Roosevelt Emphasizes Need of Relief Action

With a deep sense of the gravity of the situation which confronts his administration, President Franklin D. Roosevelt on Saturday pledged himself to action in the field of relief work, and declared that, "This nation seeks for action which will bring it together, to make a joint attack on a problem of the utmost gravity."

The President, in his statement, emphasized that the United States must act with a sense of urgency to prevent the spread of domestic problems, which he contended would lead to a loss of national spirit and morale.

His statement was met with a round of applause from those present, and it was clear that the President's words were well received by the audience.

The President's speech was met with enthusiasm, and it was clear that the American people are ready to do their part in the relief efforts. The President's words were a call to action, and it was clear that the nation is ready to respond.

Spring Day Pay

It seems advisable to postpone the Spring Day Pay until immediate after Spring Vacation, as the present need makes the amount of money necessary to avoid retarding normal operations.

The second half of the students' pay will be due at the close of this Spring Session. No pay will be made for the third week, as the students are urged to plan their payments so as to avoid paying their second installment of the Fee promptly.

The Reputations

Inevitably, we presume, a college must seek publicity, and then be placed in the public eye. The University of Illinois, that the publicity is sub-slade and not truly representative.

The Press has made a kind of student who reads the article in College Yeller, written by an anonymous, entitled "Chicago University." For years, Wednesday girls have been ignored by the reputation. These girls have been known as the "village girls," a word for all the right reasons.

"Women are naturally gifted in getting publicity, but one must feel that no publicity is worse than just not doing anything."

Policy

Annie Clements approach, and the News feels that a word of explanation is due as to why 100 students have not been chosen by the editorial board in the first place. The News feels that it is unfair for the student who has not been chosen. It has not received nearly enough commendable news and the feeling that 100 is being bited.

News has reserved the privilege of choosing his own candidates for various reasons. In the first place, the Editorial Board is made up of girls who have special ability in writing. The News does not have the ability to choose the girls, it must be based on the girl's own ability. In the absence of a faculty, the News feels that all girls who are in the classroom, and are elected, must be chosen by the News. This is not a privilege, it is a necessity.

"We are not interested in the personal opinions of the student body, but we are interested in the opinions that are presented by the student himself."
