Inquiries, Visits, and Correspondence

Wellesley welcomes inquiries and visits to the College from prospective students, their parents, and other interested individuals. For those who would like more detailed information on many of the programs and opportunities described in this catalog, the College publishes a number of brochures and booklets. These publications, as well as answers to any specific questions, may be obtained by writing to the appropriate office as listed.

For those who would like to visit the College the administrative offices in Green Hall are open, Monday through Friday, 8:30 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. The Board of Admission is open on most Saturday mornings during the academic term. With the exception of a few holidays, arrangements can usually be made for Wellesley students to meet with prospective students during the College’s vacation periods. Student guides provide scheduled tours for visitors without appointments. However, visitors should check the schedule online at www.wellesley.edu/Admission/admission/campustours.html or call the Board of Admission prior to coming to Wellesley to obtain information regarding scheduled tours. A prospective student who wishes to arrange an interview with a member of the Board of Admission should make an appointment at least two weeks in advance.

Accommodations for alumnae and for parents of students or prospective students are available on the campus in the Wellesley College Club and may be reserved by calling the College Club at 781-283-2700.

Please visit our Web site: www.wellesley.edu/admission to learn more about Wellesley before you arrive on campus. For directions, go to www.wellesley.edu/admission/admission/visiting.html.

The College

The mission of Wellesley College is to provide an excellent liberal arts education for women who will make a difference in the world.

Wellesley is a college for the student who has high personal, intellectual, and professional expectations. Beyond this common ground, there is no typical Wellesley student. Students come from all over the world, from different cultures and backgrounds, and they have prepared for Wellesley at hundreds of different secondary schools. Through the Davis Degree Program, women beyond the traditional college age, many with families, are part of the student body working toward a Wellesley degree. Women and men from other colleges and universities study at Wellesley through various exchange programs.

This diversity is made possible, in large part, by the College’s need-blind admission policy. Students are accepted without consideration of their ability to pay. Once admitted, those with demonstrated need receive financial aid through a variety of services.

Henry Fowle Durant, Wellesley’s founder, was an impassioned believer in educational opportunity for women. His strong philosophy carries over to the present day. Throughout its 129-year history Wellesley has been one of the country’s preeminent liberal arts colleges, and a distinguished leader in the education of women.

In some respects, the liberal arts curriculum at Wellesley has changed little since the College was founded. Though the structure of distribution requirements has evolved, the requirement that each student should be acquainted with the main fields of human interest has remained a constant. The concept of the major—the opportunity for each student to establish mastery in a single area through concentrated study during her junior and senior years—has remained consistent as well. The College is committed to this framework because it emphasizes the essence of education: the ability to speak and write clearly, the knowledge to manage quantitative data with ease, the confidence to approach new material, and the capacity to make critical judgments. These skills are essential—whatever the student chooses to do with her life.
Within this traditional liberal arts framework, the Wellesley curriculum is dynamic and responsive to social change and new fields of study. The dramatic expansion of information of the last decades has led to an increasingly interdisciplinary course of study. Single majors in traditional disciplines have been joined by double majors and specially designed interdisciplinary and interdepartmental majors. Some departments also offer minors.

One of the first liberal arts colleges to establish a separate computer science department and computer science major, Wellesley remains at the forefront of technological development. Students and faculty in all disciplines use the College's academic computing facilities in their courses and research. The Knapp Media and Technology Center provides state-of-the-art technology for students in courses ranging from multimedia language instruction to graphic arts.

The well-known Wellesley Centers for Women, composed of the Center for Research on Women and the Stone Center for Developmental Services and Studies, produce work of national importance about issues facing women in contemporary society.

The Wellesley-MIT cross-registration program allows students to combine the strengths of both institutions while remaining in residence on their own campuses. Students can complement their Wellesley majors with additional MIT courses in a variety of subjects including architectural design, urban planning, linguistics, financial accounting, computer science, engineering, mathematics, and the sciences.

The Twelve College Exchange Program brings women and men from member colleges to Wellesley for a semester or a year, and enables Wellesley students to live and study on another campus. The College also offers exchanges with nearby Brandeis University, Babson College, and Olin College of Engineering; Spelman College, a Black liberal arts college in Atlanta, Georgia; and Mills College in Oakland, California. In addition, Wellesley students are encouraged to spend a semester or a year abroad in programs at many institutions. Approximately 40% of Wellesley College students elect to spend a semester or year abroad.

The Wellesley faculty is a community of recognized scholars. They include scientists, artists, and political and economic analysts. Dedicated to teaching, they bring a vast range of academic and professional interests to the College. Many members of the faculty live on or near the campus. They are committed to all aspects of life in the Wellesley community and are available to students outside of the classroom.

There is one faculty member for every nine students. The average class size ranges from 17 to 20 students. A few popular introductory courses enroll more than 100, but these classes routinely break into small discussion groups under the direction of a faculty member. Seminars typically bring together 15 to 18 students and a professor to investigate clearly defined areas of interest. The low student-faculty ratio offers an opportunity for students to undertake individual work with faculty or honors projects and research.

Excellent academic facilities support learning at Wellesley. Students have access to virtually all the collections on campus through a computerized library system totaling over 1.5 million items. The holdings include more than 200 electronic databases; 11,000 electronic journals; 22,000 electronic books; 7,000 films on VHS and DVD; and 7,000 music CDs. Among the special holdings are a world-renowned Browning Collection, a Book Arts Collection, and a Rare Book Collection. Interlibrary loans through the Boston Library Consortium augment the College's own holdings.

Wellesley's strength in the sciences dates to the nineteenth century, when the College's physics laboratory was the second in the country (the first being MIT). The Science Center brings together all the science departments, including mathematics and computer science, in a contemporary setting that fosters interdisciplinary discussion and study. Laboratories are completely equipped for a wide variety of fields. The Center also includes an observatory and an extensive complex of greenhouses.

Students in the arts find excellent facilities in the Jewett Arts Center and the Davis Museum and Cultural Center. Wellesley recognizes that classroom activities and studying are only part of a college education. The residence hall system not only provides a pleasant and comfortable place to live but seeks to integrate academic and extracurricular life through educational programs. Residence life is administered in several ways, ranging from residence halls staffed by professional resident directors to student-run cooperatives.

For many students, the lessons learned competing on the athletic field, publishing the Wellesley News, or participating in a Wellesley-sponsored summer internship in Washington, D.C. have lifelong impact. The College encourages self-expression through over 160 established student organizations, as well as any interest that a student may choose to pursue alone or with a group of friends. Wellesley also supports those students who investigate religious issues and thought. The Office of Religious and Spiritual Life offers religious programs in many faiths, including denominational services for those who wish to participate.

As a small community, Wellesley's quality of life depends upon the involvement and commitment of each of its constituents. For this reason, students participate in decision making in nearly every aspect of College life. They serve, frequently as voting members, on almost every major committee of the Board of Trustees, including the Investment Committee, as well as the Academic Council, the Board of Admission, and the Committee on Curriculum and Instruction. In academic departments, they frequently participate in the curriculum and faculty search committees. They also serve on committees that set policy for residential life.

Established in 1901 by student and faculty agreement, the Wellesley College Government Association is the official organization of all Wellesley students. Through Senate, its elected representative body, College Government officers are elected each spring on a campus-wide basis; Senate representatives are elected from each residence hall and from the Davis Scholars and Wellesley off-campus students.

Each student who comes to Wellesley College joins an extended community of alumnae. Some of them have been outstanding scholars and researchers, others have been businesswomen and leaders in politics and social issues, still others have made important contributions to their communities through volunteer work. No matter how they have chosen to make their mark in the world, these women have proven that four years at Wellesley College is just a beginning.
The Campus

Located just 12 miles west of Boston, Wellesley’s 500-acre campus of woodlands, hills, meadows, an arboretum, ponds, miles of footpaths, fitness trails, and athletic fields and facilities borders scenic Lake Waban. The 68 buildings on campus range in architectural style from Gothic to contemporary.

Facilities and Resources

State-of-the-art academic facilities, ranging from creative arts media to advanced scientific research equipment support Wellesley’s curriculum. These facilities are available to all students.

Classrooms

The three primary classroom buildings on campus are Founders Hall for the humanities, Pendleton Hall for the social sciences and arts, and the Science Center.

Science Center

The Science Center houses the Departments of Astronomy, Biological Sciences, Chemistry, Computer Science, Geosciences, Mathematics, Physics, and Psychology, as well as several interdepartmental programs. The Center includes up-to-date teaching and research laboratories, extensive computer facilities, and modern classrooms. The Science Library contains more than 110,000 volumes, maintains subscriptions to more than 725 paper journals and periodicals with additional journals in electronic format, and provides access to online databases.

Sage Hall, the College’s original science building, dates to 1927. The Science Center, encompassing Sage Hall and new construction, was built in 1977 and won the Halston Parker Prize for architecture in 1987. Renovations and additions to the Science Center were done in 1991. The Center contains a variety of state-of-the-art instrumentation including: a confocal microscope, two NMR spectrometers (one with a micro-IR accessory), a MALDI-TOF mass spectrometer, energy dispersive X-ray fluorescence spectrometers, microcalorimeters, an automated capillary DNA sequencer, a high-power pulsed tunable laser, and a 16-node supercomputer equipped with state-of-the-art bioinformatics tools. For more information, visit our Web site: www.wellesley.edu/ScienceCenter/mainpage1.html.

Botanic Gardens

The Botanic Gardens represent a historically significant component of the College’s campus. Dating from 1922, the Margaret C. Ferguson Greenhouses contain a diverse array of exotic plants representing various climatic regions from around the world. The 22 acres of the Hunnewell Arboretum and the Alexander Botanic Garden showcase an extensive collection of hardy trees and shrubs for New England, many having been planted in the early twentieth century. All of the collections support courses and research in the biological sciences. The Gardens are an outstanding teaching facility and community resource visited by thousands each year. For more information visit our Web site: www.wellesley.edu/FOH/home.html.

Observatory

The Whitin Observatory contains laboratories, classrooms, a darkroom, and the Astronomy Library. Its research equipment includes 6-, 12-, and 24-inch telescopes, state-of-the-art electronics, and computers. The observatory was a gift of Mrs. John C. Whizin, a former trustee of the College. Built in 1900, and enlarged in 1906 and 1966, it is considered an unusually fine facility for undergraduate training in astronomy.

Computer Facilities

Students have access to hundreds of computers in computing labs, classrooms, and residence hall computing rooms. Advanced computing and multimedia equipment and software are available in the Knapp Media and Technology Center, located in the Margaret Clapp Library. Wellesley’s ResNet provides support to students who use the high-speed, campus-wide network from their own rooms to access electronic resources both on campus and around the world. These resources include: the College Web site; the library online catalog and full-text electronic resources; centralized E-mail and conferencing provided via FirstClass®; Element K® online courses for desktop applications, and an array of instructional software. For more information visit our Web site: www.wellesley.edu/Computing/computing.html.

Knapp Media and Technology Center

The Knapp Media and Technology Center, located in the Margaret Clapp Library, contains 43 computer workstations capable of viewing and digitizing audio and video, scanning printed images, slides, film and negatives and creating digital images and animations; audio and video-production studios; a video-conferencing site; three computer and media-equipped project rooms; two video-editing sites; a large format printer; and other multimedia equipment and software.

Information Services staff assist faculty, students, and staff in the use of these resources and collaborate in the development of multimedia projects.

The Knapp Center also provides support for course reserves, laptops, cameras, and other equipment for check-out.

For more information see www.wellesley.edu/Knapp.

Jewett Arts Center and Pendleton West

The Jewett Arts Center consists of the Mary Cooper Jewett art wing and the Margaret Weyerhaeuser Jewett music wing. The art wing consists of classrooms, studios, photography darkrooms, video and computer facilities, art gallery, art library, and visual resources collection. The newly renovated Jewett sculpture court is used for exhibiting, gathering, and as a student workspace and lounge (enhanced by its wireless accessible capabilities). The music wing holds the music library, listening rooms, practice studios, classrooms, and a collection of musical instruments from various periods available for the student’s use. Music performances, theatre events, lectures, and symposia can be held in the Jewett Auditorium, a 320-seat theatre. The arts facilities of Pendleton West include drawing and painting studios, a sculpture foundry, a printmaking facility, and a concert salon. A bridge links the Jewett Arts Center to the Davis Museum and Cultural Center.

The Knapp Social Science Center

The Knapp Social Science Center at Pendleton Hall East opened in January 2001. The new Center was created to integrate the social sciences and to provide instructional space that is varied in design and layout. The physical space includes case-study classrooms, computer classrooms with individual student workstations, seminar rooms, and a video-conferencing facility. In addition to research facilities for faculty and students, an archaeology laboratory and a media laboratory were added which function as extended teaching areas. Public spaces include a viewing room equipped with a large TV/VCR/DVD set-up, wireless computing capability and a two-story atrium with bleachers and informal seating. The Center was given by Betsy Wood Knapp ’64 and her husband Clean Knapp.

The Davis Museum and Cultural Center
The Davis Museum and Cultural Center is the art museum of Wellesley College. As a vital force in the intellectual and pedagogical life of the College, the museum collects, preserves, exhibits, and interprets art in the belief that contact with original works of art is an essential component of a liberal arts education and a key factor for understanding the world in which we live. Located in the center of the campus, the museum offers innovative exhibitions, technology-based installations, lectures, symposia, films, concerts, performances, publications as well as interdisciplinary projects that are developed in collaboration with faculty. In addition, the museum provides a range of internships in the arts on campus, throughout the country and in Europe.

The four-story facility includes spacious galleries for the museum’s permanent collection that spans the 3,000 years of art history, temporary exhibition galleries, cinema, and café.

For additional information, visit the DMCC Web site: www.davismuseum.wellesley.edu.

Margaret Clapp Library
Wellesley College Library received the nation-wide “Excellence in Academic Libraries” award. The combined Clapp, Art, Astronomy, Music, and Science collections number over 1.5 million. The library’s physical holdings are supplemented by a wealth of online materials and through resource-sharing with the Boston Library Consortium.

Among the Library’s notable features are the College Archives, the Book Arts Lab, where typography and letterpress printing are taught, and the Special Collections, which contain rare books and manuscripts that support student research.

Research and Instruction specialists staff service desks, help with in-depth research, and schedule hands-on sessions for professors and their classes.

All of the libraries offer workstations with elbow room, quiet and comfortable study space, help from knowledgeable staff, and information to enhance life and learning. Visit our Web site: www.wellesley.edu/Library for details.

Residence Halls
Residence halls are grouped in three areas of the campus: Bates, Freeman, McAfee, Simpson West, Cedar Lodge, Dower, French House, Homestead, Instead, and Stone-Davis are near the Route 16 entrance to the campus; Tower Court, Severance, Cervantes, Lake, and Claffin are situated off College Road in the center of the campus; and Shafer, Pomeroy, Cazenove, Beebe, and Munger are located by the Route 135 entrance to the College. For more information visit our Web site: www.wellesley.edu/FirstYear/residence.html.

Continuing Education House
A “home on campus” for Elisabeth Kaiser Davis Scholars and Postbaccalaureate students, as well as for nonresident students of traditional age, the CE House is a place where students gather for programs, meetings, group study, or simply conversation. The Office of Continuing Education is located here. For more information visit our Web site: www.wellesley.edu/CE.

Child Study Center
The Child Study Center, a laboratory preschool under the direction of the psychology department, was originally designed in 1913 as a school for young children. Students and faculty from any discipline can study, observe, conduct approved research, volunteer, or assist teach in classes with children ages two to five. In addition to the observation and testing booths in the historic Anne Page Building, there is a Developmental Laboratory at the Science Center.

Nannerl Overholser Keohane Sports Center
Classes for all indoor sports, aquatics, fitness, and dance are conducted in the Nannerl Overholser Keohane Sports Center, which includes an eight-lane competition swimming pool; badminton, squash, and racquetball courts; two weight rooms; exercise/dance/yoga studios; volleyball courts; and an athletic training area. The Field House has a basketball/volleyball arena, two cardiovascular machine areas, indoor tennis courts, and a 200-meter track. Outdoor water sports focus around the boathouse on Lake Waban, where the canoes, sailboats, and crew shells are kept. Wellesley maintains a nine-hole golf course; eight tennis courts; soccer fields; an artificial-turf field hockey/lacrosse field; a recreation field; a 10-lane track and a softball field. For more information visit our Web site: www.wellesley.edu/Athletics/main.html.

Alumnae Hall
The largest auditorium on the campus, Alumnae Hall seats more than 1,300 people and contains a large ballroom as well as the Ruth Nagel Jones Theatre. Wellesley alumnae gave this building to the College in 1923.

Chapel
Presented to Wellesley in 1897 by the son and daughter of William S. Houghton, a former College trustee, the Houghton Memorial Chapel hosts weekly religious and spiritual services, musical performances, lectures, and other College community gatherings. Stained glass windows commemorate the founders and a tablet by Daniel Chester French honors Alice Freeman Palmer, Wellesley’s second president. A smaller multi-faith Chapel, Muslim prayer room, and Buddhist/Hindu meditation room are located on the ground floor level.

Schneider Center
Schneider Center houses the following offices: College Government; the Student Programming Board; Wellesley News; Legenda, the college yearbook; and WZLY. Several multicultural organizations have offices on the third and fourth floors. Other facilities and offices in Schneider include a Student Leadership Resource Center; a lounge and kosher kitchen for Hillel; Office of Religious and Spiritual Life; the Offices of the Asian Advisor and the Latina Advisor; the Advisor to Lesbian, Transsexual and Transgendered Students; the Office of Residential Life; and the Office of Student Activities.

Harambee House
The cultural and social center for Wellesley students of African descent, Harambee House offers programs to the entire College community that highlight various aspects of African, African American, and African Caribbean culture. Harambee has a growing library dedicated to the history and culture of African and African American peoples and a library of classical jazz by Black artists, which is located in the Jewett Music Library. Harambee House also houses various organizations for students of African descent, and Ethos Woman (a literary magazine), as well as meeting and function rooms. For more information, visit our Web site: www.wellesley.edu/Harambee/index.html.

Slater International Center
Headquarters for international activities, Slater International Center is dedicated to encouraging greater understanding among all cultures through personal association and cooperative endeavor. The Center serves campus organizations, academic and administrative departments that have an interest in international issues and helps sponsor seminars and speakers. The Office of the Advisor to International Students and Scholars is located in the Center. The advisor counsels international students, advises international organizations, and handles immigration matters for students and faculty. The Center also coordinates a peer advising group of international students to help newcomers adjust to the United States. International students can also use the Center to study and meet informally. For more information visit our Web site: www.wellesley.edu/SICISS/sic.html.

Society Houses
Wellesley has three society houses: Shakespeare House, for students interested in Shakespearean drama; Tau Zeta Epsilon House, for students interested in art and music; and Zeta Alpha House, for students interested in literature. Each has kitchen and dining facilities, a living room, and other gathering areas. Phi Sigma is a society that promotes intelligent interest in cultural and public affairs.

Green Hall
The offices of the president, the board of admission, the deans, and others directly affecting the academic and business management of the College are located in Green Hall. Named for Hetty H.R. Green, the building was erected in 1931. The hall’s Galen Stone Tower, a focal point of the campus, rises to 182 feet and houses the carillon which is played for major College events.

Infirmary
Simpson Infirmary, a licensed outpatient clinic and infirmary, is an institutional member of the American College Health Association.

President’s House
Formerly the country estate of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Fowle Durant, Wellesley’s founders, the President’s House is located on a hill bordering Lake Waban just south of the main campus. It is frequently the site of alumnae and trustee gatherings, and events for faculty, staff, and students throughout the year.

Wellesley College Club
A center for faculty, staff, and alumnae, the Wellesley College Club’s reception and dining areas are open for lunch and dinner to members, their guests, and parents of students. Overnight accommodations are available for all members, alumnae, and parents of current and prospective students. For more information visit our Web site: www.wellesley.edu/Collegeclub.

Wellesley Centers for Women
The Wellesley Centers for Women (WCW) has been a driving force, both behind the scenes and in the spotlight, promoting positive change for women and girls for more than 30 years. The world’s largest women’s research center, the WCW unites the Center for Research on Women and the Stone Center for Developmental Services and Studies in an interdisciplinary community of scholars engaged in research, training, analysis and action.

Sustained by private and public funding, WCW work focuses on the education, employment, family life, wellness, and rights of women and children from all walks of life. WCW has also published The Women’s Review of Books. The WCW was instituted in 1974 under the name Center for Research on Women by a grant from the Carnegie Corporation. The Stone Center for Developmental Services and Studies, founded in 1981 with a gift from Grace W. and Robert S. Stone, is dedicated to the prevention of psychological problems, the enhancement of psychological well-being, and the search for a better understanding of human development. The Stone Center fulfills this mission through education, research, community outreach, and counseling with a particular focus on culturally diverse populations.

Student Life
Educating the whole person is key to the Wellesley experience. The College offers many opportunities for a student to develop socially, culturally, personally, and intellectually. Learning and living in a diverse community fosters self-confidence, communication and leadership skills, and a sense of social responsibility that extends beyond the classroom. Participation in student organizations, volunteer programs, and college governance creates solid friendships that support Wellesley students during their college years and throughout their lives.

Wellesley sponsors 160 student organizations that reflect many interests including ethnic, social, political, service, and religious interests. More than 20 multicultural organizations include the Slater International Association; Mezcla, an association for Latina students; Ethos, an organization of Black students; the Asian Student Union, composed of Asian and Asian American students; and the Korean American Student Association. Religious groups such as the Newman Club, the Wellesley Christian Fellowship, Hillel, Al-Mushimat, and Ministry to Black Women offer many programs throughout the year. Students produce a number of publications, including: Wellesley News, the weekly student newspaper; Ethos Woman, a literary magazine that represents women of African descent; GenerAsia, a magazine by and about the Asian/Asian American community; and Legenda, the College yearbook. An all-student staff operates WZLY, the campus radio station.

Students are encouraged to reach beyond the Wellesley community. The Center for Work and Service Internship Office lists many opportunities for public and community service in government agencies and nonprofit organizations in the greater Boston area. In addition, the Community Service Center coordinates student groups that work with youth services, the elderly, the Easter Seal Swim Program, the Boston Food Bank, Habitat for Humanity, and Rosie’s Place, a shelter for homeless women.

Athletics has become a significant part of life at Wellesley. Students are frequent trophy winners in NCAA, Division III, and other intercollegiate events in the College's 11 programs including basketball, softball, cross-country running, fencing, field and water sports. For students interested in sports for recreation, there are opportunities in club sports such as softball, sailing, table tennis, skiing, and rugby as well as nontraditional athletics including yoga, dance, and scuba diving. The Nannerl Overholser Keohan Sports Center provides state-of-the-art facilities for competition sports (see The Campus for details). Lake Waban is used for water sports and Paramecium Pond for ice skating.

Traditionally the arts are an essential part of the Wellesley experience. Students with musical interests can explore the Wellesley College Orchestra, the Prism Jazz Ensemble, Yanvoulu Dance and Drum Ensemble, the Tupelos, the Blue Notes, the Toons, the Widows, Graceful Harmony, the Guild of Carillonneurs, and the MIT Orchestra. Those with theatrical interests can choose from the Wellesley College Theatre and the Shakespeare Society. At the Jewett Arts Center’s Student Gallery, students can exhibit their work or organize and curate shows. To take advantage of the extensive opportunities offered by the Boston Museum of Fine Arts whose collections accord it a world ranking, free entry has been purchased for all students thanks to the generosity of Marion Burr Sober ’30.

An important extension of both social and academic life, technology is integral to the Wellesley experience. The entire College community exchanges ideas and information on Wellesley’s electronic bulletin boards. Every student has access to the campus-wide network in her dorm room, which includes E-mail and electronic bulletin boards— as well as research opportunities on campus and via the Internet. In addition, clusters of PCs and Macintoshes are located in every residence hall and the Knapp Media and Technology Center in the main library. All students also have voice-mail boxes from which they can receive telephone messages.

A number of traditional social events have become part of life at Wellesley: Junior Show, Family and Friends Weekend, Spring Weekend, and International Week are supplemented by frequent informal parties.

There are a variety of social centers on campus. The new Lulu Wang Campus Center, scheduled to open the beginning of the fall semester, will be a focal point of community activities. Slater International Center is the frequent setting for international and multicultural events and celebrations. Harambee House, the social and cultural center of Wellesley’s African American community, sponsors lectures and music and dance performances. Lectures and cultural programs are also presented by many other student organizations. The Davis Museum and Cultural Center, with its Collins Cinema and Café, is a place to relax with friends, view domestic and international films, and listen to lectures and live performances.

Residential Life
Wellesley’s residential life system fosters a sense of community through student self-government and program planning. The majority of Wellesley students live in one of the 21 residence halls. The College provides counseling, religious, and health services to support the physical and mental well-being of residential and off-campus students. For the health and comfort of our students, employees, and guests, smoking is not permitted in any of the residence halls.

Residence Halls
Much of campus life and informal education revolves around the residence halls. Planned programs and daily interaction with students from diverse lifestyles and cultural backgrounds offer Wellesley students a rich learning environment outside the classroom. The residence experience usually includes lectures, group discussions, meals with faculty members, and social events with students from other colleges.

Each residence hall has a distinctive character and structure. Resident Directors, professionals trained in working with young women and issues that arise from living in a small community, staff 15 of the larger halls (most housing 120-140 students). Each Resident Director is a liaison to the College community, and supervises a residence staff that includes a Resident Assistant on each floor of the building and a House President. The Resident Assistants and House Presidents are trained in community programming and act as resources and referral agents for all students. The smaller halls each house fewer than 20 upperclass students and are staffed by student Resident Assistants and offer more independent government.

Many opportunities exist for students to assume leadership positions. Students in the larger residence halls elect a House Council that administers the hall government. The Vice President of Programming and her committee in each hall plan a variety of social, cultural, and educational events throughout the year. Each residence hall also elects representatives to the College Government Senate. These students consult with members of the residence hall on campuswide issues and convey opinions of their constituencies to the student government.

The Residential Life office staff works to strengthen the involvement of faculty, staff, and alumnae in residence hall life.

Most of the residence halls contain single, double, and triple rooms, and some suites. All incoming first-year students and sophomores are placed in double or triple rooms. The cost of all rooms is the same, regardless of whether they are shared, and students are required to sign a residence agreement. Each large hall has a spacious living room, smaller common rooms, and a study room. All but three of the large halls have dining facilities open on a five- or seven-day basis. All dining rooms offer vegetarian entrees; Pomeroy serves kosher/vegetarian food at all meals, and Cazenove is a peanut-free dining area. There are limited kitchenette facilities in the halls for preparing snacks. Each building is equipped with coin-operated washers and dryers.

The College supplies a bed, a desk, a chair, a lamp (halogen lamps are not allowed), a bookcase, and a bureau for each resident student. Students furnish their own linen, blankets, quilts, curtains, pictures, rugs, and posters. Each student is required to contribute one to two hours a week monitoring the front door of her residence hall, otherwise known as "bells."

Student Parking and Transportation
Because of limited parking on campus, resident first-year students are not permitted to have cars on campus. The Chief of Campus Police, or designated representative, must approve any exemptions to this policy. The Director of Disability Services must approve any temporary or permanent exemptions to this policy due to medical or accessibility circumstances. The parking fee for sophomores, juniors, and seniors is currently $75 per semester or $15 per year, and for off-campus students $60 per semester or $100 per year. The College may further restrict normal parking procedures to accommodate campus construction projects, or other special events as needed.
There is hourly bus service from the campus to MIT in Cambridge (7:30 a.m. to 11:50 p.m. Monday–Friday) with subway connections to the Greater Boston area. On weekends the College provides bus service to Boston and Cambridge on an expanded schedule tailored to students’ needs.

Services for Students with Disabilities
Wellesley College is committed to providing students with disabilities the access and support they need to achieve their academic potential and to participate fully in Wellesley’s activities.

Each student is viewed as an individual with a unique set of strengths and abilities. Disability Services professionals, who report to the Dean of Students, are available to provide individualized assistance and information to students. The Director of Disability Services provides assistance to students with physical disabilities; the Director of Programs of the Pforzheimer Learning and Teaching Center works with students with learning disabilities and attention disorders; the Director of the Stone Center Counseling Services assists students with psychological and emotional disabilities; and the Directors of the Health Service help students who identify as having medical disabilities. These staff members work collaboratively with faculty and other campus members to coordinate services for students with disabilities.

Students with disabilities are encouraged to explore more information about services confidentially in-person or at www.wellesley.edu/DisabilityServices/DShome.html.

Stone Center Counseling Service
Many students benefit from talking with a professional about personal matters affecting their daily life or their basic sense of purpose and direction. Members of the College Counseling Service, part of the Stone Center for Developmental Services and Studies, provide short-term individual and group counseling for Wellesley College students who need or desire this support. The Center also provides preventive programs that address mental health and developmental issues.

Clinical staff members are trained in the disciplines of psychiatry, psychology, and social work. Long-term treatment is not provided, but students are referred to appropriate private clinical professionals and sliding-scale agencies. There is no fee for any counseling services provided to students by Stone Center staff and professional confidentiality is maintained at all times in accordance with the law.

The counseling division collaborates closely with the training and research branches of the Stone Center via the Clinical Training Program which includes advanced practicum training for social work and psychology students and a post-doctoral fellowship. The theoretical models developed by the Jean Baker Miller Training Institute are incorporated into the work of the Counseling Service.

Religious and Spiritual Life
Wellesley’s Office of Religious and Spiritual Life fosters a sense of community by supporting the diverse religious traditions and spiritual perspectives represented in the Wellesley community.

The Religious Life Team, which includes a Buddhist Advisor, a Hindu Advisor, a Jewish Chaplain, a Muslim Advisor, a Roman Catholic Chaplain, a Protestant Christian Chaplain, and a Unitarian Universalist Chaplain, as well as advisors and student groups for the Bahá’í, Jain, Native African, Native American, Pagan, Sikh, and Zoroastrian communities are available for religious and pastoral counseling. Students, faculty, and staff are invited to take part in one or more of these faith communities, for worship, meditation, practice, and discussion on a weekly basis and educational and social activities throughout the academic year. In addition, the Dean of Religious and Spiritual Life coordinates a program that examines the role of spirituality in the educational process at Wellesley and officiates at multi-faith community worship.

Many outlets are available for students to express their spirituality. Flower Sunday, one of Wellesley’s oldest surviving traditions, is a multi-faith celebration held at the beginning of each academic year. Jewish students celebrate High Holiday services and have access to a kosher kitchen in Schneider Center. The Muslim Prayer Room, located in the lower level of the Chapel, is open for students to gather for daily prayers, and students may join Al-Muslimat, an organization for Muslim women at Wellesley, which meets for weekly Qur’anic study and discussion. A Buddhist/Hindu Meditation Room is available in the lower level of the Chapel. These are just a few of the observances and facilities available to Wellesley students.

For more information about religious and spiritual life at Wellesley, visit our Web site: www.wellesley.edu/RelLife.

College Health Service
The Health Service includes both an outpatient clinic and a state-licensed infirmary that is staffed 24 hours per day by registered nurses and on-call physicians while College is in session. During clinic hours, physicians, nurse practitioners, and nurses provide primary medical and gynecological care to all students. There is a small on-site laboratory. When required, consultation with specialists is available both locally and in Boston.

Emphasis on education and preventive measures to promote healthful lifestyles are integral to the Health Service philosophy. The Health Service collaborates with other College services such as Counseling Service, Residential Life, and Physical Education.

The confidentiality of the clinician-patient relationship is carefully maintained; medical information is not shared with College authorities or parents without the student’s specific consent. When there is concern about a student’s safety, however, that concern takes precedence over issues of confidentiality. Information may also be disclosed to meet insurance claims or legal requirements.

There is no charge for outpatient visits to a nurse, nurse practitioner, or physician at the Health Service. There are charges for laboratory tests, some procedures, and inpatient care. A College-sponsored Student Accident and Sickness Insurance Program is available to cover these charges. Please see that section for further details.

The Ruhlman Conference
Founded in 1997 as a forum for students to present their work in public, the Ruhlman Conference provides an opportunity for students, faculty, staff, friends, family, and alumnae to gather and celebrate student achievement.

Students submit presentation proposals for consideration at the end of the fall semester. Sensitive to the diversity of student interest and accomplishment, the conference allows a variety of presentation formats: talks, colloquia, panels, poster sessions, exhibitions, musical and theatrical performances, and readings of original work. By providing an opportunity for public presentation of what is often a private, isolated activity, the Ruhlman
Conference underscores the idea that research can be part of an ongoing conversation in a community of scholars.

Held each spring, the conference has been made possible by the Barbara Peterson Ruhlman Fund for Interdisciplinary Study.

The Tanner Conference

Established through the generosity of alumna Estelle “Nicki” Newman Tanner, the Tanner Conference celebrates the relationship between the liberal arts classroom and student participation in an increasingly diverse and interdependent world. The Tanner Conference provides a venue for students and alumnae to analyze and share their off-campus experiences with others in the College community.

Encompassing the diversity of off-campus experiences of students, the conference explores the learning that occurs through internships, service learning experiences, student teaching, study abroad, international Winter Session programs, experiential learning in courses, and independent study and research conducted away from Wellesley. Held each fall, the conference also presents an opportunity for alumnae to return to campus to discuss how their participation in these experiences as Wellesley students has enriched their lives.

Student Government

Honor Code

Inherent in Wellesley’s democratic system of government and its accompanying law is the Honor Code. As the vital foundation of government, the Honor Code rests on the assumption that individual integrity is of fundamental value to each member of the community. Within the philosophy of self-government, the personal honor and responsibility of each individual as he or she approaches both the regulated and nonregulated areas of academic, social, and residence hall life in the Wellesley community are of central importance.

The Honor Code covers all duly adopted rules of the College for the governance of academic work, for the use of College resources, and for the conduct of its members. Each student – degree candidate, exchange student, and postbaccalaureate student – is bound by all the rules.

Each student is expected to live up to the Honor Code, as a member of the student body of Wellesley College both on and off the campus. She/he should also remember that she/he is subject to federal, state, and local laws that are beyond the jurisdiction of Wellesley College.

The Honor Code can work only with full support of the entire College community. In addition to upholding the regulations and spirit of the Honor Code personally, both students and faculty are responsible for the success of the system. This includes guarding against and, if necessary, reporting any inadvertent or intentional abuses of the Honor Code by any member of the community.

College Government

Responsibilities of College Government include governance of all student organizations, appointment of students to College committees, and allocation of the student activity fund. Many of these responsibilities are assumed by Senate, the elected legislative body of College Government, which also provides the official representative voice of the student body. Violations of the Honor Code are adjudicated through General Judiciary.

Confidentiality of Student Records

Maintenance of the confidentiality of individual student educational records has always been important at Wellesley, as is a concern for the accuracy of each record. Under the provisions of the federal Family Educational Rights and Privacy Act of 1974, every Wellesley student is assured the right to inspect and review all College records, files, and data directly related to her, with certain exceptions such as medical and psychiatric records, confidential recommendations submitted before January 1, 1975, records to which the student has waived her right of access, and financial records of the student's parents. The student may also seek a correction or deletion where a record is felt to be inaccurate, misleading, or otherwise in violation of the privacy or other rights of the student. The Privacy Act also protects the privacy of personally identifiable information maintained in student records by prohibiting the release of such information (other than those facts defined below as “Directory Information”) without the written consent of the student, except to persons such as officials or teachers within the College who have a legitimate educational interest in seeing the information, officials of other institutions in which the student seeks to enroll, the student’s parents if the student is a dependent for tax purposes, and certain other persons and organizations.

The final regulations for the Act make clear that, in the case of students who are dependents of their parents for Internal Revenue Service purposes, information from the education records of the student may be disclosed to the parents without the student's prior consent. It will be assumed that every student is a dependent of her parents, as defined by the Internal Revenue Code, unless notification to the contrary is received by the College. With supporting evidence satisfactory to the College is filed with the Registrar before October 1 of each academic year. All correspondence relating to a student's undergraduate performance is removed from a student's file and destroyed one year after graduation. All disciplinary records are destroyed when a student graduates from the College. Disciplinary records are never a part of a student's permanent file while she is at Wellesley.

Copies of the Privacy Act, the regulations therein, and the "Wellesley College Guidelines on Student Records" are available upon request from the Office of the Registrar. Students wishing to inspect a record should apply directly to the office involved. Complaints concerning alleged noncompliance with the Privacy Act by the College, which are not satisfactorily resolved by the College itself, may be addressed in writing to the Family Policy Compliance Officer, Department of Education, 400 Maryland Avenue, S.W., Washington, D.C. 20202-4605.

Directory Information

The Privacy Act gives Wellesley the right to make public at its discretion, without prior authorization from the individual student, the following personally identifiable information: name; class year; home address and telephone number; college address and telephone number; college E-mail address; schedule of classes; major and minor field(s); date and place of birth; dates of attendance at Wellesley College; degrees, honors, and awards received; weight and height of student athletes; participation in officially recognized sports and activities; and previous educational institution most recently attended. In addition, student photographs are part of a College photograph directory that resides on the Campus-Wide Information System. It is accessible only on campus.
The Privacy Act also allows individual students to place limitations on the release of any of the above information. A student who wishes to do this must inform the Registrar, Green Hall, in writing each year by July 15 for the following academic year.

In practice, College policies discourage the indiscriminate release of any information about individual students. College directories and lists are for use within the College community.

Center for Work and Service

The Center for Work and Service offers comprehensive career preparation and resources for students and alumnae. A wide range of information and services to help students explore the world of work, participate in community service, and prepare for their futures is available. A staff of experienced professionals counsels students and alumnae at all stages of career exploration.

Students can explore various professions, educational options, and community service opportunities using the resources of the Center for Work and Service. Among the offerings are:

- career counseling and inventories
- internship search and funding resources
- community service events
- fellowship and graduate school advising
- administration of Wellesley College Graduate Fellowships and other fellowship programs
- prelaw and prehealth advising
- job and internship recruiting programs
- not-for-profit and public service job search track
- alumnae panel presentations
- workshops
- the Shadow Program (students spend a day with alumnae at their workplaces)
- online Alumnae Career Advisory Network (over 20,000 Wellesley graduates who have volunteered to serve as contacts for career exploration)
- online job, internship, and community service databases and directories
- an extensive career library
- an interactive Web site:
  www.wellesley.edu/CWS

In recent years, the Center for Work and Service has undertaken programs that have aligned the Center more closely with the educational core of the College. Faculty and Center staff collaborate to help integrate the student’s overall career decision-making process and to amplify the connection between her academic experience and life outside the classroom.

After graduation, the Center remains a resource for alumnae by offering career counseling, job listings, regional career programs, alumnae career Web pages, use of the Center for Work and Service library, and a reference file service.

For more information, please visit: www.wellesley.edu/CWS.

Admission

The Board of Admission admits students who will benefit from the education Wellesley offers and who will be able to meet the graduation requirements. Consideration is given to creativity, high motivation, and strong academic potential.

Each application is evaluated on its own merits, without regard to race, religion, color, creed, national origin, or sexual orientation. Wellesley College encourages qualified applicants from a wide variety of cultural, economic, and ethnic backgrounds to join its diverse multicultural student population.

The Board of Admission includes faculty, administration, and students. In selecting candidates for admission, the Board considers several factors: high school records; rank in class; standardized test scores; letters of recommendation from teachers, guidance counselors, or principals; the student’s own statements about herself and her activities; and interview reports when available from the staff or alumnae.

The Board values evidence of unusual talent and involvement in all areas of academic and social concern. The admission decision is never based on a single factor. Each part of the application contributes to a well-rounded appraisal of a student’s strengths and helps determine whether Wellesley would be the right place for her to continue her education.

Criteria for Admission

General Requirements for First-Year Student Applicants

Wellesley College does not require a fixed plan of secondary school course preparation. Entering students normally have completed four years of college preparatory studies in secondary school that includes training in clear and coherent writing and in interpreting literature; history; training in the principles of mathematics (typically four years); competence in at least one foreign language, ancient or modern (usually four years of study); and experience in at least two laboratory sciences.
Students planning to concentrate in mathematics, premedical studies, or natural sciences are urged to elect additional courses in mathematics and science in secondary school. Students planning to concentrate in language or literature are urged to study a modern foreign language and Latin or Greek.

There are often exceptions to the above, and the Board will consider an applicant whose educational background varies from this description. Wellesley’s applicant pool has been consistently strong. As a result, not all applicants who are qualified are admitted. Visit our Web site: www.wellesley.edu/admission for more details about the admission process.

The Application
The Wellesley Application consists of the Common Application plus the Wellesley supplement. You may apply online at the Common Application Web site at www.commonapp.org or you may download the application from the Board of Admission Web site at www.wellesley.edu/admission/application.html. Please note the $50 application fee is waived if you apply electronically for the year 2005-06. If you mail your application, please include a $50 nonrefundable application fee. If the fee imposes a burden on the family’s finances, a letter from the applicant’s guidance counselor requesting a fee waiver should be sent to the Dean of Admission with the application.

The Interview
While Wellesley does not require a personal interview for the first-year application, applicants are strongly recommended to arrange one. An interview is required of transfer applicants, Accelerating Candidates and Davis Degree Candidates (see related sections). If a candidate cannot come to the College, and would like to request an off-campus interview with an alumna in her area, she should complete the off-campus interview request form at www.wellesley.edu/Admission/form6. A high school junior may arrange for an informal conversation with an alumna or member of the Board.

Campus Visit
Students who are seriously considering Wellesley will have a better understanding of student life here if they can arrange to spend a day on campus. Candidates are welcome to attend classes, have meals in the residence halls, and talk informally with Wellesley students. Prospective students who plan to visit are urged to notify the Board of Admission at least two weeks in advance so that tours, interviews, meals, and class attendance can be arranged.

Standard Tests
Applicants must take either the College Board Scholastic Assessment Tests (SATs) or the ACT Assessment. If an applicant is taking the SATs, she must take the SAT Reasoning Test and two SAT Subject Tests. Wellesley recommends one Subject Test to be quantitative (math or science). If she is taking the ACT she must take the ACT with Writing Test.

The applicant may register online or obtain the registration form at school. Each applicant is responsible for arranging to take the tests and having the test results sent to Wellesley College. The College Board and ACT send the publications and the registration forms for the tests to all American secondary schools and many centers abroad.

Students should register six weeks before the College Board test dates. Limited walk-in registration may be available at some centers. For the ACT, students should register four to six weeks prior to the test date. No walk-in registration is available.

The latest test date from which scores can be used for September 2006 admission is December 2005.

The College Board Code Number for Wellesley College is 3957. The ACT Code Number for Wellesley College is 1926.

Admission Plans
Regular Decision
Candidates applying under the Regular Decision plan must file an application by January 15 of the year for which they are applying. Applicants will be notified of the Board of Admission’s decisions in April. Applicants for Regular Decision may take SATs or the ACT any time through December of the senior year. Results of tests taken after December arrive too late for consideration.

Early Decision
Candidates applying under the Early Decision plan must file an application by November 1 of the year for which they are applying. Applicants will be notified of the Board of Admission’s decisions in April. Applicants for Early Decision may take SATs or the ACT any time through December of the senior year. Results of tests taken after December arrive too late for consideration.

Deferred Entrance
Candidates applying under the Deferred Entrance plan must file an application by April 1 of the year for which they are applying. Applicants will be notified of the Board of Admission’s decisions in May. Applicants for Deferred Entrance may take SATs or the ACT any time through June of the senior year. Results of tests taken after June arrive too late for consideration.

Other Plans
Candidates may apply under any of the plans above, but may complete an application for all plans if they so desire. For example, a student may apply under Early Decision and then reapply under Regular Decision if she or he is not accepted for admission. Wellesley wishes to attract the most qualified students, as determined by the Board of Admission, and it is possible that there may be enough qualified students to admit under the Early Decision plan and therefore not enough to admit under the Regular Decision plan. On the other hand, students who apply under the Regular Decision plan may be admitted with such high qualifications that they may be offered admission under the Early Decision plan.

Closing Date
The closing date for the receipt of completed applications is April 1 of the year for which they are applying. Early Decision plans must be filed by November 1.

Early Decision Candidates whose credentials are complete by January 1, and who select this plan on the Wellesley Supplement form, will receive an Early Evaluation of their chances for admission. These evaluations will be sent by the end of February.

Accelerating Candidates
Candidates who have demonstrated academic strength and personal/social maturity may apply to enter college after completing their junior year of high school. These candidates are considered with other applicants in the Regular Decision plan, but are requested to identify themselves as Accelerating Candidates in their correspondence with the Board of Admission. An interview is required, preferably at the College. Accelerating candidates are not eligible for Early Decision or Early Evaluation.

Deferred Entrance
Candidates applying under the Deferred Entrance plan must file an application by April 1 of the year for which they are applying. Applicants will be notified of the Board of Admission’s decisions in May. Applicants for Deferred Entrance may take SATs or the ACT any time through June of the senior year. Results of tests taken after June arrive too late for consideration.

Early Decision

The closing date for the receipt of completed applications is April 1 of the year for which they are applying. Early Decision plans must be filed by November 1.
International and Transfer Students

Through the years Wellesley has attracted a large international student population. The resulting cosmopolitan atmosphere has benefited the entire campus. The College also seeks highly qualified transfer students who believe that Wellesley's special opportunities will help them achieve specific goals. For international and transfer students there are some additional and different application procedures and deadlines.

International Students
All non-U.S. citizens attending secondary schools or universities outside of the United States should complete the Form for Applicants Currently Studying Overseas. U.S. citizens who have been educated in a school system abroad should also complete this form.

Admission is considered for September entrance only. The application and all required credentials must be received by January 15 in the year in which the student plans to enter. The application form should be returned with a nonrefundable $50 application fee drawn on a U.S. bank, or a fee waiver request from the secondary school. Please note that the application fee is waived if a student applies online.

Financial aid is available for only a limited number of non-U.S. citizens. Therefore, admission is highly competitive for students who apply for financial assistance. Wellesley's established policy is to accept only those international students for whom we can provide the necessary financial support.

The SAT Reasoning and Subject Tests or the ACT with Writing Test are required of all international students in addition to predicted or, if completed, final results of their own national examinations. The TOEFL (Test of English as a Foreign Language) is strongly recommended for all students for whom English is not their first language and who have been studying in English for less than five years. The TOEFL is not required if English is the candidate’s first language. The official ACT or the official SAT Reasoning Test and SAT Subject Tests score reports must be forwarded directly to Wellesley College by the College Board, using Wellesley's Code Number 3957 on the College Board registration form. If the ACT or the SAT Reasoning and Subject Tests are not administered in an applicant’s country, they may take only the TOEFL.

Interested students are encouraged to initiate the application process one full year in advance of the planned entrance date. Please contact the Board of Admission or complete the online form: www.wellesley.edu/admission/contactus.html to obtain the International Students information brochure and the application form. Students may also apply electronically at www.commonapp.org. Inquiries should include the student’s country of citizenship, present school, academic level, and the year of planned college entrance. Our fax number is 781-283-3678.

International Students Applying from U.S. High Schools
Citizens of other countries who are currently in secondary school in the United States before entering college apply through the regular admission program. International citizens applying through the regular admission program who also wish to apply for the limited financial aid funds available are eligible to apply only under the Regular Decision plan (January 15 deadline).

Admission of Transfer Students
Wellesley College accepts transfer students from accredited four- and two-year colleges. They must offer an excellent academic record at the college level and strong recommendations from their dean and college instructors. Students wishing to transfer into Wellesley should apply by March 1 for entrance in the fall semester, and by November 1 for the spring semester. Notification is in mid-May and December, respectively. The application forms should be returned with a nonrefundable $50 application fee or a fee waiver request authorized by a financial aid officer or college dean. If a student applies electronically, the application fee is waived.

The College will accept for transfer credit only those courses that are comparable to the ones offered in the liberal arts curriculum at Wellesley. Candidates accepted for transfer will be given a tentative evaluation of their credit status at the time of admission. Transfer credit for studies completed outside of the United States will be granted only when the Registrar has given specific approval of the courses elected and the institutions granting the credit. To receive a Wellesley degree, a transfer student must complete a minimum of 16 units of work and two academic years at the College, so ordinarily only incoming sophomores and juniors are eligible to apply. A Wellesley unit is equivalent to four semester hours. Some transfer students may need to carry more than the usual four courses per semester in order to complete their degree requirements within four years. Incoming juniors, in particular, should be aware that Wellesley requires evidence of proficiency in one foreign language before the beginning of the senior year. In addition, all transfer students should note Wellesley's course distribution, quantitative reasoning and writing requirements, which must be fulfilled for graduation (see The Curriculum). Incoming junior transfer students may not take part in the Twelve College Exchange Program or Junior Year Abroad. All transfer students may elect to take courses through the cross-registration program with MIT.

For international transfer applicants
If you are a non-U.S. citizen attending a college or university outside the United States and you wish to transfer to Wellesley, you must apply for admission as a first-year student and for fall entrance only. The application deadline is January 15. After successfully completing one year of study at Wellesley, you may be eligible for transfer credit for courses from your previous institution. Please note that financial aid funding is available for a very limited number of international students studying outside the United States.

If you are a non-U.S. citizen attending a college within the United States, you may apply as a transfer candidate for entrance in the fall or spring. The deadline for fall entrance is March 1, and the deadline for spring entrance is November 1. Please note that because of limited financial aid funding for international students, competition is very keen.

Continuing Education
Wellesley College offers two programs for students beyond traditional college age. They are the Elisabeth Kaiser Davis Degree Program and the Postbaccalaureate Study Program. The Davis Degree Program is designed for women who seek the Bachelor of Arts... degree. The Postbaccalaureate Study Program is available for men and women who already have a bachelor’s degree and seek nondegree course work. Students enroll in the same courses as the traditional-age undergraduates and may enroll on a part-time or full-time basis.

Elisabeth Kaiser Davis Degree Program
Candidates for the Davis Degree Program are women, usually over the age of 24, whose education has been interrupted for at least two years or whose life experience makes enrollment through the Davis Degree Program the logical avenue of admission. These students, known as Davis Scholars, meet all degree requirements of the College, but the flexibility of the Davis Degree Program allows a woman to combine school with work and family responsibilities. A small number of Davis Scholars live on campus, some in small residence halls especially reserved for Davis Scholars and others in larger residence halls integrated with students of traditional college age. Davis Scholars in residence must carry a full academic course load of at least three courses a semester and should consult with their Class Deans to determine how many semesters they will have to complete their degrees. Nonresident Davis Scholars, other than international students, have no time limitation for completing their degrees and may choose whether to be full- or part-time students. International Davis Scholars must be full-time students whether or not they are in residence.

Many applicants to the Davis Degree Program have not experienced a traditional college-preparatory secondary school program, or their transcripts from the past are not an accurate reflection of current abilities. Such applicants are urged to complete at least four college-level courses for credit to strengthen their academic skills and credentials before applying to the program.

An applicant needs to show training in the principles of mathematics, including algebra and trigonometry, and she must demonstrate strong writing skills and the ability to think coherently. Students who have never pursued a foreign language should complete course work in a foreign language prior to applying. The College will accept courses for transfer credit only if they are comparable to ones offered in the liberal arts curricula at Wellesley, and if a grade of C or better was earned. Course work presented for transfer credit must be accompanied by an official transcript from an accredited college, descriptions of courses at the time they were taken, and the degree requirements of the institution. All information should be sent with the application for admission. Please visit our Web site at www.wellesley.edu/admission/davis.html for more information about the program.

Postbaccalaureate Study Program
Candidates for the Postbaccalaureate Study Program are men and women who already have a bachelor’s degree and wish to do further undergraduate work for a specific purpose. Students take courses to prepare for graduate school, enrich their personal lives, or make a career change. The Premedical Study program is a popular choice. A degree is not offered. For more information on the Postbaccalaureate Study Program, please contact the Board of Admission or visit the Web site at: www.wellesley.edu/admission.

Admission
Application forms for the Elisabeth Kaiser Davis Degree Program and Postbaccalaureate Study Program may be obtained from the Board of Admission. Official transcripts, essays, and letters of recommendation must be submitted before a candidate is considered. A personal interview is also required. The Board of Admission looks for evidence such as work, volunteer experience, and especially recent course work that demonstrates a candidate’s intellectual ability and initiative.

Applications for the Elisabeth Kaiser Davis Degree Program are considered once a year for fall semester entrance only. The application deadline is February 15 for admission in the fall. The deadline for international applicants for this program is January 15. Candidates for the Davis Degree program may apply online at www.wellesley.edu/Admission/application. If a candidate applies electronically, the application fee is waived. The application deadlines for postbaccalaureate applicants are November 15 for spring semester admission and March 1 for fall semester admission.

You are welcome to view or download our brochures at www.wellesley.edu/admission for more information about any of the programs described in this section.

Costs
Wellesley offers a variety of payment plans and financing options to assist all students and their families in meeting the costs of a Wellesley education. In addition, through financial aid, the College is able to offer its education to all students regardless of their financial circumstances (see the Financial Aid section for more information). For more information visit the Student Financial Services Web site: www.wellesley.edu/SFS.

The financial responsibilities to Wellesley College include meeting payment deadlines, meeting loan or grant requirements, and addressing outstanding balances.

It is important to understand that information and communications will be directed to the student, rather than a parent or guardian. If a parent or other individual handles the educational finances, it is the student’s responsibility to make the information contained in this catalog available to the person who is responsible.

Family Educational Rights and Privacy Act (FERPA)
The Family Educational Rights and Privacy Act (FERPA) of 1974, commonly known as the “Buckley Amendment,” helps protect the privacy of student education records. Among other provisions, FERPA protects the privacy of educational records, including the student account at Wellesley College. Students interested in placing limitations on the release of information should contact Student Financial Services.

Comprehensive Fees
As a part of the registration process, all students will be required to acknowledge the cost of tuition and relevant fees prior to online registration for each term.
Fees and Expenses

The Comprehensive Fee for 2005–06 resident students is $41,030. All fees are subject to change without prior notice. The breakdown is as follows:

Student Activity Fee

The student activity fee is administered by the Student College Government. It provides resources from which student organizations can plan and implement extracurricular activities.

Facilities Fee

The Facilities Fee supports the infrastructure of the College’s facilities.

General Deposit

The General Deposit of $300, paid by each entering student, will be credited to the student’s account. The general deposit is nonrefundable.

Refund Policy

To be eligible for a refund the student must notify her Class Dean in writing that she is leaving Wellesley. The date the written notice is received by the Dean, or the date the College determines that she has gone on leave or withdrawn will be the effective date of leave or withdrawal.

Refunds are made for withdrawal or leave of absence prior to the ninth week of the semester. The comprehensive fee is prorated on a calendar week basis. No refund is made after the eighth week.

Refunds are prorated among the sources of original payment. Scholarships, grants, and educational loans are refunded to the grantor or lender.

Wellesley College maintains credit balances for returning students and applies the credit to future charges. A student may request a refund of a credit balance by submitting a written request to Student Financial Services.

A student who leaves Wellesley during her first semester at the College has her charges prorated based on the number of weeks in attendance until the tenth week. Students who complete ten weeks but do not complete the first full semester are not eligible for a refund.

An off-campus Davis Scholar or Postbaccalaureate student who drops a course during the add/drop period receives a full refund. Charges are prorated on a calendar basis thereafter until the eighth week.

All other students have charges refunded as follows:

Tuition Refund Plan

The Tuition Refund Plan, sponsored by A.W.G. Dewar, Inc., is designed to protect the family from the loss of funds paid for... tuition, fees, room and board should the student find it necessary to withdraw due to medical reasons. The Plan complements the Wellesley College refund policy and covers not only payments made by the student or parent, but also any loans and grants received.

The cost of the Plan is based on the amount of tuition and fees or tuition, fees, room and board.

Student Accident and Insurance Program

Students enrolled at least ¼ time are required by Massachusetts State law to be enrolled in an insurance program. The policy, provided through Security Mutual Life Insurance Company of New York, is a comprehensive plan designed to meet the needs of Wellesley students. All students enrolled in courses at Wellesley College may see a physician, nurse practitioner, or nurse at the Health Services office without charge; however, charges are incurred for certain procedures, treatments, and laboratory tests. The Student Accident and Sickness Insurance Program covers most of these charges and all inpatient charges in the College infirmary. Insurance coverage is effective from August 23 to August 22 of the following year.

Information about the insurance program is mailed to students each year. Please refer to the insurance brochure for additional information.

All Davis Scholars are assessed insurance. A waiver must be completed to waive this charge.

The fee for 2005–06 remains $1,165. Please visit the Student Financial Services Web site for additional information. There is no separate plan for the fall semester. The fee for insurance appears on the first bill of the fall semester.

If a student is covered by other comparable insurance and does not wish to participate in the College plan, she may waive the coverage. A waiver form can be completed online. All fields of the form must be completed and it must be submitted by the end of the first week of classes to waive the College plan.

Financial responsibility for all medical and dental expenses rests with the student and her family. Wellesley College does not assume financial responsibility for injuries incurred in instructional, intercollegiate, intramural, or recreational programs. The College carries an NCAA policy to provide limited supplemental coverage for students injured while participating in intercollegiate athletics under the auspices of the Department of Physical Education, Recreation, and Athletics.

Please visit the Student Financial Services Web site for billing and waiver information: www.wellesley.edu/SFS.

Billing and Payment

Fall semester billing statements will be mailed in early July. Wellesley College must receive payment by August 1.

Spring semester billing statements will be mailed in early December. Wellesley College must receive payment by January 2. Charges incurred after the payment deadline, including those as a result of add/drop, music charges, parking and library fines, etc., are due immediately and subject to late payment fees.

Bills are mailed in the student’s name to the student’s home address when classes are not in session or to her on-campus address during the school year. Students should retain the statements for their records.

Students will receive a billing statement any month in which there are new or outstanding charges.

Payment Procedures

Full payment and/or acceptable documentation demonstrating that the balance will be fully paid must be received prior to the published deadline. Acceptable documentation includes enrollment in the Tuition Management Systems (TMS) monthly payment plan, a copy of an award letter for an outside scholarship, or a copy of a billing authorization or sponsorship letter. Loans based on the credit worthiness of the borrower may not be deducted without approval from the lender. A copy of an approval notice or signed promissory note will be accepted as documentation for this type of loan.

The student’s name and Wellesley College ID or social security number must be included on all payments and correspondence.

The student is responsible for monitoring her account balance and for keeping track of payment due dates even if someone else is handling the finances. It is the student’s responsibility to ensure that loans, grants, and other payments are sent to the College by the payment due dates. As the student will be the only recipient of monthly statements, she needs to communicate her account status to anyone paying her charges.

Inquiries regarding late payment fees may be resolved after the account has been settled if a written petition has been received. The petition should include the student’s name and ID number, the term the late fee was charged, and the circumstances to be reviewed.

There are potential consequences if payment responsibilities are not met. Monthly late fees may be assessed on any balance remaining unpaid after the payment deadline. Wellesley College also reserves the right to withhold services if the student has not fulfilled her financial obligation. The student may be prevented from participating in the housing process, registering, accepting a place in an associated leave program (i.e., Junior Year Abroad program), receiving transcripts, or receiving her diploma. In addition, the College reserves the right to place a student on leave and withdraw her if a balance continues to remain unpaid.

If any overdue obligation is referred to either the College Collection Department or to an outside agency or attorney for collection efforts and/or legal suit, the debt is increased to cover all reasonable costs of collection, including collection agency fees and court costs. By registering for any class in the College, each student accepts and agrees to be bound by the foregoing College policy as applied to any preexisting or future obligation to the College.

Outside Scholarships or Grants

If a student receives a scholarship or other outside award not previously considered in the determination of her financial aid award, federal regulations require her to notify Student Financial Services. These awards will not be reflected on a student’s account or billing statement until the College has received the funds. Please note, unless specifically stated in the sponsorship letter, all outside scholarships will be evenly applied to the fall and spring semesters.

For security reasons, we urge students not to carry large sums of cash.

Wellesley College does not accept credit card payments; however, you may charge your semester bill on VISA, MasterCard, or Discover by visiting the Tuition Management Systems Web site at www.afford.com or by phone at 800-722-4867. Please note that a teleprocessing fee is assessed.

Wire Transfer
Wire transfer of funds electronically from a U.S. or international bank to Wellesley College’s bank involve bank fees which are deducted from the funds wired to Wellesley College. The net amount applied to the student account will be the amount of the wire transfer less the bank fees. Please remember to reference the student’s name and Wellesley College identification number. Please refer to our Web site for specific information on wire transfers.

Monthly Payment Plan
If you plan to use your savings and/or current income to cover all or part of your educational expenses, the Interest-Free Monthly Payment option offered through Tuition Management Systems (TMS) helps by providing more manageable cash flow and greater budgeting flexibility. Instead of lump-sum payments, the TMS plan allows you to pay all or part of your educational expenses in manageable monthly installments. You may use the TMS plan to pay your balance after financial aid or in combination with other loans. By enrolling in the TMS Monthly Payment Plan, your student account will receive a credit each semester representing ½ of the full amount of your contract. We will credit your student account in advance of your making all of your payments to TMS. Although Student Financial Services can provide assistance, you are responsible for determining the contract amount. TMS is not responsible for this decision and will make changes only upon your request.

The toll free number is 800-722-4867 (if calling from outside of the United States, please use 401-849-1550) or you may visit their Web site at www.afford.com.

Tuition Stabilization Plan
This program provides a written contract guaranteeing that the cost of tuition will remain the same for each of four consecutive years at Wellesley College, provided the student pays by June 30 of the entering year an amount equal to four times the first year’s tuition cost. Provisions are made for leaves of absence (up to two semesters), refunds, and withdrawals. This program only stabilizes the cost of tuition at Wellesley College; all other charges such as room and board will be billed at the rate for the applicable year, as will tuition for any exchange program or other college at which the student enrolls.

Please contact Student Financial Services for enrollment information.

High School Student Fees and Refunds
High school students taking courses at Wellesley pay the per course semester fees; for refunds, charges are prorated on a calendar week basis until the eighth week. High school students also pay the General Deposit, but are not eligible for Student Insurance.

Financing Options
To finance your Wellesley education, several options are available whether or not a student has been awarded financial aid, other scholarships, or loans. Detailed information can be obtained from the Office of Student Financial Services or by visiting www.wellesley.edu/SFS/EducationalFinancing.html.

Federal Parent Loan for Undergraduate Students (PLUS)
Under this federally guaranteed loan program, parents may borrow the cost of education, less financial aid and other education grants or loans, from participating banks and other lenders. The applicant and student must be U.S. citizens or U.S. permanent residents.

Monthly repayment begins immediately after the loan is disbursed; however, repayment of the loan principal and, under certain circumstances, interest, may be deferred while the borrower is a full-time student or experiencing economic hardship.

MEFA
This joint loan program of the Massachusetts Educational Financing Authority and Wellesley College provides fixed or variable low interest rate loans and convenient repayment terms. The full cost of education or tuition stabilization may be borrowed and a home equity option is available in most states.

Federal Unsubsidized Stafford Loan
Under this federally guaranteed loan program, a student with attendance costs not met by financial aid who is not eligible (based on federal rules for determining financial need) to borrow up to federal maximums under the Federal Subsidized Stafford Loan Program, may borrow the difference between her subsidized Stafford Loan (if any) and the Unsubsidized Stafford program limits.

An independent student or a dependent student whose parent does not qualify for a Federal PLUS Loan may also borrow up to additional federal maximums if she has costs of attendance not met by financial aid and she has already borrowed her basic Federal Stafford Loan maximum.

Interest starts to accrue immediately, but repayment may be deferred while the student is enrolled at least half-time or is experiencing economic hardship.

First-time Federal Stafford borrowers must complete an entrance interview and sign a promissory note before funds may be disbursed to her student account.

Alternative Educational Loans
Please visit www.wellesley.edu/SFS/EducationalFinancing.html to view borrower benefits, preferred lenders and loan application links or contact the Educational Financing Office for assistance.
Financial Aid

The Wellesley College financial aid program opens educational opportunities to able students of diverse backgrounds, regardless of their financial resources. Admission is need-blind for U.S. citizens and permanent residents. Financial aid is also available for many international students. Over 50 percent of all Wellesley students receive financial aid, based on need, from the College.

At Wellesley College financial aid is based on demonstrated need as defined through the College’s financial aid policies. Amounts vary in size according to the resources of the individual and her family and may equal or exceed the comprehensive College fee. Although aid is granted for one year at a time, the College expects to continue aid as needed throughout the student’s four years, and the student continues to have need as defined by Wellesley’s policies. Applicants to the College and continuing students must file the aid application on time to receive full consideration for grant aid.

Determining the amount of aid begins with the examination of family financial resources. Using both federal and institutional methodologies, the Financial Aid staff establishes the amount the parents can reasonably be expected to contribute. The staff also looks at the amount that the student can contribute from her earnings, assets, and benefits. Each year, the Financial Aid Committee determines a standard amount expected from the student’s summer and vacation earnings. For 2005–2006 the summer/vacation amounts are: $1,250 for first-year students, $1,900 for sophomores, $1950 for juniors and seniors. The total of the parents’ and the student’s contributions is then subtracted from the student’s cost of attendance. For the typical dependent student residing on campus, the cost of attendance is composed of the College fees, a standard amount for books and personal expenses, and a standard amount for travel based on the student’s home state. The remainder equals the financial need of the student and is offered in aid. The financial aid is packaged in a combination of three types of aid: work, loan, and grant. The Financial Aid Committee sets yearly amounts of academic year work and loan.

Work
Generally, a portion of a student’s financial aid is met through a job on or off campus, usually as part of the Federal Work Study Program. Students are expected to work up to ten hours a week. For 2005–2006, first-year students are expected to earn $2,000; sophomores, $2,000; juniors and seniors, $2,200. The Student Employment Office maintains listings of on- and off-campus part-time job opportunities.

Financial aid students receive priority for on-campus jobs. Students can work in academic and administrative offices, museums, libraries, and in a variety of off-campus nonprofit and community service agencies. Some off-campus jobs are restricted to students with federal Work-Study.

Loans
The next portion of a student’s financial aid is met through low-interest educational loans. The 2005–2006 amounts are $2,625 for first-year students, $3,000 for sophomores, $3,500 for juniors, and $3,500 for seniors. There are several kinds of loans available with different interest rates and terms of repayment. The suggested loan amount and loan program are specified in the aid offer. Higher loan amounts are packaged in special circumstances, such as late filing of aid applications.

First-time borrowers must complete an entrance interview online and sign a promissory note before funds may be disbursed to her student account.

Repayment of Loans from the College
A student who has received a loan enters repayment if she enrolls less than half time, withdraws, graduates, or takes a leave of absence. Before she leaves the College she should make arrangements for an online exit interview by emailing edfinance@wellesley.edu or by visiting the Office of Student Financial Services. At that time she will be notified of her rights and responsibilities regarding the loan and will be given a repayment schedule.

Students with Students’ Aid loans conduct entrance and exit interviews with the Students’ Aid Society.

In order to be eligible for financial aid from the College, transfer students and Davis Scholars who have been enrolled elsewhere cannot be in default on prior educational loans. The College will not offer any federal, state, or institutional aid to students in default on prior educational loans.

Grants
The remaining portion of the student need is awarded in grants by the College from its own resources, from the federal government through the Federal Supplemental Educational Opportunity Grant and Pell Grant Programs, or from outside agencies.

Students who are eligible for other grants are required to apply for state and federal grants. If the student does not apply or fails to apply on time, the College will not replace the amount she would have received. In addition, whenever possible, students should seek grants from local programs, from educational foundations, and from other private sources. Students who qualify for nongovernmental outside scholarships usually benefit from loan and work reductions.

Applying for Financial Aid
Applicants for admission who intend to apply for financial aid must file five forms: the Wellesley College Application for Financial Aid, the Financial Aid Profile of the College Scholarship Service (CSS), the Free Application for Federal Student Assistance (FAFSA), and signed copies of all pages and schedules of both the parents’ and the student’s most recent federal income tax returns and W2s. Applicants may also be asked to have the IRS send a tax transcript directly to Student Financial Services. Additional documents are required if parents are separated/divorced or self-employed.

The College considers information from both parents regardless of their marital status. Students are expected to furnish information from parents in their initial year and all remaining years. Students in the Davis Degree Program who satisfy federal guidelines for self-supporting students and are not, in reality, dependent upon their parents for support are exempt from this requirement. Davis Scholars who are supported by their parents file the aid application with parental information.

Application Form
The Wellesley College Application for Financial Aid should be returned to the Director of Student Financial Services, Wellesley College, 106 Central Street,
Financial Aid

Academic Requirements for Financial Aid
Evaluations of all students’ academic records are made at the end of each semester by the Academic Review Board. Eligibility for financial aid is reviewed on a semester basis. Students must make satisfactory progress toward the degree and maintain a C average. No credit is associated with course completion, course withdrawal, noncredit remedial courses, or course repetition; therefore, these courses do not count in establishing satisfactory progress.

Ordinarily, a full-time undergraduate student completes the requirements for the B.A. degree in eight semesters. The Academic Review Board will consider special circumstances and may permit a student to have additional time to complete the degree. A student may request financial aid for additional semesters if the Academic Review Board has approved the extension. In matters concerning satisfactory progress, Students Financial Services works with the Class Deans.

Verification of Data in the Aid Application
Student Financial Services is required by federal law and Wellesley College policy to verify data on the financial aid application. Students must respond within 30 days of the request for information in order to ensure that aid will be available and student accounts credited in time for registration and other college services.

Town Tuition Grants
Wellesley College funds ten Town Tuition Grants to residents of the town of Wellesley who qualify for admission and who meet the town’s residency requirements. Application is made to the Board of Selectman. Recipients may live at home or on campus. Those who choose to live on campus may apply to the College for additional financial aid, and their applications will be reviewed in relation to the same financial aid policies applicable to all Wellesley students.

ROTC Scholarships
ROTC admission criteria conflict with the nondiscrimination policy of Wellesley College (see inside back cover). Students, however, may enroll in ROTC programs offered at MIT through the College’s cross-registration program. Wellesley students may apply for scholarship aid from the Air Force and Army. Interested students should contact the appropriate service office at Massachusetts Institute of Technology, Cambridge, MA 02139, or call: Air Force, (617) 253-4475; Army, (617) 253-4471.

Financial Aid for International Students
Aid is available to international students, but its amount is limited. If an international student enters without aid, she will not be eligible for it in future years.

Financial Aid for Davis Scholars
Students in the Elisabeth Kaiser Davis Degree Program are admitted on a need-blind basis. They receive work and loans as the first components of the aid package, with a grant meeting the remaining need. The cost of education will vary for Davis Scholars living off campus in accordance with the number of courses for which they are enrolled during first and second semesters and during Winter session. In order to be eligible for aid during a semester, students must take at least two units. Financial aid is not available to meet the full costs of living off campus, but staff will work with students to see if financing plans are applicable.

Wellesley Students’ Aid Society
The Wellesley Students’ Aid Society, Inc. is an organization of Wellesley College alumnae. In addition to providing funds for grants and long-term tuition loans, the organization also serves as a resource for short-term emergency loans and other student services.

Assistance for Families Not Eligible for Aid
Wellesley has special concern for middle- and upper-income families who find it difficult to finance the cost of education through current income. The Office of Student Financial Services is available to assist all families, including families not qualifying for financial aid.

The College assists non-aided students and parents in several ways. Jobs on campus may be available to non-aided students. Student Financial Services will furnish information and advice on obtaining student and parent loans. Three payment programs are offered by the College: a Semester Plan, a Monthly Plan, and a Prepaid Tuition Stabilization Plan. Please visit the Student Financial Services Web site: www.wellesley.edu/SFS.

Graduate Fellowships

Wellesley College offers a number of fellowships for graduate study, independent research, and work that are open to graduating seniors and graduates of Wellesley. Two of these fellowships are open to women graduates of any American institution. Awards are usually made to applicants who plan full-time graduate study for the coming year. Please note that these fellowships are for study at institutions other than Wellesley College. Preference in all cases, except for the Peggy Howard Fellowship, will be given to applicants who have not held one of these awards previously. Decisions are based on merit and need, with the exception of the Knafel and Trustee awards, which are determined on merit alone. For more information about graduate fellowships and graduate school, visit our Web site: www.wellesley.edu/CWS.

For Wellesley College Graduating Seniors
Jacqueline Krieger Klein '53 Fellowship in Jewish studies to encourage all seniors to pursue further education in the field of Jewish studies. Award: Up to $3,000

Susan Rappaport Knafel '52 Scholarship for Foreign study awarded to a member of the graduating class who displays a desire to learn and an ability to impart knowledge and judgment to others. The scholarship will fund a year of study in a foreign institution to pursue a specific subject that requires contact with foreign scholars, libraries, or other resources. Award: $25,000

Susan Rappaport Knafel '52 Traveling Fellowship awarded to a member of the graduating class who displays an interest in and an acceptance of others, and who displays the ethos of a Wellesley education. The fellowship will fund a year of travel abroad, with the requirement that the recipient not remain in the same area for more than two months. Award: $22,000

Trustee Scholarships are awarded on a competitive basis to graduating seniors who are currently applying to graduate school. The title Trustee Scholar is honorary; in cases of financial need, awards of up to $3,000 may be given.

For Wellesley College Graduates
Anne Louise Barrett Fellowship for graduate study or research, preferably in music, with emphasis on study or research in musical theory, composition, or the history of music abroad or in the United States. Award: Up to $15,000

Margaret Freeman Bowers Fellowship for the first year of study in the fields of social work, law, or public policy/public administration, including MBA candidates with plans for a career in the field of social services. Preference will be given to candidates demonstrating financial need. Award: Up to $8,500

Eugene L. Cox Fellowship for graduate study or research in medieval or renaissance history and culture, abroad or in the U.S. Award: Up to $9,000

Professor Elizabeth F. Fisher Fellowship for research or further study in geology or geography, including urban, environmental, or ecological studies. Preference given to geology and geography. Award: Up to $2,500

Ruth Ingersoll Goldmark Fellowship for study in English literature, English composition, or the Classics. Award: Up to $2,500

Horton-Hallowell Fellowship for graduate study in any field, preferably in the last two years of candidacy for the Ph.D. degree or its equivalent, or for private research of equivalent standard. Award: Up to $10,000

Thomas Jefferson Fellowship for advanced study in history. Award: Up to $11,000

Edna V. Moffett Fellowship for a young alumna, preferably for the first year of graduate study in history. Award: Up to $13,000

Alice Freeman Palmer Fellowship for study or research abroad or in the United States. The holder must be no more than 26 years of age at the time of her appointment and unmarried throughout the whole of her tenure. Award: Up to $26,000

Vida Dutton Scudder Fellowship for study or research in the field of social science, political science, or literature. Award: Up to $11,500

Harriet A. Shaw Fellowship for study or research in music, art, or allied subjects, abroad or in the United States. Preference given to music candidates; undergraduate work in history of art required of other candidates. Award: Up to $11,500

Mary Elvira Stevens Traveling Fellowship for a full year of travel or study outside the United States. Any scholarly, artistic, or cultural purpose may be considered. Candidates must be at least 25 years of age in the year of application, 2005. Applications for the Mary Elvira Stevens may be obtained from the Center for Work and Service, Wellesley College, 106 Central Street, Wellesley, MA 02481-8203. The application and supporting material should be returned to the same address by December 1, 2005. Award: Up to $20,000

Sarah Perry Wood Medical Fellowship for the study of medicine. Nonrenewable. Award: Up to $68,000

Fanny Ballock Workman Fellowship for graduate study in any field. Award: Up to $16,000

For Women Graduates of Any American Institution
Mary McEwen Schimke Scholarship, a supplemental award to provide relief from household and child care expenses while pursuing graduate study. The award is made on the basis of scholarly expectation and identified need. The candidate must be over 30 years of age, currently engaged in graduate study in literature and/or history. Preference given to American Studies. Award: Up to $1,500

M.A. Cartland Shackford Medical Fellowship for the study of medicine with a view to general practice, not psychiatry. Award: Minimum of $10,000

Instructions for Applying
Applicants for the Jacqueline Krieger Klein '53 Fellowship may contact the Department of History, Wellesley College for deadline and application.

Applications for the Mary Elvira Stevens Fellowship may be obtained from the Center for Work and Service, Wellesley College, or online at www.wellesley.edu/CWS. The applications and supporting materials should be returned to the same address and received no later than December 1, 2005.

Applications for the Knafel awards and all other fellowships may be obtained from the Secretary to the Committee on Graduate Fellowships, Center for Work and Service, Wellesley College, 106 Central Street, Wellesley, MA 02481, or they can be found online at www.wellesley.edu/CWS. Applications and supporting material for the Knafel awards must be received by February 6, 2006. Applications and supporting material for all other fellowships must be postmarked no later than January 6, 2006. If hand-delivered, the application must be received in the Center for Work and Service no later than January 6, 2006.

For Wellesley College Graduates: Opportunities in Asia

Elisabeth Luce Moore ’24 Wellesley-Yenching Program. The Wellesley-Yenching Program is a lasting example of Wellesley College’s long tradition of interest and involvement in China, dating from 1906. In 1999, Wellesley received a generous grant from the Henry Luce Foundation to honor Elisabeth Luce Moore ’24 who was born in China and has been a strong supporter of the College’s ties to Asia. Part of this grant was used to endow the Wellesley-Yenching Program and to strengthen these three opportunities to work in Asia:

Wellesley-Yenching Graduate Fellowship at Chung Chi College in Hong Kong. The fellow’s time may be divided between helping to organize and promote English language activities at Chung Chi College as a whole, and serving as a teaching or research assistant for an academic department.

Wellesley-Yenching Graduate Fellowship at Ginling College in Nanjing, China. The fellows teach English in the classroom for approximately 12 to 14 hours each week with office hours three to four times a week.

Wellesley-Yenching Graduate Fellowship at the National Palace Museum in Taipei, Taiwan. Approximately one-half of the fellow’s work will be with the NPM Secretariat where she will write, translate, and revise English documents for various departments. The other half of the fellow’s work will be with one of the Museum’s other departments.

Application information is available in the Center for Work and Service, 106 Central Street, Wellesley, MA 02481 or it can be found online at www.wellesley.edu/CWS. The deadline is February 27, 2006.

The Academic Program

The process of learning begins with the mind and motivation of the student herself. The most tempting array of courses and the most carefully planned requirements alone will not guarantee the growth of an educated mind. The academic experience is designed for the student who seeks a broad acquaintance with the many and diverse fields of human inquiry as well as the opportunity to explore her personal intellectual interests in depth. It provides for the acquisition of knowledge and the skills appropriate to the liberal arts but above all it is responsive to the student who genuinely wishes to acquire the habit of learning. It seeks to stimulate the mind, refine the eye, and enlarge the capacity for free, independent, and discriminating choice.

Online Course Information

Students may access Wellesley College course information and class schedules through the Internet via the Campus-Wide Information System: www.wellesley.edu.

The Curriculum

The curriculum at Wellesley is structured to provide strong guidance and to allow, at the same time, great personal choice. By the time a Wellesley student has earned the Bachelor of Arts degree, she should be acquainted with the main fields of human inquiry, capable of integrating knowledge from various fields, and prepared for continuous scholarly and personal growth. In her major field, the student is expected to demonstrate maturity of thought, acquaintance with recognized authorities in the field, and general competence in dealing with sources of research or analysis.

Requirements for Degree of Bachelor of Arts

Each student is responsible for meeting all degree requirements and for ensuring that the Registrar’s Office has received all credentials. Each candidate for the degree of Bachelor of Arts is required to complete 32 units of academic work with a C average or better. With some exceptions, described below, each semester course is assigned one unit of credit. Specific courses, designated by their departments and approved by the Committee on Curriculum and Instruction, are assigned 1.25 units of credit. To be eligible for 1.25 units of credit, a course must meet for 300 minutes or more per week and involve, in addition, substantial time spent on course-related work outside scheduled class meetings. Departments may also request permission from the Committee on Curriculum and Instruction to offer courses for 0.5 units of credit. A student may earn no more than 2 units toward the degree as the result of the accumulation of fractional units through 1.25 unit courses taken at Wellesley; the same 2-unit limit applies to the accumulation of fractional units through 0.5 unit courses. A unit of credit is equivalent to four semester-hours or six quarter-hours. The normal period of time in which to earn the degree is four years and the average course load is four units per semester. First-year students are encouraged to carry a maximum of four units each semester, but upperclass students may take five. A minimum of three units is required of all students in residence.

Courses are classified as Grade I, II, or III. Introductory courses are numbered 100–199 (Grade I); intermediate courses, 200–299 (Grade II); advanced courses, 300–399 (Grade III). Each student must include in her program at least four units of Grade III work, at least two of which shall be in the major. At least two units of Grade III work must be taken in a student’s last two years. Directions for election of the major vary with the department or program. Please see departmental or program listings for specific major requirements.

Distribution Requirements

In order to provide students with as much flexibility as possible, Wellesley requires no specific courses except Writing 125. However, to ensure that students gain insight and awareness in areas outside their major fields, the College requires that they elect nine units drawn from eight substantive and skill-based categories as part of the 32 units required for graduation. (Courses numbered 250/350, Research or Individual Study, or 360/370, Honors Research, do not satisfy this requirement.) Students who enter as first-year students must take six of these nine units at Wellesley, two units in each of the three groups of distribution areas described below. Transfer students and Davis Scholars who enter with eight units prior to Wellesley must take at least three units at Wellesley, and students entering with 16 prior units may take the distribution requirements at Wellesley or use their prior units.

Courses assigned to two distribution areas may not be used to fulfill two distribution requirements. This limitation does not apply to overlay requirements (the writing requirement, the multicultural requirement, and the Quantitative Reasoning requirement, described on p. 24).

Students must complete three units drawn from the following two distribution areas. At least one unit must come from each of these two areas:

Language and Literature
Courses in this group focus on: (1) the history, critical analysis, theory, and/or creation of literature, and (2) increasing mastery of the grammar, usage, and cultural context of languages studied beyond the elementary level. Courses in creative writing also fulfill this requirement.

Normally, only one course fulfilling the language requirement in a given department will be designated as satisfying the distribution requirement in Language and Literature. Courses in language instruction at the Grade One level may not be used to satisfy this distribution requirement.

Visual Arts, Music, Theatre, Film, and Video
Courses in this area focus on: (1) the history, critical analysis, and/or theory of the visual and performing arts, and (2) practice in the creation and performance of these arts.

Students must complete three units drawn from the following four distribution areas. One unit must come from the Social and Behavioral Analysis category; the two additional units must come from two of the three other categories:

Social and Behavioral Analysis
Courses fulfilling this requirement introduce students to different theoretical and methodological approaches to the study of human societies and behaviors. These courses examine how individuals interact with and are influenced by social groups and institutions, including those associated with politics, economics, religion, family, health, education, and the arts; how and why particular forms of social organization emerge within groups or societies; and the nature of social change and conflict.

Epistemology and Cognition
Courses in this area examine the nature, sources, and limits of human knowledge. Some of these courses consider the standards for justifying knowledge about human beings and the world in which they live, as well as philosophical debates, both contemporary and historical, about the nature of such standards. Other courses explore aspects of intelligence—among them language, memory, perception, and learning and the cognitive, computational, and neural processes that underlie them.

Religion, Ethics, and Moral Philosophy
Courses meeting this requirement engage students in disciplined reflection on human conduct, the nature of values, the traditions of thought that have informed these values, and the religious traditions of the world. These courses will help students understand moral and political theory, ethical issues, and the role of religion in human life and society.

Historical Studies
Courses in this area develop students’ understanding of history in one, or both, of two ways: (1) by illuminating the distinctiveness of one or another part of the past, with the goal of bringing students to an appreciation of political, social, economic, or cultural configurations different from their own, and (2) by exploring the processes of historical change, through which one configuration of institutions, ideas, and behaviors is replaced by another.

Students must complete three units from the following two distribution areas. At least one unit must come from each of these two areas, and at least one unit must be a laboratory course:

Natural and Physical Science
This requirement is designed to give students a basic knowledge of the capabilities and limitations of the scientific method of inquiry. Courses in this area focus on understanding scientific concepts and emphasize the methods used to gather, interpret, and evaluate scientific data.

Mathematical Modeling and Problem Solving in the Natural Sciences, Mathematics, and Computer Science Courses in this group help students develop skills needed: (1) to formulate, understand, and analyze mathematical models of natural phenomena, and/or (2) to formulate and solve complex problems requiring a logical progression through multiple mathematical or computational steps.

Foreign Language Requirement
Students must exhibit a degree of proficiency in the use of one foreign language, either ancient or modern. Many students fulfill this requirement by passing one of the language tests offered by the College Board. Wellesley requires a score of 690 or better on the SAT II: Subject Test, or a score of at least 4 on the Advanced Placement Examination (AP) to fulfill the foreign language requirement for the classes of 2006, 2007, 2008, and 2009. Beginning with the class of 2010, a score of 690 on the SAT II subject test or a score of 5 on the AP exam is required. This requirement can also be met by the completion of two units of language study at the second-year college level or one unit of language study above the second-year college level.

Students may earn credit for introductory courses in no more than two modern foreign languages. Fulfillment of the foreign language requirement through work done at another institution must be approved by the appropriate department. A student whose native language is not English and who has studied that language and its literature through high school will be exempted from this requirement, subject to approval of the Class Dean and the Academic Review Board.
Writing Requirement
Each entering student is required to complete one semester of expository writing in her first year. Courses (numbered 125) are offered in the Writing Program. Transfer students and Davis Scholars who have not fulfilled a similar requirement must also complete one semester of expository writing, either a Writing 125 course or Writing 225. Students are expected to use acceptable standards of spoken and written English in their college work.

Multicultural Requirement
All students must complete one unit of course work that focuses on (1) African, Asian, Middle Eastern, Caribbean, Latin American, Native American, or Pacific Island peoples, cultures, or societies; and/or (2) a minority American culture, such as those defined by race, religion, ethnicity, sexual orientation, or physical ability; and/or (3) the processes of racism, social or ethnic bias, or cross-cultural interaction. Each student, in consultation with her first-year advisor, her major or minor advisor, or her Class Dean, will choose a course to meet this requirement. She will explain her choice in a written statement to be submitted to and signed by the advisor or dean with whom she has consulted.

The multicultural requirement may be satisfied with a course that also satisfies a distribution requirement. Writing 125 may not be used to satisfy the multicultural requirement.

Quantitative Reasoning Requirement
The ability to think clearly and critically about quantitative issues is imperative in contemporary society. Today, quantitative reasoning is required in virtually all academic fields, is used in almost every profession, and is necessary for decision-making in everyday life. The quantitative reasoning requirement is designed to ensure that all Wellesley College students are proficient in the use of mathematical, logical, and statistical problem-solving tools needed in today’s increasingly quantitative world.

