6-26-1933

The Wellesley News (06-26-1933)

Wellesley College

Follow this and additional works at: http://repository.wellesley.edu/news

Recommended Citation
http://repository.wellesley.edu/news/953
ALUMNAE HOLD ANNUAL CONFERENCE TO ANNOUNCE YEAR'S ACHIEVEMENTS

Present Large Gift to College Composed of Surplus Funds with Separate Gifts

AWARD MANY PRIZES

The Alumnae holding the reunion the year met at Alumnae Hall at two-thirty on Saturday afternoon for their annual meeting, at which the various officers and committees of the Association reported, and the important business of the Association was concluded.

The most notable achievements of the Alumnae Association during the year, as summed up by the President of the Executive Board, were the bicentennial in the spring, the bicentennial in the summer, and the bicentennial in the fall. These were all attended by large numbers of alumnae, and the Association was able to make good on its promise for the future.

President Names Bequests and Gifts Made This Year

Following the presentation of diplomas and the conferring of degrees, the President Pendleton reported gifts and bequests received by Wellesley this year. The total sum comes to $144,690, included in this amount are the following:

- $27,190 additional amount for the Founders Fund from Miss S. M. Rand, Fund $195,820.
- $1,346 additional amount for the Founders Fund from Miss S. M. Rand, Fund $195,820.
- $1,346 additional amount for the Founders Fund from Miss S. M. Rand, Fund $195,820.
- $1,346 additional amount for the Founders Fund from Miss S. M. Rand, Fund $195,820.

Distinctive Costumes Are Feature of Alumnae Parade

Forerunners of change were visible at Wellesley for their reunions, the various classes held their class flags, the Badminton flag is for the dinners for the dinners, as scattered as were the years of the reunion classes. The class of '29 held its dinner at the Gaston, Willard's, the women in blue and gold, met at Morton and ride letters from the same as the years of the reunion classes. The class of '29 held its dinner at the Gaston, Willard's, the women in blue and gold, met at Morton and ride letters from the same as the years of the reunion classes. The class of '29 held its dinner at the Gaston, Willard's, the women in blue and gold, met at Morton and ride letters from the same as the years of the reunion classes.

Rain Forces Garden Party From Lawn to Alumnae Hall

Not even the gale which forced Miss Pendleton's Garden Party to betake itself to the balcony of Alumnae on Sunday afternoon, June 21, could dampen the enthusiasm of those who met there to renew acquaintance or meet new friends. The Alumnae, Miss Pendleton, Mrs. Irving, Miss Wilson, and members of the committee, assisted by the junior orphans, arranged on the terrace between the library and the east wing, and an orchestra played at intervals from the east portico.

Celebrities Honor Memory Of Woman Poet and Patriot

A letter to the memory of Kathleen Lee Bassin was delivered in the Foyr. Boston, on June 10, at 13 A. M., after a meeting of the Alumnae, in the presence of Miss Bassin's friends, and members of the Alumnae.

Alden Leach gave an address, and the assembly was closed by President Pendleton, delivered by the Wellesley College Choir and the audience closed the program.

The voting and the discussion was conducted by John Francis Pennington, distinc

Senator Votes Smoking Privileges After Ten

That the rule prohibiting smoking after ten o'clock should be revoked in full was seconded by Miss Pendleton. In January, 1933, was the vote of the Senate on the privilege of smoking after ten o'clock. The Senate voted by a majority, and it was agreed that the privilege be revoked in full. No objections were made from that time until the privilege was revoked in full, and it is considered as the will of the General Assembly that the privilege be revoked in full.

No one knows what circumstances in the coming years will be, but whatever they are, the Alumnae Association must be prepared to face them and to overcome them.

One of the greatest works that this group is responsible for is to help the younger generation in their struggle for freedom and the rights of all peoples.

One of the greatest works that this group is responsible for is to help the younger generation in their struggle for freedom and the rights of all peoples.

McDonald Speaks at Exercises Held at Alumnae Hall on Monday Morning

The fifty-fourth annual commencement at Wellesley College took place on June 13, 1933, in Alumnae Hall. The address was given by the Miss Pendleton, A. M. Chairman of the Board of the Principal, University, who stressed in his speech the failure of the younger generation in controlling their own affairs. He pointed to the fact that the sense of responsibility among the younger generation was not yet developed.

In proving that his generation had failed, the speaker emphasized the importance of education. He pointed to the fact that the younger generation had not yet developed the sense of responsibility that was necessary for the successful management of their own affairs. He emphasized the importance of education in developing this sense of responsibility.

Acknowledged as the father of modern educational theory, the speaker pointed out that education was the key to the solution of the younger generation's problems. He stressed the importance of education in developing the sense of responsibility that was necessary for the successful management of their own affairs. He emphasized the importance of education in developing this sense of responsibility.

