the academic life. There is no way of its being extinguished and Charles Dickens. Perry is fully aware that the purpose of the title, so new and unfamiliar, is to be explained. He has not yet been able to. The title sounds like the Latin word for "vain."

Perry feels strengthening himself to tell the news. He has told his family, who have been aghast at the news. They have asked him what he was doing. He explained that he was feeling very well, and his family seemed to believe him.

With the news, he also brought the new title, which is unfamiliar to his family. They have asked him what it means. He explained that it is a Latin word for "vain." They have asked him why he is feeling so well. He explained that he is feeling very well, and his family seemed to believe him.

The news has brought a sense of excitement to Perry's family. They have asked him what he is going to do next. He explained that he is going to continue his academic career.

In the face of more stringent health regulations, smoking in the Wellesley dormitories has been curtailed. The smoking problem has been a recurrent issue at Wellesley, and it is not surprising that the college administration has attempted to address it. The problem is not limited to the college but is a broader issue that affects society at large. The question of whether smoking should be allowed in public spaces and on college campuses is a complex one, involving considerations of personal freedom, public health, and property rights.

CAMPUS CRITIC

The endothelium was injected, and Fred Ahl said, we find There's A Crowd all it has been crinkled up to be a large lump-dimension and much quoted is usually something of a disappointment, but There's A Crowd is the largest and the most attractive event in the season and we have found ourselves unwilling to let its presence pass without commenting. This comment is not made about the size of the audience, but about the quality of the actors. Fred Allen's unsuccessful performances in the past have been mostly due to the fact that he was given weak material on which to work. This was not the case in "There's A Crowd".

As Fred Allen, whose remarks are interesting and amusing, for quotation, and "law I'm going to be trying to make up a lot of this stuff as we go along.
Therby he gives the game a hoopla which it does not need.
Fred Allen has conserved his nature as the Alhambra "revue" that... as Fre Allen would say...is really amusing. The curtain rises on the preliminary back-liners with the notice triangle snapping out the new line. But not for long. Up went Fred Allen with hit revolutionary drama...the drubbing of the bed.
In this revue there will be no bed.
We'll have no bed. So the bed is developed by a couple of busy furniture dealers and the loss of the bed, the conflict between love and duty creates a dramatic cast includes.

As a second feature on the program Husband's Holiday will be shown.
The leading roles are taken by Clive and Vivienne. In 1898 it was played on the stage in Boston by Richard Mansfield, in 1920 it was played again, this time by Henry Brodribb Irving, son of the famous Henry Irving. In 1928 John Bryansmore appeared in the silent film of the story, which is now appearing once more in the new form of a talking film.

AUTHORITY SPEAKS ON ARNOLD'S POEMS

English literature. When the late Professor Charlotte Lewis's death left one of the most notable curators in the Department of English at Yale without a teacher, Mr. Tither took over the course in nineteenth-century poetry and has since published several essays, some of which have been reprinted in The Good Estate of Poetry, concerned with that field. The acquisition by the Library of valuable Arnold manuscripts turned his attention to the need of a complete edition of that poet.

Mr. Tither has twice given addresses here the Phi Beta Kappa address for the Semi-Centennial celebration, and the commencement address in 1926.
Last year he spoke informally to the students in Literature 130.
It's very rare readings from the poets are a series of special interest in New Haven.
This reads is given in connection with the Poets' Readings, though not of that sort of series.
It is requested that the audience arrive before the hour set, so that the speaker need not be disturbed by the confusion of late comers.

STUDENTS' OPINION Sought on SMOKING

The House Chairman shall appoint a committee with, her, shall be responsible for the students' use of the noom.
Each student shall be responsible for using ash trays and disposing of cigarettes. It is suggested that this committee and other students, if they accept the considerate, revise and attend the privilege, and suggest a plan for next semester.
This ruling applies only to the freshman class since their facilities for smoking are improved more and more in need of immediate improvement than are those of the three upper classes. For the upper classmen, on campus, it was decided to hold required house meetings in every campus house as soon as a questionnaire can be made out to present to the houses and by which student opinion is an indication of the best way of limiting the present unnecessary smoking situation may be ascertained.

In a step which involves so thoroughly the entire college, members of faculty felt that they will not be absolutely sure of the wishes of the majority of the college before enacting any legislation on the subject. Any measures that may be passed on smoking, however, will be passed only with the understanding that they are on trial and subject to change should they not prove as successful as is hoped.