The quantitative reasoning requirement consists of two parts: (1) the basic skills component and (2) the overlay course component. The basic skills component is satisfied either by passing the Quantitative Reasoning Assessment given to all entering students or by passing QR 140, the basic skills course that builds mathematical skills in the context of real-world applications. Students are required to satisfy the basic skills component in their first year so that they may enroll in the many courses for which basic quantitative skills (including algebra, geometry, basic probability and statistics, graph theory, estimation, and combinatorics) are a prerequisite.

The overlay component is satisfied by passing a QR overlay course. Such courses emphasize statistical analysis and interpretation of data in a specific discipline. The Committee on Curriculum and Instruction has designated specific courses in fields from across the curriculum as ones that satisfy the QR overlay requirement. A QR overlay class may satisfy another distribution requirement as well. For more information about the Quantitative Reasoning Program, see Courses of Instruction.

The Major
Students may choose from over 50 departmental, interdepartmental, and structured individual majors or they may design an individual major. Of the 32 units required for graduation, at least eight are to be elected in the major. Many departments and programs require more than eight units, and Directions for Election of the major vary. (See departmental listings for specific requirements.) While a student must complete one major, she may choose to complete two majors or a major and a minor. No single course may be counted toward two majors or toward both a major and a minor.

Students who would like to elect an individual major should submit a plan of study to two faculty members from different departments. Normally, the plan should include eight units above the introductory level, four of which should be in one department. The program for the individual major is subject to the approval of the Committee on Curriculum and Instruction.

By the second semester of the sophomore year each student elects a major field and prepares for the Registrar a statement of the courses to be included in the major. Later revisions may be made with the approval of the chair of the major department, the director of the interdepartmental major, or in the case of the individual major, with the consent of the student's advisors and the Committee on Curriculum and Instruction.

Other Requirements
In order to ensure a broad exposure to the liberal arts curriculum and to avoid premature specialization, of the 32 units required for graduation, students must elect 18 units outside any one department. Of the last four semesters completed for the degree, a normal course load must be taken at Wellesley in two consecutive semesters.

In addition, all students must complete the physical education requirement described in the Courses of Instruction (see Department of Physical Education, Recreation, and Athletics) for which no academic credit is given.

Additional Academic Programs

Research or Individual Study
Each academic department provides the opportunity for qualified students to undertake a program of individual study directed by a member of the faculty. Under this program, an eligible student may undertake a research project or a program of reading in a particular field. The results of this work normally are presented in a final report or in a series of short essays. Further conditions for such work are described (in departmental listings) under the courses 250, 250H, 350, and 350H. Students may do no more than two units of 350 work in any one department. Individual study courses may not be used to satisfy distribution requirements. For further opportunities for research and individual study see the Honors section under Academic Distinctions.

The Minor
Some departments and programs at Wellesley offer a minor. Normally, a minor consists of at least five units, with one of them at the Grade III level. Directions for Election of the minor are included in the departmental and program listings. Interested students should consult the chair of the department. A minor form must be filed in the Office of the Registrar. No student is required to complete a minor.

Preparation for Law School
The prelaw student should develop three basic competencies: skill in analysis and reasoning, effective writing and speaking, and breadth of understanding of the diverse factors that make up the community in which the legal system functions (see Legal Studies courses). These competencies can be developed in any field in which the student chooses to major, whether in the social sciences, the humanities, or the natural sciences. Law schools do not specify particular major fields or particular courses of study for admission. Law schools require applicants to submit transcripts from all institutions at which they have completed courses, including summer school and study abroad programs.

Preparation for Medical School

Medical, dental, and veterinary medical schools require special undergraduate preparation. Students should consult as early as possible with the Health Professions Advisory Committee to plan their academic preparation to meet their individual needs and interests. Appointments can be made with the Health Professions secretary in the Science Center.

In general, most health profession schools require two units of English and two units of each of the following science courses (with lab): Introductory Biology, Introductory Chemistry, Organic Chemistry, and Physics. Many schools also require mathematics, in some cases two units of calculus, and additional science courses. Veterinary schools frequently require courses such as speech, technical writing, animal nutrition, genetics, biochemistry, etc. Requirements vary and catalogues of individual schools should be consulted.

All science requirements should be completed before taking the Medical College Admission Test (MCAT) or the Dental Admission Test (DAT), which are taken approximately 16 months before entering medical or dental school. In order to receive the full support of the Health Professions Advisory Committee, undergraduate students should plan to complete at least six of the science and math course requirements at Wellesley and/or its exchange colleges.

Preparation for Engineering

Wellesley students interested in engineering can take advantage of the exchanges with MIT and Olin College. Those who would like to go on to graduate study in engineering can combine a set of engineering courses with a science major at Wellesley in a four-year program. They should consult with the relevant Wellesley advisor to develop a curricular plan. Students interested in an undergraduate engineering degree can apply to the Wellesley/MIT Double Degree Program (see Special Academic Programs).

Students interested in engineering should take mathematics and physics at Wellesley in preparation for courses at MIT and Olin. The Wellesley faculty advisors can provide information concerning engineering fields, prerequisites and contact persons at MIT and Olin.

Academic Advising

At Wellesley, academic advising is provided by the Class Deans and the faculty. The Class Dean is a central source of information about degree requirements, academic legislation, and resources available at the College to help students achieve their academic goals. She advises students about course selections and sequences, and she is available throughout a student's years at Wellesley for consultation about matters of more general intellectual and personal concern.

Starting during Orientation, the faculty serve as mentors about the liberal arts experience, helping first-year students discuss their academic interests, goals, and experiences during their first year at Wellesley and introducing them to areas of the curriculum about which they may lack knowledge. In addition, each first-year student is asked to select a faculty advisor, based on her first semester course choices, to ensure that she has an opportunity to explore her individual interests and concerns about the degree.

The advising of juniors and seniors is also shared by the faculty and the Class Deans. This arrangement provides for systematic and equitable supervision of each student's progress toward the B.A. degree. In addition, it has the double benefit of specialized advice from faculty in the major field and detailed examination of the student's overall program.

The Pforzheimer Learning and Teaching Center

The Pforzheimer Learning and Teaching Center, located in the Margaret Clapp Library, plays a significant role in supporting the intellectual life of both students and faculty on the Wellesley campus. The mission of the Center is twofold: (1) to help students realize their academic potential and (2) to provide opportunities for faculty members to explore different methods of teaching. Peer tutors are at the heart of the Center's academic services for students.

Tutors support students as they build on their academic strengths, overcome difficulties, and develop effective strategies for reading, writing, and thinking. Faculty members participate in programs that enable them to share insights, refine teaching skills, and implement pedagogical innovations.

Academic Policies and Procedures

The academic policies and procedures of the College have been subject to continuous change and examination throughout the College's history, responding to changes in student lifestyles and innovations in the curriculum. The policies and procedures that govern most routine aspects of academic life are described below.

Academic Standards

Academic standards at Wellesley are high, and students take full responsibility for attending classes, submitting required work on time, and appearing for examinations. If students have difficulties with course work, become ill, or have other problems that interfere with their academic work, they should consult with their Class Deans for assistance in making special arrangements for their studies. Tutoring and programs in study skills are offered through the Pforzheimer Learning and Teaching Center.

Students are expected to maintain at least a C average throughout their college career. At the end of each semester the records of those students who are not in good academic standing are examined by the Academic Review Board. The Board will recommend sources of help and may impose conditions for continuing at the College. The College tries to provide the appropriate support services to students in difficulty. Students who show consistent effort are rarely asked to leave the College.

Academic Review Board

The Academic Review Board is the principal body for overseeing each student's academic progress and for granting exceptions to degree requirements and academic policies. The Board researches and recommends changes in academic policy. Dates of Academic Review Board meetings are posted on the Campus-Wide Information System. A student who wishes to submit a petition to the Academic Review Board should do so in consultation with her Class Dean. She should deliver her petition, in writing, at least one week before the petition is to be considered by the Board.

Credit for Advanced Placement Examinations

Students matriculating prior to the fall of 2006 who have taken Advanced Placement Examinations and who make the scores specified by Wellesley College may receive up to eight units of credit toward the B.A. degree, provided they do not register in college for courses that cover substantially the same material as those for which they have received Advanced Placement credit. One unit of credit will be given for each AP examination to students who have received a grade of 4 or 5 with the following exceptions: one unit of credit will be given for a score of 3 and two units for a score of 4 or 5 on the Mathematics BC examination. For art history and studio art majors a score of 5 is required on the Art History examination for exemption from Art 100. No more than two units will be granted for credit in any one department. AP units may not be used to satisfy distribution requirements. Some departments or interdepartmental programs restrict the use of AP credits toward the major; consult the department or program or see Directions for Election under the departmental or program listings. Note: The taking of a course deemed equivalent to one for which AP credit has been granted will nullify the AP credit.

Wellesley College may grant credit for the International Baccalaureate (Higher Level) and other thirteenth-year programs outside the U.S. (e.g., A-levels). For more information, contact the Registrar’s Office.

Summer School and Transfer Course Credit after Matriculation

Students who wish to take courses during the summer or while on a leave of absence must get their courses approved for credit toward the Wellesley degree. An approval form, available in the Registrar’s Office, must be completed for each course taken outside the Twelve College Exchange Program or outside an approved foreign study program. On this form the Registrar’s Office will evaluate the course for the amount of credit, and the department chair for course content. Certain academic departments will not approve outside credit from two-year colleges after a student has matriculated (see departmental Directions for Election). Students should have their courses evaluated and approved prior to enrolling, otherwise credit is not guaranteed. (A course must be equivalent to four semester-hours or six quarter-hours in order to earn one full unit of Wellesley credit.) Credit will be granted only for liberal arts courses taken at an accredited institution. Courses must be taken for a letter grade, and credit will be given only for an approved course in which a grade of C or better is earned. Students must request that an official transcript be sent to the Wellesley College Registrar’s Office. Transcripts should be received by October 1 for summer and previous year course work and by March 1 for fall semester work.

Approved courses may be used toward the distribution requirement within the limitations outlined on pp. 22–24. Students must earn the equivalent of three full Wellesley units (12 semester-hours or 18 quarter-hours) in each distribution group. First-year students must fulfill the writing requirement by completing Writing 125.

Limitations on the Amount of Outside Credit Used Toward the Degree

Of the 32 units required for the B.A. degree, a student may earn a maximum of 16 units through a combination of the following: AP examinations (no more than eight for students matriculating prior to fall of 2006, no more than four for students matriculating in fall 2006 or later), courses taken at another institution during the summer (no more than four), courses at another institution not taken during the summer (no more than eight), college and university credit earned prior to graduation from secondary school and not included in the units of secondary school work presented for admission (no more than two for students matriculating prior to fall 2006, no more than four for students matriculating in fall 2006 or later). All students, including transfer students and Davis Scholars, must complete 16 units at Wellesley. There are limits on the number of outside credits that can be used to fulfill the distribution requirement. See pp. 22–24.

Exemption from Required Studies

Students may be exempted from any of the studies required for the degree, except Writing 125, provided they can demonstrate to the department concerned a reasonable competence in the elements of the course. Exemption from any of the studies required does not affect the general requirement for completion of 32 units of credit. It does, however, make it possible for some students to select more advanced courses earlier in their college careers.

Arrangements for exemption must be made with the chair of the department concerned. In addition to the examination, some departments may require the student to present a paper or an acceptable laboratory notebook. See department listing for specific policies.

Grading System

Wellesley uses the following letter grade system:

Grade A (4.00) is given to students who meet with conspicuous excellence every demand that can fairly be made by the course.

Grade A– (3.67)
Grade B+ (3.33)
Grade B (3.00) is given to those students who add to the minimum of satisfactory attainment excellence in not all, but some, of the following: organization, accuracy, originality, understanding, and insight.

Grade B- (2.67)
Grade C+ (2.33)

Grade C (2.00) is given to those students who have attained a satisfactory familiarity with the content of a course and who have demonstrated ability to use this knowledge in a satisfactory manner.

Grade C- (1.67)
Grade D (1.00) is a passing grade. There is no grade of D+ or D-.
Grade F (0.00)

Students also have the option of electing courses on a credit/noncredit basis. By the end of the third week of a semester, students declare their decision to take a course credit/noncredit using the online registration system. Credit (CR) is given to students who have earned a grade of C or better in the work of the course, thereby indicating satisfactory familiarity with the content of the course. If a grade lower than C is earned, the course will appear on the permanent record with the notation, (NCR), meaning no credit is earned.

Students may take an unlimited number of courses on a credit/noncredit basis. In order to remain eligible for Academic Distinction at Commencement, however, a student may not exceed certain limits in the number of credit/noncredit courses she takes. Students who begin their degrees as first-year students at Wellesley may take no more than one-quarter of their Wellesley and MIT courses after the first year on a credit/noncredit basis. For students who begin their degrees somewhere other than at Wellesley (that is, for transfer students and Davis Scholars), the number of credit/noncredit courses is prorated in proportion to the number of Wellesley courses taken after the equivalent of the first year of college. Students can consult their Class Deans for further clarification.

Incomplete Work
If work for a course is not completed by the end of a semester, a student may ask her instructor for an incomplete. The instructor may decide not to grant an incomplete but rather to assign a grade, taking into account that not all requirements for the course have been met. If the instructor does agree to give the student an incomplete, the student must submit any missing written work to the Registrar’s Office by a date determined by the instructor but no later than the first day of the succeeding semester. Make-up exams are arranged by the Registrar’s Office, generally during the first week of classes. Once all work has been completed and graded, a final grade preceding by “I” will be recorded on the transcript. If a student does not finish her incomplete work by the deadline, the instructor may either submit a grade or ask the Registrar’s Office to record a grade of permanent “INC.”

Excused Incomplete Work
If illness or personal emergency prevents a student from completing her course work by the end of the semester, she may petition the Academic Review Board through her Class Dean to have an incomplete excused. If her petition is granted, the incomplete notation will be removed from her record once the work is completed and a final grade is submitted.

Examinations
An examination period occurs at the end of each semester. Within this period, students determine which of the ten exam periods they intend to use for courses with self-scheduled exams. Examinations are scheduled for some art, music, science, and foreign language courses that require audiovisual equipment. Make-up and special examinations are offered at the beginning of each semester for admission to advanced courses without the stated prerequisites and for exemption from required studies.

Transcripts and Grade Reports
Official transcripts may be ordered in writing from the Registrar’s Office. The request for a transcript should include the name and address of the person to whom the transcript is to be sent, the name by which the person was known as a student at Wellesley, and the years of attendance at the College. There is a charge of $3 for each transcript, and this fee should accompany the request. Transcripts may not be issued if the student has an outstanding bill. Current students may view their grades online at the end of each semester.

Registration for Courses
All returning students must register in April for the courses they select for the fall semester and in November for the spring semester. The registration system remains open to accommodate changes, and students’ schedules are available online. All changes to this schedule must be recorded in the Registrar’s Office by the end of the second week of classes. A student will not receive credit for a course unless she has registered for it, and a student who has registered for a course will remain registered unless she takes formal action to drop it. Each student is responsible for maintaining the accuracy of her registration.

Any conflicts in scheduling must be reported to the Registrar’s Office immediately. A student is not permitted to take a course if it conflicts with any other course on her schedule.

Adding or Dropping Courses
Students may add classes during the first two weeks of classes only. A course may be dropped at any time through the last day of classes. If a course is dropped before the beginning of the fifth week of classes, it will not appear on a student’s record. Students are advised to consult their Class Dean when making any changes in their program.

Auditing Courses
A student who wishes to attend a class as a regular visitor must have the permission of the instructor. Auditors may not submit work to the instructor for criticism, and audited courses will not be considered for credit. An audited course does not appear on the transcript.

Acceleration
Some students complete all the requirements for the degree in less than the usual eight semesters. After one semester at Wellesley, students who wish to accelerate should consult their Class Deans and then write a letter to the Academic Review Board, petitioning to fulfill the requirements in less than the normal period of time.

The petition should include the month and year in which the degree requirements will be fulfilled, and all units that will be counted toward the degree.

An accelerating student must maintain at least a C average at all times.

Voluntary Departures from the College (Leave of Absence and Withdrawal)
Recognizing that students may benefit from interrupting the ordinary sequence of four continuous years at Wellesley, the College allows students to take leaves of absence for a variety of reasons that may include study at another institution, work, travel, health or family problems, or other personal needs. Application for a leave of absence may be made to the Class Dean after a student has completed at least one semester at Wellesley. The leave may be for as short a period as one semester or as long as four semesters. A student who goes on a leave of absence cannot remain in residence on campus more than 48 hours after the effective date of the leave. If a student's leave exceeds four semesters, she will be withdrawn from the College but will be welcome to apply for readmission if she so chooses.

Application for a voluntary leave of absence is due by December 1 for spring semester and by April 15 for fall semester. To obtain permission to attend another institution with the intention of transferring credit back to her Wellesley degree, a student must also submit a detailed plan to her major advisor and her Class Dean. A student on leave may transfer to her Wellesley degree up to eight units of credit taken during an academic year at another institution, four units per semester.

A student who plans to return to the College should take a leave of absence; a student who wishes to leave the College permanently should notify her Class Dean that she is withdrawing. A student who withdraws cannot remain in residence on campus more than 48 hours after the effective date of the withdrawal. If, after withdrawing, a student decides she does after all wish to rematriculate at Wellesley, she must apply for readmission.

Required Departures from the College (Conditional Leaves of Absence, Withdrawal, Suspension, and Expulsion)

The College reserves the right to require a student to leave. She may be suspended if she violates College rules and regulations or the rights of others, or she may be required to take a leave of absence for various reasons: if her continuing presence constitutes a risk to her health, safety or general well-being or to those of the College community; if she is not making adequate progress toward the degree; or if she fails to meet financial obligations to the College. If a student is suspended or required to go on leave, she will not be allowed to return to the College until she has met conditions set by the appropriate College official or board. These conditions will be related to the cause of the suspension or leave. A student on a medical conditional leave, for example, will be required to provide documentation of appropriate medical treatment; a student on an academic conditional leave would be required to meet conditions set by the Academic Review Board; a student on a financial conditional leave would be required to clear her balance. If the student does not meet the conditions of her leave within four semesters, she will be withdrawn from the College. If she later decides to apply for readmission, she must fulfill the conditions of the original leave.

The College also reserves the right to withdraw or expel a student who has egregiously or repeatedly failed to maintain academic or behavioral standards. A student who has been withdrawn may apply for readmission at some later date, whereas a student who has been expelled will not be considered for readmission.

Readmission

A student who has withdrawn from the College and wishes to return should contact the Office of the Dean of Students for the appropriate forms. Readmission will be considered in light of the reasons for withdrawal. A nonrefundable fee of $30 must accompany the application for readmission.

Special Academic Programs

The traditional four-year curriculum offered at Wellesley is enriched by many special academic programs. Some are administered by the College and some are programs run by other institutions in which Wellesley students may participate. Students may participate in some while in residence at the College; others involve living at other colleges or abroad for a semester or a year.

Wintersession

Wintersession is a time in January when students may choose to remain on campus to pursue internships or independent study, noncredit courses, or courses offered for academic credit. Wellesley offers a number of Wintersession courses for credit, including introductory and intermediate language courses, interdisciplinary courses not offered during the fall and spring terms, and immersion experiences involving travel abroad. Several credit-bearing courses are also available at MIT during Wintersession. Students taking Wintersession courses are subject to academic regulations as if they were taking the course during a regular semester.

Wellesley College Summer School

This program is open to undergraduates, postgraduates, and high school juniors and seniors in good academic standing. It offers a range of courses drawn from the Wellesley College curriculum and taught by Wellesley faculty. College students and college graduates may opt to live in the Summer School residence hall or off campus. High school students may not live in the residence hall. Tuition and other fees for summer school are not included in the regular-year tuition. Wellesley students may apply for limited financial aid from the Summer School Office; no financial aid is available to non-Wellesley students.

Wellesley Summer School courses carry full academic course credit; they count as regular units for Wellesley students and are included on the student’s transcript and in the calculation of her grade point average; they do not count toward the limit of four Summer School units that Wellesley students can apply to their degrees. For more information, please contact the Summer School Office or consult your Class Dean.

Cross-Registration Program with the Massachusetts Institute of Technology

Wellesley operates a program of cross-registration with Massachusetts Institute of Technology. A Wellesley student interested in taking specific classes at MIT should consult with the faculty advisor for the relevant MIT department. Registration in MIT courses takes place each semester in both the Wellesley Registrar’s Office and in the Exchange Office at MIT. Students electing to take courses at MIT must register at both institutions during an extended add/drop period of one week each semester. A student will not receive credit for an MIT course unless she has registered properly for it at both MIT and Wellesley. First-year students in their first semester may not take courses at MIT. The amount of Wellesley credit is determined by the total number of hours listed for a course in the MIT catalog as follows:
Total MIT Hours | Wellesley Units
---|---
<6 | no Wellesley credit
6 to 8.99 | .50 units
9 to 14.99 | 1.00 unit
15 to 17.99 | 1.25 units
18 to 24 | 2.00 units

Wellesley Double Degree Program

Wellesley offers a Double Degree Program that enables Wellesley students who are accepted to MIT as transfer students to earn a B.A. degree from Wellesley and an S.B. degree from MIT over the course of five years. Students fulfill degree and major requirements at both institutions. Interested Wellesley students apply for transfer admission to MIT during the spring semester of their sophomore year. Students may only consider the MIT departments listed on the Double Degree Web site: http://www.wellesley.edu/USSiode/mitdoubledegree.html. Students should also be aware that access to a given department could at times be limited for transfer students. Wellesley applicants are subject to the same admissions criteria and financial aid policies used by MIT for all other college transfer applicants.

Accepted students do not enroll at MIT until they have completed their junior year at Wellesley. During this “bridge year” students are assigned major advisors at both institutions so that they can plan a program which will advance their work toward both degrees. During the fourth and fifth years students enroll at MIT. Our existing Wellesley/MIT Exchange permits cross-registration throughout the five-year period; this enables students to integrate their two courses of study more completely.

Wellesley/Brandeis BA/MAief 5-year Program

(or BA/MAief 5-year Program)

Brandeis University’s Master of Arts in International Economics and Finance (MAief) is a two-year graduate program in its International Business School. This program prepares students for careers in international finance, business, policymaking and other fields that require strong analytical skills in international economics and finance. Qualified Wellesley undergraduate economics majors who wish to earn the MAief may apply in their junior year to pursue a special track, the BA/MAief, beginning in the senior undergraduate year. The BA/MAief program allows a student to complete a Wellesley BA and then the MAief with only one year of post-BA study. Additional information on the BA/MAief program can be obtained from the Department of Economics.

Cooperative Programs with Babson College, Brandeis University, and Olin College of Engineering

Wellesley has established cooperative programs with Babson College, Brandeis University, and Olin College of Engineering. All courses must be approved individually for transfer credit and for the major by the relevant Wellesley department. Students interested in taking specific courses at Olin should consult with the Wellesley faculty advisor for the relevant Olin department.

The Twelve College Exchange Program

Wellesley belongs to a consortium that includes Amherst, Bowdoin, Connecticut College, Dartmouth, Mount Holyoke, Smith, Trinity, Vassar, Wesleyan, Wheaton, and Williams. Two one-semester programs associated with the Twelve College Exchange are the National Theater Institute in Waterford, Connecticut, and the Williams Mystic Seaport Program in American Maritime Studies. Students in good standing may apply for a semester or full academic year in residence at any of the member institutions with the following exception. Williams has announced that it will not accept exchange students until further notice. The number of places on all campuses is limited and admission is competitive. Preference is given to students planning to participate in their junior year.

Students must request that transcripts be sent to the Registrar’s Office to receive credit for work done away from Wellesley.

The Wellesley-Spelman Exchange Program

Wellesley maintains a student exchange program with Spelman College in Atlanta, Georgia, a Black liberal arts college for women. The program is open to students in their junior or senior year.

The Wellesley-Mills Exchange Program

Wellesley maintains an exchange program with Mills College, a women’s college in Oakland, California, which has a cross-registration program with the University of California at Berkeley.

Semester in Environmental Science at Woods Hole

Qualified Wellesley students may apply for the Semester in Environmental Science Program held each fall at the Marine Biological Laboratory in Woods Hole, Massachusetts. This 14-week program emphasizes the measurement and understanding of biogeochemical cycles and processes in terrestrial, freshwater, and marine ecosystems. Intended primarily for juniors, participation is limited to approximately two students per year. Interested students should contact the Department of Biological Sciences for additional information.

International Study

Approximately 40 percent of students elect to spend a semester or year abroad, normally during the junior year, in order to gain language proficiency, develop a new perspective on their majors, or to take courses that are not available on campus. Wellesley sponsors study abroad programs and exchanges in Argentina, Austria, England, France, Italy, Japan, Korea, Mexico and Spain. In addition, students may choose from a list of more than 100 approved externally-administered programs worldwide. For more information on the available study abroad programs, please visit the Office of International Study.

Students studying abroad during the 2005–06 academic year pay tuition and fees directly to the provider; regular Wellesley financial aid does not apply to study abroad programs sponsored by other institutions. Beginning in the 2006–07 academic year, students who enroll in any approved study abroad program will pay regular Wellesley tuition and fees and will remain eligible for Wellesley financial aid.

Students considering study abroad should consult their Class Dean and the Director of International Studies in the fall of their sophomore year in order to determine eligibility and application requirements. Upon successful completion of an approved program of study abroad, students may earn up to four Wellesley units per semester. All courses must be approved in advance by the Office of International Study, and official transcripts must be sent from the program provider to the Registrar’s Office.
Summer International Study
In lieu of or in addition to a semester or year abroad, many students participate in international summer programs, either for academic credit or personal enrichment. The Office of International Study can assist students in locating and applying to appropriate summer programs. Students wishing to earn credit for a summer program must have courses approved in advance both by the relevant academic department chair and by the Director of International Studies.

Washington Summer Internship Program
The College sponsors a summer public service internship program in Washington, D.C. The internships are for ten weeks and come with paid housing in local university dormitories and with stipends to help cover other living costs. Selection of participants is made each fall and is based on academic background, faculty recommendations, work experience, extracurricular activities, a writing sample, and an interview.

The Washington program offers an opportunity for 16–18 juniors to work in government agencies, political organizations, public interest groups, and research and cultural centers. Recent placements have included the White House Communications Office, the State Department, the Senate Judiciary Committee, the Sierra Club, the National Women’s Health Network, and the National Gallery of Art. In addition to their full-time jobs, interns plan and participate in a weekly seminar program designed to broaden their understanding of government, politics, and public policy. Each intern is also assigned a mentor from the Washington Alumnae Club. For further information, contact the Department of Political Science.

Academic Distinctions
To give recognition for superior or advanced work, either upon graduation or during the student’s career, the College confers a number of academic distinctions.

Honors in the Major Field
Students who have shown marked excellence in their major field may earn honors in the major. The usual route to honors, offered by all departments and programs, involves writing an honors thesis and successfully passing an oral examination by a thesis committee. To be admitted to the thesis program, a student must have a grade point average of at least 3.5 in all work in the major field above the 100-level. Some departments and programs require a higher average. Departments may petition on behalf of exceptional students whose averages fall between 3.0 and 3.5. Students enroll in Senior Thesis Research (360) in the first semester and carry out independent work under the supervision of a faculty member. If sufficient progress is made, students continue with Senior Thesis (370) in the second semester. Specific requirements vary with departments and programs; see the relevant sections of the bulletin for details. Some departments and programs offer other routes to honors in the major; these are described in their Directions for Election.

Other Academic Distinctions
The College names to First-Year Distinction those students who maintain high academic standing during the first year. Wellesley College Scholars and Durant Scholars are named at Commencement, based on academic records after the first year. Students with an average of 3.60 or higher will be Wellesley College Scholars cum laude; those with an average of 3.75 or higher will be Durant Scholars magna cum laude; students with a 3.90 or higher average will be Durant Scholars summa cum laude.

For purposes of establishing honors, grade point averages are truncated to two decimal places. Students whose records contain more than three incompletes within the last 24 units or who have taken more than a stipulated number of credit/non-credit courses (see Grading System) shall not be eligible for these honors.

Juniors and seniors are elected to membership in the Eta of Massachusetts chapter of Phi Beta Kappa on the basis of their total academic achievement in college. Seniors who are majoring in the sciences may be elected to associate membership in the Wellesley chapter of Sigma Xi.

On recommendation of the faculty, the trustees award the title of Trustee Scholar to four seniors who intend to pursue graduate studies. The awards are made on a competitive basis; the title is honorary. In cases of financial need, stipends are awarded to the Scholars or, if not required by them, to alternates who need financial assistance. Applications and supporting credentials should be sent to the Secretary to the Committee on Graduate Fellowships by December 1.

Certain prizes have been established at the College for the recognition of excellence in a particular field. The selection of the recipient is made by the appropriate academic department; each award carries a small stipend or gift and usually bears the name of the donor or the person honored.
Courses of Instruction

A semester course that carries one unit of credit requires approximately eleven hours of work each week spent partly in class and partly in preparation. The amount of time scheduled for classes varies with the subject from two periods each week in many courses in the humanities and social sciences to three, four, or five scheduled periods in certain courses in foreign languages, in art and music, and in the sciences. A semester course which carries 1.25 units of credit ordinarily includes at least 300 minutes per week of scheduled class time as well as significant work outside of class. Classes are scheduled from Monday morning through late Friday afternoon.

AFR 105 Introduction to the Black Experience

Martin

NOT OFFERED IN 2005-06. This course serves as the introductory offering in African Studies. It explores in an interdisciplinary fashion salient aspects of the Black experience, both ancient and modern, at home and abroad.

Prerequisite: None
Distribution: N/O
Semester: Fall
Unit: 1.0

AFR 201 The African American Literary Tradition

Cudjoe

A survey of the Afro-American experience as depicted in literature from the eighteenth century through the present. Study of various forms of literary expression including the short story, autobiography, literary criticism, poetry, drama, and essays as they have been used as vehicles of expression for Black writers during and since the slave experience.

Prerequisite: None
Distribution: Language and Literature
Semester: Fall
Unit: 1.0

AFR 202/PHIL 202 Introduction to African Philosophy

NOT OFFERED IN 2005-06. OFFERED IN 2006-07. Initiation into basic African philosophical concepts and principles. The first part of the course deals with a systematic interpretation of such questions as the Bantu African philosophical concept of Muntu and related beliefs, as well as Bantu ontology, metaphysics, and ethics. The second part centers on the relationship between philosophy and ideologies and its implications in Black African social, political, religious, and economic institutions. The approach will be comparative. Students may register for either AFR 202 or PHIL 202 and credit will be granted accordingly.

Prerequisite: Open to seniors, juniors, and sophomores without prerequisite and to first-year students who have taken one other course in philosophy.
Distribution: Religion, Ethics, and Moral Philosophy or Epistemology and Cognition
Semester: N/O, Offered in 2006-07.
Unit: 1.0

AFR 203/SOC 203 Introduction to African American Sociology

Rollins

NOT OFFERED IN 2005-06. An introduction to the African American intellectual traditions within the discipline of sociology. Beginning with an examination of the contributions of the founders of these traditions (DuBois, Johnson, Frazier, Cox et al.), the course then focuses on some of the main contemporary discussions: the Black family, Afrocentric sociology, the class versus race debate, and feminist sociology. Throughout the semester, African American sociology will be discussed within the contexts of traditional Eurocentric sociology and the particular political-economic structure in which it exists. Students may register for either AFR 203 or SOC 203 and credit will be granted accordingly.

Prerequisite: None
Distribution: N/O
Semester: Fall
Unit: 1.0

AFR 204 Third World Urbanization

Steady

Beginning with the origins and characteristics of cities in selected Third World countries, the course then focuses on the socioeconomic structure of preindustrial cities and the later impact of colonialism, concluding with an examination of contemporary issues of Third World cities.

Prerequisite: None
Distribution: Social and Behavioral Analysis
Semester: Fall
Unit: 1.0

AFR 206 Introduction to African-American History, 1500 to Present

Adkins

An introductory survey of the political, social, economic, and cultural development of Afro-Americans from their African origins to the present.

Prerequisite: None
Distribution: Historical Studies
Semester: Fall
Unit: 1.0

AFR 207 Images of Africana People through the Cinema

Obeng

An investigation of the social, political, and cultural aspects of development of African people through the viewing and analysis of films from Africa, Afro-America, Brazil, and the Caribbean. The class covers precolonial, colonial, and postcolonial experiences and responses of Africana people. Films shown will include Sugar Cane Alley, Zan Boko, and Sankofa.

Prerequisite: None
Distribution: Arts, Music, Theatre, Film, Video
Semester: Fall
Unit: 1.0

AFR 208/SOC 206 Women in the Civil Rights Movement

Rollins

An examination of the role of women in the classical Civil Rights Movement. Particular attention will be paid to the interplay between the social factors of the women (e.g., their class, religiosity, race, regional background, age) and their perspectives/behavior within the movement. Essentially, women's impact on the Civil Rights Movement and the effects of the Movement on the women involved are the foci of this course. Students may register for either AFR 208 or SOC 206 and credit will be granted accordingly.

Prerequisite: None
Distribution: Historical Studies or Social and Behavioral Analysis
Semester: Fall
Unit: 1.0

AFR 209/ARTH 209 Topics in West African Art

Topic for 2005-06: West African Photography

This course will look at the emergence of West African photography in the mid-nineteenth century initially as a medium used by Europeans during the colonialist era and subsequently employed by West Africans themselves as a medium of self-definition and liberation. A wide range of examples will be examined including nineteenth-century African studio photography in Sierra Leone, the mid-twentieth-century work of Malian, Seydou Keita, photographs in important visual cultural outlets like the Nigerian Drum Magazine, and works by contemporary African photographers such as Ousmane Ndiaye Dago of Senegal. The political and stylistic aspects of portraiture, documentary, ethnography, pop and abstraction will be important to our discussion of the medium. Students may register for either AFR 209 or ARTH 209 and credit will be granted accordingly.

Prerequisite: ARTH 101 or permission of the instructor
Distribution: Arts, Music, Theatre, Film, Video
Semester: Spring
Unit: 1.0

AFR 212 Black Women Writers

Cudjoe

The Black woman writer's efforts to shape images of herself as Black, as woman, and as artist. The problem of literary authority for the Black woman writer, criteria for a Black woman's literary tradition, and the relation of Black feminism or "womanism" to the articulation of a distinctively Black and female literary aesthetic.

Prerequisite: None
Distribution: Language and Literature
Semester: Spring
Unit: 1.0

AFR 213 Race Relations and Racial Inequality

NOT OFFERED IN 2005-06. This course is designed to examine the historical relationship between race and the American legal system. Through an examination of the legal response to racism in American society, students will gain an appreciation of the evolving race relations law.

Prerequisite: None
Distribution: Social and Behavioral Analysis
Semester: N/O
Unit: 1.0

AFR 216 History of the Caribbean

Martin

NOT OFFERED IN 2005-06. A survey of political, economic, and sociological factors shaping Caribbean society. Topics covered include Africans in the New World before Columbus, genocide against the indigenous peoples, slavery and slave revolts, immigration and emigration, the Caribbean and Africa, the Caribbean and African America, the struggle for majority rule, the spread of United States influence, independence, and its challenges.

Prerequisite: None
Distribution: Historical Studies
Semester: N/O
Unit: 1.0

AFR 217 The Black Family

Adkins

This course is an overview of the African American family in economic, sociological, psychological, economic, anthropological, and historical perspectives. It is an examination of the complex interplay of self-definitions, societal, and community definitions among African American women, men, and children within the context of their families. The course is also an exploration of changing gender roles among African American women and men.

Prerequisite: None
Distribution: Social and Behavioral Analysis
Semester: Spring
Unit: 1.0
AFR 222 Images of Women and Blacks in American Cinema

Obeng

A study of the creation of images and their power to influence the reality of race and gender in the American experience. Viewing and analysis of American cinema as an artistic genre and as a vehicle through which cultural and social history are depicted.

Prerequisite: None
Distribution: Social and Behavioral Analysis
Semester: Spring
Unit: 1.0

AFR 222/MUS 208 A History of Jazz

TBA

This course offers a listener's introduction to jazz, one of the greatest expressions of American artistic genius. Early jazz drew from several vibrant streams of indigenous musical art (including ragtime and blues), and subsequent stylistic phases have corresponded closely to significant developments in social history; knowledge of jazz is thus highly relevant to an understanding of American culture since 1900. Through a selection of recordings and readings, we will follow the progression of jazz styles from African roots to recent developments. A fundamental goal of the course is that students learn to listen to music critically: to discern and interpret form, texture, style, and expressive content in jazz of all periods. Students may register for either AFR 224 or MUS 208 and credit will be granted accordingly.

Prerequisite: None. Not open to students who have taken AFR 233/MUS 233.
Distribution: Arts, Music, Theatre, Film, Video or Historical Studies
Semester: Spring
Unit: 1.0

AFR 225 Introduction to Black Psychology

NOT OFFERED IN 2005-06. Issues and perspectives in the study of the psychological development of Black people in America, past and present. Special consideration is given to such issues as the Afrocentric and Eurocentric ethos, the nature of Black personality as affected by slavery and racism, psychological assessment, treatment and counseling techniques, and the relationships between psychological research and social policy in American research.

Prerequisite: None
Distribution: Social and Behavioral Analysis
Semester: Spring
Unit: 1.0

AFR 226 Seminar. Environmental Justice, Race, and Sustainable Development

Steady

NOT OFFERED IN 2005-06. An investigation of the extent to which the causes and consequences of environmental degradation are influenced by social inequality and the devaluation of indigenous peoples. The course will examine how the poor, indigenous peoples and people of color are subjected to environmental hazards. Topics include the link between negative environmental trends and social inequality; the social ecology of slums, ghettos and shanty towns; the disproportionate exposure of some groups to pollutants, toxic chemicals, and carcinogens; dumping of hazardous waste in Africa and other Third World countries; and industrial threats to the ecology of small island states in the Caribbean. The course will evaluate Agenda 21, the international program of action from the Earth Summit designed to halt environmental degradation and promote sustainable development.

Prerequisite: None
Distribution: Social and Behavioral Analysis
Semester: Spring
Unit: 1.0

AFR 227/MUS 208 The Blues in Historical and Cultural Context

NOT OFFERED IN 2005-06. This course offers a historical overview of the development of recorded blues music, a genre with a deep and lasting influence on the American musical and cultural landscape. Understanding the development of the blues entails considering the social conditions that informed twentieth-century African American life. Through related readings and class discussions, we will address these conditions as key issues in the study of the blues. We will develop a critical vocabulary for discussing blues music as a cultural phenomenon, and, through close listening and music analysis, we will learn how to discern the presence of blues influence in other musical genres. Students may register for either AFR 227 or MUS 208 and credit will be granted accordingly.

Prerequisite: None
Distribution: Arts, Music, Theatre, Film, Video or Historical Studies
Semester: Spring
Unit: 1.0

AFR 29 Rap Music and the African American Poetic Tradition

Cudjo

NOT OFFERED IN 2005-06. This course examines the African American poetic tradition from its roots in African oral literature to its contemporaneous manifestation in rapping, a showcase for African American braggadocio, and the art of verbal dexterity and storytelling. The connection of this literary tradition with American cultural values will also be explored. The course will examine the works of Phyllis Wheatley, Langston Hughes, James Weldon Johnson, Melvin Tolson, Gwendolyn Brooks, Robert Hayden, Derek Walcott, Gill Scott-Heron, the Last Poets, Nikki Giovanni, Public Enemy, Run-D.M.C., Tupac, and other artists.

Prerequisite: None
Distribution: Arts, Music, Theatre, Film, Video
Semester: Spring
Unit: 1.0

AFR 232/332/MUS 225/325 Topics in Ethnomusicology: Africa and the Caribbean Washington (Music)

The course will focus on the traditional, folk, and popular musics of Africa and the Caribbean. Emphasis will be placed on issues of Africanism and marginal retention in the music of Brazil, Cuba, and Haiti. The musical repertoires of Candomble, Santeria, and Vodun, as well as the samba, rumba, and merengue will be discussed in terms of their respective influences on the modern musics of Africa. The musical "round trip" between Africa and the Caribbean, whereby genres like the rumba spawned new forms including the jujus of Nigeria, the soukous of Zaire, and the highlife of Ghana will be closely examined. Musical analysis will be required of those students electing to enroll at the 300 level. Students may register for either AFR 232/332 or MUS 225/325 and credit will be granted accordingly.

Prerequisite: MUS 100, 111, 122 or permission of instructor. In addition, for MUS 325 or AFR 332, MUS 200 or 201 is required.

AFR 316/ARTH 316 Contemporary African Exhibitions
Hyacinthe (Art)
The ground-breaking Short Century: Independence and Liberation Movements in Africa 1945–1994, curated by Okwui Enwezor and his team of African scholars, was influential in framing how modern/postmodern African art would be contextualized in museums and galleries in the new millennium. How might we view this exhibition in relation to preceding, contemporaneous and subsequent large-scale African exhibitions? Students will critique the important exhibits of the era, develop a familiarity with the primary artists on display, and formulate a curatorial strategy for their own contemporary African Art show. Students may register for either AFR 316 or ARTH 316 and credit will be granted accordingly.

Directions for Election

A major in Africana studies requires nine units. An Africana studies major will choose one of four possible concentrations: Africa, the Caribbean, the United States, or a general Africana studies concentration. All of the four concentrations encompass the interdisciplinary approach of the department, while allowing students to focus on a particular area and gain expertise in one discipline. The first three courses of study focus on geographic areas; the fourth, designed in consultation with the student’s advisor, allows the student to create a concentration on a particular salient aspect (e.g., Africana women or Africana arts) or issue (e.g., comparative race relations) in the Africana world.

It is strongly recommended that majors and minors take 105 before undertaking specialized courses of study. This course provides an overview of the discipline of Africana studies, including its philosophical and historical foundations, and introduces students to its major fields of inquiry. Of the nine units required for an Africana studies major, at least two must be at the 300 level and, ordinarily, not more than two may be taken outside the department.

Africa: This program of study is designed to provide students with an interdisciplinary and integrated understanding of the peoples of the African continent, from its ancient foundation through its current geopolitical situation. However, to insure students’ breadth of knowledge of the Africana world, two courses that focus on a geographic area other than Africa are required. Six courses that focus on Africa are the foundation of this concentration: one course must be in history; one must be in a social science (economics, political science, sociology, anthropology, or psychology); one must be chosen from the humanities (literature, art, music, philosophy, and religion); and two should be chosen from a specific discipline. The following courses are appropriate for the Africa concentration:

Humanities: AFR 202, 207, [211], 222, [231], 232, 251, AFR 241, FREN 218, 330, HIST [319]

The Caribbean: This program of study also provides students with an interdisciplinary knowledge of a particular geographic area: the Caribbean – its history, peoples, culture, and significance in the world system. As with the other concentrations, students focusing on the Caribbean are expected also to acquire some breadth of knowledge about the Africana world; thus, two courses focused on other areas are required. Of the five courses on the Caribbean, one must be a humanities course; one must be a social science; one must be a history course; and two must be chosen from one discipline. (See the African track for the specific disciplines considered “humanities” and “social sciences.”) The following courses are appropriate for the Caribbean concentration:

Humanities: AFR 207, [210], 232, 234, 310, [335], FREN 218, 330, SPAN 269

The United States: As with the other concentrations, students who choose the United States should approach their study of African America through many disciplines. The concentration requires five courses focused on the United States: one in history, one in the humanities, one in social science, and two in the discipline in which the student chooses to concentrate. (See the Africana concentration for the specific disciplines considered “humanities” and “social sciences.”) To ensure students’ breadth of knowledge of the Africana world, however, this track also requires two courses focused on one or more geographic areas other than the United States. The following courses are appropriate for the United States concentration:

Social Sciences: AFR 203, 208, [214], [215], 217, [219], [220], [221], 225, [230], 305, [306], [315], POLI 337S

Humanities: AFR [150], 201, 212, 222, 233, [262], 310, ENG 320 (Topic for 2004-05), MUS 300 (Topic C in 2004-05)

General Africana studies: This concentration allows students to design a more eclectic focus in Africana studies or a focus which cuts across geographic and discipline boundaries (e.g. Africana women’s studies) or a discipline-focused course of study that is cross-cultural (e.g., Africana arts). Students must have their programs of study approved by their advisors. This program should demonstrate the same geographic and disciplinary breadth as the previous three (i.e., at least two geographic regions must be represented in the courses chosen; and at least one history course, one humanities, and one social science are required). Of the seven courses to be elected, at least three must be in one discipline.

For all concentrations, students are encouraged to gain first-hand experiential insights in the Africana world. Students in the Africa and Caribbean concentrations are encouraged to consider the Winter session courses in Ghana and Jamaica concentrations. Those in the Africa

AN INTERDEPARTMENTAL MAJOR

Director: Fisher (English)
American Studies Advisory Committee: Bedell (Art), Imber (Sociology), Koehn (Religion), Rosenwald (English), Stettner (Political Science)

The American studies major seeks to understand the American experience through a multidisciplinary program of study. The requirements for the major are as follows. Nine units of course work are required for the major, at least six of which should be taken at Wellesley College. These courses include AMST 101, which should be completed before the end of the junior year; at least two courses in historical studies; one course in literature; one course in the arts; and one course from any of the following three areas: social and behavioral analysis; or epistemology and cognition; or religion, ethics, and moral philosophy. Students are also expected to take at least two 300-level courses, one of which should be AMST 317 or 318, taken in the junior or senior year. AMST 350, 360 and 370 do not count towards this requirement. To ensure some concentration in a field of American society and culture, at least three courses should be elected in one department. In consultation with the director, a student may choose to focus her concentration in an area or field, such as law, women, or Asian America, assembling her group of three or more courses in this topic from two or more departments. American studies majors with an Asian American concentration are encouraged to take courses that specifically address Asian American issues, such as AMST 151, ENG 269, [HIST 267], WOST 248, WOST 249.

Within this structure, students are encouraged to explore the diversity of American culture and the many ways to interpret it. Most courses at the College that are primarily American in content may be applied to the American studies major. American studies majors are encouraged to take as part of, or in addition to, their major courses, surveys of American history, literature, and art (for example, HIST 203/204, ENG 262/266, ARTH 231/232) and a course on the American Constitution and political thought (for example, POL 430). In addition, students are urged to take one or more courses outside the major that explore the theory and methods of knowledge creation and production (for example, ECON 103/SOC 190, PHIL 345, POL 199, QR 180, SOC 301).

Honor
The only route to honors in the major is writing a thesis and passing an oral examination. To be admitted to the thesis program, a student must have a grade point average of at least 3.5 in all work in the major field above the 100 level; the department may petition on her behalf if her GPA in the major is between 3.0 and 3.5. See Academic Distinctions.

AMST 101 Introduction to American Studies
Fisher (English)
An interdisciplinary examination of some of the varieties of American experience, aimed at developing a functional vocabulary for further work in American Studies or related fields. After a brief, intense review of American history, the course will direct its focus towards important moments in that history, investigating each of them in relation to selected cultural, historical, artistic, and political events, figures, institutions, and texts. Prerequisite: This course is required of American Studies majors and should be completed before the end of the junior year. Distribution: None. Semester: Fall. Unit: 1.0

AMST 125/WRIT 125 Defining Asian American Literature
Iwanaga (The Writing Program)
NOT OFFERED IN 2005-06. The question we will pose at the outset, and which we will revisit frequently, is "What defines Asian American literature?" The writer's ethnicity? The topic? The intended audience? Authors studied may include Maxine Hong Kingston, Patti Kim, Jhumpa Lahiri, R.O. Butler, Peter Ho Davies, Sandra Tsing Loh, Monique T.D. Truong. Students will also read essays on the power of creativity and the imagination. As students refine their definitions of Asian American literature, spurred on by texts that challenge their initial ideas, they will work toward defining Asian American identity itself. This course satisfies the Writing 125 requirement and counts as a unit towards the Asian American Studies concentration within the American Studies major. Includes a third session each week. Prerequisite: None. Open only to first-year students. Distribution: Language and Literature. Semester: N/O. Unit: 1.0

AMST 151 The Asian American Experience
Lee (English)
An interdisciplinary introduction to the study of Asian Americans, the fastest-growing ethnic group in North America. Critical examination of different stages of their experience from the "coolie labor" and "yellow peril" to the "model minority" and struggles for identity; roots of Asian stereotypes; myth and reality of Asian women; prejudice against, among, and by Asians; and Asian contribution to a more pluralistic, tolerant, and just American society. Readings, films, lectures, and discussions. Prerequisite: None. Distribution: Historical Studies or Religion, Ethics, and Moral Philosophy. Semester: Spring. Unit: 1.0

AMST 317 Seminar. Advanced Topics in American Studies
Bedell (Art History)
Topic for 2005-06 and 2006-07: Disneyland and American Culture. One of the most visited tourist attractions in the world, subject of thousands of books and articles, adored by millions yet reviled by many intellectuals, Disneyland has occupied a prominent place in American culture since it opened in 1955. This seminar will examine Disneyland as an expression of middle class American values, as a locus of corporatism and consumerism, as a postmodern venue, as a utopia, and as an influence upon architecture and urban design. In a broader sense, we will use Disney to explore the ideals, the desires, and the anxieties that have shaped post-World War II American culture.
Shelley (English)
Topic for 2005-06: American Cinema of the 1970s. Between the breakdown of the studio system and the blockbuster era, American filmmaking enjoyed a decade of extraordinary achievement. We'll study the great films produced in this period, such as Taxi Driver, The Godfather, Nashville, Annie Hall, Shampoo, and Apocalypse Now, and connect those films to the national and cinematic contexts of their times.
Prerequisite: Permission of instructor. Enrollment is limited and preference is given to American studies majors.
Distribution: Arts, Music, Theatre, Film, Video
Semester: Spring  Unit: 1.0

Kodera (Religion)
Topic for 2006-07: Interning the "Enemy Race": Japanese Americans in World War II. A close examination of the rationale and the aftermath of internment after Japan's attack on Pearl Harbor of American citizens of Japanese ancestry, together with Japanese nationals, living on the West Coast of the United States. The topics to be considered include: Japan's rise as a colonial power, starting in the late nineteenth century; the place of Asian migrant workers and the "Yellow Peril"; life in the camps; the formation of the Japanese American Citizens League; the history of United States race relations; and race and politics in America.
Prerequisite: Permission of instructor. Enrollment is limited and preference is given to American studies majors.
Distribution: Social and Behavioral Analysis or Historical Studies
Semester: N.O. Offered 2006-07.  Unit: 1.0

AMST 350 Research or Individual Study

ANTH 104 Introduction to Cultural and Social Anthropology

Chu, Ruj, Karkasidou

A comparative approach to the concept of culture and an analysis of how culture structures the world we live in. The course examines human societies from their tribal beginnings to the postindustrial age. We will consider the development of various types of social organization and their significance based on family and kinship, economies, politics, and religion.

Prerequisite: None
Distribution: Social and Behavioral Analysis
Semester: Fall, Spring
Unit: 1.0

ANTH 203 Indigenous People, Global Development and Human Rights

NOT OFFERED IN 2005-06. The course focuses on the processes and consequences of the encroachment of Western societies on indigenous peoples. We will examine the main issues raised by the colonial enterprise which continue to be crucial in the current situations of indigenous societies: economic, political, and social power, economic development, gender relations, health, education and religion. We will study ethnographic cases drawn from different parts of the world and analyze these topics from a historical and comparative perspective. Embedded in these explorations will be the question of indigenous rights within human rights movements and international law.

Prerequisite: None
Distribution: Social and Behavioral Analysis
Semester: N/O
Unit: 1.0

ANTH 204 Physical Anthropology

Kohl

The origin of humans as a sequence of events in the evolution of the primates. This theory is proposed from the perspectives of anatomy, paleontology, genetics, primatology, and ecology. Understanding the interrelationship between biological and sociobiological aspects of human evolution, such as the changing social role of sex. Review of the human fossil record and the different biological adaptations of the polytypic species Homo sapiens.

Prerequisite: None
Distribution: Social and Behavioral Analysis
Semester: Spring
Unit: 1.0

ANTH 206 Archaeology

Kohl

A survey of the development of archaeology. The methods and techniques of archaeology are presented through an analysis of excavations and prehistoric remains. Materials studied range from early hominid sites in Africa to the Bronze Age civilizations of the Old World and the Aztec and Inca empires of the New World. Students are introduced to techniques for reconstructing the past from material remains. The course includes a field trip to a neighboring archaeological site.
ANTH 208 Archaeological Science
Lechtman (at MIT)
An introduction to scientific techniques used in contemporary archaeology. Using a case study format, faculty from the Boston-wide Center for Materials Research Archaeology and Ethnology (CMRAE) present different methods for studying such topics as reconstruction of ancient environments, dating techniques, assessing the diets of ancient populations, and sourcing artifacts through chemical and physical analyses.
Prerequisite: None
Distribution: Social and Behavioral Analysis
Semester: Fall
Unit: 1.0

ANTH 211/RAST 211 Winter Session Program in the Republic of Georgia
Kohl
Not offered in 2005-06. Students travel to Tbilisi, Georgia for Wintersession. They will attend lectures in English at Tbilisi State University on Georgian history, language and culture and on contemporary political developments there and visit sites of historical interest in and around Tbilisi. They live with Georgian families and spend three weeks completing a self-designed internship with a local organization. Students may register for either ANTH 211 or RAST 211 and credit will be granted accordingly. Not offered every year. Subject to Dean’s Office approval.
Prerequisite: One course in ANTH or RAST. Application required.
Distribution: Social and Behavioral Analysis or Historical Studies
Semester: N/O
Unit: 0.5

ANTH 213 Racial and Ethnic Conflict
Not offered in 2005-06. This course has three goals. The first is to address the history of the concept of race and its alleged biological underpinnings. We will explore the perspectives of evolutionary and population biology and trace the development of modern notions of racial difference. Secondly, we will apply a critical anthropological lens to various conceptions of otherness associated with race - notions of ethnicity, caste, nation, culture, and identity - and address their contemporary scholarly and political implications. Finally, we will compare systems of ethnicorial classification and social stratification in diverse societies of the Americas (U.S., Canada, Latin America, and the Caribbean) and examine patterns of conflict and social inequality.
Prerequisite: None
Distribution: Social and Behavioral Analysis
Semester: N/O
Unit: 1.0

ANTH 216 Culture, Knowledge, and Creativity
Lynch (Olin)
Not offered in 2005-06. Anthropological theories and methods help us understand human behavior and values. Broadly speaking, anthropologists ask, “Why do people do what they do and believe what they believe?” Today anthropologists study a wide range of contemporary social topics, such as international development, garment manufacturing, the production of scientific knowledge, female “circumcision,” and intellectual property. In this course, we will read about, debate, and discuss these and other issues related to these topics in order to probe into the meanings of culture, knowledge, and creativity.

ANTH 217 Peoples, Histories, and Cultures of the Balkans
Karakasidou
The Balkan region has been a major trade and cultural crossroads for millennia and encompasses a variety of landscapes, peoples, and cultures. We will read authoritative historical studies and ethnographies as well as short stories, poetry, books of travel and fiction. We will consider the legacy of the classical world, the impact of Islam, the emergence of European commercial empires, the impact of the European Enlightenment in national movements, the emergence of modernization, and the socialist experiments in the hinterlands. The course offers a critical overview of the politics of historical continuity and the resurgence of Balkan nationalisms during the last decade of the twentieth century.

ANTH 220 Race/Ethnicity in the United States: Asian American Identities and Communities in Comparative Perspective
Chu
This course offers analytic tools for grappling with the historical and contemporary complexities of Asian American identification and community formation. Each section of this course introduces students to different theoretical frames for exploring the meaningful contours of the term “Asian American” in relation to other racialized and ethnic groups in the U.S. We will pay particular attention to the historical conditions and ongoing processes for the social formation of persons and collectivities under the rubric of “Asian American” as well as examine multiplicities, contradictions, and gaps of Asian American identifications and politics. Students will learn to critically think about Asian American identification in the wider contexts of orientalism, U.S. imperialism and nationalism, racialization and racism, state governmentality, economic restructuring, transnationalism and other social processes.

ANTH 223 Contemporary Chinese Society
Chu
This course draws from anthropological and cultural-historical frameworks to explore the contemporary terrain of China in relation to an emergent “New World (Dis)Order.” While introducing students to key concepts and major historical developments in twentieth-century China, the course will focus largely on ethnographic studies of social change and everyday life between and between the Mao (1949–1978) and Post-Mao (1978–present) eras. Topics examined include nation-building, Chinese modernity, capitalist development, gendered desires, class inequalities, religious revivalism and cosmopolitan identities. Students will be asked to critically and creatively think about change and continuity in contemporary China not only in terms of the organization of Chinese political institutions, but also in relation to the role of Chinese diasporic populations and other transnational and globalizing forces in producing spatial-temporal imaginaries.
Prerequisite: None
Distribution: Social and Behavioral Analysis
Semester: Spring
Unit: 1.0

ANTH 232 Anthropology of the Media
Chu
This course introduces students to key analytic frameworks through which media and the mediation of culture have been examined. Using an anthropological approach, students will explore how media as representation and as cultural practice have been fundamental to the (trans)formation of modern sensibilities and social relations. We will examine various technologies of mediation— from the Maussian body as “Man’s first technical instrument” to print capitalism, radio and cassette cultures, cinematic and televised publics, war journalism, the digital revolution and the political milieu of spin and PR. Themes in this course include 1) media in the transformation of the senses, 2) media in the production of cultural subjectivities and publics, and 3) the social worlds and cultural logics of media institutions and sites of production.
Prerequisite: None
Distribution: Social and Behavioral Analysis
Semester: Spring
Unit: 1.0

ANTH 234/ES 234 Cultural Ecology
Ruf
This course explores theoretical and methodological issues in the study of human culture and social activity in relation to ecological systems and the environment. Readings include both classic studies as well as contemporary research, with particular emphasis placed on the various dimensions and scales of social organization and activity, and on the role of cultural, religious, and political institutions in shaping ecological relationships as well as economic behavior. Students may register for either ANTH 234 or ES 234 and credit will be granted accordingly.
Prerequisite: None
Distribution: Social and Behavioral Analysis
Semester: Spring
Unit: 1.0

ANTH 238 The Vulnerable Body: Anthropological Understandings
Karakasidou
This course begins with the assumption that the human body is a unit upon which collective categories are engraved. These categories can vary from social values, to religious beliefs, to feelings of national belonging, to standards of sexuality and beauty. Readings in this course will concentrate around the classical and recent attempts in the social and historical sciences to develop ways of understanding this phenomenon of “embodiment.” We will begin with an overview of what is considered to be the “construction” of the human body in various societies and investigate how the body has been observed, experienced, classified, modified, and sacralized in different social formations.

ANTH 242 "Civilization" and "Barbarism" during the Bronze Age, 3500–2000 B.C.E.
Kohl
A review of the earliest emergence of state-stratified societies in the Old World (Pharaonic Egypt, Mesopotamia, the Indus Valley, and Shang China) and their integration through trade, conflict, migrations, and diffusion of technologies, particularly metalworking, with neighboring itinerant societies on their peripheries. The course concludes with a comparison of core-periphery relations in pre-Columbian Mesoamerica and Peru.
Prerequisite: None
Distribution: Historical Studies or Social and Behavioral Analysis
Semester: Spring
Unit: 1.0

ANTH 244 Societies and Cultures of the Middle East
Kohl
NOT OFFERED IN 2005–06. An anthropological overview of the contemporary Middle East with a focus on Islam and non-traditionalist movements; families, values and traditional social institutions, and the emergence of national identities. Contemporary ethnic and international conflicts from an anthropological perspective.
Prerequisite: None
Distribution: Social and Behavioral Analysis
Semester: N/O
Unit: 1.0

ANTH 247 Societies and Cultures of Eurasia
Kohl
NOT OFFERED IN 2005–06. A survey of the non-Russian, largely non-European peoples of the former Soviet Union (particularly ethnic groups in Transcaspian, Central Asia, and Siberia). The course will review how traditional cultures in these areas changed during the years of Soviet rule and will examine the problems they face today with newly gained independence or greatly increased autonomy. Nationality policies of the former Soviet Union will be discussed with a particular emphasis on how they affect the current territorial disputes and conflicts among different ethnic groups (e.g., the undeclared war between Armenia and Azerbaijan over the enclave of Nagorno-Karabagh).
Prerequisite: One unit in any of the following: ANTH, ECON, HIST, POL, SOC.
Distribution: Historical Studies or Social and Behavioral Analysis
Semester: N/O
Unit: 1.0

ANTH 251 Cultures of Cancer
Karakaheidou
This course critically examines cancer as a pervasive disease and a metaphor of global modern cultures. Students will be exposed to the ways cancer is perceived as a somatic and social standard within locally constructed cognitive frameworks. They will investigate the scientific and emotional responses to the disease and the ways cancer challenges our faith and spirituality, our ways of life, notions of pollution and cleanliness and our healing strategies. This approach to cancer is comparative and interdisciplinary and focuses on how specialists in different societies have described the disease, how its victims in different cultures have narrated their experiences, how causality has been perceived, and what interventions (sacred or secular) have been undertaken as therapy and prevention.
Prerequisite: None
Distribution: Social and Behavioral Analysis
Semester: Fall
Unit: 1.0

ANTH 269 Anthropology of Gender, Marriage, and the Family
Ruf
An examination of the variations in gender and family life globally. Comparisons of patterns of behavior and belief systems surrounding marriage, sexuality, parenthood, male and female power, and masculine and feminine temperament. Emphasis on the ways kinship and family life organize society and the ways gender is constructed in conjunction with other identities such as race, class, and nationality. Discussion of the cultural context of male violence against women and women's rights as human rights.
Prerequisite: None
Distribution: Social and Behavioral Analysis
Semester: Fall
Unit: 1.0

ANTH 300 Ethnographic Methods and Ethnographic Writing
Ruf
An exploration of anthropological research and writing through the analytical and practical study of "fieldwork" and "ethnography." Examines a variety of anthropological research methods and genres of representation paying particular attention to questions of knowledge, location, evidence, ethics, power, translation, experience, and the way theoretical problems can be framed in terms of ethnographic research. Students will be asked to apply critical knowledge in a fieldwork project of their own design.
Prerequisite: 301 or two 200-level units in any of the following: ANTH, ECON, HIST, POL, SOC, or permission of instructor.
Distribution: Social and Behavioral Analysis
Semester: Spring
Unit: 1.0

ANTH 301 History and Theory in Anthropology
Ruf
This course introduces students to contemporary anthropology by tracing its historical development and its specific application in ethnographic writing. It examines the social context in which each selected model or "paradigm" took hold and the extent of cognitive sharing, by either intellectual borrowing or breakthrough. The development of contemporary theory will be examined both as internal to the discipline and as a response to changing intellectual climates and social milieu. The course will focus on each theory in action, as the theoretical principles and methods apply to ethnographic case studies.
Prerequisite: Two 200-level units in any of the following: ANTH, ECON, POL, SOC, or permission of instructor.
Distribution: Social and Behavioral Analysis
Semester: Fall
Unit: 1.0

ANTH 308 Seminar for Materials Research in Archaeology and Ethnology
Lechtman (at MIT)
Seminar laboratory subject offered at MIT by the Center for Materials Research in Archaeology and Ethnology. Role of materials and technologies in the development of ancient societies; major focus on scientific analysis of archaeological artifacts and ecosystems.
Prerequisite: Permission of instructor.
Distribution: Natural and Physical Science
Semester: Fall, Spring
Unit: 1.0

ANTH 319 Nationalism, Politics, and the Use of the Remote Past
Kohl
This seminar critically examines the use of prehistory and antiquity for the construction of accounts of national origins, historical claims to specific territories, or the biased assessment of specific peoples. The course begins with an examination of the phenomenon of nationalism and the historically recent emergence of contemporary nation-states. It then proceeds comparatively, selectively examining politically motivated appropriations of the remote past that either were popular earlier in this century or have ongoing relevance for some of the ethnic conflicts raging throughout the world today. The course will attempt to develop criteria for distinguishing credible and acceptable reconstructions of the past from those that are unbelievable and/or dangerous.
Prerequisite: One 200-level unit in any of the following: ANTH, ECON, POL, SOC, or permission of instructor.
Distribution: Historical Studies or Social and Behavioral Analysis
Semester: Fall
Unit: 1.0

ANTH 340 Gendered Violations
Merry, Stein (Center for Research on Women)
NOT OFFERED IN 2005–06. This course joins an anthropological perspective on the construction of gender with an analysis of the forms of intervention which have developed to confront and change gendered violations of women. The course will focus on domestic violence, sexual assault, and sexual harassment and their relationship to the cultural construction of masculinity and femininity in various cultural contexts. The course is experimental in combining social science research and analysis with questions about policy making and intervention into this problem, focusing particularly on the use of law and education.
Prerequisite: Two 200-level units in any of the following: ANTH, SOC, ECON, POL, or permission of instructor.
Distribution: Social and Behavioral Analysis
Semester: N/O
Unit: 1.0

ANTH 342 Anthropology, History, and Native Americans
NOT OFFERED IN 2005–06. Anthropology has had considerable influence in shaping our contemporary understanding of the history of Native Americans from the time of contact. It is now well recognized that each society has its own history and in its own way coping with the challenges of directed and nondirected change. The field of ethnography, incorporating an interdisciplinary methodology, theory, and content, permits us to discover this history. The course will focus on some of the Iroquoian and Algonquian speaking peoples of northeast North America, giving us an opportunity to investigate

Directions for Election
A major in anthropology consists of a minimum of eight units (which may include courses from MIT's anthropology offerings), of which 104, 300 and 301 are required. Students may also elect other relevant statistics or calculus courses, depending on the particular need and interest of the student. Majors are encouraged to take other courses that have a cultural or multicultural focus, such as Cultural Psychology (PSYC 245).
A minor in anthropology consists of five units: 104, two 200-level courses, and two 300-level courses. Students minoring in anthropology are encouraged to choose at least one ethnomethod area course and at least one course which focuses on a particular theoretical problem.

Honors
The only route to honors in the major is writing a thesis and passing an oral examination. To be admitted to the thesis program, a student must have a grade point average of at least 3.5 in all work in the major field above the 100-level; the department may petition on her behalf if her GPA in the major is between 3.0 and 3.5. See Academic Distinctions.

Human Rights Concentration in Anthropology
Directors: Anthropology Department Chair and Thomas Cushman (Sociology)
The Department of Anthropology offers a concentration in Human Rights. Students who major in Anthropology and wish to elect this concentration will take three specific courses that will be counted toward the major:

ANTH [202]/SOC 202 Introduction to Human Rights
SOC 259 The Sociology of International Justice

Open only to students in the classes of 2006, 2007 and 2008 majoring or planning to major in anthropology who have completed ANTH 340 before fall 2005. Other students should consult the Concentration in Human Rights listed under Sociology. Students electing this concentration are encouraged to take other courses in the college curriculum dealing with human rights, to engage in independent research (ANTH 350, 360 and 370), and to participate in internships in human rights organizations in the United States and abroad.

Architecture

AN INTERDEPARTMENTAL MAJOR

Director: McGibbon 42 (Studio Art), Friedman 4-6 (Art History), Irish-Spring only (Studio Art)

A major in architecture offers the opportunity for study of architectural history and practice through an interdisciplinary program. Following Vitruvius' advice on the education of the architect, the program encourages students to familiarize themselves with a broad range of subjects in the humanities, sciences, and social sciences. Students may also elect courses in studio art, mathematics, and physics which lead to appreciation of the principles of design and the fundamental techniques of architecture.

Although courses at MIT are not required for the major, the MIT-Wellesley exchange provides a unique opportunity for students to elect advanced courses in design and construction. Students are also encouraged to consider travel or study abroad as important aspects of their education in architecture, and to take advantage of the wide resources of the College and the Department of Art in pursuing their projects. Each student designs her program of study individually in consultation with the directors. Majors are required to take ARTH 100-101 and ARTS 105. In addition, four units of course work above the 100 level and two 300-level units of course work must be taken in the Department of Art. At least three of these art units (including one at the 300 level) must be taken at Wellesley College. In extraordinary circumstances, students who meet the college's eligibility requirements for honors may, with the permission of the co-directors, elect 360/370 independent work as a path to honors. This is the program's only path to honors. Students may include selections from the list below in their core programs.

Students with disabilities who will be taking art courses and need disability-related classroom or testing accommodations are encouraged to meet with the department chair to make arrangements.

History of Art

ARTh 100 Introduction to the History of Art Part I: Ancient and Medieval Art
Staff

A broad multicultural survey of the art of the Ancient and Medieval worlds. The course focuses upon major monuments and masterpieces, including the Egyptian pyramids, the temples and sculptures of Greece and Rome, the Buddhist shrines of India, the painted scrolls of China and Japan, the mosques of the Islamic Near East, and the Gothic cathedrals of Europe. Two lectures and one conference per week. Conferences emphasize the interpretation of original works of art, and offer hands-on sampling of historical materials and techniques. Required course for all art history, architecture, and studio art majors, who should plan to elect both ARTh 100 and 101 in their first or second year at Wellesley.

Prerequisite: None

ARTh 100/WRIT 125 Introduction to the History of Art Part I: Ancient and Medieval Art
Bedell, Rhodes

See description for ARTh 100 above. Students in this section of ARTh 100 will attend the same twice-weekly lectures as the other ARTh 100 students, but their assignments will be different, and they will attend two special WRIT 125 conferences each week instead of the regular ARTh 100 conferences. Through writing about art, students in 100/125 will develop skills in visual and critical analysis. Enrolling in this course automatically enrolls one in ARTh 100. There is no need to register separately for either ARTh
ARTH 101 Introduction to the History of Art Part II: Renaissance to the Present
Staff
A foundation course in the history of art. From Michelangelo to media culture, this course introduces the visual cultures of Europe, Africa, and the Americas beginning with the Renaissance, using key issues and monuments as the focus of discussion. Two lectures and one conference per week. Weekly conferences emphasize observational and analytical skills and are normally given in the Davis Museum and Cultural Center. Required course for all art history, architecture, and studio art and media arts and sciences majors, who should plan to elect both ARTH 100 and 101 in their first or second year at Wellesley.
Prerequisite: ARTH 100 and 101 can be selected separately, but students are advised to elect 100 before 101.

ARTH 205 Breaking Boundaries: The Arts of Mexico and the United States
Bedell, Ole
NOT OFFERED IN 2005-06. An artificial boundary has long divided the art histories of Mexico and the United States, placing them in separate textbooks, classes, and exhibitions. This lecture course breaks this model. We will compare and contrast the arts of these two nations, beginning with the independence movements of the eighteenth century and ending with the rise of modernism in the 1950s. Topics include representatives of native peoples, responses to the machine age, and the battle of women artists like Frida Kahlo and Georgia O’Keeffe for a respected place in the art world.

ARTH 209/AFR 209 Topics in West African Art
Hyacinthe
Topic for 2005-06: West African Photography. This course will look at the emergence of West African photography in the mid-nineteenth century as a medium used by Europeans during the colonial era and subsequently employed by West Africans themselves as a medium of self-definition and liberation. A wide range of examples will be examined including: nineteeth-century African studio photography in Sierra Leone, the mid-twentieth century work of Malian Seydou Keita, photographs in important visual cultural outlooks like the Nigerian Dram Magazine, and works by contemporary African photographers such as Ousmane Ndiaye Dago of Senegal. The political and stylistic aspects of portraiture, documentary, ethnography, pop and abstraction will be important to our discussion of the medium. Students may register for either ARTH 209 or AFR 209 and credit will be granted accordingly.

ARTH 223 Arts of France
DeLorme
Topic for 2005-06. The Age of Marie-Antoinette. This course explores a pivotal period in world history, for it witnessed the last, terrible days of the French monarch who built Versailles and established the rules of court etiquette. It will focus upon the life, personality, and taste of the central figure—the queen, Marie-Antoinette—who was tragically caught up in the events of the French Revolution and became its victim. We shall examine the personalities who ruled society, their splendid châteaux, unparalleled interiors, gardens, clothing, jewelry, Sevres porcelain, silver, painting, sculpture, and the royal fêtes. Field trip to the Metropolitan Museum, New York. This course fulfills the requirement for French cultural studies.
Prerequisite: ARTH 100 and 101 recommended. No knowledge of French is required.

ARTH 226 History of Photography: From Invention to Advertising Age
Berman
Photography is so much a part of our private and public lives, and it plays such an influential role in our environment, that we often forget to examine its aesthetics, meanings, and histories. This course provides an introduction to these analyses by examining the history of photography from the 1830s to the present. Considering fine arts and mass media practices, the class will examine the works of individual practitioners as well as the emergence of technologies, aesthetic directions, markets, and meanings.

ARTH 236 Art, Architecture, and Culture in the Ancient Americas

Oles

Before the arrival of the Europeans in the late fifteenth century, several brilliant civilizations emerged in North and South America, including the Maya, Aztec, Moche, and Inca. Incorporating the tools of art history, cultural studies, and archaeology, this course explores the visual culture of these pre-Columbian peoples. Lectures that introduce the broader aspects of each civilization will be accompanied by workshops that explore cutting-edge issues. We will also work extensively with objects on display in the Davis Museum. Offered in alternate years.

Prerequisite: None. Not open to students who have taken this course as ARTH 238.

Distribution: Arts, Music, Theatre, Film, Video

ARTH 237 Art, Architecture, and Culture in Post-Conquest Mexico

Oles

NOT OFFERED IN 2005-06. A survey of visual culture in Mexico from the Spanish conquest in the 1520s to current developments in contemporary art. Against a rich spectrum of historical events, we will examine key works of art and architecture, from colonial manuscripts to Frida Kahlo’s self-portraits to recent videos, focusing on how art has served to build a sense of cultural or national identity. Specific topics to be addressed include the construction of race and gender, official patronage of public art, and the myths that have shaped, and continue to shape, what it means to be “Mexican.” Offered in alternate years.

Prerequisite: None. Not open to students who have taken this course as ARTH 238.

ARTH 242 Life, Love, and Art in Ancient Greece

Marvin

NOT OFFERED IN 2005-06. Greek art did more than just initiate the Western artistic tradition. It reflects a paradoxical society that prized freedom, inspired western democracy, invented philosophy, held slaves, degraded women, and institutionalized pedophilia. We will look at the historical development of Greek sculpture and painting — what they meant to the people who made them, and to the later centuries that prized them. Repeated trips to the Boston Museum of Fine Arts.

ARTH 243 Roman Art

Marvin

NOT OFFERED IN 2005-06. From twisting alleys, bars, and brothels of the buried city of Pompeii to standing monuments like the Colosseum, the remains of Rome’s cities disclose a world of extremes. Stretching from Britain to Egypt to southern Russia, the Roman Empire meant luxury and slavery, elegance and cruelty, portraits of individuals and monuments of mass propaganda. We will survey the art of that empire both public and private. Trips to the Boston Museum of Fine Arts and perhaps other museums.

ARTh 248 Chinese Painting
Liu
NOT OFFERED IN 2005-06. Chinese painting is the only tradition in world art that can rival the European painting tradition in the quantity and diversity of its output, the number of recorded artists of note, the complexity of aesthetic issues attached to it, and the sophistication of the written literature that accompanies it through the centuries. This course will examine Chinese painting from early times to the turn of the twentieth century with an introduction to traditional connoisseurship. Issues of examination include major themes, styles, and functions of Chinese painting. Special attention will be given to imperial patronage; the relationship of painting, calligraphy, and poetry; amateurism vs. professionalism; gender in painting; and the tension between tradition and creativity.

Unit: 1.0

ARTh 252 Painting for Princes(ses): Late Medieval Painting and Manuscript Illumination in France and Italy
Armstrong
NOT OFFERED IN 2005-06. Late Medieval Europe witnessed an extraordinary artistic flourishing, largely dependent on aristocratic patronage. Elegant French Gothic art and the new realism of Italian painters are twin elements of the period style. Religious and secular paintings by Giotto (Florence) and Duccio (Siena), and exquisite manuscripts illuminated for French royalty (such as the Très Riches Heures of the Duke of Berry) appear as documents of princely life and of the new attention to nature seen in late medieval art. Sessions on illuminated manuscripts in Clapp Special Collections will be attended.
Prerequisite: None, ARTh 100 recommended.

ARTh 255 Twentieth-Century Chinese Art
Liu
This course examines Chinese art in the socially tumultuous twentieth century that witnessed the end of imperial China in 1911, the founding of the Republic, the rise of the People’s Republic, the 1966–76 Cultural Revolution, the 1989 pro-democracy movement, and the open door and economic reform since the 1980s. Issues of examination include China’s encounters with the West, the tensions of tradition and revolution, the burdens of cultural memory and historical trauma, the interpretations of modernism and avant-garde, and the problems of globalization and national identity. The course is designed to develop an understanding of the diverse threads of modern Chinese art in conjunction with the exhibition On the Edge: Contemporary Chinese Artists Encounter the West at the Davis Museum and Cultural Center.
Prerequisite: None.

ARTh 256 Nineteenth-Century Art
Bedell
NOT OFFERED IN 2005-06. Lecture course on the arts of Europe and the United States from the upheavals of the French and American revoluciones, through Impressionism’s challenge to canonical art practices, concluding with the radical mid-century movements and their implications for the development of modern art. This course will consider painting, sculpture, prints, and photography in relation to notions of nationalism and history, the avant-garde and revolutionary politics, popular and elite culture, woman painters and the gendering of representation, as well as the rise of rebellions against artistic institutions. Artists studied will include J.L. David, Francisco Goya, John Constable, Mary Cassatt, Claude Monet, and Vincent van Gogh.

ARTh 291 Persuasive Images
Berman
NOT OFFERED IN 2005-06. Visual images have always been enlisted to influence individual and collective decision-making, action, and identity. However, the rise of the mass media in the nineteenth century, and the multiplication of visual technologies in the twentieth century, have created unprecedented opportunities for the diffusion of persuasive images. This course examines the uses and functions of visual images in advertising and propaganda and considers, in particular, graphic arts, photography, film, and other reproductive media. It also considers the interplay between elite and popular arts. The goal of the course is to refine our critical understanding and reception of the visual world.

Unit: 1.0

ARTh 304 Seminar. Leonardo da Vinci, Michelangelo Buonarroti, and Raphael Sanzio
Armstrong
NOT OFFERED IN 2005-06. Leonardo da Vinci, Michelangelo, and Raphael were critical in defining the style known as the “High Renaissance” in Italy, 1490 to 1520. Leonardo created supremely beautiful paintings (Virgin of the Rocks; Mona Lisa), and fascinating drawings of anatomy, architecture, and horses. Michelangelo was a sculptor (David; Pietà) and painter (Sistine Ceiling), and also an architect (Medici Chapel; St. Peter’s) and poet, writing deeply moving poems. Raphael executed ambitious murals for the Popes (School of Athens) and many portraits and devotional panels (Madonna of the Goldfinch; Sistine Madonna). The seminar will investigate multiple facets of these geniuses’ creations and some of the myths about their lives.
Prerequisites: Open to students who have taken one unit in Medieval, Renaissance, or Baroque art, history, or literature; or who have taken two units of art history at the 200- level. Medieval/Renaissance studies majors and architecture majors are encouraged to enroll. Permission of instructor required.

ARTH 316/AFR 316 Contemporary African Exhibitions
Hyacinthe
The ground-breaking Short Century: Independence and Liberation Movements in African 1945-1994, curated by Okwui Enwezor and his team of African scholars, was influential in framing how modern/postmodern African art would be contextualized in museums and galleries in the new millennium. How might we view this exhibition in relation to preceding, contemporaneous and subsequent large-scale African exhibitions? Students will critique the important exhibits of the era, develop a familiarity with the primary artists on display, and formulate a curatorial strategy for their own contemporary African art show. Students may register for either ARTH 316 or AFR 316 and credit will be granted accordingly.

ARTH 330 Seminar. Venetian Renaissance Art Armstrong
Renaissance artists and architects glorified the Republic of Venice as the center of a cultural and political empire. The seminar will explore how painters and architects represented contemporary religious beliefs, portrayed political rulers and their wives, established new norms for depicting landscape, exploited the erotic appeal of the female form, participated in the revival of Classical themes in art, and fashioned the city’s churches, palaces, and urban spaces, and created villas in the nearby Veneto region. The artists considered will include the Bellini brothers, Giorgione, Titian, Tintoretto, Sansovino, and Palladio.
Prerequisites: Open to students who have taken one unit in Medieval or Renaissance art, architecture, history or literature; or have completed two units of Art History at the 200 level, or permission of instructor required. Architecture majors and Medieval Renaissance studies majors are encouraged to enroll. Preference will be given to seniors.

ARTH 331 Seminar. The Art of Northern Europe Carroll
Topic for 2005-06: The Crisis in Art Around 1500. Cultural transformations in Europe following the discovery of America and in the years leading up to the Reformation prompted a reconsideration of the value and function of the visual arts. This class will consider how such artists as Hieronymus Bosch and Albrecht Dürer, among others, created works that challenged and recast traditional views on faith and salvation, nature and the cosmos, the self and sexuality, and the artist and society.

Semester: Fall
Unit: 1.0

ARTH 336 Seminar. Museum Issues Miekeburg
Topic for 2005-06: Museums: Power, Politics and Ethics. If museums were once considered cultural oases, their recent history indicates a very different identity. Changes in the history of art, redefinitions of community, new technologies, ethical controversies, a restructuring of global wealth, and a new generation of scholars, patrons, collectors, and directors have presented museums with exceptional challenges. In turn, the changing identities of museums have helped to shape these issues. This course will examine the history of museums in the light of these concerns, focusing on museum ethics, changing modes of representing the object, funding, and issues of political and personal identity and memory, all seen through an examination of case studies and a final project involving the acquisition of a work for the Davis Museum and Cultural Center collection.
Prerequisite: ARTH 100 or 101 or permission of instructor required. Preference given to junior and senior art majors.
Distribution: Arts, Music, Theatre, Film, Video
Semester: Spring
Unit: 1.0

ARTH 337 Seminar. Northern Song Imperial Patronage and Painting Academy Liu
NOT OFFERED IN 2005-06. Northern Song Painting Academy as an imperial institution was the first of its kind in the history of world art. This seminar investigates the nature of imperial patronage of painting and the achievements of the Painting Academy. It explores the relationship between emperors and academy painters through close reading of the painters’ biographies written by Song contemporaries (in translation), examines the mobility of academy painters, and attempts to identify how exactly imperial commissions were initiated and carried out. Special attention is given to various interpretative modes of primary sources.
Prerequisite: ARTH 100 or 240 or 248 or permission of instructor required
Distribution: Arts, Music, Theatre, Film, Video

Unit: 1.0

ARTH 338 Seminar. Topics in Latin American Art Oles
Topic for 2005-06: Latin American Art on Display. This seminar will explore the invention of “Latin American art” as a separate discipline by critics, historians, and institutions in the United States. We will analyze museum collections and the art market, and study a wide range of books and exhibitions – ranging from a 1943 show at New York’s MoMA to the recent “Inverted Utopias” at the MFA Houston. Our main goal will be to understand how shifting political and cultural contexts have shaped the meaning and content of Latin American art. An important component of this course will relate to acquisition strategies, exhibitions, and programs at the Davis Museum and Cultural Center.

ARTH 341 Seminar. The Landscape Painting of China, Korea, and Japan
Liu

The landscape painting of China, Korea, and Japan is among the great traditions of world art. What did it mean? How was it used? Why is landscape still a popular subject in modern Chinese, Korean, and Japanese art? Following the development of landscape painting from the early period to the twentieth century; the course will examine issues such as landscape and national development, ideology and power; landscape as representation of nature; landscape as images of the mind; and the tension of tradition and creativity in painting landscape. Comparisons will be made with Dutch, English, and American landscape painting to provide a global perspective.
Prerequisite: ARTH 101 or 240 or permission of instructor required.
Distribution: Arts, Music, Theatre, Film, Video
Semester: Spring
Unit: 1.0

ARTH 342 Seminar. Domesticity and Its Discontents
Carroll

This class will study changing representations of the family and the home from the late Middle Ages through the present. The first part of the course will focus on paintings of family life and domestic interiors from the fifteenth through the nineteenth centuries. The second part will focus on the analysis of films that take up domestic themes.
Prerequisite: ARTH 101 or permission of instructor required.

ARTH 381 Boston Museum of Fine Arts Seminars

A limited number of qualified students may elect for credit seminars offered by the curators of the Boston Museum of Fine Arts to students in Boston-area colleges and universities. These are held in the museum and use objects from the collections for study. Admission to museum seminars is by permission of the curator at the museum only. Call the curator for information about the day and time of classes and application procedures as the class size is limited. Normally, students may enroll for a maximum of two BMAF seminars.

Topic A. Modern Printmaking: Gauguin to Rauschenberg
Clifford S. Ackley, Ruth and Carl Shapiro Curator of Prints and Drawings

Through study and comparison of original prints in the Museum collection and from private collections, this seminar will explore creative printmaking in Europe and America from about 1890, the age of Gauguin and Munch, to today, the age of Johns and Rauschenberg. Among the stylistic movements discussed will be Symbolism, Cubism, Expressionism, Pop, Minimalism, and Neo-Expressionism. Issues will include hand-made and sensual versus fabricated and deliberately impersonal, the dialogue between high and low cultural sources of inspiration; the use of photographic imagery; and the edition print and the unique print. The course may include an excursion to a contemporary print workshop. Students will be graded on class participation and an original paper on a topic approved by the instructor.
Prerequisite: Admission to Museum Seminar is by permission of the instructor. Clifford Ackley (617-369-3245 or cackley@mfa.org). Limited to four Wellesley students. Tuesdays 2-4 p.m. beginning September 13, 2005.

Topic B. Italian Renaissance Sculpture
Marietta Cambiardi, Assistant Curator of Decorative Arts and Sculpture, Art of Europe

The only securely attributed work in America by Italian Renaissance sculptor Donatello is in the collection of the Museum of Fine Arts. But this is only the most famous sculpture in a strong collection that comprises works in marble, bronze, terracotta, stucco, wood, and even paper mâché. Exploring this collection, this seminar will address a wide variety of topics including the original context, function, and meaning of sculptures; working methods; relationships among Renaissance sculpture, painting, and other works of art; the formation of the MFA's collection and the collecting of Renaissance sculpture in America; and how museums present and interpret Renaissance sculpture. Classes will include sessions that consider the conservation and scientific analysis of Renaissance sculptures as ways of understanding the works and the artists who made them. Students will gain a sense of the challenges and joys of studying and working with sculpture in a museum setting. Survey course recommended; art history majors preferred. Reading knowledge of Italian useful but not required.
Prerequisite: Admission to Museum Seminars is by permission of the instructor. Marietta Cambiardi, (617-369-3338 or mcambiardi@mfa.org). Limited to four Wellesley students. Thursdays 2-4 p.m. beginning January 26, 2006.