The revolutionary spirit of the younger generation is evident in the way they are fighting for their rights and against injustice. They are determined to make the world a better place, and they are willing to do whatever it takes to achieve this goal.

McDonald closed with strong arguments on the non-medical and non-economic aspects of the revolution. He emphasized the importance of education in developing the sense of responsibility that was necessary for the successful management of their own affairs. He emphasized the importance of education in developing this sense of responsibility.
large policeman on the corner. She admitted later that she cherished the ambition for four long years.

Once again the classic tragedy has occurred. Sometimes life seems that every college girl, vying for the position of social leader, is training for the position of social leader, is training for a trip to the President’s Reception. After successful preliminary interviews and receiving the report of her good-to-excellent name, the beginning to enter the circle of the Pomona. By the time she had been there, no one else had been there, no one else had heard of her. They chatted loosely on their way down the line, discussing the beauties of the Pomona campus, and so forth. As they approached their designated location, the courier turned to the end of the alphabet, and inquired, “And do you expect to come to Wellesley next year, Miss Abbot?” She answered, “Yes, you are graduating.”

Most of us are inclined to forget the hectic days of Freshman Week. When the campus seemed to be diabolically inspired mass. But occasionally incidents tend to remind us. Two gay young aspirants were returning from the Alumni Procession on Saturday afternoon. Just as they reached the foot of Hope hill, a car drew up. “Pardon me,” remarked a very distressed young person. Despots in his voice. “Do you suppose you could direct me to Wellesley College?”

Thursday morning moccasine of the Freshman Procession at 7:35. Triticum and lupines were blooming, and impressions of the event may be gathered from the thoughts of those who observed the processional. A short moment of inspiration, followed by a rapid muddle. It was all so much fun to say, but it seemed to be an exercise where only one person out of the dozen understood what was being said. From the standpoint of the people who are in the know, it is quite amusing. From the standpoint of the people who are not, it is rather frustrating. Therefore we might as well be content with the results of the event, and enjoy the fun.

The Alumni Office has had many problems to solve on its hands this week-end, but none so trying as the Freshman Procession. The group has been divided into groups of 18 or 20, and the members are then supposed to be responsible for their own group. This is quite a challenge for the incoming class, and it is hoped that all the members of the group will work together to make the event a success.

There have been many requests for information regarding the events of Freshman Week. Some of the more common questions are:

Why did the Freshman Procession take place on Saturday morning? The Procession was held on Saturday morning to allow the freshmen to see the campus and the surrounding area before the main event, the Welcome Banquet, which took place on Saturday evening.

What did the freshmen do during the Procession? During the Procession, the freshmen walked down the hill, passing by the Colleges and dormitories, and entered the Welcome Banquet, where they were introduced to the faculty and other members of the Wellesley community.

The freshman Procession is an important event for the incoming class, as it marks the beginning of their college experience and sets the tone for the rest of their four years. It is a time of excitement and anticipation, as the freshmen look forward to the challenges and opportunities that await them at Wellesley College.
One, By Land--

Two, By Sea

Evil Incarnate

Our Little Sisters

The Glory That Was '33

May the Best Man Win!

Law and Justice
Hail And Farewell

At Commencement time each year comes the time when we must bid farewell to the group of young women who will soon be welcomed to new families in Wellesley. We know what this means for the individual and for the College. It is the beginning of the end for those of us who have known them here, and the beginning of something new for them. We welcome them to the community of the Wellesley family, and we send them out into the world with the best wishes and blessings of the College. And we look forward to seeing them again in the future, perhaps as alumnae.

The departure of these young women is not without its sadness, but it is also a cause for joy and celebration. It is the end of an era for some, and the beginning of a new chapter for others. It is a time of transition, a time of change, and a time of hope.

And so we bid them farewell, knowing that they will be missed, but also knowing that they will be successful in whatever they choose to do. We wish them all the best in their future endeavors, and we look forward to seeing them again in the future.

The change in the membership of the Wellesley College community is not without its sadness, but it is also a cause for joy and celebration. It is the end of an era for some, and the beginning of a new chapter for others. It is a time of transition, a time of change, and a time of hope.

And so we bid them farewell, knowing that they will be missed, but also knowing that they will be successful in whatever they choose to do. We wish them all the best in their future endeavors, and we look forward to seeing them again in the future.

The change in the membership of the Wellesley College community is not without its sadness, but it is also a cause for joy and celebration. It is the end of an era for some, and the beginning of a new chapter for others. It is a time of transition, a time of change, and a time of hope.

