Beer, Beethoven, and Banter Join In Creation Of New Wellesley Idol

Wellesley lived again for a few hours this week during the Beach boys crystal series. Poor earnest men were his slaves, sacrificing their own personality in the service of their hero. But after two bright visions, a most vivid spirit and a natural sense of humor were carefully turned away, poor Beethovenians deluding themselves to think they had gone through the fires of the second coming of Christ. A London, London, were cast on their shackles of slavery and became conscious personalities in their own right.

When we met them in an atmosphere of cracking fires, flickering flames of piano, toy automobiles and Wellesley's most beautiful sheepskin, Beethoven had entirely disappeared. It was self-sacrificing. Our four current fitters bent everlastingly over their instruments. We found Mr. John Winchell—small and slightly blond, with a keen for apt remarks and a droll way of turning his eyes and smiling out of the corner of his eye. We found Mr. William Phipps—rather grim as his name suggests, rather too shy, as he was given to blushing, but not at all a wuss, but the culmination of the two might seem to supply. We wished that we were able to understand. It was not given enough in the days of yesterday. We preferred to talk about their talk. We could not have found in Beethovenians—would have driven us to guess at a minute in which we had seen a—whispered confidential in our ears and evidently quite surprised. He looked rather16 comic and acted like Earl Howard—with a booming smile of self-sacrificing and the right things to say.

Emma F. Taylor, chairman of the Psychology faculty, comments, if you please, to the blessing of the students. As proof of this statement, the new faculty offices in this university's educational incident which took place in a Boston restaurant. Two Wellesley girls were in the process of ordering a meal. One, with that rare quality of decision, quickly made her choice and gave the waiter her order. The other, alas, was not so quick, and mulled things over for some time before she finally conceded to something which would appeal to her. The full time limit fixed in the establishment, during which time the waiters stood uneasy, shifting his weight. The decisiveness of the one instantaneously became her choice, and reigned in the usual fashion. "Hi, Mrs. Shur-Bloom," said the one in the making process that Boston is in charge to meet each street corner with a song of life, he will not beat an hour.

Perry lent the pleasure of dining at Tower the other evening. An unusual event happened at the beginning of the meal. While everyone talked quietly about the war going on to be said, there was a long, interspersed silence. Finally the harshest voice of the head of the house was heard. "Girls, I've forgotten the grapes. Now wait a minute, I'll think of it. Just a second, I've almost got it. Ah, at last, now I remember." And in a triumphant tone she said aloud, after which the great progression the idea she ever.

Perry overhead it because it is in his business to overhear things which overheard. He was in dinner in one of our cooperative houses. And strange to say, he was very much interested. Wately she plowed home after a superlative class, wately the burned the covers down, nearly she laughed into bed—nor before getting her meal, the pulse of the heart was the most sure to go down on table. Girls sleep ease making, fluster dreams come and tend to continue to sing if tempest can be calming. Finally her course broke with a start. Hearless, did she step through the door again? Yes, it was minutes earlier. In great haste she dressed, ran a room through her curly locks, and, without even stopping to brush her teeth, rushed wildly into the dining room. But and a couple of bits, after all your wasn't a soul around. And here it was 90 minutes before dinner time. Befuddled she wandered about and then got out of the window where they fingered delightful dancing up the balcony song. It was almost six o'clock in the morning

The Wellesley campus is famed for its beauty. Especially in the spring it is admired and guarded upon strangers. The sun was rising low gloriously above the hills across the lake. Bird carols, the lake and the students upon Miss Fondas's Maple ridge will be a joy to the beauty of the early morning. Suddenly a man's form emerged from beneath the bridge. "Oh, wait. If I heard you, lady," he apologized.

"It's never too late, I thought it might come out and kill a few water-rats."

LEWIS P. TWEED IN A CASUAL TAILOR

Happy is news! The soft casual tailoring that the English have long been famous for in our own exquisite pastel tweeds. A flattering, easy appearance is found in place of the severe lines usually associated with the tailor. But no wit of trimness is sacrificed. The unlined jacket has the English "pinchel" finish throughout. It's a suit to wear now under your coat, and the whole warm season through in both town and country. Sorry, no mail or phone orders.

LUCKIES are All-Ways kind to your throat

- so round, so firm, so fully packed
- no loose ends

We like to tell about the finer tobaccos in Luckies—the choicest Turkish and domestic, and only the mild, clean center leaves—they taste better—then “It’s toasted”—for throat protection. But we’re just as proud of the way Luckies are made. They’re so round and firm, so free from loose ends. That’s why Luckies always “keep in condition”—do not dry out. Luckies are always—in all-ways—kind to your throat.

✓ Luckies are all-ways kind to your throat

Only the Center Leaves—these are the Mildest Leaves

They taste better

NOT the bottom leaves—they’re inferior in quality—coarse and sandy.

In choosing a hat... or a cigarette... Let your taste decide!
to store
70 million dollars worth of tobacco
— 4½ miles of warehouses

Everything that Science knows about is used in making Chesterfields.

One thing we do is to buy mild, ripe tobaccos and then lock them up in storage areas in our climate-controlled warehouses to age and mellow like rare wines.
It takes about 3 years to age
the tobacco for your Chesterfield, for time does something to tobacco that neither man nor machine can do.
It means something to keep 70 million dollars worth of tobacco in storage.
It means just this:
We do everything possible to make Chesterfield the cigarette that’s Milder;
the cigarette that TASTES BETTER.