Unit: 1.0

ARTS 109 Basic Two-Dimensional Design
Slavick, Spatz-Rabinowitz
This studio course focuses on the issue of composition in two-dimensional imagery. It introduces the fundamental elements of design (e.g., line, shape, value, space, color) and their function in the process of composition. Studio projects emphasize formal problem-solving skills as a means of achieving more effective visual communication. Weekly assignments given in a variety of media. This course is not digitally based, but students will have the opportunity to use digital media to solve certain problems.
Recommended for those interested in pursuing any type of two-dimensional work, including painting, photography, or Web design.
Prerequisite: None. Open to all nonseniors. Seniors must obtain permission of the instructor.
Distribution: Arts, Music, Theatre, Film, Video
Semester: Fall, Spring
Unit: 1.0

ARTS 113 Basic Three-Dimensional Design
Irish, TBA
This introductory course explores the basic formal and spatial considerations when working with three-dimensional structure and form. Studio projects incorporate a range of materials and methods of visualization. Outside assignments and class discussions are aimed toward helping students enhance their creativity and spatial awareness while acquiring sensitivity for placement, process, and materials. Strongly recommended for those interested in sculpture, architecture, installation art, and/or product design.
Prerequisite: None. Open to all nonseniors. Seniors must obtain permission of the instructor.
Distribution: Arts, Music, Theatre, Film, Video
Semester: Fall, Spring
Unit: 1.0

ARTS 165 Introduction to Video Production
Mechura, Steuerwegel
Introduction to the principles of video production with emphasis on developing basic skills of recording with a video camera, scripting, directing, and editing short videos.
Prerequisite: None. Permission of instructor required. File application in the department before preregistration.
Distribution: Arts, Music, Theatre, Film, Video
Semester: Fall, Spring
Unit: 1.0

ARTS 204 Painting Techniques
Spatz-Rabinowitz
NOT OFFERED IN 2005-06. A survey of significant techniques and materials related to the history of Western painting. Students will do projects in gold leaf, egg tempera, Venetian oil technique (the indirect method), and the direct oil technique. They will also experiment with acrylic, encaustic, and pastel. This course gives a broad overview of the technical aspects of these media and their role in stylistic changes throughout the course of Western painting. Studio art majors are encouraged to enroll; art history and architecture majors are also welcome. Most materials provided. Studio fee $50.
Prerequisite: None. Permission of instructor required. File application in the department before preregistration.
Distribution: Arts, Music, Theatre, Film, Video
Semester: N/O
Unit: 1.0

ARTS 206 Chinese Painting II
Meng
This course offers students advanced training in traditional and nontraditional methods of Chinese painting. Students may choose to focus on a specific area of subject matter, such as landscape, flowers and birds, or figurative studies, and students will be encouraged to develop a personal vision using the media of Chinese painting techniques. In addition to field trips to museums and galleries, there will be lectures and demonstrations by visiting artists.
Prerequisites: ARTS 105 or permission of instructor required.
Distribution: Arts, Music, Theatre, Film, Video
Semester: Spring
Unit: 1.0

ARTS 207 Sculpture I
Dorrien
An exploration of sculptural concepts through the completion of projects dealing with a variety of materials including clay, wood, plaster, stone, and metals, with an introduction to basic foundry processes. Emphasis on working from direct observation of the model. Studio fee of $50.
Prerequisite: ARTS 105 or 113 or permission of instructor required.
Distribution: Arts, Music, Theatre, Film, Video
Semester: Fall
Unit: 1.0

ARTS 208 Photography II
Black
This course builds upon technical and aesthetic background acquired in Photography I. Students explore the medium format camera while expanding their use of the 35mm camera. Other topics include lighting equipment, advanced developing and printing processes, and initial digital photographic work. Continued strong emphasis is on the development of a personal photographic vision and a critical awareness of the medium and its history through assignments and critiques.
Prerequisite: ARTS 108 or permission of instructor required.
Distribution: Arts, Music, Theatre, Film, Video
Semester: Fall
Unit: 1.0

ARTS 217 Life Drawing
Haverty
Understanding the human figure by direct observation of and drawing from the model. A highly structured approach with emphasis on finding a balance between gestural response and careful measurement. Rigorous in-class drawings as well as homework assignments. Dry and wet media as well as work on a variety of scales. Recommended for architecture majors as well as studio art students who intend to do further work from the figure.
Prerequisite: ARTS 105
Distribution: Arts, Music, Theatre, Film, Video
Semester: Spring
Unit: 1.0

ARTS 218 Introductory Painting
Janowitz
An introduction to the fundamental issues of painting, emphasizing color, composition, and paint manipulation through direct observation. Outside assignments, slide presentations, and class discussions aimed towards helping students gain technical skills, visual sophistication, and critical awareness. Students paint from a variety of subjects, including the self-portrait and still life.

Prerequisite: ARTS 105 or 109 or permission of instructor required.
Distribution: Arts, Music, Theatre, Film, Video
Semester: Fall, Spring
Unit: 1.0

ARTS 219 Introductory Print Methods: Lithography/Monotype
TBA
An introduction to the central concepts of printmaking, using planographic printing methods such as stone and plate lithography, image transfer, and monotype. Students develop visual and creative flexibility through hands-on work with image sequences, text, and multiples. Several assignments explore color layering and some incorporate digital methods. Students participate in a collaborative print exchange in addition to completing individual projects.

ARTS 219 and 220 are complementary courses addressing similar concepts but different printing techniques and may be elected in either order. Studio fee of $35.
Prerequisite: ARTS 105 or 109 or permission of instructor required.
Distribution: Arts, Music, Theater, Film, Video
Semester: Fall
Unit: 1.0

ARTS 220 Introductory Print Methods: Intaglio/Relief
TBA
An introduction to the central concepts of printmaking using intaglio and relief methods such as copper-plate etching and woodcut. Students develop visual and creative flexibility through hands-on work with image sequences, text, and multiples. Several projects explore color layering and some incorporate digital methods. Students participate in a collaborative print exchange in addition to completing individual projects.

ARTS 219 and 220 are complementary courses addressing similar concepts but different printing techniques and may be elected in either order. Studio fee of $35.
Prerequisite: ARTS 105 or 109 or permission of instructor required.
Distribution: Arts, Music, Theater, Film, Video
Semester: Spring
Unit: 1.0

ARTS 221 Digital Imaging
Irish
Introduction to artistic production through electronic imaging, manipulation and output. Emphasis on expression, continuity, and sequential structuring of visuals through the integration of image, type, and motion. Image output for print, screen, and adaptive surfaces are explored in conjunction with production techniques of image capture, lighting and processing. Lectures and screenings of historic and contemporary uses of technology for artistic and social application of electronic imaging.
Prerequisite: ARTS 108 or 109
Distribution: Arts, Music, Theater, Film, Video
Semester: Fall
Unit: 1.0

ARTS 250 Research or Individual Study
Prerequisite: Open to qualified students by permission of instructor and department chair.
Distribution: None
Semester: Fall, Spring
Unit: 1.0

ARTS 250H Research or Individual Study
Prerequisite: Open to qualified students by permission of instructor and department chair.
Distribution: None
Semester: Fall, Spring
Unit: 0.5

ARTS 253 Dynamic Interface Design
Irish
Critical examination of the expanding field of information and interface design for interactive media. Emphasis will be on effective visual communication, information design and creative content within online media. Hands-on production will focus on design methods, multimedia web, vector-based media, and dynamic audio. Screenings and discussions on contemporary practices, theoretical, artistic and cultural issues.
Prerequisite: ARTS 108 or 109, and CS 110 or 111
Distribution: Arts, Music, Theatre, Film, Video
Semester: Spring
Unit: 1.0

ARTS 260 Moving Image Studio
Irish
Creative exploration of the moving image as it relates to digital methods of animation, video, and motion graphics. Hands-on production of audio, image, text, and time-based media synthesis, with a conceptual emphasis on nonlinear narrative, communication design and visual expression. Screenings and lectures on historical and contemporary practices, coupled with readings and discussions of the theoretical, artistic, and cultural issues in the moving image.
Prerequisite: ARTS 108 or 165 or 221
Distribution: Arts, Music, Theatre, Film, Video
Semester: Spring
Unit: 1.0

ARTS 265 Intermediate Video Production
Sternagel
An exploration of the techniques and styles of producing documentary videos. We will survey current issues surrounding objectivity and representation as it concerns the documentary form. Strong emphasis on storytelling. Special focus on lighting, sound recording, and editing. We will screen and analyze various styles of documentary films. Final projects will be short documentaries.
Prerequisite: ARTS 165 or permission of instructor required.
Distribution: Arts, Music, Theatre, Film, Video
Semester: Fall
Unit: 1.0

ARTS 307 Sculpture II
Dorrin
Continuation on a more advanced level of sculptural issues raised in Sculpture I. Projects include working from the figure, metal welding or wood construction, and metal casting in the foundry as well as stone carving. Studio fee of $50.
Prerequisite: ARTS 207 or permission of instructor required.
Distribution: Arts, Music, Theatre, Film, Video
Semester: Spring
Unit: 1.0

ARTS 308 Photography III
Black
Advanced explorations of aesthetic and content issues through the use of the camera and light sensitive materials are the focus of this course. More advanced photographic techniques and equipment will be presented to solve visual problems arising from each student's work. Both traditional darkroom practices and digital printing solutions will be taught. Continued emphasis is placed on research into the content and context of the photographic image in contemporary practice through gallery visits, guest lectures, and library work.
Prerequisite: ARTS 108, 208, and either 109 or another 200- level studio course, or permission of instructor required.
Distribution: Arts, Music, Theatre, Film, Video
Semester: Spring
Unit: 1.0

ARTS 313 Virtual Form
Irish
NOT OFFERED IN 2005-06
Introduction to the design and production of three-dimensional objects and spaces using industry-standard modeling software. Overview of basic modeling, surface design and camera techniques. Emphasis on creative application of the media, in relation to architectural, experimental and time-based forms. Screenings and lectures on traditional and contemporary practices, coupled with readings and discussions of the theoretical, artistic and cultural issues in the virtual world.
Prerequisites: ARTS 113 or MIT 4.101. Strong computer familiarity needed. Not open to students who have taken ARTS 264.
Distribution: Arts, Music, Theatre, Film, Video
Semester: N/O
Unit: 1.0

ARTS 314 Advanced Drawing
McGibbon
Aimed towards studio art and architecture majors wishing to strengthen their visual, conceptual and spatial flexibility in drawing. Building upon methods introduced in previous courses, this studio reconsiders drawing as a process of visual thinking as well as an art form. Class work includes observational exercises (including various systems of visual perspective), technical experimentation (including work in color), sketchbooks, critiques, and field trips. Following a period of interactive studio research, exploration and dialogue, each student completes a body of self-directed work.
Prerequisite: ARTS 105 and either 109, 217 or MIT 4.101 or permission of instructor required.
Distribution: Arts, Music, Theater, Film, Video
Semester: Fall
Unit: 1.0

ARTS 315 Advanced Painting
Spatz-Rabinowitz
Each student will spend time exploring further the issues of color, composition, paint handling, and subject matter. In addition, students will be required to establish and develop personal imagery and an individual vocabulary. ARTS 315 may be repeated, ordinarily for a maximum of two semesters.
Prerequisite: ARTS 218 or permission of instructor required.
Distribution: Arts, Music, Theater, Film, Video
Semester: Spring
Unit: 1.0

ARTS 317 Seminar. Topics in the Visual Arts
Harvey
Topics for 2005-06: Art's Dialogue with Nature. Each student will work towards developing an understanding of her personal connections to the natural world as she develops a visual language that allows her to investigate and express those connections. This course emphasizes close observation and active interpretation of personally selected natural elements (ranging from miniature insects to geological formations to the night sky, for example). In addition to ongoing critiques of classroom assignments in a variety of media there will be readings, field trips and guest lectures. Each student will also pursue a self-directed final project for inclusion in a group exhibition.

Prerequisite: ARTH 101, ARTS 105 and 3 other studio courses (one at the 300-level) required. Permission of instructor required based on presentation of portfolio of previous work in Studio Art.

Distribution: Arts, Music, Theatre, Film, Video
Semester: Spring
Unit: 1.0

ARTS 320 Architectonics and Installation

NOT OFFERED IN 2005-06. Creative intermedia collaboration within the practice in architecture, art, and design. Studio projects will emphasize the synthesis and interrelation of imaging and time-based media to spatial art forms and structures. Materials, techniques, and issues in the creation of hybrid forms, architectural and the solution of problems. Lectures on the historic and contemporary practices of intermedia artists, designers, thinkers and scientists, coupled with readings and discussions.

Prerequisite: Two 200-level courses in ARTS. Permission of instructor required. File application in department before preregistration.

Distribution: Arts, Music, Theatre, Film, Video
Semester: N/O
Unit: 1.0

ARTS 322 Advanced Print Concepts

McGibbon

NOT OFFERED IN 2005-06. OFFERED IN 2006-07.

Prerequisite: ARTS 219 or 220 or permission of instructor required.

Distribution: Arts, Music, Theatre, Film, Video
Semester: N/O, Offered 2006-07.
Unit: 1.0

ARTS 350 Research or Individual Study

Prerequisite: 200-level work in the field and permission of instructor required.

Distribution: None
Semester: Fall, Spring
Unit: 1.0

ARTS 350H Research or Individual Study

Prerequisite: 200-level work in the field and permission of instructor required.

Distribution: None
Semester: Fall, Spring
Unit: 0.5

ARTS 360 Senior Thesis Research

Prerequisite: By permission of department. See Academic Distinctions.

Distribution: None
Semester: Fall, Spring
Unit: 1.0

ARTS 365 Advanced Video Production

Mekuria

NOT OFFERED IN 2005-06. An intensive course in story development, writing screenplay, directing actors and technical crew, and producing short, dramatic or mixed-genre videos. Rigorous work on advanced camera operation, lighting, sound recording, and editing techniques. We will screen and analyze short films and sample screenplays. Course requires strong organizational and directorial aptitude. The final projects will be short narrative, or mixed-genre videos.

Prerequisite: ARTS 165, 265, and permission of instructor.

Distribution: Arts, Music, Theatre, Film, Video
Semester: N/O
Unit: 1.0

ARTS 370 Senior Thesis

Prerequisite: 360
Distribution: None
Semester: Fall, Spring
Unit: 1.0

Applied Arts Program

In addition to the regular studio art curriculum, a separately funded program allows the art department to offer a series of short, noncredit workshops with visiting artist instructors. These workshops vary throughout the year but address a variety of studio topics, which have included ceramics, book arts, woodworking, pinhole photography and graphic design. These workshops are noncredit and open to all students without prerequisite. Upcoming workshops are announced throughout the year through art department electronic distribution lists and by posting on “Community,” “Art” and other FirstClass Conferences. Sign-up sheets are posted in the art department.

Directions for Election

Note: For the purposes of meeting the “18 units” requirement (Articles of Legislation, Book II, Article I, Section 8, A), art history and studio art are considered separate departments. Courses in studio art are counted as units “outside the department” for art history majors. Courses in art history are counted as courses “outside the department” for studio art majors.

History of Art

A major in the history of art must elect:

A. ARTH 100 and 101. AP credit will not be accepted in fulfillment of this requirement.

B. One of the following courses in studio art: ARTS 105, 106, 108, 109, 113, 165, 204, 206.

C. A minimum of six further units in history of art to make a total of eleven units, which must include distribution requirements. At least two of these must be 300-level courses.

For distribution, a student must elect at least one unit in four of the following six areas of specialization: Ancient, Medieval, Renaissance, Baroque (seventeenth and eighteenth centuries), Modern (nineteenth and twentieth centuries), non-Western art. Among the four areas elected, one must be either before 1400 AD/CE or outside the tradition of Western art. ARTH 223 and 229 may count as Renaissance or Baroque. Normally, ARTH 233, 235, and 345 may not be used to meet this distribution requirement.

If approved by the department chair, courses elected at other institutions may be used to meet the distribution requirement. Courses from two-year colleges will not be credited to the major.

Although the department does not encourage over-specialization, by careful choice of related courses a student may plan a field of concentration emphasizing one period or area. Students interested in such a plan should consult the department as early as possible.

Art majors are also encouraged to take courses in the language, culture, and history of the areas associated with their specific fields of interest.

Graduate Study

For students considering graduate study in the history of art, ARTH 345 is strongly recommended. Graduate programs in the history of Western art require students to pass exams in French and German. Graduate programs in the history of Asian art require Chinese and/or Japanese.

Art Conservation

Students interested in graduate study in the field of art conservation should consult with the department chair regarding requirements for entrance into conservation programs. Ordinarily college-level chemistry through organic should be elected, and a strong studio art background is required.

360/370 Honors Thesis

The only path towards departmental honors is the 360/370 Honors Thesis. Art history majors who meet the following requirements are encouraged to apply to the department to do an honors thesis: 3.6 GPA in the major; at least five Art History units above the 100-level, four of which must be taken at Wellesley and one of which must be at the 300-level. Contact the department in the spring semester prior to the proposed honors year for information about deadlines, honors eligibility, and the selection of a thesis advisor. For further information, please consult the art department’s FirstClass art conference.

History of Art Minimum Major

Of one cross-listed course may be counted toward the minimum major. No more than one unit of 350 credit may be counted towards the minimum major. Ordinarily, no more than three units of transfer credit (one studio, two art history) may be counted toward the minimum major.

History of Art Minor

A history of art minor must elect a minimum of six units:

A. ARTH 100 and 101

B. Four additional units above the 100-level with at least two at the 300-level, maximum one unit of 350. Of the four units above the 100-level, three shall, in the opinion of the student’s faculty advisor, represent a coherent and integrated field of interest. The fourth unit shall, in the case of students whose primary field is Western European or American art, be a course in non-Western or ancient art. In the case of students whose primary field of interest is ancient or non-Western art, the fourth unit shall be Western European or American art.

Four units for credit in art history must be taken in the art department, and only one cross-listed course may be counted towards the minor.

Interdepartmental Majors

The attention of students is called to the interdepartmental majors in architecture, in classical and Near Eastern archaeology, in Medieval Renaissance studies, and in American studies.

Studio Art

A studio art major must elect a minimum of eleven units:

A. ARTH 100 and 101. There is no exemption from this requirement by Advanced Placement, or by IB, or by an exemption examination.

B. One additional art history course in Twentieth Century or Contemporary art
C. ARTS 105.
D. Any two of the following: ARTS 106, 108, 109, 113, or 165.
E. Five additional studio courses must be taken above the 100 level. At least two of these studio courses must be at the 300 level. Some 300 level studio art courses may be repeated for credit in the major.

A studio art minor must elect a minimum of six units consisting of ARTS 108, one unit of either 106, 108, 109, 113, 165, plus four additional units in studio art, one of which is at the 300 level (250s and 350s excluded).

Prospective studio art majors and minors are strongly encouraged to elect 100-level art courses (including ARTH 100 and 101) during their first two years at Wellesley in order to establish a solid visual foundation and a broad understanding of the field. Studio art majors intending to study abroad should make a special effort to complete the major prior to leaving campus during the junior year. Normally, no more than three units of transfer credit (two in studio art, one in art history) may be applied towards the minimum requirements of the major or minor. Students interested in pursuing graduate or professional work in the studio arts should elect additional course work in art history and studio art whenever possible, especially in courses that address twentieth-century art and visual culture. Since contemporary art often addresses interdisciplinary issues, students are encouraged to discuss the breadth of their overall course selections (including non-art courses) with their studio art advisor. All prospective majors and minors should obtain a copy of the art department course guide from the art office for a more comprehensive discussion of their opportunities within the arts at Wellesley.

In tandem with the Davis Museum and Cultural Center, the art department offers numerous opportunities for students to deepen their experiential knowledge of the arts through special exhibitions, visiting artist lectures and projects, work-study positions and internships. Studio art majors and minors are strongly encouraged to exhibit their work, and to gain practical experience organizing exhibitions and installing art, in the Jewett Arts Center student galleries and Collins Café, and other venues on campus. Each year a number of professional artists visit the campus and studio art students are encouraged to take advantage of these opportunities for interaction.

360/370 Honors Thesis Project. Seniors who qualify for honors and have completed all 100-level requirements in the major may propose a senior thesis project for honors. If approved by the studio faculty as a whole, this year-long project culminates in a spring exhibition. A student interested in thesis work should discuss her idea with a potential thesis advisor and take at least some advanced work in her proposed media concentration before the senior year.

A list of requirements for honors eligibility is available from the director of studio art. A proposal must be written and accepted. Contact the department in the spring semester prior to the proposed honors year for deadlines and information. Information is also available on the department Web page.

To waive prerequisites for such courses as ARTS 105, 108, or 109, students may present a portfolio of work to the director of studio art for assessment and placement.

History of art/studio art double major. In the case of a double major in art history and studio art, ARTH 100-101 will count in the art history major. Students must also elect one additional course at the 200 or 300 level in both art history and studio art for a total of eight (8) units of art history and eight (8) units of studio art.

Teacher Certification. Students interested in obtaining certification to teach art in the Commonwealth of Massachusetts should consult the director of studio art and the chair of the Department of Education.

Department of Astronomy

Professor: Bauer, French (Chair)
Associate Professor: McLeod
Visiting Assistant Professor: Slivan

Instructor in Astronomy Laboratory: Curran

The astronomy department offers two introductory survey courses geared to nonscience majors: 100 and 101L. These courses are taught at a similar level and both fulfill the mathematical modeling distribution requirement. Students who elect to take both may do so in either order. Students who have a strong background in science and/or are considering a major in astronomy or astrophysics should elect ASTR 110. ASTR 109 and 206 fulfill the Quantitative Reasoning overlay course requirement.

ASTR 100 Life in the Universe
Bauer
This course will cover the origin of life on the earth and the prospects for finding life elsewhere in the cosmos. We will begin with an overview of earth's place in the solar system and the universe. Among the topics we will explore: the early history of the earth and the development of life, changes in the sun that affect the earth, characteristics of the other objects in our solar system and their potential for supporting life, the detection of planets around stars other than the sun, and the search for extraterrestrial life. Some nighttime observing will be required. This course does not count toward a major in astronomy or astrophysics.

Prerequisite: Fulfillment of the basic skills component of the Quantitative Reasoning requirement.

Distribution: Mathematical Models or Natural and Physical Science
Semester: Fall, Spring

Unit: 1.0

ASTR 101L Introduction to Stars, Galaxies, and Cosmology with Laboratory
Bauer, French

A survey of stars, galaxies, and cosmology. This course examines the life stories of stars, from birth in clouds of gas and dust, through placid middle age, to violent explosive demise, leaving white dwarfs, neutron stars, or black holes. It also explores the makeup and structure of galaxies, which contain billions of stars and are racing away from each other as part of the overall expansion of the universe. Finally, it presents theories for the origin and ultimate fate of the universe. The course will stress the interaction of observations and the mathematical models developed from these data. Evening laboratory at the observatory.

Distribution: Mathematical Models or Natural and Physical Science
Semester: Fall, Spring

Unit: 1.25

ASTR 109 Our Place in Space and Time
Slivan

This course traces the story of the quest to determine our place in space and time. Using hands-on experiments and key astronomical observations, we will measure the size and age of the earth, its distance from the sun and other stars, the location of our solar system within our galaxy, the distance to far-away galaxies, and the age and eventual fate of the expanding universe. The emphasis will be on applying quantitative reasoning skills to measure both what we know and how well we know it. Some nighttime observing will be required. This course does not count toward a major in astronomy or astrophysics.

Prerequisite: Fulfillment of the basic skills component of the Quantitative Reasoning requirement.
Distribution: Natural and Physical Science or Mathematical Modeling. Fulfills the Quantitative Reasoning overlay course requirement.
Semester: Spring
Unit: 1.0

ASTR 110W Fundamentals of Astronomy with Laboratory
French
This course serves as an introduction to astronomy for students with a strong science background. The emphasis is on the physical principles that shape the universe and on the tools we exploit to learn about stars, galaxies, and cosmology. Laboratory one evening per week offers hands-on access to the telescopes. Some assignments require daytime observing outside of class.
Prerequisite: Fulfillment of the basic skills component of the Quantitative Reasoning requirement. Not open to students who have already taken 101.
Distribution: Mathematical Modeling or Natural and Physical Science
Semester: Fall
Unit: 1.25

ASTR 201W Motions in the Sky: Archaeoastronomy and the Copernican Revolution
NOT OFFERED IN 2005-06. OFFERED IN 2006-07. This course will cover the motions of the sun, moon, and planets in the sky and how humans have interpreted them through time. Archaeoastronomy is the study of astronomical knowledge in a culture as revealed through the archaeological record, written records, and ethnography. We will discuss the archaeoastronomy of several cultures, including the Mayans, native North Americans, and the Chinese. We will follow the beginnings of modern astronomy from the ancient Greeks through the Copernican revolution and Newton's formulation of the laws of motion. Normally offered in alternate years.
Prerequisite: Any 100-level astronomy course, and familiarity with trigonometric functions.
Distribution: Natural and Physical Science
Semester: N/O. Offered in 2006-07.
Unit: 1.0

ASTR 203/GEOS 213 Planetary Geology
Bauer
Spacecraft observations have shown us a breathtaking diversity of geologic features in the solar system, from ancient river valleys on Mars and violent eruptions on Io to the icy surface of Halley's comet. From a comparative point of view, we will discuss the formation and evolution of the planets and small bodies in the solar system. Topics will include: volcanism, tectonic activity, impacts, and tides. Students may register for either ASTR 203 or GEOS 213 and credit will be granted accordingly. Normally offered in alternate years.
Prerequisite: Fulfillment of the basic skills component of the Quantitative Reasoning requirement and any 100-level ASTR or GEOS course.
Distribution: Natural and Physical Science
Semester: Fall
Unit: 1.0

ASTR 205 Relativity and Cosmology
NOT OFFERED IN 2005-06. OFFERED IN 2006-07. Einstein's theories of space and time have brought about a fundamental change in our conceptual understanding of the universe. Using trigonometry and algebra, we will explore special and general relativity, space travel, black holes, gravitational lensing, galaxy evolution, dark matter, and the expanding universe. Normally offered in alternate years.
Prerequisite: 101 or 110
Distribution: Mathematical Modeling or Natural and Physical Science
Semester: N/O. Offered in 2006-07.
Unit: 1.0

ASTR 206W Basic Astronomical Techniques with Laboratory
Sivan
Students will learn to use our 24-inch research telescope. Topics include: planning observations, modern instrumentation, and the acquisition and quantitative analysis of astronomical images. This course requires substantial nighttime telescope use and culminates with an independent observing project.
Prerequisite: 101 or 110, and familiarity with trigonometric functions and logarithms.
Distribution: Mathematical Modeling or Natural and Physical Science. Fulfills the Quantitative Reasoning overlay course requirement.
Semester: Fall
Unit: 1.25

ASTR 301 Seminar, Multiwavelength Astronomy
French
Topic for 2005-06: The Cassini Mission. Much of our knowledge of the universe comes from radiation outside of the visible spectrum, from low-energy radio waves that enable us to probe stellar nurseries to high-energy gamma rays that reveal the death throes of exploding stars. In between, microwaves provide decisive evidence for the Big Bang, infrared light enables us to take the temperature of distant comets, and X-rays map out seething hot gas in clusters of galaxies. We will discuss current research in fields of astronomy that rely heavily on wavelengths outside of the visible range. We will survey what has been learned about Saturn from a host of instruments operating at radio, infrared, visible, and ultraviolet wavelengths. Course may be elected more than once.
Prerequisite: Any 200-level astronomy course.
Distribution: Natural and Physical Science
Semester: Spring
Unit: 1.0

ASTR 311 Elements of Astrophysics
French
Astrophysics is the application of physics to the study of the universe. We will use elements of mechanics, thermodynamics, electromagnetism, quantum mechanics, special relativity, and nuclear physics to investigate selected topics such as planets, the life stories of stars and galaxies, dark matter, and the origin of the universe. Our goals will be to develop insight into the physical underpinnings of the natural world, and to develop a "universal toolkit" of practical astrophysical techniques that can be applied to the entire celestial menagerie. These tools include scaling analysis, numerical solutions to complex problems, and other research approaches advanced in professional literature. Normally offered in alternate years.
Prerequisite: PHYS 202 and 203
Distribution: Mathematical Modeling or Natural and Physical Science
Semester: Fall
Unit: 1.0

ASTR 315 Seminar, Topics in Astrophysics
NOT OFFERED IN 2005-06. OFFERED IN 2006-07. Normally offered in alternate years.
Prerequisite: PHYS 202 and 203 (or permission of instructor for students who are taking this as a corequisite with PHYS 202).
Distribution: Mathematical Modeling or Natural and Physical Science
Semester: N/O. Offered in 2006-07.
Unit: 1.0

ASTR 350 Research or Individual Study
Prerequisite: By permission of department.
Distribution: None
Semester: Fall, Spring
Unit: 1.0

ASTR 360 Senior Thesis Research

Directions for Election
The astronomy major consists of a minimum of nine courses: ASTR 101W or 110W; 206W; 311; at least one of 301 or 315; PHYS 202: PHYS 203; MATH 216/PHYS 216: any additional two courses in astronomy above the 100 level. Students intending to major in astronomy are encouraged to begin physics as soon as possible, and to take ASTR 110W rather than 101W. PHYS 219 is strongly recommended. In planning a major program, students should note that some of these courses have prerequisites in mathematics and/or physics.

A substantial background in physics and mathematics is required for graduate study in astronomy. Students planning graduate work in astronomy should elect the astrophysics major.

A minor in astronomy (five units) consists of: 101 or 110, 301, and three additional units in astronomy.
Astrophysics

AN INTERDEPARTMENTAL MAJOR
Director: Stark (Physics)
The Departments of Astronomy and Physics offer an interdepartmental major in astrophysics, which combines the physics major with a foundation of course work in astronomy. This major should be considered by students interested in graduate study in astronomy or astrophysics, and by those who would like a coordinated astronomy extension to the physics major.

In addition to the nine courses required for the physics major, the student takes four astronomy courses. An astrophysics major consists of: PHYS 107, 108, 202, 203, 302, 305, 306, 314; and MATH 216/PHYS 216 as well as ASTR 101wl, or 110wl, 206wl, 311, and either 315 or a 350 in either astronomy or astrophysics, or ASPH 370. PHYS 219 is strongly recommended. In planning the major, students should note that some of the courses have prerequisites in mathematics.

Honors
The only route to honors in the major is writing a thesis and passing an oral examination. To be admitted to the thesis program, a student must have a grade point average of at least 3.5 in all work in the major field above the 100 level; the department may petition on her behalf if her GPA in the major is between 3.0 and 3.5. The student must complete a significant research project culminating in a paper and an oral examination. The research component might be satisfied by a thesis, a summer internship, or a 350 project. See Academic Distinctions.

AN INTERDEPARTMENTAL MAJOR

Director: Allen (Biological Sciences)

Biological Chemistry Advisory Committee: Allen (Biological Sciences), Elmore (Chemistry), Peterman (Biological Sciences), Wolfson (Chemistry)

The Departments of Biological Sciences and Chemistry offer an interdepartmental major in biological chemistry which provides opportunities for advanced study of the chemistry of biological systems.

In addition to two courses in biochemistry (CHEM 221 or 222 and 328), the area of concentration must include the following courses: CHEM (a) both 105/110 and 205/111, or 120; (b) 211; (c) either 232 or 231; BISC (a) 110 or 110X; (b) 219; (c) 220; (d) two 300-level courses from among the following: 303, 310, 313, 316, 319, 320 or a seminar course if relevant to the major and approved by the director, excluding 350, 360, 370. At least one of these two courses must be a laboratory course; PHYS 104 or 107; MATH 116, 116Z, 120 or equivalent. Senior majors are encouraged to take BIOC 340 as a capstone experience.

Students should be sure to satisfy the prerequisites for the 300-level courses in biological sciences and chemistry. Although CHEM 222 may be used to satisfy the requirement for the first semester of biochemistry, CHEM 221 is the preferred course for biological chemistry majors.

Students planning graduate work in biochemistry should consider taking additional courses in chemistry, such as analytical, inorganic, and the second semesters of organic and physical chemistry. Students planning graduate work in molecular or cell biology should consider taking additional advanced biological sciences courses in those areas. Independent research (350 and/or 360/370) is highly recommended, especially for those considering graduate study.

A recommended sequence of required courses would be:
Year I, CHEM 105 and math or physics; either CHEM 205 or 211 and BISC 110
Year II, either CHEM 211 or 205 and BISC 219; BISC 220 and math or physics
Year III, CHEM 221 and math; CHEM 328 and 232
Year IV, 300-level biological sciences courses and independent study

Please discuss your program with the director as soon as possible.

BIOC 250, 250H, 350, 360 and 370 work can be advised by any faculty member of the Departments of Biological Sciences or Chemistry.

Advisors for honors work can be members of either department and students should enroll in BIOC 360/370. The honors program will follow the guidelines of the appropriate department.

Associate Professor: Moore, Peterman, Reddihough

Assistant Professor: Eltery, Hood-DeGrenier, Jones, Köninger, O'Donnell, Sequera, Tetel

Visiting Assistant Professor: Hughes

Senior Instructor in Biological Sciences Laboratory: Hellay, Leavitt, Paul, Thomas

Instructor in Biological Sciences Laboratory: Cram, Hacopian, McDonough

Unless otherwise noted, all courses meet for two periods of lecture each week. If indicated, there will also be one three-and-one-half hour laboratory session weekly. Seminars normally meet for one double period each week.

BISC 107 Biotechnology

Smith

This course focuses on applications of recently developed biological techniques, including recombinant DNA, antibody techniques and reproductive technology. The social and ethical issues surrounding these techniques are also discussed. No prior knowledge of biology is expected, as all necessary background information will be discussed. Two lectures weekly. Not to be counted toward the minimum major in biological sciences.
Prerequisite: Fulfillment of the basic skills component of the Quantitative Reasoning requirement.
Distribution: Natural and Physical Science
Semester: Fall, Summer
Unit: 1.0

BISC 108 Horticulture with Laboratory

Jones, McDonough, Thomas

This course will emphasize plant structure, growth and function. Topics will include plant adaptations, reproduction, environmentally sound landscape practices, urban horticulture, and the use of medicinal plants. The laboratory involves extensive use of the greenhouses, experimental design, data collection and analysis, and field trips. Not to be counted towards the minimum major in biological sciences.
Prerequisite: Fulfillment of the basic skills component of the Quantitative Reasoning requirement.
Distribution: Natural and Physical Science
Semester: Spring
Unit: 1.0

BISC 109 Human Biology with Laboratory

Eldery, McDonough

In this class, we will explore human physiology through case studies, lectures, and laboratories. The lectures and case studies will focus on nutrition, genetics, the nervous system, and endocrinology. There will be an emphasis on how different organ systems work together in integrated functions such as exercise and reproduction. Laboratories involve data collection using computers, physiological test equipment, limited animal dissection, a personal nutrition study and field trips. Not to be counted toward the minimum major in biological sciences.
Prerequisite: Fulfillment of the basic skills component of the Quantitative Reasoning requirement.
Distribution: Natural and Physical Science
Unit: 1.25
BISC 110 Introductory Cell Biology with Laboratory
Staff
Introduction to eukaryotic and prokaryotic cell structure, chemistry and function. Topics include: cell metabolism, genetics, cellular interactions and mechanisms of growth and differentiation. Laboratories focus on experimental approaches to these topics. Either 110 or 111 may be taken first. Students with a strong background in biology and chemistry should consider 110X.
Prerequisite: Fulfillment of the basic skills component of the Quantitative Reasoning requirement.
Distribution: Natural and Physical Science
Semester: Fall, Spring, Summer
Unit: 1.25

BISC 110X Introductory Cell Biology with Laboratory
Staff
One section of 110 will be taught for first-year students with exceptional high school backgrounds in biology and chemistry, and for upper-level students who have similarly strong backgrounds in the sciences. A more in-depth coverage of the topics typically covered in 110 will be possible because students entering this course will have some science experience. See BISC 110 for a description of topics.
Prerequisite: Students with lab experience and who have received a score of 4 or 5 on the Biology AP test may enroll. Students who have not taken the Biology AP or have a score lower than 4 must obtain permission from the instructor. All students must have fulfilled the basic skills component of the Quantitative Reasoning requirement. The successful completion of an AP course in chemistry, or its equivalent, is strongly recommended.
Distribution: Natural and Physical Science
Semester: Fall
Unit: 1.25

BISC 111 Introductory Organismal Biology with Laboratory
Staff
Introduction to the central questions, concepts, and methods of experimental analysis in selected areas of organismal biology. Topics include: evolution, ecology, and plant and animal structure and physiology. Either 110 or 111 may be taken first. Students with a strong background in biology should consider 111X.
Prerequisite: Fulfillment of the basic skills component of the Quantitative Reasoning requirement.
Distribution: Natural and Physical Science. Fulfills the Quantitative Reasoning overlay course requirement.
Semester: Fall, Spring, Summer
Unit: 1.25

BISC 111X Introductory Organismal Biology with Laboratory
Rodenhous, Paul
This section of 111 will be taught for first-year students with exceptional high school backgrounds in biology and for upper class students who have taken another science course at Wellesley. Because students entering this course will have some science experience, coverage of the topics included in BISC 111X will be more in depth than BISC 111. See BISC 111 for a description of the topics covered.
Prerequisite: Students with lab experience and who have received a score of 4 or 5 on the Biology AP test may enroll. Students who have not taken the Biology AP or have a score lower than 4 must obtain permission from the instructor. All students must have fulfilled the basic skills component of the Quantitative Reasoning requirement.

BISC 201 Ecology with Laboratory
Rodenhouse
An introduction to the scientific study of interactions between organisms and their environments. Topics include evolutionary adaptations to environmental constraints, foraging behavior, sexual reproduction and mate selection, population growth and regulation, species interactions, and the structure and function of biological communities and ecosystems. Emphasis is placed on experimental ecology and its uses in addressing environmental issues such as biological control of pests, conservation of endangered species and global climate change. Laboratories occur primarily in the field where exercises introduce students to local habitats including meadows, forests, alpine tundra, bogs, dunes, marshes, lakes, and streams.
Prerequisite: 111, or ES 100, or by permission of the instructor.
Distribution: Natural and Physical Science. Fulfills the Quantitative Reasoning overlay course requirement.
Semester: Fall
Unit: 1.25

BISC 202 Evolution with Laboratory
Buchholz
NOT OFFERED IN 2005-06. Examination of evolution, the central paradigm of biology, at the level of populations, species, and lineages. Topics include the genetics of populations, the definition of species, the roles of natural selection and chance in evolution, the reconstruction of phylogeny using molecular and morphological evidence, and patterns in the origination, diversity, and extinction of species over time.
Prerequisites: 110 and 111
Distribution: Natural and Physical Science
Semester: N/O
Unit: 1.25

BISC 203 Comparative Physiology and Anatomy of Vertebrates with Laboratory
Cameron, Buchholz, Hellyer
The physiology and functional anatomy of vertebrate animals, with an emphasis on comparisons among representative groups. The course covers topics in thermoregulatory, osmoregulatory, reproductive, cardiovascular, respiratory, digestive, neural and ecological physiology. The laboratories incorporate the study of preserved materials and physiological experiments.
Prerequisite: 109 or 111, or permission of instructor.
Distribution: Natural and Physical Science
Semester: Fall
Unit: 1.25

BISC 206 Histology I: Human Microscopic Anatomy with Laboratory
Smith
The structure and function of human tissues, and their cells, using light microscopic, histochemical and electron microscopic techniques. Topics covered include the connective tissues, epithelia, nervous tissue, blood, lymphoid tissue and immunology, as well as others. Laboratory study includes direct experience with selected techniques.
Prerequisite: 110
Distribution: Natural and Physical Science
Semester: Fall
Unit: 1.25

BISC 207 The Biology of Plants with Laboratory
Peterman, Koniger
An introduction to experimental plant biology. Topics will include growth and development, stress physiology, plant defense, applications of genetic engineering to the study and improvement of plants and the properties of medicinal plants. The project-oriented laboratory sessions will provide an introduction to some of the techniques currently employed in answering research questions ranging from the organismal to the cellular level.
Prerequisite: 110 or 111
Distribution: Natural and Physical Science
Semester: Spring
Unit: 1.25

BISC 209 Microbiology with Laboratory
Allen, Levine
Introduction to the microbial world, with emphasis on bacteria and viruses and their activities in nature, using examples of how these microbes influence human activity. Both medical and nonmedical applications, and useful (food production, genetic engineering) as well as harmful (disease, bioterrorism) consequences of microbes will be discussed along with consideration of biological principles and techniques characterizing the organisms.
Prerequisite: 110 and one unit of college chemistry
Distribution: Natural and Physical Science
Semester: Spring
Unit: 1.25

BISC 210 Marine Biology with Laboratory
Moore, Hughes
Oceans cover more than 70% of the earth's surface and are our planet's primary life support system. This course examines adaptations and interactions of plants, animals and their environments in marine habitats. Focal habitats include the photic zone of the open ocean, the deep-sea, subtidal and intertidal zones, estuaries, and coral reefs. Emphasis is placed on the dominant organisms, food webs, and experimental studies conducted within each habitat. Laboratories will emphasize primarily field work outdoors in marine habitats where students will gather data for the testing of student-originated hypotheses.
Prerequisite: 111, or ES 100, or by permission of the instructor.
Distribution: Natural and Physical Science
Semester: Fall
Unit: 1.25

BISC 213/NEUR 213 The Biology of Brain and Behavior with Laboratory
Beltz, Goldman (Physics), Hellyer, Paul
An introduction to the study of the nervous system and behavior with particular emphasis on the structure and function of the nervous system. In the first half of the semester, basic neuroanatomy, neurochemistry and neurophysiology are covered. In the second half of the semester, brain mechanisms involved in sensation, language, addiction, memory, and cognition are emphasized. The laboratory is designed to expose the student to basic neuroanatomy, neurochemistry, physiology and behavior. Students may register for either BISC 213 or NEUR 213 and credit will be granted accordingly.
Prerequisite: 110 and either 111 or 109
Distribution: Epistemology and Cognition or Natural and Physical Science
Semester: Fall, Spring
Unit: 1.25
BISC 216 Mechanisms of Animal Development with Laboratory
O'Donnell
In this course, we will explore animal development beginning with the process of fertilization. We will consider how a single cell gives rise to the many specialized cell types of the adult. The mechanisms that determine cell fate as the multicellular embryo differentiates will be discussed. Topics will include: embryonic induction, pattern formation, organogenesis (organ development), regeneration, and stem cells. Laboratories will focus on experimental approaches to development.
Prerequisite: 110 and 111 or permission of instructor
Distribution: Natural and Physical Science
Semester: Spring
Unit: 1.25

BISC 219 Genetics with Laboratory
Webb, Sequeira, Crum, Leavitt
The course will be devoted to an understanding of the molecular and biochemical basis of genetics and the interactions between cells that provide the basis for tissue and organismal development. The course will establish a link between the generation of genetic variants through mutation, their patterns of inheritance and their maintenance in natural populations. Topics will include: organization of the eukaryotic genome, gene structure and function, differential gene expression, cellular and tissue differentiation including aspects of both animal and plant development, and genetics of pattern formation, inheritance of gene differences and aspects of population and evolutionary genetics. Laboratory experiments will expose students to the fundamentals of genetics including modern molecular techniques for genetic analysis.
Prerequisite: 110 and one unit of college chemistry. Not open to first-year students.
Distribution: Natural and Physical Science
Semester: Fall
Unit: 1.25

BISC 220 Cellular Physiology with Laboratory
Harris, König, Crum
This course will focus on structure/function relationships in eukaryotic cells. Topics will include: dynamic imaging of living cells, an introduction to protein structure and enzyme kinetics, membrane and membrane-bound organelle structure and function, cytoskeleton, transport mechanisms, cell communication, and signaling. The laboratory consists of three projects: enzyme purification and characterization, investigation of cellular transport pathways in yeast, and an analysis of the cytoskeleton in cultured mammalian cells using fluorescence microscopy.
Prerequisite: 110 and two units of college chemistry. One semester of organic chemistry is recommended. Not open to first-year students.
Distribution: Natural and Physical Science
Semester: Spring
Unit: 1.25

BISC 302 Animal Physiology with Laboratory
Ellerby, Paul
This course takes an integrated approach to the study of organ system function in animals, with an emphasis on human physiology. We will examine control mechanisms that allow the human body to maintain a constant balance in the face of environmental challenges such as exercise, temperature change and high altitude. Our particular focus will be recent findings in the areas of neural, cardiovascular, respiratory, renal and muscle physiology. In the laboratory, students gain experience with tools of modern physiological research at both the cellular and organismal levels.
Prerequisite: 111 and one of the following – 203, 206, 213, 220, 222
Distribution: Natural and Physical Science
Semester: Spring
Unit: 1.25

BISC 303/CS 303 Bioinformatics
Sequeira, Tjuen (Computer Science)
A multidisciplinary seminar exploring the origins, present and future applications and challenges of the intersection of biological and computer sciences. The field of bioinformatics, generated in response to the era of genomics, encompasses all aspects of biological data acquisition, storage, processing, analysis and interpretation with a view to generating silico models of cellular function. Students must register for either BISC 303 or CS 303 and credit will be granted accordingly.
Prerequisites: 219 or 220 or CS 231
Distribution: Natural and Physical Science
Semester: Spring
Unit: 1.0

BISC 304 Histology II: Microscopic Anatomy of Human Systems with Laboratory
Smith
Analysis of structure-function relationships of human systems, based principally on microscopic techniques. Examination of selected pathologic states in each system, as well as discussion of recent literature. Laboratory study includes tissue preparation for microscopy, as well as hands-on experience at the transmission electron microscope and participation in a group research project.
Prerequisite: 206
Distribution: Natural and Physical Science
Semester: Spring
Unit: 1.25

BISC 305 Seminar. Evolution
Buchholz
A brief history of life. Origin of life from nonlife, evolution of replicatory molecules, origin of eukaryotic cellular structure, diversification of organic domains, kingdoms and animal phyla, development of strategies for life in terrestrial environments, patterns of extinction. The course will emphasize student participation and make extensive use of the primary literature.
Prerequisite: Two units in Biological Sciences at the 200 level or permission of instructor.
Distribution: Natural and Physical Science
Semester: Spring
Unit: 1.0

BISC 306 Principles of Neural Development with Laboratory
O'Donnell, Paul
Aspects of nervous system development and how they relate to the development of the organism as a whole. Topics such as neural induction, neurogenesis, programmed cell death, axon guidance, synaptogenesis, and the development of behavior are discussed. Laboratory sessions focus on a variety of methods used to define developing neural systems.
Prerequisite: 213 or 216, or permission of instructor
Distribution: Epistemology and Cognition or Natural and Physical Science
Semester: Fall
Unit: 1.25

BISC 307/ES 307 Advanced Topics in Ecology with Laboratory
Moore
Topic for 2005-06: Ecology of Freshwaters with Laboratory, Rivers, lakes, and wetlands are among our richest ecosystems, yet their physical integrity and biotic diversity are the most imperiled. This course examines the biological, physical, and chemical processes that occur in flowing waters, wetlands, lakes and vernal pools. Lectures and discussions address key concepts for understanding, conserving and restoring freshwater ecosystems. Lab work will include field work in a variety of freshwater habitats, mathematical modeling, and an independent project carried out by student groups. Students may register for either BISC 307 or ES 307 and credit will be granted accordingly.
Prerequisite: 201, 210 or by permission of the instructor
Distribution: Natural and Physical Science
Semester: Spring
Unit: 1.25

BISC 308 Tropical Ecology with Wintersession Laboratory
NOT OFFERED IN 2005-06. The ecology of coral reefs and rain forests is the focus of the course. Lectures and discussions during the fall prepare students for the field portion in Belize and Costa Rica. The first half of the laboratory takes place on an island bordering the world's second longest barrier reef; the second half is taught in an intact lowland rain forest. Laboratory work is carried out primarily out-of-doors and includes introductions to the flora and fauna, as well as testing of student-generated hypotheses. Not offered every year. Subject to Dean's Office approval.
Prerequisite: 201, 207, or 210, and permission of instructor. Application required.
Distribution: Natural and Physical Science
Semester: N/O
Unit: 1.25

BISC 310 Advanced Topics in Cellular Regulation with Laboratory
Hood-DeGrenier
NOT OFFERED IN 2005-06. Eukaryotic cells possess a diverse array of molecular circuits that regulate their normal activities and respond to external signals. Common modes of regulation include modulation of protein expression or localization, covalent protein modifications, and protein-protein interactions. This course will examine the molecular mechanisms that regulate processes such as cell division, cell differentiation, stress responses, and others, in a format that combines lectures and student presentations of current literature articles. A semester-long laboratory project will investigate a particular regulatory pathway using the budding yeast Saccharomyces cerevisiae as a model organism.
Prerequisite: 219 or 220 (both recommended)
Distribution: Natural and Physical Science
Semester: N/O
Unit: 1.25
BISC 313 Seminar. Microbial Physiology and Biochemistry
Allen
Topic for 2005-06: Microbial Communication and Development. Many bacteria are social creatures, interacting and communicating with each other. Quorum sensing, where population density alters gene expression, controls a diverse range of behaviors such as virulence factor production, genetic competence, sporulation, biofilm production, and programmed cell death. Signaling pathways and the molecules that regulate them will be studied, as well as the molecular mechanisms that regulate and produce developmental change in prokaryotes. Student participation and discussion of original literature will be emphasized.
Prerequisite: 209 or 219 or 220, and CHEM 211, or permission of instructor
Distribution: Natural and Physical Science
Semester: Fall
Unit: 1.0

BISC 315/NEUR 315 Advanced Topics in Neurobiology with Laboratory
Tetel
Topic for 2005-06: Neuroendocrinology. Hormones act throughout the body to coordinate basic biological functions such as development, differentiation and reproduction. This course will investigate how hormones act in the brain to regulate physiology and behavior. We will study how the major neuroendocrine axes regulate a variety of functions, including brain development, reproductive physiology and behavior, homeostasis and stress. The regulation of these functions by hormones will be investigated at the molecular, cellular and systems levels. Laboratory experiments will explore various approaches to neuroendocrine research, including the detection of hormone receptors in the brain and analysis of behavior. Students may register for either BISC 315 or NEUR 315 and credit will be granted accordingly.
Prerequisite: BISC 213/NEUR 213
Distribution: Natural and Physical Science
Semester: Fall
Unit: 1.25

BISC 316 Molecular Biology with Laboratory
Peterson
Molecular techniques, which allow us to isolate, analyze and manipulate genes, have revolutionized our understanding of living things as well as our ability to alter them genetically. This course focuses on the use of molecular methods to dissect and manipulate complex biological systems. A case study approach will be used to analyze the application of molecular biology to genetic diseases (e.g. cystic fibrosis and muscular dystrophy), genetically modified organisms, cancer, stem cells, human cloning, aging and environmental protection. Student participation and critical analysis of the primary literature will be emphasized. In the laboratory students will pursue an original research project using current molecular techniques (e.g. molecular cloning, PCR, DNA sequencing, mutagenesis, protein expression, bioinformatics). Emphasis will be on experimental design and data analysis and interpretation.
Prerequisite: 219 or permission of the instructor
Distribution: Natural and Physical Science
Semester: Fall
Unit: 1.25

BISC 318 From Genes to Populations: Evolution on Islands
Sequiera
In this course we will focus on patterns of formation of species with emphasis on the particular and fascinating case of differentiation of populations on oceanic archipelagos (Hawaii, Canaries, and Galapagos). Little is known about the ecological and historical forces responsible for the formation and extinction of species, although these are key for the generation of biodiversity. By looking at genealogical relationships among organisms, populations, and species, we can infer how historical processes can leave evolutionary footprints on the geographic distribution of traits. We will explore computational tools for analysis of DNA sequences, and discuss methods of phylogeny, phylogeography reconstruction and population demographics. The course includes student presentations and discussions of the primary literature.
Prerequisite: 201 or 202 or 219 or permission of the instructor. Not open to students who have taken 319.
Distribution: Natural and Physical Science
Semester: Spring
Unit: 1.0

BISC 319 Population Genetics and Systematics with Laboratory
Sequiera
NOT OFFERED IN 2005-06. In this course we will focus on patterns of population differentiation and speciation in oceanic islands. Little is known about the ecological and historical forces responsible for speciation although these are key for the generation of biodiversity. By looking at relationships between organisms, populations and species, we can interpret how historical processes can leave evolutionary footprints on the geographic distribution of traits. After a series of introductory lectures, the course will involve student presentations and discussion of primary literature examining cases in archipelagos (Hawaii, Canaries and Galapagos). In the laboratory we will explore computational biology tools for analysis of DNA sequences, and apply methods of phylology, phylogeography reconstruction and population demographics. We will also explore the growing field of molecular dating of evolutionary events.
Prerequisite: 202 or 219 or permission of the instructor. Not open to students who have taken 318.
Distribution: Natural and Physical Science
Semester: N/O
Unit: 1.25

BISC 320 The Proteomics of Eukaryotic Cells with Laboratory
Harris
The Human Genome Project and the sequencing of the genomes of several other organisms have provided biologists with vast storehouses of information. However, it is important to remember that DNA sequences are only a blueprint for life. To a great extent the living condition arises from the complex interactions of thousands of cellular proteins. Research that focuses on the large-scale study of proteins is called proteomics. This course introduces students to the techniques utilized and the scientific questions being addressed in this newly emerging discipline. Student participation and the use of original literature will be emphasized. In the laboratory students will perform two-dimensional gel electrophoresis, peptide mass fingerprinting using MALDI-TOF mass spectrometry, and DNA microarrays.
Prerequisite: 220 and CHEM 211, or by permission of the instructor. 219 is strongly recommended.
Distribution: Natural and Physical Science
Semester: Fall
Unit: 1.25

BISC 331 Seminar
Webb
Topic for 2005-06: Cancer Genomics. Cancer can be attributed to disruption of gene structure and function. Functional genomics has contributed more to the understanding and treatment of cancer in the last five years than the previous half century of oncology research. This course will provide a comprehensive study of the biological basis of malignancy from pathophysiology to the genetics of the transformed phenotype by examining the use of genomics in diagnosis, prognosis and treatment directed at specific molecular targets. Topics to be discussed include pharmacogenomics, RNAi, biomarkers, oncolytic viruses and the role of bioinformatics in analysis of SNPs, transcriptional profiling, proteomics, and rational drug design. Class discussion and student presentation of recent original literature will be an integral part of the course.
Prerequisites: 219 or 220 or by permission of the instructor
Distribution: Natural and Physical Science
Semester: Spring
Unit: 1.0

BISC 332/NEUR 332 Advanced Topics in Neuroscience
Tetel
Topic for 2005-06: Frontiers in Neuroscience: Neurogenesis and Neuregeneration. This course will explore two critical issues in neuroscience today: the birth of new neurons (neurogenesis) in the adult brain, and mechanisms of cell death in the brain (neurodegeneration). In addition to lectures, students will review current literature, give group presentations, and write a paper on their chosen topic. We will begin by exploring the controversy surrounding, and the implications of, neurogenesis in the adult brain. The second part of the course will investigate mechanisms of neurodegeneration in disorders such as Alzheimer’s, Huntington’s and Parkinson’s Disease. Students will develop skills in critically reading research papers and giving presentations. Students may register for either BISC 332 or NEUR 332 and credit will be granted accordingly.
Prerequisite: BISC/NEUR 213
Distribution: Natural and Physical Science
Semester: Fall
Unit: 1.0

BISC 335/NEUR 335/PHYS 335 Computational Neuroscience with Laboratory
Goldman (Physics)
Computations by networks of neurons in the brain underlie all of our thoughts, perceptions, and memories. However, direct experimental observation of neural computations is extremely difficult. Mathematical models are increasingly used to bridge the gap between experimental measurements and hypothesized network functions. This course will focus on the use of mathematical models to describe computations performed in the nervous systems of a variety of animals. Topics will range from single neuron biophysics to the analysis of circuits thought to underlie sensory perception and memory. Each topic will be introduced by background lectures, followed by student-led presentations of primary literature and construction of a computer... model of the system studied. Lab will introduce students to computer programming of mathematical models in MATLAB and the neuron-simulator NEURON. Students may register for either BISC 335, NEUR 335, or PHYS 335 and credit will be granted accordingly.

Prerequisite: PHYS 104/107 and either PHYS 106/108 or NEUR/BISC 21x; or by permission of instructor. No programming experience is required. Not open to first-year students.

Directions for Election

A major in biological sciences includes eight biological sciences courses, at least six of which must be taken at Wellesley, plus two units of college chemistry. BISC 110 and 111 or their equivalent are required for the major. Four 200-level courses are required, with at least one course from each of the following three groups: cell biology — 206, 216, 219, 220; systems biology — 203, 207, 213, 222; and community biology — 201, 202, 209, 210. A minimum of two 300-level courses are also required for the major. One of these courses, exclusive of 350, 360, or 370, must include laboratory and must be taken at Wellesley. Additional chemistry beyond the two required units is strongly recommended or required for certain 300-level courses. CHEM 221 and 328, and BISC 350, 360, and 370 do not count toward the minimum major.

BISC 107, 108, and 109, which do not count toward the minimum major in biological sciences, do fulfill the College distribution requirements; 108 and 109 as laboratory sciences; 107 as a nonlaboratory science course. BISC 109, 111 (and 111X), and 201 fulfill the Quantitative Reasoning overlay course requirement.

Within the major, students may design a program in general biology or one which emphasizes subjects dealing with animals, plants, microbes, or cellular/molecular mechanisms. A broad training in the various aspects of biology is recommended.

A minor in biological sciences (five units) consists of: (A) BISC 110 and 111 (B) two 200-level units, each of which must be in a different group as described in the first paragraph above under major requirements, and (C) one 300-level unit, excluding 350, which must be taken at Wellesley. Four of the five courses for a minor must be taken at Wellesley. Chemistry is recommended. Students planning a minor should consult the chair.

Students interested in the interdepartmental major in biological chemistry are referred to that section of the catalog where the program is described. They should consult with Professor Allen, director of the biological chemistry program.

Students interested in the interdepartmental major in neuroscience are referred to the section of the catalog where this program is described. They should consult with the director of the neuroscience program.

Students interested in the interdepartmental major in environmental studies are referred to this listing in the catalog where the program is described. They should consult with the co-directors of this program. Students interested in concentrating in community biology may wish to supplement and enrich their work at Wellesley by taking extradepartmental courses offered through the Marine Studies Consortium or the Semester in Environmental Science (SES) offered each fall at the Ecosystems Center of the Marine Biological Laboratory, Woods Hole, Mass. Students are referred to the sections of the catalog titled Extradepartmental and Special Academic Programs where these opportunities are described.

AP credit does not replace any course offered in the Department of Biological Sciences and does not count toward a major or a minor in biological sciences, biological chemistry, or neuroscience. Students with an AP score of 4 or 5, or those with exceptional preparation that includes a strong laboratory experience, should consider enrolling in BISC 110X and/or BISC 111X. The successful completion of an AP course in chemistry, or equivalent, is strongly recommended. No exemption exams will be given for BISC 110 or 111. All biology courses require the fulfillment of the Quantitative Reasoning basic skills requirement as a prerequisite.

In order to obtain Wellesley credit for any biology course taken at another institution during the summer or the academic year, preliminary approval must be obtained from the chair of the department prior to enrolling in the course. Once the student has enrolled at Wellesley, courses from two-year colleges will not be accepted at any level. Transfer students wishing to obtain credit for biology courses taken prior to enrollment at Wellesley should consult the chair of the department.

Honors

Honors in biological sciences is earned by the demonstration of excellence in both coursework and a thesis research project. All junior majors are invited to apply for the honors program. Final acceptance into the program is contingent on a vote of the department faculty and, typically, a grade point of 3.5 or higher in courses in the major above the 100 level. The primary goal of the thesis project is the development of independent research capabilities, culminating in the writing of a research paper. Honors candidates must present the results of their thesis research to an examination committee in the thesis oral discussion, which takes place during reading period. After the oral examination, the thesis committee evaluates the candidate’s performance and may recommend approval of the degree with honors. For more information, please see the bulletin “Guidelines for Research Students and Advisors” and the biological sciences department Web site for honors and theses: www.wellesley.edu/Biology/honors_theses.html.

Students planning graduate work are advised to take calculus, statistics, organic chemistry, two units of physics, and to have a reading knowledge of a second language. They should consult the catalogs of the schools of their choice for specific requirements. Premedical students are referred to the requirements given in the Academic Program section.
Department of Chemistry

Professor: Kolodny, Coleman (Chair), Hearni, Wolfson, Fuller-Stanley, Arunainayagam
Associate Professor: Haan, Miwa
Assistant Professor: Reisberg, Verschoor, Flynn, Ehnoore

Senior Instructor in Chemistry Laboratory: Turnbull, Doc, Hall, McCarthy

Unless otherwise noted, all courses meet for three periods of lecture/discussion and one 3.5 hour laboratory appointment weekly; CHEM 101, 306, and the selected topics courses will generally be taught without laboratory, but may include laboratory for some topics.

The chemistry department reviews elections of introductory chemistry students and places them in 105, 205, or 120 according to their previous preparation, and Advanced Placement (AP) scores, International Baccalaureate (IB) scores and department placement exams. Students with a 5 on the Chemistry AP exam (or the equivalent on the IB exam) typically elect CHEM 120. They may elect CHEM 211 if they demonstrate sufficient mastery of material from CHEM 105 and CHEM 205 on the department's placement exam. All other students wishing to elect a first course other than CHEM 105 must demonstrate proficiency in the relevant material on the placement exam. Details of the AP/IB policy and the placement exam are on the department's Web site — www.wellesley.edu/Chemistry/chem.html. Students who have taken one year of high school chemistry, and those with an AP score of 4 or less, should elect CHEM 105 followed by either CHEM 205 or 211.

CHEM 101 Contemporary Problems in Chemistry
Reisberg

Topic for 2005-06: Understanding Drugs. A study of a wide variety of drugs, both legal and illegal. The focus will be on how these molecules affect our minds and bodies based on an understanding of their biochemistry. Topics will include antibiotics, steroids, stimulants, intoxicants, narcotics, and hallucinogens. The history, discovery, development, testing, regulation and prohibition of these substances will also be considered.

Prerequisite: Open to all students except those who have taken any other chemistry course.
Distribution: Natural and Physical Science
Semester: Spring
Unit: 1.0

CHEM 102 Contemporary Problems in Chemistry with Laboratory
Reisberg

Topic for 2005-06: Understanding Drugs. A study of a wide variety of drugs, both legal and illegal. Topics will include antibiotics, steroids, stimulants, intoxicants, narcotics, and hallucinogens. The history, discovery, development, testing, regulation and prohibition of these substances will also be considered. The laboratory will include synthesis and analysis of an analgesic and an intoxicant, plus the detection of drugs in our bodies and on currency.

Prerequisite: Open to all students except those who have taken any other chemistry course.
Distribution: Natural and Physical Science
Semester: Spring
Unit: 1.25

CHEM 105 Fundamentals of Chemistry with Laboratory
Staff

This course is designed for students majoring in the physical and biological sciences as well as those wishing an introduction to modern molecular science. Core principles and interesting applications of chemistry will be combined to provide students with a conceptual understanding of chemistry that will help them in both their professional and everyday lives. Topics will include principles of atomic and molecular structure including nuclear chemistry, molecular energetics, an introduction to chemical equilibrium, chemical kinetics and classes of chemical reactions. The laboratory work introduces students to synthesis and structural determination by IR and other spectroscopic techniques, molecular modeling, periodic properties, statistical analysis and various quantitative methods of analysis.

Prerequisite: 105 is designed for students who have completed one year of high school chemistry and mathematics equivalent to two years of algebra. Students who do not meet these prerequisites and who wish to take 105 should contact the department chair. The department offers a Wintersession review of important topics from high school chemistry for students with minimal background in chemistry. Students must have fulfilled the basic skills component of the Quantitative Reasoning requirement. Not open to students who have taken [110].
Distribution: Natural and Physical Science or Mathematical Modeling
Semester: Fall, Spring
Unit: 1.25

CHEM 120 Intensive Introductory Chemistry with Laboratory
Kolodny

A one-semester course for students who have completed more than one year of high school chemistry, replacing CHEM [110] 105 and [111] 205 as a prerequisite for more advanced chemistry courses. It presents the topics of nuclear chemistry, atomic structure and bonding, periodicity, kinetics, thermodynamics, electrochemistry, equilibrium, acid/base chemistry, solubility and transition metal chemistry. All of these topics are presented in the context of both historical and contemporary applications. The laboratory includes experiments directly related to topics covered in lecture, an introduction of statistical analysis of data, molecular modeling and computational chemistry, instrumental and classical methods of analysis, thermochromy and solution equilibria.

Prerequisite: Open only to students who have taken more than one year of high school chemistry and have fulfilled the basic skills component of the Quantitative Reasoning requirement. Not open to students who have completed [110] 105 and/or [111] 205. Students who have AP or IB credit in Chemistry, and who elect CHEM 120, forfeit the AP or IB credit.
Distribution: Natural and Physical Science or Mathematical Modeling. Fulfills the Quantitative Reasoning overlay course requirement.
Semester: Fall
Unit: 1.25

CHEM 205 Chemical Analysis and Equilibrium with Laboratory
Staff

This course builds on the principles introduced in CHEM 105, with an emphasis on chemical equilibrium and analysis, and their role in the chemistry of the environment. Topics will include chemical reactions in aqueous solution with particular emphasis on acids and bases, solubility and complexation, electrochemistry, atmospheric chemistry, photochemistry and smog, global warming and acid deposition, sampling and separations, modeling of complex equilibrium and kinetic systems, statistical analysis of data, and solid state chemistry of ceramics, zeolites and new novel materials. The laboratory work includes additional experience with instrumental and noninstrumental methods of analysis, sampling, computational chemistry and solution equilibria.

Prerequisites: 105 and fulfillment of the basic skills component of the Quantitative Reasoning requirement or permission of the department. Not open to students who have taken [111] or 120.
Distribution: Mathematical Modeling or Natural and Physical Science. Fulfills the Quantitative Reasoning overlay course requirement.
Semester: Fall, Spring
Unit: 1.25

CHEM 211 Organic Chemistry I with Laboratory
Staff

Topics covered include: stereochemistry, synthesis and reactions of alkanes, alkenes, alkynes, alkyl halides, alcohols and ethers, nomenclature of organic functional groups, IR, and GC/M.S.
Prerequisite: 105 or 111, or 120 or permission of the department.
Distribution: Natural and Physical Science
Semester: Fall, Spring
Unit: 1.25

CHEM 212 Organic Chemistry II with Laboratory
Staff

A continuation of CHEM 211. Includes NMR spectroscopy, synthesis, reactions of aromatic and carbonyl compounds, amines, and carbohydrates. In addition, students are expected to study the chemical literature and write a short chemistry review paper.
Prerequisite: 211. Not open to students who have taken [313].
Distribution: Natural and Physical Science
Semester: Fall, Spring
Unit: 1.25

CHEM 221 Biochemistry: Structure and Function of Macromolecules with Laboratory
Elmore

A study of the chemistry of macromolecules, especially nucleic acids and proteins, with emphasis on structure-function relationships and methodology; an introduction to enzyme kinetics and mechanisms.
Prerequisite: 205, 211 and BISC 220; or 120, 211 and BISC 220
Distribution: Natural and Physical Science
Semester: Fall
Unit: 1.25

CHEM 222 Introduction to Biochemistry with Laboratory
Elmore

A study of the chemistry of macromolecules with emphasis on structure-function relationships: an introduction to bioenergetics, enzyme kinetics, and metabolism.
Prerequisite: 205, 211 and 212 [313] or 120, 211 and 212 [313]
Distribution: Natural and Physical Science
Semester: Fall, Spring
Unit: 1.25

CHEM 231 Physical Chemistry I with Laboratory
Arumainayagam
This course establishes and develops the principles that are used to explain and interpret the observations made in other branches of chemistry. Two major topics, chemical thermodynamics and kinetics, are introduced. Properties of solutions and gases are examined using these principles. Applications to other areas of chemistry will be discussed. The laboratory segment of the course incorporates statistical analysis of measured data.
Prerequisite: [111], 205 or 120, or by permission of the department, and MATH 116, 116Z, or 120 and PHYS 104 or 107.
Distribution: Natural and Physical Science or Mathematical Modeling. Fulfills the Quantitative Reasoning overlay course requirement.
Semester: Fall
Unit: 1.25

CHEM 232 Physical Chemistry for the Life Sciences with Laboratory
Koldroy
An examination of several topics in physical chemistry, with an emphasis on their applications to the life sciences. Topics include quantum chemistry and spectroscopy, electrochemistry, chemical thermodynamics and kinetics.
Prerequisite: [111], 205 or 120, or permission of the department, and MATH 116, 116Z, or 120 and PHYS 104 or 107.
Distribution: Natural and Physical Science or Mathematical Modeling. Fulfills the Quantitative Reasoning overlay course requirement.
Semester: Spring
Unit: 1.25

CHEM 250 Research or Individual Study
Prerequisite: Open by permission to students who have taken [111] 205 or 120. This course cannot be counted toward a minimum major in Chemistry. Students seeking to fulfill the chemistry major research requirement with a 200-level research course should enroll in CHEM 251.
Distribution: None
Semester: Fall, Spring
Unit: 1.0

CHEM 251 Research or Individual Study
This course may count toward the research requirement for the chemistry major if the following criteria are met: the student registers for 251, writes an 8-10 page (minimum) paper on the research and gives a presentation to the chemistry department during one of the two research seminar presentation periods. The paper must contain substantial literature references, demonstrating a familiarity with searching the chemical literature.
Prerequisite: Open by permission to students who have taken [111] 205 or 120. This course cannot be counted toward a minimum major in Chemistry.
Distribution: None
Semester: Fall, Spring
Unit: 1.0

CHEM 306 Seminar
Miwa
Topic for 2005-06: HIV/AIDS Therapeutics. This seminar will focus on the design, development, production, and distribution of drugs for the treatment of AIDS. There are currently 26 different drugs approved by the FDA for the treatment of HIV. Most of these drugs work by inhibiting one of three key enzymes: reverse transcriptase, HIV protease, and integrase. We will explore the basic biochemical mechanism of each enzyme and the methods by which inhibitors have been designed and tested. The study of HIV therapeutics will include an examination of some of the economic and political factors that influence pharmaceutical R&D. We will look at the process chemistry involved in producing drugs on a large scale, at issues related to patents, including Brazil’s free HIV drug policy.
Prerequisite: 212
Distribution: Natural and Physical Science
Semester: Fall, Spring
Unit: 1.0

CHEM 308/ES 308 Green Chemistry
NOT OFFERED IN 2005-06. Green chemistry can be defined as the design of chemicals, chemical syntheses, and chemical processes that are environmentally benign and economically feasible. This course will serve to introduce students to the 12 Principles of Green Chemistry and explore how these principles are put into use through real world examples. The subject matter to be discussed will include aspects of analytical, biological, inorganic, organic, and polymer chemistry from an environmental or green perspective. This course is designed for students interested in chemistry, biochemistry, environmental science, materials science and related fields. Students may register for either CHEM 308 or ES 308 and credit will be granted accordingly.
Prerequisite: 211
Distribution: Natural and Physical Science
Semester: N/O
Unit: 0.5

CHEM 319 Seminar. Selected Topics in Organic Chemistry
NOT OFFERED IN 2005-06.
Prerequisite: [313] or 212
Distribution: Natural and Physical Science
Semester: N/O
Unit: 1.0

CHEM 328 Biochemistry II: Chemical Aspects of Metabolism with Laboratory
Elhene
An examination of reaction mechanisms, mechanisms of enzyme and coenzyme action; structures and metabolism of carbohydrates and lipids.
Prerequisite: 221 or 222
Distribution: Natural and Physical Science
Semester: Spring
Unit: 1.25

CHEM 329 Seminar. Selected Topics in Biochemistry
NOT OFFERED IN 2005-06.
Prerequisite: TBA
Distribution: Natural and Physical Science
Semester: N/O
Unit: 1.0

CHEM 333 Physical Chemistry II with Laboratory
Coleman
Quantum chemistry and spectroscopy; structure of solids. Introduction to computational chemistry.
Prerequisite: 231, PHYS 106 or 108 and MATH 216/PHYS 216.
Distribution: Natural and Physical Science or Mathematical Modeling
Semester: Spring
Unit: 1.25

CHEM 341 Inorganic Chemistry with Laboratory
Verschoor
Review of atomic structure, multi-electron atoms, the periodic table and periodicity, chemical applications of group theory, molecular orbital theory, the chemistry of ionic compounds, generalized acid/base theories, transition metal complexes, organometallic chemistry, catalysis, and bioinorganic chemistry. The laboratory introduces a variety of experimental methods used in inorganic synthesis including nonaqueous solvent, high temperature, inert atmosphere and vacuum techniques as well as techniques in computational chemistry and spectroscopic methods of characterization.
Prerequisite: 205 and 212 [313], or 120 and 212 [313]
Distribution: Natural and Physical Science
Semester: Spring
Unit: 1.25

CHEM 349 Topics in Inorganic Chemistry
NOT OFFERED IN 2005-06. OFFERED IN 2006-07. Organometallic compounds are broadly defined as molecules that possess an organic group bonded to a transition metal through a direct carbon-metal bond. Organotransition metal chemistry is a rapidly growing interdisciplinary subject with applications in organic synthesis, industrial processes and materials science. Initially, this course will serve to introduce the concepts of structure, bonding, synthesis, and characterization of organometallic molecules. The emphasis of the course will be on reactions and reaction mechanisms with particular attention paid to applications in organic synthesis and homogeneous catalysis.
Prerequisite: 212
Distribution: Natural and Physical Science
Semester: N/O
Unit: 1.0

CHEM 350 Research or Individual Study
Prerequisite: Open by permission to students who have taken at least two units in chemistry above the introductory level. Students seeking to fulfill the chemistry major research requirement with a 300-level research course should enroll in CHEM 351.
Distribution: None
Semester: Fall, Spring
Unit: 1.0

CHEM 350H Research or Individual Study
Prerequisite: Open by permission to students who have taken at least two units in chemistry above the introductory level.
Distribution: None
Semester: Fall, Spring
Unit: 0.5

CHEM 351 Research or Individual Study
This course may count toward the research requirement for the chemistry major if the following criteria are met: the student registers for 351, writes an 8-10 page (minimum) paper on the research and gives a presentation to the chemistry department during one of the two research seminar presentation periods. The paper must contain substantial literature references, demonstrating a familiarity with searching the chemical literature.
Prerequisite: Open by permission to students who have taken at least three units in chemistry above the introductory level.
Distribution: None
Semester: Fall, Spring
Unit: 1.0
The first course in a two-semester investigation of a significant research problem, culminating in the preparation of a thesis and defense of that thesis before a committee of faculty from the chemistry department. Students will participate in a regular weekly seminar program, in which they will discuss their research progress informally with faculty and student colleagues and gain familiarity with contemporary research through presentations by outside seminar speakers. This route does not lead to departmental honors.

Prerequisite: Open only to seniors by permission of the instructor.
Distribution: None
Semester: Fall, Spring
Unit: 1.0

CHEM 360 Senior Thesis Research
Students in 360 and 370 will be expected to attend the weekly departmental honors seminar, listed in the schedule of classes. The seminar provides a forum for students conducting independent research to present their work to fellow students and faculty. See Academic Distinctions.

Prerequisite: By permission of department.
Distribution: None. Counts toward the research requirement for the chemistry major.
Semester: Fall, Spring
Unit: 1.0

CHEM 361 Analytical Chemistry with Laboratory

Flynn
Classical and instrumental methods of chemical analysis. Topics will include statistical analysis, electronics and circuitry, electrochemistry, spectrosopy, and separations science with special attention to instrument design and function. The course work emphasizes the practical applications of chemical instrumentation and methods to address questions in areas ranging from art history to biochemistry to materials science. The laboratory work focuses on the design, construction, and utilization of chemical instrumentation along with the interfacing of instruments with computers.

Prerequisites: 205 and 211 or 120 and 211. Not open to students who have taken [261].
Distribution: Natural and Physical Science. Fulfills the Quantitative Reasoning overlay course requirement.
Semester: Fall
Unit: 1.25

CHEM 365 Chemistry Thesis
The second course in a two-semester investigation of a significant research problem, culminating in the preparation of a thesis and defense of that thesis before a committee of faculty from the chemistry department. Students will participate in a regular weekly seminar program, in which they will discuss their research progress informally with faculty and student colleagues and gain familiarity with contemporary research through presentations by outside seminar speakers. This route does not lead to Departmental Honors.

Prerequisite: 355
Distribution: None
Semester: Fall, Spring
Unit: 1.0

CHEM 370 Senior Thesis

Prerequisite: 360
Distribution: None
Semester: Fall, Spring
Unit: 1.0

Directions for Election
Any student who plans to take chemistry beyond [111], 205, or 120 should consult one or more members of the chemistry department faculty. The department handbook, available at the department office, Science Center 147, and on the department Web site (www.wellesley.edu/Chemistry/chem.html), contains specific suggestions about programs and deals with a variety of topics including preparation in mathematics and physics, graduate programs, and careers of former majors.

The chemistry core curriculum was revised in academic year 2002-03. For students in the class of 2007 and beyond and those who wish to major in chemistry but have taken fewer than three chemistry courses the major will consist of:

- 105 [110] and 205 [111], or 120; 211 and 212 [313]; 231 or 232; three from among: 221 or 222, 333, 341, 361; and two additional courses in chemistry at the 200 or 300 level, at least one of which must include laboratory. A lab-based 350 or 351 can count as one of the additional courses. Students who plan to major in chemistry should complete PHYS 108 or PHYS 106. Students must also complete MATH 116 or MATH 120. All students who plan to major in chemistry must complete a minimum of one unit of research/independent study. The research requirement may be earned during the academic year by completing a 251, 351, 355, or 360. To obtain research credit toward the major, the project must culminate in the writing of a substantive paper and a presentation in the department. The research requirement may also be fulfilled by participating in a summer research program and meeting the stipulations regarding the paper and presentation. Students must arrange to have the summer research project approved by a faculty member in the chemistry department before starting the program. The research may be conducted on or off campus and must be for a minimum of 8 weeks.

The mathematics and physics courses may be counted toward a major or a minor in those departments. Early completion of the mathematics and physics requirements is encouraged. Students planning graduate work in most areas of chemistry or closely allied fields should strongly consider taking CHEM 333 and additional mathematics and physics courses. MATH 216/PHYS 216 (Mathematics for the Sciences II) is particularly appropriate for students with interest in physical or inorganic chemistry. Normally no more than three units of chemistry taken from another institution may be counted toward the major.

Students interested in the interdepartmental major in biological chemistry are referred to the section of the catalog where that major is described. They should also consult with the director of the biological chemistry program.

A minor in chemistry includes: 105 [110] and 205 [111] or 120; 211; 231 or 232; a choice of 221 or 222 or 341 or 361; one additional 200- or 300-level unit, excluding 350/351. The mathematics and physics prerequisites for 231 or 232 must also be satisfied. Normally no more than one unit in chemistry from another institution may be counted toward the minor.

The American Chemical Society has established a set of requirements in various areas which it considers essential for the training of chemists. Students wishing to meet the standard of an accredited chemist as defined by this society should consult the chair of the chemistry department.

Teacher Certification
Students interested in obtaining certification to teach chemistry in the Commonwealth of Massachusetts should consult the chair of the education department.

Placement and Exemption Examinations
The department conducts a placement exam at the beginning of the fall semester. Students with an AP score of 4 or 5 (or the equivalent IB score) who wish to elect a course other than CHEM 105 must take this exam and consult with the chair of the department.

Credit for Courses Taken at Other Institutions
In order to obtain Wellesley credit for any chemistry course taken at another institution, during the summer or the academic year, approval must be obtained from the chair of the department prior to enrolling in the course. In general, courses from two-year colleges will not be accepted at any level. These restrictions normally apply only to courses taken after enrollment at Wellesley. Transfer students wishing to obtain credit for chemistry courses taken prior to enrollment at Wellesley should consult the chair of the department.

Withdrawal from Courses with Laboratory
Students who withdraw from a course which includes laboratory, and then elect that course in another semester, must complete both the lecture and laboratory portions of the course the second time.

Honors
The only route to honors in the major is writing a thesis and passing an oral examination. To be admitted to the thesis program, a student must have a grade point average of at least 3.5 in all work in the major field above the 100 level; the department may petition on her behalf if her GPA in the major is between 3.0 and 3.5. See Academic Distinctions.
Cinema and Media Studies

AN INTERDEPARTMENTAL MAJOR

Director: Viano (Italian Studies)
Advisory Committee: Obeng (Africana Studies), Karakasidou (Anthropology), Mekuria (Art), Huss (East Asian Languages and Literatures), Ford (English), Shetley (Sociology), Gascon-Vera (Spanish), Cref (Women's Studies), Wood (The Writing Program)

The cinema and media studies (CAMS) major is multicultural in scope and interdisciplinary in method. Its chief objective is to provide students with the skills to understand and interpret the various forms of the moving image. Audio-visual media have played a dominant role in the cultural life of the century recently ended, and promise to figure even more prominently in the current century. The cinema and media studies program equips students to reflect critically on the prevalence and power of audio-visual media, to analyze in an informed and judicious way specific audio-visual texts, and to appreciate the power of outstanding works of cinematic art.

The program aims to substitute active viewing for passive absorption, and to offer students a context and a set of tools with which to assess the media texts that shape the world we all inhabit.

Students majoring in cinema and media studies must take a minimum of nine units, including CAMS 175, CAMS 231, and CAMS 233, one unit in the art department, and one unit in the sociology department, chosen from among the courses listed below. Two units must be at the 300 level, and only one of them can be a 350. To ensure some concentration, at least four units at the 200 level or above should either be elected from within one department or should center around a particular field within the major, such as cinema and video as art, media and identity, media and the culture industry. (For some examples of suitable field concentrations and associated courses, please consult the cinema and media studies Web page at www.wellesley.edu/Film/homePage/home.html.) Students primarily interested in the computing aspects of arts and multimedia should consider the interdepartmental media arts and sciences program.

Honors

The only route to honors in the major is writing a thesis and passing an oral examination. To be admitted to the thesis program, a student must have a grade point average of at least 3.5 in all work in the major field above the 100-level; the department may petition on her behalf if her GPA in the major is between 3.0 and 3.5. See Academic Distinctions.

CAMS 120/WRIT 125 Women in Film
Wood (The Writing Program)

To a large extent, film is about watching, and much film is about watching women. This course provides basic instruction in film analysis, and then makes a foray into theories of cinema. How does the camera work, not only to display its characters, but also to direct the gaze upon them? What are the relationships between the visual spectacle and the progress of the film's story? Writing assignments ask students to observe, analyze, interpret, and explain. This course satisfies the Writing 125 requirement and counts as a unit towards a major in cinema and media studies. Includes a third session each week.

Prerequisite: None. Open only to first-year students.
Distribution: Arts, Music, Theatre, Film, Video
Semester: Spring
Unit: 1.0

CAMS 175 Introduction to Cinema and Media Studies
Viano

An introduction to media analysis with strong emphasis on the critical study of motion pictures. Through repeated viewings of a successful mainstream film, and a selection of audio-visual and written texts, the course aims to impart a methodology for textual and contextual criticism. While exploring key terms such as modernity, intertextuality, and ideology, the readings will also expose students to different theories of culture.

Prerequisite: Preference given to cinema and media studies majors, first-year students and sophomores.
Distribution: Arts, Music, Theatre, Film, Video
Semester: Fall
Unit: 1.0

CAMS 210 Cinema in the 1960s
Viano

This course aims to investigate the "turmoil in the cinema in the 1960s: the birth of ubiquitous New Waves, the interest in avant-garde cinema, and the rise of political filmmaking. We will watch films made in developed as well as developing countries. We will read historical accounts of the cinematic output, together with interviews and manifestos. Finally, we will briefly analyze cinema's critical role as collective memory: films that re-visualized the 1960s a few decades later, thus constituting images of history.

Prerequisite: None
Distribution: Arts, Music, Theatre, Film, Video
Semester: Fall
Unit: 1.0

CAMS 231 Film as Art
Shetley

Study of the aesthetic aspect of film through the critical viewing of classic films. Screenings and discussion of outstanding works of cinematic art drawn from various styles and traditions of filmmaking, including the Hollywood studio system, independent film, the French new wave, neorealism, surrealism, and the avant-garde. Readings from prominent filmmakers and critics chosen to offer a sense of the development of film aesthetics and of the range of critical opinion on the artistic potential of the medium.

Prerequisite: None. Preference given to CAMS majors.
Distribution: Arts, Music, Theatre, Film, Video
Semester: Spring
Unit: 1.0

CAMS 233 History of Motion Pictures
Viano

The study of film history is perhaps the best gateway to a critical investigation of modernity and globalization. After an examination of film's roots in the nineteenth century, the course offers a panoramic, chronological overview of world cinema's development, from Lumière to the so-called "death of cinema." Students will learn about the various film movements in the context of the other arts. By means of socio-historical analysis, we will investigate the links between cinema, technology, and power.

Prerequisite: CAMS 175 and CAMS 231, or permission of instructor.
Distribution: Arts, Music, Theatre, Film, Video

CAMS 313 Seminar. Who’s Afraid of Film Theory?
Viano

Only twenty years after Louis Lumière ironically said of his technical marvel Le Cinématographe (1895), that “cinematography is an invention without a future” his quip had already become a laughing matter. Not only had cinema spawned a global business and an art, but had also begun to attract thinkers from various disciplines. The American Hugo Münsterberg’s 1916 psychological study of how this “invention without a future” affected people’s perceptions, feelings, and cognitive patterns was just the beginning of an international debate that would evolve into an academic discipline with a strong future.

Through a balanced selection of (mostly written) materials, this seminar retraces film theory’s trajectory and significance.