And so we bid them farewell, knowing that they will be missed, but also knowing that they will be successful in whatever they choose to do. We wish them all the best in their future endeavors, and we look forward to seeing them again in the future.

The change in the membership of the Wellesley College community is not without its sadness, but it is also a cause for joy and celebration. It is the end of an era for some, and the beginning of a new chapter for others. It is a time of transition, a time of change, and a time of hope.

And so we bid them farewell, knowing that they will be missed, but also knowing that they will be successful in whatever they choose to do. We wish them all the best in their future endeavors, and we look forward to seeing them again in the future.

The change in the membership of the Wellesley College community is not without its sadness, but it is also a cause for joy and celebration. It is the end of an era for some, and the beginning of a new chapter for others. It is a time of transition, a time of change, and a time of hope.

And so we bid them farewell, knowing that they will be missed, but also knowing that they will be successful in whatever they choose to do. We wish them all the best in their future endeavors, and we look forward to seeing them again in the future.
RACCALAURATE VESPERS

One of the most impressive and beautiful of the Commencement events was the Raccalaurate Vespers. At the signal of the bugle, the entire crowd of seniors and graduates assembled in the chapel. The service was conducted by Marjorie Munson, who directed the choir, and Miss Alice Bowers, who served as organist. Music was furnished by the orchestra under the direction of Miss Bower, who also conducted the choir.

The program was based on the theme of "The College Experience," and it was designed to bring together the many different aspects of college life into a single, cohesive experience. The service concluded with a benediction, and the graduates were dismissed with the words of encouragement from the presidents of the senior class, "May your future be as bright as your past has been."
BIBLIOGRAPHY

The House of Elysium by Nora Wain Little, Brookline and Boston, 2132

B. is a more acute observer than any other writer of social custom, and brings it to the experience of most Americans the unique interest of a guest or a Queen in her own Chinaman's homestead.

The House of Elysium, ancestral home of that branch of the Elysium Club that was established in the house, traded during the latter eighteen and early nineteenth centuries, was a home of Philadelphia. In 1604, Nora Wain, one of the longest-serving members of the club, to interest in the family of Lit by the discou-

There is a story of one of her delight at the exhibits of the United States Census, in which was recorded the membership inside the city of the Quakers from the States. It is the story of interest that once once occurred by an audience of the' Chinese

Three of those three stories will probably be held at Wellesley on Saturday after-

There is a story of one of the ancient homes of the community, by an audience of the Chinese

Additional Details:

The average time spent on daily paper is 35 minutes, and on Sunday paper 65 minutes, and the number of subscribers shows an increase, in the case of the Times of 1932, and in the case of the Herald-Tribune of 1932, over last year's rates.

Dr. Tweedy cites triple challenge

(Continued From Page 1, Col. 4)

Not to be outdone, we do not show ourselves the masters.

Success in meeting these challenges is in our ability to relate ourselves to the hidden powers which sets rulers upon things. Together with this we will not only be able to serve personal interests and see that justice is done. Dr. Tweedy believes that a right application of the law for God and law for man might solve many problems.

In conclusion, Dr. Tweedy said that the only kind of "canonical" work which is in one in which we have to work is to work something. The true present fails us to set rulers upon existing conditions and offers a wonderful chance to live because there are so many challenges and opportunities to make things better.

The results of the recent college-wide questionnaire on daily newspapers and make up, interesting and readable daily.

All considered, the Book Reviewers of the Magazine are the Drama Section's

The most outstanding features in both papers

The average time spent on daily paper is 35 minutes, and on Sunday paper 65 minutes, and the number of subscribers shows an increase, in the case of the Times of 1932, and in the case of the Herald-Tribune of 1932, over last year's rates.

SHEAF STATES FOR LATE PAYMENTS

(Continued From Page 1, Col. 3)

Payments shall be received at the Sheaf office, 601 East Michigan Avenue, and will be applied to the account of the subscriber.

The student's account shall be maintained at a balance of $5.00 or less

Dr. Tweedy cites triple challenge

(Continued From Page 1, Col. 4)

Not to be outdone, we do not show ourselves the masters.

Success in meeting these challenges is in our ability to relate ourselves to the hidden powers which sets rulers upon things. Together with this we will not only be able to serve personal interests and see that justice is done. Dr. Tweedy believes that a right application of the law for God and law for man might solve many problems.

In conclusion, Dr. Tweedy said that the only kind of "canonical" work which is in one in which we have to work is to work something. The true present fails us to set rulers upon existing conditions and offers a wonderful chance to live because there are so many challenges and opportunities to make things better.

The results of the recent college-wide questionnaire on daily newspapers

and make up, interesting and readable daily.

All considered, the Book Reviewers of the Magazine are the Drama Section's