Department of Classical Studies

Professor: Marvin, Starr, Rogers, Dougherty (Chair)
Visiting Associate Professor: Davidson, Warrior
Assistant Professor: Rain, Gilluly

The Department of Classical Studies offers three closely related major programs: Greek, Latin, and Near Eastern Studies. Majors in Greek and Latin are based essentially on courses in the original languages while the classical civilization major combines work in the original languages with courses taught in English on the history, literature, society, and material culture of the ancient world. A related, interdisciplinary major, classical civilization, brings together courses in classical studies with course work in other departments. Classes in Greek and Latin are conducted in English and encourage close analysis of the ancient texts, with emphasis on their literary and historical values.

The department reserves the right to place a new student in the course for which she seems best prepared regardless of the number of units she has offered for admission. The department requires its own placement test for students interested in enrolling in Latin courses other than LAT 101/102.

Qualified students are encouraged to spend a semester, usually in the junior year, on study abroad. Limited departmental funds are available for foreign study. Excellent programs are available in Rome and Athens.

Classical Civilization

AN INTERDEPARTMENTAL MAJOR

The major in classical civilization offers the opportunity to explore the ancient world through an integrated, cohesive program of courses worked out by the student and her advisor. Individual programs are tailored to meet students’ specific interests, such as classical literature, ancient theater, ancient philosophy and political theory, ancient religion, and the classical tradition. A brochure listing of suggested courses for these and other options is available in the Department of Classical Studies and on the Web site www.wellesley.edu/ClassicalStudies/CLSTWWW/CLSTHome.html.

CLCV 102 Uncovering the Ancient World: An Introduction to the Worlds of Greece and Rome
Starr

Instead of excavating an entire site, archaeologists often start by digging exploratory trenches. An approach this course will take to exploring both what we know about Greece and Rome and, as important, how we know what we know. Through specific investigative projects, we’ll explore major topics in the ancient world, such as Homeric Greece, culture and empire in the Athens of Pericles, the founding of Rome, and the interplay of cultures in the Roman empire. We’ll probe the various kinds of evidence we have, including literature, art, architecture, religious artifacts, historical documents, and legal cases, and discuss the advantages and disadvantages each type of evidence presents.
CLCV 104 Classical Mythology

Dougherty

Achilles' heel, the Trojan Horse, Pandora's Box, an Oedipal complex, a Heraclean task – themes and figures from Classical mythology continue to play an important role in our everyday life. We will read the original tales of Classical heroes and heroines together with more modern treatments in film and literature. Why do these stories continue to engage, entertain, and even shock us? What is the nature and power of myth? Readings from ancient sources in English translation.

CLCV 209 Mirrors of Princes: Stories of Heroes

Davidson

One of the functions of the heroic narratives of the ancient oral poetry of Europe and the Middle East was to teach values and right conduce to young nobles. In the tales of the glorious heroes (and heroines) of old, moral lessons for the present were quietly embedded, often taught by older figures of low social status to the high-bred young. Our focus will be the comparative investigation of this "poetic ethics" across multiple linguistic and geographical contexts: the ancient Greek poems of Homer and Hesiod, the classical Persian Halašnāma or Book of Kings, the Old Irish saga of the Cattle Raid of Cooley, the Old Norse Sigurd Cycle, the Middle High German Nibelungenlied, the Old English Beowulf, and the Old French Song of Roland.

CLCV 210/310 Greek Tragedy: Plays, Politics, Performance

Giliby

NOT OFFERED IN 2005-06. The fifth-century Athenian playwrights, Aeschylus, Sophocles, and Euripides, produced brilliant tragedies that continue to haunt us today and to define our notion of drama. At the same time, the Athenian people forged the democratic principles that form the basis for our own political institutions. The element of performance, common to both drama and democracy, provides an important key to understanding this interesting confluence of theater and politics, and this class will combine the close reading (in English) of ancient Greek tragedies with the viewing of a selection of contemporary dramatic performances such as modern Italian cinema, Black Gospel traditions, and contemporary productions of Greek drama. This course may be taken as either 210 or, with additional assignments, 310.

CLCV 212/312 On the Road: Travel in Literature and Film from Homer's Odyssey to Thelma and Louise

Dougherty

NOT OFFERED IN 2005-06. If you can't travel yourself, you can always read about it. This course will focus on the lure of travel, the companionship of the road, and the complicated issues of return. We will also consider the impact of gender on the construction of travel, the connection between travel and romance, and the association of travel and knowledge. How do these (and other) themes laid out so forcefully in the Odyssey continue to dominate works of literature and film? Readings will include Homer's Odyssey, Twain's The Adventures of Huckleberry Finn, and Kerouac's On the Road; films will include The Return of Martin Guerre, and Thelma and Louise. This course may be taken as either 212 or, with additional assignments, 312.

CLCV 213/313 Gender in Antiquity

Giliby

Do notions of gender change over time? In this course, we will explore how gender was constructed in antiquity and how it functioned as an organizational principle. Through close readings of selections from Greek and Roman epic, lyric poetry and drama, as well as philosophical and historical texts, we will analyze ancient gender norms, exploring how they were bent, stressed, dressed up, and used. This course may be taken as either 213 or, with additional assignments, 313.

CLCV 219/319 Roman Literature in Translation

Starr

This poetry, history, epic, the novel, oratory, comedy, philosophy, satire, biography, tragedy, epigram, autobiography; ancient Rome was rich in all of these genres, and it profoundly influenced later literature. We'll survey great works of Roman literature and explore the historical and cultural contexts in which it developed. What does Roman literature tell us it meant to be Roman? What were the functions of literature in society? We'll also look back in time: How do Roman authors build on the works of the ancient Greeks to create an independent Roman literature? We'll also examine some modern texts influenced by Roman literature. Selections in translation from such authors as Catullus, Horace, Livy, Tacitus, Vergil, Petronius, Apuleius, Cicero, Plautus, Seneca, Juvenal, Suetonius, and Martial. This course may be taken as either 219 or, with additional assignments, 319.

CLCV 230/330 War: From Troy to Baghdad

Rogers

War is undoubtedly bad. But human beings have always practiced war. Indeed war preceded history itself by tens of thousands of years—if by history we mean the written inquiry into the past. But what causes wars? How have wars been justified historically? How are wars won and lost? What are their effects? In this class we examine a series of case studies in warfare, including the Trojan War, the Peloponnesian War, and the Roman-Punic Wars. We will read classic accounts of warfare, theoretical literature about tactics, strategy and logistics, and also will analyze how war is represented in other media, such as art and film. This course may be taken as either 230 or, with additional assignments, 330.

CLCV 234 Roads to Rome: Leading the Roman Life

Marvin

NOT OFFERED IN 2005-06. For Roman families the year was shaped by the agricultural calendar, the day by alternations of work and leisure, and society by hierarchies of class and gender. This course will examine what it meant to lead a Roman life, using textual evidence (historical and literary) and the physical remains of Roman cities and towns. It will investigate how civic and religious institutions, public spectacles, and domestic social rituals shaped the lives of individual Romans.

CLCV 236/336 Greek and Roman Religion

Rogers

NOT OFFERED IN 2005-06. The founders of Western civilization were not monotheists. Rather, from 1750 BC until AD 500 the ancient Greeks and Romans sacrificed daily to a pantheon of immortal gods and goddesses who were expected to help mortals to achieve their earthly goals. How did this system of belief develop? Why did it capture the imaginations of so many millions for over 2000 years? What impact did the religion of the Greeks and Romans have upon the other religions of the Mediterranean, including Judaism and Christianity? Why did the religion of the Greeks and Romans ultimately disappear? This course may be taken as either 236 or, with additional assignments, 336.

Prerequisite: 236 open to all students; 336 by permission of instructor.

Unit: 1.0
NOT OFFERED IN 2005-06. At the birth of the Roman Empire virtually all of its inhabitants were practicing polytheists. Three centuries later, the Roman Emperor Constantine was baptised as a Christian and his successors eventually banned public sacrifices to the gods and goddesses who had been traditionally worshipped around the Mediterranean. This course will examine Roman era Judaism, Graeco-Roman polytheism, and the growth of the Jesus movement into the dominant religion of the late antique world. CLCV 345 Slavery and Society in the Graeco-Roman World
Rogers
Some historians have argued that the development of democracy in ancient Athens depended upon the existence of slave labor in Athens. In Republican Rome, where the children of freed slaves could become Roman citizens, scholars have claimed that the majority of Roman citizens were the descendants of slaves by the end of the first century B.C.E. How was slavery defined in the ancient Near East and the Graeco-Roman world? What were the political, social, and economic effects of slavery upon the Greek city-states and Rome? How did the Romans incorporate ex-slaves into Roman society? Was there any opposition to slavery? In this seminar we will briefly examine slavery in the ancient Near East and then trace the development of slavery in Greece and Rome from the middle of the second millennium B.C.E. until the fourth century C.E.

Classical and Near Eastern Archaeology

AN INTERDEPARTMENTAL MAJOR

Director: Marvin

The purpose of a major in classical and Near Eastern archaeology is to acquaint the student with the complex societies of the Old World in antiquity. The program for each student will be planned individually from courses in the Departments of Anthropology, Art, Classical Studies, History, Philosophy, and Religion as well as from the architecture and anthropology programs at MIT. The introductory course in archaeology (ANTH 206) or its equivalent is required for all archaeology majors.

Students who concentrate in classical archaeology must normally have at least an elementary knowledge of both Greek and Latin, and take both Greek and Roman history as well as Greek and Roman art. Students who concentrate on the ancient Near East must have at least an elementary knowledge of one ancient Near Eastern language. Attention is called to Hebrew 101-102 and 201-202 and to the Brandeis exchange program. Students should plan for at least one summer of excavation and/or travel.

LAT 200 Intermediate Latin I: Petronius; Loud Bash at the Mansion
Staff
Tacitus called him Nero’s “czar of cool” (arbiter elegantiae). His Satyricon was Europe’s first novel, full of low life and hijinx—a both a parody of epic poetry and a pattern for romance novels. Petronius offers a series of comic episodes in Southern Italy involving dubious encounters with gluttons, witches, werewolves, acrobats, singers, party-crashers, and even professors, many of whom gather to hear poetry, eat exotic foods, and drink too much with Trimalchio, the crude millionaire (and former slave). Our selected readings will serve as a review of Latin grammar and an introduction to Latin literature.
Prerequisite: 102 or three admission units in Latin or permission of instructor.
Distribution: Language and Literature
Semester: Spring
Unit: 1.0

LAT 201 Intermediate Latin II: Vergil and Augustus
Reyn
Vergil’s Aeneid, Georgics, and Eclogues in their literary context of both Greek poetry (Homer, Apollonius of Rhodes, Euripides) and Latin poetry (Ennius, Lucretius, Catullus, Horace) and in their historical context in the reign of Augustus, the first Roman emperor. Readings in Latin from Vergil and in translation from other ancient works. Use of Internet resources on Vergil and Rome.

LAT 304 Cicero
Reyn
NOT OFFERED IN 2005-06. Rome’s ruling elite defined itself relationally: male, not female; Roman, not Greek; free, not slave; present embodiments of a peculiarly Roman past. This course will look to the diverse works of Cicero to investigate elite identity and its uses during the late Republic. We’ll explore various categories by which identity was constructed and contested, their various textual expressions, their cultural, political, and social value for both the elite in general, and Cicero individually.
Prerequisite: 201 or permission of instructor.
Distribution: Language and Literature or Historical Studies
Semester: N/O
Unit: 1.0

LAT 306 Horace’s Lyric Poetry
Reyn
NOT OFFERED IN 2005-06. We will read the Odes and Epodes of Horace, considering such topics as Greek models, Roman topics, and the politics of Augustan Rome.

Unit: 1.0

LAT 308 Imperial Latin Literature
Staff
NOT OFFERED IN 2005-06. Latin literature flourished in the imperial period, even though it is referred to as “silver” instead of “golden” Latin literature. We’ll explore various authors and genres, including such authors as Seneca (philosophy and drama), Lucretius (epic),Tacitus (history), Pliny (letters), Luvenal (satire), and Martial (epigrams). We’ll also examine the impact of rhetoric on the writing of Latin prose and poetry.
Prerequisite: 201 or permission of instructor.

LAT 310 Roman Historical Myths
Staff
Romans based their history in myth and made their history into myths. This course includes reading from major authors such as Livy, Vergil, Horace, Ovid, Propertius, and Tacitus, focusing on historical myths such as Romulus and Remus, the Rape of the Sabine Women, Tarquinius Superbus, and Hercules and Cacus. We will then examine how later Romans reworked those myths to serve current political purposes, and how they transformed historical events into powerful myths.
Prerequisite: 201 or permission of instructor.
Distribution: Language and Literature or Historical Studies
Semester: Fall
Unit: 1.0

LAT 319 Selected Topics
Reyn
Topic for 2005-06: The Age of Nero. An investigation of Roman literature under the reign of the (artistic and monstrous) emperor Nero. Central to our study will be questions of dissimulation, spectacle, and theatricality; the emperor as cultural rival, author, and actor; how the elite reckoned with autocracy; Rome’s relationship to its cultural and literary pasts—Troyan, Augustan, Republican, Greek; empire and civil war; the significance of encyclopedism; stoicism. Readings drawn from the epics of Lucan and Silius Italicus, the philosophy and drama of Seneca, the satire of Persius, the fiction of Petronius, and the encyclopedic projects of the elder Pliny and Columella.

Students majoring in Latin are required to complete four units of 300-level work in the Latin language, and study of Vergil, either in 201 or at the 300 level, is strongly recommended. Eight units are required for each major.

Students majoring in Greek or Latin are advised to elect some work in the other language. It should be noted that work in both Greek and Latin is essential for graduate studies in the classics.

Advanced Placement Policies and Language Requirement: A student entering Wellesley must have an Advanced Placement score of 4 or 5 to satisfy the foreign language requirement. All students who wish to elect a 200-level or higher Latin course must take Wellesley’s Latin placement examination. Although AP Latin Literature will be counted as a 200-level course for the major, credit will not be given for AP Vergil if the student elects LAT 201.

Cognitive and Linguistic Sciences

AN INTERDEPARTMENTAL MAJOR

Director: Lucas (Psychology)

Cognitive and Linguistic Sciences Advisory Committee: Levitt (Linguistics and French), McIntyre (Philosophy), Hildreth (Computer Science)

Visiting Instructor: Carpenter

A major in cognitive and linguistic sciences is designed to provide students with the breadth necessary for an interdisciplinary approach to the study of language and mind, as well as with substantive training in one of the component disciplines (linguistics, psychology, philosophy, or computer science).

Students majoring in cognitive and linguistic sciences must take a minimum of nine units for the major, including four core units, one from each of the categories below, and a minimum of four electives in a concentration. It is recommended but not required that the ninth course be in a different concentration. Courses eligible for the major are listed below. Students are encouraged to consult the MIT catalog for additional offerings in the major.

Core Courses

Students must fulfill the following four core requirements:

1) Linguistics: LING 114, MIT 24.9, or PSYC 216

2) Formal Systems Requirement: CS 111, LING 240 or LING 244 or PHIL 216

3) PHIL 215

4) CLSC 300: Seminar. Topics in Cognitive and Linguistic Sciences

Where there is a choice, students should choose the course that fits most clearly with their chosen concentration. For example, students concentrating in linguistics should choose LING 114 or MIT 24.9 rather than PSYC 216 and students concentrating in psychology should choose PSYC 216 rather than LING 114. Where a choice is not clear, the student should consult with her major advisor.

Concentrations

In designing a concentration, students need to demonstrate the intellectual coherence of their choices. Therefore, concentrations must be designed in close collaboration with the director. Students must take at least one 300-level course in their concentration.

Linguistics

Students concentrating in linguistics must elect at least four courses from the following list.

Three of these courses must be linguistics courses, including one 300-level course: LING 240, 244, 312 or 322; CS 235, EDUC 308 or 310; FREN 211 or 308; PHIL 207, 216, or 349; PSYC 216 or 316. SOC 216 and RUSS 301 may be taken after consultation with the student’s advisor.

Students will also be expected to demonstrate proficiency in a foreign language above the College’s foreign language requirement (at an intermediate level or above).
Psychology
Students concentrating in psychology must take PSYC 205 and 314R. In addition students must elect at least two courses from the following list: PSYC 215, 217, 218, 219 or BISC 213, NEUR 213, NEUR 315, PSYC 316, 318, 319, 345, LING 322, or BISC 315.

Philosophy
Students concentrating in philosophy must elect at least four of any of the following courses: PHIL 207, 208, 209, 216, 217, 221, 313, 340, or 349. PHIL 345 may be taken after consultation with the student's advisor.

Computer Science
Students concentrating in computer science must elect at least two courses from the following list: CS 231, 235, 251, 303, 310, 331, 332, or 349 (when the topic for CS 349 is approved by the director).

Honors
The only route to honors in the major is writing a thesis and passing an oral examination. To be admitted to the thesis program, a student must have a grade point average of at least 3.5 in all work in the major field above the 100-level; the department may petition on her behalf if her GPA in the major is between 3.0 and 3.5. See Academic Distinctions.

CLSC 300/PSYC 300 Seminar. Topics in Cognitive and Linguistic Sciences
Lucas
Topic: for 2005-06: Cooperation and Competition. According to traditional models of rationality, rational agents should act in ways that will maximize their self-interest. And the study of evolution teaches us that individuals are in competition for survival. Nonetheless, we have all experienced acts of apparent selflessness and societies could not function without cooperation among their members. How, then, can cooperative and selfless behaviors be explained? In this course, an interdisciplinary approach to the problem will be taken. Evidence and theories from the psychological, economic, and neurobiological literatures will be examined. Cross-cultural, developmental, and cross-species differences will be explored as will the evolutionary origins of cooperation and competition and the role of cooperation in language.
Prerequisite: Open to juniors and seniors who have taken one of PSYC 215-219, LING 114, PHIL 215, CS 111 or permission of the instructor.
Distribution: Social and Behavioral Analysis or Epistemology and Cognition
Semester: Spring
Unit: 1.0

CLSC 370 Senior Thesis
Prerequisite: 360
Distribution: None
Semester: Fall, Spring
Unit: 1.0

LING 114 Introduction to Linguistics
Levitt
Designed to familiarize students with some of the essential concepts of linguistic analysis. Suitable problem sets in English and in other languages will provide opportunities to study the basic systems of language organization—phonology, morphology, syntax, and semantics. Additional topics include introductions to language organization in the brain, child language acquisition, language change, and writing systems.
Prerequisite: None. Not open to students who have taken LING 114.
Distribution: Epistemology and Cognition
Semester: Fall, Spring
Unit: 1.0

LING 240 The Sounds of Language
Carpenter
What are all the possible linguistically-relevant sounds of the human vocal tract? How does each language organize a subset of those sounds into a coherent system? Examination of the sounds of language from the perspective of phonetics and of phonology. Each student will choose a foreign language for intensive study of its phonetic, phonological, and prosodic characteristics. Includes extensive use of speech analysis and phonetics software.
Prerequisite: LING 114, PSYC 216, or by permission of the instructor. Not open to students who have taken LING 240.
Distribution: Epistemology and Cognition
Semester: Spring
Unit: 1.0

LING 244 Language: Form and Meaning
NOT OFFERED IN 2005-06. This course will consider some basic questions about language: What do we actually know when we know a language? How is the structure of language best described? Are there properties which all languages share, and what do those properties tell us about language itself? We will look at a number of specific problems in morphology, syntax, and semantics, and the strengths and weaknesses of a number of different linguistic theories will be considered. While many of the problems considered in this class will involve English, we will also be looking at a number of other languages, both European and non-European.
Prerequisite: LING 114. Not open to students who have taken LING 244.
Distribution: Epistemology and Cognition
Semester: N/O
Unit: 1.0

LING 312 Bilingualism: An Exploration of Language, Mind, and Culture
Levitt
Exploration of the relationship of language to mind and culture through the study of bilingualism. The bilingual individual will be the focus for questions concerning language and mind: The detection of “foreign” accent, the relationship of words to concepts, the organization of the mental lexicon, language specialization of the brain, and the effects of early bilingualism on cognitive functioning. The bilingual nation will be the focus for questions dealing with language and culture; societal conventions governing use of one language over another, effects of extended bilingualism on language development and change, and political and educational impact of a government’s establishing official bilingualism.
Prerequisite: Related 200-level course in linguistics, psychology, anthropology, philosophy, or permission of the instructor. Not open to students who have taken [LING 312].
Distribution: Epistemology and Cognition or Social and Behavioral Analysis
Semester: Fall
Unit: 1.0

LING 322 Child Language Acquisition
NOT OFFERED IN 2005-06. Language acquisition in young children. Examination of children’s developing linguistic abilities and evaluation of current theories of language learning. Topics include infant speech perception and production and the development of phonology, morphology, the lexicon, syntax, and semantics in the young child. Data from studies of children learning languages other than English will also be considered.
Prerequisite: Open to juniors and seniors who have taken LING 114 or PSYC 216, or permission of instructor. Not open to students who have taken LING 322.
Distribution: Epistemology and Cognition
Semester: N/O
Unit: 1.0

LING 350 Research or Individual Study
Prerequisite: Two 200-level units.
Distribution: None
Semester: Fall, Spring
Unit: 1.0

CLSC 350 Research or Independent Study
Prerequisite: Open by permission to juniors and seniors.
Distribution: None
Semester: Fall, Spring
Unit: 1.0

CLSC 360 Senior Thesis Research
Prerequisite: By permission of the director. See Academic Distinctions.
Distribution: None
Semester: Fall, Spring
Unit: 1.0
Comparative Literature

A STRUCTURED INDIVIDUAL MAJOR

Director: Nolden (German)

Advisory Board: Respaut* (French), Rosenwald* (English), deWarren (Philosophy), Chen (Chinese), Ward (ex officio: Language Chairs)

The comparative literature major is a structured individual major for students seeking to study literature across departmental, national, and linguistic boundaries. Students in comparative literature devise their own programs in careful consultation with two advisors, one in each of two departments, and with the director of the program.

Students who major in comparative literature should, in putting their major together, be aware of the many and diverse courses that pertain to the study of literature.

These include, but are not limited to:
1. courses in literary history;
2. courses in particular literary genres;
3. courses in the theory of literature;
4. courses in linguistics;
5. courses on the theory and practice of translation.

Many courses combine or fall between these categories. Students should also consult the Courses in Literature in Translation section at the back of the catalog.

Directions for Election

1. Ten units. Majors in comparative literature shall complete a minimum of ten units. All courses must count towards the major in the departments in which they are offered.
2. Comparative literature seminar. All majors shall take CPLT 330, the comparative literature seminar.
3. Advanced literature courses. In addition to CPLT 330, majors shall take at least two more literature courses at the 300 level. These two advanced literature courses shall be in at least two languages, of which English may be one, and in at least two departments, and majors shall meet departmental prerequisites for these courses.
4. Premodern literature. Majors shall take at least one course outside of the modern period in at least one of the literatures they are studying; what "the modern period" means for a particular literature will depend on the literature, and will be determined by the major's advisors.
5. Theory of literature. Majors shall take at least one course offering a theoretical perspective helpful to their particular course of study. Sometimes this will be ENG 382 (Criticism), but other courses, too, can meet this requirement.
6. Independent research. Majors shall do a substantial piece of independent work in comparative literature. They may supplement CPLT 330 or a course in a pertinent department with extra independent work or enroll in CPLT 350, CPL 360 and/or CPLT 370. They may also enroll in a 350 in a pertinent department chosen by the student in consultation with her advisors.

In general, programs will be worked out in relation to the major's particular languages and interests. Examples of possible interests would include poetry, the novel, women's writing, and the relations between politics and literature.

Honors
The only route to honors in the major is writing a thesis and passing an oral examination. To be admitted to the thesis program, a student must have a grade point average of at least 3.5 in all work in the major field above the 100-level; the department may petition on her behalf if her GPA in the major is between 3.0 and 3.5. See Academic Distinctions.

CPLT 254 Imaginary Crimes and Courts: The Law in Literature

Krusz (German)
Both in literature and in law, language shapes rhetorical worlds which seek to represent, constitute, interpret, and criticize the world created and inhabited by human beings. Since its beginnings through the twentieth century, imaginative literature, in turn, has embodied critical depictions of the law in the lives of individuals and societies. The course will examine texts from Sophocles to Dorothy Parker and include works by Shakespeare, Kleist, Dickens, Melville, and Kafka. Two periods.

Prerequisite: None. Not open to students who have taken [EXTD 254].
Distribution: Language and Literature
Semester: Fall
Unit: 1.0

CPLT 284 Magical Realism: Russia and Beyond
Weiner (Russian)
This course examines fictions whose basic reality would be familiar if not for the introduction of a magical element that undermines commonplace notions about what constitutes reality in the first place. The magical element can be a demon, a talisman, physical transformation, miraculous transition in space or time, appearance of a second plane of existence, revelation of the unreality of the primary plane of existence, etc. Students will read Solzhenitsyn's The Petry Demon, Bely's Petersburg, Bulgakov's The Master and Margarita, Kafka's Metamorphosis, Queeneu's The Blue Flowers, Marquez's One Hundred Years of Solitude, Pynchon's The Crying of Lot 49, Sokolov's School for Fools, Murakami's Wild Sheep Chase, and short stories by Borges, Cortaxl, and Nabokov. Two periods.

Prerequisite: None. Not open to students who have taken [RUSS 284].
Distribution: Language and Literature
Semester: Spring
Unit: 1.0

CPLT 330 Seminar. Comparative Literature
Nolden (German)
Topic for 2005-06: Narrating the Self. Focusing on memoirs which represent the extremes of the human condition, the seminar will address generic problems of autobiographical writing: the tension between fact and fiction, the (un)reliability of memory, the problems of representing history and the complicated relationship between text and reader. Texts by Augustine, Rousseau, Benjamin, L. Levi, Plat, C. Yang, and others. One seminar meeting per week.

Prerequisite: One 200-level course in literature or by permission of the instructor.
Distribution: Language and Literature
Semester: Fall
Unit: 1.0

CPLT 334 Literature and Medicine
Respaut (French)
NOT OFFERED IN 2005-06. Drawing on texts from different countries, this interdisciplinary course will investigate literature's obsession with medicine. Literary representations of doctors and patients, disability, insanity, AIDS, birth, death and grief, the search for healing and the redemptive power of art. Attention will be given to the links between medical diagnosis and literary interpretation. Differences between the treatment of medical issues in fiction and in autobiographies will be explored. Selected visual representations, in film and photography, will also be introduced.

Prerequisite: One 200-level course in literature or by permission of the instructor. Not open to students who have taken [EXTD 334].
Distribution: Language and Literature
Semester: N/0
Unit: 1.0

CPLT 350 Research or Individual Study
Prerequisite: By permission of the Director. See Academic Distinctions.
Distribution: None
Semester: Fall, Spring
Unit: 1.0

CPLT 360 Senior Thesis Research
Prerequisite: By permission of the Director. See Academic Distinctions.
Distribution: None
Semester: Fall, Spring
Unit: 1.0

CPLT 370 Senior Thesis
Prerequisite: 360
Distribution: None
Semester: Fall, Spring
Unit: 1.0

CS 100 Introduction to Internet Research and Resources
Orr (Office for Information Services)
OFFERED IN 2005-06 only as part of Pathways. CS 100 is a half-credit course designed for students with limited computing experience. Students learn to search, access, and critically evaluate information available on the Internet. Topics include copyright, privacy, and security issues of digital data and electronic communications, together with the basic computer science underpinning of these issues. Students learn to use many different search engines and full-text databases to do complex searches. Students will also use HTML and other authoring tools, such as Dreamweaver and Fireworks, to maintain a Web-published portfolio of their Internet research. Students who have already designed a basic Web site might find it more useful to take CS 110 or CS 111. Students must take CS 100 as credit/noncredit.
Prerequisite: None. No prior background with computers is expected.
Distribution: None
Semester: Offered only as part of Pathways program. Unit: 0.5

CS 110 Computer Science and the Internet
Anderson, Kakavouli, Metaxas, Stephan
This course explains the basics of how the Internet works and how to build a Web site. Topics include client-server architecture, structuring Web pages with HTML, the representation of colors, images, and sound on the computer, file compression, encryption, cookies, and copyright, intellectual property issues, and critical thinking in the context of the Internet. The required project also models most phases of the standard software lifecycle. Students are introduced to programming by building an interactive Web site using JavaScript. Students are required to attend an additional discussion section each week. Students considering additional computer science courses should take 111, not 110.
Students can receive Mathematical Modeling distribution credit for only one of 110, 111, and 199.
Consult “Choosing an Introductory CS Course” online at cs.wellesley.edu/~cs/whichCS1x.html.
Prerequisite: None. No prior background with computers is expected.
Distribution: Mathematical Modeling
Semester: Fall, Spring
Unit: 1.0

CS 115/PHYS 115 Robotic Design Studio
(Wintersession)
Berg (Physics), Turbak
NOT OFFERED IN 2005-06. In this intensive course, students are introduced to robotics principles while designing and assembling robots out of LEGO® parts, sensors, motors, and tiny computers. Fundamental robotics skills are learned in the context of assembling and testing a simple robot known as SciBorg. These techniques together aspects of a surprisingly wide range of disciplines, including computer science, physics, math, biology, psychology, engineering, and art. Students may register for either CS 115 or PHYS 115 and credit will be granted accordingly.
Prerequisite: None
Distribution: Natural and Physical Science
Semester: N/O
Unit: 0.5

CS 199 Simulation: An Interdisciplinary Tool
Anderson
Computer simulations play an increasingly important role in decision-making and public policy. In this course, we learn to use a commercial simulation package that allows us to build simulation models via a graphical interface where we place and connect blocks that process information. We also learn how to use important tools of probability and statistics in the implementation and evaluation of simulations. Students are required to attend an additional laboratory section each week. This course is open to all students, including those who have taken upper-level CS courses. Students who take CS 199 as their first CS class must still take CS 111 before taking upper-level CS classes. Students can receive Mathematical Modeling distribution credit for only one of 110, 111, and 199.
Consult “Choosing an Introductory CS Course” online at cs.wellesley.edu/~cs/whichCS1x.html.
Prerequisite: Fulfillment of the basic skills component of the Quantitative Reasoning requirement.
Distribution: Mathematical Modeling. Fulfills the Quantitative Reasoning overlay course requirement. Does not satisfy the laboratory requirement.
Semester: Spring
Unit: 1.0

CS 230 Data Structures
Metaxas, Tjaden
An introduction to techniques and building blocks for organizing large programs. Topics include: modules, abstract data types, recursion, algorithmic efficiency, and the use and implementation of standard data structures and algorithms such as lists, trees, graphs, stacks, queues, priority queues, tables, sorting, and searching. Students become familiar with these concepts through weekly programming assignments using the Java programming language.
Prerequisite: 111 or permission of the instructor. Students who received a grade of C+ or lower in 111 must contact the instructor before enrolling.
Distribution: Mathematical Modeling
Semester: Fall, Spring
Unit: 1.0

CS 231 Fundamental Algorithms
Shull, Tjaden
An introduction to the design and analysis of fundamental algorithms. General techniques covered: divide-and-conquer algorithms, dynamic programming, greedy, probabilistic algorithms. Topics include: sorting, searching, graph algorithms, compression, cryptography, computational geometry, and NP-completeness.
Prerequisite: 230 and either MATH 225 or permission of the instructor.
Distribution: Mathematical Modeling
Semester: Fall, Spring
Unit: 1.0

CS 232 Artificial Intelligence
Hildreth
NOT OFFERED IN 2005-06. OFFERED IN 2006-07. An introduction to artificial intelligence (AI), the design of computer systems that possess and acquire knowledge and can reason with that knowledge. Topics include knowledge representation, problem solving and search, planning, vision, language comprehension and production, learning, common sense reasoning, and expert systems. To attain a realistic and concrete understanding of these problems, CommonLisp, an AI programming language, will be taught and used to implement the algorithms of the course. Alternate year course.
Prerequisite: 230 or permission of the instructor.
Distribution: Mathematical Modeling
Semester: N/O. Offered in 2006-07
Unit: 1.0

CS 235 Languages and Automata
Shull
An introduction to the concepts of languages and automata. Topics include languages, regular expressions, finite automata, grammar, pushdown automata, and Turing machines. The first half of the semester covers the Chomsky hierarchy of languages and their associated computational models. The second half of the semester focuses on decidability issues and unsolvable problems and the course closes with a brief
CS 301 Compiler Design and Implementation
NOT OFFERED IN 2005-06. A survey of the techniques used in the implementation of programming language translators. Topics include lexical analysis, the theory of parsing and automatic parser generators, semantic analysis, code generation, and optimization techniques. These topics are explored in the context of implementing a working compiler.
Prerequisite: 240, 251
Distribution: Mathematical Modeling
Semester: N/O
Unit: 1.0

CS 331 Parallel Machines and Their Algorithms
Metaxas
This course is a broad introduction to parallelism that studies problem solving using a large number of cooperating processing elements. It is divided into three parts. First, it introduces the need for parallel computation and describes some of the fundamental algorithmic techniques. The second part surveys some of the more popular interconnection networks employed in today's parallel computers. In the third part, several parallel algorithms are designed and implemented on a cluster of communicating computers. Alternate year course.
Prerequisite: 231 or permission of the instructor.
Distribution: Mathematical Modeling
Semester: Spring
Unit: 1.0

CS 341 Operating Systems
Stephan
This course is designed to provide a solid understanding of the key mechanisms of modern operating systems, the types of design trade-offs and decisions involved in operating system design, and the context within which the operating system functions (hardware, other system programs, application programs, interactive users). The key concepts of study are: introduction to operating systems, the operating system from the programmer's point of view, review of computer organization, process management, scheduling, process synchronization, deadlock, and device and memory management. Alternate year course.
Prerequisite: 240 or permission of the instructor.
Distribution: Mathematical Modeling
Semester: Fall
Unit: 1.0

CS 342 Computer Security
Tirpak
NOT OFFERED IN 2005-06. OFFERED IN 2006-07. An introduction to computer security. Topics include ethics, privacy, authentication, access control, information flow, operating system security (with a focus on Linux), cryptography, security protocols, intrusion prevention and detection, firewalls, viruses, network security,
Web security, programming language security. Assignments include hands-on exercises with security exploits and tools in a Linux environment. Participants will independently research, present, and lead discussions on security-related topics. Alternate year course.

Prerequisite: 242 or permission of the instructor. Not open to students who have taken this topic as CS 349.

Distribution: Mathematical Modeling

Semester: N/O. Offered in 2006-07. Unit: 1.0

CS 343 Advanced Computer Organization and Design with Laboratory

Stephan

NOT OFFERED IN 2005-06. OFFERED IN 2006-07. This course explores advanced computer organization and design. The interaction of hardware and software at a variety of levels is studied to provide a framework for how to design a computer. These ideas will also be applied to understand how a computer system works and why it performs as it does. Examples and measurements based on commercial systems are used to create realistic design experiences. In addition, RISC architectures for current desktop, server, and embedded computers will also be surveyed. Integral to the course is a three-hour required weekly laboratory. In the laboratory, students will engage in an intensive, semester-long project in which they design a simple RISC-style microprocessor. The lectures complement the labs. Alternate year course.

Prerequisite: 240. Not open to students who have this course as a topic of CS 349.

Distribution: Mathematical Modeling. This course satisfies the laboratory requirement.

Semester: N/O. Offered in 2006-07. Unit: 1.25

Directions for Election

Students majoring in computer science must complete

CS 111, 230, 231, 235, 240, 251, two 300-level courses other than 350, 360, and 370, and at least one additional computer science course at the 200 or 300 level. Students who do not take CS 111 must replace this requirement with one additional one-unit computer science course except 110. Computer science courses at MIT or other institutions used to meet the nine-course requirement must be approved in advance by the department chair on an individual basis. In addition, all majors in computer science are expected to complete (1) MATH 225 (Combinatorics and Graph Theory) and (2) at least one additional course in mathematics at the 200 or 300 level. Particularly relevant mathematics courses are MATH 206 (Linear Algebra), MATH 220 (Probability and Elementary Statistics), MATH 223 (Number Theory), MATH 305 (Modern Abstract Algebra I), MATH 309 (Foundations of Mathematics), and sometimes MATH 349 (Graph Theory). Students should consult a CS faculty member for advice in choosing mathematics courses best suited to their interests. Students are strongly encouraged to complete the 200-level CS and mathematics requirements, especially CS 230, 240, and MATH 225, as early in the major as possible. Students are encouraged to consult the computer science student handbook (cs.wellesley.edu/~cs/handbook-05.pdf) for suggestions of possible course schedules for completing the major. Students considering a junior year abroad should consult a faculty member in the department as soon as possible in their sophomore year to plan a schedule of courses to complete the major.

All computer science majors are required to participate in the computer science student seminar held throughout the academic year. In this seminar, students have the opportunity to explore topics of interest through reading and discussion, field trips, invited speakers, independent research projects, or software development projects.

The computer science five-course minimum minor is recommended for students whose primary interests lie elsewhere, but who wish to obtain a fundamental understanding of computer science. The minor consists of CS 111, 230, 240, either 231 or 235, and at least one 300-level computer science course other than 350. Note that since MATH 225 is a prerequisite for 231 and 235, students considering minoring in computer science are encouraged to complete MATH 225 as soon as possible. Students who do not take CS 111 must replace this requirement with one additional one-unit computer science course except 110. Students may receive a maximum of one unit of college credit for a score of 5 on the Computer Science A or AB Advanced Placement exam. This unit does not count towards the computer science major or minor. Students receiving AP credit for computer science should consult with the department regarding enrollment in 230 or 240.

CS majors and minors should consult with a CS faculty advisor before electing to take a CS course as credit/non.

Students can earn honors in computer science by successfully completing an honors-quality senior thesis. A detailed description of the senior thesis project in computer science can be found in the document Independent Studies in Computer Science (cs.wellesley.edu/~cs/Research/independent.pdf). Majors who are interested in undertaking a senior thesis project are urged to discuss their plans with either their advisor or the department chair as early as possible in their junior year.

Students who plan to pursue graduate work in computer science are strongly encouraged to develop their background in mathematics, particularly in the areas of linear algebra, probability and statistics, and graph theory. Such students should elect one or more of 310 or MATH 305. In addition, students who are planning either graduate work or advanced technical research or development work are strongly encouraged to (1) obtain laboratory experience by electing one or more of 301, 340, or appropriate courses at MIT and (2) pursue at least one independent study or research project before graduating, in the form of a Wellesley course (250/350/360), an MIT UROP, or a summer internship; consult cs.wellesley.edu/~cs/Research for more details. Students interested in an interdepartmental major (or minor, if applicable) in cognitive and linguistic sciences, media arts and sciences, or neuroscience are referred to these listings in the catalog.

Assistant Professor: J. Chen, Huss
Visiting Assistant Professor: Goff, Lee
Lecturer: Maeno, Torii
Lecturer in Chinese Language: D. Chen, Zhao
Lecturer in Japanese Language: Hatano, Oizawa

The Department of East Asian Languages and Literatures offers two distinct programs: Chinese language and literature and Japanese language and literature. The goal of each major is to provide students with a solid foundation in the disciplines of language and literature through intensive language training and broad exposure to the literary and cultural traditions of the culture under study.

The department reserves the right to place a new student in the language course for which she seems best prepared regardless of the number of units she has offered for admission.

Major in Chinese Language and Literature

CHIN 101-102 Beginning Chinese
D. Chen, Zhao

An introductory course that teaches the skills of listening comprehension, speaking, reading, and writing in Mandarin Chinese. Emphasis is on pronunciation, vocabulary, grammar, and communication. Computer programs for pronunciation, listening comprehension, grammar, and writing Chinese characters will be used extensively. Four 70-minute classes plus one 30-minute small group session. Each semester earns 1.0 unit of credit; however, both semesters must be completed satisfactorily to receive credit for either course.

Prerequisite: None. Open only to students with no Chinese language background.
Distribution: None
Semester: Fall, Spring
Unit: 1.25

CHIN 103-104 Advanced Beginning Chinese
Ma

An introductory course that teaches the skills of listening comprehension, speaking, reading, and writing in Mandarin Chinese. Emphasis is on pronunciation, vocabulary, grammar, and communication. Computer programs for pronunciation, listening comprehension, grammar, and writing Chinese characters will be used extensively. Three 70-minute classes. Each semester earns 1.0 unit of credit; however, both semesters must be completed satisfactorily to receive credit for either course.

Prerequisite: Open to students who can speak some Chinese (Mandarin or other Chinese dialect), or who have some knowledge about reading and writing Chinese characters. Department placement test is required.
Distribution: None
Semester: Fall, Spring
Unit: 1.0

CHIN 110 Introduction to Cultural Traditions of China (in English)

NOT OFFERED IN 2005-06. China is one of the world’s most enduring civilizations, with a history that spans over three thousand years. This course will provide a broad introduction to much of this tradition from its archaic beginnings to the twentieth century. Through careful readings of primary texts (translated into English), we will explore the development and interactions of diverse aspects of Chinese culture, including language and script, literature and the arts, philosophy and religion, politics, history and technology. No prior background in Chinese language or Chinese culture is assumed.

Prerequisite: None
Distribution: Historical Studies or Language and Literature
Semester: Spring
Unit: 1.0

CHIN 201-202 Intermediate Chinese

Prerequisite: 103-104 or permission of instructor
Distribution: Language and Literature
Semester: Fall, Spring
Unit: 1.0

CHIN 206 The Chinese Literary Imagination I: Beginnings to the Northern Song Dynasty (in English)
J. Chen

This is a thematic introduction to Chinese literature in translation, tracing the development of poetry, narrative, and criticism up through the Northern Song dynasty (960–1127). We will focus on the representation of the self in literary texts – its authenticity and/or theatricality – with particular attention to historical contexts, issues of genre and gender, and the pressures exerted by political and religious ideologies. Where it is relevant, we will also take up some concerns of recent theoretical approaches to literary and cultural studies.

Prerequisite: None
Distribution: Historical Studies or Language and Literature
Semester: Fall
Unit: 1.0

CHIN 207 The Chinese Literary Imagination II: The Song Dynasty to the Fall of Imperial China (in English)
J. Chen

This is the second half of a thematic introduction to Chinese literature in translation, focusing on the vernacular genres of the Song, Yuan, Ming, and Qing dynasties. We will explore the ways in which the self is constructed in the late imperial period, across genres such as diaries and informal prose, drama, short fiction and novels, and poetry. Questions of gender and sexuality, urban culture, and historical context will also be addressed.

Prerequisite: None
Distribution: Historical Studies or Language and Literature
Semester: Spring
Unit: 1.0

CHIN 208 The Chinese Literary Imagination III: Late Qing to the Present Day (in English)

This is a thematic introduction to modern Chinese literature which travels from the Late Qing period through the twentieth century to the present day. We will explore how the individual and the nation are constructed in short fiction, poetry, essays and novels. Topics such as revolution and censorship, exile and the foreign, urban and rural identity, and gender and sexuality will guide discussions. We will view the cinematic versions of several contemporary novels as well.

Prerequisite: None
Distribution: Historical Studies or Language and Literature
Semester: Fall
Unit: 1.0

CHIN 230/330 Writing Women in Traditional China (in English)

NOT OFFERED IN 2005-06. Who were the major women writers in traditional China? How did they represent themselves and how were they represented—in literary, historical, religious, and philosophical texts? This course will serve as an introduction to women’s writings over the last two thousand years in China. We will examine the construction of gender, voice, and identity through close readings of poetry, fiction, essays, letters and biographical texts. We will also discuss the historical and social contexts so that we may better understand the conditions under which female authors lived and wrote. This course may be taken as 230 or with additional assignments, as 330.

Prerequisites: 230 open to all students; for 330, one of the following: 110, 206, 207, or 208, or permission of the instructor.
Distribution: Historical Studies or Language and Literature
Unit: 1.0

CHIN 243 Chinese Cinema (in English)
Huss

Contemporary film from Hong Kong, Taiwan, and the People’s Republic of China. This course investigates the history of the Chinese film industry, the issue of cultural hegemony (the power Hollywood is thought to exert over film industries of the “Third World”); cinematic constructions of Chinese gender, family, national, and individuality; and applications of contemporary Western film theory.

Prerequisite: None
Distribution: Arts, Music, Theatre, Film, Video or Language and Literature
Semester: Spring

Distribution: Language and Literature
Semester: Fall
Unit: 1.0

CHIN 325 Philosophical Approaches to Chinese Literature
J. Chen
This course will examine the complicated relationship between philosophy and literature in China, as well as explore the possibility of cross-cultural interpretation and understanding. Our discussions will draw upon a wide range of topics, including the ethical character of literature, the problem of rhetoric, the relationship of writing to the state, the idea of aesthetic autonomy, metaphysics and language, commentary as philosophical critique, the imagination of China by Western philosophers and theorists, and Marxist and postmodern critiques of tradition. Readings will be drawn from philosophical texts (Adolfo, Zhuangzi), literary and historical works (Sim Qian's Historical Records, Du Fu's poetry), selected Western thinkers (Plato, Hegel, Stanley Cavell), as well as contemporary philosophers and critics (Li Zehou, Jacques Derrida, Fredric Jameson).
Prerequisite: Appropriate prior coursework at the 200-level in East Asian Languages and Literatures, East Asian Studies, Philosophy, or Religion.
Distribution: Language and Literature or Epistemology and Cognition
Semester: Fall
Unit: 1.0

CHIN 340 Literature of the Chinese Diaspora (in English)
Huss
The idea of "Zugo/Woguo", the motherland, has been central to Chinese literary writing throughout the past century. Novelist and poets in China are politicians by default and bear witness, in their lives and deaths, to the tremendous economic, political and cultural transformation that has occurred in twentieth-century mainland China. But what does China mean to writers of the Chinese diaspora? Writers in Taiwan, Hong Kong, Japan, North America, Europe? We will probe representations of the self, the martial hero, exile, gender, sexuality, colonialism, nation and how all of these are (or are not) tied to the concept of a motherland. All of the novels read for this course were written in Chinese outside of mainland China and are available in English translation.
Prerequisite: 207, 208 or permission of the instructor
Distribution: Language and Literature
Semester: Spring
Unit: 1.0

CHIN 349 Mind, Place, and Landscape in Traditional China (in English)
NOT OFFERED IN 2005-06. What is a place? How do writers and painters depict places? What does it mean to describe places one has never visited, or to create places that do not actually exist? In this course, we will examine the representation of places and landscapes across a variety of traditional Chinese media, including historical texts, poetry, fiction, drama, tomb art, paintings, literary and art criticism, travel diaries, and pilgrimage accounts. Topics will include spiritual and mental journeys, the imagination of the afterworld, landscape as portraiture, the mapping of empire, and dream narratives.

JPN 111 Gender and Popular Culture of Japan (in English)
Zimmerman
Our study of Japanese popular culture focuses on gender issues, particularly on how girls are represented in Japanese comic books, magazines, fiction, television, animation, and film. We ask why the girl sparks such intense interest in Japan and explore how she both challenges and real-firms existing gender norms. A lightening rod for social change in Japan, even for modernity itself, representations of the girl illuminate the status of women, the changing role of the family, issues of ethnic and national identity, sexual orientation, and even Japan’s relation to the outside world. No previous knowledge of Japan or Japanese language required.

Zimmerman

Topic for 2005-06: Love and Liberation in Postwar Japanese Fiction. With the lifting of state censorship, postwar Japanese writers began to explore themes of romantic love, sexual liberation, familial dysfunction, and deep alienation in the aftermath of a draining war. In their celebration of the personal, however, Japanese writers also wrestle with questions of Japan's responsibility for the war, with Japanese identity, and with the social changes occurring around them. We embed literary texts in their historical and social contexts as we listen for the "hum of the times." At the same time, through close reading and analysis, we let literature speak for itself, assessing the aesthetic accomplishments of six writers from the late 1940s to the present. Focusing on The Genji and Murasaki’s diary, we examine the culture of the Heian court, Buddhist beliefs, the esthetic of mono no aware (a beauty evocative of longing), and the literature (poetry, prose, and ladies’ diaries) of the court salons. Directions for Election

Chinese language and literature: The goal of this major is to provide students with a solid foundation in the disciplines of Chinese language and literature through intensive language training and broad exposure to Chinese literary and cultural traditions through literature/culture courses taught in both English and Chinese. Students are strongly encouraged to begin their Chinese language study during their first year at Wellesley. Students with a Chinese language background must take a placement test to determine their proper courses. In addition, the EALL department strongly recommends that all majors spend a summer and/or a semester of their junior year studying Mandarin at an approved program in China, Taiwan, or Hong Kong.

Japanese language and literature major consists of a minimum of ten courses. The following three sets of guidelines for the Chinese language and literature major have been devised to meet the needs of students who come to Wellesley with differing Chinese language backgrounds.

A. Students beginning their Chinese language study at Wellesley in CHIN 101-102, 103-104 or 201-202 shall complete the ten-course Chinese major as follows: (1) Five language courses from among CHIN 101-102* or 103-104*; 201-202* or 203-204*; 301, 302, or 306, 307; (2) 310 or 317; (3) two literary courses from 206, 207, 208; (4) two additional literature/culture courses taught in English from among 110, 230, 243, 325, 330, 340, 349. At least one of these courses must be at the 300 level.

B. Students beginning their Chinese language study at Wellesley in CHIN 203-204 shall complete the ten-course Chinese major as follows: (1) Three language courses consisting of CHIN 203-204*, 306 or 307; (2) 310 or 317; (3) two literary courses from 206, 207, 208; (4) four additional literature/culture courses taught in English from among 110, 230, 243, 325, 330, 340, 349.

C. Majors beginning their Chinese language study at Wellesley in third-year Chinese shall complete the ten-course Chinese major as follows: (1) Two language courses from among CHIN 301, 302, 306, 307; (2) 310 or 317; (3) two literary courses from 206, 207, 208; (4) five additional literature/culture courses taught in English from among 110, 230, 243, 325, 330, 340, 349.

* Both semesters must be completed satisfactorily to receive credit for either course.

Japanese language and literature: Japanese language and literature majors are strongly urged to begin language study in their first year. A junior year or summer of intensive language study in Japan is encouraged. The major consists of a minimum of eight units and normally includes JPN 202, 231, 232, and five additional units. At least two must be nonlanguage units, and at least two must come from the 300 level (to be taken within the department). Students entering with advanced language preparation may substitute alternate language units as necessary with departmental permission. JPN 101-102 and 201 may be counted toward the degree but not toward the major. Students who have completed 309, 310, 312, 314, or the equivalent may choose to do an independent study using the Japanese language (330). Those who wish to do an independent study that does not require the Japanese language should register for 250. An advisor should be chosen from within the department.

Teacher Certification

Students interested in seeking certification in teaching Chinese or Japanese should speak with the chair of the EALL department and education department early in their college career.

Study Abroad

A maximum of three courses taken abroad may be counted toward the Chinese language and literature major; and a maximum of four courses toward the Japanese language and literature major. Students should note that more credit may be counted toward the Wellesley degree. In order to obtain credit for study abroad, students must obtain prior consent from the Registrar’s Office and the EALL department chair and must pass a placement test administered by the EALL department upon return to Wellesley. In addition, it is essential that proof of course content and performance in the form of syllabi, written work, examinations, and grades be presented to the EALL department chair.

Advanced Placement Policies and Language Requirement

A student entering Wellesley must pass the Chinese examination or the Japanese examination to satisfy the foreign language requirement.

Transfer Credits

The transfer of credit (either from another American institution or from a language program abroad) is not automatic. A maximum of three units may be transferred toward the major in Chinese language and literature and a maximum of four toward the major in Japanese language and literature. Work at the 300-level must be taken within the department for credit towards the major in Chinese and Japanese. Students wishing to transfer credit should be advised that a minimum of six units of course work must be completed in the EALL department at Wellesley. Transfer students from other institutions are required to take a placement test administered by the EALL department. It is essential that proof of course content and performance in the form of syllabi, written work, examinations, and grades be presented to the EALL department chair.

Honors

The only route to honors in the Chinese language and literature and Japanese language and literature major is writing a thesis and passing an oral examination. To be admitted to the thesis program, a student must have a grade point average of at least 3.5 in all work in the major field above the 100-level; the department may petition on her behalf if her GPA in the major is between 3.0 and 3.5. See Academic Distinctions.
East Asian Studies

AN INTERDEPARTMENTAL MAJOR

Director: Kodera (Religion), Zimmerman (East Asian Languages and Literatures)

Affiliated Faculty: Bong (Political Science), D. Chen (EALL-Chinese), J. Chen (EALL-Chinese), Cheng (Women’s Studies), Chu (Anthropology), Giersch (History), Huss (EALL-Chinese), Joseph (Political Science), Kodera (Religion), Lau (EALL-Chinese), Liu (Art History), Maeno (EALL-Japanese), Matsushita (History), Meng (Studio Art), Moon (Political Science), Morley (EALL-Japanese), Oceawa (EALL-Japanese), Torii-Williams (EALL-Chinese), Yun (Music), Zhao (EALL-Chinese), Zimmerman (EALL-Japanese).

East Asian studies is an interdisciplinary major offered jointly by the East Asian languages and literatures department (EALL) and faculty from other departments at the College whose research and teaching interests include East Asia. The major is designed for students with a broad interest in East Asia. Students interested primarily in the language and literature of a single East Asian culture should consider the East Asian language and literature major. While the department encourages students to familiarize themselves with several East Asian cultures, all students must have an area of concentration. This area of concentration may be geographic or disciplinary.

Prospective majors should consult with a member of East Asian studies faculty as early as possible to discuss their academic plans. Majors devise their own programs of study in consultation with an advisor from the student’s area of concentration. Both the major advisor and the EALL chair must approve proposals for the major. Transfer credits must be approved by the department.

Ten units are required for the major, consisting of the following:

Language courses: four units. Students must complete at least four language courses above the 100-level in the language most appropriate to their area of concentration. No credit towards the major is given for the first year of language study. Those who begin their language study at Wellesley in a 300-level language class must still complete four language courses. Students with native or near-native fluency in an East Asian language must also complete at least ten units for the major.

Language study beyond that required for the major is strongly recommended. All majors are also encouraged to spend at least a summer or a semester studying abroad in China, Taiwan, Japan, or Korea. The EALL chair must approve plans for language study taken away from Wellesley and to be applied towards the major.

Non-language courses: six units. Of the six non-language units required for the major, a minimum of three must constitute the concentration (see below) and two must be at the 300 level. A minimum of three of the non-language courses must be taken at Wellesley, including both of the 300-level courses. Only one of the two required 300-level courses may be fulfilled by a 350, 360, or 370.

In order to gain a comparative perspective, majors must take at least one non-language course that deals primarily with an East Asian culture or society other than the one where the language she is using to fulfill the major is spoken.

All majors must also take at least one non-language course on East Asia in each of the following two categories: (1) humanities, including art history, literature, cinema, music, philosophy, religion; and (2) social sciences, including anthropology, history, economics, political science, sociology, women’s studies.

One course in Asian American studies may be counted towards the major, provided that the course addresses a significant aspect of East Asian traditions, culture, or society in its global, cross-cultural contexts. MIT has strong offerings in East Asian studies, and Wellesley students should consider taking at least one course there.

Concentrations. At least three of the non-language courses to be counted towards the major must constitute either a geographic or a disciplinary concentration in East Asian studies. Majors will normally declare their concentration no later than the spring semester of the junior year when preparing to undertake advanced work in East Asian studies.

Geographic concentrations may focus on China, Japan, or Korea. Disciplinary concentrations include: arts and visual studies; culture and society; gender studies; historical studies; international relations; literary studies; political economy; and religion. Under unusual circumstances, and with the approval of the advisor and a program director, a student may design her own disciplinary concentration.

Honors. The only route to honors in the major is writing a thesis and passing an oral examination. To be admitted to the thesis program, a student must have a grade point average of at least 3.5 in all work in the major field above the 100-level; the department may petition on her behalf if her GPA in the major is between 3.0 and 3.5. See Academic Distinctions.

EAS 300 Contemporary East Asian Cinemas
Huss (EALL-Chinese), Zimmerman (EALL-Japanese)
NOT OFFERED IN 2005-06. East Asian societies underwent massive transformation during the second half of the twentieth century. The film industries in these nations changed dramatically in response. This course analyzes contemporary film from China, Japan, Korea, Taiwan, and Hong Kong. Themes explored include postcolonial cinema, gender and sexuality, and identity. Thematic and geographical boundaries will also inform the study of East Asian cinema.

ECON 101 Principles of Microeconomics
Staff
This first course in economics introduces students to the market system. Microeconomics considers the decisions of households and firms about what to consume and what to produce, and the efficiency and equity of market outcomes. Supply and demand analysis is developed and applied. Policy issues include price floors, ceilings, competition and monopoly, income distribution, and the role of government in a market economy.
Prerequisite: Fulfillment of the basic skills component of the Quantitative Reasoning requirement.
Distribution: Social and Behavioral Analysis
Semester: Fall, Spring, Summer
Unit: 1.0

ECON 102 Principles of Macroeconomics
Staff
This course follows 101 and analyzes the aggregate dimensions of a market-based economy. Topics include the measurement of national income, economic growth, unemployment, inflation, business cycles, the balance of payments, and exchange rates. The impact of government monetary and fiscal policies is considered.
Prerequisite: 101. Fulfillment of the basic skills component of the Quantitative Reasoning requirement.
Distribution: Social and Behavioral Analysis
Semester: Fall, Spring, Summer
Unit: 1.0

ECON 103/SOC 190 Introduction to Probability and Statistical Methods
Levine, Swingle (Sociology)
An introduction to the collection, analysis, interpretation, and presentation of quantitative data as used to understand problems in economics and sociology. Using examples drawn from these fields, this course focuses on basic concepts in probability and statistics, such as measures of central tendency and dispersion, hypothesis testing, and parameter estimation. Data analysis exercises are drawn from both academic and everyday applications. Students must register for a laboratory section which meets an additional 70 minutes each week. Students may register for either ECON 103 or SOC 190 and credit will be granted accordingly.
Prerequisite: 101 or 102 or one course in Sociology and fulfillment of the basic skills component of the Quantitative Reasoning Requirement. Not open to students who have taken [QR 199]. Not open to students who have taken or are taking MATH 220 or PSYC 205 or POL 199.
Distribution: Social and Behavioral Analysis. Also fulfills the Quantitative Reasoning overlay course requirement. Does not satisfy the laboratory requirement.
Semester: Fall, Summer
Unit: 1.0

ECON 201 Intermediate Microeconomic Analysis
Velenchik, Skeath, Johnson
Intermediate microeconomic theory: analysis of the individual household, firm, industry, and market, and the social implications of resource allocation choices. Emphasis on application of theoretical methodology.
Prerequisite: 101, 102 and MATH 115
Distribution: Social and Behavioral Analysis
Semester: Fall, Spring
Unit: 1.0

ECON 202 Intermediate Macroeconomic Analysis
Weerapana, Nabar
Prerequisite: 101, 102 and MATH 115
Distribution: Social and Behavioral Analysis
Semester: Fall, Spring
Unit: 1.0

ECON 203 Econometrics
Coile, Levine, Sneeringer
Application of statistical methods to economic problems. Emphasis will be placed on regression analysis that can be used to examine the relationship between two or more variables. Issues involved in estimation, including goodness-of-fit, statistical inference, dummy variables, heteroskedasticity, serial correlation, and others will be considered. Emphasis will be placed on real-world applications.
Prerequisite: 101, 102, MATH 115, and 103 (or [QR 199]) or MATH 220 or PSYC 205. Not open to students who have taken [QR 199].
Distribution: Social and Behavioral Analysis
Semester: Fall, Spring
Unit: 1.0

ECON 204 U.S. Economic History
Dupont
This course traces the structure and development of the U.S. economy from colonial times to World War II; highlights historical episodes including the start of the nation, slavery, the westward movement, the Civil War, and the Great Depression. Specific topics include agriculture, trade, technology, finance, and labor. Emphasis on relating U.S. historical experience to current economic problems.
Prerequisite: 101 and 103 (or [QR 199])
Distribution: Historical Studies or Social and Behavioral Analysis
Semester: Fall
Unit: 1.0

ECON 210 Financial Markets
Mosher
Overview of financial markets and institutions, including stock and bond markets, money markets, derivatives, financial intermediaries, monetary policy, and international currency markets.
Prerequisite: 101, 102, and 103 (or [QR 199])
Distribution: Social and Behavioral Analysis
Semester: Fall
Unit: 1.0

ECON 213 International Finance and Macroeconomic Policy
Mosher, Velenchik
This course introduces the study of macroeconomics in an open economy. Topics include basic features of foreign exchange markets, the structure of the balance of payments accounts, and the effectiveness of macroeconomic policy under fixed and flexible exchange rates and varying degrees of capital mobility. The course also examines the evolution of the international financial system, the role of the IMF, the creation of the European Monetary Unit and the recent financial crises in East Asia, Russia, and Brazil.
Prerequisite: 101 and 102
Distribution: Social and Behavioral Analysis
Semester: Fall
Unit: 1.0

ECON 214 Trade and Immigration
Lindauer
An introduction to international trade in theory and practice. Emphasis on the application of microeconomic principles in international economics. Topics to be covered include the debate over free versus fair trade; trade and the welfare of workers in developed and developing nations; the use of tariffs, quotas, and other instruments of protection; trade deficits; and the costs and benefits of international migration.
Prerequisite: 101 and 102. Not open to students who have taken [QR 199].
Distribution: Social and Behavioral Analysis
Semester: Fall
Unit: 1.0

ECON 215 Federal Tax Policy
NOT OFFERED IN 2005-06. An introduction to and economic analysis of the Federal tax system, including the individual income tax, the corporation income tax, Social Security taxes, and the gift and estate tax. Economic analysis will focus on equity and efficiency. Policy issues to be covered include the effect of taxes on savings, investment, and labor supply. Also covered will be alternatives to the current structure including "flat taxes" and value-added taxes.
Prerequisite: 101
Distribution: Social and Behavioral Analysis
Semester: N/O
Unit: 1.0

ECON 220 Development Economics
Staff
Survey and analysis of problems and circumstances of less developed nations. Examination of theories of economic growth for poor nations. Review of policy options and prospects for low and middle income economies. Specific topics include: population growth, poverty and income distribution, foreign aid, and human resource strategies.
Prerequisite: 101 and 102. 103 (or [QR 199]) recommended.
Distribution: Social and Behavioral Analysis
Semester: Spring
Unit: 1.0

ECON 222 Games of Strategy
Skeath
Should you sell your house at an auction where the highest bidder gets the house, but only pays the second-highest bid? Should the U.S. government institute a policy of never negotiating with terrorists? The effects of decisions in such situations often depend on how others react to them. This course introduces some basic concepts and insights from the theory of games that can be used to understand any situation in which strategic decisions are made. The course will emphasize applications rather than formal theory. Extensive use is made of in-class experiments, examples, and cases drawn from business, economics, politics, movies, and current events.
Prerequisite: 101. Permission of instructor required.
Distribution: Social and Behavioral Analysis
Semester: Spring
Unit: 1.0

78 Economics
ECON 225 Urban Economics
Case Analysis of the location decisions of households and firms. Topics include real estate development and finance, housing markets and housing finance, real estate cycles, regional economics, problems of the inner city, discrimination in housing and credit markets, homeownership, and alternative public policy responses to urban problems. The course requires several projects involving fieldwork.
Prerequisite: 101
Distribution: Social and Behavioral Analysis
Semester: Fall
Unit: 1.0

ECON 226 Economics of Education Policy
NOT OFFERED IN 2005-06. Applies microeconomic analysis to important questions in education policy. Should private school vouchers be implemented? Are there teacher shortages and how can they be solved? What are the long-term benefits of early childhood education? The course uses conceptual insights from microeconomics to understand these and other questions; particular emphasis is placed on economic interpretation of case studies and contemporary policy debates.
Prerequisite: 101 and 103 (or [QR199])
Distribution: Social and Behavioral Analysis
Semester: N/O
Unit: 1.0

ECON 228 Environmental and Resource Economics
Sneerger
This course considers the economic aspects of resource and environmental issues. After examining the concepts of externalities, public goods, and common property resources, we will discuss how to measure the cost and benefits of environmental policy, in order to estimate the socially optimal level of the environmental good. Applications of these tools will be made to air and water pollution, renewable and nonrenewable resources, and global climate. In addressing each of these problems we will compare various public policy responses such as regulation, marketable permits and tax incentives.
Prerequisite: 101
Distribution: Social and Behavioral Analysis
Semester: Spring
Unit: 1.0

ECON 232 Health Economics
Sneerger
An economic analysis of the health care system and its players: government, insurers, health care providers, patients. Issues to be studied include demand for medical care, health insurance markets, cost controlling insurance plans (HMOs, PPOs, IPAs), government health care programs (Medicare and Medicaid), variations in medical practice, medical malpractice, competition versus regulation, and national health care reform.
Prerequisite: 101
Distribution: Social and Behavioral Analysis
Semester: Fall
Unit: 1.0

ECON 238 Economics and Politics
NOT OFFERED IN 2005-06. This course provides an introduction to the study of the interaction between economics and the political process from both international and domestic perspectives. Topics include voting theories, public good provision, taxes and subsidies, and the effects of market power and rent-seeking behavior on the political system. Emphasis throughout will be on the application of economic theories to current events.
Prerequisite: 101 and 102
Distribution: Social and Behavioral Analysis
Semester: N/O
Unit: 1.0

ECON 241 Economic Development of Latin America
NOT OFFERED IN 2005-06. Survey and analysis of economic development in the Latin American region. Topics to be covered include theories of development, the role of the state, patterns of growth and industrialization, the debt crisis and structural reforms of recent decades, poverty and income inequality, and human resource development. Emphasis on case studies and comparative analysis of countries.
Prerequisite: 101 and 102
Distribution: Social and Behavioral Analysis
Semester: N/O
Unit: 1.0

ECON 243 The Political Economy of Gender, Race, and Class
Matthiacci
An introduction to radical economic analysis of contemporary, globalizing capitalism. Analysis of race, class, and gender, and of their interconnections. Radical economic critiques of current neo-liberal economic policies. Study and critique of contemporary radical economic movements, including the environmental movement; the movements for socially responsible consumption, investment, business, and work; and the antiglobalization or globalism from below movement.
Prerequisite: 101 or 102 or permission of instructor
Distribution: Social and Behavioral Analysis
Semester: Spring
Unit: 1.0

ECON 250 Research or Individual Study
Prerequisite: Open by permission to students who have taken 101 and 102.
Distribution: None
Semester: Fall, Spring
Unit: 1.0

ECON 250H Research or Individual Study
Prerequisite: Open by permission to students who have taken 101 and 102.
Distribution: None
Semester: Fall, Spring
Unit: 0.5

ECON 266 Long Run Economic Change in Africa
NOT OFFERED IN 2005-06. This course traces the development of African economies from before colonization to the present day. The course considers why economic development in Africa has been so slow compared to other regions of the world, how European intervention on the continent affected economic dynamics in the twentieth century, and how HIV/AIDS is affecting labor markets and economic performance in the twenty-first century. Throughout the course we will try to understand the economic and social factors behind Africa's perennial economic malaise and why there are seemingly constant impediments to successful economic growth on the continent.
Prerequisite: 101 and 103 (or [QR199])
Distribution: Social and Behavioral Analysis
Semester: N/O
Unit: 1.0

ECON 300 Mathematics for Economics
Weerapana
In this course, students will apply mathematical techniques in economic analysis. Students are expected to have a good knowledge of calculus and will be introduced to topics in linear algebra, differential equations, and static and dynamic optimization. Emphasis will be placed on economic applications including maximization decisions of consumers and producers, comparative statics, phase diagram analysis of dynamic systems, and basic features of dynamic optimization.
Prerequisite: 201 and 202, MATH 205, MATH 206 recommended. Not open to students who have taken ECON 303. Mathematics for Economics.
Distribution: Social and Behavioral Analysis
Semester: Fall
Unit: 1.0

ECON 303 Advanced Econometrics
NOT OFFERED IN 2005-06. This course builds upon ECON 203 Econometrics by allowing students to examine more advanced topics, including techniques of model specification, estimation, and evaluation. For cross-sectional and time series models are considered.
Prerequisite: 201, 202, and 203 or [201]. Open to students who have taken ECON 303 Mathematics for Economics.
Distribution: Social and Behavioral Analysis
Semester: N/O
Unit: 1.0

ECON 304 Seminar, New Institutional Economic History
Dupont
This course will investigate the evolution of economic institutions throughout the world over the past 1,000 years. We will consider a broad range of institutional questions and use evidence from historical episodes in their analysis. How are effective trading rules created (evidence from the eleventh-century Maghribi traders)? How does a government become "creditable" (evidence from seventeenth-century England)? Why have Blacks consistently earned less than Whites (evidence from nineteenth- and twentieth-century America)? What are the effects of governmental tampering with housing prices (evidence from early twentieth-century Hong Kong)?
Prerequisite: 201 and 202 or [201]
Distribution: Historical Studies or Social and Behavioral Analysis
Semester: Spring
Unit: 1.0

ECON 305 Industrial Organization
NOT OFFERED IN 2005-06. A course in applied microeconomics, focusing on the performance of real world markets. Emphasis on the welfare costs of market power as well as public policy responses. Topics include analysis of imperfectly competitive markets (e.g., monopolistic competition, oligopoly, imperfect and asymmetric information), firm and industry strategic conduct, and antitrust policy attempts to improve industrial performance.
Prerequisite: 201
Distribution: Social and Behavioral Analysis
Semester: N/O
Unit: 1.0

ECON 310 Public Economics
Coile
This course explores the reasons for government intervention in the economy and the responses of households and firms to the government's actions. Economic models and empirical research are used to analyze tax policies and spending programs. Topics include the effect of taxes on savings and labor supply, externalities and public goods, and social insurance programs such as social security and unemployment insurance.

Prerequisite: 201 and 203 (or [200])
Distribution: Social and Behavioral Analysis
Semester: Fall
Unit: 1.0

ECON 313 Seminar. International Macroeconomics
Joyce
Theory and policy of macroeconomic adjustment in the open economy. Topics to be covered include models of exchange rate determination, the choice between fixed and floating exchange rates, monetary union, policy effectiveness in open economies under different exchange rate regimes, and adjustment to balance of payments disequilibria.

Prerequisite: 201 and 203 (or [200])
Distribution: Social and Behavioral Analysis
Semester: Spring
Unit: 1.0

ECON 314 International Trade Theory
Mazumdar
Theoretical analysis of international trade. Emphasis on models of comparative advantage, determination of gains from trade and the effects of trade restrictions such as tariffs and quotas. Further topics include the role of scale economies, the political economy of protectionism, and strategic trade policy.

Prerequisite: 201
Distribution: Social and Behavioral Analysis
Semester: Fall
Unit: 1.0

ECON 318 Economic Analysis of Social Policy
Levine
This course uses economic analysis to evaluate important social policy issues in the U.S., focusing on the role of government in shaping social policy and its impact on individuals. Does welfare make people work less or have more children? Why is the teenage birthrate so high and how might it be lowered? How do fertility patterns respond to changes in abortion policy? Theoretical models and economic evidence will be used to investigate these and other issues.

Prerequisite: 201 and 203 (or [200])
Distribution: Social and Behavioral Analysis
Semester: Spring
Unit: 1.0

ECON 320 Seminar. Economic Development
Velenchik
Theoretical and empirical exploration of microeconomic issues of concern to developing countries. Specific topics may include land tenure regimes and the structure of agricultural markets, the behavior of rural households in the production of output and the management of risk, the functioning of rural and urban labor markets, human capital formation and the education system, intra-household resource allocation, and the measurement and policy responses to inequality and poverty.

Prerequisite: 201, 202, and 203 (or [200])
Distribution: Social and Behavioral Analysis
Semester: Spring
Unit: 1.0

ECON 323 Finance Theory and Applications
Watson
This course provides a rigorous treatment of financing and capital budgeting decisions within firms. Topics include: financial statement analysis; strategies and analytical methods for the evaluation of investment projects; capital structure and dividend policy decisions; risk, return, and the valuation of financial instruments; and management incentive structures. Risk management and the use of derivatives will also be considered.

Prerequisite: 201 and 203 (or [200])
Distribution: Social and Behavioral Analysis
Semester: Spring
Unit: 1.0

ECON 325 Law and Economics
NOT OFFERED IN 2005-06.
Economic analysis of legal rules and institutions. Application of economic theory and empirical methods to the central institutions of the legal system including the common law doctrines of negligence, contract, and property as well as civil, criminal, administrative procedure and family law. The course will contrast economic and noneconomic theories of law and will address the strengths and limitations of the economic approach to law.

Prerequisite: 201 and 203 (or [200])
Distribution: Social and Behavioral Analysis
Semester: N/O
Unit: 1.0

ECON 326 Seminar. Methods of Education Policy Analysis
NOT OFFERED IN 2005-06. This course applies modern econometric methods and evaluation design to the analysis of contemporary issues in education policy. Methods include randomized experiments, regression-discontinuity analysis, and the use of panel data. Issues include school accountability, private school vouchers, and policies toward teacher labor markets. Students will conduct extensive empirical analysis of education data.

Prerequisite: 201 and 203 [200]
Distribution: Social and Behavioral Analysis
Semester: N/O
Unit: 1.0

ECON 331 Seminar. Monetary Theory and Policy
NOT OFFERED IN 2005-06. The formulation of monetary policy and its theoretical foundations. This includes discussion of the latest developments in monetary theory, the money supply process, monetary autonomy in an open economy, and current procedures in the U.S. and other nations.

Prerequisite: 202 and 203 (or [200])
Distribution: Social and Behavioral Analysis
Semester: N/O
Unit: 1.0

ECON 333 Economic Growth and Fiscal Policy
Nabar
The first part of the course analyzes cross-country income differences, addressing questions like: why are some countries so rich and others so poor?; and why has per capita income in Argentina declined significantly relative to the level in France? We explain countries' different growth performance, studying the role of physical and human capital accumulation, economic institutions, and economic policies. In the second part, we concentrate on the effects of fiscal policy on economic growth and on the macroeconomy in general. Topics include: the economic theory and political economy of public debt and budget deficits, the current debate on the US budget, and the macroeconomic effects of large fiscal stabilizations.

Prerequisite: 202 and 203 (or [200])
Distribution: Social and Behavioral Analysis
Semester: Fall
Unit: 1.0

ECON 335 Seminar. Economic Journalism
Lindauer
Students will combine their knowledge of economics, including macro, micro and econometrics, with their skills at exposition, in order to address current economic issues in a journalistic format. Students will conduct independent research to produce weekly articles. Assignments may include coverage of economic addresses, book reviews, recent journal articles, and interviews with academic economists. Class sessions will be organized as workshops devoted to critiquing the economic content of student work. Enrollment limited to 10.

Prerequisite: 201, 202, and 203 (or [200])
Distribution: Social and Behavioral Analysis
Semester: Spring
Unit: 1.0

ECON 343 Seminar. Feminist Economics
Matthaei
An exploration of the diverse field of feminist economics, which critically analyzes both economic theory and economic life through the lens of gender and advocates various forms of feminist economic transformation. Areas of focus include economic analysis of gender differences and inequality in the family and in the labor market; feminist critiques of current economic institutions and policies, and suggested alternatives; and feminist critiques of economic theory and methodology.

Prerequisite: 201, 202, or permission of instructor
Distribution: Social and Behavioral Analysis
Semester: Fall
Unit: 1.0

ECON 350 Research of Individual Study
Prerequisite: Open by permission to juniors and seniors who have taken 201 and 202; 203 strongly recommended; one 300-level elective recommended. 350 students will be expected to participate in the economic research seminar (see 360).
Distribution: None
Semester: Fall, Spring
Unit: 1.0

ECON 360 Senior Thesis Research
Students writing a senior honors thesis will be expected to participate regularly throughout 360 and 370 in the economic research seminar. This weekly seminar provides a forum for students conducting independent research to present their work to fellow students and faculty.
Prerequisite: One 300-level course strongly recommended. By permission of department. See Academic Distinctions.
Distribution: None
Semester: Fall, Spring
Unit: 1.0

ECON 370 Senior Thesis
Prerequisite: 360
Distribution: None

MATH 115 Calculus I

MATH 203 Mathematical Tools for Economics and Finance (Summer School only)

Directions for Election

Economics is the study of the universal problems of scarcity, choice, and human behavior. It contains elements of formal theory, history, philosophy, and mathematics. Unlike business administration, which deals with specific procedures by which business enterprises are managed, economics examines a broad range of institutions and focuses on their interactions within a structured analytical framework. The complete survey of economics consists of both 101 and 102. Any student who plans to take economics after 101 and 102 should consult a department advisor.

The Major in Economics

The economics major consists of a minimum of nine units. The major must include core coursework in microeconomics (ECON 101 and 201), macroeconomics (102 and 202), and statistics (103 and 203), as well as at least two 300-level units (ordinarily not counting 330, 360 or 370). A minimum of two 300-level courses must be taken at Wellesley unless a student has completed 300-level work in economics at MIT; in such a case, only one 300-level course needs to be taken at Wellesley.

Students who have completed MATH 220 or PSYC 205 need not complete ECON 103 but must take an additional economics elective to complete the major.

Choosing courses to complete the major requires careful thought. All majors should choose an advisor and consult him/her regularly. Students are also advised to consult the department handbook, which deals with a variety of topics including preparation in mathematics, desirable courses for those interested in graduate study in economics, and complementary courses outside economics. Calculus, along with several other mathematical tools, is central to the discipline. MATH 115 or its equivalent is required for all ECON 201, 202 and 203 sections. We encourage students to consult a departmental advisor about whether additional mathematics courses might be desirable.

Students interested in economics and its applications in international relations might want to consider the interdepartmental major in International Relations-Economics listed under International Relations in this Bulletin.

Honors in the Major

The department offers majors two programs for pursuing departmental honors. Under program I, students complete two semesters of independent research (360 and 370) culminating in an honors thesis. Under program II, a student completes one semester of independent research (350) related to previous 300-level coursework, and then submits to an examination in economics that includes the topic covered in her research project. Ordinarily, a student is expected to complete all of the core coursework and one 300-level course before enrolling in the honors program. Admission to the honors program requires students to have a GPA of 3.5 or higher in their economics courses above the 100 level. All honors candidates are expected to participate in the economics research seminar.

The Minor in Economics

The economics minor is recommended for students wishing to develop competence in economics in preparation for work or graduate study in area studies, business, international relations, law, public administration, public health, or other such professions. The minor consists of 101, 102, and 103, plus two additional 200-level units, ordinarily excluding 201, 202 and 203. A student wishing to add the economics minor to the major in another field should consult a faculty advisor in economics. Students who have completed MATH 220 or PSYC 205 need not complete ECON 103 but must take an additional economics elective to complete the minor.

Students are urged to supplement their major or minor program in economics with related courses from other disciplines in the liberal arts, such as history, mathematics, philosophy, political science, and sociology.

Credit for Other Courses

In order to obtain credit for any economics course taken at another institution during the summer or academic year, approval must be obtained in advance from the department’s transfer credit advisor. In general, courses from two-year colleges will not be accepted at any level. Courses taken elsewhere normally will not be transferred at the 300 level. ECON 201, 202, and 203 ordinarily should be taken at Wellesley. Transfer students wishing to obtain transfer credit for economics courses taken prior to enrollment at Wellesley should contact the department’s transfer credit advisor.

Advanced Placement and Exemption Examinations

Students who enter with Advanced Placement credit in microeconomics or macroeconomics may choose to repeat the courses covered by the AP credit (in which case the credit is forfeited) or proceed to the remaining half of the introductory sequence (for those with one unit of AP credit) or to a 200-level elective (for those with two units of AP credit). Students who have AP or IB credit in statistics should consult the department chair regarding enrollment in 103. We recommend seeking advice from the department on how to proceed, particularly for students contemplating a 200-level course in their first semester. AP credits do not count toward the minimum major or minor in economics.

Department of Education

Visiting Assistant Professor: Gehlbach
Instructor: Speiser

Mellon Postdoctoral Fellow: Harris

Associate in Education: Denis Cleary (History Teacher, Concord Carlisle High School); Ellen Couffin (Principal, Sprague School, Wellesley); Jennifer Friedman (Coordinator for Curriculum and Instruction and Kindergarten Teacher, Lee Academy Pilot School, Boston); Lynne Buechhalter (Math Teacher, Wellesley Middle School); Reen Gibb (Science Teacher, Brookline High School); David Gotthelf (Newton Public Schools); Jen MacPherson, (Elementary Math Curriculum Coordinator, Wellesley Public Schools); Bethany Nichols, (Staff Development Coordinator and Mentor Leadership Team Coordinator, Needham Public Schools); Maurice Page (Math Coordinator, Cambridge Public Schools); Diane Tutin (Teacher, Hunnewel School, Wellesley).

EDUC 102 WRIT 125 Education in Philosophical Perspective

Hawes

This course is guided by questions such as: What is education? How do an individual’s own efforts to make sense of the world and to guide her life, relate to schools and academic work? To the diversity of experiences and cultures? What should the aims of education be? The focus will be on perspectives and processes of learning and teaching. We will use the works of earlier writers (for example, Confucius, Plato, and Dewey) and contemporary writers as starting points in our investigations. This course satisfies the Writing requirement and counts as a unit toward the education minor. Includes a third session each week.

Prerequisite: None. Open only to first-year students.
Distribution: Epistemology and Cognition
Semester: Spring

Unit: 1.0

EDUC 212 Seminar, History of American Education

Beatty

An intensive study of the role that education has played in American society and of the evolution of support and expectations for public schools. We will examine how schools have served the needs of girls, immigrants, and students from different racial, ethnic, social class, and religious backgrounds. We will focus on the education of teachers, the organization of urban school systems, the growth of high schools and preschools, and attempts to reform schools and the curriculum.

Prerequisite: None
Distribution: Historical Studies
Semester: Fall

Unit: 1.0

EDUC 215 Understanding and Improving Schools

Hawes

Study of what goes into the making of good schools in a variety of settings, including urban public schools. Examination of what we mean by “a good school” in terms of both aims and practices of how a school and its curriculum are experienced by its students, and of how a school’s culture and social relationships are created. We will use case studies of different kinds of people working to improve schools, including teachers, principals, education advocates, and researchers. Fieldwork will be an integral part of the course.

EDUC 216 Education and Social Policy
Beatty
An examination of education policy and of how it is formulated, implemented, and evaluated. We will study the development and interaction of policies at the federal, state, and local level, and trace the trend from law-driven to account-ability-based school reforms. We will discuss major topics of debate in American education, including equal educational opportunity, school desegregation, school choice, school finance reform, bilingual education, special education, preschool education, and education standards and testing. Relevant field placement may be arranged as part of this course, especially for students wishing to fulfill requirements for teacher certification.

Prerequisite: Open to sophomores, juniors, and seniors
Distribution: Social and Behavioral Analysis
Semester: Spring
Unit: 1.0

EDUC 217 Issues in Multicultural Education
Daré (Spanish)
An intensive study of theories and practices in multicultural education. We will examine the influences of ethnicity, gender, religion, language, learning styles, and socioeconomic status on teaching, learning, and school curricula. We will focus on tensions surrounding different critical perspectives on multicultural education and on the integration of multiculturalism into curriculums and instruction. Readings include works by Lisa Delplt, Paolo Freire, John Ogbu, and others.

Prerequisite: None
Distribution: Social and Behavioral Analysis
Semester: Spring
Unit: 1.0

EDUC 218 Race and Education
Harris
The United States has yet to fulfill its promise of equality in education for students of color. This course provides a historical and contemporary examination of how race affects the educational opportunities, experiences, and outcomes of African American, Latino, Native American, and Asian American students in elementary, secondary, and postsecondary institutions. We will explore the challenges these groups confront in the pursuit of quality education and the conditions necessary to foster their success. We will focus on the structural, cultural, and psychological factors that affect the responses of students of color in schools.

Prerequisite: Open to sophomores, juniors and seniors
Distribution: Social and Behavioral Analysis
Semester: Spring
Unit: 1.0

EDUC 219 Social Dimensions of Teaching and Learning in the Classroom Gettlbacher
Teachers face a myriad of decisions regarding the social dimensions of the classroom every time they teach. In aggregate, these decisions exert a powerful impact on the classroom climate. This course exposes students to a body of social and educational psychology research that educators rarely encounter. However, the findings from this research can make classrooms substantially more effective learning environments. Topics include social perspective taking (figuring out what others are thinking and feeling), social motivation, influence/persuasion, group dynamics, and liking/attribution. Appropriate for both pre-service teachers and for students interested in educational research.

EDUC 300 Teaching and Curriculum in Classroom Settings
Haves, Speiser
An intensive study of the knowledge and skills required in classroom teaching, including curriculum development, planning, instruction, testing, and assessment. We will focus especially on classrooms as learning environments and on the teacher understanding of student academic development. Additional laboratory periods for teaching presentations and an accompanying field placement are required.

Prerequisite: One of 202, 212, 215, 216, 217, 218, 219, PSYC 248, or MET 11124 or other approved course. By permission of department. Students must apply for admission. EDUC 304 is a co-requisite only for students in EDUC 300 who are seeking elementary certification.

Distribution: Epistemology and Cognition
Semester: Fall
Unit: 1.25

EDUC 301 Theory and Practice of Early Childhood Care and Education
Speiser
An examination of rationales for different approaches to early childhood care and education and exploration of current teaching methods. Emphasis will be on understanding and providing for the diverse needs of young children in group settings. We will study critical issues in learning, with particular attention to play, cognitive development, and other curriculum topics. Regular observations and fieldwork will be required.

Prerequisite: PSYC 207 or PSYC 248 or permission of instructor.
Distribution: Social and Behavioral Analysis
Semester: Spring
Unit: 1.0

EDUC 302 Seminar, Methods and Materials of Teaching
Speiser, Haves
Study and observation of teaching techniques, the role of the teacher, classroom interaction, and individual and group learning. Examination of curriculum materials and classroom practice in specific teaching fields.

Prerequisite: 300 and by permission of department. Open only to students doing student teaching.
Distribution: Social and Behavioral Analysis
Semester: Spring
Unit: 1.0

EDUC 303 Practicum. Curriculum and Supervised Teaching
Speiser, Haves
Observation, supervised teaching, and curriculum development in students' teaching fields throughout the semester. Attendance at appropriate school placement required full-time five days a week. Mandatory credit/noncredit.

Prerequisite: Students must apply to the department for admission to this course in the semester before it is taken. Corequisite: 302.

EDUC 305 Curriculum, Instruction, Assessment, and Special Needs in Elementary Education
Speiser, Cunniff, Friedman, MacPherson, Tutin
A seminar taught by a team of experienced teachers. A continuation of EDUC 304, this course focuses on curriculum materials and instructional methods in mathematics and science used in elementary school classrooms, and on various means for assessing elementary school students' performance and achievement. Strategies for behavior management for dealing with students with disabilities and special needs, and for working with parents and the community will also be addressed, along with other classroom issues.

Prerequisite: 300, 304.
Distribution: Epistemology and Cognition
Semester: Spring
Unit: 1.0

EDUC 307 Classroom Ethnography and Discourse Analysis
Daré (Spanish)
NOT OFFERED IN 2005-06. Classroom culture is made up of interactions among teachers and students. These interactions can be analyzed through data collection and coding of different types of incidents and behaviors. In this course, students will learn ethnographic methods, including the use of video and audio recording, transcription, domain analysis, and other research techniques to construct and present a portrait of the teaching and learning opportunities in individual classrooms. We will take a close look at how ethnicity, gender, and socioeconomic status are reflected in patterns of classroom talk and how these variables influence student learning.

Prerequisite: One unit in EDUC or PSYC 248 or by permission of the instructor.
Distribution: Social and Behavioral Analysis
Semester: N/O
Unit: 1.0
EDUC 308 Seminar, World Languages Methodology
Renlljian-Burgy (Spanish)
A course in the pedagogical methods of foreign languages intended to apply to any foreign language and to teaching English as a second language; emphasizes the interdependence of the four language skills—listening, speaking, reading, writing; introduces students to a theoretical study of linguistic and psychological issues necessary to establish new ways of presenting language material. This seminar will focus on selected texts and readings on the methodology of world-language teaching.
Prerequisite: Open to sophomores, juniors, and seniors.
Distribution: Social and Behavioral Analysis
Semester: Fall
Unit: 1.0

EDUC 310 Seminar, Child Literacy and the Teaching of Reading
Titin, Speiser
How do children learn to read? How do we acquire reading, writing, and oral language skills, and how does this relate to cognition? We will examine current research and practice in literacy development for elementary-aged children. Oral language, reading processes, assessment using a variety of techniques, phonemic awareness, phonic, and comprehension strategies will all be addressed through lectures, readings, study of literacy materials, and a weekly field placement experience. We will focus on reading instruction across content areas and the transition from learning to read to reading to learn. Emphasis will be placed on understanding the application of this information for developing teaching strategies that address the needs of a diverse population of learners, including students at-risk, second-language learners, and students with special needs. This course is structured to support students pursuing elementary student teaching licensure.
Prerequisite: Open to sophomores, juniors, and seniors with permission of instructor.
Distribution: Epistemology and Cognition
Semester: Fall
Unit: 1.0

EDUC 312 Seminar, History of Child Rearing, Child Welfare, and Child Culture
Beatty
Examination of changes in concepts of child rearing and childhood in America, in the family, and of the emerging role of the state in assuming responsibilities for child rearing, education, and child welfare. We will study the history of how institutions and social policies have attempted to shape different kinds of families, as well as the lives of children of differing genders, economic, racial, cultural, and ethnic backgrounds.
Prerequisite: Open to sophomores, juniors, and seniors.
Distribution: Historical Studies
Semester: Fall
Unit: 1.0

EDUC 319 Seminar, Reforming Public Schools
Harris
An examination of federal, state, and local policies to reform American public schools. We will evaluate past and current large-scale strategies to transform the organizational, curricular, and instructional capacity of schools. We will focus on whether such changes have improved student access, engagement, and outcomes. The influence of race, class, and gender will be considered. Topics to be covered include models of comprehensive school reform, detracking, standards-based education, high-stakes testing, and the small schools movement.
Prerequisite: Open to sophomores, juniors, and seniors.
Distribution: Social and Behavioral Analysis
Semester: Fall
Unit: 1.0

EDUC 320 Observation and Fieldwork
Haves, Speiser
Observation and fieldwork in educational settings. This course may serve to complete the requirement of documented introductory field experiences of satisfactory quality and duration necessary for teacher certification. Arrangements may be made for observation and tutoring in various types of educational programs; at least one urban field experience is required. Mandatorv credit/noncredit.
Prerequisite: 300. Open only to students who plan to student teach. Permission of instructor required. Not open to students who have taken [220].
Distribution: Social and Behavioral Analysis
Semester: Fall, Spring

EDUC 339/POLI 339S Seminar, The Politics of Urban Public Schools
Rich (Political Science)
This seminar examines recurrent issues in public school management and governance. Critical questions include the changing demographics of inner city schools, the evolving role of school boards, big city mayors, urban superintendents, teachers unions, and school finance. We will also discuss alternatives to public schools (parochial, private, and charter schools), high-stakes testing, and district-state relations. The seminar will also analyze the increasing intervention of state and federal governments in local school administration and the role of the courts in curriculum controversies, student life, and security. Students may register for either EDUC 339 or POLI 339S and credit will be granted accordingly.

Directions for Election
The education department offers two minors (but no major), one in teacher education and one in education studies. Both minors offer opportunities to explore teaching and education, from the perspective of a classroom teacher or as a field of study.

Teacher Education
We prepare teachers to teach in a variety of schools with diverse students. Grounded in the liberal arts, each Wellesley or MIT student in our program receives careful individual attention in the process of discovering how her/his own special gifts can be used in the challenging work of teaching. Our students take introductory courses in educational philosophy, history, or policy, and then do course work in curriculum, instruction, and assessment, and specific methods for teaching reading and elementary school subjects or middle and high school subjects, along with doing fieldwork and student teaching.

The teacher education minor consists of:
(A) 102 or 212 or 215 or 216 or 218, or 219 or 301 or PSYC 248, or MIT 11.124 or other approved course; (B) PSYC 207 or 208, and (C) 300, 302, and 303. For students seeking elementary certification, 304, 305, and 310 or Brandeis Education 107A (spring only), are also required. Students who wish to be certified as high school (grades 8-12), middle school (grades 5-8), or elementary (grades 1-6) teachers should obtain the department's description of the requirements. Generally, the program requires students to take specific subject-matter courses within their teaching fields along with four to seven education and psychology courses, two of which are the student teaching practicum (303) and accompanying seminar (302). If students are not able to register for required introductory courses, they should consult with the department about alternatives.

In addition, teacher certification requires fieldwork prior to student teaching. Students enrolled in EDUC 303 (Practicum) may register for EDUC 320, but are not required to do so.

Students are encouraged to apply at least a week before spring pre-registration, but may apply any time up to the beginning of classes in the fall. Applications are available in the education department. Students should plan their program of studies to fulfill the requirements and are encouraged to consult with a member of the department as early as possible, but are welcome to do so at any point. Students may register for a minor beginning in the spring of the sophomore year, but a minor is not required for teacher certification. With the exception of 300, 302, 303, 304, 305, and 320 the department's courses are designed for all students, not simply those planning a career in public or private school teaching.

Education Studies
We also offer courses that extend students' general knowledge of education as a field of study. Students may focus on the origins of education and child-rearing practices, on urban education and the role of schools in society, on race and education, on multiculural education, on school reform, and on the various ways that ideas and policies in education have been applied to social problems.

Distribution: Arts, Music, Theatre, Film, Video or Language and Literature
Semester: Fall

ENG 113 Studies in Fiction
Topic A: Modern and Postmodern Love in the Novel
Lackey
Modernists and postmodernists are famous for casting an ironic glance on God and Truth. But are they as cynical and skeptical about love? In this course, we will work through the writings of prominent twentieth-century novelists who struggled to define love. In addition to reading a variety of novels, we will view a number of the film versions (interpretations) of the works to see if the contemporary adaptations raise new and different questions about love. Readings will include: James Joyce's "The Dead," Virginia Woolf's Mrs. Dalloway, Kazuo Ishiguro's Remains of the Day, Alice Walker's The Color Purple, Michael Cunningham's The Hours, Milan Kundera's The Unbearable Lightness of Being, and A.S. Byatt's Morpho Eugenia.
Prerequisite: None. Especially recommended to non-majors.
Distribution: Language and Literature
Semester: Fall

Topic B: Fantastic Fictions
Sides
When fiction blurs or crosses the line between our "real" world and "other worlds," the reader (as well as the narrator or main character) has entered the realm of "the fantastic," a genre (which broadly interpreted) contains "the uncanny," "the supernatural or ghost story," and "science fiction." We will read "fantastic" novels and short fiction by nineteenth-century and twentieth-century masters such as Edgar Allan Poe, Honoré de Balzac, Charles Dickens, Nikolai Gogol, Henry James, Franz Kafka, Mikhail Bulgakov, Bruno Schulz, Jorge Luis Borges, Leonora Carrington, Cynthia Ozick, Izumi Kyoka, and Jun'cho Tanizaki. We will also discuss the appearance of "the fantastic" in contemporary feature and Japanese animated films. Taught primarily in lecture, this course will not be writing-intensive.
Prerequisite: None. Especially recommended to non-majors.

ENG 114 Masterworks of American Literature
Ford
American literature contains an astonishing myriad of voices and forms. This course introduces students to highlights and countercurrents of the American tradition. Featuring guest lectures from faculty members in the English Department, the course will span the colonial period to the present. We will read fiction, essays, drama, poetry, and autobiography, devoting time to the "greats" whom students may have already encountered, and to lesser known and more recent authors. The reading list likely will include: Rowlandson, Native American stories and myths, Emerson, Melville, Douglass, Whitman, Dickinson, Twain, Fitzgerald, Hughes, Hurston, Wharton, Faulkner, Williams, Ginsberg and the Beats, Plath, contemporary Asian-American and Hispanic poets, and Morrison—and creative writers on Wellesley's own faculty. Films, music, and visual arts will also figure prominently in the course.
Prerequisite: None. Especially recommended to non-majors.

ENG 120 Critical Interpretation
Wall-Raudell, Chasson, Bidart
A course designed to increase power and skill in critical interpretation by the detailed reading of poems and the writing of interpretive essays.
Prerequisite: None. Primarily designed for, and required of, English majors. Ordinarily taken in first or sophomore year.
Distribution: Language and Literature
Semester: Fall, Spring

ENG 120/WRIT 125 Critical Interpretation
Fisher, Hickey, Brogan, Sabin
A course designed to increase power and skill in critical interpretation by the detailed reading of poems and the writing of interpretive essays. This course satisfies the WRIT 125 requirement and the critical interpretation requirement of the English major. Includes a third session each week.
Prerequisite: None. Open only to first-year students.
Distribution: Language and Literature
Semester: Fall, Spring

ENG 121/WRIT 125 The Novels of Jane Austen
NOT OFFERED IN 2005-06. Students will read a selection of the great novels of Jane Austen and use her work to learn skills for the close reading of fiction in general. We will study the details of Austen's fictional technique. From what perspective are the novels told? How does the author reveal her attitudes toward her characters? At the same time we will consider the broader questions raised by the novels. What values motivate Austen's fiction? How does she comment on the larger social and historical scene? What are her views on such issues as slavery or the proper role of women? This course satisfies the Writing 125 requirement and counts as a unit towards a major in English. Includes a third session each week.
Prerequisite: None. Open only to first-year students.

ENG 127/WRIT 125 Modern European and American Drama

NOT OFFERED IN 2005-06. Study of some distinguished late nineteenth- and twentieth-century European and American plays, and of the history and ideas connected with these plays. Among the likely dramatists: Ibsen, Shaw, Brecht, Artaud, Jonesco, Weiss (Europeans); Lorraine Hansberry, Maria Irene Fornes, The Bread and Puppet Theater, the Living Theater, Holly Hughes, Adrienne Kennedy, Tony Kushner, and Anna Devere Smith (Americans). Among the likely kinds of theater: realistic theater, epic theater, the theater of cruelty, and the theater of the absurd. Discussion of at least one Wellesley College theater production, and perhaps of some off-campus theater. This course satisfies the Writing 125 requirement and counts as a unit towards a major in English. Includes a third session each week.

Prerequisite: None. Open only to first-year students.

Unit: 1.0

ENG 213 Chaucer

Kelly

When we look back on the Middle Ages, we are faced with two equally alluring but mutually exclusive temptations: to see medieval people as being very much like us, or to see them as radically different. We will keep these temptations (and pleasures) in mind as we read the works of Geoffrey Chaucer, focusing on texts representing romantic and carnal love across genres: the dream vision, the fabliau, the lai, and, of course, the romance itself. Our task will be to work out an understanding of Chaucer's works within their late medieval setting and against our contemporary experiences. Critical issues include the relationship of author to text, the self-conscious and self-reflective narrator; problems of influence and genre; and medieval constructions of race, class, and gender.

ENG 222 Renaissance Literature

NOT OFFERED IN 2005-06. A survey of sixteenth-century literature with an emphasis on poetry. In addition to lyric poems spanning the century, epic poetry by Spenser (Book 3 of The Faerie Queene) and Marlowe, and a play, the course will include early prose fiction about continental travel and London's criminal underworld.

Prerequisite: None

Semester: N/O

Unit: 1.0

ENG 223 Shakespeare Part I: The Elizabethan Period

Wall-Randall, Benson

The formative period of Shakespeare's genius: comedies such as A Midsummer Night's Dream, As You Like It, Merchant of Venice, and Twelfth Night; histories such as Richard II, Richard III, Henry IV (Parts 1 and 2); tragedies such as Romeo and Juliet, Titus Andronicus, and Hamlet. Discussion of thematic concerns (ranging from gender relations and identities to national self-consciousness) will proceed from detailed analysis of not only the poetic language but also the dramatic form of the plays and the performance practices of Shakespeare's time. The viewing and analysis of contemporary performances will be integrated into the work of the course.

Prerequisite: 120

Distribution: Arts, Music, Theatre, Film, Video or Language and Literature

Semester: Fall

Unit: 1.0

ENG 224 Shakespeare Part II: The Jacobean Period

Peltason, Benson

The great tragedies and the redemptive romances from the end of Shakespeare's career, chosen from among Troilus and Cressida, Measure for Measure, Othello, King Lear, Macbeth, Coriolanus, Antony and Cleopatra, Cymbeline, The Winter's Tale, and The Tempest. While considering thematic concerns ranging from gender relations to the meaning of heroism, particular focus will fall on tragic form and its transformation in the romances. Extensive attention will be paid to theatrical practices, Shakespearean and contemporary, aided by the viewing of stage performances and film adaptations.

Prerequisite: 120

Distribution: Arts, Music, Theatre, Film, Video or Language and Literature

Semester: Fall

Unit: 1.0

ENG 225 Seventeenth-Century Literature

Benson

Authors of the seventeenth century, one of the most inventive periods of English literature, are known for their ability to link the religious and the erotic, the speculative and the political, the stately and the passionate in exhilarating, complex, and innovative works of poetry and prose. Authors will include John Donne, Ben Jonson, Amelia Lanyer, George Herbert, Francis Bacon, Robert Herrick, Andrew Marvell, Katherine Philips, and Margaret Cavendish. Close reading of their texts will produce understanding of them and of the early modern period in which they were written and will raise questions that continue to haunt us today about our relation to the divine, to our bodies, to our past (personal and cultural), to the natural world, to the state, and to each other.

Prerequisite: None

Distribution: Language and Literature

Semester: Fall

Unit: 1.0

ENG 227 Milton

Wall-Randall

At the heart of this course will be a study of Milton's great epic poem, Paradise Lost, and some of its encyclopedic concerns: the place of humankind in the universe, the idea of obedience, the subjectivity of women, even the issue of literary adaptation itself. But Milton was a keen student of the whole spectrum of Renaissance forms, mastering and redefining them in virtuoso turns: as we'll see, his work includes religious psalms, lyric poetry, elegy, courtly entertainment, tragedy, and polemic. We'll also consider Milton's "afterlives," as an inspiration to the American Puritans and revolutionaries, as an influence on the Romantic poets, and as a continuing presence for modern writers such as the fantasy novelist Philip Pullman.

Unit: 1.0

ENG 234 Restoration and Eighteenth-Century British Literature

Sides

The poetry, prose, and drama of this period are exhilarating in their ability to unite the elegant with the grotesque, the pious with the lewd, the hope for an enlightened society with the fear of madness. We will read prose and prose fiction by John Bunyan (Pilgrim's Progress), Samuel Johnson (selections from The Lives of the Poets), and Laurence Sterne (A Sentimental Journey through France and Italy). We will read plays by George Etheredge (Man of Mode) and Richard Brinsley Sheridan (The Rivals). Finally, we will read the sublime and satirical poetry of two of the greatest English poets: John Dryden and Alexander Pope.

Unit: 1.0

ENG 241 Romantic Poetry

Hickey

Emphasis on the great poems of six fascinating and influential poets: Blake, Wordsworth, Coleridge, Shelley, Byron, and Keats. As time allows, we'll read women poets of the period: Anna Barbauld, Mary Robinson, Dorothy Wordsworth, and Felicia Hemans. We'll consider such Romantic ideas and themes as imagination, feeling, originality, the process of cognition and creativity, the correspondence between self and nature, the dark passages of the psyche, encounters with otherness, altered states of being, morality and immortality, poetry and revolution, Romanticism as revolt, the exiled hero, love, sexuality, gender, the meaning of art, and the importance of history. Open to students at all levels of familiarity with poetry.

Prerequisite: None
Distribution: Language and Literature
Semester: Fall
Unit: 1.0

ENG 245 Victorian Poetry: Emgence and Decadence

Hickey

Victorian poems stand among the most memorable and best-loved in all of English verse: they’re evocative, emotionally powerful, idiosyncratic, psychologically loaded, intellectually engaged, daring, inspiring, and bizarre. We’ll study Tennyson, the Brownings, Emily Bronte, the Rossettis, Arnold, Hopkins, and Hardy, with attention to their technique and place in literary history. Themes will include the power and limits of language, tradition and originality, love and sexuality, gender roles, the literary expression of personal crisis, religious faith and doubt, evolution, industrialism, and the role of art. Supplementary prose readings and forays into art history will illuminate literary, aesthetic, and social contexts, particularly those surrounding the Woman Question, female authorship, and representations of female figures. Pre-Raphaelite slides, Special Collections visit, viewing of Wilde’s Importance of Being Earnest.

Prerequisite: None
Distribution: Language and Literature
Semester: Spring
Unit: 1.0

ENG 251 Modern Poetry

Brogan

A study of the modernist revolution and its aftermath, emphasizing its stunning achievements and deep divisions. Examination of the different versions of modernism that emerged in the beginning of the twentieth century, exploration of lines of influence that link poets, and consideration of the trajectories of individual careers. Close attention to how the work of the period’s leading poets – William Butler Yeats, T.S. Eliot, Wallace Stevens, William Carlos Williams, Marianne Moore, Langston Hughes, among others – reflects and responds to a period of extraordinary political and social turbulence.

Prerequisite: None
Distribution: Language and Literature
Semester: Fall
Unit: 1.0

ENG 253 Contemporary American Poetry

Chaisson

Beginning with four seminal volumes published in the mid-twentieth century (Robert Lowell’s Life Studies, Allen Ginsberg’s Howl, Frank O’Hara’s Lunch Poems, and Elizabeth Bishop’s North and South) we will explore the aesthetic opportunities these volumes make available to other, later poets (and to these poets at later stages of their careers) as well as those they seem to foreclose. Additional reading in books by John Ashbery, Sylvia Plath, Rita Dove, Robert Pinsky, James Schuyler, Louise Glück and Frank Bidart.

Prerequisite: None
Distribution: Language and Literature
Semester: Spring
Unit: 1.0

ENG 262 American Literature to 1865

Father

A study of American fiction, poetry, and autobiography from the early nineteenth century through the Civil War, focusing on the diverse and original voices that emerged during the period in New England and elsewhere. The course will explore the first major flowering of American literary art, focusing on such themes as constructions of the self, gendered domesticity, literary visions of nature, and the abolition of slavery. Authors will include Frederick Douglass, Ralph Waldo Emerson, Henry David Thoreau, Nathaniel Hawthorne, Harriet Jacobs, Harriet Beecher Stowe, Emily Dickinson, Walt Whitman, and Herman Melville.

Prerequisite: None
Distribution: Language and Literature
Semester: Fall, Spring

ENG 266 American Literature from the Civil War to the 1930s

Meyer, Cain

A selection of literature from the period between the Civil War and the Great Depression, tracing the trajectory of American fiction from realism to high modernism. Emphasis on the ways that these texts invite and respond to questions about economics, social justice, political life, and the role of literature in society. Attending closely to nuances of authorial style, classroom discussion will also consider each work in light of the ongoing debate between realism and formalism in art. Authors read will be drawn from the following: Twain, James, Roth, Chesnutt, Chopin, Dreiser, Wharton, Gilman, Stein, Toomer, Yezerikska, Fitzgerald, Hemingway, Faulkner, and Hurston.

Prerequisite: None
Distribution: Language and Literature
Semester: Fall, Spring
Unit: 1.0

ENG 267 American Literature from the 1940s to the Present

Ford, Brogan

American literature from World War II to the present. Consideration of fiction, poetry, memoirs, essays, and films that reflect and inspire the cultural upheavals of the period. Possible writers to be studied include: Mailer, Morrison, Pynchon, Lowell, Bishop, Ginsberg, Burroughs, Nabokov, Ellison, Carver, Kingston, Roth, O’Connor, DeLillo, Salinger, Morrison, Schwartz, De Rosa, Smiley, Keller, McDermott, Lahiri, and Spark.

Prerequisite: None
Distribution: Language and Literature
Semester: Fall, Spring
Unit: 1.0

ENG 269 Asian American Literature

Lee

We’ll be reading novels and short stories by Asian American writers, including Maxine Hong Kingston, Joy Kogawa, Ha Jin, Susan Choi, Wang Ping, Fae Ng and Itsumi Lahiri. Looking at works from the 1930s to the present moment, we will focus on themes of travel, mobility, arrivals and departures. What defines homelessness? What constitutes a home? When and where does a feeling of ordinariness or the everyday arise? And how do the experiences of male and female immigrants compare with each other? These are only some of the questions that we’ll consider as we explore this rich and exciting body of literature.

Prerequisite: None
Distribution: Language and Literature
Semester: Fall
Unit: 1.0

ENG 270 Experiencing London Then and Now

Lec

This Winter session course examines how people self-consciously experienced the city of London in the eighteenth century, and how we experience it today. Walking, watching, getting lost in crowds and experimenting with identity were crucial then, as we see in writers ranging from James Boswell to Frances Burney, and remain important today, despite obvious changes in London’s scale and organization. We will read works by Addison, Boswell, Gay, Burney, and others, and then spend around 12 days in London, visiting some of the same sites (theaters, parks, churches) and following some of the same itineraries. What continuities and discontinuities are there between eighteenth-century and post-modern urban experiences? Not offered every year. Subject to Dean’s Office approval.

Prerequisite: None
Application required.
Distribution: Language and Literature
Semester: Wintersession
Unit: 0.5

ENG 271 The Rise of the Novel

Lee

A study of how the genre of the novel begins in forgeries, poses as real documents and letters, and eventually reveals itself as a kind of literature uniquely suited to modern society. There will be a particular emphasis on the novel’s enduring fascination with women and criminals, the choices they make and the rewards and punishments they receive. Authors include Behn, Defoe, Richardson, Fielding, Edgeworth, and Austen.

Prerequisite: None
Distribution: Language and Literature
Semester: Spring
Unit: 1.0

ENG 272 The Victorian Novel

Meyer

An exploration of the changing relationships of persons to social worlds in some of the great novels of the Victorian period. The impact on the novel of industrialization, the debate about women’s roles, the enfranchisement of the middle and the working classes, the effect on ordinary persons of life in the great cities, the commodification of culture—and other themes—will be traced in the works of some of the following: Charlotte Bronte, Emily Bronte, Charles Dickens, George Eliot, Elizabeth Gaskell, George Gissing, Thomas Hardy.

Prerequisite: None
Distribution: Language and Literature
Semester: Spring
Unit: 1.0

ENG 273 The Modern British Novel

Lackey

A consideration of the ways in which modernist writers reimagine the interests of the novel as they experiment with and reshape its traditional subjects and forms. From the frank exploration of sexuality in Lawrence, to the subordination of plot in Woolf, modernist writers recast our notion of the writer, of story, of the very content of what can be said. A selection of works by E.M. Forster, D.H. Lawrence, James Joyce, Virginia Woolf, Jean Rhys, and Joseph Conrad.

Prerequisite: None
Distribution: Language and Literature
Semester: Spring
Unit: 1.0

ENG 277 English-Language Fiction in Global Perspective

NOT OFFERED IN 2005-06. Focus on novels, memoirs, and nonfiction writing—mostly contemporary, with some earlier examples of what now begins to make up a tradition of modern Indian literature in English. Controversial questions to be addressed include: What is “authentically” Indian? What is the writer’s responsibility to solve social and political problems? What roles do women play in this literature? Introduction to important religious and political contexts will be provided, but primary attention will go to the literature itself, with some attention to films. Authors will likely include Gandhi, R.K. Narayan, Raja Rao, Anita Desai, Salman Rushdie, Bapsi Sidhwa, Rohinton Mistry, Jhumpa Lahiri, plus films directed by Satyajit Ray and Deepa Mehta.

Prerequisite: None
Distribution: Language and Literature
Semester: N/O
Unit: 1.0

ENG 281 American Drama and Musical Theater

NOT OFFERED IN 2005-06. Study of some distinguished twentieth-century American plays, theater pieces, and musicals. Possible musicals: The Cradle Will Rock, Showboat, West Side Story, Chorus Line, Into the Woods, Chicago. Possible playwrights and ensembles: Eugene O’Neill, Arthur Miller, Tennessee Williams, Lorraine Hansberry, the Bread and Puppet Theater, the Teatro Campesino, Maria Irene Fornés, August Wilson, David Henry Hwang, Tony Kushner, Anna Devere Smith. Focus on close reading, on historical and social context, on realism and the alternatives to realism, on the relations between text and performance. Opportunities both for performance and for critical writing. Students who have taken ENG 127 are eligible to take this course also.

Prerequisite: None
Distribution: Arts, Music, Theater, Film, Video or Language and Literature
Semester: N/O
Unit: 1.0

ENG 283 Southern Literature

Tyler

A study of the literature of the American South, with special focus on the region’s unique cultural traditions, the development of a distinctive body of stylistic and thematic characteristics, and the complex intersections of region, gender, ethnicity, and sexuality in Southern literary expression.

Topic A: Three Women: Hurston, Welty, O’Connor

Prerequisite: None
Distribution: Language and Literature
Semester: Fall
Unit: 1.0

Topic B: New Orleans in and against America

Prerequisite: None
Distribution: Language and Literature
Semester: Spring
Unit: 1.0

ENG 285 Irish Literature

Sahin

Topic for 2005-06: Modern and Contemporary Irish Writing. A study of two great periods of Irish literary creativity in this past century; first, a brief but intense immersion in the great early “modern” Irish masters: Yeats, Synge, and Joyce. Then a leap to some of the post-1970 works of poetry, drama, fiction, and film that show the legacy of and the breakings away from these powerful predecessors. Recent and contemporary writers to be assigned will likely include: Seamus Heaney, Paul Muldoon, Eavan Boland, Roddy Doyle, Brian Friel, Martin McDonagh, and selected women authors of short stories from the anthology, Territories of the Voice.

Prerequisite: None
Distribution: Language and Literature
Semester: Fall
Unit: 1.0

ENG 286 New Literatures I

Fisher

Topic for 2005-06: Lesbian and Gay Writing from Sappho to Stonewall. This course will explore significant lesbian and gay literature from classical times to the present, including contemporary transformations of society, politics, and consciousness. The course will introduce elements of “queer theory” and gender theory; it will address issues of sexual orientation and sexual identification in works of poetry, autobiography, and fiction. Readings will include such writers as Sappho, Plato, William Shakespeare, Thomas Mann, Virginia Woolf, James Baldwin, Audre Lorde, Adrienne Rich, David Leavitt, Leslie Feinberg, Shyam Selvadurai, and Jeanette Winterson.

Prerequisite: None
Distribution: Language and Literature
Semester: Spring
Unit: 1.0

ENG 301 Advanced Writing/Fiction

Erian

A workshop in the techniques of fiction writing together with practice in critical evaluation of student work. Students who have taken this course once may register for it one additional time.

Prerequisite: 203 or permission of instructor.
Distribution: Language and Literature
Semester: Spring
Unit: 1.0

ENG 302 Advanced Writing/Poetry

Bidart

A workshop in intensive practice in the writing of poetry.

Prerequisite: 202 or permission of instructor.
Distribution: Language and Literature
Semester: Spring
Unit: 1.0

ENG 315 Advanced Studies in Medieval Literature

NOT OFFERED IN 2005-06.

Prerequisite: Open to juniors and seniors who have taken two literature courses in the department, at least one of which must be 200 level, or by permission of instructor to other qualified students.
Distribution: Language and Literature
Semester: N/O
Unit: 1.0

ENG 320 Literary Cross Currents

Tyler

Topic for 2005-06: Poe and Coleridge. This course will study in detail Coleridge’s “mythical” poems (”Rime of the Ancient Mariner,” “Kubla Khan,” and “Christabel”) and Poe’s great stories, culminating with Poe’s “Rime”–work, “The Narrative of Arthur Gordon Pym.” Comparative study will elucidate both the way that Coleridge’s poems serve as sources for the Gothic magic and uncanniness of Poe’s stories, and the way that Coleridge’s literary theory provides a source for Poe’s counter-Gothic American formalism. We’ll explore the critical reception of both writers, particularly those notable essays by nineteenth-century formalists like Eliot, Tate, and Warren, who claimed both Coleridge and Poe as precursors.

Prerequisite: Open to juniors and seniors who have taken two literature courses in the department, at least one of which must be 200 level, or by permission of instructor to other qualified students.
Distribution: Language and Literature
Semester: Spring
Unit: 1.0

ENG 324 Advanced Studies in Shakespeare

Cain

Topic for 2005-06: Hamlet. The topic for this course will be Shakespeare’s Hamlet. We will approach the play extrinsically and intrinsically: extrinsically, as a confluence of the historical, ideological, and aesthetic forces known as the “Renaissance”; intrinsically, as a towering artistic achievement, still alive, still open to inquiry. We’ll also study a number of film adaptations, examine theories of tragedy from Aristotle to Heidegger, and explore treatments of the play by contemporary critics and literary theorists (e.g., René Girard, Jacqueline Rose, Stephen Greenblatt).

<td>Topic for 2005-06: Gotham: New York City in Literature and Art. This course examines that icon of modernity, New York City, as it appears in American literature from the 1850's to the present. In our readings of novels, short stories, poetry, and essays, we'll think about how depictions of urban life express the city's social geography and help to shape the cultural meaning of the metropolis. We will consider how richly varied interpretations of New York contribute to a national discussion about American identity, modernity, immigration, and the commercial.</td>

This course examines the American novel from the Civil War period onwards by pairing works by black and white writers, each pair concerning the same theme or historical moment. We will use these oppositions to examine the ways in which the American literary imagination has always depended on an (often invisible) Other to crystallize its ideas about national identity. ENG 385 Advanced Studies in a Genre

Fiction
Topic A for 2005-06: Dickens and Trollope
Studies in the Victorian Comic Novel. A close study of six novels – three each by two of the most popular and most representative Victorian writers. We'll follow the progress of two great novelists as they take the essentially comic form of their earlier novels and turn it to darker, deeper, and richer purposes in the course of their careers. From Trollope's Chronicles of Barsetshire: Barchester Towers (1855), Framley Parsonage (1861), and The Last Chronicle of Barset (1867); from early and late in Dickens's career, Martin Chuzzlewit (1843-44), Bleak House (1853-54), and Great Expectations (1860-61).

ENG 387 Authors

Tyler
Topic for 2005-06: William Faulkner. Faulkner will be the sublime central figure, an unaccountable creator of such power and plenty that two rival Southern temperers claim him as a legitimating authority for their kind of work. Faulkner does have this double life (at least) within Southern literature: (1) as a patriarch of a masculinist, moralist tradition which has itself produced major work in fiction (Robert Penn Warren, Walker Percy), in poetry (T.S. Eliot, John Crowe Ransom, Allen Tate, Warren), and most enduringly, in the New Criticism and the Eliotic procedures of “close-reading” still practiced, variously, in our classrooms; but also (2) as a liberating influence upon wayward and fabulously unbalanced writers like Tennessee Williams, Truman Capote, Carson McCullers, all of whom could be considered Faulkner's gay and otherwise abstaining, non-“homosexualist” (to borrow Gore Vidal's word) literary descendants.

Courses at the 100 level are open to all students and presume no previous college experience in literary study. They provide good introductions to such study because of their subject matter or their focus on the skills of critical reading. ENG 120 (Critical Interpretation) is open to all students, but is primarily designed for prospective English majors. The course trains students in the skills of critical reading and writing. 200-level literature courses, with the exception of Shakespeare (223 and 224), are open to all students without prerequisite. They treat major writers and historical periods, and provide training in making comparisons and connections among different works, writers, and ideas. 300-level literature courses encourage both students and instructors to pursue their special interests. They presume a greater overall competence, together with some previous experience in the study of major writers, periods, and ideas in English or American literature. They are open to all those who have taken two literature courses in the department, at least one of which must be 200 level, and by permission of the instructor or chair to other qualified students. For admission to seminars and for independent work (350), students with at least a 3.33 GPA in the work of the department will have first consideration. Students are encouraged to confer with the instructors of courses in which they are interested. Students should consult the more complete descriptions of all courses, composed by their instructors, posted on bulletin boards in Founders Hall, and available from the department administrative assistant.

Advanced Placement. The English department does not grant credit toward the major for AP or IB courses taken in high school. Because no course in the English department is considered the equivalent of a high school AP course, students may take any course in the department without losing any degree credits that they may have received for their performance on AP or IB examinations. First-year students and other undeclared majors contemplating further study in English are encouraged to consult the department chair or the department pre-major advisor in relation to their course selection. Students majoring in English should discuss their programs with their major advisors, and should consult with them about any changes they wish to make in the course of their junior and senior years.

The English major consists of a minimum of ten units, at least eight of which must be in areas other than creative writing. At least seven units must be above 100 level, and of these at least two units must be earned in 300-level literature, film, or literary theory courses. At least six of the units for the major must be taken in the department, including the two required units in 300-level courses.

WRIT 125 does not count toward the major. Courses designated 125/120 satisfy both the ENG 120 requirement and the WRIT 125 requirement, and count as a unit toward the fulfillment of the major. Other combined sections, such as WRIT 125/ENG 127, count toward the major as well. Independent work (350, 360, and 370) does not count toward the minimum requirement of two 300-level courses for the major.

All students majoring in English must take ENG 120 (Critical Interpretation), at least one course in Shakespeare (200 level), and two courses focused on literature written before 1900, of which at least one must focus on writing before 1800.

Courses taken in other departments at Wellesley College may not be used to satisfy any of the above distribution requirements, with the exception of ME/R 246, which satisfies the pre-1800 distribution requirement. With the Chair's permission, courses taken abroad during junior year or on twelve-college exchange may satisfy certain distribution requirements. English 112, ENG 223, and 224 do not satisfy the pre-1800 distribution requirement. Transfer students or Davis Scholars who have had work equivalent to 120 at another institution may apply to the chair for exemption from the critical interpretation requirement.
The English minor consists of five units: (A) 120 and (B) at least one unit on literature written before 1900 and (C) at least one 300-level unit, excluding 350 and (D) at least four units, including the 300-level course, taken in the department; a maximum of two creative writing units may be included.

Honors. The department offers a choice of two programs for honors. Under program I the honors candidate does two units of independent research culminating in a thesis or a project in creative writing. Program II offers an opportunity to receive honors on the basis of work done for regular courses but carries no additional course credit. A candidate electing program II presents a dossier of essays written for several courses with a statement of connections among them and critical questions raised by them. Applicants for honors should have a minimum 3.5 GPA in the major (in courses above 100 level) and must apply to the chair for admission to the program. A more detailed description of the department's application procedure is available from the department's administrative assistant.

Creative Writing. The English department offers beginning and advanced courses in poetry (English 201 and 302), in fiction (English 203 and 301), and in screenwriting (English 204). A literary non-fiction writing course (Writing 225) that covers different genres (for example, travel writing, personal essay, and memoir) is offered through the Writing Program and counts towards the English major. These courses are open to all Wellesley College students.

The Creative Writing Concentration in the English Major. The creative writing concentration within the English major is designed for majors with a strong commitment to developing their own creative work. Students electing the creative writing concentration take a series of workshops in one or more creative genres (fiction, poetry, screenwriting, and creative non-fiction) and select, in consultation with their advisor, courses in literary study that provide the background in and knowledge of literary tradition necessary to make a contribution to that tradition.

Students interested in the creative writing concentration are urged to begin planning their programs early in their careers at Wellesley. It is expected that they will have taken at least one writing workshop by the time for election of the English major (spring semester sophomore year or fall semester sophomore year for students going abroad), and have been in touch with a member of the creative writing faculty to plan the major. English majors electing the creative writing concentration must choose a member of the creative writing faculty as their advisor. Students who are interested in the creative writing concentration but who do not feel confident that they have had sufficient experience in writing to choose the concentration at the time of the election of the major should elect the English major; they may add the creative writing concentration later.

Students electing the creative writing concentration must fulfill all the requirements of the English major, including English 120, a course on Shakespeare, the period distribution requirements, and two 300-level literature courses. It is expected that creative writing students will take a focused program of critical study in the genre or genres in which they specialize.

In addition to eight courses in the critical study of literature, majors in the creative writing concentration take a minimum of four units of creative writing work. Creative writing courses may be repeated for additional credit. A student who is extremely motivated and capable of independent work and who has the permission of a faculty advisor may take an independent study (English 350); however, it is recommended that students take full advantage of the workshop experience provided by the creative writing courses. A student qualifying for Honors in English and whose proposal has been approved by the Creative Writing Committee may pursue a creative writing thesis; the thesis option, although it includes two course units (English 360 and English 370), can only count as one of the four creative writing courses required by the concentration. Creative writing faculty generally direct creative theses; however, other English department faculty may direct creative theses.

Graduate Study in English. Students expecting to do graduate work in English should ordinarily plan to acquire a reading knowledge of two foreign languages. They should take ENG 382 (Criticisms) or an equivalent course in literary theory. They should also consult with the department's graduate school advisor, and with their departmental advisor, about courses that are appropriate for those considering graduate work in English.

Teacher Certification. Students interested in obtaining certification to teach English in the Commonwealth of Massachusetts should consult with the chair of the education department and the English department liaison to the education department.

Environmental Studies

AN INTERDEPARTMENTAL MAJOR WITH CONCENTRATIONS IN ENVIRONMENTAL JUSTICE AND PHILOSOPHY, ENVIRONMENTAL POLICY AND ECONOMICS, OR ENVIRONMENTAL SCIENCE

Director: Coleman (Chemistry)

Advisory Faculty: Karakasidou, Steady, Winkler (Environmental Justice and Philosophy); DeSombre, Paalberg, (Environmental Policy and Economics); Andrews, Besancon, Brubaker, Coleman, Moore, Rodenhouse, Sequeira, Thomas, Thompson, Stark (Environmental Science).

Lecturer: Goldofas

Environmental issues are complex and involve disciplines across the sciences, social sciences, and humanities. The environmental studies major provides students with the knowledge and skills needed to study, understand, and address these pressing issues, which range from biological diversity and natural resource use; to energy use, industrial waste, and other concerns of industrial societies; to the relationship between the environment and economic development. Because of the interdisciplinary nature of environmental issues, the major draws upon courses from multiple departments; however, each student will focus her studies within one area of concentration in order to obtain the depth of knowledge needed for advanced study and critical analyses.

Students will choose an advisor from among the advisory faculty in her area of concentration. A minor is not offered in any area of concentration.

There are three components to the 11-course major:

1. Two core courses (ES 100 and ES 300)
2. Five courses in an area of concentration (at least one of which must be at the 300 level)
3. Four complementary elective courses from outside the area of concentration

Students may count no more than three courses taken away from Wellesley towards the environmental studies major. These courses should be approved by a co-director prior to enrollment.

1. Core courses (two courses required)

ES 100 Humans and Nature
Goldofas, Rodenhouse, and Thomas (Biological Sciences)

An introduction to social, political, economic, and scientific aspects of various environmental issues including acid deposition, stratospheric ozone depletion, global warming, energy resource management, soil depletion and population dynamics. Emphasis will be placed on the interrelatedness of these issues and on the interdisciplinary nature of the approaches that must be taken to deal with them. Laboratories will explore computer modeling as a tool for understanding environmental questions, monitoring of various environmental markers on the Wellesley campus, and will make use of other resources in the Boston area. Because this course is an interdisciplinary introduction to environmental studies, AP credit in Environmental Science cannot be used to replace ES 100.

Prerequisite: None.

Distribution: None. Does not satisfy the laboratory requirement.

Semester: Fall

Unit: 1.25

90 Environmental Studies
ES 300 Environmental Issues NOT OFFERED IN 2005-06. An interdisciplinary seminar in which students work together in small groups to understand and develop solutions for current environmental problems. Each year, we focus on a given environmental issue of concern to our community, e.g. climate change, water pollution. In particular, we work to understand its scientific background, the political processes that lead to potential solutions, and the ethical and environmental justice implications. Student-led research provides the bulk of the information about the issue and its role in our local environment; lectures and readings provide supplementary information about the local situation and the global context.

Prerequisite: A declared major in environmental studies, ES 100 and at least four other courses in the student’s area of concentration, or permission of the instructor.

Distribution: None Semester: N/O Unit: 1.0

Additional environmental studies courses that may count (as indicated) towards areas of concentration or towards electives:

ES 201/GEOS 201 Methods and Problems in Environmental Science with Laboratory Brabant (Geosciences)
Problems in environmental science are inherently multidisciplinary and often require a diverse skill set to analyze and solve. This course will focus on developing a toolbox of skills including field methods, geochemical analysis (natural waters, soils and other environmental materials), and modeling with a goal of being able to frame and solve environmental problems. Students will conduct semester-long research projects and will present their results in a final poster session.
Laboratory. Students may register for either ES 201 or GEOS 201 and credit will be granted accordingly.
Distribution: Natural and Physical Science Semester: Spring Unit: 1.25

ES 212/RAST 212 Lake Baikal: The Soul of Siberia Hodge (Russian) and Moore (Biological Sciences) NOT OFFERED IN 2005-06. OFFERED IN 2006-07. The ecological and cultural values of Lake Baikal — the oldest, deepest, and most biotically rich lake on the planet — are examined. Lectures and discussion in spring prepare students for the three-week field laboratory taught at Lake Baikal in eastern Siberia in August. Lectures address the fundamentals of aquatic ecology and the role of Lake Baikal in Russian literature, history, art, music, and the country's environmental movement. Laboratory work is conducted primarily out-of-doors and includes introductions to the flora and fauna, field tests of student-generated hypotheses, meetings with the lake's stakeholders, and tours of ecological and cultural sites surrounding the lake. This course can count towards a concentration in environmental science or as an elective for the other concentrations. This course does not count toward the minimum major in biological sciences. Students may register for either ES 212 or RAST 212 and credit will be granted accordingly. Not offered every year. Subject to Dean's Office approval.

Prerequisite: BISC 111, RUSS 101, and permission of the instructors. Preference will be given to students who have also taken HIST 211, formerly [105].
Distribution: Natural and Physical Science Semester: N/O. Offered in 2006-07. Unit: 1.25

ES 222 Dynamic Modeling of Environmental Issues Coleman (Chemistry)
A hands-on introduction to the application of system dynamics to developing computer-based models for complex problems, with an emphasis on the environment. Starting with simple closed systems, student's will develop models of increasing sophistication and complexity for issues such as population dynamics, air and water pollution, energy production and usage, waste management and sustainable development. Emphasis will be placed on the principles of problem solving and systems dynamics and on developing models that reflect, as closely as possible, real-world situations and the interrelatedness of various environmental concerns. This course can count towards a concentration in environmental science or as an elective for the other concentrations.
Prerequisite: ES 100 and successful completion of the Quantitative Reasoning requirement, or permission of the instructor.
Distribution: Natural and Physical Science or Mathematical Modeling Semester: Spring Unit: 0.5

ES 234/ANTH 234 Cultural Ecology Ruf (Anthropology)
This course explores theoretical and methodological issues in the study of human culture and social activity in relation to ecological systems and the environment. Readings include both classic studies as well as contemporary research, with particular emphasis placed on the various dimensions and scales of social organization and activity, and on the role of cultural, religious, and political institutions in shaping ecological relationships as well as economic behavior. Students may register for either ES 234 or ANTH 234 and credit will be granted accordingly.
Prerequisite: None Distribution: Social and Behavioral Analysis Semester: Spring Unit: 1.0

ES 307/BISC 307 Advanced Topics in Ecology with Laboratory Moore (Biological Sciences)

Topic for 2005-06: Ecology of Freshwaters with Laboratory. Rivers, lakes, and wetlands are among our richest ecosystems, yet their physical integrity and biotic diversity are the most imperiled. This course examines the biological, physical, and chemical processes that occur in flowing waters, wetlands, lakes and vernal pools. Lectures and discussions address key concepts for understanding, conserving and restoring freshwater ecosystems. Lab work will include field work in a variety of freshwater habitats, mathematical modeling, and an independent project carried out by each student. Students may register for either ES 307 or BISC 307 and credit will be granted accordingly.
Distribution: Natural and Physical Science Semester: Spring Unit: 1.25

ES 308/Chem 308 Green Chemistry NOT OFFERED IN 2005-06. Green chemistry can be defined as the design of chemicals, chemical syntheses, and chemical processes that are environmentally benign and economically feasible. This course will serve to introduce students to the 12 Principles of Green Chemistry and explore how these principles are put into use through real world examples. The subject matter to be discussed will include aspects of analytical, biological, inorganic, organic, and polymer chemistry from an environmental or green perspective. This course is designed for students interested in chemistry, biochemistry, engineering, environmental studies, materials science and related fields. Students may register for either ES 308 or CHEM 308 and credit will be granted accordingly.
Prerequisite: CHEM 211 Distribution: Natural and Physical Science Semester: N/O Unit: 0.5

ES 315/Geos 315 Environmental Geochemistry with Laboratory Brabant (Geosciences) NOT OFFERED IN 2005-06. OFFERED IN 2006-07. Accurately predicting the fate and transport of naturally occurring toxic elements and anthropogenic compounds in the environment requires a broad set of multidisciplinary skills. This course introduces geochemical approaches including mass balance, residence time, isotope fractionation, and thermodynamic and kinetic modeling necessary to fingerprint sources of pollutants and track them in water, soil, and plants. These fundamentals will be explored in several classic case studies and in semester-long geochemical research projects conducted by small groups. Laboratory. Normally offered in alternate years. Students may register for either GEOS 315 or ES 315 and credit will be granted accordingly.
Prerequisite: One course above the 100-level in two of the following disciplines: geosciences, chemistry, biological sciences or environmental studies, or permission of the instructor.
Distribution: Natural and Physical Science or Mathematical Modeling Semester: N/O. Offered in 2006-07. Unit: 1.25

Individual Study
ES 250 or 350 (Research or Individual Study) can be advised by any member of the advisory faculty in environmental studies. They may count towards the area of concentration. A half-credit may only count as credit towards the major when combined with another half-unit course. Only three units of independent study may be counted towards the major.

ES 250 Research or Individual Study
Prerequisite: Permission of instructor, ordinarily limited to students who have completed at least three units toward their major.
Distribution: None Semester: Fall, Spring Unit: 1.0

ES 250H Research or Individual Study
Prerequisite: Permission of instructor, ordinarily limited to students who have completed at least three units toward their major.
Distribution: None Semester: Fall, Spring Unit: 0.5

ES 350 Research or Individual Study
Prerequisite: Permission of instructor, ordinarily limited to students who have completed at least five units toward their major.
Distribution: None Semester: Fall, Spring Unit: 1.0

91 Environmental Studies
ES 350H Research or Individual Study
Prerequisite: Permission of instructor, ordinarily limited to students who have completed at least five units toward their major.
Distribution: None
Semester: Fall, Spring Unit: 0.5

Honors in Environmental Studies
A student whose GPA in courses in her environmental studies major is 3.5 or higher may apply to write an honors thesis. The application, which is available from the directors, should be submitted in April of the student’s junior year. Students should have identified a topic and an advisor before applying. The applications are evaluated by the advisory faculty. Students planning to study abroad should discuss their interest in honors with potential advisors during their sophomore year, and plan to submit their application in April of their junior year abroad.

ES 360 Senior Thesis Research
Prerequisite: By permission of the advisory faculty. See Honors in Environmental Studies.
Distribution: None
Semester: Fall, Spring Unit: 1.0

ES 370 Senior Thesis
Prerequisite: 360
Distribution: None
Semester: Fall, Spring Unit: 1.0

II. Areas of concentration (five courses required from one of the following areas)
(Not that most 200- and 300-level courses have one or more 100-level prerequisites)

A. Environmental justice and philosophy provides students with the background needed to understand and address the philosophical and ethical issues raised by human activity in the natural world, including the causes and consequences of environmental degradation as they are influenced by social inequality.

A student choosing to concentrate in this area would, with the approval of her advisor, choose five from among the following courses:

- POL2 302 Globalization and the Nation-State
- POL3 325 International Environmental Law
- REL 230 Ethics
- REL 257 Contemplation and Action
- REL 326 Seminar, Contemporary Theology

B. Environmental Policy and Economics – provides students with the background needed to understand how policy is developed, how specific policy decisions affect environmental quality, and how economic factors structure the opportunities and constraints of environmental policy and the use of natural resources.

A student choosing to concentrate in this area would, with the approval of her advisor, choose five from among the following courses:

- ECON 228 Environmental and Resource Economics
- EXTD 123 Water Resources Planning and Management
- EXTD 128 Coastal Zone Management
- POL2 204 Political Economy of Development and Underdevelopment
- POL2 3125 Seminar, Environmental Policy
- POL3 323 International Economic Policy
- POL3 325 International Environmental Law
- POL3 3325 Seminar, People, Agriculture, and the Environment
- POL3 3515 Seminar, Global Governance

Alternative courses in this area of concentration can be chosen from the following list; however, students should do so only after a conversation with their faculty advisor.

- AFR 226 Seminar, Environmental Justice, Race, and Sustainable Development
- ECON 214 Trade and Immigration
- ECON 220 Development Economics
- ECON 222 Games of Strategy
- ECON 320 Seminar, Economic Development
- POL2 202 Comparative Politics
- POL2 302 Globalization and the Nation-State
- POL3 327 International Organization
- POL3 329 International Law
- SOC 221 Globalization
- SOC 235 Business and Social Responsibility

C. Environmental Science – offers an interdisciplinary approach for viewing the Earth and its inhabitants from more than one scientific perspective. Courses that are strongly recommended to strengthen the quantitative skills of all students concentrating in environmental science include introductory calculus (e.g., MATH 116 or 116Z) or statistics (e.g., MATH 101, ECON 103/SOC 190, and POL 199).

A student choosing to concentrate in this area would, with the approval of her advisor, choose five of the following courses, not all from the same department.

- ANTH 238 The Vulnerable Body: Anthropological Understandings
- ANTH 251 Cultures of Cancer
- PHIL 213 Social and Political Philosophy
- PHIL 340 Seminar, Contemporary Ethical Theory

Biological Sciences

- BISC 201 Ecology with Laboratory
- BISC 202 Evolution with Laboratory
- BISC 203 Comparative Physiology and Anatomy of Vertebrates with Laboratory
- BISC 207 The Biology of Plants with Laboratory
- BISC 209 Microbiology with Laboratory
- BISC 210 Marine Biology with Laboratory
- BISC 302 Animal Physiology with Laboratory
- BISC 307/ES 307 Advanced Topics in Ecology with Laboratory
- BISC 308 Tropical Ecology with Winter Session Laboratory
- EXTD 225 Biology of Fishes
- EXTD 226 Biology of Whales
- EXTD 227 Wetlands: Ecology, Hydrology, Restoration

Chemistry

- CHEM 205 Chemical Analysis and Equilibrium with Laboratory
- CHEM 211 Organic Chemistry I with Laboratory
- CHEM 221 Biochemistry I: Structure and Function of Macromolecules with Laboratory
- CHEM 222 Introduction to Biochemistry with Laboratory
- CHEM 231 Physical Chemistry I with Laboratory
- CHEM 232 Physical Chemistry for the Life Sciences with Laboratory
- CHEM 308/ES 308 Green Chemistry

Geosciences

- GEOS 201/ES 201 Methods and Problems in Environmental Science with Laboratory
- GEOS 203 Earth Materials with Laboratory
- GEOS 211 Geology and Human Affairs
- GEOS 220 Volcanoes: Agents of Global and Regional Change with Winter Session Laboratory
- GEOS 230 Earth from Above: Maps, Remote Sensing, and GIS
- GEOS 240 Climate Past and Future
- GEOS 304 Sedimentary Rocks and Sequences with Laboratory
- GEOS 311 Hydrogeology with Laboratory
- GEOS 315/ES 315 Environmental Geochemistry with Laboratory

Physics

- PHYS 202 Introduction to Quantum Mechanics and Thermodynamics with Laboratory
- PHYS 203 Vibrations, Waves, and Special Relativity with Laboratory
- PHYS 215/MATH 215 Mathematics for the Sciences I
- PHYS 216/MATH 216 Mathematics for the Sciences II
- PHYS 302 Quantum Mechanics
- PHYS 305 Statistical Mechanics and Thermodynamics
- PHYS 306 Advanced Classical Mechanics
Students wishing to investigate the environment further via a single scientific discipline should also consider course programs in the Departments of Biological Sciences, Chemistry, Geosciences, and Physics.

III. Electives complementing the area of concentration (four courses required, at least two above the 100 level)

For those concentrating in environmental justice and philosophy or environmental policy and economics, complementary electives should be selected, in consultation with their advisors, to enhance quantitative reasoning skills or breadth of knowledge in the sciences. These should primarily be chosen from courses listed for the environmental science concentration.

For those concentrating in environmental science, complementary electives should be selected in consultation with their advisors, to enhance understanding of how political processes, economic considerations and ethical choices compose and constrain understanding and action on environmental issues. These should primarily be chosen from courses listed for the concentrations in environmental justice and philosophy and environmental policy and economics.

Off-Campus Programs

By special arrangement with the Ecosystems Center of the Marine Biological Laboratory and the Marine Studies Consortium (see EXTD courses in concentration listings), Wellesley College students in good standing may apply for courses in these off-campus programs. The number of participants in each program is limited (see Special Academic Programs). Students should also consider courses at MIT. Both MIT and EXTD courses count as Wellesley courses, rather than as courses taken off campus, for the purposes of the environmental studies major. For courses offered during the Semester in Environmental Studies, Ecosystems Center of the Marine Biological Laboratory, Woods Hole, Mass., see www.mbl.edu/SES.

Related Courses

For Credit Toward the Major

The courses listed below are representative of other courses throughout the curriculum that may be used as electives for the major if approved by the advisor. Students may petition the advisory faculty to include courses not listed below.

AFR 235 Societies and Cultures of Africa
AFR 297 Medical Anthropology: A Comparative Study of Healing Systems
AFR 318 African Women, Social Transformation, and Empowerment
ANTH 104 Introduction to Cultural and Social Anthropology
ARTH 235 Landscape and Garden Architecture
ARTH 340 American Environments, 1600-1900

Extradepartmental

The following section includes courses of interest to students in various disciplines.

EXTD 350 Research or Individual Study
Prerequisite: Open by permission to juniors and seniors.
Distribution: None
Semester: Fall, Spring
Unit: 1.0

Marine Studies Consortium Courses

The Marine Studies Consortium offers courses focusing on a variety of marine topics. These courses are taught at neighboring institutions and are open to a limited number of Wellesley students by permission of the consortium representative, Harold Andrews, Geosciences Department.

EXTD 123 Water Resources Planning and Management
A comprehensive introduction to the economics and ecology of water supply and water pollution control. Topics include watershed management, groundwater and wetlands protection, and wastewater treatment. The inherent difficulty in applying static laws and regulations to a dynamic natural resource such as water is a recurring theme. Offered by the Marine Studies Consortium.
Prerequisite: None. Open to students by permission of the consortium representative, Harold Andrews, Geosciences Department.
Distribution: None
Semester: Fall
Unit: 1.0

EXTD 126 Maritime History
This course is an introduction to New England's maritime history, with secondary emphasis on its relationship to the coastal ecosystem. The course will survey the sea's legacy from the earliest seventeenth-century fishing settlements to the shipbuilding and commerce of today. Course themes will include historical, political, and economic developments. Field trips will explore the rich resources of the Peabody Museum, Salem, Mass.; the USS Constitution, Boston, Mass.; and Mystic Seaport, Conn. Offered by the Marine Studies Consortium.
Prerequisite: None. Open to students by permission of the consortium representative, Harold Andrews, Geosciences Department.
Distribution: None
Semester: Spring
Unit: 1.0

EXTD 128 Coastal Zone Management
This course presents a survey of the coastal environment, its physical characteristics, natural systems, economic uses, and development pressures. Lectures examine strategies formulated in the U.S. for land and water resource management in the coastal zone. The roles of federal, state, and local government, environmental groups, and resource users are also explored.
Finally, by comparing coastal zone management problems in the U.S. to those elsewhere in the world, students gain a global perspective. Offered by the Marine Studies Consortium.
Prerequisite: None. Open to students by permission of the consortium representative, Harold Andrews, Geosciences Department.
Distribution: None
Semester: Spring
Unit: 1.0
Department of French

Professor: Mistacco, Gillain 4, Lydaghe, Respaut 5, Levitt, Masson 5

Associate Professor: Datta 4, Ritchey (Chair), Petterson 4, Prabhu

Assistant Professor: Tranvouez, Gréle 5, Guither

Visiting Assistant Professor: McQuillan, Schipa

Senior Lecturer: Egon-Sparrow

All courses are conducted in French. Oral expression and composition are stressed.

The Wellesley College language requirement is normally met with the completion of either FREN 201-202, FREN 202, or FREN 203 and one of the following courses: 205, 206, 207, or 208. Students who present an AP score of 3 or an SAT II score between 650-680 can satisfy the requirement by taking FREN 205. Students who present an AP score of 4 or an SAT II score between 690-730 can satisfy the requirement by taking one of the following courses: FREN 206, 207, or 208. All incoming students are required to take the placement test. Any discrepancy between a student’s AP score and her score on the departmental placement test will be resolved by the placement committee.

After 211, the numbering of 200-level courses does not denote increasing levels of difficulty; 200-level courses above 211 may be taken in any sequence. Please see Directions for Election at the end of this section for information about the major.

Qualified students are highly encouraged to live at the Maison Française and to spend their junior year or semester in France in the Wellesley-in-Aix program or another approved program. They are also encouraged to participate in the French department’s Wintersession course in Paris and to inquire about summer internship possibilities in France or another Francophone country.

FREN 101-102 Beginning French I and II

Egon-Sparrow, McQuillan

Systematic training in all the language skills, with special emphasis on communication, self-expression, and cultural insights. A multimedia course, based on the video series French in Action. Classes are supplemented by regular assignments in a variety of video, audio, print and Web-based materials to give students practice using authentic French accurately and expressively. Three periods. Each semester earns one unit of credit; however, both semesters must be completed satisfactorily to receive credit for either course.

Prerequisite: Open to students who do not present French for admission or by permission of the instructor.

Distribution: None

Semester: Fall

Unit: 1.0

FREN 201-202 French Language, Literatures, and Cultures

Guither, Gréle, Tranvouez, Schipa

Reading, writing, and speaking skills are developed through analysis and discussion of short stories, plays, poems, films, and newspaper articles from France and the Francophone world. Three periods. Each semester earns one unit of credit; however, both semesters must be completed satisfactorily to receive credit for either course.

Students beginning with 202 must take one of the following courses: 205, 206, 207, or 208, in order to complete the requirement. The 201-202 sequence should be completed within three consecutive semesters.

Prerequisite for 201: 102 or 103, SAT II score of 500 or an equivalent departmental placement score, or permission of instructor.

Prerequisite for 202: 201, SAT II score of 600, an AP score of 1 or 2, or an equivalent departmental placement score, or by permission of instructor.

Distribution: Language and Literature

Semester: Fall, Spring, Wintersession (202 only)

Unit: 1.0

FREN 203 Intensive French II

Lydaghe

The continuation of French 103. Systematic training in all the language skills. Five class periods. The course is equivalent to French 201-202, and is designed to prepare students to qualify for study abroad after two further courses in French: a unit of French 206, 207 or 208 and a unit of French 210 or 211.

Prerequisite: Open only to students who have completed French 103 or 102.

Distribution: Language and Literature

Semester: Spring

Unit: 1.0

FREN 205 Literature and Film in Cultural Contexts

Mistacco

Discussion of modern literature and film in their cultural contexts. Training in techniques of literary and cultural analysis. Materials include novels, short stories, poetry, films, screenplays, and videos from France and the Francophone world. Vocabulary building and review of key points of grammar. Familiar written practice. Attention to oral skills and listening comprehension as needed.

Prerequisite: 202, an SAT II score of 650-680, an equivalent departmental placement score, or an AP score of 3.

Distribution: Language and Literature

Semester: Fall

Unit: 1.0

FREN 206 Intermediate Spoken French

Egon-Sparrow, Tranvouez

Practice in conversation, using a variety of materials including newspaper articles, radio and television broadcasts, advertisements, and films. This course is designed to develop oral proficiency with necessary attention to the other skills – listening comprehension, reading, and writing. Regular use of the language laboratory.

Prerequisite: 202, an SAT II score of 690-730, an equivalent departmental placement score, or an AP score of 4.

Distribution: Language and Literature

Semester: Fall, Spring

Unit: 1.0
FREN 207 Perspectives on French Culture and Society: French Identity in the Age of Globalization

Tranvouez

In this introduction to French society and culture, we will examine France's identity crisis as it enters a new century. From its historical position of political, economic, and intellectual leadership in Europe and the world, France is searching to maintain its defense as a defender of quality over mass appeal and the proud values of its national tradition in the face of increasing globalization. Topics covered include Franco-American relations, the European Union, immigration, the family, and the role of women in French society. Readings are drawn from a variety of sources: historical, sociological, and ethnographic. Magazine and newspaper articles, along with television programs and films will provide supplementary information.

Prerequisite: 202, an SAT II score of 690-730, or an equivalent departmental placement score, or an AP score of 4.

Distribution: Language and Literature or Social and Behavioral Analysis

Semester: Spring

Unit: 1.0

FREN 208 Women and Literary Tradition

Mistaco

An introduction to women's writing from Marie de France to Marguerite Duras, from the Middle Ages to the twentieth century. The course is designed to develop an appreciation of women's place in French literary history. Special attention is given to the continuities among women writers and to the impact of their minority status upon their writing.

Prerequisite: 202, an SAT II score of 690-730, or an equivalent departmental placement score, or an AP score of 4.

Distribution: Language and Literature

Semester: Fall

Unit: 1.0

FREN 210 French Literature and Culture through the Centuries: From Classicism to the Present

Tranvouez, Prebhu

A study of major authors in their cultural contexts from the seventeenth century to the twentieth with emphasis on textual analysis and essay writing in French. Readings will be drawn from the following authors: Corneille, Molière, Montesquieu, Voltaire, Diderot, Beaumarchais, Balzac, Flaubert, Gide, Sartre, Camus, Duras and Bâ.

Prerequisite: At least one unit of 206, 207, 208, or an SAT II score of 740-800, an AP score of 5, or an equivalent departmental placement score. By permission of instructor only.

Distribution: Language and Literature

Semester: Fall, Spring

Unit: 1.0

FREN 211 Studies in Language

Mistaco, Masson, Prebhu

Comprehensive review of French grammar, enrichment of vocabulary, and introduction to French techniques of composition and the organization of ideas.

Prerequisite: At least one unit of 206, 207, 208, or an SAT II score of 740-800, an AP score of 5, or an equivalent departmental placement score. By permission of instructor only.

Distribution: Language and Literature

Semester: Fall, Spring

Unit: 1.0

FREN 213 From Myth to the Absurd: French Drama in the Twentieth Century

Mason

An investigation of the major trends in modern French drama: the reinterpretation of myths, the influence of existentialism, and the theater of the absurd. Special attention is given to the nature of dramatic conflict and to the relationship between text and performance. Study of plays by Anouilh, Cocteau, Giraudoux, Sartre, Camus, Ionesco, Beckett, and Genet.

Prerequisite: At least one unit of 206, 207, or 208, an SAT II score of 740-800, an equivalent departmental placement score, or an AP score of 5.

Distribution: Language and Literature or Arts, Music, Theatre, Film, Video

Semester: Fall

Unit: 1.0

FREN 214 Desire, Power, and Language in the Nineteenth-Century Novel

Ritchey

Ambition, passion, and transgression in major works by Balzac, Stendhal, Flaubert, and Zola. Analysis of narrative techniques that organize the interplay of desire and power against which individual destinies are played out in post-Revolutionary France. Realism and the representation of reality in the context of a society in turmoil.

Prerequisite: At least one unit of 206, 207, or 208, an SAT II score of 740-800, an equivalent departmental placement score, or an AP score of 5.

Distribution: Language and Literature

Semester: Spring

Unit: 1.0

FREN 215 Baudelaire, Verlaine, Rimbaud

Respaut

NOT OFFERED IN 2005-06. Close study of a body of poetry which ranks among the most influential in literature, and initiates modern poetics. Baudelaire: romanticism and the modern; Verlaine: free verse and the liberation of poetic form; Rimbaud: the visionary and the surreal. Analysis of texts and their historical context, through a variety of theoretical approaches.

Prerequisite: At least one unit of 206, 207, or 208, an SAT II score of 740-800, an equivalent departmental placement score, or an AP score of 5.

Distribution: Language and Literature

Semester: N/O

Unit: 1.0

FREN 217 Books of the Self

Lydgate

This course focuses on texts that seek to reveal the reality of the self in the space of a book, including readings of confessional and autobiographical works by the twentieth-century writers Camus, Annie Ernaux, Roland Barthes, and Maryse Condé, and by their literary ancestors Baudelaire, Apollinaire, Apollinaire, and Rousseau. Themes examined include: the compulsion to confess; secret sharing vs. public self-disclosure; love, desire, and language; the search for authenticity; dominant discourse and minority voices; the role of the reader as accomplice, witness, judge, confessor.

Prerequisite: At least one unit of 206, 207, or 208, an SAT II score of 740-800, an equivalent departmental placement score, or an AP score of 5.

Distribution: Language and Literature or Religion, Ethics and Moral Philosophy

Semester: Fall

Unit: 1.0

FREN 218 Négritude, Independences, Women's Issues: Francophone Literature in Context

Prubhu

This course seeks to understand the key concerns of writers during the Négritude movement in order to address important questions that became crucial during the ensuing period of the various independence movements. We will discuss issues which arose at this time and continue to be of interest concerning the role of women in these movements and their presence in the newly independent nation. The impact of colonialism and independence on different indigenous social institutions, polygamy in particular, will be central to the later readings.

Prerequisite: At least one unit of 206, 207, or 208, an SAT II score of 740-800, an equivalent departmental placement score, or an AP score of 5.

Distribution: Language and Literature

Semester: Spring

Unit: 1.0

FREN 219 Love/Death

Respaut

NOT OFFERED IN 2005-06. This course investigates the connection between fiction and film and our fundamental preoccupation with the issues of love and death. Texts ranging from the Middle Ages to the twentieth century are studied, with an eye toward understanding how the themes of love and death are related to story structure, narration, and the dynamics of reading.

Prerequisite: At least one unit of 206, 207, or 208, an SAT II score of 740-800, an equivalent departmental placement score, or an AP score of 5.

Distribution: Language and Literature

Semester: N/O

Unit: 1.0

FREN 221 Voices of French Poetry from Marie de France to Surrealism

Peterson

NOT OFFERED IN 2005-06. The voices, forms, and innovations of the French poetic tradition. The goals of this course are to examine and appreciate the place of song, love, laughter, and madness in the best works of French poets, from the twelfth-century poems of Marie de France to Baudelaire's poèmes en prose, Rimbaud's délires, and surrealism's explosive écriture automatique.

Prerequisite: At least one unit of 206, 207, or 208, an SAT II score of 740-800, an AP score of 5, or an equivalent departmental placement score.

Distribution: Language and Literature

Semester: N/O

Unit: 1.0

FREN 222 French Cinema

Gillain

A survey of French cinema with a focus on three key periods: the 30s, the 60s and the 90s. Starting with classics by Jean Renoir, Marcel Carné, and Julien Duvivier, the course will study the stylistic revolution brought about by the New Wave and the mark it has left on recent French cinema. The films will be analyzed from a variety of perspectives: political and socio-economic contexts, gender representations, narrative patterns, and visual metaphors of subjectivity.

Prerequisite: At least one unit of 206, 207, or 208, an SAT II score of 740-800, an AP score of 5, or an equivalent departmental placement score.

Distribution: Language and Literature or Arts, Music, Theatre, Film, Video

Semester: Fall

Unit: 1.0

After 211, the numbering of 200-level courses does not denote increasing levels of difficulty; 200-level courses above 211 may be taken in any sequence.
FREN 224 Versailles and the Age of Louis XIV
Grébè
NOT OFFERED IN 2005-06. Versailles will be used as a focal point for the study of the aesthetic and literary trends prevalent in seventeenth-century France, as well as the social and historical trends that accompanied them. Works from a wide range of genres (including films, plays, and memoirs) will be chosen to examine the state of the arts in France under the Sun King.
Prerequisite: At least one unit of 206, 207, or 208, an SAT II score of 740-800, an AP score of 5, or an equivalent departmental placement score.
Distribution: Language and Literature
Semester: N/O
Unit: 1.0

FREN 225 The French Press
Gunther
This course is designed for students who want to become more familiar with the French media, to keep up with current events and to know more about the differences between the perspectives of French and American news sources with regard to current issues. The course is also intended to improve students’ reading, writing, and speaking skills in French.
Prerequisite: At least one unit of 206, 207, or 208, an SAT II score of 740-800, an AP score of 5, or an equivalent departmental placement score.
Distribution: Language and Literature or Social and Behavioral Analysis
Semester: Spring
Unit: 1.0

FREN 228 Wintersession in Paris
Lydgate
Topic for 2006: Paris in the Age of Existentialism. The existentialism of the late 1940s and 50s in France encompassed both a bleak philosophical ideology and an exuberant popular far. It reflected a tension in the culture between a sense of release from the immediate past and a growing anxiety over the Cold War. This course will examine the response of writers and artists to the currents and conflicts of the post-Liberation decade, including collaboration, political engagement, and the discovery of American jazz and popular culture. Readings include Lautréamont, Sartre, Camus, and Beauvoir; films of the period; and oral history.
Prerequisite: At least one unit of 206, 207, or 208, an SAT II score of 740-800, an AP score of 5, or an equivalent departmental placement score.
Distribution: Language and Literature
Semester: Wintersession
Unit: 1.0

FREN 229 America through French Eyes: Perceptions and Realities
Durta
NOT OFFERED IN 2005-06. The French have long been fascinated by the United States, especially since the end of the Second World War. At times, the U.S. has been seen as a model to be emulated in France; more often, it has stood out as the antithesis of French culture and values. This course examines French representations of the United States and of Americans through an examination of key historical and literary texts—essays, autobiographies, and fiction—as well as films. Topics to be explored include: representations of African-Americans in French films (Josephine Baker), French views of Taylorism, the Coca-Cola wars of the 1950s, French-American tensions during the Cold War, especially under de Gaulle, as well as more recent debates about Eurodisney, McDonald’s, Hollywood, globalization, and multiculturalism.
Prerequisite: At least one unit of 206, 207, or 208, an SAT II score of 740-800, an equivalent departmental placement score, or an AP score of 5.
Distribution: Language and Literature or Historical Studies
Semester: N/O
Unit: 1.0

FREN 237 Saint-Germain-des-Prés
Lydgate
Prerequisite: At least one unit of 206, 207, or 208, an SAT II score of 740-800, an equivalent departmental placement score, or an AP score of 5. Not open to students who have taken FREN 223, Topic B in Spring 2003.
Distribution: Language and Literature or Arts, Music, Theatre, Film, Video
Semester: N/O
Unit: 1.0

FREN 301 Books and Voices in Renaissance France
Lydgate
Innovative writers in sixteenth-century France and the ideas and forms of expression they explored in the early decades of printing. The persistence of oral culture and the search for a voice in print; the triumph of French over Latin as a literary language of subtlety and power; the collisions of propaganda and censorship in a century torn by religious strife; the emergence of new audiences and new strategies of narration and reading. Readings in prose works by Rabelais, Montaigne, Calvin, Marguerite de Navarre; poetry by du Bellay, Ronsard, and Louise Labé. Periodic reference to resources of The Rare Books Collection in the Wellesley library.
Prerequisite: Two 200-level units, one of which must be 210 (if taken Fall 2004 or later), or 211 or above.
Distribution: Language and Literature
Semester: Spring
Unit: 1.0

FREN 303 Advanced Studies in the Seventeenth and Eighteenth Centuries
Grek
Topic for 2005-06: Honor, Passion, and the Social Order in Seventeenth-Century Theater: Corneille, Molière, Racine. Love and duty, appearance and reality, freedom and destiny; seventeenth-century theater expresses major oppositional themes that both shaped and undermined the political order of the time. Corneille, Molière and Racine, the leading playwrights from the Golden Age of French literature, articulate the causes of economic crisis, social unrest and religious conflict that plagued the reign of Louis XIV and too often led to bloody consequences. The course will concentrate on the tragedies and comedies of these writers as keys to understanding the forces at work in a changing society, as outstanding achievements in theatrical art, and as illustrations of critical developments in theatrical style.
Prerequisite: Two 200-level units, one of which must be 210 (if taken Fall 2004 or later), or 211 or above.
Distribution: Language and Literature
Semester: Fall
Unit: 1.0

FREN 304 Male and Female Perspectives in the Eighteenth-Century Novel
Settasco
NOT OFFERED IN 2005-06. Drawing from recent feminist inquiries into the politics of exclusion and inclusion in literary history, the course examines, in dialogue with masterpieces authored by men, novels by major women writers of the period. These novels, though much admired in their time, were subsequently erased from the pages of literary history and have only recently been rediscovered. Works by Prévost, Claudine-Alexandrine de Tencin, Françoise de Graffigny, Marie-Jeanne Riccoboni, Rousseau, Diderot, Laclos, and Isabelle de Chartrière.
Prerequisite: Two 200-level units, one of which must be 210 (if taken Fall 2004 or later), or 211 or above.
Distribution: Language and Literature
Semester: N/O
Unit: 1.0

FREN 305 Advanced Studies in the Nineteenth Century
Ritchey
NOT OFFERED IN 2005-06.
Prerequisite: Two 200-level units, one of which must be 210 (if taken Fall 2004 or later), or 211 or above.
Distribution: Language and Literature
Semester: N/O
Unit: 1.0

FREN 306 Literature and Inhumanity: Novel, Poetry, and Film in Interwar France
Petersen
NOT OFFERED IN 2005-06. This course will examine the confrontation between literature and inhumanity through the French literature, poetry, and film of the early twentieth century. Poetry by Guillaume Apollinaire, Robert Desnos, André Breton, Francis Ponge, and René Char, films by Luis Buñuel, and novels by André Gide, Jean-Paul Sartre, and André Malraux all serve to illustrate the profound crisis in human values that defined and shaped the twentieth century.
Prerequisite: Two 200-level units, one of which must be 210 (if taken Fall 2004 or later), or 211 or above.
Distribution: Language and Literature
Semester: N/O
Unit: 1.0

FREN 307 The Contemporary French Novel and the Pleasure of the Text
Petersen
NOT OFFERED IN 2005-06. In mental landscapes ranging from the excruciatingly personal to the comparatively impersonal, and in geographical settings that vary from high-paced urbanism to plodding ruralism, the contemporary French novel invites us to reassess the formal, political, cultural, and historical states of writing and reading fiction in the twenty-first century. This course explores in depth the subtle pleasure of the text in works by some of France’s more brilliant and intriguing contemporary authors: Jean-Philippe Toussaint, Daniele Sallenave, Jean Echenoz, Lydie Salvayre, Marie Redonnet, François Bon, Patrick Modiano, Léon Gran.
FREN 308 Advanced Studies in Language
Ritchey
The art of translation and its techniques are studied through analysis of the major linguistic and cultural differences between French and English. Translations from both languages will serve to explore past and present-day practices and theories of translation.
Prerequisite: Two 200-level units, one of which must be 210 (if taken Fall 2004 or later), or 211 or above. Open to juniors and seniors only, or by permission of instructor.
Distribution: Language and Literature
Semester: Fall
Unit: 1.0

FREN 313 George Sand and the Romantic Theater
Masson
NOT OFFERED IN 2005-06. George Sand, multifaceted woman and influential writer, allows us to explore the romantic theater as well as the overall theater production of the nineteenth century. The fact that Sand’s theater was overlooked in her time and subsequently forgotten raises important questions of public recognition and literary posthedy that we will examine.
Prerequisite: Two 200-level units, one of which must be 210 (if taken Fall 2004 or later), or 211 or above.
Distribution: Language and Literature or Arts, Music, Theatre, Film, Video
Semester: N/O
Unit: 1.0

FREN 314 Cinema
Gillain
François Truffaut: An in-depth review of Truffaut’s overall contribution to cinema. Includes readings from his articles as a film critic, a study of influences on his directorial work (Renoir, Hitchcock) and a close analysis of twelve of his films using a variety of critical approaches: biographical, historical, formal, and psychoanalytical.
Prerequisite: Two 200 level units, one of which must be 210 (if taken Fall 2004 or later), or 211 or above.
Distribution: Language and Literature or Arts, Music, Theatre, Film, Video
Semester: Fall
Unit: 1.0

FREN 316 Duras
Mistaco
NOT OFFERED IN 2005-06. A study of Marguerite Duras’s literary and film production centering on her poetics of the Other and her practice of écriture fantaisie. Figures of difference and marginality (including social outcasts, colonized people, madwomen, children, criminals, Jews, and women) will be examined in connection with Duras’s subversion of sexual, familial, social, political, literary, and cinematic conventions. Analysis of representative novels, films, short stories, and plays. Readings from interviews, autobiographical texts, and articles, as well as from Duras’s final reflections on her life and the experience of writing. New critical perspectives on her work.
Prerequisite: Two 200-level units, one of which must be 210 (if taken Fall 2004 or later), or 211 or above.
Distribution: Language and Literature
Semester: N/O
Unit: 1.0

FREN 318 Narrative in the Twentieth Century
Mistaco
This course explores innovative fiction by major novelists spanning the twentieth century, from André Gide at the threshold of “the age of suspicion” (Sarraute) on. Challenges to canonical narratives, discourses of mastery and authoritative modes of storytelling in a wide variety of revolutionary works, including absurdist, avant-garde, and feminist texts are examined. Literary, historical, and cultural perspectives will be brought to bear on these narratives which chart vital developments in the twentieth-century novel. Authors include André Gide, Marcel Proust, Nathalie Sarraute, Albert Camus, Samuel Beckett, Marguerite Duras, and Alain Robbe-Grillet.
Prerequisite: Two 200-level units, one of which must be 210 (if taken Fall 2004 or later), or 211 or above.
Distribution: Language and Literature
Semester: Spring
Unit: 1.0

FREN 319 Women, Language, and Literary Expression
Mistaco
NOT OFFERED IN 2005-06. Fiction by twentieth-century women writers in France. Challenges to literary conventions, patriarchal thinking and dominant discourse by Beauvoir, Colette, Chawaf, Wittig, Duras, and Djebar. Attention to gender as a site of dissidence and to the creative possibilities as well as the risks involved in equating the feminine with difference. Perspectives on women, writing, and difference in colonial and postcolonial contexts. Readings from foundational and recent works by feminist theoreticians including Cixous, Kristeva, and Irigaray.
Prerequisite: Two 200-level units, one of which must be 210 (if taken Fall 2004 or later), or 211 or above.
Distribution: Language and Literature
Semester: N/O
Unit: 1.0

FREN 321 Selected Topics
Topic A: Women of Ill Repute: Prostitution in Nineteenth-Century France
Ritchey
NOT OFFERED IN 2005-06. Women of loose morals in French fiction from the Revolution to the end of the nineteenth century. This course will trace the figure of the prostitute—from the innocent fallen woman with a heart of gold to the threatening incarnation of feminine perversity—in literary texts and in the paintings of prominent artists of the period. Readings in contemporary treatises on hygiene, public policy, and the legal status of prostitutes will situate the theme in the socio-cultural context of the time. Fiction by Balzac, Dumas, Hugo, Baudelaire, Maupassant, Bardey d’Aurevilly, Zola, Paintings by Degas, Manet, Toulouse-Lautrec.
Prerequisite: Two 200-level units, one of which must be 210 (if taken Fall 2004 or later), or 211 or above.
Distribution: Language and Literature
Semester: N/O
Unit: 1.0

FREN 327 A Fascination with Bodies: The Doctor’s Malady
Respaut
NOT OFFERED IN 2005-06. The addictive interplay between doctors and patients as reflected in a variety of nineteenth- and twentieth-century writings, and in photography and film. The course will investigate the effect of sickness on family structure and the struggle with illness as a desperate “dancing with the beast,” touching on mental and physical suffering of various kinds—hysteria and alcoholism, childbirth and abortion, tuberculosis, cancer, AIDS—represented in novels and short stories from Bardey d’Aurevilly to Gide, in the reflections of historians and psychologists (Michelet, Charcot), and in biographies, personal accounts and autobiographies by Duras, Guibert and Ernaux.
Prerequisite: Two 200-level units, one of which must be 210 (if taken Fall 2004 or later), or 211 or above.
Distribution: Language and Literature
Semester: N/O
Unit: 1.0

FREN 329 Colette/Duras: A Pleasure unto Death
Respaut
NOT OFFERED IN 2005-06. Two prolific authors whose works embrace the span of women’s writing in the twentieth century, and who correspondingly illustrate the essential features of modern expression by women. Attention to the phases of a woman’s life, sexuality, the figure of the mother, exotism and race, and the relation between fiction and autobiography.
Prerequisite: Two 200-level units, one of which must be 210 (if taken Fall 2004 or later), or 211 or above.
Distribution: Language and Literature
Semester: N/O
Unit: 1.0

FREN 330 French and Francophone Studies
Prahhu
The course examines various texts from the post-independent Francophone world to understand pressing concerns in different postcolonial regions. Close attention will be paid to narrative techniques while studying questions concerning the relationship with the metropolis and the functioning of language(s). Includes a brief introduction to the history of Francophone literature. Texts by Driss Chraibi, Maryse Conde, Axel Gauvin, Assia Djebar.
Prerequisite: Two 200-level units, one of which must be 210 (if taken Fall 2004 or later), or 211 or above.
Distribution: Language and Literature
Semester: Fall
Unit: 1.0

FREN 331 Desire, Sexuality, and Love in African Francophone Cinema
Prahhu
NOT OFFERED IN 2005-06. An exploration of interpersonal relationships within traditional or transgressive couples in African Francophone Cinema. Consideration of various cultural and social backgrounds will frame our discussion of such controversial issues as cliterodectomy, polygamy, homosexuality, and incest.
Prerequisite: Two 200-level units, one of which must be 210 (if taken Fall 2004 or later), or 211 or above.
Distribution: Language and Literature or Arts, Music, Theatre, Film, Video
Semester: N/O
Unit: 1.0

FREN 349 Studies in Culture and Criticism
Datta
NOT OFFERED IN 2005-06. In the aftermath of World War I, French men and women viewed the preceding years as a tranquil and stable period in French history. Yet during the era, subsequently known as la belle époque, the French experienced changes of enormous magnitude: the emergence of both consumer culture and a working class, the development of a national press, and the expansion of an overseas colonial empire. Such ebullience was reflected in the emergence of Paris as the capital of the European avant-garde. Drawing on literary texts and historical documents, as well as on films, posters, and songs, this interdisciplinary course examines French society, politics, and culture during the era which ushered France into the modern age.

Prerequisite: Two 200-level units, one of which must be 210 (if taken Fall 2004 or later), or 211 or above.
Distribution: Language and Literature or Historical Studies Semester: N/O Unit: 1.0

Topic B: Occupation and Resistance: The French Experience and Memory of the Second World War, 1939–1999

Datta

NOT OFFERED IN 2005-06.
Prerequisite: Two 200-level units, one of which must be 210 (if taken Fall 2004 or later), or 211 or above.
Distribution: Language and Literature or Historical Studies Semester: N/O Unit: 1.0

Topic C: France and Europe: Ambiguities, Obstacles, and Triumphs

Gunter

After an introduction to the various social, cultural, and political aspects of contemporary France and the French, we will turn our attention to issues surrounding France’s role in the project to unify Europe. We will examine how France’s anxieties and hopes for the Union are shared by other European nations, and how France is experiencing membership in the European Union differently from its neighbors, in ways that reflect its unique history and culture. Readings will be drawn from a variety of disciplines, including texts by historians, political scientists, sociologists and economists.

Prerequisite: Two 200-level units, one of which must be 210 (if taken Fall 2004 or later), or 211 or above.
Distribution: Language and Literature or Historical Studies Semester: Spring Unit: 1.0

FREN 350 Research or Individual Study

Prerequisite: Two 200-level units above 206.
Distribution: None Semester: Fall, Spring Unit: 1.0

FREN 360 Senior Thesis Research

Prerequisite: By permission of department. See Academic Distinctions.
Distribution: None Semester: Fall, Spring Unit: 1.0

FREN 370 Senior Thesis

Prerequisite: 360
Distribution: None Semester: Fall, Spring Unit: 1.0

Directions for Election

One-hundred level courses. FREN 101-102 and 103 count toward the degree but not toward the major. Students who begin with 101-102 in college and who plan to study abroad should consult the chair of the department during the second semester of their first year.

Majors. Majors are required to complete a minimum of eight units, including the following courses or their equivalents: FREN 210 (if taken Fall 2004 or later), or 211 and 308. The goals of a coherent program are: (a) oral and written linguistic competence; (b) acquisition of basic techniques of reading and interpreting texts; and (c) a general understanding of the history of French literature and culture. All majors must take two 300-level French courses at Wellesley College. No more than two courses taken credit/noncredit at Wellesley College may be applied to the French major. Students planning to major in French should consult with the chair of the French department.

Honor. The only route to honors in the major is writing a thesis and passing an oral examination. To be admitted to the thesis program, a student must have a grade point average of at least 3.5 in all work in the major field above the 100-level; the department may petition on her behalf if her GPA in the major is between 3.0 and 3.5. Students must complete a 300-level course or its equivalent before the fall of senior year. In addition, a 300-level course is to be taken concurrently with 360-370. See Academic Distinctions.

Students interested in an interdepartmental major in French cultural studies are referred to the listing for this interdepartmental program.

Graduate Studies. Students planning graduate work in French or comparative literature are encouraged to write a honors thesis and study a second modern language and/or Latin.

Advanced Placement Policies and Language Requirement. A student entering Wellesley must have an Advanced Placement score of 5 or an SAT II score of 740 to satisfy the foreign language requirement. All incoming students are required to take the departmental placement test. Any discrepancy between a student’s AP score and her score on the departmental placement test will be resolved by the placement committee. Any student who intends to fulfill her language requirement by taking a course at another institution must have her return taken prior to the placement test and attain the required level.

Teacher Certification. Students interested in obtaining certification to teach French in the Commonwealth of Massachusetts should consult the chair of the education department.

French Cultural Studies

An Interdepartmental Major

Director: Gunther (French)

Wellesley offers an interdepartmental major in French cultural studies which combines courses from the Department of French with those in Africana studies, art, history, music, political science, or any other department offering courses on France or Francophone countries. French cultural studies majors ordinarily work closely with two advisors, one from the French department and one from the other area of concentration.

The major in French cultural studies consists of a minimum of eight units. At least four units in the French department above the 100 level are required including 207 and 210 (if taken Fall 2004 or later) or 211. In special cases, an upper-level culture course in French approved by the program director may be substituted for FREN 207. At least one unit in French at the 300 (advanced) level is required. All majors must take two 300-level courses at Wellesley College. No more than two courses taken credit/noncredit at Wellesley College may be applied to the French cultural studies major.

FREN 350 Research or Individual Study

Prerequisite: Open by permission to juniors and seniors.
Distribution: None Semester: Fall, Spring Unit: 1.0

FREN 360 Senior Thesis Research

Prerequisite: By permission of director. See Academic Distinctions.
Distribution: None Semester: Fall, Spring Unit: 1.0

FREN 370 Senior Thesis

Prerequisite: 360
Distribution: None Semester: Fall, Spring Unit: 1.0

For courses not exclusively on France or a Francophone topics, students are expected to write their main paper(s) on a French theme. In addition, and in consultation with the director, research and individual study (350) may be approved. The procedure to be followed for Honors is identical to that for the French major.

Teacher Certification

Students interested in obtaining certification to teach French in the Commonwealth of Massachusetts should consult the chair of the education department.

Department of Geosciences

Professor: Andrews, Thompson (Chair)
Associate Professor: Besançon
Assistant Professor: Brabander

Instructor in Geosciences Laboratory: Gilbert, Mattison

The geosciences department offers courses that can lead to either a more traditional geology major that emphasizes earth materials and history or an environmental geoscience major that emphasizes an understanding of and solution to environmental problems. A student will consult with her department advisor to design a major that best meets her interests and goals.

All courses with laboratory meet for two periods of lecture and one three-hour laboratory session weekly.

GEOS 100 Oceanography
Andrews

Covering over 70% of the Earth's surface, the oceans are one of the most distinctive features of our planet. Oceans evolve through time, control our climate, are home to a myriad of marine life forms and are floored by distinctive geologic features including huge volcanoes and giant rift valleys. We will explore such topics as ocean basin sediments, submarine volcanism, shoreline processes, tsunamis, ocean currents, el niño events, coral reefs, deep-sea life and marine food, and mineral resources.

Prerequisite: None. Not open to students who have taken [GEOL 100].
Distribution: Natural and Physical Science
Semester: Fall
Unit: 1.0

GEOS 101 Earth Processes and the Environment with Laboratory
Brabander

The Earth is home to more than six billion people and millions of kinds of animals and plants. Geologic processes both rapid (earthquakes and landslides) and slow (mountain building and sea level rise) are intimately linked with sustaining this diversity of life. This course will examine many of the physical processes that are responsible for shaping our environment and will introduce skills essential for detailed observation of these processes. Laboratory and field trips.

Prerequisite: Fulfillment of the basic skills component of the Quantitative Reasoning requirement. Not open to students who have taken [GEOL 102] or GEOS 102.
Distribution: Natural and Physical Science. Fulfills the Quantitative Reasoning overlay course requirement.
Semester: Fall
Unit: 1.25

GEOS 102 The Dynamic Earth with Laboratory
Andrews

Introduction to geologic processes ranging from microscopic growth of mineral crystals to regional erosion and deposition by water, wind, and ice to volcanism and earthquakes associated with global plate motions. A particular focus of the course will be to better understand the interactions between human activities and the geologic environment. Laboratory and field trips.

Prerequisite: Fulfillment of the basic skills component of the Quantitative Reasoning requirement. Not open to students who have taken GEOS 101 or [GEOL 102].
Distribution: Natural and Physical Science. Fulfills the Quantitative Reasoning overlay course requirement.
Semester: Spring
Unit: 1.25

GEOS 200 The Earth and Life through Time with Laboratory

NOT OFFERED IN 2005-06. OFFERED IN 2006-07. The Earth and life have been continually changing throughout the 4.6 billion years of Earth history. We will explore these changes including the tectonic evolution of mountain ranges, the changing landscapes and environments across the North American continent, and the origin, evolution, and extinction of the various life forms that have inhabited our planet. Laboratory will provide the students with the opportunity to examine Wellesley’s extensive fossil collection. A field trip to fossil sites in New York State will be offered.

Prerequisite: GEOS 100 (GEOL 100), GEOS 101, GEOS 102 [GEOL 102] or ES 100. Not open to students who have taken [GEOL 200].
Distribution: Natural and Physical Science
Semester: N/O. Offered in 2006-07.
Unit: 1.25

GEOS 201/ES 201 Methods and Problems in Environmental Science with Laboratory
Brabander

Problems in environmental science are inherently multidisciplinary and often require a diverse skill set to analyze and solve. This course will focus on developing a toolbox of skills including field methods, geochemical analysis (natural waters, soils, and other environmental materials), and modeling with a goal of being able to frame and solve environmental problems. Students will conduct semester-long research projects and will present their results in a final poster session. Laboratory. Students may register for either GEOS 201 or ES 201 and credit will be granted accordingly.

Prerequisite: One of the following: GEOS 100 (GEOL 100), GEOS 101, GEOS 102 (GEOL 102), ES 100 or permission of the instructor.
Distribution: Natural and Physical Science
Semester: Spring
Unit: 1.25

GEOS 203 Earth Materials with Laboratory
Brabander

The solid Earth is composed of a wide range of materials including minerals, rocks and soils. Some of these are as familiar as building stone or bathroom cleaner in everyday life, while others must be sought in natural settings like mountain ranges or flood plains. This course will examine both the physical and chemical properties of earth materials and the processes that lead to their formation. Identification and interpretation of earth materials in the field and in the laboratory (via X-ray and microscopic analysis) will also be emphasized. Laboratory and field trips.

Prerequisite: GEOS 100 (GEOL 100), GEOS 101, GEOS 102 [GEOL 102] or ES 100
Distribution: Natural and Physical Science
Semester: Fall
Unit: 1.25

GEOS 204 Catastrophes and Extinctions

NOT OFFERED IN 2005-06. OFFERED IN 2006-07. The Earth has not always been a safe place on which to live, as mass extinctions have punctuated the history of life and dramatically altered the course of evolution. Among the topics we will explore are the process of evolution and the nature of the fossil record, gradual change versus catastrophic events, dinosaurs and their extinction, periodicity of mass extinctions, the prospect of future extinctions, and an evaluation of the possible causes of extinctions, including sea-level changes, climate changes, volcanism, and meteoric impacts. Normally offered in alternate years.
GEOS 211 Geology and Human Affairs
NOT OFFERED IN 2005-06. OFFERED IN 2006-07. This course will focus on interactions between people and their physical environment. Geological component to emphasize coastal, fluvial and glacial processes, evaluation of bedrock for engineering projects, and groundwater. Human impacts will be examined in terms of adverse effects on geological systems and in terms of protective environmental regulation and remediation. New England case studies including evolution of Nauset Spit (Chatham, Mass.), groundwater contamination at Cape Cod Military Reservation, and management approaches to coastal development will be highlighted during the semester. Students will present their own case studies as final poster projects. Normally offered in alternate years.
Prerequisite: GEOS 100 [GEOL 100], GEOS 101, GEOS 102 [GEOL 102] or ES 100. Not open to students who have taken [GEOL 204].
Distribution: Natural and Physical Science

GEOS 213/ASTR 203 Planetary Geology
Bauer (Astronomy)
Spacecraft observations have shown us a breathtaking diversity of geologic features in the solar system, from ancient river valleys on Mars and violent eruptions on Io to the icy surface of Halley’s comet. From a comparative point of view, we will discuss the formation and evolution of the planets and small bodies in the solar system. Topics will include: volcanism, tectonic activity, impacts, and tides. Students may register for either GEOS 213 or ASTR 203 and credit will be granted accordingly. Normally offered in alternate years.
Prerequisite: Fulfillment of the basic skills component of the Quantitative Reasoning requirement and any 100-level GEOS or ASTR course.
Distribution: Natural and Physical Science
Semester: Fall Unit: 1.0

GEOS 220 Volcanoes: Agents of Global and Regional Change with Winter session Laboratory
Beaconsen
From Mount Saint Helens to Vesuvius to Krakatau, volcanoes affect global climate, change landscape evolution, and are sometimes the cause of tremendous disasters. Understanding the wide variety of phenomena associated with volcanoes provides a broad perspective on how science can be used to protect lives and further human needs and interests. Using geologic literature, Internet search, and a general text, we will study case histories of volcanoes on earth and through the solar system. Written papers and oral presentations will be important parts of the course. Required laboratory will be two weeks in length and in near Hawaii Volcanoes National Park during Winter session, with a final project due after return. Normally offered in alternate years. Subject to Dean’s Office Approval.
Prerequisite: GEOS 100 [GEOL 100], GEOS 101, GEOS 102 [GEOL 102] or ES 100 and permission of the instructor. Not open to students who have taken [GEOL 220].
Distribution: Natural and Physical Science

GEOS 230 Earth from Above: Maps, Remote Sensing, and GIS
NOT OFFERED IN 2005-06. OFFERED IN 2006-07. Paper maps and photographs are moving into digital form. Governments, consulting firms, and scientists use geographic information systems (GIS) and image analysis to manage natural resources, administer city infrastructure, search for water supplies, analyze land use, investigate relationships between environmental factors, and prepare maps of all types. Assignments examine a variety of problems in natural science and geography using ArcGIS software. Normally offered in alternate years.
Prerequisite: GEOS 100 [GEOL 100], GEOS 101, GEOS 102 [GEOL 102] or ES 100. Not open to students who have taken (GEOL 230).
Distribution: Natural and Physical Science
Semester: N/O. Offered in 2006-07. Unit: 1.0

GEOS 240 Climate Past and Future
NOT OFFERED IN 2005-06. OFFERED IN 2006-07. The documented phenomenon of global warming raises pressing questions about future climate trends and what the world’s population might expect if temperatures continue to rise. The science of this problem spans many spheres of Earth activity from present-day oceanic and atmospheric circulation to the geologic record of Pleistocene ice sheets and more recent climatic events in the far distant past. Even plate motions have climatic impacts as ancient volcanism associated with rapid sea floor spreading increases atmospheric carbon dioxide. This course will explore the dynamics of the modern climate system as well as multiple factors influencing climate history. All of these approaches are important for geoscientists and nonscientists alike who must promote intelligent action on global initiatives addressing problems such as anthropogenic carbon dioxide emissions. Normally offered in alternate years.
Prerequisite: GEOS 100 [GEOL 100], GEOS 101, GEOS 102 [GEOL 102] or ES 100. Not open to students who have taken [GEOL 240].
Distribution: Natural and Physical Science
Semester: N/O. Offered in 2006-07. Unit: 1.0

GEOS 304 Sedimentary Rocks and Sequences with Laboratory
Thompson
Sedimentary rocks cover most of the Earth’s present surface and contain evidence for past environments throughout billions of years of geologic time. Studying sequences of such rocks is both important for understanding recurrent environmental fluctuations like sea level change and for maximizing resources from coal and petroleum to salt and aluminum ore. Sedimentary processes take on further significance because they take place in popular human habitats including coastlines and flood plains. Lectures will cover production of sediment via weathering, principles of sediment transport, characteristics of sedimentary environments, and interpretation of sedimentary sequences. Laboratory will emphasize identification of sedimentary rocks and minerals based on hand specimens, microscope and x-ray methods, and include field trips in the Boston area. Normally offered in alternate years.
Prerequisite: GEOS 203 or permission of the instructor. Not open to students who have taken [GEOL 304].
Distribution: Natural and Physical Science
Semester: Spring Unit: 1.25

GEOS 305 Paleontology with Laboratory
Andrews
Over 99.9% of the animal species that have inhabited our Earth are now extinct, and these ancient life forms, such as trilobites and ammonites, are now only known through their fossil remains. We will investigate the origin, evolution, and extinction of these fossil organisms, many of which have no close living relatives. Students will have the opportunity to study Wellesley’s extensive fossil collections in their laboratory work. Normally offered in alternate years.
Prerequisite: A 200-level course in Geosciences or permission of the instructor. Not open to students who have taken [GEOL 305].
Distribution: Natural and Physical Science
Semester: Spring Unit: 1.25

GEOS 306 Structural Geology with Laboratory
Thompson
Introduction to geometry and origin of rock structure ranging from microtextures and fabrics to large-scale folding and faulting. Emphasis on processes of rock deformation in terms of theoretical prediction and experimental findings. Laboratory will include field trips in the Boston area. Normally offered in alternate years.
Prerequisite: GEOS 203 or permission of the instructor. Not open to students who have taken [GEOL 306].
Distribution: Natural and Physical Science
Semester: Fall Unit: 1.25

GEOS 309 Petrology with Laboratory
Jan
Study of the origin and occurrence of igneous and metamorphic rocks which make up most of the earth’s crust. The earth generates magmas, primarily along plate boundaries, and they carry heat upward as they rise into the crust or onto the surface, forming igneous rocks. Heat, pressure, and deformation generate new minerals and textures in rocks. Students will decipher the sources and history of rocks using chemical and physical models and tools. Laboratory includes study of rocks in thin section and a project study of rocks collected on Boston area field trips. Normally offered in alternate years.
Prerequisite: GEOS 203 or permission of the instructor. Not open to students who have taken [GEOL 309].
Distribution: Natural and Physical Science or Mathematical Modeling
Semester: N/O. Offered in 2006-07. Unit: 1.25

GEOS 311 Hydrogeology with Laboratory
Staff
Investigation of water supply and use. Principles of surface and groundwater movement and water chemistry are applied to the hydrologic cycle in order to understand sources of water for human use. Quantity and quality of water and the limitations they impose are considered. Laboratory. Normally offered in alternate years.
Prerequisite: A 200-level course in Geosciences or permission of the instructor. Not open to students who have taken [GEOL 311].

Department of German

Professor: Hansen, Kruse (Chair), Norden, Ward.

Visiting Instructor: Meder

Director of Study Abroad Program: Hansen

Resident Director of Wellesley-in-Vienna: Hartnak

The language of instruction above the 100 level is almost exclusively German unless otherwise noted. Students thus have constant practice in hearing, reading, speaking, and writing the language.

The department reserves the right to place a new student in the course for which she seems best prepared, regardless of background and number of units she offers for admission.

Students in GER 201 who wish to accelerate at the intermediate level may apply to the January-in-Vienna program. Participants travel to Vienna for three weeks in January where they study with a professor from the German department. During their stay they complete GER 202W and receive credit as they would for a course taken on campus (Not offered every year. Subject to Dean’s office approval.). Upon returning for the second semester at Wellesley, students are encouraged to continue with GER 231.

Qualified students are encouraged to spend the junior year in Austria in the Wellesley-in-Vienna program or another program approved by the College.

GER 101-102 Beginning German

Staff

An introduction to contemporary German with emphasis on communicative fluency. Extensive practice in all four skills: listening, speaking, reading, and writing. Videos and Web-based activities introduce the student to topics from contemporary culture in German-speaking countries. Each semester earns 1.0 unit of credit; however, both semesters must be completed satisfactorily to receive credit for either course. Three meetings per week.

GER 120/WRIT 125 Berlin and Cinema

NOT OFFERED IN 2005-06. As the brilliant metropolis of 1920s cultural modernity, the epicenter of Cold War conflict, and the locus of divisive German unity after the fall of the Berlin Wall, Berlin has proven a rich site of inquiry for some of the world’s greatest filmmakers. We will view this fascinating city from the multiple and complex standpoints offered in a range of documentary and fiction films, from the experimental silent film, Symphony of a Great City; to Rossellini’s Germany Year Zero to Wilder’s raucous 1947 comedy, A Foreign Affair. Win Wenders’ Wings of Desire and films from the post-wall period will also be featured. The course emphasizes development of the requisite vocabulary to analyze film art and provides an overview of nine decades of German history.

This course satisfies the Writing 125 requirement and counts as a unit toward the German studies major. Includes a third session each week. Students enrolled in German courses, particularly 202, are encouraged to fulfill the Writing 125 requirement with this class. Knowledge of German is not required for this course.

Prerequisite: None. Open only to first-year students.

GER 121/WRIT 125 Turn-of-the-Century Vienna: The Birth of Modernism

Hansen

The brilliant culture of fin-de-siecle Vienna reveals the early concerns of the twentieth century. While the 600-year-old Habsburg monarchy preserved continuity in Austria, a nervous sense of finality pervaded the period. Nostalgia clashed with social change to produce a remarkable tension in the music, art, literature, and science of the period. These disciplines reached breakthroughs that are the roots of the modern temperament: Sigmund Freud in psychology; Oskar Kokoschka and Gustav Klimt in art; Hugo von Hofmannsthal and Arthur Schnitzler in literature; Mahler, Schönberg, and Webern in music. The course will study representative works to explore this phenomenon. This course satisfies the writing requirement and counts as a unit toward the German studies major. Includes a third session each week. Students enrolled in German courses, particularly 201-202, are encouraged to fulfill the Writing 125 requirement with this class.

GER 202W Intermediate German in Vienna

Ward, Fisk (Music)

Like 202 on campus, this course strengthens and expands all language skills including idiomatic grammar review, oral and listening practice, readings on contemporary and historical topics, and practice in composition. This course is offered as a total immersion experience and has an important cultural component. In 2006 we explore the musical heritage of Vienna. We shall approach this rich legacy through the study of composers like Haydn, Beethoven, Schubert, Brahms, Mahler, Schoenberg, and Berg - all of whom are closely tied to the musical life of the city. In the course of our exploration we shall visit sites of special significance and attend concerts. No technical knowledge of music is necessary. Not offered every year. Subject to Dean’s Office approval.

Prerequisite: 201 or permission of instructor.

CPLT 254 Imaginary Crimes and Courts: The Law in Literature

Directions for Election

The department offers a major in language and literature as well as a minor in German. GER 101-102 is counted toward the degree but not toward the major or minor. Students who begin German at Wellesley and wish to major will be encouraged to advance as quickly as possible to upper-level work by doing intermediate language training during the summer or accelerating in our January-in-Vienna program during Wintersession.

Students interested in an interdepartmental major in German studies are referred to the listing for this interdepartmental program.

The major in German language and literature

The major in language and literature develops advanced language skills with emphasis on the critical reading of texts while also stressing a deeper acquaintance with the literary and cultural traditions of German-speaking countries. GER 202 may count toward the eight-unit minimum major. GER 231 or 239 and two 300-level units are required, either 325 or 329 (offered in alternate years) and one seminar (389). Of the remaining minimum four elective units, one unit can be a 200-level course offered by the department in English, but if a 300-level of the same course is offered with an extra session taught in German, this is highly recommended. With approval of the department, certain courses taken abroad may count toward the major at the 200 level. Courses on the German studies related courses list are also recommended as complements to the language and literature major. Each student should consult her departmental advisor about the best sequence of courses for her major program.

The major in German studies

Please see German Studies.

The minor in German

The minor offers an opportunity to acquire advanced skills in the language with emphasis on communicative strategies and cross-cultural understanding. GER 202 may count toward the five-unit minimum minor. GER 231 or 239 is required. One 300-level unit is highly recommended. One unit can be a 200-level course offered by the department in English, but if a 300-level of the same course is offered with an extra session taught in German, this is highly recommended. With the approval of the department, certain courses taken abroad may count toward the minor. Students are encouraged to supplement the minor with any of the related courses listed under German studies. Each student should consult her departmental advisor about the best sequence of courses in her case.

Honors Program

The department offers two plans for the honors program. Plan A (See Senior Thesis Research, 360 and 370) offers the opportunity for original work in language and literature or German studies, culminating in the writing of a longer paper or papers with an oral defense. See Academic Distinctions. Plan B, honors by examination, is open to candidates in language and literature only. Written and oral examinations are based on a reading list devised by the student under the guidance of an advisor. Plan B carries no course credit, but where appropriate, students may elect a unit of 350 to prepare a special author or project that would be included in the honors examination.
German Studies

AN INTERDEPARTMENTAL MAJOR

Director: Kruse (German)

This interdisciplinary and interdepartmental major is designed to provide the student with a broader understanding of the cultures of Germany, Austria, and Switzerland by achieving an advanced level of language proficiency and by studying the art, history, literature, philosophy, and politics of these countries in depth. GER 202 may count toward the eight-unit minimum major. GER 231 and two 300-level units are required. It is recommended that one of these units be a seminar. A minimum of five units should be completed in the German department, one of them at the 300 level. The elective units taken in the German department may be drawn from courses taught in German or English, including either GER 120/WRIT 125 or GER 121/WRIT 125.

The remaining minimum of three elective units may be drawn from any of the related courses listed below. A student who enrolls in these courses is expected to do a project or paper on a German, Austrian, or Swiss topic in order to count the course toward her German studies major. She may also do an interdisciplinary 360-370 project that is supervised by an interdepartmental committee. With approval of the relevant department, courses taken abroad may count at the 200 level toward the major. A course in German history is highly recommended, as are two units from a single allied field. While it is helpful to have an advisor in the allied field, a student must have a major advisor in the German department, who must approve all German studies programs.

Honors

The route to honors in the major is writing a thesis. To be admitted to the thesis program, a student must have a grade point average of at least 3.5 in all work in the major field above the 100-level. See Academic Distinctions.

Tumarkin
NOT OFFERED IN 2005-06. This course will follow the peoples of Europe, both West and East, from the "splendid century" of Louis XIV to the present era of European Union. Our focus will be on the changing mentalities and everyday experiences of Europeans. We will journey from the political and cultural wars of the seventeenth and eighteenth centuries to the age of industrialization and the new nineteenth-century ideologies of nationalism, liberalism, and socialism. We will also explore European imperialism, totalitarianism, and Stalin's two disastrous world wars. The course will conclude by examining how Europeans have coped since 1945 with Cold War divisions, the loss of international hegemony, the collapse of communism, and the new challenges of reunification.

HIST 206 Colonial Latin America, 1450-1810
Ickes
This course will introduce the principal topics of an extraordinary period in the history of the Americas. We will focus primarily on Mexico, the Andes and Brazil, with some consideration of the Caribbean and the Southern Cone. Our principal concern will be with the dynamics between the European colonizer and the indigenous colonized, and with the relationships between the political and economic structures of colonialism and the emergence of an extremely diverse and distinctly Latin American social and cultural historical experience. Topics will include indigenous societies, conquest, Iberian absolutism, labor systems, the Catholic Church, the Inquisition and religious hybridization, African slavery, the place of women, the Enlightenment, Liberalism, and Creole Nationalism. The course will rely on lectures, readings, in-class discussion and visual and electronic media.

HIST 207 Modern Latin America, 1810-Present
Ickes
This course will introduce students to the history of the Spanish and Portuguese Americas from independence (c. 1808-1824) to the present. Our principal focus will be on the development of the Latin American nation-state and its economy and political culture. We will also emphasize Latin America's social and cultural formation within a developing political economy. We will draw primarily on the histories of Mexico, Brazil, and Cuba although illustrations from elsewhere in the region will be significant. Additional topics to be addressed will include colonialism, liberalism, caudilloism, slavery, race relations and relations of gender and labor, dependency, popular culture, U.S.-Latin American relations, authoritarianism, and democratization. The course will rely on lectures, readings, in-class discussion and visual and electronic media.

HIST 210 The British Isles in the Age of Revolution and Empire: 1603-1901
Frase
Between the deaths of Queen Elizabeth and Queen Victoria, Britain was transformed from a relatively minor kingdom into the wealthiest and most powerful nation in the world, controlling a quarter of the earth's population. We'll examine Britain's (often precarious and reversible) development, tracing the causes and repercussions of events such as the destructive Civil Wars and the Glorious Revolution, and addressing major themes, such as the creation of one of the world's first modern consumer societies and the working class, the birth of liberal, conservative, and socialist ideologies, and the questions of social and sexual hierarchy raised at home by an expanding empire abroad. Though largely centered on England, we will also look at Scotland and Ireland's particular histories of resistance, conquest, and integration.

HIST 211 Bread and Salt: Introduction to Russian Civilization
Tumarkin
For centuries Russians have welcomed visitors with offerings of bread and salt. This introductory course is an earthy immersion in Russian life and culture from the age of Tolstoy to Putin's dissident new Russia. Black bread, dense and pungent, is central to our exploration of food, fasting, fasting and famine in the Russian experience. We will weave in both related and counter-papeutical themes, such as religious faith and folk beliefs, the Russian way of death, the splendor and agony of Russian high culture, and Russian emigre constructions of a lost civilization. Guest lectures by Russianists in disciplines other than history.

the role of women at the familial and national levels, over the nature of God and religious duty? How did the accumulation of wealth and the exploration of "new worlds" affect most men and women?

Prerequisite: Not open to students who have taken HIST 229/329.
Distribution: Historical Studies
Semester: Spring
Unit: 1.0

HIST 229/329 Alexander the Great: Psychopath or Philosopher King

Rogers

Alexander the Great murdered his best friend, married a Bactrian princess, and dressed like Dionysus. He also conquered the known world by the age of 33, fused the eastern and western populations of his empire, and became a god. This course will examine the personality, career, and achievements of this conqueror in Western history against the background of the Hellenistic world. This course may be taken as either 229 or, with additional assignments, as 329.

Prerequisite: 229: None; 329: By permission of instructor.
Distribution: Historical Studies
Semester: Fall
Unit: 1.0

HIST 230 Greek History from the Bronze Age to the Death of Philip II of Macedon

Rogers

NOT OFFERED IN 2005-06. The origins, development, and geographical spread of Greek culture from the Bronze Age to the death of Philip II of Macedon. Greek colonization, the Persian Wars, the Athenian democracy, and the rise of Macedon will be examined in relation to the social, economic, and religious history of the Greek polis.

Prerequisite: None

Semester: N/O
Unit: 1.0

HIST 231 History of Rome

Rogers

Rome's cultural development from its origins as a small city state in the eighth century B.C.E. to its rule over a vast empire extending from Scotland to Iraq. Topics include the Etruscan influence on the formation of early Rome, the causes of Roman expansion throughout the Mediterranean during the Republic, the Hellenization of Roman society, the urbanization and Romanization of Western Europe, the spread of "mystery" religions, the persecution and expansion of Christianity, and the economy and society of the Empire.

HIST 232 The Transformation of the Western World: Europe from 1300-1815

Frace

Understanding modernity requires a proper exploration of its origins. This course will provide a dynamic overview of the social, political, and cultural movements and events that have defined Europe during its transition into the modern era. From the Black Plague to the French Revolution, we will focus on the concurrent trajectories of fragmentation and cohesion at the national and communal levels, including the Renaissance, the Reformation and brutal religious wars, the emergence of the absolutist and modern liberal state, the Enlightenment, global trade empires, feminism, and embryonic capitalism. By relying on documents ranging from private diaries and letters to political treatises and popular novels, this course will bring to vivid life a world that is at once foreign and familiar.

Prerequisite: None
Distribution: Historical Studies

Unit: 1.0

HIST 236 The Bridge to Modernity? The European Enlightenment

Frace

The Enlightenment has been alternately demonized and revered for its prominent role in forging Western modernity. Was it the harbinger of modern democracy, secularism, and feminism? Or of ethnocentric racism, sexism, and fascism? This course will examine the works of the most innovative and controversial writers in the canon, including Mary Wollstonecraft, Immanuel Kant, Catherine Macaulay, Adam Smith, Voltaire, Rousseau, Locke, Leibniz, among others. We will also address the forgotten legions of men and women who comprised the international republic of letters, and who frequented the (sometimes respectable, often scandalous) coffeehouses, salons, and secret societies of the eighteenth century. With our discursive focus on political hegemony, civil liberties, religious tolerance, gender, social development, sexuality, and race, a prior background is neither required nor expected.

HIST 241 Dark Continent: Europe 1914-1991

Melo

An exploration of the dramatic and turbulent years 1914-1991 — Europe's "short" twentieth century — in which the European continent experienced one extraordinary crisis after another: World War I; the tragic and violent implementations of communist and fascist ideologies in Russia, Germany, and Italy; the Great Depression; World War II; the Holocaust; the loss of western European empires and the creation of the Soviet empire in eastern Europe; the Cold War; dissonant and dissonant developments in high culture and popular culture; and finally, the regeneration of democratic politics and capitalist economies in the west, followed by the astonishing collapse of communism in the east.

HIST 246 Vikings, Icons, Mongols, and Tsars

Tumarkin

A multicultural journey through the turbulent waters of medieval and early modern Russia, from the Viking incursions of the ninth century and the entrance of the East Slavs into the splendid and mighty Byzantine world, to the Mongol overlordship of Russia, the rise of Moscow, and the legendary reign of Ivan the Terrible. We move eastward as the Muscovite state conquers the immense reaches of Siberia by the end of the turbulent seventeenth century, when the young and restless Tsar Peter the Great travels to Western Europe to change Russia forever. We will focus on khans, princes, tsars, nobles, peasants and monasteries, social norms and gender roles, icons and church architecture; and a host of Russian saints and sinners.

Prerequisite: None

Unit: 1.0

HIST 247 Splendor and Serfdom: Russia Under the Romanovs

Tumarkin

NOT OFFERED IN 2005-06. An exploration of Imperial Russia over the course of two tumultuous centuries, from the astonishing reign of Peter the Great at the start of the eighteenth century, to the implosion of the Russian monarchy under the unfortunate Nicholas II, early in the twentieth, as Russia plunged toward revolution. St. Petersburg — the stunning and gloriously birthplace of Russia's modern history and the symbol of Russia's attempt to impose order on a vast, multiethnic empire — is a focus of this course. We will also emphasize the everyday lives of peasants and nobles; the vision and ideology of autocracy; Russia's brilliant intelligentsia; and the glory of her literary canon.

Prerequisite: None
Distribution: Historical Studies
Semester: N/O
Unit: 1.0

HIST 248 The Soviet Union: A Tragic Colossus

Tumarkin

The Soviet Union, the most immense empire in the world, hurled through the twentieth century, shaping major world events. This course will follow the grand, extravagant, and often brutal socialist experiment from its fragile inception in 1917 through the rule of Lenin, Stalin, Khrushchev, Brezhnev and Gorbachev, after which the vast Soviet empire broke apart with astonishing speed. We will contrast utopian constructivist visions of the glorious communist future with Soviet reality. Special emphasis on Soviet political culture, the trauma of the Stalin years and World War II, and the travails of everyday life.

HIST 251 Continent in Crisis: North America During the Age of Revolution

Shiedley

An examination of the forces that shattered British colonial society during the eighteenth century and gave rise to a new nation in North America. We will investigate the causes of the American Revolution from a continental perspective, paying careful attention to the experiences of Native Americans as well as colonists having European and African roots, and explore the consequences of this transformative event for all inhabitants of the new Republic.

Prerequisite: None
Distribution: Historical Studies
Semester: Spring
Unit: 1.0
HIST 253 First Peoples: An Introduction to Native American History
Shedley
A survey of the social, cultural, and political history of North America's native peoples from 1200 through the present. Case studies of particular nations will be used to explore a wide range of issues, including the politics of treaty making, the economic and environmental consequences of the fur trade, colonialism; the destruction of the Native American family; and the civil rights movement of the 1970s. In addition to historical scholarship, sources will include autobiography, fiction, and several cinematic depictions of Native American life. Prerequisite: None Distribution: Historical Studies Semester: Fall Unit: 1.0

HIST 257 History of Women and Gender in America
McCarthy
The history of American women, from the colonial period to the 1960s, with a focus on women's involvement in politics and on the changing nature of women's work. Topics include colonization and the Revolution; the construction of the private and public spheres; slavery and antislavery; immigration and ethnicity; women and war; the battle for suffrage; women's health and sexuality; and the civil rights and feminism. Prerequisite: None Distribution: Historical Studies Semester: Fall Unit: 1.0

HIST 258 Freedom and Dissent in American History
Auerbach
Freedom of speech since the founding of the nation, with special attention to the Constitutional boundaries of permissible dissent and the enduring tension between individual rights and state power in American society. Among the issues considered are radical protest; wartime censorship; forms of symbolic expression; obscenity and pornography; campus hate speech; political and sexual correctness. Prerequisite: None Distribution: Historical Studies Semester: Fall Unit: 1.0

HIST 261 World War II in Europe: History, Experience, and Memory
Melby
The Second World War was a defining event in the history of the twentieth century. An estimated 50 million men, women, and children died in a war that engulfed the globe and profoundly shaped the world in which we live. This course will focus on the military, political, social and cultural dimensions of the war in Europe and the USSR. Topics and themes include: Hitler's war aims, the uses of propaganda, civilian mobilization and "total" war, the Grand Alliance, racial policies and genocide, and the collaboration and resistance of civilians under Nazi occupation. The course will conclude with a survey of the ways in which the war has been, and continues to be, commemorated and debated in Britain, Russia, Germany, France and Austria. Prerequisite: None Distribution: Historical Studies Semester: Spring Unit: 1.0

HIST 264 The History of Precolonial Africa
Kapteijns
Precolonial Africa encompasses ancient agrarian kingdoms (such as Egypt and Merowe), city-states on the shores of sea and desert, and "nations without kings," with their own, unique social and political institutions. Students will learn about the material bases of these societies, as well as their social relations and cultural production, all the while familiarizing themselves with the rich array of written, oral, linguistic, and archeological sources available to the historian of Africa. After 1500, in the era of the European expansion, large parts of Africa were incorporated into the Atlantic tropical plantation complex through the Slave Trade. The enormous impact on Africa of this unprecedented forced migration of Africans to the Americas from c. 1500 to the 1880s will constitute the concluding theme. Prerequisite: None Distribution: Historical Studies Semester: Spring Unit: 1.0

HIST 265 History of Modern Africa
Kapteijns
NOT OFFERED IN 2005-06. Many of Africa's current characteristics are the legacy of colonial domination. We will therefore first study different kinds of colonies, from those settled by White planters to the "Cinderellas," in which colonial economic intervention was (by comparison) minimal and the struggle for independence less bloody. For the post-independence period, we will focus on the historical roots of such major themes as neo-colonialism, economic underdevelopment, ethnic conflict and genocide, HIV-AIDS, and the problems of the African state. However, Africa's enormous natural and human resources, its resilient and youthful population, and its vibrant popular culture -- a strong antidote against Afro-pessimism -- will help us reflect on the future of this vast continent. Prerequisite: None Distribution: Historical Studies Semester: N/O Unit: 1.0

HIST 269 Japan, the Great Powers and East Asia, 1853–1993
Matsuda
NOT OFFERED IN 2005-06. The history of Japan's international relations from the age of empire through the end of the Cold War. Topics include: imperialism and nationalism in East Asia, diplomacy and military strategy, international economic competition, cultural and "civilizational" conflicts, World War II in East Asia, the US-Japan alliance, and the politics of war memory. Special emphasis on Japan's relations with the United States, China, Russia, and Korea. Prerequisite: None Distribution: Historical Studies Semester: N/O Unit: 1.0

HIST 272 Political Economy of Development in Colonial and Postcolonial South Asia
Rao
India's recent "India Shining" publicity program announced the government's ambition to play a leading role in the global marketplace. Participation in the global economy is, however, a relatively recent understanding of appropriate economic development. This course introduces students to the complex politico-economic landscape of the subcontinent by examining how the idea of development changes in modern Indian history. How is the idea of development embedded in contexts of politics, society and culture? How do competing ideologies and interests influence the understanding of development? The course considers these questions by examining themes such as: the colonial state's construction of a railway network; Gandhi's critique of industrialization; Nehru's vision of an industrial economy; the Green Revolution; the onset of economic deregulation in 1991 and ensuing problems facing India today. Prerequisite: None Distribution: Historical Studies Semester: Fall Unit: 1.0
HIST 273 South Asian Civilizations
Rao
This course introduces the history of the south Asian subcontinent from antiquity to modern times. Following a broadly chronological trajectory, we consider the classical antiquity of the Mauryas and Guptas, the Muslim empires of the Delhi Sultanate and the Mughals, and the period of European colonialism until independence. Themes include: the emergence of states, the arrival of Islam, the rise of cities, the contradictions of colonial rule, and the struggle for independence. A range of primary materials will present the perspectives of diverse actors such as rulers, merchants, women, reformers, workers, colonial officials and nationalists.
Prerequisite: None

Unit: 1.0

HIST 275 The Emergence of Ethnic Identities in Modern South Asia
Rao
South Asian society has long been represented by rigid systems of hierarchy. Caste, most famously, has been represented as an inexorable determinant of social possibility. Yet, what are the ways in which people actually identify themselves, and to what extent is hierarchical identification a product of South Asia’s modern history? This course explores the problems of social and cultural difference in South Asia. How do modern institutions such as the census and electoral politics shape the way in which these problems are perceived today? What are the effects of the introduction of English education? Caste will be the primary form of identity that we explore, but we also consider class, religion and gender in seeking to unravel the complex notion of ethnicity.
Prerequisite: None

Unit: 1.0

HIST 276 The City in South Asia
Rao
Powerfully represented through the medium of Bollywood films, Indian cities are currently undergoing massive demographic and spatial transformations. This course considers the historical development of the South Asian city in conjunction with a wide variety of popular representations of the city. How did colonial rule affect the narrative of industrialization, migration, and urban expansion that is traditionally used to analyze urbanization? How do representations of city and country change from the colonial period to the present and, in turn, affect the processes of urbanization? We will consider examples of colonial port cities, cantonment cities and older “native” cities. We also consider a range of sources: scholarly literature, Bollywood films such as Shree 420 and Satya, and the stories of Saas and Havan Manto and Rohinton Mistry.

HIST 278 Reform and Revolution in China, 1800-2000
Giersch
From shattering nineteenth-century rebellions to the 1997 incorporation of Hong Kong, few places have experienced tumult and triumph in the same massive measures as China. This course surveys major cultural and political transformations, including failed Qing reforms, the 1911 revolution, social and intellectual movements, and the creation of the People’s Republic under Mao and Deng.
Prerequisite: None

HIST 279/379 Heresy and Popular Religion in the Middle Ages
Ramsayer
NOT OFFERED IN 2005-06. This course looks at popular religious beliefs and practices in medieval Europe, including miracles, martyrdom and asceticism, saints and their shrines, pilgrimages, relics, curses, witchcraft, and images of heaven and hell. It seeks to understand popular religion both on its own terms, as well as in relation to the Church hierarchy. It also examines the basis for religious dissent in the form of both intellectual and social heresies, which led to religious repression and the establishment of the Inquisition in the later Middle Ages. This course may be taken as 279 or, with additional assignments, as 379.
Prerequisite: 279: none; 379: by permission of the instructor.

HIST 281/381 Dream of the Red Chamber: An Introduction to Chinese Society, ca 1650–1800
Giersch
We will read one of China’s great novels, Dream of the Red Chamber, and use it as an entrée into the social, political and economic history of the early and high Qing periods. Cao Xueqin’s engaging tale describes in rich detail the fictional Jia family, a wealthy, powerful clan whose political connections and social status closely resembled those of Cao’s own family. While reading about the Jias, we will simultaneously use historical studies to deepen our understanding of family life, gender relations, religious devotion, sexuality, education, commerce, and political power during one of China’s most dynamic periods. This course may be taken as either 281 or, with additional assignments, as 381.
Prerequisite: 281: none; 381: by permission of the instructor.

Unit: 1.0

HIST 284 The Middle East in Modern History
Kapitza
NOT OFFERED IN 2005-06. Themes in the history of the Modern Middle East from 1914 to the present. After World War I, European powers dominated the area and carved it up into the modern nation states that we know today. We will study the political history of these states up to the present, but will focus especially on the historical roots and causes of crucial social developments and conflicts. Thus we will study the impact of the oil boom, labor migration, urbanization, the changing roles of women, and the emergence of politicized fundamentalism. Islam, as well as aspects of the Palestinian-Israeli conflict, the Iranian Revolution, the Lebanese Civil War, and the Gulf War. Our emphasis will be on the Arab Middle East.
Prerequisite: None

Unit: 1.0

HIST 286 History of the Middle East, c. 600–1918
Rollman
NOT OFFERED IN 2005-06. Introduction to the political, religious, cultural and social history of the Middle East from the emergence of Islam to the disintegration of the Ottoman Empire in World War I. Themes include: Pre-Islamic Arabia, the life of the Prophet, the expansion of Islam, the Umayyad Empire, Shi’ism and other movements of political and religious dissent, the Abbasid Empire and its successor states, and the expansion of Europe into the Middle East.
Prerequisite: None
Distribution: Historical Studies

Unit: 1.0

HIST 287 History of Everyday Life in the Modern Middle East and North Africa
Rollman
Using sources such as legal documents, memoirs, chronicles, literature and monographs from several disciplines, the course will explore in depth the quality and rhythms of life in a variety of urban and rural settings through an investigation of specific institutions, patterns of behavior, modes of work and residence, popular entertainment and popular culture. Students will study specific cases to develop an appreciation of how people of all classes experienced and responded to critical issues in modern history, such as the growing power of the centralizing state, urbanization, economic scarcity and opportunity, changing patterns of religious practice, gender relations, identity, the challenge of Western secular values, the impact of national and regional politics, and the uneven but inexorable integration of the region into the global economy.
Prerequisite: None

HIST 290 Morocco: History and Culture (Wintersession in Morocco)
Rollman
An introduction to Moroccan culture, history, and society through experiential and classroom learning. Students will participate in seminars and attend lectures given by Moroccan faculty at the Center for Crosscultural Learning in Rabat. Program themes include women in private and public life, Berber culture, Islam, Arabic, Morocco’s Jewish heritage and history, and the legacy of European cultural rule. Students will travel as a group to the central and southern regions of the country to study historic sites and contemporary life and culture in a variety of rural and urban settings. Not offered every year. Subject to Dean’s Office approval.
Prerequisite: None. Application required.

HIST 291 Marching Toward 1968: The Pivotal Year
Auerbach
Within a single year the Tet offensive in Vietnam, the assassinations of Martin Luther King, Jr. and Robert F. Kennedy, and the election of Richard M. Nixon transformed American foreign and domestic policy, ending an era of liberal internationalism, domestic reform, and generational protest. Exploration of how, and why, "The Sixties" happened. Consideration of recent political and intellectual trends that reflect the continuing impact of the 1960s on American public life.

Prerequisite: 204 or an AP score of 4 or 5.
Distribution: Historical Studies

HIST 294 Europe in the Age of Revolution, 1789-1900
Meloy
Beginning with the French and Industrial Revolutions, this course explores the history of Europe during a period of cataclysmic political, economic, social, and cultural change. We will examine the evolution of liberal and nationalist ideas in the early nineteenth century; trace the growth of intimate society among European nation-states in the mid-nineteenth century; and assess the impact of economic and technological change on society, culture, and politics in the era of the century. Finally, we will explore how Europeans thought of themselves and related to non-Europeans. Major topics include Napoleon, the revolutions of 1848, imperialism and German and Italian unification. In addition to traditional historical accounts, the course incorporates a variety of primary sources, including novels, memoirs and visual art.

Prerequisite: None
Distribution: Historical Studies

HIST 301 Seminar, Women of Russia: A Portrait Gallery
Timarkin
An exploration of the tragic, complex, inspiring fate of Russian women in the nineteenth and twentieth centuries, a period that spans the Russian Empire at its height, the Russian Revolution of 1917, and the Soviet experiment. We will read about Russian peasants, nuns, princesses, feminists, workers, revolutionaries, poets, partisans, and prostitutes, among others in our stellar cast of characters. Sources include memoirs, biographies, great works of literature, and the visual arts.

Prerequisite: Normally open to juniors and seniors who have taken a grade II unit in History and/or a grade II unit in a relevant area/subject matter.

HIST 306 Seminar, Buying the American Dream: Consumer Culture in the United States
McCarthy
This course will examine the history of consumer culture in the United States from the colonial period to the late twentieth century. Paying special attention to the rise of the marketplace and the emergence of a culture of mass consumption, we will consider the development of American consumer behavior, such as shopping, saving, and working, and the values that reinforced those social practices. We also will explore the positive and negative implications of consumer culture including increased individuality and freedom of choice versus rampant materialism and greater inequality. Other topics include the rise of advertising, the advent of department stores, and the twentieth-century credit revolution.

Prerequisite: Normally open to juniors and seniors who have taken a grade II unit in History and/or a grade II unit in a relevant area/subject matter.

HIST 316 Seminar, Authority and Authenticity in Native American History
Schedley
An in-depth exploration of diversity and difference as factors which shaped the history of North America's native peoples from the sixteenth century through the era of "removal." Particular attention will be paid to gender, class, ethnicity, and belief as modes of organizing power within American Indian societies east of the Mississippi River. We will consider how these elements have influenced relations with non-Indians and determined the very nature of the sources historians use to interpret the Native American past.

Prerequisite: Normally open to juniors and seniors who have taken a grade II unit in History and/or a grade II unit in a relevant area/subject matter.
Distribution: Historical Studies

HIST 317 Seminar, The Historical Construction of American Manhood, 1600-1900
Schedley
NOT OFFERED IN 2005-06. From Nat Turner to Frederick Douglass, Thomas Jefferson to Teddy Roosevelt, the history of American men is well known. But does manhood itself have a history? Drawing on autobiography, fiction, personal correspondence and visual evidence, we will explore the diverse and changing meanings attached to masculinity in America from the seventeenth through the nineteenth centuries. What forces have shaped male identities in colonial America and the United States and what impact have those identities had on men's lives and actions? Topics include: family, work, and the myth of the self-made man. Special attention will be paid to race, class, and region as sources of variation and conflict in the historical construction of American manhood.

Prerequisite: Normally open to juniors and seniors who have taken a grade II unit in History and/or a grade II unit in a relevant area/subject matter.

HIST 332 Seminar, Dangerous Relations: USSR and the World, From Stalin to Gorbachev
Timarkin
NOT OFFERED IN 2005-06. The USSR was America's superpower rival in a prolonged and deadly nuclear arms race. Beginning with the Nazi-Soviet Pact of 1939, and ending with the spectacular demise of east European communism and the collapse of the USSR in 1991, this seminar on the Soviet Union in world politics spans the entire Cold War. What accounts for the USSR's extraordinary success in sovietizing eastern Europe just when the US had a monopoly on the atomic bomb? Was ideology or national interest the driving force of Soviet foreign policy? What role did the character of Soviet leaders play in determining the USSR's international affairs? The seminar will conclude by exploring the ways in which the imperatives of a global communist empire both empowered and ultimately destroyed the USSR.

Prerequisite: Normally open to juniors and seniors who have taken a grade II unit in History and/or a grade II International Relations course.

Distribution: Historical Studies

HIST 364 Seminar. Women in Islamic Society: Historical Perspectives Kapetanis

NOT OFFERED IN 2005-06. In the last decade, Muslim women scholars and writers have become major contributors to the study (and history) of women in Islamic societies. They have undertaken a critique of older (including Western feminist) scholarship and proposed new theoretical approaches and methods. This seminar will focus on this new historiography and the insights it provides into the history of women and gender issues from the time of the Prophet to the present. Student research papers will focus on concrete case studies of women in specific Islamic societies and time periods, from North Africa and Western Europe to South Africa, Afghanistan and China.

HIST 371 Seminar. Chinese Frontier Experience, 1600–1990 Giersch

Much of China's vast and ethnically diverse territory was conquered after 1644. Nationalistic histories describe conquest in rosy terms in order to legitimate rule over Tibetans and other minorities. This course explores the social, military, economic and ideological realities -- and legacies -- of conquest. Readings from U.S. history provide a comparative perspective.

Prerequisite: Normally open to juniors and seniors who have taken a grade II unit in History and/or a grade II unit in a relevant area/subject matter.

HIST 377 Seminar. The City in Latin America Osorio

NOT OFFERED IN 2005-06. Urbanity has long been central to Latin American cultures. This seminar examines the historical development of Latin American cities from the Roman principes governing the grid pattern imposed by the Spanish in the sixteenth century, through the development of the twentieth-century, post-modern megalopolis. The seminar's three main objectives are (1) to develop a theoretical framework within which to analyze and interpret the history and historical study of Latin American cities; (2) to provide a basic overview of the historical development of cities in the context of Latin American law, society, and culture; (3) to subject to critical analysis some of the theoretical "models" (i.e. Baroque, Classical, Dependency, Modernism and so on) developed to interpret the evolution and workings of Latin American cities.

Prerequisite: Normally open to juniors and seniors who have taken a grade II unit in History and/or a grade II unit in a relevant area/subject matter.

HIST 378 Seminar. Women and Social Movements in Latin America Osorio

NOT OFFERED IN 2005-06. This seminar examines the historical development of women's movements in Latin America from the nineteenth century through the 1990s. We will examine the local political and ideological events that shaped women's movements and feminism(s) in the region. Topics include women's early claims to equal education and the development of the ideologies of 'women's rights' and social motherhood around 1900; women in democracy and the search for social justice from the 1930s-1950s; women's role in revolutions and countermovements from the late 1950s through the 1970s; the advent of international feminism in the context of national liberation and redemocratization after 1974, and neoliberalism and globalization.

Prerequisite: Normally open to juniors and seniors who have taken a grade II unit in History and/or a grade II unit in a relevant area/subject matter.

Related Courses

For Credit Towards the Major

A student may, with approval of her advisor, petition the chair of the history department to receive credit toward the major for one related course outside the department's offerings taken at Wellesley or an institution at which a Wellesley student may cross-register.

Directions for Election

Most 200-level courses in the department are open to first-year students. Seminars are ordinarily limited to 15 students, non-majors as well as majors, who meet the prerequisite.
International Relations

INTERDEPARTMENTAL MAJORS IN INTERNATIONAL RELATIONS – ECONOMICS, INTERNATIONAL RELATIONS – HISTORY, INTERNATIONAL RELATIONS – POLITICAL SCIENCE

Available to members of the classes of 2007 and beyond, Members of the class of 2007 may choose between these majors and the interdisciplinary major in international relations described below.

Director: Velenchik (Economics)
Steering Committee: Kapteijn (History), Moon (Political Science), Velenchik (Economics)

These majors in international relations (IR) are designed to provide students with the breadth necessary for an interdisciplinary approach to the study of international relations, as well as with substantive training in one of three component disciplines (economics, history, and political science). Students elect one of three majors: IR-economics (IREC), IR-history (IRH), or IR-political science (IRPS). Students may select their major advisor from among the faculty in their departmental major.

Students who elect one of these IR majors may not combine it with a second major in the same department – e.g. students may not double major in IR-economics and economics. Other double majors are permissible.

IR majors consist of 14 units of course work – five core courses plus nine courses in one of the three tracks. In addition to this course work, all IR students are required to demonstrate advanced proficiency in a modern language, normally defined as two units of language study beyond the minimum required by the College. Language courses do not count towards the minimum 14 courses.

Five core courses: All students majoring in IR must take the following courses:
- ECON 101, ECON 102, ECON 213, 214, or 220
- HIST 205, and POL3 221

It is strongly recommended that students complete all core courses by the end of the sophomore year.

Nine courses in one of the following majors:

Economics
Students who elect the IR-Economics major take the following courses in addition to the IR core:
- a) ECON 103/SOC 190, ECON 201, ECON 202, and ECON 203.
- b) At least two of the following electives:
  - ECON 314 (International Macroeconomics)
  - ECON 314 (International Trade Theory)
  - ECON 320 (Economic Development)
- c) One intermediate or advanced history course dealing with a country or region outside the United States or with international or diplomatic history
- One 300-level political science course in an area related to economic issues or policies
- One additional course in Africana studies, anthropology, history, political science, sociology or women's studies, dealing with a particular country or region, or with relations among nations, or with transnational institutions or phenomena.

History
Students who elect the IR-history major take the following courses in addition to the IR core:
- Two history courses dealing with the period before 1800
- Three history courses dealing with the modern history of countries or regions
- Two courses dealing with modern international history to be selected in consultation with advisor
- One international history seminar

(Three of these eight history courses, including one pre-1800 course, must focus on one region of the world; at least three courses must deal with the non-Western world; and at least two must be at the 300 level)

- One additional 200- or 300-level course in Africana studies, anthropology, economics, political science, sociology or women's studies

Political Science
Students who elect the IR-political science major take the following courses in addition to the IR core:
- Five political science courses in international relations (i.e. POL3 courses or POL2 courses that may count as POL3), at least two of which must be at the 300 level and one of which must be a seminar
- Two political science courses in comparative politics
- Either POL2 202 or POL2 204
- One of the following area studies courses:
  - POL2 205, 206, 207, 208, 209, or 211
- One political science course in American politics or in political theory or statistics and data analysis
- One additional 200- or 300-level course in Africana studies, anthropology, economics, history, sociology, or women's studies

With the approval of the IR director and the chair of the department in which she is majoring, a student may count up to two Wellesley courses taken outside the departments of economics, history, or political science towards the nine courses in her major. Attention is particularly drawn to IR-related courses offered in the departments of Africana studies, anthropology, sociology, and women's studies.

IR majors are strongly encouraged to spend at least one semester in a study abroad program. Transfer credits from study abroad programs must be approved by the appropriate department chair. (If the transfer credits come from an international relations department, however, they may be approved by the IR director.) At least two 300-level units must be completed at Wellesley.

Honors in IR-Economics, IR-History and IR-Political Science
The policies governing eligibility for honors work in IR-Economics, IR-History, or IR-Political Science are set by the individual departments. Students interested in pursuing honors should consult the relevant departmental entry in the Bulletin.

Advanced Placement/International Baccalaureate
The IR program’s policy about AP/IB credits follows that established by the relevant department. Please consult directions for election in the Departments of Economics, History, and Political Science. In no case do AP credits count towards the minimum major in IR.

THE INTERDEPARTMENTAL MAJOR IN INTERNATIONAL RELATIONS
Available to members of the classes of 2006 and 2007
Students declaring the major should choose an advisor from among the director, the steering committee, and the faculty teaching courses in the core.
The international relations major consists of ten units, which must include the following:
1. Core Courses: The IR major requires core courses in economics, history, and political science. Students must take a minimum of three of the following courses; at least one core course must be taken in each department:
   a. ECON 213 (International Finance and Macroeconomic Policy); ECON 214 (formerly ECON 212) (Trade and Migration)
   b. HIST 103 (History in Global Perspective); HIST 205 (Making of the Modern World Order); HIST 244 (Cold War in Europe); HIST 269 (Japan, the Great Powers and East Asia); HIST 294 (Rise of the National State in Europe); HIST 295 (Strategy and Diplomacy of the Great Powers since 1789); HIST 296 (The Cold War, 1945-1991); HIST 299 (The American Century: The United States in the World Since 1900).
   c. POL3 221 (World Politics); POL3 222 (Comparative Foreign Policies)
   Because these courses lay the foundation for more advanced work in the subject, all three should normally be completed by the end of the fifth semester. Students planning to study abroad should, if possible, complete these courses before leaving Wellesley.

II. Language Proficiency: The international relations major requires a level of proficiency in a modern language beyond that required by the College’s foreign language requirement. Students may indicate their attainment of this enhanced proficiency in one of three ways:
   1. Language Track: A student may take two foreign language courses beyond the College’s foreign language requirement in the same language used to fulfill that requirement (above the intermediate level) to be counted as two units toward the major in international relations. This requirement will usually be met by the completion of two units of language study at the third-year college level. Students who elect this option may take literature or culture courses (e.g. GER 274 (Postwar German Culture)) that require, at a minimum, completion of the second-year level in the language for enrollment and are taught in the foreign language.
   2. Nonlanguage Track I: A student who has fulfilled the College language requirement by virtue of being educated in a native language that is not English has the following option. She may choose, with the approval of her advisor, to use her native language to fulfill the language proficiency requirement of the major. This student will not be counting any language courses toward the ten units required for the major.
   3. Nonlanguage Track II: A student completing a second major in a language department or area studies program may choose, with the approval of her advisor, to indicate her enhanced proficiency through the completion of the second major, without counting her advanced language courses toward the ten units required for her international relations major.

III. Electives: Students presenting language courses as units toward the major must select five units as electives, while students fulfilling the language proficiency requirement without presenting language courses as units must select seven units as electives. The elective courses must include:
   1. Two 300-level units, which must be completed at Wellesley, and only one of which may be a 350, 360, or 370
   2. At least one but not more than two units that focus on a specific country or countries within a region, normally a country or region where the student’s second language is used. Courses that deal with the international relations of a country or region (e.g. HIST 296: Japan, the Great Powers, and East Asia) do not count towards this area studies requirement and limitation.

There are many courses throughout the curriculum that may be counted as electives in the international relations major. In addition to courses in economics, history, and political science, students are encouraged to explore courses offered in African studies, anthropology, peace and justice studies, sociology, and women’s studies. If a student has a question about whether a particular course in these or other departments may count for the major, she should consult with the program director.

IV. Concentration: In order to give the major a focus, students will designate, in consultation with their advisors, a concentration on a specific theme or issue within international relations. Examples of such concentrations include international security, international political economy, international law and organization, global development, gender in world politics, human rights, international environmental studies, foreign policy analysis, and the international politics of a particular region (e.g. the European community). The concentration may consist of a group of courses that relate to the theme and/or papers or other substantive work completed in any courses counted for the major. Normally, students will plan a concentration in their junior and senior years when preparing to undertake advanced work in international relations.

Honors in International Relations
A student whose GPA in courses in her international relations major is 3.5 or higher may apply to write an honors thesis. The application, which is available from the director, should be submitted in April of the student’s junior year. Students should have identified a topic and an advisor before applying. The applications are evaluated by the IR steering committee. Students planning to study abroad should discuss their interest in honors with their director and with potential advisors during their sophomore year, and plan to submit their application in April of their junior year abroad.

Department of Italian Studies

ITAS 101-102 Elementary Italian

Laviosa, Parussa, Ward
These courses focus on the development of basic language skills. Viewing of language video programs, TV programs and films, listening to traditional and modern songs, and reading of passages and short stories offer an introduction to Italy and its culture. Each semester earns one unit of credit. However, both semesters must be completed satisfactorily to receive credit for either course.

| Prerequisite: None |
| Distribution: None |
| Semester: Fall, Spring |
| Unit: 1.0 |

ITAS 103 Intensive Elementary Italian

Paisini
This course is for students with little or no previous knowledge of Italian. It covers the same material as ITAS 101 and 102 over five class periods per week. The course aims to develop skills in speaking, oral and reading comprehension, writing, and the fundamentals of grammar. This is a demanding course developed especially for students with a strong interest in Italian Studies and who intend to spend a semester or year abroad.

| Prerequisite: None |
| Distribution: None |
| Semester: Fall, Spring |
| Unit: 1.25 |

ITAS 201-202 Intermediate Italian

Laviosa, Parussa, Ward
The aim of these courses is to develop students’ fluency in spoken and written Italian. The reading of short stories, articles from Italian newspapers, and selected texts on Italian culture as well as the writing of compositions are used to promote critical and analytical skills. Listening is practiced through the viewing of Italian films, cultural videos, or TV programs. Both reading and listening activities are followed by in-class discussions. Three periods. Each semester earns one unit of credit. However, both semesters must be completed satisfactorily to receive credit for either course.

| Prerequisite: 101-102 (201 for 202) or permission of instructor. |
| Distribution: Language and Literature |
| Semester: Fall, Spring |
| Unit: 1.0 |

ITAS 202 Intermediate Italian in Rome

Staff
NOT OFFERED IN 2005-06. OFFERED IN 2006-07. Held over Winter session in Rome, the aim of this intensive courses is to develop students’ fluency in spoken and written Italian. The reading of short stories, articles from Italian newspapers, and selected texts on Italian culture are used to promote critical and analytical skills. Listening is practiced through the viewing of Italian films. Both reading and listening activities are followed by in-class discussions. Students must have received credit for ITAS 201 in order to receive credit for ITAS 202. Not offered every year. Subject to Dean’s Office approval.

| Prerequisite: 101, 102, 201 or permission of instructor. |
| Distribution: Language and Literature |
| Semester: N/O. Offered in 2006-07. |
| Unit: 1.0 |

ITAS 203 Intensive Intermediate Italian

Paisini
This course is for students who have taken ITAS 103 or both ITAS 101 and ITAS 102. The course covers the same material as ITAS 201 and ITAS 202 over five class periods per week. The aim of the course is to improve and strengthen the skills acquired in Elementary Italian through reading authentic literary and journalistic texts, viewing of contemporary films, writing compositions, and grammar review. This is a demanding course developed especially for students with a strong interest in Italian Studies and who intend to spend a semester or year abroad.

| Prerequisite: ITAS 103 or both ITAS 101 and ITAS 102 |
| Distribution: Language and Literature |
| Semester: Spring |
| Unit: 1.25 |

ITAS 211 Introduction to Italian Cultural Studies

Laviosa
NOT OFFERED IN 2005-06. Topic: Women in Italy. This course explores the works of women writers, philosophers, sociologists, educators, political activists, legislators, film directors and singers from the 1920s up to today. Feminist issues are discussed through selected literary texts, historical readings, essays on Italian legislation, film/documentary, lullabies, feminist rock and pop songs. Women’s art and roles, rights and work, health and reproduction, prostitution and crime, fashion and beauty myths, careerism and (il)maleism, normativity and migration are presented through various media in a broad socio-political-historical context as well as in a cross-disciplinary cultural studies approach.

| Prerequisite: 201 as a prerequisite and 202 as corequisite or permission of instructor. |
| Distribution: Language and Literature |
| Semester: N/O |
| Unit: 1.0 |

ITAS 212 Italian Women Directors: The Female Authorial Voice in Italian Cinema (in English)

Laviosa
This course examines the films of five major Italian women directors across three artistic generations: Elvira Notari in the silent film era; Liliana Cavani and Lina Wertmüller from the 1960s to the 1990s; Francesca Archibugi and Roberta Torre in the 1990s. Neither fascist cinema nor neorealism fostered female talents, so it was only with the emergence of feminism and the women’s movement of the 1960s and 1970s that a space for female voices in Italian cinema was created. The course will explore how women directors give form to their directorial signatures in film, focusing on their films’ formal features and narrative themes in the light of their socio-historical context.

| Prerequisite: None |
| Distribution: Arts, Music, Theatre, Film, Video |
| Semester: Fall |
| Unit: 1.0 |

ITAS 261 Italian Cinema (in English)

Viano
The first half of this course aims to survey Italian cinema through an examination of films (e.g. Bicycle Thief) and directors (e.g. Fellini) unanimously regarded as landmarks of the history of motion pictures. The second half will focus on the evolution and socio-cultural ramifications of a specific genre. We will study La Commedia all’Italiana (Comedy Italian style), one of the genres that made Italian cinema marketable abroad. In addition to regular class meetings, students are required to attend a three-hour weekly film showing.

| Prerequisite: Permission of instructor required. |
| Distribution: Arts, Music, Theatre, Film, Video or Language and Literature |
| Semester: Spring |
| Unit: 1.0 |

ITAS 262 Religion and Spirituality in Italian Cinema (in English)

Viano
NOT OFFERED IN 2005-06. Religious imagery, spiritual concerns, and depictions of the church are common elements in many Italian films. Making use of the most well-known and thought-provoking among them, the course will chart the presence of religion and spirituality in Italian culture, as well as explore the sacred as a cinematic genre. We will watch films by directors such as Rossellini, Fellini, Bertolucci, and Cavani. The several films depicting the figure of St. Francis, spanning the period 1917-89, will give us the opportunity to examine different periods of film history. In addition to regular class meetings, students are required to attend a three-hour weekly film showing.

| Prerequisite: Permission of instructor required. |
| Distribution: Arts, Music, Theatre, Film, Video or Language and Literature |
| Semester: N/O |
| Unit: 1.0 |

ITAS 263 Dante (in English)

Jacoff
The course offers students an introduction to Dante and his culture. The centrality and encyclopedic nature of Dante’s Divine Comedy make it a paradigmatic work for students of the Middle Ages. Since Dante has profoundly influenced several writers of the twentieth and seventeenth centuries, knowledge of the Comedy illuminates modern literature as well. This course presumes no special background and attempts to create a context in which Dante’s poetry can be carefully explored.

| Prerequisite: None |
| Distribution: Language and Literature |
| Semester: Fall |
| Unit: 1.0 |

ITAS 271 The Construction of Italy as a Nation

Ward
The course aims, first, to give students who wish to continue their study of Italian the chance to practice and refine their skills; and second, to introduce students to one of the major themes of Italian culture: namely, the role played by Italian intellectuals in the construction of Italy as a nation. We will read how Dante, Petrarch, and Machiavelli imagined Italy as a nation before it came into existence in 1606; how the nation came to be unified; and how the experience of unification has come to represent a controversial point of reference for twentieth-century Italy. Other figures to be studied will include Benso, Castiglione, Foscolo, Gramsci, Tomasi di Lampedusa, D’Annunzio, Visconti, Levi, Blasetti, and Rossellini.

Prerequisite: 202, 203, 211 or permission of instructor.
Distribution: Language and Literature
Semester: Fall
Unit: 1.0

ITAS 272 Small Books, Big Ideas. A Journey through Italian Identities

Parusia

Unlike other European literatures, contemporary Italian literature lacks a major work of fiction representing the nation’s cultural identity. Rather, Italian literature boasts the small book, brief unclassifiable narratives that express the variety and complexity of Italian culture. Realistic novels or philosophical short stories, memoirs or literary essays, these works are a fine balance between a number of literary genres and, as such, are a good entranceway into the multifaceted and contradictory identity of Italy as a nation. The course will combine a survey of contemporary Italian literature with a theoretical analysis of how Italian identity has been represented in works by Moravia, Calvino, Ortese, and others.

Prerequisite: 201 or permission of instructor.
Distribution: Language and Literature
Semester: Spring
Unit: 1.0

ITAS 273 Italy in the 1960s

Ward

NOT OFFERED IN 2005-06. The 1960s were a period of great change in Italy. The major consequence of the economic boom of the late 1950s was to transform Italy from a predominantly agricultural to an industrialized nation. Through a study of literary and cinematic texts, the course will examine this process in detail. Time will also be given to the consequences of the radical changes that took place: namely, internal immigration, consumerism, new roles for intellectuals, resistance to modernity, neo-fascism, student protest. Authors to be studied will include Italo Calvino, Luchino Visconti, Pier Paolo Pasolini, Ermanno Olmi, Umberto Eco and authors from the Neo-Avant Garde movement.

Prerequisite: 202 or by permission of instructor.
Distribution: Language and Literature
Semester: N/O
Unit: 1.0

ITAS 309 Italian-Jewish Identity

Parusia

NOT OFFERED IN 2005-06. In the light of events like the high-profile trial of a Nazi war criminal and the Pope’s encyclical letter on the responsibilities of Christians in the Holocaust, this course aims to discuss the question of Jewish identity in contemporary Italian culture. Students will read prose and poetry, essays and articles, as well as watch films that address issues such as religious and national identity in a culturally, racially, and linguistically homogeneous country like Italy. The course will also give students an overview of the formation and transformation of the Jewish community in Italian society. In addition to well-known Jewish Italian writers like Primo Levi and Giorgio Bassani, students will read pertinent works by non-Jewish writers like Rosetta Loy.

Prerequisite: Permission of instructor.
Distribution: Language and Literature
Semester: N/O
Unit: 1.0

ITAS 310 Fascism and Resistance in Italy

Ward

This course examines the two fundamental political and cultural experiences of twentieth-century Italy: the twenty-year fascist regime and the resistance to it. We will study the origins of fascism in Italy’s participation in World War I and its colonial ambitions; we will follow the development of fascism over the two decades of its existence and ask to what extent it received the consensus of the Italian people. We will go on to examine the various ways in which Italians resisted fascism and the role the ideas that animated antifascist thinking had in the postwar period. Authors to be studied include: Marinetti, D’Annunzio, Pascoli, Croce, Gobetti, Rosselli, Bassani, Ginzburg, Levi, and Silone.

Prerequisite: 211 or 271 or 272 or permission of instructor.
Distribution: Language and Literature
Semester: Fall
Unit: 1.0

ITAS 311 Theatre, Politics, and the Arts in Renaissance Italy

Parusia

NOT OFFERED IN 2005-06. OFFERED IN 2006-07. The flourishing Italian theatre in the fifteenth and sixteenth centuries is an extraordinary and unmatched phenomenon in the history of Italian culture. In Italian courts and city squares, theatre became the center of a dynamic relationship between power and culture. Under the aegis of princes and popes, artists of all kinds worked for the stage to celebrate and criticize the same power that both fostered and limited their intellectual freedom. The stage became a mirror in which Renaissance Italy, while attempting to admire its beauty, came face to face with its distorted image. The course will include readings of major plays by Bibiena, Machiavelli, and Ariosto. Attention will also be given to the paintings, drawings, and sketches used in the staging of these plays.

Prerequisite: Permission of instructor.
Distribution: Language and Literature
Semester: N/O or offered in 2006-07.
Unit: 1.0

ITAS 312 Rinascimento e Rinascimento: Cultural Identities in Fifteenth- and Sixteenth-Century Italy

Parusia

The Renaissance witnessed deep cultural transformations that have influenced contemporary ways of thinking. Cultural notions of class, gender, and religion find their roots in the cultural debate that animated Italian courts during the fifteenth and sixteenth centuries. Exploring how these notions have been both shaped and challenged, the course will suggest that it is more appropriate to think of the Renaissance as a plural rather than a single entity. In particular, attention will be given to themes such as the donna angelica and the poet, the cortigiano and the peasant, the principe and the artist. The course will give students a solid introduction to the literature of the period and provide them with a theoretical framework for a thorough discussion of the material at hand.

Prerequisite: Permission of instructor.
Distribution: Language and Literature
Semester: Spring
Unit: 1.0

ITAS 314 The Other Half: History and Culture of the Italian South

Ward

NOT OFFERED IN 2005-06. This course aims to introduce advanced level students to the rich and varied cultural and historical landscape of the Italian South, the mezzogiorno. Taking as its starting point the medieval court of Frederick II and the deep-seated repercussions its influence had on Italian cultural life, the course goes on to examine the works of southern thinkers and writers like Giordano Bruno, Tommaso Campanella, and Giambattista Vico, as well as the Neapolitan Enlightenment and the Southern question. In addition, we will examine twentieth-century writers like Carlo Levi, Giuseppe Tomasi di Lampedusa, Giuseppe Verga, Leonardo Sciascia and Vincenzo Consolo, who were either born in southern Italy or have written about it.

Prerequisite: 211 or 271 or 272 or permission of instructor.
Distribution: Language and Literature
Semester: N/O
Unit: 1.0

ITAS 349 The Function of Narrative

Ward

NOT OFFERED IN 2005-06. Beginning with Boccaccio and going on to Manzoni and Verga, the course introduces students to the major figures of the Italian narrative tradition. We then go on to study twentieth-century narrative texts, all the time seeking answers to the question of why narrative is such a fundamental human need. Why, for example, do we narrate our experience of life and the sense we have of ourselves, even in the form of diaries? Do the stories we tell faithfully reflect reality or do they create it? The course concludes with a reflection on narrative technique in cinema illustrated by the films of Michelangelo Antonioni. Other authors to be studied may include: Fra Gonzaga, Calvino, Ceresa, Basy, Pasolini, Celati, and Benni.

Directions for Election

The Department of Italian Studies offers both a major and a minor.

The major in Italian studies offers students the opportunity to acquire fluency in the language and knowledge of the culture of Italy in a historical perspective. Students are strongly urged to begin Italian in their first year. ITAL 101-102 count toward the degree, but not the major. Students majoring in Italian are required to take nine units above the 100 level. One of such courses must be either 211, 271 or 272. In addition, one course must be taken outside the department, on a related topic to be decided by the student and her major advisor. Furthermore, two of the nine courses must be at the 300 level and be taken in the department. The requirement to take two courses at the 300 level may not be met by taking 350 (Research or Individual Study), 360 (Senior Thesis Research) or 370 (Senior Thesis). Students are encouraged to consult with the chair about the sequence of courses they will take. Courses given in translation count toward the major. Qualified students are encouraged to spend their junior year abroad in Italy on the Eastern Consortium program in Bologna (of which the Italian department is a participant) or on another approved program.

The Italian studies minor requires five units above the 100 level. Courses offered in translation count towards the minor.

Honors
The only route to honors in the major is writing a thesis and passing an oral examination. To be admitted to the thesis program, a student must have a grade point average of at least 3.5 in all work in the major field above the 100-level; the department may petition on her behalf if her GPA in the major is between 3.0 and 3.5. See Academic Distinctions.

Jewish Studies
AN INTERDEPARTMENTAL MAJOR AND MINOR

Director: Malino (History)
Visiting Assistant Professor: Ronell
Advisory Board: Bernat (Religion), Geller (Religion), Malino (History), Ronell (Jewish Studies)

The major in Jewish studies is designed to acquaint students with the many facets of Jewish civilization through an interdisciplinary study of Jewish religion, history, philosophy, art, literature, social and political institutions, and cultural patterns.

For the eight-unit major in Jewish studies, students must take courses pertaining both to the ancient and modern worlds and show proficiency in Hebrew (equivalent to at least two semesters at the second-year level). In certain cases, where students whose area of concentration necessitates another language (such as Arabic, French, Spanish, Yiddish, or Ladino), that language may be substituted for Hebrew in consultation with the student’s major advisor. In addition, students are expected to concentrate in some area or aspect of Jewish studies (such as religion, history, or Hebrew language and literature) by taking four courses above the 100 level, including at least two at the 300 level.

Advanced study of Hebrew may be pursued as a 350 course, and this may be used to fulfill the Language and Literature distribution requirement.

Majors devise their own programs in consultation with the director of the Jewish studies program and an appropriate faculty member from the student’s area of concentration. Courses with an asterisk (*) also require the permission of the instructor if the course is to be counted for Jewish studies.

In addition to Wellesley courses, students are encouraged to take courses at Brandeis University in the Department of Near Eastern and Judaic Studies which may be applicable to the Jewish studies major. These courses must be approved, in advance, by the corresponding department at Wellesley. See the director of Jewish studies for further details.

A minor in Jewish studies consists of five units from the following courses (of which at least one must be at the 300 level and no more than one at the 100 level): ANTH 242, 247; CLCV 240; HIST 217, 218, 219, 326, 327, 328, 343, 367; ITAS 309; REL 104, 105, 140, 202, 207, 240, 241, 242, 243, 244, 245, [247], 260, [302], [303], 305, 342; SPAN 252, 267, and 279. Units must be taken in at least two departments; in consultation with the director of the program in Jewish studies, a student can also arrange to take courses for inclusion in the Jewish studies minor in Brandeis University’s Department of Near Eastern and Judaic Studies.

Honors
The only route to honors in the major is writing a thesis and passing an oral examination. To be admitted to the thesis program, a student must have a grade point average of at least 3.5 in all work in the major field above the 100-level; the department may petition on her behalf if her GPA in the major is between 3.0 and 3.5. See Academic Distinctions.

The following courses are available in Jewish studies:

HEBR 101-102 Elementary Hebrew

Ronell

Introduction to Hebrew with emphasis on its contemporary spoken and written form. Practice in the skills of listening and speaking as well as reading and writing, together with systematic study of Hebrew grammar. Students will master a basic vocabulary of approximately 1,000 words, and become comfortable in the use of the present, past and future tenses, as well as basic verb patterns. Each semester earns one unit of credit; however, both semesters must be completed satisfactorily to receive credit for either course.

Prerequisite: None
Distribution: None
Semester: Fall, Spring
Unit: 1.0

HEBR 201-202 Intermediate Hebrew

Ronell

Building on the foundations of 101-102, the third semester will continue to develop skills in modern Hebrew. Students will broaden their knowledge of verb patterns, compound sentence structures and mixed tenses. Special emphasis will be placed on composition and oral reports. The fourth semester will focus on literature through reading and discussion of selected short pieces of prose and poetry. Some examples of classical, rabbinic, and liturgical Hebrew will also be analyzed. Students will be required to write short compositions inspired by their readings. Each semester earns one unit of credit; however, both semesters must be completed satisfactorily to receive credit for either course.

Prerequisite: 101-102
Distribution: Language and Literature
Semester: Fall, Spring
Unit: 1.0

HEBR 210 Jewish Fiction Around the Globe: Homeland and the Diaspora (in English)

Ronell

An exploration of contemporary Jewish fiction from diverse Jewish communities around the world including Israel, the US, Latin America, Germany, Eastern Europe, and South Africa. An examination of ideas of Homeland and the Diaspora, immigration and exile. Focus on the challenges of representing post-Holocaust Jewish identity in a global context. The authors to be read include Philip Roth, Shai Aivon, Aharon Appelfeld, Eva Hoffman, Ronit Matalon. The course is designed to provide students with an opportunity to develop a deeper understanding of global Jewish fiction today and its foundation in Hebraic literary tradition. All texts are in English translation.

Latin American Studies

AN INTERDEPARTMENTAL MAJOR

Director: Renjilian-Burgy (Spanish), Wasserspring (Political Science)

Faculty Committee: Agostil (Spanish), Elkins (Religion), Guzaskyte (Spanish), Ickes (History), Levitt (Sociology), McEwan (Economics), Oles (Art), Osorio (History), Renjilian-Burgy (Spanish), Roses (Spanish), Rubio (Spanish), Vega (Spanish), Wasserspring (Political Science)

The Latin American studies major seeks to understand the Latin American experience through an interdisciplinary program of study. Students must submit a plan of study following the requirements listed below for approval by the directors. The Latin American studies major normally consists of 11 courses: 2 Spanish language courses at the level of 241 or above and 9 courses from the list that appears below. (In the case of bilingual speakers or students with advanced Spanish proficiency, the 2 language course requirement may be replaced by an oral and written examination.) In fulfilling the requirement of 9 courses, students must select a concentration of 4 courses in one of the following disciplines: art history, history, political science, sociology or Spanish. Of these 9 units, at least 2 must be taken at the 300 level. It is recommended that one of these 300-level courses be a seminar.

Students should note that several of the courses listed below have an asterisk (*), which signifies that upon enrollment, the student must notify the instructor that the course is to be counted for Latin American studies and that, as such, the student will be required to do a research paper which focuses on Latin America.

Qualified juniors are encouraged to spend a semester or a year in Latin America. Both the directors and the Study Abroad Office have information to help students select appropriate sites for study in Latin America. Wellesley offers several opportunities, including its own program in Puebla, Mexico as well as exchange opportunities in Argentina. Additionally, the Wellesley Internship Program in Costa Rica (WICR) offers funded summer internships to qualified students. To be eligible for study in Latin America, a student should normally be enrolled in SPAN 241 or a higher level language or literature course the previous semester.

Honors

The only route to honors in the major is writing a thesis and passing an oral examination. To be admitted to the thesis program, a student must have a grade point average of at least 3.5 in all work in the major field above the 100 level; the department may petition on her behalf if her GPA in the major is between 3.0 and 3.5. Students who are interested in writing an honors thesis in Latin American studies should submit a proposal to the faculty committee by the end of their junior year. The proposal should include a description of the thesis project, a sample bibliography and a copy of the student's transcript. It is required that the student has already completed fundamental coursework in the area in which she proposes to do her honors work. See Academic Distinctions.

Majors may also apply to the Five-Year Cooperative M.A. program at Georgetown University in Latin American Studies. This program enables the student to apply upper-level Latin American Studies courses taken at Wellesley toward the Master's Degree at Georgetown. A summer of study at the Universidad Catolica in Santiago, Chile, taken during an undergraduate summer, and a year of academic work at Georgetown are required to earn the Master's Degree at Georgetown in one year. Interested students should contact the directors of Latin American Studies or the Center for Work and Service.

Most courses meet for three periods weekly or for two periods weekly with a third period approximately every other week.

The mathematics department Web page (www.wellesley.edu/Math/mathhome.html) has more detailed course descriptions and information for majors and minors.

MATH 101 Reasoning with Data: Elementary Applied Statistics

Staff
An introduction to the fundamental ideas and methods of statistics for analyzing data. Topics include descriptive statistics, basic probability, inference and hypothesis testing. Emphasis on understanding the use and misuse of statistics in a variety of fields, including medicine and both the physical and social sciences. This course is intended to be accessible to those students who have not yet had calculus.

Prerequisite: Fulfillment of the basic skills component of the Quantitative Reasoning requirement. Not open to students who have completed 116, 116Z, 120, or 205, except by permission of the instructor; such students should consider taking 220 instead. Not open to students who have taken or are taking MATH 101Z, POL 199, QIR 180, ECON 103/SOC 190, [QIR 199] or PSYC 205.

Distribution: Mathematical Modeling. Fulfills the Quantitative Reasoning overlay course requirement.

Semester: Fall, Spring

Unit: 1.0

MATH 101Z Reasoning with Data: Elementary Applied Statistics with Health Applications Polito (Quantitative Reasoning)

In this course, students use probability and statistics to examine the risks that we encounter every day. The focus is on personal medical decision-making and the impact of our environment on our health. Students will address questions such as: How concerned should we be about pesticide use? How can we make informed decisions about women's health issues, including contraception and sexually transmitted diseases? How much of an impact does diet have on health? Why did different studies of hormone replacement therapy come to contradictory conclusions, and how can we read reports on such studies intelligently and skeptically? Topics include descriptive statistics, basic probability, inference, and hypothesis testing.

Prerequisite: Fulfillment of the basic skills component of the Quantitative Reasoning requirement. Not open to students who have completed 116, 116Z, 120, or 205, except by permission of the instructor; such students should consider taking 220 instead.

Distribution: Mathematical Modeling. Fulfills the Quantitative Reasoning overlay course requirement.

MATH 102 Applications of Mathematics without Calculus

Sontag, Wilcox

This course explores several areas of mathematics which have application in the physical and social sciences, yet which require only high-school mathematics as a prerequisite. The areas covered will be chosen from systems of linear equations, linear programming, probability, game theory, and stochastic processes. Students will solve problems on topics ranging from medical testing to economics with the results demonstrating the value of mathematical reasoning. May not be counted toward the major.

MATH 115 Calculus I

Staff
Introduction to differential and integral calculus for functions of one variable. The heart of calculus is the study of rates of change. Differential calculus concerns the process of finding the rate at which a quantity is changing (the derivative). Integral calculus reverses this process. Information is given about the derivative, and the process of integration finds the "integral" which measures accumulated change. This course aims to develop a thorough understanding of the concepts of differentiation and integration, and covers techniques and applications of differentiation and integration of algebraic, trigonometric, logarithmic, and exponential functions.

MATH 115 is an introductory course designed for students who have not seen calculus before.

Prerequisite: Open by permission of the department, based on the results of the departmental placement exam.

Distribution: Mathematical Modeling

Semester: Fall, Spring

Unit: 1.0

MATH 116 Calculus II

Staff
The course begins with techniques and applications of integration. It covers additional techniques for finding limits and explores more deeply and with more precision the notions of limit and convergence. The second half of the course covers infinite sequences and series. Some of the questions that arise in this part of the course are: What do we mean by a sum with infinitely many terms, such as $1 + \frac{1}{2} + \frac{1}{4} + \frac{1}{8} + \frac{1}{16} + \ldots$ or such as $1 - 1 + 1 - 1 + \ldots$? Is there such a thing as a polynomial of degree infinity and what does infinity mean in this context? Both concrete and abstract, this portion of the course gives students an opportunity to strengthen their reasoning skills as well as to learn some important computational techniques. Topics include integration techniques, l'Hôpital's rule, improper integrals, applications of integration including volumes of solids of revolution, theoretical basis of limits and continuity, infinite series, power series, and Taylor series. MATH 116 is the appropriate first course for many students who have had AB calculus in high school.

MATH 120 Calculus IIA

Staff
This course is a variant of 116 for students who have a thorough knowledge of the techniques of differentiation and integration, and familiarity with inverse trigonometric functions and the logarithmic and exponential functions. It includes a rigorous and careful treatment of limits, sequences and series, Taylor's theorem, approximations and numerical methods, Riemann sums, improper integrals, Taylor's rule, and applications of integration.

Prerequisite: Open by permission of the department to students who have completed a year of high school calculus. Students who have studied Taylor series need to elect 205. Not open to students who have completed 115, 116 or the equivalent.

MATH 205 Multivariable Calculus
Staff
Most real-world systems that one may want to model, whether in the natural or in the social sciences, have many interdependent parameters. To apply calculus to these systems, we need to extend the ideas and techniques of MATH 115 and MATH 116 to functions of more than one variable. Topics include vectors, matrices, determinants, polar, cylindrical, and spherical coordinates, curves, functions of several variables, partial and directional derivatives, gradients, Lagrange multipliers, multiple integrals, line integrals, and Green's Theorem.

Prerequisite: 116, 120, or the equivalent. Not open to students who have completed MATH 216/PHYS 216.
Distribution: Mathematical Modeling
Semester: Fall, Spring
Unit: 1.0

MATH 206 Linear Algebra
Shuchat, Wang
Linear algebra is one of the most beautiful subjects in the undergraduate mathematics curriculum. It is also one of the most important with many possible applications. In this course, students learn computational techniques that have widespread applications in the natural and social sciences as well as in industry, finance, and management. There is also a focus on learning how to understand and write mathematical proofs and an emphasis on improving mathematical style and sophistication. Topics include vector spaces, subspaces, linear independence, bases, dimension, inner products, linear transformations, matrix representations, range and null spaces, inverses, eigenvalues.

Prerequisite: 205 or MATH 215
Distribution: Mathematical Modeling
Semester: Fall, Spring
Unit: 1.0

MATH 208/310 Functions of a Complex Variable
NOT OFFERED IN 2005-06. Complex numbers and the complex plane. Definitions and mapping properties of elementary complex functions. Analyticity and the Cauchy-Riemann equations. Complex-integration theory including the Cauchy-Goursat Theorem; Taylor and Laurent series; Maximum Modulus Principle; residue theory and singularities. Additional topics such as conformal mapping and Riemann surfaces as time permits. Assignments will be tailored to the level (200 or 300) for which the student is registered. Offered in alternate years.

Prerequisite: 205 is a prerequisite for 208, 302 is a prerequisite or corequisite for 310
Distribution: Mathematical Modeling
Semester: Fall
Unit: 1.0

MATH 210 Differential Equations
Shultz
Introduction to theory and solution of ordinary differential equations, with applications to such areas as physics, ecology, and economics. Includes linear and nonlinear differential equations and equation systems, existence and uniqueness theorems, and such solution methods as power series, Laplace transform, and graphical and numerical methods.

Prerequisite: 205
Distribution: Mathematical Modeling
Semester: Fall
Unit: 1.0

MATH 212 Differential Geometry
NOT OFFERED IN 2005-06. An introduction to the differential geometry of curves and surfaces. Topics include curvature of curves and surfaces, first and second fundamental forms, equations of Gauss and Codazzi, the fundamental theorem of surfaces, geodesics, and surfaces of constant curvature. Normally offered in alternate years.

Prerequisite: 205 or permission of instructor
Distribution: Mathematical Modeling
Semester: N/O
Unit: 1.0

MATH 214 Euclidean and Non-Euclidean Geometry
Kerr
A rigorous treatment of the fundamentals of two-dimensional geometry: Euclidean, spherical, elliptic, and hyperbolic. The course will present the basic classical results of plane geometry: congruence theorems, concurrence theorems, classification of isometries, etc. and their analogues in the non-Euclidean settings. The course will provide a link between classical geometry and modern geometry, preparing for study in group theory, differential geometry, topology, and mathematical physics. The approach will be analytical, providing practice in proof techniques. This course is strongly recommended for prospective teachers of mathematics. Normally offered in alternate years. Majors can fulfill the major presentation requirement in this course in 2005-06.

Prerequisite: 205 or permission of instructor
Distribution: Mathematical Modeling
Semester: Spring
Unit: 1.0

MATH 215/PHYS 215 Mathematics for the Sciences I
Shultz
This is the first in a two-course sequence tailored to the needs and preparations of students considering majors in the sciences. It presents techniques of applied mathematics relevant to a broad range of scientific studies, from the life sciences to physics and astronomy. The topics of study include complex numbers, ordinary differential equations, line integral, linear algebra (matrices, systems of linear equations, vector spaces, eigen-value problems), and Fourier series. The course emphasizes mathematical techniques and presents applications from all the sciences. Some familiarity with vectors (e.g., dot products) is assumed. Students may register for either MATH 215 or PHYS 215 and credit will be granted accordingly.

Prerequisite: MATH 116, 120 or the equivalent
Distribution: Mathematical Modeling
Semester: Fall
Unit: 1.0

MATH 216/PHYS 216 Mathematics for the Sciences II
Hu (Physics)
When laws of nature are written in advanced mathematical forms (for example, Maxwell's equations for electromagnetism), gradient, divergence, and curl are frequently encountered. In the first part of this course, we will study these mathematical operations in the broader context of differential and integral vector calculus, with an emphasis on their physical meanings. This part is similar to MATH 205, but topics closely related to physics -- Gauss' and Stokes' theorems, spherical and cylindrical coordinates -- will be discussed in depth. The second part of this course will cover Fourier transforms and partial differential equations, which are used throughout the physical sciences. The third part of this course will introduce numerical methods, which are widely used in modern scientific and engineering fields when analytical solutions to algebraic or differential equations do not exist. We will use MATLAB, a popular high-level programming language. Students may register for either MATH 216 or PHYS 216 and credit will be granted accordingly.

Prerequisite: MATH 215/PHYS 215
Distribution: Mathematical Modeling
Semester: Spring
Unit: 1.0

MATH 220 Probability and Elementary Statistics
Shuchat, Magid
This course is about the mathematics of uncertainty, where we use the ideas of probability to describe patterns in chance phenomena. Probability is the basis of statistics and game theory, and is immensely useful in many fields including business, social and physical sciences, and medicine. The first part of the course focuses on probability theory (random variables, conditional probability, probability distributions), using integration and infinite series. The second part discusses topics from statistics (sampling, estimation, confidence interval, hypothesis testing). Applications are taken from areas such as medical diagnosis, quality control, gambling, political polls, and others.

Prerequisite: 116, 120, or the equivalent
Distribution: Mathematical Modeling
Semester: Spring
Unit: 1.0

MATH 223 Number Theory
Chang
Number theory is the study of the most basic mathematical objects: the natural numbers (1, 2, 3, etc.). It begins by investigating simple patterns: for instance, which numbers can be written as sums of two squares? Do the primes go on forever? How can we be sure? The patterns and structures that emerge from studying the properties of numbers are so elegant, complex, and important that number theory has been called "the Queen of Mathematics." Once studied only for its intrinsic beauty, number theory has practical applications in cryptography and computer science. Topics include the Euclidean algorithm, modular arithmetic, Fermat's and Euler's Theorems, public-key cryptography, quadratic reciprocity. MATH 223 has a focus on learning to understand and write mathematical proofs; it can serve as valuable preparation for 305. Majors can fulfill the major presentation requirement in this course in 2005-06.

Prerequisite: 116, 120 or the equivalent; or CS 230 together with permission of instructor

MATH 225 Combinatorics and Graph Theory
Trenk, Shulz
Combinatorics is the art of counting possibilities: for instance, how many different ways are there to distribute 20 apples to 10 kids? Graph theory is the study of connected networks of objects. Both have important applications to many areas of mathematics and computer science. The course will be taught emphasizing creative problem-solving, as well as methods of proof, such as proof by contradiction and induction. Topics include: selections and arrangements; generating functions, recurrence relations; graph coloring, Hamiltonian and Eulerian circuits, trees.

MATH 251 Topics in Applied Math
Topic A for 2005-06: Cryptography and Coding Theory: The Mathematics of Secure and Reliable Communication
Pritchett (Babson) and Spence (Olin)
Cryptography, the science of developing "secret codes" or ciphers for secure and confidential communication, is essential to both e-commerce and military operations. Cryptology includes the study of both cryptography and cryptanalysis, the breaking of ciphers. Coding theory consists of mathematical techniques for detecting and correcting errors that occur during data transmission. These topics are critical to information exchange today. Through this exploration into the technical, social, and historical aspects of cryptography and coding theory, students will learn and extensively use basic concepts from number theory, finite field and ring theory, matrix algebra, and the software package MAGMA. Highlighted topics include the RSA cryptosystem, digital signatures, DES, linear and cyclic codes, Reed-Solomon codes, and the McEliece cryptosystem.
Prerequisite: Math 116, 120 or the equivalent; or CS 230 together with permission of instructor
Distribution: Mathematical Modeling
Semester: Fall
Unit: 1.0

Topic B for 2005-06: Operations Research
Shulz
This course studies the algebraic and geometric foundations of optimization and its applications to decision making in private and public sector management. We will study linear and integer programming, i.e., maximizing and minimizing linear functions whose variables must satisfy linear equations or inequalities, and where we may also require that the variables be integers. Applications will be selected from mathematical models in such areas as production, inventory, scheduling, investment, harvesting, transportation, and distribution. Small-scale problems will be solved by hand, and larger-scale problems by computer. The theoretical level will be similar to 206, but students will do fewer proofs and more modeling. MATH 251 counts toward the mathematics major/minor as an elective. Majors can fulfill the major presentation requirement in this course in 2005-06.

MATH 302 Elements of Analysis I
Sontag
Real analysis is the study of the rigorous theory of the real numbers, Euclidean space, and calculus. The goal is to thoroughly understand the familiar concepts of continuity, limits and sequences. We also study compactness, connectedness and metric spaces, which are generalizations of familiar notions. For example, in calculus the definition of continuity contains the expression |x - c|. How can we define continuity for higher-dimensional spaces, such as R^2 or any R^n, where there is no notion of absolute value? The key is the fact that |x - c| can be understood as distance. Viewed from this perspective, continuity makes sense in any setting in which we have a notion of distance. A set with a suitable notion of distance is called a metric space, this is the primary setting for real analysis. Topics include metric spaces, compact, complete, and connected spaces, continuous functions, differentiation, integration, and interchange of limit operations.
Prerequisite: 205, and at least one of 206, 208, 212, 214, 223, 225
Distribution: Mathematical Modeling
Semester: Spring
Unit: 1.0

MATH 303 Elements of Analysis II
Chang
A continuation of MATH 302. Topics chosen from the theory of Riemann integration, measure theory, Lebesgue integration, Fourier series, and calculus on manifolds. Offered in alternate years.
Prerequisite: 302
Distribution: Mathematical Modeling
Semester: Fall
Unit: 1.0

MATH 305 Abstract Algebra
Magid
In this course, students examine the structural similarities between familiar mathematical objects such as number systems, matrix sets, function spaces, general vector spaces and modern arithmetic. Topics include groups, rings, fields, homomorphisms, normal subgroups, quotient spaces, isomorphism theorems, divisibility and factorization. Many concepts generalize number theoretic notions such as Fermat's little theorem and the Euclidean algorithm. Optional subjects include group actions and applications to combinatorics.
Prerequisite: 206
Distribution: Mathematical Modeling
Semester: Fall
Unit: 1.0

MATH 306 Topics in Abstract Algebra
Chang
Topic for 2005-06: Galois Theory. This course offers a continued study of the algebraic structures introduced in MATH 305, culminating in the Fundamental Theorem of Galois Theory, a beautiful result that depicts the circle of ideas surrounding field extensions, polynomial rings and automorphism groups. Applications of Galois theory include the unsolvability of the quintic by radicals and geometric impossibility proofs, such as the trisection of angles and duplication of cubes. Cyclotomic extensions and Sylow theory may be included in the syllabus. Majors can fulfill the major presentation requirement in this course in 2005-06.
Prerequisite: 305
Distribution: Mathematical Modeling
Semester: Spring
Unit: 1.0

MATH 307 Topology
NOT OFFERED IN 2005-06. The topological properties of an object are those which are unchanged by bending, twisting, stretching, or shrinking. A mathematical knot is a circle embedded in three-dimensional space. Classical knot theory is the branch of topology that deals with knots and links in three-dimensional space. The central problem is determining whether two knots can be deformed to be exactly alike, via bending, twisting, stretching, or shrinking. This course provides an introduction to the theory of knots. Methods of knot tabulation, surfaces applied to knots, and knot polynomials will be covered, as well as applications to natural and physical sciences. Open problems in the field will also be discussed. Offered in alternate years.
Prerequisite: 302
Distribution: Mathematical Modeling
Semester: N/O
Unit: 1.0

MATH 309 Foundations of Mathematics
Sontag
This course studies the subject matter — set theory — that inspired David Hilbert's remark "no one will drive us from the paradise that Cantor has created." This set-theory paradise includes infinitely many infinities. We also study the proof of Goedel's undecidability theorem, which asserts that any consistent system containing arithmetic has questions that cannot be answered within the system. Topics include: axioms for set theory; construction of the natural numbers, the integers, and the rational and real numbers; induction and transfinite induction; cardinal numbers and ordinal numbers; the axiom of choice and its equivalents; consistency; Goedel's undecidability proof. Offered in alternate years. Majors can fulfill the major presentation requirement in this course in 2005-06.
Prerequisite: 302; or 305; or at least two from 206, 214, 223, 225
Distribution: Mathematical Modeling
Semester: Fall
Unit: 1.0

MATH 310/208 Functions of a Complex Variable
NOT OFFERED IN 2005-06. Complex numbers and the complex plane. Definitions and mapping properties of elementary complex functions. Analyticity and the Cauchy-Riemann equations. Complex-integration theory including the Cauchy-Goursat Theorem; Taylor and Laurent series; Maximum Modulus Principle; residue theory and singularities. Additional topics such as conformal mapping and Riemann surfaces as time permits. Assignments will be tailored to the level (200 or 300) for which the student is registered. Offered in alternate years.
Prerequisite: 205 is a prerequisite for 208, 302 is a prerequisite or corequisite for 310
Distribution: Mathematical Modeling
Semester: N/O
Unit: 1.0
MATH 349 Selected Topics
Shultz
Topic for 2005-06: Chaotic Dynamical Systems.
In this course, students examine how systems evolve over discrete time intervals. Topics include dynamical systems on the line and circle, one-parameter families of quadratic maps, period doubling, chaos, fractals, and a brief introduction to complex dynamics (Julia sets, the Mandelbrot set). Applies some techniques of analysis from 302, but is mostly self-contained.
Majors can fulfill the major presentation requirement in this course in 2005-06.
Prerequisite: 302

Directions for Election
Placement in Courses and Exemption Examinations
The mathematics department reviews elections of calculus students and places them in MATH 115, 116, 120, or 205 according to their previous courses and summer placement results. See the descriptions for these courses. If there is a question about placement, the student should attend the course in which she is placed and contact the sectioning coordinator (contact information in Science Center 361) to discuss her placement. No special examination is necessary for placement in an advanced course.
Students may receive course credit toward graduation through the CEEB Advanced Placement tests in mathematics and the IB Higher Level mathematics exam. Students with scores of 4 or 5 on the AB Examination or an AB-subscore of 4 or 5 on the BC Examination, or a score of 5, 6, or 7 on the IB Higher Level mathematics exam, receive one unit of credit (equivalent to 115) and are eligible for 116 or 120. Those entering with scores of 4 or 5 on the BC Examination receive two units (equivalent to 115 and 116 or 115 and 120) and are eligible for 205. Students with a 5 on the AP examination in statistics receive one unit of credit (equivalent to 101). Neither Advanced Placement credits nor IB credits may count toward the major.
Students majoring in mathematics must complete MATH 115 and one of 116/120 (or the equivalent) and at least seven units of 200-level and 300-level courses, including 205, 206, 302, 305, and one other 300-level course. MATH 215/PHYS 215 can be counted toward the mathematics major. Credit for MATH 216/PHYS 216 satisfies the requirement that a math major take 205, but does not count as one of the seven units of 200-level and 300-level courses.
Students entering with AP credits must complete eight units after entering college, where MATH 216/PHYS 216 does not count as one of these eight units.
Students expecting to major in mathematics should complete the prerequisites for 302 and 305 before the junior year. Students may wish to consult the chair of the Department of Mathematics or their current mathematics instructor in deciding when to take 302 and 305.
Independent study units (MATH 350, 360, 370) may not count as the third 300-level course required for the major.
Majors are also required to present one classroom talk in either their junior or senior year, usually in one of the courses specially designated as fulfilling this requirement. (See course listings with “Majors can fulfill the major presentation requirement in this course.”) Usually two such courses are designated each semester. In addition, a limited number of students may be able to fulfill the presentation requirement in other courses. Students need to speak with individual instructors to find out what is possible in a given course.
Students expecting to do graduate work in mathematics should elect 302, 305, and at least four other 300-level courses, possibly including a graduate course at MIT. They are also advised to acquire a reading knowledge of one or more of the following languages: French, German, or Russian.

The mathematics minor is recommended for students whose primary interests lie elsewhere but who wish to take a substantial amount of mathematics beyond calculus. Option I (five units) consists of: (A) 205, 206 and (B) 302 or 305 and (C) two additional units, at least one of which must be at the 200 or 300 level. Option II (five units) consists of: (A) 205, 206 and (B) three additional 200- or 300-level units. MATH 215/PHYS 215 can be counted as one of these five units. MATH 216/PHYS 216 satisfies the requirement that a math minor take 205, but does not count as one of the five units. A student who plans to add the mathematics minor to a major in another field should consult a faculty advisor in mathematics.

Teacher Certification
Students interested in teaching mathematics at the secondary-school level should consult the chair of the mathematics department and the chair of the education department. Students interested in taking the actuarial science examinations should consult the chair of the mathematics department.

MIT Courses
Students are encouraged to elect MIT courses that are not offered by the Wellesley College mathematics department.

Honors
The department offers the following options for earning honors in the major field: (1) completion of 302, 305, and four other 300-level courses, and two written comprehensive examinations or (2) two semesters of thesis work (360 and 370). An oral examination is required for both programs. To be admitted to the honors program, a student must have a grade point average of at least 3.5 in all work in the major field above the 100-level; the department may petition on her behalf if her GPA in the major is between 3.0 and 3.5. See Academic Distinctions.

Media Arts and Sciences
AN INTERDEPARTMENTAL MAJOR
Co-Directors: Irish, Metaxas
The Departments of Art and Computer Science offer an interdepartmental major in media arts and sciences that explores the artistic, cultural and scientific applications within the context of new media technologies. The program focuses on media production that balances artistic sensibility with analytical reasoning within the rich tradition of the liberal arts environment. Areas of study include digital imaging and design; web-connected database architectures; three-dimensional visualization and modeling; digital composition in audio/video; analog print and photographic processes; computer graphics and animation; human-computer interaction; programming for networked environments.

A major in media arts and sciences requires 12 units of course work, at least eight of which must be above the 100-level and two of which must be at the 300-level other than 350 or 360. Flexibility has been built into the major to allow students the ability to adapt their course of study in relation to their interests, by choosing an emphasis either in media sciences or in media arts. The major starts with three introductory courses, at least five courses in the area of concentration and at least two courses outside the area of concentration. In addition to other courses at Wellesley, students can take courses from MIT’s media lab or comparative media studies.

The major consists of:
1. Three required introductory courses, each one from studio art, art history and computer science: ARTH 101 (Introduction to the History of Art Part II: Renaissance to the Present), ARTS 109 (Basic Two-Dimensional Design) or ARTS 108 (Photography I), and CS 110 (Computer Science and the Internet).
2. At least two required art courses (at least five required for emphasis in media arts) from the following: ARTS 165 (Introduction to Video Production), ARTS 219 (Introductory Print Methods: Lithography/Monotype) or ARTS 220 (Introductory Print Methods: Intaglio/Relief), ARTS 221 (Digital Imaging), ARTS 255 (Dynamic Interface Design), ARTS 260 (Moving Image Studio), ARTS 265 (Intermediate Video Production) or ARTS 208 (Photography II), ARTS 313 (Virtual Form), ARTS 317 (Seminar, Topics in the Visual Arts), ARTS 320 (Architectonics and Installation).
3. At least two required computer science courses (at least five required for concentration in media sciences) from the following: CS 111 (Computer Programming and Problem Solving), CS 215 (Multimedia Design and Programming), CS 230 (Data Structures), CS 231 (Fundamental Algorithms), CS 242 (Computer Networks), CS 304 (Databases with Web Interfaces), CS 307 (Computer Graphics).
4. At least one media culture course is recommended from the following: ARTH 225 (Modern Art Since 1945), ARTH 226 (History of Photography; From Invention to Advertising Age), ARTH 291 (Persuasive Images), CAMS 175.
(Introduction to Cinema and Media Studies), EXP [240] (Papyrus to Print to Pixel), SOC 216 (Sociology of Mass Media and Communications).

 Majors are also encouraged to take an advanced media production course (e.g. an individual study).

Honors: The MAS thesis offers a year-long opportunity to develop independent research and production with honors. Students interested in proposing a thesis need to have a minimum 3.5 GPA in the major, and the support of a faculty advisor in the art or CS departments. An interdepartmental review will occur at the end of the fall semester, to determine whether the student should continue her project as a 370 in the Spring and convey the decision to the student by December 20th. In a case where it is recommended that the Senior Thesis not be continued into the second semester, a student would receive credit for 360 work on the completion of a schedule of work previously agreed to between the thesis advisor and the student.

 Thesis proposal should be discussed with the primary faculty advisor during the Spring prior to senior year. Proposals for thesis projects must be submitted in Writing, detailing the scope for the project, research methodology, project timeline, and must be accompanied by an electronic portfolio of at least 4 MAS projects. Proposals are due on August 15 before the beginning of the student’s senior year.

Medieval/Renaissance Studies

AN INTERDEPARTMENTAL MAJOR

Directors: Armstrong (Art), Ramseyer (History)

Advisory Committee: Carroll (Art), Elkins (Religion), Vega (Spanish)

The major in Medieval/Renaissance studies enables students to explore the richness and variety of European and Mediterranean civilization from later Greco-Roman times through the Renaissance and Reformation, as reflected in art, history, literature, music, and religion. It has a strong interdisciplinary emphasis; we encourage students to make connections between the approaches and subject matters in the different fields that make up the major. At the same time, the requirements for the major encourage special competence in at least one field.

For a Medieval/Renaissance studies major, students must take at least eight (8) units of course work from the list that follows. Of these, at least four must be above the 100-level in an area of concentration—a single department, a geographical location, a topic or theme. Two units of course work must be at the 300-level. Each year at least one 200-level course and one seminar are offered which are especially designed to accommodate the needs and interests of majors. The majors’ seminars for 2005-06 are (1) ARTH 330 (Seminar. Venetian Renaissance Art) (for details, see the department entry for art history) and (2) ME/R 344 (Tales of Love). Normally, credit/non courses do not count for the major.

The Medieval/Renaissance studies program does not accept AP credits to replace course work in the major.

Majors who are contemplating postgraduate academic or professional careers in this or related fields should consult faculty advisors to plan a sequence of courses that will provide them with a sound background in the language and critical techniques essential to further work in their chosen fields. We make every effort to accommodate individual interests and needs through independent study projects (350s and senior theses) carried out under the supervision of one or more faculty members and designed to supplement, or substitute for, advanced seminar-level work.

Honors

The only route to honors in the major is writing a thesis and passing an oral examination. To be admitted to the thesis program, a student must have a grade point average of at least 3.5 in all work in the major field above the 100-level; the department may petition on her behalf if her GPA on the major is between 3.0 and 3.5. See Academic Distinctions.

There are numerous opportunities for study abroad for those who wish to broaden their experience and supplement their research skills through direct contact with European and Mediterranean culture. Up to three courses in accredited programs abroad may be counted toward the major. By participating in the Collegium Musicum, students can learn to perform Medieval and Renaissance music; see the departmental entry for music.
ME/R 246 Monsters, Villains, and Wives
NOT OFFERED IN 2005-06. This course will select its monsters, villains, and wives from early English, French, and Anglo-Norman literature, ranging from the giant Grendel (and his mother) in Beowulf to the arch-villain Ganelon in The Song of Roland, from Guinevere to the wife of the enigmatic Green Man in Sir Gawain and the Green Knight. We will finish by considering the survival of the magical villain in a modern-day fantasy classic like the medievalist J.R.R. Tolkien's Hobbit, or a volume in his Lord of the Rings trilogy, and in John Gardner's retcasting of the Beowulf story, Grendel.
Prerequisite: None
Distribution: Language and Literature Semester: N/O Unit: 1.0

ME/R 247 Arthurian Legends
Wall-Randell (English)
A survey of legends connected with King Arthur, and their literary context in medieval and Renaissance romance, from the sixth century through the sixteenth, with some attention to new interpretations of the Arthurian tradition and of the romance mode in the nineteenth and twentieth centuries.
Prerequisite: None
Distribution: Language and Literature Semester: Spring Unit: 1.0

ME/R 248 Medieval Women Writers
NOT OFFERED IN 2005-06. This course explores a variety of texts by medieval women writers and the contexts in which and against which they were written. These text raise questions about the role of the female body and about traditional and new visions of the body, morality, and life itself.
Prerequisite: None
Distribution: Language and Literature Semester: N/O Unit: 1.0

ME/R 249 Imagining the Afterlife
NOT OFFERED IN 2005-06. An exploration of medieval visions and versions of the afterlife in the classical, biblical, Jewish, Islamic, and Christian traditions. We will study material from various Scriptures, popular visions, literary texts, and the visual arts. The focus will be on the implications of ideas about life after death for understanding medieval attitudes toward the body, morality, and life itself.
Prerequisite: None. Preference given to medieval/renaissance majors.
Distribution: Language and Literature Semester: N/O Unit: 1.0

ME/R 344 Tales of Love
Jacoff (Italian)
Love becomes a central subject of literature in the Middle Ages and remains so in our own time. This course will explore some canonic medieval tales of love (Tristan and Iseult, Paolo and Francesca, Dante and Beatrice, Petrarch and Laura) and selected Renaissance dramatizations of the power of passion (Shakespeare sonnets and plays). We will conclude by reading one modern novel in which many of the themes and issues of the earlier periods remain alive and powerful.
Prerequisite: Open to juniors and seniors or by permission of instructor. Preference given to medieval/renaissance majors.

ARAB 101-102 Elementary Arabic

Aadani, Davidson

An introduction to the Arabic language. The course takes a comprehensive approach to language learning and emphasizes the four skills of listening, speaking, reading, and writing. Students are introduced to the principles of grammar, taught how to read and write in the Arabic alphabet, and trained in the basics of everyday conversation. Through the use of a variety of written, video and audio materials, as well as other resources made available through the World-Wide Web, the course emphasizes authentic materials and stresses the active participation of students in the learning process. Each semester earns 1.0 unit of credit; however, both semesters must be completed satisfactorily to receive credit for either course.

Prerequisite: None
Distribution: None
Semester: Fall, Spring
Unit: 1.0

ARAB 201-202 Intermediate Arabic

Aadani

A continuation of ARAB 101-102. The course takes students to a deeper and more complex level in the study of the Arabic language. While continuing to emphasize the organizing principles of the language, the course also introduces students to a variety of challenging texts, including extracts from newspaper articles, as well as literary and religious materials. Students will be trained to work with longer texts and to gain the necessary communicative skills to prepare them for advanced-level Arabic. Each semester earns 1.0 unit of credit; however, both semesters must be completed satisfactorily to receive credit for either course.

Prerequisite: ARAB 101-102 or equivalent
Distribution: Language and Literature
Semester: Fall, Spring
Unit: 1.0

ARAB 210 Arabic Literature in Translation

Aadani

Exploration of some highly influential works of literature translated from Arabic. Students will have the chance to delve into literary works composed by authors from a large geographical area, extending from Morocco to the Middle East, from the turn of the nineteenth century to the present day. Our study of modern and contemporary Arabic literature will focus on a number of recurring themes, such as cultural and national identity, colonialism, religion, gender relations, and class conflict. Authors to be discussed include Naguib Mahfouz, Abdelrahman Muniif, Ahlam Mosteghanemi, Leila Abouzeid, Tahir Wattar, Mohammed Zafar, and Yusuf Ikris.

NOT OFFERED IN 2005-06. An exploration of the emergence and the shaping of a culture of “resistance” in North Africa and the Middle East since the early 1980s. Topics include the rise of democratic movements, such as political parties, associations and NGOs, the role and importance of Islam to the identity of contemporary nation states in the region; the status of women and minorities in the ideologies of the movements under study; and the status and implications of dissent. Materials studied include works of fiction and nonfiction, films, speeches, song lyrics, and online publications. Taught in English.

MUS 1010 The Culture of Classical Music

Fisk

Until the late twentieth century, the only music usually deemed worthy of serious study was so-called "classical music," a written repertory originating in Western Europe but eventually gaining apparent pre-eminence in many other regions as well. Today that pre-eminence is being challenged, and many musics are given serious curricular attention, both for their own substantial musical interest and as expressions of different cultures and ways of being. Recognizing that classical music is not the "universal language" it was once thought to be, this course will explore it as a cultural phenomenon, tracing the evolution of some of its many forms and meanings, social contexts, composers, performers and audiences, and its resonances with different world music traditions. May not be counted toward the major.

Unit: 1.0

MUS 111 Introduction to World Music

NOT OFFERED IN 2005-06. An exploration into the musics of the world from an ethnomusicological perspective: music understood within the framework of culture. Primary emphasis is placed on the musics of Africa and the Americas, with attention also to those of India, Indonesia, and the Middle East. Students may undertake research projects on the music of any area of the world, even repertories not covered in the syllabus.

Prerequisite: None

Semester: N/O

Unit: 1.0

MUS 111X Introduction to the Language of Music

Samuel

Preparation in the primary elements of music theory and musicianship: Rhythm and pitch perception, reading skills, keyboard familiarity, and correct music notation. Scale and chord construction, transposition, and procedures for harmonizing simple melodies. Phrase structures and simple formal designs. Intensive practice in ear training. May not be counted toward the major.

Prerequisite: None

Semester: Fall, Spring

Unit: 1.0

MUS 111X Introduction to the Language of Music

Samuel

A more in-depth and extensive study of music fundamentals than that offered in MUS 111. Students will be placed into this course based on their performance on the music theory placement test. Further development of aural and reading skills through sight-singing, dictation, keyboard skills, and critical listening. Two lectures, one ear training section, and an optional keyboard skills class are offered weekly. Regular assignments and quizzes are given and the student is required to compose melodies from mid semester on. The final project entails the presentation of a composed melody (optional setting with a text) that is harmonized with keyboard accompaniment and performed in class by the student and instructor. May not be counted toward the major.

MUS 120 Jazz Theory
Johnson
This class covers the basics of jazz music theory: intervals, chords, scales, and simple harmonic analysis. It offers a hands-on experience that focuses on the vocabulary of jazz, including issues of style, form, rhythm, and improvisation.
Prerequisite/Corequisite: 111 or 111X
Distribution: Arts, Music, Theatre, Film, Video
Semester: Fall, Spring
Unit: 1.0

MUS 122 Harmonic Concepts in Tonal Music
Samuel
Beginning with a comprehensive review of musical terminology and basic materials, MUS 122 explores the fundamentals of tonal harmony, voice-leading, phrasing, and form. Topics include harmonic functions and phrase structure, cadence formation, voice-leading and figured bass, and tonal analysis. Written exercises are complemented by regular ear-training practice.
Prerequisite: Open to all students who have completed or exempted 111 or 111X. Students who meet this requirement are advised to take 122 or 220 in the fall semester.
Distribution: Arts, Music, Theatre, Film, Video
Semester: Fall, Spring

MUS 199 Performing Music (for academic credit)
Staff
One 45-minute lesson per week. Students may take an hour-long lesson for an additional fee. A minimum of six hours of practice per week is expected. One credit is given for a full year of study, which must begin in the first semester.
Not to be counted toward the major in music. MUS 199 may be repeated without limit. For further information, including fees, see Performing Music: Private instruction and Academic Credit. See also MUS 99, 299, and 344. Mandatory credit/non-credit. Except by special permission, no credit will be given unless both semesters are completed satisfactorily.
Prerequisite/Corequisite: By entrance audition; 111 or 111X, or exemption determined by mandatory music theory placement test. Completion of an additional music course is required before credit is given for each subsequent year of 199. 122 or 220 must normally be completed during the first semester of 199. Students who must take 111 or 111X during the first semester of 199 must also complete 122 during the second semester of the first year. Completion of an additional music course is required before credit is given for each subsequent year of 199. Students pursing jazz performance in 199 should plan to take MUS 120 following completion of MUS 111 or 111X. Students should consult the department web site for details regarding the entrance audition for 199.

MUS 200 History of Western Music
TBA
The first half of a year-long comprehensive survey of Western music history, MUS 200 considers significant forms and styles of earlier eras, from the liturgical and vernacular repertories of the Middle Ages to the music of the mid-eighteenth century. The course offers a long historical component, and also encourages the development of analytical skills. As we examine compositions in many genres, we will pursue numerous avenues of inquiry, including close readings of verbal texts, evaluation of formal structures, harmonic analysis, assessment of melodic and rhythmic features, and investigation of the broader circumstances that surround and inform musical creation.
Prerequisite/Corequisite: 122/244
Distribution: Arts, Music, Theatre, Film, Video
Semester: Fall
Unit: 1.0

MUS 201 History of Western Music II
Fisk
A continuation of the survey of Western music history begun in MUS 200, MUS 201 examines the pre-Classical, Classical, and Romantic periods, as well as the music of the past one hundred years. The course places special emphasis on the acquisition of analytical skills, and students are encouraged to devise and support interpretive hypotheses in written essays. Students may enroll in MUS 201 without having taken MUS 200.

MUS 208/AFR 227 The Blues in Historical and Cultural Context
NOT OFFERED IN 2005-06. This course offers a historical overview of the development of recorded blues music, a genre with a deep and lasting influence on the American musical and cultural landscape. Understanding the development of the blues entails considering the social conditions that informed twentieth-century African American life. Through related readings and class discussions, we will address these conditions as key issues in the study of the blues. We will develop a critical vocabulary for discussing blues music as a cultural phenomenon, and, through close listening and music analysis, we will learn how to discern the presence of blues influence in other musical genres.
Prerequisite: None

Semester: Spring
Unit: 1.0

MUS 209/AFR 224 A History of Jazz
TBA
This course offers a listener's introduction to jazz, one of the greatest expressions of American artistic genius. Early jazz drew from several vibrant streams of indigenous musical art (including ragtime and blues), and subsequent stylistic phases have corresponded closely to significant developments in social history; knowledge of jazz is thus highly relevant to an understanding of American culture since 1900. Through a selection of recordings and readings, we will follow the progression of jazz styles from African roots to recent developments. A fundamental goal of the course is that students learn to listen to music critically: to discern and interpret form, texture, style, and expressive content in jazz of all periods. Students may register for either MUS 209 or AFR 224 and credit will be granted accordingly.
Prerequisite: None

Semester: Spring
Unit: 1.0

MUS 211 Twentieth-Century Techniques
Zallman
Studies in the language and style of twentieth-century concert music, through analysis of shorter representative compositions by major composers. Brief exercises in composition are designed to familiarize students with a variety of structural approaches. MUS 213 and 313 will meet together.
Prerequisite: 122, 220, or permission of the instructor.

Unit: 1.0

MUS 216 Musics of East Asia: China, Korea, and Japan
NOT OFFERED IN 2005-06. An introduction to the musical cultures of China, Korea, and Japan. While these nations share many of the same instruments, each has developed indigenous musical styles, variously shaped by cultural, religious, philosophical, and political forces. Through readings, recordings, videos, and performances by guest artists, we will explore representative genres from each area, including Buddhist chants, Chinese folk songs and instrumental music, Peking Opera, Korean court music (aalk) and folk traditions (sanjo, sanwii, pansori), as well as the Japanese theatrical genres of noh, kabuki, and bunraku (puppet theater).
Prerequisite: None

Unit: 1.0

MUS 220 Theory, Analysis, and Performance
Zallman
This course is appropriate for students who already have a solid background in basic theory, and also possess advanced performing skills. The principal goal of the course is to encourage an understanding of practical analytical methods and their value to musical performance. Musical examples to be studied are selected from the standard tonal repertory. Included are in-depth studies of melodic phrasing, harmonic functionality, and their interaction with the meter and rhythm of tonal music. Practice in basic writing and listening skills will be regularly incorporated into class work and written assignments. MUS 220 is intended for students who have exempted MUS 122, and may serve as a prerequisite for MUS 244.
Prerequisite: Open to students who have exempted 122.

Unit: 1.0

MUS 222/322 Women in Music
NOT OFFERED IN 2005-06. An introduction to the history of works composed by women, and to feminist music criticism and analysis. The course addresses issues surrounding women as composers, performers, and patrons, as well as notions of gender, ethnicity, and sexuality. While both levels stress socio-cultural critique and feminist theory, MUS 322 also emphasizes analysis and listening skills.
Prerequisite: 222: open to all students; 322: 200 or 201 required.
Distribution: Arts, Music, Theatre, Film, Video

Unit: 1.0

MUS 223 Das Lied: The Music and Poetry of the German Art Song
NOT OFFERED IN 2005-06. The Lied dates back to the Middle Ages as one of the major cultural expressions of the German language. This course will examine the development of the genre through analysis of German poetry and associated musical settings by a variety of composers, both well-known German artists and non-Germans working within Germanic traditions. No previous musical training or background is assumed.

Semester: N/O
Unit: 1.0

MUS 225/325/AFR 232/332 Topics in Ethnomusicology: Africa and The Caribbean
Washington
This course will focus on the traditional, folk, and popular musics of Africa and the Caribbean. Emphasis will be placed on issues of Africanism and marginal retention in the musics of Brazil, Cuba, and Haiti. The musical repertoires of Candomble, Santeria, and Vodun, as well as the samba, rumba, and merengue, will be discussed in terms of their respective influences on the modern musics of Africa. The musical "round trip" between Africa and the Caribbean, whereby genres like the rumba spawned new forms including the juju of Nigeria, the soukous of Zaire, and the highlife of Ghana, will be closely examined.

Musical analysis will be required of those students electing to enroll at the 300 level. Students may register for either MUS 225/325 or AFR 232/332 and credit will be granted accordingly.
Prerequisite: 100, 111, 111X, 122, or permission of the instructor. In addition, for 325 or AFR 332, 200 or 201 is required.

MUS 230 Opera: Its History, Music, and Drama
NOT OFFERED IN 2005-06. This course offers a comprehensive chronological survey of the history and evolution of opera, from 1600 to the present time. Lectures will examine historical background, the sub-genres of operatic literature (opera seria, opera buffa, music drama), and complete operas by major composers representing a number of periods and styles (including Monteverdi, Mozart, Verdi, and Alban Berg). We will also study librettos, relevant novels, and other source materials in order to establish connections between musical structure and dramatic expression. Two class meetings, with additional sessions required for viewing operas in their entirety.
Prerequisite: None
Distribution: Arts, Music, Theatre, Film, Video
Semester: N/O
Unit: 1.0

MUS 240 Opera Workshop
Dry
This course is appropriate for singers currently enrolled in voice lessons who wish to gain expertise in dramatic musical performance - that is, the techniques that aid singing actors in the presentation of operatic repertoire. All students will receive extensive musical and dramatic coaching, and will have the opportunity to perform a scene or aria in an informal presentation at the conclusion of Winter Session. Emphasis will be placed on researching roles, character development, actions appropriate to musical style, and the interaction of text, music, and movement. The class meets daily, and students are expected to study and rehearse individually and with other participants outside of class sessions. Not offered every year. Subject to Dean's Office approval.
Prerequisite: 199 in voice, with permission of 199 instructor
Distribution: Arts, Music, Theatre, Film, Video
Semester: Winter Session
Unit: 0.5

MUS 244 Tonal Counterpoint and Harmony Zallman
A continuation of MUS 122/MUS 220, this course offers a comprehensive introduction to two- and three-part counterpoint with emphasis on its relationship to the harmony and melodic figuration of the music of the seventeenth through nineteenth centuries. This will be followed by a detailed study of tonal cadence structures and how these expand to produce the vast array of harmonic progressions typical of tonal music. Written exercises in two and three voices, chorales, and in choral and keyboard-style harmony will be complemented by a keyboard lab offering practice in playing figured bass and basic harmonic progressions.

MUS 250H Performing Ensembles for Credit
MUS 250H is open to qualified students by permission of the individual ensemble director. One-half unit of credit is granted for a full year (two consecutive semesters) of participation in any one of the department-sponsored ensembles. A maximum of two units of credit toward the degree can be accumulated through 0.5 courses. Of the 32 units required for graduation, no more than four units in performing music may be counted toward the degree; thus students taking music lessons for credit during all four years at Wellesley cannot also receive degree credit via MUS 250H. No credit will be given for this course unless both semesters are completed satisfactorily. MUS 250H is graded on a credit/non-credit basis.
Corequisite: One academic music course per 1.0 credit earned.

MUS 275 Computer Music: Synthesis Techniques and Compositional Practice
Brody
An overview of the fundamental concepts, techniques, and literature of electronic and computer music. Topics include the technology of acoustic and digital musical instruments, MIDI programming, sound synthesis techniques (frequency modulation, sampling, linear synthesis, waveshaping, etc.), and the history of electronic music. Students will undertake brief compositional exercises, and learn basic programming and related technical skills.
Prerequisite: None
Distribution: Arts, Music, Theatre, Film, Video

MUS 276 Cylinders to CDs to Cyberspace: Recording Technology and Twentieth-Century American Music
Barzel, Freundlich (Instructional Technology)
From Edison's wax cylinders to gramophones, 78 r.p.m. discs, electric recording, long-playing records, "45s," magnetic tape, multi-channel recording, the home recording studio, compact discs, sampling, MP3s, and more recent digital innovations, we will consider the relationship between American music and the ever-changing methods and media used to record and play back musical sound. By providing listening examples that correlate to significant developments in recording technology, the course will provide an overview of the recorded history of twentieth-century American music. We will also discuss how, as Mark Katz notes in Capturing Sound, "the demise of recording technology has forced us to re-think music’s ‘tangibility’—portability, invisibility, repeatability, temporality, receptivity, and manipulability."
Prerequisite: None
Distribution: Arts, Music, Theatre, Film, Video

Unit: 1.0

MUS 285 Visionaries and Punks: New York City's Downtown Music Scene
Barzel
As hip hop was emerging in the Bronx and salsa was taking over New York City's uptown neighborhoods, musicians on Manhattan's Lower East Side were creating their own kind of startling and original music. This course explores the New York "downtown" music scene of the 1970s-90s, concentrating on "New York Noise," avant-garde jazz, experimentalist composers, and punk music, including precursors to the feminist, queer-positive Riot grrrl phenomenon of the 1990s. Much like SoHo for visual artists, the Lower East Side was the incubator for many key developments in American music. We will listen to and discuss the artistically innovative music from this period, and we will learn about the history of Lower Manhattan as a bohemian enclave. No musical experience necessary.
Prerequisite: None

Semester: Fall
Unit: 1.0

MUS 299 Performing Music (advanced, with academic credit)
Staff
A one-hour private lesson per week. Students who have completed at least one year of MUS 199 are eligible for promotion to 299. A student wishing to enroll in MUS 299 is expected to demonstrate accomplishment distinctly beyond that of the MUS 199 student. Students are recommended for promotion by their instructors. A minimum of ten hours of practice per week is expected.
MUS 299 may be repeated without limit. One 200- or 300-level music course must be completed for each unit of credit granted for MUS 299. A music course already used to fulfill the requirement for MUS 199 may not be counted again for 299. One unit of credit is given for a full year of study. Not to be counted toward the major in music. For further information, including fees, see Performing Music: Private Instruction and Academic Credit. See also MUS 99, 199, and 344. Mandatory credit/non-credit. Except by special permission, no credit will be given for this course unless both semesters are completed satisfactorily.

MUS 300 Seminar: Studies in History, Theory, Analysis, Special Topics
Offered in both semesters, with two topics presented consecutively in each semester; students may select any number or combination of the four topics offered each year. Open to music majors, minors, and other students with appropriate background.

Topic A: Literature into Opera Body
The adaptation of literature into opera poses challenges for both the composer and critic. In this course, we will consider questions of literary and musical narration, the relationship of musical form and fictional plot, and the nature of character development in three case studies: novel into opera (Britten’s Billy Budd and Harbison’s The Great Gatsby); Shakespeare monologues set to music by Verdi, Shostakovich, and Barber; and an adaptation from multiple sources (Alban Berg’s Lulu). Final projects may take the form of a critical essay or a compositional exercise in operatic adaptation.
Prerequisite: 200, 201 and 244, or permission of the instructor
Distribution: Arts, Music, Theatre, Film, Video
Semester: Fall
Unit: 0.5

Topic B: Chopin’s Genres
Pikó
Frederic Chopin was in many respects a paradoxical figure: a Polish nationalist who felt most at home in Paris; a brilliant performer who shunned many opportunities to perform; a Romantic Neo-Classiствist; one of the most popular and beloved composers of all time, and yet traditionally marginalized as a miniaturist, a salon composer, or as an ‘effeminate’ composer. One way that Chopin brought fullness to his piano-centered oeuvre was by creating a virtual world of musical genres – ballade, scherzo, nocturne, waltz, polonaise, mazurka, prelude – that by himself he either invented or redefined as independent concert pieces. This course will explore the metaphor of Chopin’s generic system as a kind of musical ghetto, an alluring but until recently – despite its enormous popularity – never fully validated musical world unto itself.
Prerequisite: 200, 201 and 244, or permission of the instructor
Distribution: Arts, Music, Theatre, Film, Video
Semester: Fall
Unit: 0.5

Topic C: Puccini to Sciarra: Twentieth-Century Art Music in Italy.
Samuel
Composers and compositional trends in the Italian Novecento will be considered in their historical, political, and artistic context as well as through different approaches in musical analysis. Beginning with late Puccini and Respighi, and continuing with the era of Futurism and the First World War, the seminar will deal with mid-century Fascist-era composers (e.g., Gallipoli) and with the next generations of radical avant-garde composers, including Nono, Madonna, Scelsi, Berio, to finally examine a more recent prominent voice, Salvatore Sciarra. Consideration of film music by Italian composers such as Nino Rota and Ennio Morricone will be included.

MUS 308 Conducting
Graham
Techniques of score preparation, score reading, baton technique, and rehearsal methods. The course will stress the development of aural and interpretive skills through class exercises, rehearsals, demonstrations of instruments, tutorials, and individual projects designed according to each student’s level and interests.
Prerequisite: One from: 200, 201, 220, or 315, or permission of the instructor
Distribution: Arts, Music, Theatre, Film, Video
Semester: Spring
Unit: 1.0

MUS 313 Twentieth-Century Analysis and Composition
Zulman
A study of compositional devices of twentieth-century music through the analysis of selected short examples from the literature. MUS 213 and 313 will meet together; 313 however, will focus on the composition of complete pieces in addition to other regular class assignments.
Prerequisite: 122, 220, or permission of the instructor
Distribution: Arts, Music, Theatre, Film, Video
Semester: Spring
Unit: 1.0

MUS 315 Advanced Harmony
Zulman
Follows MUS 244. A study of advanced tonal techniques: mode mixture, procedures for variation and development (including harmonic sequences), modulation by chromatic harmony, and prolongation. Also includes an introduction to basic Schenkerian terminology and modes of analysis.
Prerequisite: 244 and either 313 or 201
Distribution: Arts, Music, Theatre, Film, Video
Semester: Fall
Unit: 1.0

MUS 344 Performance Workshop
Tang
Intensive study of advanced interpretation and performance, as an adjunct to lessons at the 299 level with a member of the College performance faculty. The program offers students an opportunity to perform frequently in an informal setting, before fellow students and faculty, to discuss repertoire and interpretation, and to receive constructive comment. This is the only credit course in performance that can be counted toward the music major.
Prerequisite: Honors-level work in all music courses, averaging a GPA of 3.5 or higher; a written recommendation from the instructor in performing music
Corequisite: Students must complete both 200 and 201 by the end of the first year of 344. If enrolled in the course for a second year, an additional 200- or 300-level course must be completed. Permission to elect subsequent units is granted only to a student who has fulfilled all concurrent requirements and whose progress in 344 is judged excellent; a maximum of four units of MUS 344 may be counted toward the degree.
Distribution: Arts, Music, Theatre, Film, Video

Directions for Election
The music major is a program of at least ten units. The normal sequence of courses for the major is: MUS 122 or 220, 244, and 315; 200 and 201 (history and analysis); and a total of two semesters of 300 (offered in theory and harmony, four autonomous modular units per year, from which students may select any combination). Also required are three additional elected units of 200- or 300-level work. The study of composition (213/313) is highly recommended for majors.

The music minor is a program of at least five units. It consists of MUS 122 or 220, 244, 200 and 201 or one of these plus another history or literature course, and one additional unit of 300-level work.

The music department does not ordinarily allow courses taken credit/non to count toward the major or minor.

Students interested in majoring or minoring in music are strongly encouraged to begin the theory sequence with 122 or 220 in the fall semester of their first year. This allows them to enroll in the spring-term offering of 244, which is the prerequisite for 200 and the courses that follow sequentially. Starting on this sequence immediately affords the option of taking a wider variety of elective music courses in the junior and senior years, and also makes it easier for those spending the junior year abroad to complete the major comfortably. Students who plan to undertake graduate study in western music history or theory are advised that knowledge of both German and French (beyond the introductory level) is essential, and proficiency in Italian highly desirable. Also of value are studies in European history, literature, and art.

Music majors are especially encouraged to develop musicianship through the acquisition of basic keyboard skills, and through ear training, private instruction in practical music, and involvement in the music department’s various performing organizations.

Group instruction in basic keyboard skills, including keyboard harmony, sight reading, ear training, and score reading, is provided free to all students enrolled in any music course (including 100 with the instructor's permission and if space is available), and to MUS 99 students with the written recommendation of their private instructor. Ensembles sight reading instruction on a more advanced level is also available for pianists.

The department offers a choice of three programs for honors, all under the catalog numbers 360/370; honors students normally elect the two units in succession during the senior year. Under Program I, the honors candidate carries out independent research leading to a written thesis and an oral examination. Under Program II, honors in composition, the 360 and 370 units culminate in a composition of substance and an oral examination on the honors work. Prerequisites for this program are 315 and distinguished work in 313. Program III, honors in performance, culminates in a recital, a lecture-demonstration, and an essay on some aspect of performance. The prerequisite for Program III is 344 in the junior year and evidence during that year, through public performance, of exceptional talent and accomplishment; 344 must then be continued in the senior year (though as an adjunct to the 360/370 sequence, and not for separate course credit).

Performing Music Instrument Collection
The music department owns 40 pianos (which include 28 Steinway grands, two Mason and Hamlin grands, and numerous Steinway uprights), a Fisk practice organ, a harp, a marimba, a jazz drum kit, and a wide assortment of modern orchestral instruments. In addition, an unusually fine collection of instruments appropriate to early music performance is available for use by students. These include a Dolmetsch clavichord, a virginal, two harpsichords, a positive organ, a fortepiano, a newly restored 1823 Clementi grand piano, eight violas da gamba, a Baroque violin, and an assortment of Renaissance and Baroque wind instruments.

Of particular interest is the Charles Fisk mean-tone organ (completed 1981) in Houghton Memorial Chapel, which is America's first major instrument constructed after seventeenth-century German prototypes. The chapel also houses a three-manual Aeolian-Skinner pipe organ. Galen Stone Tower contains a 32-bell carillon.

Performance Workshop (MUS 344)
The performance workshop is directed by a member or members of the performing music faculty. It offers advanced students an opportunity to perform frequently in an informal setting before fellow students and faculty, to discuss repertoire and interpretation, and to receive constructive comments.

Private Instruction
The music department offers private instruction in voice, piano, fortepiano, organ, harpsichord, harp, violin, Baroque violin, fiddle, viola, violoncello, double bass, viola da gamba, flute (Baroque and modern), oboe, clarinet, bassoon, trumpet, French horn, trombone, tuba, recorder, lute, classical guitar, saxophone, and marimba; and private jazz instruction in piano, violin, bass, saxophone, flute, percussion, and voice. We will make every attempt to accommodate students wishing private instruction in instruments not currently taught.

All students planning to enroll for music lessons must take the basic skills placement test. Information concerning auditions and course requirements for noncredit and credit study is given above under listings for MUS 99, 199, 299, and 344. Except for 344, auditions and the basic skills placement test are ordinarily given at the start of the first semester.

There is no charge for performing music to students enrolled in 199, 299, or 344 who: 1) have demonstrated financial need as determined by the Wellesley College Financial Aid Office; 2) are receiving financial aid from Wellesley College; and 3) are taking the normal length of lesson. All other 199 and 299 students are charged $884, the rate for one half-hour lesson per week throughout the year. Students who contract for performing music instruction under MUS 99 are charged $884 for one half-hour lesson per week, through both semesters, and may register for 45-minute or hour lessons for an additional charge. A fee of $35 per year is charged to performing music students for the use of a practice studio. The fee for the use of a practice studio for fortepiano, harpsichord, and organ is $45.

Music lessons at Wellesley involve a full-year commitment: lesson contracts are binding for the entire school year. Performing music fees are payable by September 30; no refunds will be made thereafter.

For purposes of placement, a basic skills placement test is given before classes start in the fall semester. All students registered for MUS 111, 122, 228, or private instruction in 99 or 199 are required to take the examination.

Arrangements for lessons are made at the music department office during orientation of the first week of the semester. Students may begin private study in 99 (but not 199 or 299) at the start of the second semester, if space permits.

Academic Credit and Corequisites for MUS 199 and 299
Credit for performing music at the 199 and 299 levels is granted only for study with the department's performance faculty, not with outside instructors; the final decision for acceptance is based on the student's audition. One unit of credit is granted for a full year (two semesters) of study in either 199 or 299; except by special permission, both semesters must be satisfactorily completed before credit can be counted toward the degree. While music performance courses (99, 199, 299, 344) may be repeated without limit, no more than four units of credit in these courses may be counted toward the Wellesley degree. More than one course in performing music for credit can be taken simultaneously only by special permission of the department.

MUS 122 is normally taken along with the first semester of lessons for credit; 220 is an alternate, and can substitute for 122 in the major/minor sequence. Students pursuing jazz performance in 199 may elect 122, 220, MUS 209/AFR 224 or MUS 233/AFR 233 as a corequisite. An additional music course must be elected as a corequisite for each unit of credit after the first year.

The music department's MUS 199 and 299 offerings are made possible by the estate of Elsa Grace Whitney '18.

Group Instruction
Group instruction in classical guitar, percussion, and voice is available for a fee of $250 per year.

Performing Organizations
The following organizations, all directed by faculty members, are vital extensions of the Wellesley music department's academic program.

The Wellesley College Choir
The College Choir, consisting of approximately 50 singers, is devoted to the performance of choral music from the Medieval era through the present day. Endowed funds provide for collaborative concerts with men's choirs from such institutions as the U.S. Naval Academy, Harvard, and Cornell; the choir has also commissioned new compositions in recent years. In addition to staging local performances of works for choir and orchestra (including a recent performance of the Brahms Requiem), the choir tours both nationally and internationally. Auditions are held during Orientation.

The Wellesley College Glee Club
The Glee Club performs a range of choral literature from many periods. In addition to presenting concerts, the Glee Club provides music at various chapel services, and collaborates with the College Choir in concerts and at the annual Vespers service. Auditions are held at the beginning of each semester.

The Wellesley College Chamber Singers
The Chamber Singers is an ensemble of 12 to 16 vocalists selected from the College Choir's finest singers. The group specializes in music for women's voices with and without instruments, and presents concerts in conjunction with other College music organizations during the academic year.

The Collegium Musicum
The Wellesley College Collegium Musicum specializes in the performance of Western music from the Middle Ages to the early nineteenth century. This ensemble of singers and instrumentalists is open to Wellesley College students, faculty, staff, and members of the local community. The Collegium is also frequently joined by guest artists, who enrich the ensemble for special projects. Members of the Collegium enjoy the use of an extensive collection of historical instruments. Separate consort instruction is available in viola da gamba, renaissance winds, and recorder for both beginning and advanced players on a fee basis ($250 for the 2005-06 academic year).

The Wellesley-Brandeis Orchestra
The College Orchestra consists of approximately 40 musicians. Selection for membership is based on auditions at the start of each semester. The group is directed by a faculty conductor, but is run by students; a student assistant conductor is chosen by audition. The Orchestra performs compositions from the standard symphonic repertory once or twice each semester, and periodically engages in collaborations with other institutions to perform such large-scale works as Mahler's Second Symphony and Beethoven's Symphony No. 9.

The Chamber Music Society
The Chamber Music Society offers an opportunity for small ensembles to explore the chamber music repertoire of the last three centuries. A number of groups, which include singers and Neuroscience

AN INTERDEPARTMENTAL MAJOR

Director: Berger-Sweeney (Biological Sciences)
Neuroscience Advisory Committee: Beltz (Biological Sciences), Duches (Chemistry), Goldman (Physics), Kohn (Computer Science), Kone (Psychology), Paul (Biological Sciences).

The Departments of Biological Sciences, Chemistry, Computer Science, Physics, and Psychology offer an interdisciplinary major in neuroscience that provides interdisciplinary study of the nervous system and mechanisms underlying behavior.

A major in neuroscience must include the following core courses: BISC 110, 111; CHEM 105 (or 120), and 211; PSYC 205, and NEUR 213/BISC 213, which should be completed by the end of junior year. For students who enter the College in Fall 2004 or later, PSYC 101 is also required for the major. Majors must elect two 200-level courses from among the following: BISC 219, 220, CHEM 221, 222; and of PSYC 215, 216, 217. Additionally, majors must elect two 300-level courses, at least one of which must be a laboratory course. Acceptable 300-level courses are BISC 302, 306; CLSC 306; CS 332; NEUR 315/BISC 315; NEUR 332/BISC 332, NEUR 335/BISC 335/PHYS 335; PSYC 316, 318, 319. Any other 300-level courses must be specifically approved by the director. A minimum of 6 courses (a minimum of 6.75 units) towards the major requirements must be taken at Wellesley.

Honors (senior thesis) projects may be supervised by members of the various departments associated with the major, in accordance with the requirements of the host department. Students are advised to check with the chair of the host department in their sophomore or junior year to clarify details of the honors program (see honors requirements for individual host department).

Students wishing to attend graduate school in neuroscience also should take CHEM 212 and Physics through PHYS 106 or PHYS 108.

NEUR 213/BISC 213 The Biology of Brain and Behavior with Laboratory
Beltz, Hellray, Paul (Biological Sciences), Goldman (Physics)
An introduction to the study of the nervous system and behavior with particular emphasis on the structure and function of the nervous system. In the first half of the semester, basic neuroanatomy, neurochemistry and neurophysiology are covered. In the second half of the semester, brain mechanisms involved in sensation, language, addiction, memory, and cognition are emphasized. The laboratory is designed to expose the student to basic neuroanatomy, neurochemistry, physiology and behavior.
Students may register for either NEUR 213 or BISC 213 and credit will be granted accordingly.
Prerequisite: BISC 110 and either 111 or 109
Distribution: Epistemology and Cognition or Natural and Physical Science

NEUR 315/BISC 315 Advanced Topics in Neurobiology with Laboratory
tetel (Biological Sciences)
Topic for 2005-06: Neuroendocrinology
Hormones act throughout the body to coordinate basic biological functions such as development, differentiation and reproduction. This course will investigate how hormones act in the brain to regulate physiology and behavior. We will study how the major neuroendocrine axes regulate a variety of functions, including brain development, reproductive physiology and behavior, homeostasis and stress. The regulation of these functions by hormones will be investigated at the molecular, cellular and systems levels. Laboratory experiments will explore various approaches to neuroendocrine research, including the detection of hormone receptors in the brain and analysis of behavior. Students may register for either NEUR 315 or BISC 315 and credit will be granted accordingly.
Prerequisite: NEUR 213/BISC 213
Distribution: Natural and Physical Science
Semester: Fall
Unit: 1.25

NEUR 332/BISC 332 Advanced Topics in Neuroscience
Tetel (Biological Sciences)
Topic for 2005-06: Frontiers in Neuroscience: Neurogenesis and Neurodegeneration. This course will explore two critical issues in neuroscience today: the birth of new neurons (neurogenesis) in the adult brain, and mechanisms of cell death in the brain (neurodegeneration). In addition to lectures, students will review current literature, give group presentations, and write a paper on their chosen topic. We will begin by exploring the controversy surrounding, and the implications of, neurogenesis in the adult brain. The second part of the course will investigate mechanisms of neurodegeneration in disorders such as Alzheimer’s, Huntington’s and Parkinson’s Disease. Students will develop skills in critically reading research papers and giving presentations. Students may register for either NEUR 332 or BISC 332 and credit will be granted accordingly.
Prerequisite: NEUR 213/BISC 213
Distribution: Natural and Physical Science
Semester: Fall
Unit: 1.0

NEUR 335/BISC 335/PHYS 335 Computational Neuroscience with Laboratory
Goldman (Physics)
Computations by networks of neurons in the brain underlie all of our thoughts, perceptions, and memories. However, direct experimental observation of neural computations is extremely difficult. Mathematical models are used increasingly to bridge the gap between experimental measurements and hypothesized network functions. This course will focus on the use of mathematical models to describe computations performed in the nervous systems of a variety of.
animals. Topics will range from single neuron biophysics to the analysis of circuits thought to underlie sensory perception and memory. Each topic will be introduced by background lectures, followed by student-led presentations of primary literature and construction of a computer model of the system studied. Labs will introduce students to computer programming of mathematical models in MATLAB and the neuron-simulator NEURON. Students may register for either NEUR 335, BISC 335, or PHYS 335 and credit will be granted accordingly.

Prerequisite: PHYS 104/107 and either PHYS 106/108 or NEUR/BISC 213; or permission of instructor. No programming experience is required. Not open to first-year students.

Peace and Justice Studies

A STRUCTURED INDIVIDUAL MAJOR

Faculty Co-Director: Kazanjian (History)
Co-Director for Experiential Education: Kapteijns (History)

Lecturer: Kazanjian

Peace and Justice Studies Advisory Board: Agosin (Spanish), Lami (East Asian Languages and Literatures), Levitt (Sociology), de Warren (Philosophy), Genaro (Psychology), Kapteijns (History), Kazanjian (Religious and Spiritual Life), Murphy (Political Science), Rosenwald (English), Velenchik (Economics), Wasserspring (Political Science)

The Peace and Justice studies program provides a program of study which integrates the many areas of intellectual inquiry relating to the historical and contemporary search for a peaceful and just society and world.

A major (eight units) in peace and justice studies should be designed in consultation with the program directors. Majors must elect a concentration of at least four units above 100 level. Concentrations will normally be in one department, but may be constructed across departments. In either case, the major must demonstrate the intellectual coherence of the concentration. The major must include two 300-level courses. The major consists of:

1. Two required courses: PEAC 104 (Introduction to the Study of Conflict, Justice, and Peace) and PEAC 259 (Peace and Conflict Resolution)
2. Six courses through which students are expected to develop proficiency in two areas:
   a) the social, political, historical, and cultural factors that lead to conflict, violence, and injustice;
   b) the various strategies and techniques of peacemaking and justice-seeking at the level of nation states, social groups and communities within nation states, and interpersonal and individual relationships;

Students are expected to develop expertise in a particular international, national, regional, or local conflict situation.

3. Students majoring in peace and justice studies are usually expected to include an experiential education component in their course of study. This component should be discussed with the program directors and may include:
   - Winter session, summer or year-long internships, course-related experiential education programs, or community service projects.

Honors

The only route to honors in the major is writing a thesis and passing an oral examination. To be admitted to the thesis program, a student must have a grade point average of at least 3.5 in all work in the major field above the 100-level; the department may petition on her behalf if her GPA in the major is between 3.0 and 3.5. See Academic Distinctions.

PEAC 104 Introduction to the Study of Conflict, Justice, and Peace
Murphy (Political Science)

An interdisciplinary introduction to the study of conflict, justice, and peace. The course engages students in developing an analytical and theoretical framework for examining the dynamics of conflict, violence, and injustice and the strategies that have been employed to attain peace and justice, including balance of power, cooperation, diplomacy and conflict resolution, law, human rights, social movements, social justice (economic, environmental, and race/class/gender), interpersonal communication, and religiously-inspired social transformation.

Prerequisite: None
Distribution: Social and Behavioral Analysis
Semester: Spring
Unit: 1.0

PEAC 224/324 Grassroots Development, Conflict Resolution, and the Gandhian Legacy in India
Kazanjian (Religious and Spiritual Life), Murphy (Political Science) and Rosenwald (English)

NOT OFFERED IN 2005-06. This three and a half week winter session course in India focuses on understanding the historical development of the Gandhian philosophy of nonviolence and on how Gandhian strategies have been adapted by grassroots community-based organizations to address the challenges facing India and the world today. The course involves both experiential and classroom learning. During this course we will meet with women's organizations, peace organizations, environmental action groups, and community health activists in rural and urban communities in the North of India. In addition we will take part in a seminar series on intercultural and interreligious conflict resolution at the Malvya Centre for Peace Research at Banaras Hindu University. This course may be taken as either 224 or, with additional assignments, 324. Not offered every year. Subject to Dean's office approval.

Prerequisite: Two 200-level courses in related fields. Application required.
Distribution: Social and Behavioral Analysis
Semester: Winter session

Unit: 0.5

PEAC 250 Research or Individual Study

Prerequisite: 104 and one 200-level course in the general field of Peace and Justice Studies or permission of instructor.
Distribution: None
Semester: Fall, Spring

Unit: 1.0

PEAC 250H Research or Individual Study

Prerequisite: 104 and one 200-level course in the general field of Peace and Justice Studies or permission of instructor.
Distribution: None
Semester: Fall, Spring

Unit: 0.5

PEAC 259 Peace and Conflict Resolution
Kolodny (Chemistry)

Topic for 2005-06: The Nuclear Challenge. Since the discovery of nuclear fission in the 1930s, the potential of nuclear energy both for war and for peace has presented an ongoing challenge to humanity. This course will examine the development of nuclear weapons and the treaties limiting them, as well as the ongoing danger of nuclear terrorism. It will also examine peaceful uses of nuclear energy for the generation of electricity and for medical diagnosis and treatment, as well as the waste disposal problems that result from these uses. Course materials will include primary and secondary historical documents, literature and films. No scientific background required.

Prerequisite: PEAC 104 and one unit in HIST or POL, or by permission of the instructor. Distribution: Historical Studies or Religion, Ethics and Moral Philosophy. Semester: Spring. Unit: 1.0

PEAC 350 Research or Individual Study
Prerequisite: Open by permission to juniors and seniors. Distribution: None. Semester: Fall, Spring. Unit: 1.0

PEAC 350H Research or Individual Study
Prerequisite: Open by permission to juniors and seniors. Distribution: None. Semester: Fall, Spring. Unit: 0.5

PEAC 360 Senior Thesis Research
Prerequisite: By permission of program directors. See Academic Distinctions. Distribution: None. Semester: Fall, Spring. Unit: 1.0

PEAC 370 Senior Thesis
Prerequisite: 360. Distribution: None. Semester: Fall, Spring. Unit: 1.0

Department of Philosophy

PHIL 101/WRIT 125 Ancient Greek Philosophy
Congleton
Study of selected dialogues of Plato and treatises of Aristotle. Plato topics to be discussed and written about include his account of the human "psyche," his theory of Forms, and his portrait of Socrates. Studies of Plato's student, Aristotle, will include learning to speak, write, and analyze the philosophical vocabulary which Aristotle developed and which became standard for subsequent Western philosophy. This course satisfies the WRIT 125 requirement and counts as a unit towards the major in philosophy. Includes a third session each week. Mandatory credit/noncredit.
Prerequisite: None. Open only to first-year students. Distribution: Epistemology and Cognition or Religion, Ethics, and Moral Philosophy. Semester: Fall. Unit: 1.0

PHIL 103 Self and World: Introduction to Metaphysics and Epistemology
McGowan, McIntyre
This course introduces basic philosophical methods and concepts by exploring a variety of approaches to some central philosophical problems. Topics covered include the existence of God, the relation between reason and faith, skepticism and certainty, theories of knowledge, the relation between mind and body, and the compatibility of free will and causal determination. Readings are drawn from historical and contemporary texts. Discussions and assignments encourage the development of the student's own critical perspective on the problems discussed.
Prerequisite: None. Distribution: Epistemology and Cognition. Semester: Fall, Spring. Unit: 1.0

PHIL 106 Introduction to Moral Philosophy
McIntyre, Chaplin
A study of central issues in moral philosophy from ancient Greece to the present day. Topics include the nature of morality, conceptions of justice, views of human nature and their bearing on questions of value, and competing tests of right and wrong.
Prerequisite: None. Distribution: Religion, Ethics, and Moral Philosophy. Semester: Fall, Spring. Unit: 1.0

PHIL 201 Ancient Greek Philosophy
Congleton
An introduction to philosophy through study of the dialogues of Plato and the treatises of Aristotle. Emphasis will be on topics in Plato and Aristotle that are especially important today, such as the foundations of "stereotyping," whether scientific and ethical reasoning are fundamentally the same or different, whether there are rational emotions, whether women and men are or are not essentially different, and what role political rhetoric plays in a democracy.
PHIL 202/AFR 202 African Philosophy

Menkiti

NOT OFFERED IN 2005-06. OFFERED IN 2006-07. Initiation into basic African philosophical concepts and principles. The first part of the course deals with a systematic interpretation of such questions as the Bantu African philosophical concept of Muntu and related beliefs, as well as Bantu ontology, metaphysics, and ethics. The second part centers on the relationship between philosophy and ideologies and its implications in Black African social, political, religious, and economic institutions. The approach will be comparative. Students may register for either PHIL 202 or AFR 202 and credit will be granted accordingly.

Prerequisite: Open to first-year students who have taken one course in philosophy and to sophomores, juniors, and seniors without prerequisite.

Distribution: Epistemology and Cognition or Religion, Ethics, and Moral Philosophy

Semester: N/O. Offered in 2006-07.

Unit: 1.0

PHIL 207 Philosophy of Language

McGowan

This course will explore a variety of philosophical issues concerning language: the different ways in which spoken language functions and conveys information, the alleged difference between speech and action and how it relates to freedom of speech issues (e.g., pornography and hate speech), the general problem of how words get attached to their referents, and criticisms of traditional conceptions of meaning and reference.

Prerequisite: Open to first-year students who have taken one course in philosophy and to sophomores, juniors, and seniors without prerequisite.

Distribution: Epistemology and Cognition or Religion, Ethics, and Moral Philosophy

Semester: Fall

Unit: 1.0

PHIL 208 Theories of Knowledge

Wearing

We usually assume that we know a lot about the world around us. But how do we know that our beliefs reflect what the world is really like? We will investigate the nature of knowledge and the conditions under which we can be said to have any. We will explore answers to the following questions: What distinguishes knowledge from mere opinion? When is it rational to hold a particular belief? What are the connections between knowledge and evidence? What constitutes justification? We will conclude by examining the contributions of feminism and cognitive science to answering these questions.

Prerequisite: Open to first-year students who have taken one course in philosophy and to sophomores, juniors, and seniors without prerequisite.

Distribution: Epistemology and Cognition or Religion, Ethics, and Moral Philosophy

Semester: Spring

Unit: 1.0

PHIL 209 Scientific Reasoning

Wearing

This is a reasoning course that emphasizes the practical importance of critical thinking. Topics covered will include the basic forms of scientific inference, the basics of probability, issues of data collection, the difference between correlation and causation, and the theoretical and practical difficulties associated with establishing causal claims. Students will also gain an appreciation of the political and ethical importance of critical thinking by evaluating cases of sexist and racist science.

Prerequisite: Fulfillment of the basic skills component of the Quantitative Reasoning requirement.

Distribution: Epistemology and Cognition. Fulfills the Quantitative Reasoning overlay course requirement.

Semester: Spring

Unit: 1.0

PHIL 210 Philosophy of Business

Congleton

This course looks at philosophical foundations of U.S. corporate business and the role of the corporate executive, beginning historically and moving to the present day. It begins by looking at the development of corporate business from the time of the greatly accelerated industrialization and urbanization following the Civil War, looking at differing theories involved in thinking about the new urban wage labor and unions, the definition of corporations as legal "persons" beginning in the 1880s, the emergence of government regulations such as the Sherman Antitrust law, and the transformation of the U.S. into a consumerist nation, including the development of "marketing" in relationship to "democracy." The study of the construction of the role of corporate executive includes questions of gender in relationship to individualism, competitiveness and teamwork.

Prerequisite: None

Distribution: Religion, Ethics, and Moral Philosophy

Semester: Fall

Unit: 1.0

PHIL 211 Philosophy of Religion

Winkler

NOT OFFERED IN 2005-06. OFFERED IN 2006-07. A philosophical examination of the nature and significance of religious belief and religious life. Topics include the nature of faith, the role of reason in religion, the ethical import of religious belief, and toleration and religious diversity.

Prerequisite: None

Distribution: Epistemology and Cognition or Religion, Ethics, and Moral Philosophy

Semester: N/O. Offered in 2006-07.

Unit: 1.0

PHIL 213 Social and Political Philosophy

Chaplin

Human rights are supposed to be rights claimed by virtue of simply being human, and, as such, they are said to exist universally. However, despite the unanimous adoption of the Universal Declaration of Human Rights by the United Nations, there is now a global conversation about the importance of civil and economic rights, the right of Western society to impose its conception of human rights on other societies, and the rights of minorities. Beginning with the eighteenth century and extending into the contemporary debate, this course will discuss the nature, justification, and extent of human rights.

Prerequisite: Open to first-year students who have taken one course in philosophy, and to sophomores, juniors, and seniors without prerequisite.

Distribution: Religion, Ethics, and Moral Philosophy or Social and Behavioral Analysis.

Semester: Fall

Unit: 1.0

PHIL 214 Foundations of Ethics

Piper

NOT OFFERED IN 2005-06. OFFERED IN 2006-07. Can we all get along? In a multicultural society in which we share a common language but often differ in our basic values and cultural practices, is there anything on which we can all agree? If so, what are the ground rules for reasoned dialogue? For social cooperation? In order to formulate viable answers to these questions that provide real-life resolutions to our real-life conflicts, we will examine and critique the answers offered by the leading contemporary moral theorists. John Rawls and Jürgen Habermas.

Prerequisite: 106 or another course in ethical theory.

Distribution: Religion, Ethics, and Moral Philosophy

Semester: N/O. Offered in 2006-07.

Unit: 1.0
PHIL 215 Philosophy of Mind
Mckintyre
How are thoughts and sensations related to neurological processes? Could mental states be identical to brain states? What is free will? Could we have free will if we live in a deterministic universe? After examining a variety of answers to these traditional questions in the philosophy of mind, we will expand our inquiry to include recent work in philosophy and cognitive science that examines the nature of consciousness, animal intelligence, and the role of emotion in thought and action.
Prerequisite: One course in philosophy, psychology, or cognitive science or permission of instructor.
Distribution: Epistemology and Cognition
Semester: Fall
Unit: 1.0

PHIL 216 Logic
Wearing, McGowan
An introduction to formal logic. Students will learn a variety of formal methods – methods sensitive only to the form of the arguments, as opposed to their content – to determine whether the conclusions of the arguments follow from their premises. Discussion of the philosophical problems that arise in logic, and of the application of formal logic to problems in philosophy and other disciplines. Some consideration of issues in the philosophy of language.
Prerequisite: None
Distribution: Epistemology and Cognition
Semester: Fall, Spring
Unit: 1.0

PHIL 217 Philosophy of Science: Traditional and Feminist Perspectives
Weiric
This course will survey various issues in the philosophy of science surrounding the debate over scientific realism. Issues include: What constitutes adequate evidence? Exactly what does accepting a scientific theory involve? Does science discover the single objective way that the world is or does it partially construct the world around us? How do cultural attitudes (e.g. gender) affect scientific practice?
Prerequisite: Open to sophomores, juniors, and seniors.
Distribution: Epistemology and Cognition
Semester: Fall
Unit: 1.0

PHIL 221 History of Modern Philosophy
Winkler
A study of central themes in seventeenth- and eighteenth-century philosophy, concentrating on Descartes, Hume, and Kant. More limited readings of such figures as Spinoza, Locke, Ann Conway, Leibniz, and Berkeley. Among the topics: the relationship between mind and body; the limits of reason; determinism and freedom; the bearing of science on religion.
Prerequisite: Open to first-year students in their second semester and to sophomores, juniors, and seniors without prerequisite.
Distribution: Epistemology and Cognition or Historical Studies
Semester: Spring
Unit: 1.0

PHIL 222 American Philosophy
Winkler
The development of American philosophy from colonial times to the present. Among the topics: Native American world-views; European justifications of colonization and conquest; the spiritualist metaphysics of Berkeley and Jonathan Edwards; philosophical underpinnings of the revolution and the republic; slavery and abolition; transcendentalism (Emerson, Thoreau); justice and civil disobedience; feminism. We will concentrate in particular on pragmatism, America’s unique contribution to world philosophy, with reading in Peirce, James, Dewey, Quine, Richard Rorty, and Cornel West. The course is intended for students of history, literature, and American studies as well as for students of philosophy.
Prerequisite: None
Distribution: Epistemology and Cognition or Historical Studies
Semester: Fall
Unit: 1.0

PHIL 224 Existentialism
de Warren
This course will study basic themes in existentialism by focusing on the theoretical and theoretical works of key existentialist writers such as Jean-Paul Sartre, Simone de Beauvoir, Antonin Artaud, Samuel Beckett, Albert Camus, and Eugene Ionesco. In taking the human condition as its primary question, existentialism redefines the meaning of theory as a philosophical reflection or "seeing" of the human condition, as well as the significance of theatre as a "seeing" or "manifestation" of features of the human condition that otherwise remain hidden from view. Special emphasis will be placed on the themes of boredom, death, bad faith, anxiety, suffering, freedom, and inter-subjective relationships.
Prerequisite: One philosophy course or permission of instructor.
Distribution: Epistemology and Cognition or Historical Studies
Semester: N/O Offered 2006-07.
Unit: 1.0

PHIL 225 Phenomenology and Hermeneutics
de Warren
Phenomenology attempts to reclaim the richness of human experience for philosophical analysis. An important movement of twentieth-century philosophy, phenomenology represents an original approach to traditional philosophical questions based on the investigation of how "lived experience" animates the various ways in which the world is meaningful for human beings. As an introduction to the phenomenological movement, including the hermeneutic turn of phenomenological philosophy, this course will focus on the work of Husserl, Heidegger, Levinas, and Merleau-Ponty.
Prerequisite: One philosophy course or permission of instructor.
Distribution: Epistemology and Cognition
Semester: Spring
Unit: 1.0

PHIL 226 Human Nature in Three Medieval Philosophers
Coulson
What is it to be a human being? This course will examine the responses of two twelfth-century writers - the Jewish thinker Moses ben Maimon (Maimonides) and the Islamic thinker Ibn Rushd (Averroes) - and a thirteenth-century Christian thinker who built on their work, Thomas Aquinas. Primary focus will be the question of whether each human being is essentially unique or simply an example of a species. Other questions will include whether the most educated people should control what texts/debates are available to the less educated, and what is involved in arguing that God is "transcendent." The course will begin with an introduction to central concepts of Plato and Aristotle used by these medieval thinkers. Also considered will be the "neo-Platonism" of Plotinus and that of Ficino, as found in his discussion of "Platonic love."
Prerequisite: Open to first-year students who have taken one course in philosophy or medieval studies and to sophomores, juniors and seniors without prerequisite.
Distribution: Epistemology and Cognition or Religion, Ethics, and Moral Philosophy
Semester: Spring
Unit: 1.0

PHIL 230 Nineteenth-Century Philosophy
de Warren
This course will study selected themes in nineteenth-century philosophy. Readings from Kant, Hegel, Marx, Kierkegaard, Schopenhauer, and Nietzsche will address central issues such as the status of reason, the irrational and the unconscious, modernization and the meaning of history, and the significance of religion and art for human existence. Other important figures of nineteenth-century thought such as Darwin, Comte, Mill, and Schiller may also be addressed.
Prerequisite: One course in philosophy or permission of instructor.
Distribution: Epistemology and Cognition or Historical Studies
Semester: Spring
Unit: 1.0

PHIL 232 Vedanta Ethics and Epistemology
Piper
NOT OFFERED IN 2005-06. Whereas Western ethics is dominated by the obsession with reconciling self-interest with altruism and passion with reason, the Vedanta ethics and epistemology of ancient India regards the distinction among them as the product of egocentric delusion and ignorance of the true nature of the self. Vedanta confidently prescribes very specific actions and personal practices as time-tested means for achieving insight into the true nature of the self and union with ultimate metaphysical reality. We will study the basic texts in order to evaluate ourselves, our practices, our values as products of an increasingly ubiquitous Western culture.
Prerequisite: Open to all students.
Distribution: Epistemology and Cognition or Religion, Ethics, and Moral Philosophy
Semester: N/O
Unit: 1.0

PHIL 233 Environmental Philosophy
Winkler
A study of conceptions of the natural world and our place in it, from the pre-Socratics and the Book of Genesis to the deep ecologists and ecofeminists of the present day. Readings in the history of philosophy (Aristotle, Descartes, Spinoza, Newton, Rousseau, and Hume, among others), in Emerson and Thoreau, and in contemporary nature writers and natural scientists. Discussion of ethical issues and of Third-World critiques of Western environmentalism.
Prerequisite: None
Distribution: Epistemology and Cognition or Religion, Ethics, and Moral Philosophy

PHIL 249 Medical Ethics
Mentiti
A philosophical examination of some central problems at the interface of medicine and ethics. Exploration of the social and ethical implications of current advances in biomedical research and technology. Topics discussed will include psychosurgery, gender surgery, genetic screening, amniocentesis, and euthanasia.
Prerequisite: Open to first-year students who have taken one course in philosophy and to sophomores, juniors, and seniors without prerequisite.
Distribution: Epistemology and Cognition or Religion, Ethics, and Moral Philosophy
Semester: N/O. Offered in 2006-07. Unit: 1.0

PHIL 300 Seminar in Modern Philosophy
Wiskler
Topic for 2005-06: Spinoza and Nietzsche. A study of two naturalistic world-views with dramatic consequences for morality. Half of the meetings will be devoted a close reading of Spinoza's Ethics, and half to close readings of several works by Nietzsche, among them Beyond Good and Evil and On the Genealogy of Morals. Although the course will not be limited to themes common to the two philosophers, these themes will receive particular attention. They include the nature of truth; the moral and political consequences of naturalism (the attempt to view human beings as parts of natural world); the consequences of naturalism for religious belief; the challenge of combining determinism with calls to freedom or self-mastery; and alternatives to the belief in personal immortality.
Prerequisite: 221
Distribution: Epistemology and Cognition
Semester: Fall
Unit: 1.0

PHIL 302 Kant's Solution to Skepticism and Solipsism
Piper
NOT OFFERED IN 2005-06. OFFERED IN 2006-07. Kant thinks that we can't know what anything is really like, including us. We can only know appearances we construct. So it seems we're permanently trapped in subjective illusions and biases. But Kant also thinks we have objective knowledge and that he can prove it. How can he reconcile these seemingly contradictory claims? Kant's Critique of Pure Reason has set the agenda for nineteenth- and twentieth-century philosophy, and influenced psychology, physics, history, geography, political science, and law.
Prerequisite: 221
Distribution: Epistemology and Cognition
Semester: N/O. Offered in 2006-07.
Unit: 1.0

PHIL 303 Kant's Metaethics
Piper
NOT OFFERED IN 2005-06. Kant thinks human beings are free, rational, and autonomous; and therefore have moral responsibilities that are universally and cross-culturally valid. This is a controversial view that has influenced international conceptions of human rights, justice, legal liability, and personal convictions about freedom and self-determination. Its metatraditional justification begins in Kant's conceptions of freedom, reason, and the self in the Critique of Pure Reason, and extends all the way through to his normative moral theory in the late Metaphysics of Morals.
Prerequisite: 221
Distribution: Religion, Ethics, and Moral Philosophy
Semester: N/O
Unit: 1.0

PHIL 311 Plato
Staff
NOT OFFERED IN 2005-06. OFFERED IN 2006-07. Intensive reading of some of the middle and late Platonic dialogues with particular attention to two issues: the so-called "Socratic Paradox," which holds that no one knowingly does evil, and the theory of forms. Alternates with 312.
Prerequisite: 201 or permission of instructor.
Distribution: Epistemology and Cognition
Semester: N/O. Offered in 2006-07.
Unit: 1.0

PHIL 312 Aristotle
Chaplin
An inquiry into some of Aristotle's ethical ideas, including but not limited to, the notion of human flourishing as an ethical concept, virtue as an activity of the soul, why we sometimes act against our own best interests, the difference between justice and equity, and friendship as an ethical category. Some contemporary views of virtue ethics will also be discussed. Alternates with 311.
Prerequisite: 201 or permission of instructor.
Distribution: Epistemology and Cognition or Religion, Ethics, and Moral Philosophy
Semester: Spring
Unit: 1.0

PHIL 313 Seminar in Metaphysics
McGowan
Topic for 2005-06: Constructionism. This course will survey various ways in which we make facts about our world. That certain facts are constructed (e.g. speed limits and checkpoints) is controversial. Substantive philosophical issues arise, however, when delineating the precise manner in which such facts are constructed and drawing a definable line between what is constructed and that which is not. Constructionist speech, the social construction of gender and certain global constructionist theories will be considered. The diverse work of such contemporary analytic philosophers as Elgin, Goodman, Haslanger, Hacking, Lewis, Putnam, and Searle will be discussed.
Prerequisite: Open to students who have taken two courses in philosophy.
Distribution: Epistemology and Cognition
Semester: Spring
Unit: 1.0

PHIL 323 Seminar, Continental Philosophy of Warne
Topic for 2005-06: Notre Maitre: Sartre's Philosophical Century. This seminar explores the philosophical thought of Jean-Paul Sartre and its resonance in the development of twentieth-century French philosophy. Based primarily on a reading of Sartre's principal philosophical works, Being and Nothingness and Critique of Dialectical Reason, delving moments of Sartre's thinking are examined and connected to selected themes in the writings of LaCau, Foucault, Lévinas, Merleau-Ponty, and Levi-Strauss. Emphasis is placed on Sartre's seminal analysis of the "Other" and "the look," the dialectic of "for-itself" and "in-itself" in the formation of consciousness; the phenomena of "bad faith" and "anguish," and the concepts of "individual praxis" and "the praxico-inert." Other readings include: LaCau's "The Formation of the Ego in the Mirror Stage," Foucault's "The Birth of the Clinic: an archaeology of the medical regard"; Lévinas' "Time and the Other" and "The Trace of the Other."
Prerequisite: One course in philosophy or permission of the instructor.
Distribution: Epistemology and Cognition
Semester: Fall
Unit: 1.0

PHIL 326 Philosophy of Law
Mentiti
A systematic consideration of fundamental issues in the conception and practice of law. Such recurrent themes in legal theory as the nature and function of law, the relation of law to morality, the function of rules in legal reasoning, and the connection between law and social policy are examined. We will also look at some philosophical problems that arise in connection with crime, civil rights, and "the legislation of morality."
Prerequisite: Open to juniors and seniors without prerequisite and to sophomores who have taken one course in philosophy.
Distribution: Religion, Ethics, and Moral Philosophy
Semester: Fall
Unit: 1.0

PHIL 340 Seminar, Contemporary Ethical Theory
McIntyre
NOT OFFERED IN 2005-06.
Prerequisite: 103, 106, 201, 206, 213, 214, 215, 303, 311, 312 or permission of the instructor.
Distribution: Religion, Ethics, and Moral Philosophy
Semester: N/O
Unit: 1.0

PHIL 345 Seminar, Advanced Topics in Philosophy of Psychology and Social Science
McIntyre
Topic for 2005-06: Theories of Motivation. Human accounts of motivation distinguish between beliefs and desires and claim that only desires can motivate action since beliefs are by nature motivationally inert. Yet emotions, evaluative judgments, and episodes of sympathetic identification don't seem to fit neatly into this bifurcated classificatory system. It is not even clear that Hume's own moral psychology is consistent with standard "Humean" views. Objections to Humean views will be critically examined while contemporary alternatives to them are explored.
Prerequisite: 103, 106, 204, 207, 215, 216, 217, 221 or permission of instructor.
Distribution: Epistemology and Cognition
Semester: Spring
Unit: 1.0

PHIL 349 Seminar, Speech Acts
McGowan
NOT OFFERED IN 2005-06. OFFERED IN 2006-07. This seminar will survey various philosophical issues and applications of speech act theory. Particular attention will be paid to utterances that entail facts about what is permissible for others, the role of authority in this, and indirect speech acts. Recent applications of speech act theory to free speech (e.g. hate speech and pornography) will also be discussed.

Directions for Election

The philosophy department divides its courses and seminars into three subfields: (A) the history of philosophy: 201, 220, 221, 222, 232, 224, 225, 226, 230, 300, 302, 303, 311, 312, 319, 349 (when the topic is appropriate); (B) value theory: 106, 202, 203, 204, 206, 208, 210, 211, 213, 214, 227, 232, 233, 234, 249, 303, 312 (when the topic is appropriate); (C) metaphysics and theory of knowledge: 103, 202, 207, 209, 211, 213, 216, 217, 218, 232, 233, 234, 300, 302, 304, 313, 314, 323, 327, 345, 349 (when the topic is appropriate).

The major in philosophy consists of at least nine units. PHIL 201 and 222 are required of all majors. In order to assure that all majors are familiar with the breadth of the field, every major must take two units in each of subfields B and C. Majors are strongly encouraged to take a third unit in subfield A. Students planning graduate work in philosophy should take PHIL 216 and acquire a reading knowledge of Latin, Greek, French, or German. In order to assure that students have acquired some depth in philosophy, the department requires that each major complete at least two 300-level units; these units must be in different subfields of philosophy.

The minor in philosophy consists of five units. No more than one of these units may be at the 100 level; PHIL 201 or 221 is required of all minors; at least one of the five units must be at the 300 level.

Honor

The department offers the following options for earning honors in the major field: (1) writing a thesis or a set of related essays and passing an oral examination; (2) a program designed particularly for students who have a general competence and who wish to improve their grasp of their major field by independent study in various sectors of the field. To be admitted to the thesis program, a student must have a grade point average of at least 3.5 in all work in the major field above the 100 level; the department may petition on her behalf if her GPA in the major is between 3.0 and 3.5. Option (2) involves selecting at least two related areas and one special topic for independent study. When the student is ready, she will take written examinations in her two areas and, at the end of the second term, an oral examination focusing on her special topic. See Academic Distinctions.

Exchange

The department participates in exchange programs with Brandeis and MIT. Both schools have excellent philosophy departments, and students are encouraged to consult the respective catalogs for offerings.

PE 121 (Fall and Spring) Physical Education Activities and Athletics Teams

Physical Education and Athletics Requirement

To complete the College degree requirement in physical education, a student must earn eight credit points. Students are strongly urged to earn the eight credit points by the end of the sophomore year. These credit points do not count as academic units toward the degree, but are required for graduation. There are no exceptions for the degree requirement in physical education and athletics.

Directions for Election

The requirement can be completed through:

1. completion of sufficient number of physical education instructional classes to earn eight credits; or

2. sufficient length of participation in one or more of Wellesley’s 13 varsity athletic teams to earn eight credits; or

3. a combination of sufficient completion of instructional classes and participation on varsity athletic teams to earn eight credits, including credits earned at other colleges.

Students can receive partial credit towards the eight credit points through:

Independent pursuit either on or off campus (max. four points). Students must satisfactorily complete this preapproved independent study as specified in the physical education and athletics curriculum handbook.

Sufficient length of participation in Wellesley’s physical activity clubs (max. two points). Students must satisfactorily complete this preapproved participation as specified in the physical education and athletics curriculum handbook.

Transfer students will be given partial credit toward the physical education requirement dependent upon year and semester of admission. Usually, students admitted in the sophomore year will be expected to complete four credit points at Wellesley. Students admitted in the junior year or as a Davis Scholar will be considered as having completed the degree requirement.

A student’s choice of activity is subject to the approval of the physical education and athletics department and the College health services. If a student has a temporary or permanent medical restriction, she, the physical education and athletics department and the College health services will arrange an activity program to augment her individual needs.

137 Physical Education and Athletics
No student is exempt from the physical education requirement.

Students may take a specific physical education activity only once for credit. Students may continue to enroll in physical education instructional classes after the PE 121 requirement is completed provided space is available in the class.

A. Physical Education Instructional Classes

The instructional program in physical education is divided into four terms, two each semester. Some physical education activity classes are scheduled for a term (six weeks) and give two credit points toward completing the requirement. Other physical education activity classes are offered for a semester (12 weeks) and count four credit points toward completing the requirement. All classes are graded on a credit-no credit basis.

CR - Credit for course completed satisfactorily.
NC - No credit for course not completed satisfactorily. Inadequate familiarity with the content of the course or excessive absence may result in an NC grade.
INC - Incomplete is assigned to a student who has completed the course with the exception of a test or assignment which was missed near the end of the course because of reasons not willfully negligent.

Activity classes scheduled for a semester (12 weeks):

Both Semesters: African Dance, Jazz, Badminton, Self-defense, Yoga, Strength and Circuit Training, Tai-chi, Elementary Tennis, Squash, Stretch and Tone, Pilates, Cardiovascular Fitness

First Semester only: Ballet I, Modern Dance I, Archery, Racquetball, Latino Salsa Dance, Indian Dance-Kathak Style, Karate, Kung Fu

Second Semester only: Golf, Caribbean Dance Styles, Latino Combination Dances, Intermediate Tennis

Activity classes scheduled for a term (six weeks):

Activity Term
Aerobics 1, 2, 3, 4
Archery 4
CPR/First Aid 3, Wintersession
Fencing 2, 3
Golf 1, 4
Horseback Riding 1, 2, 3, 4
Sailing 1, 4
Swim - Elementary 1
Swim - Stroke Development 2
Skiing Downhill/Snowboarding 3
Table Tennis 1, 2
Yoga Wintersession

B. Athletics Teams

The intercollegiate program offers 13 sports through which a student may earn credit points towards the completion of the degree requirement. The athletics program is divided into three seasons: fall, winter, and spring with several sports offered each season.

Athletic Team Season
Basketball Winter
Crew (varsity and novice) Fall, Spring
Cross-country Running Fall
Fencing Winter
Field Hockey Fall
Golf Fall/Spring
Lacrosse Spring
Soccer Fall
Softball Spring
Squash Winter
Swimming Winter
Tennis Fall, Spring
Volleyball Fall

Enrollment and eligibility for earning credit points toward completion of requirement by participating on one of these teams is limited to those students who are selected to the team by the head coach.

Notices of organizational meetings and tryouts for these 13 teams are distributed each year by the head coach.

PE 205 Sports Medicine

Beaman

The course combines the study of biomechanics and anatomic kinesiology. It focuses on the effects of the mechanical forces which arise within and outside the body and their relationship to injuries of the musculoskeletal system. In addition to the lectures, laboratory sessions provide a clinical setting for hands-on learning and introduce students to the practical skills involved in evaluating injuries, determining methods of treatment and establishing protocol for rehabilitation. An off-site cadaver lab reinforces identification of anatomical structures. Academic credit only.

PHYS 101 Einstein's Century: Physics in the Last 100 Years

NOT OFFERED IN 2005-06. In 1905, Albert Einstein published three seminal papers in the history of modern science, introducing the theory of special relativity, launching the field of quantum mechanics, and helping establish the atomic nature of matter. We will use Einstein's contributions as a springboard for an introductory exploration of the nature of light, matter, space, and time. PHYS 101 is designed for the student who may not have a strong science background but would like an introduction to the major themes of physics in the last one hundred years. In addition to lectures and demonstrations we will have readings that draw from the biographical and historical contexts in which these ideas developed. We will use basic high school algebra, and some trigonometry, in our work. Not to be counted toward minimum major or to fulfill entrance requirement for medical school.

Prerequisite: Fulfillment of the basic skills component of the Quantitative Reasoning requirement.
Distribution: Mathematical Modeling or Natural and Physical Science
Semester: N/O
Unit: 1.0

PHYS 103 The Physics of Marine Mammals with Laboratory

NOT OFFERED IN 2005-06. Sperm whales can dive thousands of feet, stay submerged for over an hour, and resurface rapidly; no other mammal can do that and survive. Many marine mammals thrive in arctic waters, sense the world around them using sound, and move with phenomenal efficiency. In this course we will learn the physics underlying the remarkable abilities of these aquatic mammals. Marine mammal characteristics and the associated scientific topics include: diving and swimming (ideal gas law, fluids, and forces); metabolism (energy, thermodynamics, and scaling); and senses (waves, acoustics, and optics). This course represents a naturally interdisciplinary approach in connecting biology, chemistry and engineering principles to the physics we will study as we learn about these animals. The course also emphasizes the development of modeling and problem-solving techniques. Whale watch. Not to be counted toward the minimum major or to fulfill entrance requirement for medical school.

Prerequisite: Fulfillment of the basic skills component of the Quantitative Reasoning requirement.

PHYS 104 Fundamentals of Mechanics with Laboratory
Berg, Quivers (Fall), Ducas (Spring)
This course is systematic introduction to Newtonian mechanics, which governs the motion of objects ranging from biological cells to galaxies. Primary concepts such as mass, force, energy, and momentum are introduced and discussed in depth. We will place emphasis on the conceptual framework and on using fundamental principles to analyze the everyday world. Topics include: Newton’s Laws, conservation of energy, conservation of momentum, rotations, waves, and fluids. Concepts from calculus will be developed and used as needed. Laboratories introduce experimental approaches to these topics. Students with a strong background in math or previous experience in physics should consider PHYS 107. May not be taken in addition to 107. Not to be counted toward the minimum major.
Prerequisite: Fulfillment of the basic skills component of the Quantitative Reasoning requirement. Calculus at the level of MATH 115.
Distribution: Mathematical Modeling or Natural and Physical Science
Semester: Fall, Spring
Unit: 1.25

PHYS 106 Fundamentals of Electricity, Magnetism, and Optics with Laboratory
Goldman (Fall), Berg (Spring)
This second semester of classical physics concentrates on the fundamental forces of electricity and magnetism. The electric and magnetic forces are entirely responsible for the structures and interactions of atoms and molecules, the properties of all solids, and the structure and function of biological material. Our technological society is largely dependent on the myriad applications of the physics of electricity and magnetism, e.g., motors and generators, communications systems, and the architecture of computers. After developing quantitative descriptions of electricity and magnetism, we explore the relations between them, leading us to an understanding of light as an electromagnetic phenomenon. The course will consider both ray-optics and wave-optics descriptions of light. Laboratory exercises will emphasize electrical circuits, electronic measuring instruments, optics, and optical experiments. PHYS 106 does not normally satisfy the prerequisites for 202 or 203 and does not count toward the minimum major. In the fall semester, this course may be taken as 106 or, with alternative assignments and exams, 108.
Prerequisite: 104 and calculus at the level of MATH 115.
Distribution: Mathematical Modeling or Natural and Physical Science
Semester: Fall, Spring
Unit: 1.25

PHYS 108 Principles and Applications of Electricity, Magnetism, and Optics with Laboratory
Goldman (Fall), Berg (Spring)
The electromagnetic force, one of the fundamental interactions in nature, is responsible for a remarkably wide range of phenomena and technologies, from the structures of atoms and molecules to the transmission of nerve impulses and the characteristics of integrated circuits. This introductory course begins with the study of Coulomb’s Law of electrostatics and progresses through investigations of electric fields, electric potential energy, magnetic fields, and Faraday’s Law of magnetic induction. The course culminates in the study of light, where the deep connections between electricity and magnetism are highlighted. Geometrical optics and an introduction to interference effects caused by the electromagnetic wave nature of light are covered. Laboratories, a central part of the course, provide students with hands-on experiences with electronics and electronic and optical instruments. In the fall semester, this course may be taken as 106 or, with alternative assignments and exams, 108.
Prerequisite: 107 (or 104 and permission of instructor), and MATH 116 or 120.

PHYS 115/CS 115 Robotic Design Studio
(Wintersession)
NOT OFFERED IN 2005-06. In this intensive course, students are introduced to engineering principles while designing and assembling robots out of LEGO® parts, sensors, motors, and tiny computers. Fundamental robotics skills are learned in the context of studying and modifying a simple robot known as SciBorg. Then, working in small teams, students design and build their own robots for display at a robot exhibition. These projects tie together aspects of a surprisingly wide range of disciplines, including computer science, physics, engineering, and art. Students may register for either PHYS 115 or CS 115 and credit will be granted accordingly.

PHYS 202 Introduction to Quantum Mechanics and Thermodynamics with Laboratory
Stark
The development of quantum mechanics represented one of the most fundamental revolutions in our understanding of the natural world. Quantum mechanics forms the basis for our knowledge of atoms, molecules, and solid state systems as well as of nuclei and fundamental particles. Thermodynamics deals with the concepts of heat and temperature and their connection to properties of matter and to processes in natural and constructed systems. This course introduces both of these important branches of physics and looks at their links by investigating such phenomena as atomic and molecular heat capacities, and the statistical basis for black-body radiation and the second law of thermodynamics.
Prerequisite: 108, MATH 116 or 120; Corequisite: MATH/PHYS 215
Distribution: Mathematical Modeling or Natural and Physical Science. Fulfills the Quantitative Reasoning overlay course requirement.
Semester: Fall
Unit: 1.25

PHYS 203 Vibrations, Waves, and Special Relativity with Laboratory
Ducas
A wide range of physical systems exhibits vibrational and wave motion. Because of this universality, learning about fundamental characteristics of waves and vibrations provides insight into a tremendous number of phenomena such as the motion of strings and springs, the design of musical instruments, molecular spectra, oscillations in solids, liquids and gases, sound, and electromagnetic radiation as well as the behavior of fundamental particles. There will be an emphasis on optical applications as clear and elegant examples of wave phenomena. We will also study particular research applications such as Fourier Transform Spectroscopy and Nuclear Magnetic Resonance. The course culminates with an introduction to Einstein’s Theory of Special Relativity, with a focus on explaining how this theory radically alters classical notions of space and time.
Prerequisite: 108, MATH 215/PHYS 215; Corequisite: PHYS/MATH 216 or permission of instructor.

PHYS 215/MATH 215 Mathematics for the Sciences I
Shultis (Mathematics)
This course is the first in a two-course sequence tailored to the needs and preparations of students considering majors in the sciences. It presents techniques of applied mathematics relevant to a broad range of scientific studies, from the life sciences to physics and astronomy. The topics of study include complex numbers, ordinary differential equations, an introduction to partial differential equations, linear algebra (matrices, systems of linear equations, vector spaces, eigenvalue problems), and Fourier series. The course emphasizes mathematical techniques and presents applications from all the sciences. Some familiarity with vectors (e.g., dot products) is assumed. Students may register for either PHYS 215 or MATH 215 and credit will be granted accordingly.
Prerequisite: MATH 116, 120 or the equivalent.
Distribution: Mathematical Modeling
Semester: Fall
Unit: 1.0

PHYS 216/MATH 216 Mathematics for the Sciences II
Hu
When laws of nature are written in advanced mathematical forms (for example, Maxwell’s equations for electromagnetism), gradient, divergence, and curl are frequently encountered. In the first part of this course, we will study these mathematical operations in the broader context of differential and integral vector calculus, with an emphasis on their physical meanings. This part is similar to MATH 205, but topics closely related to physics – Gauss and Stokes' theorems, spherical and cylindrical coordinates – will be discussed in depth. The second part of this course will cover Fourier transforms and partial differential equations, which are used throughout the physical sciences. The third part of this course will introduce numerical methods, which are widely used in modern scientific and engineering fields when analytical solutions to algebraic or differential equations do not exist. We will use MATLAB, a popular high-level programming language. Students may register for either PHYS 216 or MATH 216 and credit will be granted accordingly.

We are increasingly surrounded in our lives by boxes filled with electronics, but for most people (including many scientists) the inner workings of these boxes remain obscure and mysterious. This course is intended to remove much of this mystery. The approach is practical, aimed at allowing experimental scientists to understand the electronics encountered in their research. The emphasis is on designing and building circuits. Topics include diodes, transistor amplifiers, op amps, and digital electronics including microprocessors and microcontrollers. Applications to robotics will be explored. Two laboratories per week and no formal lectures.

Unit: 1.0

PHYS 302 Quantum Mechanics

Quiver

This course provides a comprehensive development of the principles of non-relativistic quantum mechanics, the fundamental theory of electrons, atoms, and molecules. Quantum mechanics governs the building blocks of all matter, and yet fundamentally challenges our physical intuition, which is based on the behavior of everyday macroscopic objects. Topics include the postulates of quantum mechanics, the Schrödinger equation, operator theory, the Heisenberg uncertainty principle, the hydrogen atom, and spin.

Prerequisite: 202, 203, and [EXTD 216] or MATH 216/PHYS 216

Distribution: Mathematical Modeling or Natural and Physical Science

Semester: Fall

Unit: 1.0

PHYS 305 Statistical Mechanics and Thermodynamics

Stark

Modern statistical mechanics builds from the quantum nature of individual particles to describe the behavior of large and small systems of such particles. In this course we will derive the fundamental laws of thermodynamics using basic principles of statistics and investigate applications to such systems as ideal and real atomic and molecular gases, radiating bodies, magnetic spins, and solids. We will study Bose-Einstein and Fermi-Dirac statistics and learn about exciting new developments such as Bose-Einstein condensation and ultra cold Fermi gases. We will cover additional applications of statistical mechanics in the fields of biology, chemistry, and astrophysics.

Prerequisite: 202 and [EXTD 216] or MATH 216/PHYS 216

Distribution: Mathematical Modeling or Natural and Physical Science

Semester: Spring

Unit: 1.0

PHYS 306 Advanced Classical Mechanics

Hu

The basic laws of Newtonian mechanics are revisited in this course using advanced mathematical tools such as differential equations and linear algebra. Special attention is paid to central forces, planetary orbits, oscillations, and rigid body dynamics. In addition, Hamilton-Lagrange mechanics, an alternative to Newtonian mechanics, nonlinear dynamics, and chaos are introduced.

Prerequisite: 203 and [EXTD 216] or MATH 216/PHYS 216

Distribution: Mathematical Modeling or Natural and Physical Science

Semester: Fall

Unit: 1.0

PHYS 314 Electromagnetic Theory

Berg

Richard Feynman once said, “From a long view of the history of mankind — seen from, say, ten thousand years from now — there can be little doubt that the most significant event of the nineteenth century will be judged as Maxwell’s discovery of the laws of electrodynamics. The American Civil War will pale into provincial insignificance in comparison with this important scientific event of the same decade.” In this course we will study the classical theory of electromagnetic fields and waves as developed by Maxwell. Topics include boundary value problems, electromagnetic radiation and its interaction with matter, and the connection between electrodynamics and relativity.

Prerequisite: 108, 306, and [EXTD 216] or MATH 216/PHYS 216

Distribution: Mathematical Modeling or Natural and Physical Science

Semester: Spring

Unit: 1.0

PHYS 335/BISC 335/NEUR 335 Computational Neuroscience with Laboratory

Goldman

Computations by networks of neurons in the brain underlie all of our thoughts, perceptions, and memories. However, direct experimental observation of neural computations is extremely difficult. Mathematical models are increasingly used to bridge the gap between experimental measurements and hypothesized network functions. This course will focus on the use of mathematical models to describe computations performed in the nervous systems of a variety of animals. Topics will range from single neuron biophysics to the analysis of circuits thought to underlie sensory perception and memory. Each topic will be introduced by background lectures, followed by student-led presentations of primary literature and construction of a computer model of the system studied. Lab will introduce students to computer programming of mathematical models in MATLAB and the neuron-simulator NEURON. Students may register for either PHYS 335, BISC 335, or NEUR 335 and credit will be granted accordingly.

Prerequisite: 104/107 and either 106/108 or NEUR/BISC 215; or permission of instructor. No programming experience is required. Open to first-year students.

Distribution: Mathematical Modeling or Natural and Physical Science

Semester: Spring

Unit: 1.25

PHYS 349 Applications of Quantum Mechanics

NOT OFFERED IN 2005-06. Quantum mechanical techniques such as perturbation theory and the numerical solutions to the Schrödinger equation will be developed. Applications to problems in atomic, molecular, and condensed matter physics will be studied both theoretically and experimentally. Two lectures and one laboratory per week.

Prerequisite: 302 or CHEM 333

Distribution: Mathematical Modeling or Natural and Physical Science

Semester: N/O

Unit: 1.25

PHYS 350 Research or Individual Study

Prerequisite: Open by permission to juniors and seniors.

Directions for Selection

A major in physics should ordinarily include: 107, 108, 202, 203, 302, 305, 306, and 314. [EXTD 216] or MATH 216/PHYS 216 is an additional requirement. 219 and 349 are strongly recommended. One unit of another laboratory science is recommended.

A minor in physics (six units) should ordinarily include: 104 or 107, 108, 202, 203, 302 and one other unit at the 300 level (350 cannot be counted as the other 300-level unit). [EXTD 216] or MATH 216/PHYS 216 is also required.

All students who wish to consider a major in physics or a related field are urged to complete the introductory sequence (107 and 108) as soon as possible, preferably in the first year. A strong mathematics background is necessary for advanced courses. It is suggested that students complete MATH 115 and 116 or 120 in their first year and the MATH 215/PHYS 215 and 216 sequence no later than their second year. All students majoring in physics are urged to develop proficiency in the use of one or more computer languages.

Honors
The only route to honors in the major is writing a thesis and passing an oral examination. To be admitted to the thesis program, a student must have a grade point average of at least 3.5 in all work in the major field above the 100-level; the department may petition on her behalf if her GPA in the major is between 3.0 and 3.5. See Academic Distinctions.

Teacher Certification
Students interested in obtaining certification to teach physics in the Commonwealth of Massachusetts should consult the chairs of the education and physics departments.

Exemption Examinations
If a student has a strong physics background (AP, IB physics credits or the equivalent) and wishes to be exempted from our introductory courses for the purpose of enrolling in a higher-level physics course, she must pass an exemption examination administered by the department. Sample examinations are available from the department. Students may not receive more than two units of credit for the introductory physics sequence. For example, a student who enrolls in both PHYS 107 and 108 will not also receive AP or IB credit.

Introductory Courses

POL 100 Introduction to Political Science
Staff
Politics is a struggle for power – and questions about power are at the heart of political science: How is power gained? How is it lost? How is it organized? How is it used? How is it abused?
This course introduces students to the concerns and methods of political scientists and to the major subfields of the discipline: American politics, comparative politics, international relations, and political theory. The course is centered on several major books in the field, some describing important political events, such as the rise of the Nazi party in Germany and the collapse of apartheid in South Africa, and some illustrating how political scientists analyze and evaluate the world of politics.
Prerequisite: None

The course is centered on several major books in the field, some describing important political events, such as the rise of the Nazi party in Germany and the collapse of apartheid in South Africa, and some illustrating how political scientists analyze and evaluate the world of politics. This course satisfies the WRIT 125 requirement and counts as a unit towards a major in political science. Includes a third session each week.
Prerequisite: None. Open only to first-year students. Distribution: Social and Behavioral Analysis Semester: Fall, Spring Unit: 1.0

POL 199 Introduction to Methods in Political Science
Han, Staff
An introduction to the collection, analysis, interpretation and presentation of data. Using examples drawn from the subfields of political science, the course provides the skills needed to understand, interpret, and critically assess empirical data presented by the news media and in academic journals. Topics include research.
American Politics and Law

POLI 200 American Politics
Burke, Han
The institutions, processes, and values that shape American politics. The origins and evolution of the U.S. Constitution, and the institutions it created: Congress, the executive branch, the presidency, the federal court system and federalism. Analysis of "intermediary" institutions including political parties, interest groups, elections, and the media. Study of enduring debates over values in American politics, with particular attention to conflicts over civil rights and civil liberties.
Prerequisite: None
Distribution: Social and Behavioral Analysis
Semester: Fall, Spring
Unit: 1.0

POLI 210 Political Participation and Influence Just
NOT OFFERED IN 2005-06. How do citizens express their interests, concerns, and preferences in politics? Why and how do some groups achieve political influence? Why are some issues taken up and others ignored? The roles played by public opinion polls, interest groups, political parties, PACs, elections, the mass media, protests, riots, and demonstrations in articulating citizen concerns to government. Special attention to problems of money in politics, low voter participation, and inequality of race, class, and gender. Course work includes reading, discussion, and direct political participation in an interest group or election campaign.
Prerequisite: One unit in political science.
Distribution: Social and Behavioral Analysis
Semester: N/O
Unit: 1.0

POLI 212 Urban Politics
Rich
Introduction to contemporary urban politics. Study of policy-making and political leadership in the areas of public education, city bureaucracies, housing, welfare, fiscal management, and economic redevelopment. Consideration of population shifts, racial and ethnic conflicts, and the impact of federal policy on urban planning.
Prerequisite: One unit in political science, economics, or American studies.
Distribution: Social and Behavioral Analysis
Semester: Fall
Unit: 1.0

POLI 213 Washington Decision-Making Schechter
Intensive Winter session course on American politics. Analysis of the political process based on readings and discussions of contemporary political and legal issues and interaction with members of Congress, congressional staff, executive department officials, activists in nonprofit organizations, Supreme Court law clerks, political campaign professionals, and reporters. This course will meet for the first week of Winter session in Wellesley and then will move to Washington for two weeks of briefings, seminar, and policy research. Mandatory credit/non credit. Not offered every year. Subject to Dean's Office approval.
Prerequisite: Permission of instructor required. Enrollment limited to juniors and seniors. One unit in American politics or law strongly recommended. Interested students must fill out a course application available in the political science office.
Distribution: Social and Behavioral Analysis
Semester: Winter session
Unit: 0.5

POLI 215 Courts, Law, and Politics Burke, Staff
Fundamentals of the American legal system, including the sources of law, the nature of legal process, the role of courts and judges, and legal reasoning and advocacy. Examination of the interaction of law and politics, and the role and limits of law as an agent for social change.
Prerequisite: 200 or permission of instructor.
Distribution: Social and Behavioral Analysis
Semester: Fall, Spring
Unit: 1.0

POLI 311 The Supreme Court in American Politics
TBA
Analysis of major developments in constitutional interpretation, the conflict over judicial activism, and current problems facing the Supreme Court. Emphasis will be placed on judicial review, the powers of the president and Congress, federal-state relations, and individual rights and liberties.
Prerequisite: 215 or one other unit in American legal studies, or permission of the instructor.
Distribution: Social and Behavioral Analysis
Semester: Fall
Unit: 1.0

POLI 313 American Presidential Politics Rich
Analysis of the central role of the president in American politics and the development and operation of the institutions of the modern presidency. The course will focus on sources of presidential power and limitations on the chief executive, with particular emphasis on relations with the other branches of government and the making of domestic and foreign policy.
Prerequisite: 200 or 210 or permission of instructor.
Distribution: Social and Behavioral Analysis
Semester: Spring
Unit: 1.0

POLI 314 Congress and the Legislative Process Han
Analysis of the representative and lawmaking capabilities of the contemporary United States Congress. Examination of how candidates for Congress run for office, with an emphasis on the use of the mass media and campaign finance. Exploration of the roles of Congress members as representatives and lawmakers; the structures and dynamics of legislator-constituent relations; the influence of the public, political parties and interest groups in the policymaking process; the institutional arrangements of Congress and its relations with other branches of government. Discussion about how internal and external opportunities and constraints affect the public policy-making process of the Congress.
Prerequisite: 200 or 210 or permission of instructor.
Distribution: Social and Behavioral Analysis
Semester: Spring
Unit: 1.0

POLI 315 Public Policy and Analysis Rich
The first part of the course will examine how domestic public policy is formulated, decided, implemented, and evaluated, at both the federal and local levels. Both moral and political standards for making policy will be examined. Factors that promote or impede the development and realization of rational, effective, and responsive public policy will be reviewed. The second part of the course will be devoted to student research and presentations on selected policy topics, including public schools, public transportation, homelessness, the environment, and drug enforcement.
Prerequisite: 200 or 210 or permission of instructor.
Distribution: Social and Behavioral Analysis
Semester: Fall
Unit: 1.0

POLI 316 Mass Media in American Democracy Just
Focus on the mass media in the American democratic process, including the effect of the news media on the information, opinions, and beliefs of the public, the electoral strategy of candidates, and the decisions of public officials. Discussion of news values, journalists' norms and behaviors, and the production of print and broadcast news.
Evaluation of news sources, priorities, bias, and accessibility. Attention to coverage of national and international affairs, as well as issues of race and gender. Questions of press freedom and journalistic ethics are explored.
Prerequisite: 200 or 210 or permission of instructor.
Distribution: Social and Behavioral Analysis
Semester: Spring
Unit: 1.0

POLI 317 Health Politics and Policy Burke
The American system of health care is distinctive. Financing is provided through voluntary employer contributions, tax subsidies, individual payments and an array of public programs, principally Medicare and Medicaid – but despite the variety of funding sources, Americans, unlike citizens of other affluent democracies, are not guaranteed health care coverage. How did the American approach to health care develop? How is it different from that of other affluent nations? What explains the differences? What are the strengths and weaknesses of the American health care system? Issues of cost containment, technological innovation, quality of care, and disparities in health outcomes are explored.
Prerequisite: 200 or 210 or permission of instructor.
Distribution: Social and Behavioral Analysis
Semester: Spring
Unit: 1.0

POLI 318 Religion and Politics in Contemporary America
NOT OFFERED IN 2005-06. This course examines the relationship between religion and politics. From the founding of the United States to President Bush's faith-based initiative, the role of religion in American political behavior has been the subject of great debate. Special attention will be paid to how religion serves as a form of political socialization, often informing political participation, voting behavior and political attitudes. Relevant policy and legal decisions will be reviewed. First Amendment topics such as the separation between church and state, religious freedom and the Establishment Clause will also be addressed.

Prerequisite: 200 or 210 or permission of the instructor.
Distribution: Social and Behavioral Analysis
Semester: N/O

POLI 319S Seminar, Campaigns and Elections

NOT OFFERED IN 2005-06. Exploration of the issues in campaigns and elections: Who runs and why? Do elections matter? The impact of party decline and the rise of campaign consultants, polls, advertising, and the press. Candidate strategies and what they tell us about the political process. How voters decide. The "meaning" of elections. Attention to the rules of the game (the primaries, debates, the Electoral College), recent campaign innovations (talk shows, town meetings, infomercials), third party candidacies, and prospects for political reform. Course work includes campaign participation.

Prerequisite: 200 or 210 or permission of instructor.
Enrollment limited; interested students must fill out a seminar application available in the political science department office or on the department Web site.
Distribution: Social and Behavioral Analysis
Semester: N/O

Unit: 1.0

POLI 320S Seminar, Inequality and the Law

TBA

NOT OFFERED IN 2005-06. Analysis of statutory and Constitutional law regarding inequalities based on gender, race, class, sexual orientation, and disability, and the effect of this law on society. Do anti-discrimination laws reduce social inequality? To what extent have the legal rights won by groups such as African Americans, women, and disabled people been translated into social practices? Focus on the equal protection and due process clauses of the Fourteenth Amendment, statutes such as the 1964 Civil Rights Act and the Americans with Disabilities Act, and recent Supreme Court decisions. Examination of the role of law and litigation in public policies regarding affirmative action, school desegregation, employment discrimination, housing, and welfare.

Prerequisite: 215, 311, or another unit in American legal studies and permission of instructor.
Enrollment limited; interested students must fill out a seminar application available in the political science department office or on the department Web site.
Distribution: Social and Behavioral Analysis
Semester: N/O

Unit: 1.0

POLI 333S Seminar, Ethics and Politics

Just

An exploration of ethical issues in politics, public policy, and the press. Critical questions include deception (is it permissible to lie?), "bedfellows" (does it matter who your friends are?), and means and ends (do some purposes justify deception, violence, or torture?)

Consideration of moral justifications of policies, such as cost-benefit analysis, risk ratios, and social justice, as well as the proper role of journalists in holding public officials to an ethical standard.

Prerequisite: One 200-level unit in American politics.
Enrollment limited; interested students must fill out a seminar application available in the political science department office or on the department Web site.
Distribution: Social and Behavioral Analysis
Semester: Fall

Unit: 1.0

POLI 334S Seminar, Disability in American Society: Politics, Policy, and Law

Ash (Women's Studies), Burke

NOT OFFERED IN 2005-06. The preamble of the Americans with Disabilities Act declares that 43 million Americans are disabled, but some believe the number is a ridiculous overestimate while others consider it a vast understatement. What exactly is "disability"? How is this concept used in American public policy and law? What is life like for Americans with disabilities? This seminar examines the politics of disability in the United States, paying particular attention to the perspectives of people with disabilities and to the history of the disability rights movement.

Prerequisite: Open to juniors and seniors by permission of instructor. Enrollment limited; interested students must fill out a seminar application available in the political science department office or on the department Web site.
Distribution: Social and Behavioral Analysis
Semester: N/O

Unit: 1.0

POLI 335S Seminar, The First Amendment

Burke

A study of some of the classic legal cases and continuing controversies that have arisen out of the First Amendment to the U.S. Constitution. Examination of contemporary First Amendment issues such as flag-burning, hate speech, pornography, libel, invasion of privacy, school prayer, creationism, and government aid to religious institutions. Comparisons with the legal doctrines of other nations regarding freedom of speech and religion.

Prerequisite: 215, 311, or another unit in American legal studies and permission of instructor.
Enrollment limited; interested students must fill out a seminar application available in the political science department office or on the department Web site.
Distribution: Social and Behavioral Analysis
Semester: Spring

Unit: 1.0

POLI 336S Seminar, Judicial Politics

TBA

NOT OFFERED IN 2005-06. An examination of judges as political actors in a democratic system, with a focus on judicial selection, judicial behavior, and theories of judicial interpretation. Comparisons of legal systems that provide for judicial selection, considerations of recent issues about campaign contributions to judicial candidates and the role of interest groups in the confirmation process. Analysis of various theories of judicial behavior, such as attitudinal, strategic, psychological and institutional approaches, as explanations of judicial decision-making. Study of interpretive theories in constitutional and statutory lawmaking as a means of discussing the appropriate role of judges in the broader democratic policymaking process.

Prerequisite: 215, 311, or another unit in American legal studies and permission of instructor.
Enrollment limited; interested students must fill out a seminar application available in the political science department office or on the department Web site.
Distribution: Social and Behavioral Analysis
Semester: N/O

Unit: 1.0

POLI 337S Seminar, The Politics of Minority Groups in the United States

Rich

NOT OFFERED IN 2005-06. An examination of office-holding, voting patterns, coalition formation, and political activities among various racial, ethnic, and religious minority groups in the United States, including Black Americans, Mexican Americans, Native Americans, Puerto Ricans, Jews, Arabs, Asians, Central and South Americans.

Prerequisite: Open to juniors and seniors by permission of instructor. Enrollment limited; interested students must fill out a seminar application available in the political science department office or on the department Web site.
Distribution: Social and Behavioral Analysis
Semester: N/O

Unit: 1.0

POLI 338S Seminar, Representation

NOT OFFERED IN 2005-06. Analysis of the theory and practice of political representation. Examination of what constitutes "good" representation, how much control the people should have over their elected leaders and the public policymaking process, and what factors (i.e., public opinion, political parties, interest groups, the media, the common good, etc.) influence legislators' policy and legislative decisions. Exploration of how the possibilities for making our representative institutions more participatory are related to our notions of human nature, citizenship, and community.

Prerequisite: Open to juniors and seniors by permission of instructor. Enrollment limited; interested students must fill out a seminar application available in the political science department office or on the department Web site.
Distribution: Social and Behavioral Analysis
Semester: N/O

Unit: 1.0

POLI 339S/EDUC 339 Seminar, The Politics of Urban Public Schools

Rich

This seminar examines recurrent issues in public school management and governance. Critical questions include the changing demographics of inner city schools, the evolving role of school boards, big city mayors, urban superintendents, teachers unions, and school finance. We will also discuss alternatives to public schools (parochial, private, and charter schools), high-stakes testing, and district-state relations. The seminar will also analyze the increasing intervention of state and federal governments in local school administration and the role of the courts in curriculum controversies, student life, and security. Students may register for either POLI 339S or EDUC 339, and credit will be granted accordingly.

Prerequisite: One unit in POLI or EDUC.
Distribution: Social and Behavioral Analysis
Semester: Spring

Unit: 1.0

Comparative Politics

POLI 202 Comparative Politics

Krieger, Wasserspring, Staff

A comparative study of contemporary politics and political systems and the exploration of various approaches to comparative political analysis. Emphasis on the interactive effects of global forces and domestic politics. Issues to be discussed include authoritarianism, revolutions, nationalism, social movements, and political culture. Country studies will be used to illuminate themes such as the role of the state in gov-
POL2 204 Political Economy of Development and Underdevelopment

Candland

An analysis of political and economic issues in the Third World with special emphasis on the major explanations for underdevelopment and alternative strategies for development. Topics discussed include colonialism, nationalism, the Third World in the international system, state-building and political change, rural development, and gender perspectives on underdevelopment.

Prerequisite: One unit in political science. Open to seniors and without prerequisite. By permission of instructor to other qualified students.

Distribution: Social and Behavioral Analysis

Semester: Fall

Unit: 1.0

POL2 205 The Politics of Europe and the European Union

Krieger

NOT OFFERED IN 2005-06. A comparative study of contemporary West European states and societies. Primary emphasis on politics in Germany, Britain, and France, and the political challenges posed by the European Union and pressure for regional integration. The course will focus on topics such as the rise and decline of the welfare state and class-based politics; the implications of the end of the Cold War and German reunification; tension between national sovereignty and supranational policy goals; immigration and the emergence of xenophobic movements and the extreme right.

Prerequisite: One unit in political science or European history; open to juniors and seniors without prerequisite.

Distribution: Social and Behavioral Analysis

Semester: N/O

Unit: 1.0

POL2 206 Politics and Foreign Policy of Russia

Arreguín-Toft

An introduction to the political history, political system, and international politics of the Russian Federation. The course will introduce the creation, development, and dissolution of the Soviet Union, but will focus most closely on post-Soviet Russia. Particular attention will be paid to the legacies of the communist regime in shaping the inter- and intra-state politics of the Russian Federation; as well as processes of political, economic, and military reform.

Prerequisite: Open to sophomores, juniors, and seniors without prerequisite.

Distribution: Social and Behavioral Analysis

Semester: Fall

Unit: 1.0

POL2 207 Politics of Latin America

Wasserspring

The course will explore Latin American political systems, focusing on the problems and limits of change in Latin America today. An examination of the broad historical, economic, and cultural forces that have molded Latin American nations.

Evaluation of the complex revolutionary experiences of Mexico and Cuba and the failure of revolution in Chile. Focus on the contemporary struggles for change in Central America. Contrasting examples drawn from Mexico, Cuba, Chile, Nicaragua, and El Salvador.

Prerequisite: One unit in political science; permission of instructor to other qualified students.

Distribution: Social and Behavioral Analysis

Semester: Spring

Unit: 1.0

POL2 208 Politics of China

Joseph

An introduction to the modern political history and contemporary political system of China. Topics include the origins and victory of the Chinese Communist revolution, the rule and legacy of Chairman Mao Zedong, economic reform and political repression in the era of Deng Xiaoping, and recent developments in Chinese politics. Politics in Tibet, Hong Kong, and Taiwan will also be considered.

Prerequisite: One unit in political science, economics, history, or Asian studies recommended, but not required.

Distribution: Social and Behavioral Analysis

Semester: Fall

Unit: 1.0

POL2 209 Politics of Japan and Korea

TBA

The first half of the course will focus on Japan and consider the core political institutions of the postwar era and the politics of rapid industrialization. Issues to be discussed include: the shift from one-party dominance to coalition government, the new electoral system, and the effects of economic stagnation. The second half of the course looks at Korean politics (South and North) and inter-Korean relations and considers the effects of Japanese colonialism and the Korean War. For South Korea, we will look at authoritarianism, democratization, economic development, nationalism, regionalism, and minority rights; for North Korea, the leadership and its ideology, economic conditions, and nuclear diplomacy.

Prerequisite: One unit in political science, economics, history, or Asian studies. Open to juniors and seniors without prerequisite.

Distribution: Social and Behavioral Analysis

Semester: Fall

Unit: 1.0

POL2 211 Politics of South Asia

Candland

NOT OFFERED IN 2005-06. An introduction to the colonial political histories and contemporary political systems of India, Pakistan, Bangladesh, Sri Lanka, Afghanistan, Nepal, Bhutan and the Maldives. The course addresses the following issues: the process of decolonization and the struggle for independence; the political challenges of economic development; religious and ethnic conflict; democracy, democratization, and human rights; regional cooperation and conflict.

Prerequisite: One unit in political science; open to juniors and seniors without prerequisite.

Distribution: Social and Behavioral Analysis

Semester: N/O

Unit: 1.0

POL2 302 Globalization and the Nation-State

Krieger

An assessment of globalization and the challenges it poses for the exercise of state power before and after September 11, 2001. Topics to be considered include: economic competitiveness, alternative geopolitical strategies, and international terrorism. The course will consider alternative interpretations of globalization and weigh the explanatory value of a set of theses that are intended to explain the interactive effects of globalization and state power in an era of unrivaled American hegemony. Case studies will look in depth at the United States, E.U. Europe, and East Asia.

Prerequisite: One 200-level unit in comparative politics or international relations or permission of instructor.

Distribution: Social and Behavioral Analysis

Semester: Spring

Unit: 1.0

POL2 304 State and Society in East Asia

Moon

NOT OFFERED IN 2005-06. An examination of the relationships between governments and social forces in Northeast and Southeast Asia. Countries to be considered include Japan, Korea, Taiwan, Singapore, the Philippines, Malaysia, Thailand, and Indonesia. The course takes a thematic approach to analyzing the political development and changing international roles of these countries in the second half of the twentieth century. Among the issues to be considered are: authoritarianism, military rule, democratization, labor movements, gender politics, nationalism, and relations with the West.

Prerequisite: One 200-level unit in comparative politics or permission of instructor.

Distribution: Social and Behavioral Analysis

Semester: N/O

Unit: 1.0

POL2 305 Seminar. The Military in Politics

Wasserspring

NOT OFFERED IN 2005-06. Focus on relations between the military and politics. Emphasis on the varieties of military involvement in politics, the causes of direct military intervention in political systems, and the consequences of military influence over political decisions. Themes include the evolution of the professional soldier, military influence in contemporary industrial society, and the prevalence of military regimes in Third World nations. Case studies include the United States, Brazil, Peru, Nigeria, Ghana, and Egypt.

Prerequisite: Open to juniors and seniors by permission of instructor. Enrollment limited; interested students must fill out a seminar application available in the political science department office or on the department Web site.

Distribution: Social and Behavioral Analysis

Semester: N/O

Unit: 1.0

POL2 307 Seminar. Women and Development

Wasserspring

A comparative analysis of the impact of change on gender in the Third World. The status of women in traditional societies, the impact of "development" upon peasant women, female urban migration experiences, and the impact of the urban environment on women's lives in the Third World are themes to be considered. Special emphasis will be placed on the role of the state in altering or reinforcing gender stereotypes. Comparing cultural conceptions of gender and the factors which enhance or hinder the transformation of these views will also be emphasized. Examples will be drawn from all regions of the Third World.

Prerequisite: Open to juniors or seniors who have taken at least one 200-level course in comparative politics or permission of instructor. Enrollment limited; interested students must fill out a seminar application available in the political science department office or on the department Web site.

POL 310S Seminar: Politics of Community Development
Canland
Focuses on strategies for poverty alleviation, employment generation, promotion of social opportunity, and empowerment. Examines the activities of non-governmental organizations and their often contentious relations with funders, government agencies, and each other. Considers women’s leadership in social change, local control of resources, faith-based activism, and collaboration between activists and researchers. Emphasis is on developing Asia, Africa, and Latin America. Specific non-governmental organizations and development programs are closely examined.
Prerequisite: Open to juniors or seniors by permission of instructor. Enrollment limited; interested students must fill out a seminar application available in the political science department office or on the department Web site. Not open to students who have taken [POL 310].
Distribution: Social and Behavioral Analysis
Semester: Fall Unit: 1.0

POL 311S Seminar: The Politics of Contemporary Cuba
Waterspring
NOT OFFERED IN 2005-06. An analysis and assessment of the politics of the Cuban Revolution. Examination of the pre-Revolutionary Cuban society, significant transformative phases of Cuban policy, the impact of United States and Soviet foreign policy objectives on Cuba, and the contemporary dilemma of maintaining socialist institutions in the post-cold war era. Special emphasis on political culture and its transformation, the role of political leadership, and the international constraints upon domestic political formulation. Topics include the government’s impact on education, health care and women’s lives, the effects of the re-introduction of tourism as a developmental strategy, and the influence of Cuban-American politics in Miami. In addition to social science sources, we will use Cuban film, art, and literature as vehicles of understanding this complex political experience.
Prerequisite: Any 200-level unit in comparative politics or permission of instructor. Enrollment limited; interested students must fill out a seminar application available in the political science department office or on the department Web site.
Distribution: Social and Behavioral Analysis
Semester: N/O Unit: 1.0

POL 312S Seminar: Environmental Policy
TBA
Focuses both on how to make and how to study environmental policy. Examines issues central in understanding how environmental policy works and explores these topics in depth through case studies of current environmental policy issues. Students will also undertake an original research project and work in groups on influencing or creating local environmental policy.
Prerequisite: One 200-level unit in political science and permission of instructor. Enrollment limited; interested students must fill out a seminar application available in the political science department office or on the department Web site.
Distribution: Social and Behavioral Analysis
Semester: TBA Unit: 1.0

POL 383 Politics of Migration
Moon
A comparative study of the politics of mass population movements across state borders, including forced relocation under colonialism, refugees of war, food migration, labor migration, and different forms of legal and illegal immigration, including the international trafficking of persons. Analyzes migration and immigration policies in sending and receiving countries, U.N. conventions on the movement of persons, and social movements against and on behalf of migrant peoples. Country cases to be examined include Algeria and France, Brazil and Japan, Canada and Hong Kong, China and North Korea, Germany and Turkey, and the Philippines and the United States.
Prerequisite: One 200-level course in comparative politics or international relations or permission of instructor.

International Relations

POL 321 World Politics
Arrequin-Toft, Goddard
An introduction to the international system with emphasis on contemporary theory and practice. Analysis of the bases of power and influence, the sources of tension and conflict, and the modes of accommodation and conflict resolution. This course serves as an introduction to the international relations subfield in the political science department, and also as a means of fulfilling the political science core requirement of the international relations major.
Prerequisite: One unit in history or political science.
Distribution: Social and Behavioral Analysis
Semester: Fall, Spring Unit: 1.0

POL 324 International Security
Paarlberg, Arrequin-Toft
An examination of warfare as a central problem of international politics. The shifting causes and escalating consequences of warfare since the Industrial Revolution. The post cold war danger of a clash of civilizations versus prospects for a "democratic peace." The multiple causes and consequences of modern internal warfare, and prospects for international peacekeeping. The spread of nuclear weapons, the negotiation of arms control agreements, the revolution in military affairs (RMA), and the threat of terrorism and asymmetric war.
Prerequisite: One unit in international relations or permission of instructor.
Distribution: Social and Behavioral Analysis
Semester: Spring Unit: 1.0

POL 326 International Relations in East Asia
TBA
This course examines political and economic relations in East Asia, with the aim of understanding the determinants of conflict and cooperation in the region and providing a framework for analyzing the foreign policies of East Asian states. Among the questions considered: Is the East Asian economic miracle indeed a miracle? Is the rise of China dangerous to its neighbors? Can Japan be a leader in the region? What is South Korea’s choice between security and reunification? Whether North Korea survives or implodes, what would be the consequences for East Asia? How do states respond to growing economic interdependence and to security multilateralism in the region?
Prerequisite: One unit in international relations or comparative politics or permission of the instructor.
Distribution: Social and Behavioral Analysis
Semester: Fall Unit: 1.0

POL 327 The Vietnam War
Joseph
An examination of the origins, development, and consequences of the Vietnam War. Topics to be considered include: the impact of French colonialism on traditional Vietnamese society; the role of World War II in shaping nationalism and communism in Vietnam; the motives, stages, and strategies of American intervention in Vietnam; leadership, organization, and tactics of the Vietnamese revolutionary movement; the expansion of the conflict to Cambodia and Laos; the antia war movement in the United States; lessons and legacies of the Vietnam War; and political and economic development in Vietnam since the end of the war in 1975.
Prerequisite: One unit in social sciences or permission of instructor. Not open to students who have taken [POL 306].
Distribution: Social and Behavioral Analysis
Semester: Spring Unit: 1.0

POL 321 The United States in World Politics
Paarlberg
An examination of American foreign policy, understood as the current and recent behavior of the United States Government abroad. The pre-eminence of American military power in the post Cold War Era makes understanding United States policy essential to the larger study of international relations. Emphasis will be placed on different theoretical approaches to explaining United States behavior, including approaches based on structures of the international system versus explanations that are particular to American geography, history, culture, or institutions.

Prerequisite: One unit in international relations. Not open to students who have taken [POL3 3215].
Distribution: Social and Behavioral Analysis
Semester: Fall
Unit: 1.0

POL3 3225 Seminar. Gender in World Politics Moon
NOT OFFERED IN 2005-06. The course will examine gender constructions in world politics and assess the roles of women as leaders, actors, and objects of foreign policy. Some topics include gender biases in international relations theories, institutions, and policies; women's relationship to state; feminist analysis of war/peace, political economy, and human rights; coalition building around issues of gender.
Prerequisite: 221 or permission of instructor. Enrollment limited: interested students must fill out a seminar application available in the political science department office or on the department Web site.
Distribution: Social and Behavioral Analysis
Semester: N/O
Unit: 1.0

POL3 323 International Economic Policy Paarlberg
A review of the politics of international economic relations, including trade, money, and multinational investment within the industrial world and also among rich and poor countries. Political explanations for the differing economic performance of states in Asia, Africa, and Latin America. Consideration of the respective roles of intergovernmental organizations, nongovernmental organizations, and multinational corporations. Discussion of global governance issues including food, population, migration, energy, and environment.
Prerequisite: One unit in international relations or comparative politics.
Distribution: Social and Behavioral Analysis
Semester: Fall
Unit: 1.0

POL3 325 International Environmental Law DeSombre
NOT OFFERED IN 2005-06. Examines the basic legal instruments and their historical development in addressing international environmental issues. Under what conditions have states been able to cooperate to improve the global environment? Negotiation of, compliance with, and effectiveness of international environmental law, and specific environmental issue areas in which international environmental law operates will be addressed.
Prerequisite: One unit in international relations or legal studies, or permission of instructor.
Distribution: Social and Behavioral Analysis
Semester: N/O
Unit: 1.0

POL3 327 International Organization TIB
The politics of global governance. Emphasis on the U.N., plus examination of specialized agencies, multilateral conferences, and regional or functional economic and security organizations. The theory and practice of integration beyond the nation-state, as well as the creation and destruction of international regimes.
Prerequisite: One unit in international relations or comparative politics.
Distribution: Social and Behavioral Analysis
Semester: Spring
Unit: 1.0

POL3 328S Seminar. Selected Topics in World Politics: Anti-Americanism as Politics and Performance Moon
Seminar exploring the causes, characteristics, and political implications of the recent resurgence of "anti-Americanism" in international politics. Political actors engaged in anti-American activities and activism include civic organizations, intellectual and cultural elites, politicians, media, terrorists, peace activists, and others in democratic and authoritarian countries alike. Differing political motivations and public expressions, as well as national and regional variations of anti-Americanism will be examined. The seminar will engage a range of sources, such as survey data, religious rhetoric, nationalista platforms, protest literature, official policy statements, court cases, and pop music. Country cases include France, Germany, Iraq, Mexico, North Korea, Pakistan, Philippines, South Korea, the United Kingdom, and the United States.
Prerequisite: One 200-level course or higher in both international relations and comparative politics. Enrollment limited: interested students must fill out a seminar application available in the political science department office or on the department Web site.
Distribution: Social and Behavioral Analysis
Semester: Spring
Unit: 1.0

POL3 329 International Law Hatchkis (at Babson)
An exploration of the meaning of the "rule of law" in a global context. The course focuses on three themes. First, the classic form of international law, including the concepts of statehood and sovereignty, the relationship of nations to each other, and the growth of international organizations. Second, the role and responsibility of individuals in international law, especially in the area of human rights. Third, the developing international law of the earth's common areas, specifically the oceans, space, and the environment.
Prerequisite: One unit in international relations or legal studies, or permission of instructor.
Distribution: Social and Behavioral Analysis
Semester: Fall
Unit: 1.0

POL3 332S Seminar. People, Agriculture, and the Environment Paarlberg
An examination of linkages between agricultural production, population growth, and environmental degradation, especially in the countries of the developing world. Political explanations will be sought for deforestation, desertification, habitat destruction, species loss, water pollution, flooding, salinization, chemical poisoning, and soil erosion—all of which are products of agriculture. These political explanations will include past and present interactions with rich countries, as well as factors currently internal to poor countries. Attention will be paid to the local, national, and international options currently available to remedy the destruction of rural environments in the developing world. This course may qualify as either a comparative politics or an international relations unit for the political science major, depending upon the student's choice of research paper topic.
Prerequisite: 204 or 323. Enrollment limited: interested students must fill out a seminar application available in the political science department office or on the department Web site.

Exploration of contemporary political and social theories, including existentialism, contemporary variants of Marxism, postmodern theory, feminism, and liberal theory.
Prerequisite: One unit in political theory, social theory, or political philosophy, or permission of the instructor.
Distribution: Religion, Ethics, and Moral Philosophy
Semester: Fall
Unit: 1.0

POLI 248 Power and Politics

Euben
NOT OFFERED IN 2005-06. An examination of the nature and functioning of power in politics, with an emphasis on the following questions: What is the nature of power and how has it been exercised in political life both past and present? Who has power and who should have it? Is power primarily wielded by political leaders and bureaucrats, or has the development of new technologies decentralized power, making each of us an instrument? Do the powerless – for example, miners in Appalachia, Polish solidarity activists, Indian anti-colonialists – understand and exercise power differently from those who traditionally hold it? Are power and violence inextricably intertwined or are they opposites?

Readings will be drawn from several disciplines, and authors include Thucydides, bell hooks, Hannah Arendt, Marx, Nietzsche, Foucault, Kafka, Gandhi, and Vaclav Havel.
Prerequisite: One unit in political science, philosophy, or history, or permission of instructor.
Distribution: Religion, Ethics, and Moral Philosophy
Semester: N/O

POLI 340 American Political Thought

Stettner
Examination of American political writing, with emphasis given to the Constitutional period, progressive era, and contemporary sources. Questions raised include: origins of American institutions, including the rationale for federalism and separation of powers, the roles of presidents and Congress, judicial review; American interpretations of democracy, equality, freedom and justice; legitimate powers of central and local governments. Attention paid to historical context and to importance for modern political analysis.

POLI 346 Comparative Political Thought: Modern Western and Islamic Theories of Politics

Euben
NOT OFFERED IN 2005-06. An examination of Western and Islamic theories about the nature and dilemmas of modern politics: does modern politics require secularization or a return to the “fundamentals” of tradition, religion, and community? Is there such a thing as a distinctive Western or Islamic perspective in a world shaped by colonialism, imperialism, and now globalization? Issues include the relationship between religion and politics; cultural relativism and universalism; Islamic fundamentalist and postmodernist reactions to the cries of modern politics. Authors include Machiavelli, Muhammad Abduh, Rousseau, Ibn Khaldun, Taha Hussein, and Foucault.
Prerequisite: One 200-level unit in political theory or philosophy or permission of instructor.

AFR 318 Seminar. African Women, Social Transformation and Empowerment

Directions for Election

POL 100 is strongly recommended for all further work in political science, particularly for those who are considering a major in the department.
A major in political science consists of at least nine units. Courses at the 100-level may be counted toward the major, but not toward a subfield distribution requirement (see below). In the process of fulfilling their major, students are encouraged to take at least one course or seminar that focuses on the politics of a culture other than their own.
The Department of Political Science divides its courses beyond the introductory level into four subfields: American politics and law (POL1), comparative politics (POL2), international relations (POL3), and political theory (POL4).
In order to ensure that political science majors familiarize themselves with the substantive concerns and methodologies employed throughout the discipline, all majors must take one 200-level or 300-level unit in each of the four subfields offered by the department. Recommended first courses in the four subfields are: in American politics and law: POL1 200; in comparative politics: POL2 202; in international relations: POL3 221; in political theory: POL4 201, 240, 241.
In addition to the subfield distribution requirement, all majors must do advanced work (300 level) in at least two of the four subfields; a minimum of one of these units must be a seminar, which normally requires a major research paper.
(Courses fulfilling the semester requirement are denoted by an “S” after the course number.)
Admission to department seminars is by permission of the instructor only. Interested students must fill out a seminar application, which is available in the political science office prior to preregistration for each term. Majors should begin applying for seminars during their junior year in order to be certain of fulfilling this requirement. Majors are encouraged to take more than the minimum number of required 300-level courses.
Ordinaril, a minimum of five units for the major must be taken at Wellesley, as must the courses that are used to fulfill at least two of the four subfield distributions and the seminar requirement. The department does not grant transfer credit at the 300 level for either the major or for College distribution or degree requirements.
Although the College does not grant academic credit for participation in internship programs, students who take part in the Washington Summer Internship Program may arrange with a faculty member to undertake a unit of 350, Research or Individual Study, related to the internship experience.
Students may receive units of College credit if they achieve a grade of 4 or 5 on the American Government and Politics or the Comparative Politics Advanced Placement Examinations. Such AP credits do not count toward the minimum number of units required for the political science major nor for the American or comparative subfield distribution requirements for the major. If a student does receive a unit of College credit for the American politics exam, she may not take POL1 200 (American Politics). Students who are uncertain whether to receive a College AP credit in American politics or to take POL1 200 should consult with a member of the department who specializes in American politics or law.
Majors who are interested in writing a senior honors thesis are urged to discuss their ideas and plans with either their advisor or the department chair as early as possible in their junior year. Students considering going to graduate school for a Ph.D. in political science should talk with their advisors about appropriate preparation in quantitative methods and foreign languages.

Unit: 1.0

PSYC 217 Cognition
Tinoff
Cognitive psychology is the study of the capabilities and limitations of the human mind when viewed as a system for processing information. An examination of basic issues and research in cognition focusing on attention, pattern recognition, memory, language, and decision-making.
Prerequisite: For students entering the College in fall 2004 or later: PSYC 101, AP score of 5 or permission of instructor. For students entering the College prior to fall 2004: no prerequisite.
Distribution: Epistemology and Cognition or Social and Behavioral Analysis
Semester: Fall
Unit: 1.0

PSYC 218 Sensation and Perception
NOT OFFERED IN 2005-06. A survey of the human senses from stimulus to perception. Topics include basic features in vision: color, form, orientation, and size; perception of the third dimension; illusions; attention; limits on perception; and the effects of experience and development. Relevant neurophysiological and clinical examples will be reviewed as well as laboratory demonstrations.
Prerequisite: For students entering the College in fall 2004 or later: PSYC 101, AP score of 5 or permission of instructor. For students entering the College prior to fall 2004: no prerequisite.
Distribution: Epistemology and Cognition or Social and Behavioral Analysis
Semester: Spring
Unit: 1.0

PSYC 219 Biological Psychology
Koff
Introduction to the biological bases of behavior. Topics include structure and function of the nervous system, sensory processing, sleep, reproductive behavior, language, and mental disorders.
Prerequisite: For students entering the College in fall 2004 or later: PSYC 101, AP credit or permission of instructor. For students entering the College prior to fall 2004: no prerequisite. Not open to students who have taken BISC 213/NEUR 213.
Distribution: Epistemology and Cognition or Social and Behavioral Analysis
Semester: Fall
Unit: 1.0

PSYC 224 Abnormal Psychology
Thorntan
An examination of major psychological disorders with special emphasis on phenomenology. Behavioral treatment of anxiety based disorders, cognitive treatment of depression, psychoanalytic therapy of personality disorders, and biochemical treatment of schizophrenia will receive special attention. Other models of psychopathology will also be discussed.
Prerequisite: For students entering the College in fall 2004 or later: PSYC 101, AP score of 5 or permission of instructor. For students entering the College prior to fall 2004: no prerequisite. Not open to students who have taken [309].
Distribution: Social and Behavioral Analysis
Semester: Fall, Spring
Unit: 1.0

PSYC 230 Psychology of Law
Carli
Do biases affect the decisions of juries? Do guilty defendants escape punishment by faking insanity? Does the death penalty reduce crime? This course focuses on the application of psychology to legal questions such as these. Other possible topics include: jury selection, the reliability of eyewitness testimony, factors affecting the perceived innocence or guilt of defendants, the use of hypnosis and lie detector tests, blaming victims of crime, methods of interrogation, and issues surrounding testimony from children in abuse cases. This course will explore both theory and research on the psychology of law and will include case analyses.
Prerequisite: For students entering the College in fall 2004 or later: PSYC 101, AP score of 5 or permission of instructor. For students entering the College prior to fall 2004: no prerequisite.
Distribution: Social and Behavioral Analysis
Semester: Spring
Unit: 1.0

PSYC 245 Cultural Psychology
NOT OFFERED 2005-06. Examines how and why cultural factors affect social and developmental psychological processes. Individual, interpersonal, and contextual factors are considered to expand our understanding of increasingly diverse environments.
Prerequisite: For students entering the College in fall 2004 or later: PSYC 101, AP score of 5 or permission of instructor. For students entering the College prior to fall 2004: no prerequisite.
Distribution: Social and Behavioral Analysis
Semester: N/O
Unit: 1.0

PSYC 248 Psychology of Teaching, Learning, and Motivation
NOT OFFERED 2005-06. The psychology of preschool, primary, secondary, and college education. Investigation of the many contributions of psychology to both educational theory and practice. Topics include student development in the cognitive, social, and emotional realms; assessment of student variability and performance; interpretation and evaluation of standardized tests and measurements; classroom management; teaching style; tracking and ability grouping; motivation; and teacher effectiveness.
Prerequisite: One 200-level unit, excluding 205.
Distribution: Social and Behavioral Analysis
Semester: N/O
Unit: 1.0

PSYC 299 Practicum in Psychology
Staff
Participation in a structured learning experience in an approved field setting under faculty supervision. Does not count toward the minimum major in psychology. Mandatory credit/non-credit, except by permission of instructor.
Prerequisite: Open by permission to junior and senior PSYC majors. Two units above the 100-level that are most appropriate to the field setting as determined by the faculty supervisor (excluding 205).
Distribution: None
Semester: Fall, Spring
Unit: 1.0

PSYC 300/CLSC 300 Topics in Cognitive and Linguistic Sciences
Lucas
Topic for 2005-06: Cooperation and Competition. According to traditional models of rationality, rational agents should act in ways that will maximize their self-interest. And the study of evolution teaches us that individuals are in competition for survival. Nonetheless, we have all experienced acts of apparent selfishness and societies could not function without cooperation among their members. How, then, can cooperative and selfless behaviors be explained?

In this course, an interdisciplinary approach to the problem will be taken. Evidence and theories from the psychological, economic, and neurological literatures will be examined. Cross-cultural, developmental, and cross-species differences will be explored as will the evolutionary origins of cooperation and competition and the role of cooperation in language. Students may register for either PSYC 300 or CLSC 300 and credit will be granted accordingly.

Prerequisite: Open to juniors and seniors who have taken one of PSYC 215-219, [LANG] LING 114, PHIL 215, CS 111 or permission of instructor.
Distribution: Social and Behavioral Analysis
Semester: Fall, Spring
Unit: 1.0

PSYC 303R Research Methods in Developmental Psychology
Gleason, Cleveland
An introduction to research methods appropriate to the study of human development in teaching and learning settings; preschool through college. Individual and group projects. Laboratory. Each section typically limited to 12 students. Observations at the Child Study Center and other classroom locations required.
Prerequisite: 205 and 207 or 218. Not open to students who have taken [206R].
Distribution: Social and Behavioral Analysis
Semester: N/O
Unit: 1.25

PSYC 308 Systems of Psychotherapy
Wink
This course examines theory, research, and practice in three schools of psychotherapy: psychodynamic, cognitive-behavioral, and humanistic.
Topics to be covered include underlying assumptions of normalcy/pathology, theories of change, methods/techniques, and relationship between therapist and client.
Prerequisite: Open to juniors and seniors who have taken two 200-level units including 224 and excluding 205, or permission of instructor.
Distribution: Social and Behavioral Analysis
Semester: Fall, Spring
Unit: 1.0

PSYC 310R Research Methods in Social Psychology
Schiavo, Akert
An introduction to research methods appropriate to the study of social psychology. Individual and group projects on selected topics. Laboratory. Each section typically limited to 12 students.
Prerequisite: 205 and 210, 211, or 245. Not open to students who have taken [210R].
Distribution: Social and Behavioral Analysis
Semester: Fall, Spring
Unit: 1.25

PSYC 311 Seminar. Environmental Psychology
Schiavo
Exploration of the interaction between the physical environment and an individual’s behavior and feelings. Emphasis on relevant topics such as territoriality, personal space, and crowding. Some attention to children and to environmental issues, such as conservation and psychological consequences of natural disasters. Specific settings, such as urban environments, playgrounds, and homes, are studied. Small groups of students will use observation, interview or questionnaire techniques to pursue small-scale research topics. There will be individual oral reports.
Prerequisite: Open to juniors and seniors who have taken two 200-level units, excluding 205, or permission of instructor.
Distribution: Social and Behavioral Analysis
Semester: Spring
Unit: 1.0

PSYC 312 Seminar. Applied Psychology
NOT OFFERED IN 2005-06. Analysis of psychologically-based programs and interventions in applied settings such as organizations, social service agencies, health-care facilities, social support groups, environmental and community change agencies, etc. Consideration of the psychological theories, methods, and research findings which provide the foundation for these programs. Students will participate in relevant settings or activities.
Prerequisite: Open to juniors and seniors who have taken two 200-level units, excluding 205, or permission of instructor.
Distribution: Social and Behavioral Analysis
Semester: N/O
Unit: 1.0

PSYC 312R Research Methods in Personality Psychology
Noren
An introduction to research methods appropriate to the study of personality psychology. Student projects investigate individual and group differences in personality traits, values, goals, and dimensions of self-concept. Laboratory. Each section typically limited to 12 students.
Prerequisite: 205 and 212. Not open to students who have taken [212R].
Distribution: Social and Behavioral Analysis
Semester: Fall
Unit: 1.25

PSYC 314R Research Methods in Cognitive Psychology
Robin
Introduction to research methods appropriate to the study of human cognition (i.e., how people take in, interpret, organize, remember, and use information in their daily lives). Individual and group projects. Laboratory. Each section typically limited to 12 students.
Prerequisite: 205 and one of the following: 215, 216, 217, 218, 219, BISC 213/NEUR 213. Not open to students who have taken [214R].
Distribution: Social and Behavioral Analysis
Semester: Spring
Unit: 1.25

PSYC 316 Seminar. Psycholinguistics
Timoffs
Topic for 2005-06. TBA
Prerequisite: Open to juniors and seniors who have taken two 200-level units, including one of the following: 215, 216, 217, 218, 219, or BISC 213/NEUR 213, and excluding 205, or by permission of instructor. [LANG] LING 114 may be substituted for either 200-level unit.
Distribution: Epistemology and Cognition or Social and Behavioral Analysis
Semester: Spring
Unit: 1.0

PSYC 318 Seminar. Brain and Behavior
Koff
Selected topics in brain-behavior relationships. Emphasis on psychopharmacology. Topics include principals and mechanisms underlying action of drugs, major neurotransmitter systems, major classes of psychoactive drugs, and psychological disorders and medications.
Prerequisite: Open to juniors and seniors who have taken two 200-level units, including one of the following: 219 or BISC 213/NEUR 213, and excluding 205.
Distribution: Epistemology and Cognition or Social and Behavioral Analysis
Semester: Spring
Unit: 1.0

PSYC 319 Neuropsychology
NOT OFFERED 2005-06. An exploration of the neural underpinnings of higher cognitive function based on evidence from individuals with brain damage. Major neuroanatomical systems will be reviewed. Topics include motor and sensory function, attention, memory, language, and hemispheric specialization.
Prerequisite: Open to juniors and seniors who have taken two 200-level units, including either 219 or BISC 213/NEUR 213, and excluding 205.
Distribution: Epistemology and Cognition or Social and Behavioral Analysis
Semester: N/O
Unit: 1.0

PSYC 320 Seminar. Clinical Psychology
Distinct from PSYC 318 Seminar. The topics and methods will vary. Open to juniors and seniors who have taken any 200-level psychology course, not open to students who have taken PSYC 318 Seminar.
Semester: Spring
Unit: 1.0
PSYC 324R Research Methods in Abnormal Psychology
Wink
An introduction to research methods appropriate to the study of abnormal psychology. Topics will include affective and personality disorders, substance abuse, and stressful life events. Individual and group projects. Laboratory. Each section typically limited to 12 students.
Prerequisite: 205 and 224. Not open to students who have taken [224R].
Distribution: Social and Behavioral Analysis
Semester: Spring
Unit: 1.25

PSYC 326 Seminar. Child and Adolescent Psychopathology
Theran
Description, etiology, and developmental patterns of behavior problems of children, adolescents, and their families. Topics include theories of child and adolescent psychopathology, externalizing problems such as conduct disorder and attention-deficit/hyperactivity disorder, internalizing problems such as depression, anxiety, and children's experiences of trauma, and developmental disorders such as mental retardation, risk and protective factors for child psychopathology, and child and family interventions.
Prerequisite: Open to juniors and seniors who have taken two 200-level units, excluding 205, or permission of instructor.
Distribution: Social and Behavioral Analysis
Semester: Spring
Unit: 1.0

PSYC 329 Seminar. Psychology of Adulthood and Aging
Wink
An examination of how people cope with changes in their adult lives. Particular emphasis on aging as an example of life stage. Topics include: personality and cognitive change in later life; development of wisdom and integrity; retirement and bereavement; coping with death; intergenerational transmission of values; social support and coping with change. Models of life stages in adulthood will also be discussed.
Prerequisite: Open to juniors and seniors who have taken two 200-level units, excluding 205, or permission of instructor.
Distribution: Social and Behavioral Analysis
Semester: Spring
Unit: 1.0

PSYC 333 Clinical and Educational Assessment
NOT OFFERED IN 2005-06. Current approaches to the psychological appraisal of individual differences in personality, intelligence, and special abilities will be investigated through the use of cases. Tests included in the survey are: MMPI, CPI, WAIS, Rorschach, and the TAT. Special emphasis will be placed on test interpretation, report writing, and an understanding of basic psychometric concepts such as validity, reliability, and norms. Useful for students intending to pursue graduate study in clinical, personality, occupational, or school psychology.
Prerequisite: Open to juniors and seniors who have taken two 200-level units, excluding 205, or permission of instructor.
Distribution: Social and Behavioral Analysis
Semester: N/O
Unit: 1.0

PSYC 337 Seminar. The Psychology of Creativity
NOT OFFERED IN 2005-06. An explanation of the foundations of modern theory and research on creativity. An examination of methods designed to stimulate creative thought and expression. Topics include: psychodynamic, behavioristic, humanistic, and social-psychological theories of creativity; studies of creative environments; personality studies of creative individuals; methods of defining and assessing creativity; and programs designed to increase both verbal and nonverbal creativity.
Prerequisite: Open to juniors and seniors who have taken two 200-level units, excluding 205, or permission of instructor.
Distribution: Social and Behavioral Analysis
Semester: N/O
Unit: 1.0

PSYC 338 Social Influence
NOT OFFERED IN 2005-06. This course focuses on a major topic in social psychology: attitude formation and change. Techniques of social influence that we encounter in everyday life will be explored, with a particular emphasis on advertising. The findings of empirical research and theory will be used to understand persuasive messages. Topics include how emotion, gender, and culture are used to maximize the effectiveness of advertisements, and how stereotypes are both perpetuated and refuted in advertising.
Prerequisite: Open to juniors and seniors who have taken two 200-level units, excluding 205, or permission of instructor. Not open to students who have taken [240].
Distribution: Social and Behavioral Analysis
Semester: N/O
Unit: 1.0

PSYC 339 Seminar. Narrative Identity
NOT OFFERED IN 2005-06. Narrative psychology explores the human propensity to create and use stories about significant figures and events in the process of identity formation. Topics will include an exploration of mermaids and related figures as cultural images, metaphors for personal transformation, and archetypal symbols of the collective unconscious. The Little Mermaid and La Sirene of Haitian Vodou will be examined as representations of men's fear of, and attempts to control, women's spirituality and sexuality. The personality theories of Jung and Reich provide the framework for the seminar.
Prerequisite: Open to juniors and seniors who have taken two 200-level units, excluding 205, or permission of instructor.
Distribution: Social and Behavioral Analysis
Semester: N/O
Unit: 1.0

PSYC 340 Organizational Psychology
NOT OFFERED IN 2005-06. An examination of key topics such as: social environment of the work place, motivation and morale, change and conflict, quality of worklife, work group dynamics, leadership, culture, and the impact of workforce demographics (gender, race, socioeconomic status). Experiential activities, cases, theory, and research.
Prerequisite: Open to juniors and seniors who have taken two 200-level units excluding 205, or permission of instructor.
Distribution: Social and Behavioral Analysis
Semester: N/O
Unit: 1.0

PSYC 341 Seminar. Psychology of Shyness
Check
An examination of psychological approaches to understanding shyness and the related self-conscious emotions of embarrassment and shame. Topics include: genetics of shyness, evolutionary perspectives on shyness in animals, adolescent self-consciousness, and individual and group differences in social behavior.
Prerequisite: Open to juniors and seniors who have taken at least one course numbered 207-212 and at least one course numbered 215-219, or permission of instructor.
Distribution: Social and Behavioral Analysis
Semester: Fall, Summer
Unit: 1.0

PSYC 342 Seminar. Psychology of Optimism and Pessimism
Norem
An examination of the ways in which expectational influence and are influenced by thoughts, feelings, motivation, and behavior. There are a variety of psychological constructs that fall under the general rubric of optimism and pessimism, and research has shown that they relate to physical and mental health, achievement, personal relationships, and even longevity. This seminar will explore those relationships, with an emphasis on understanding both the costs and the benefits of personal and cultural optimism and pessimism.
Prerequisite: Open to juniors and seniors with 212 or 210 and one other 200-level course, excluding 205.
Distribution: Social and Behavioral Analysis
Semester: Spring
Unit: 1.0

PSYC 344 Seminar. Social Imagination
Gleason
An examination of the uses and types of imagination in both childhood and adulthood. This course will focus on the mechanics of mental imagery and discuss the ways in which imagery is manifest in cognition and particularly in management of social relationships. Emphasis will be placed on the connections between imagination and emotion, such as in children's enactment of scary or nurturant pretend play. How imagination affects interpersonal interactions will be considered, as will other topics such as children's creation of imaginary companions, imagination as pathology, and individual differences in imagination, imagery of individuals deprived of particular senses, and the influence of imagination on memory.
Prerequisite: Open to juniors and seniors who have taken two 200-level courses, excluding 205.
Distribution: Epistemology and Cognition or Social and Behavioral Analysis
Semester: Fall
Unit: 1.0

PSYC 345 Seminar. Selected Topics in Developmental Psychology
Cleveland
Topic for 2005-06: "Mind-reading" in Children. This course will trace the development of our understanding of what's going on in other people's minds - their beliefs, goals, and intentions - and how we learn to use this information to guide our own actions. Topics include infants' abilities to follow pointing and eye-gaze and to engage in imitation and understand goal-directed actions; preschoolers' knowledge of false belief, deception, and accidents; the roles that language and social interaction play in... developing our knowledge of other minds: and the effects of lacking this knowledge, as may be the case for children and adults with autism.
Observations at the Child Study Center (outside doing, 8) will be required.
Prerequisite: Open to juniors and seniors who have taken
207 and one other 200-level course, excluding 205.
Distribution: Social and Behavioral Analysis
Semester: Fall  Unit: 1.0

PSYC 347 Seminar, Culture and Social Identity
Genera Examines the social and developmental aspects of identity with a special focus on ethnicity. The social construction of culture, interpersonal functioning, ethnic group differences, and experiences will be explored as they relate to identity development. The course includes a field research component.
Prerequisite: Open to juniors and seniors who have taken two 200-level units excluding 205, and including 245, or permission of instructor.
Distribution: Social and Behavioral Analysis
Semester: Spring  Unit: 1.0

PSYC 348 Advanced Topics in Personality and Social Psychology

Cheek An exploration of the interface between personality and social psychology. Areas of research that are best understood by considering both personal dispositions and social situations will be examined. Topics include: conformity, romantic relationships, and social anxiety.
Prerequisite: Open to juniors and seniors who have taken
210 and 312, or permission of instructor.
Distribution: Social and Behavioral Analysis
Semester: Spring  Unit: 1.0

PSYC 349 Seminar, Nonverbal Communication
Akert An examination of the use of nonverbal communication in social interactions. Systematic observation of nonverbal behavior, especially facial expression, tone of voice, gestures, personal space, and body movement. Readings include scientific studies and descriptive accounts. Issues include: the communication of emotion, cultural and gender differences; the detection of deflection; the impact of nonverbal cues on impression formation; nonverbal communication in specific settings (e.g., counseling, education, interpersonal relationships).
Prerequisite: Open to juniors and seniors who have taken
two 200-level units, excluding 205.
Distribution: Social and Behavioral Analysis
Semester: Fall  Unit: 1.0

PSYC 350 Research or Individual Study
Prerequisite: Open by permission to juniors and seniors.
Distribution: None
Semester: Fall, Spring  Unit: 1.0

PSYC 351 Internship in Psychology
Staff Participation in a structured learning experience in an approved field setting under faculty supervision.
Analytical readings and paper(s) required.
Prerequisite: Open by permission to junior and senior majors. Two units above the 100-level that are most appro-appropriate to the field setting as determined by the faculty supervisor (excluding 205).
Distribution: None
Semester: Fall, Spring  Unit: 1.0

PSYC 360 Senior Thesis Research
Prerequisite: Completion of a research methods course by the end of the junior year, and by permission of department.
See Academic Distinctions.
Distribution: None
Semester: Fall, Spring  Unit: 1.0

PSYC 370 Senior Thesis
Prerequisite: 360
Distribution: None
Semester: Fall, Spring  Unit: 1.0

Psychology major: Consists of at least 9.25 units, including 205, one research methods course, three 200-level courses (at least one course numbered 207-212 and at least one course numbered 215-219 and excluding any research methods courses), and two 300-level courses (at least one of which must be numbered 302-349 and excluding any research methods courses). For students who entered the college in Fall 2004 or later, 101 is a required course for the major. PSYC 299 does not count as one of the nine courses for the major. At least five of the courses for the major must be taken in the department.

Statistics: 205 is the only Wellesley statistics course that will count toward the fulfillment of the major. In order to obtain Wellesley credit for a statistics course taken at another institution during the summer or academic year, approval must be obtained from the department prior to enrolling in the course. Transfer students wishing to obtain credit for statistics courses taken prior to enrollment at Wellesley should consult the chair of the department.

Research Methods Requirement: The department offers seven research methods courses:
324R. In order to be eligible for Senior Thesis
Research (PSYC 360), students must complete the research methods course by the end of the junior year.

Psychology minor: Consists of five units, including one course at the 300 level and including 101 for students who enter the college in Fall 2004 or later, PSYC 299, 350, and 351 do not count as one of the five courses for the minor.
At least three of the courses for the minor must be taken in the department.

Related Interdepartmental Majors: Students interested in an interdepartmental major in neuroscience or cognitive and linguistic sciences are referred to the section of the catalog where these programs are described. They should consult tive and linguistic sciences programs.

Quantitative Reasoning Program

Director: Taylor
Lecturer: Polito
Advisory Committee: Brabander (Geosciences), Ducas (Physics), Flynn (Chemistry), Genero (Psychology), Hawes (Education), Keane (Psychology), McGowan (Philosophy), Shuchat (Mathematics), Stark (Physics), Swingle (Sociology), Wofsy (Chemistry)

The ability to think clearly and critically about quantitative issues is imperative in contemporary society. Today, quantitative reasoning is required in virtually all academic fields, is used in most every profession, and is necessary for decision-making in everyday life. The Quantitative Reasoning Program is designed to ensure that Wellesley College students are proficient in the use of mathematical, logical, and statistical problem-solving tools needed in today's increasingly quantitative world.

The Quantitative Reasoning Program provides a number of services to the academic community. It oversees the administration of the Quantitative Reasoning Assessment (described below) and staffs QR 140, the basic skills QR course, and some QR overlay courses. The Program also provides tutorial support to interested students and instructors of quantitative reasoning overlay courses. Finally, the Quantitative Reasoning Program provides curricular support to faculty interested in modifying existing courses or designing new ones so that these courses will satisfy the overlay component of the quantitative reasoning requirement.

The Quantitative Reasoning Requirement

All students must satisfy both components of the quantitative reasoning requirement: (1) the basic skills component and (2) the overlay course component. The basic skills component is satisfied either by passing the quantitative reasoning assessment given during Orientation or by passing QR 140, the basic skills course that builds mathematical skills in the context of real-world applications. Students are required to satisfy the basic skills component in their first year so that they may enroll in the many courses for which basic quantitative skills (including algebra, geometry, basic probability and statistics, graph theory, estimation, and mathematical modeling) are a prerequisite.

The overlay component is satisfied by passing a QR overlay course or by scoring a 5 on the AP Statistics exam. QR overlay courses emphasize statistical analysis and interpretation of data in a specific discipline. The Committee on Curriculum and Instruction has designated specific courses in fields across the curriculum as one of the QR overlay requirement. These courses (listed below) may also be used to satisfy a distribution requirement. See the Statistics section of the catalog for more information about some of these QR overlay courses.

QR 140 Introduction to Quantitative Reasoning
Polito, Taylor
In this course, students develop and apply mathematical, logical, and statistical skills to solve problems in authentic contexts. The quantitative skills emphasized include algebra, geometry, probability, statistics, estimation, and mathematical modeling. Throughout the course, these skills are used to solve real world problems, from personal finance to medical decision-making. A student passing this course satisfies the basic skills component of the quantitative reasoning requirement. This course is required for students who do not pass the quantitative reasoning assessment. Those who pass the assessment but still want to enroll in this course must receive permission of the instructor.

Prerequisite: Permission of the instructor required for students with a score of 9.5 or above on the QR assessment.
Distribution: None
Semester: Fall, Spring
Unit: 1.0

QR 180 Statistical Analysis of Education Issues
Taylor
What factors explain individual and group differences in student achievement test scores and educational attainment? Do inequities in financing public elementary and secondary schools matter in terms of student achievement and future employment? This course explores the theories and statistical methods used by social scientists and education researchers in examining these and other education issues. Analyzing data from the National Center for Education Statistics and other data sources, students evaluate issues including the importance of family and school resources, the effects of school tracking, and the returns to private versus public schools. In doing so, students learn to use a variety of statistical tools including regression analysis, and learn to use statistical software.

Prerequisites: Fulfillment of the basic skills component of the Quantitative Reasoning requirement. Not open to students who have taken or are taking ECON 103/SOC 190, MATH 101, MATH 101Z, POL 199, PSYC 205, or [QR 140].
Distribution: Social and Behavioral Analysis. Fulfills the Quantitative Reasoning overlay course requirement.
Semester: Spring
Unit: 1.0

Overlay Course Component

The following courses satisfy the overlay course component of the quantitative reasoning requirement. In order to register for a course on this list, a student must first satisfy the basic skills component of the quantitative reasoning requirement by passing either the quantitative reasoning assessment or QR 140.

Note that this list is subject to change. Check individual department listings for information about when each course is offered.

REL 228 Fundamentalisms: A Comparative Approach

Cox

From its earliest application to a movement within American Protestantism, the term “fundamentalism” is now often used to characterize the most conservative wings of several different religious traditions. Focusing on such representative groups as American TV evangelists, “End-Time” Christian Zionism, the Catholic Opus Dei, Marian apparitions, the Jewish “Messianic Zionism” of Israeli settlers, the Lubavitcher movement, and Hamas, we will ask such questions as: Can we learn anything useful about a religion by examining an extreme form? Do these movements have anything in common? Is “fundamentalism” anti-modern or itself a modern religious phenomenon? Is the term “fundamentalist” helpful or misleading?

The minor consists of a minimum of five courses, including at least one seminar and no more than two 100-level courses. Three of the five courses, including a seminar, should be within an area of concentration chosen by the student in consultation with and approved by her departmental advisor. In addition, it is strongly recommended that all majors and minors attend REL 399 (Religion Department Colloquium) and that senior majors and minors elect it for credit.

For some students, studies in the original language of religious traditions will be especially valuable. REL 298 (New Testament Greek) and 200-level courses in Hebrew and Arabic can be credited toward both the major and the minor. Latin, Chinese, and Japanese are available elsewhere in the College. Majors and minors interested in pursuing language study should consult their advisors to determine the appropriateness of such work for their programs.

Honors
The only route to honors in the major is writing a thesis and passing an oral examination. To be admitted to the thesis program, a student must have a grade point average of at least 3.5 in all work in the major field above the 100-level; the department may petition on her behalf if her GPA in the major is between 3.0 and 3.5. See Academic Distinctions.

Related Courses
For Credit Towards the Major
Students wishing to take related courses for their major or minor outside the department must obtain approval of their advisor in advance.

Directions for Election
In a liberal arts college, the study of religion constitutes an integral part of the humanities and social sciences. Recognizing religion as an elemental expression of human life and culture, past and present, the department offers courses in the major religious traditions of the world. These courses examine both the individual and the collective dimensions of religion and approach their subject from a variety of perspectives including historical, textual, theological, and social scientific.

The major consists of a minimum of nine units, at least two of which must be at the 300-level, including a seminar, and no more than two 100-level courses. A maximum of three courses taken outside the Department may be counted toward the major, no more than two of which may be taken at an institution other than Wellesley.

The major requires both a concentration in a specific field of study and adequate exposure to the diversity of the world’s religions and cultures. To ensure depth, a major must present a concentration of at least four courses, including a seminar, in an area of study that she has chosen in consultation with and approved by her departmental advisor. This concentration may be defined by, for example, a particular religion, cultural-geographical area, canon, period, or theme. To promote breadth, a major must complete a minimum of two courses, also to be approved by her departmental advisor, devoted to religious cultures or traditions that are distinct both from each other and from the area of concentration. All majors are urged to discuss their courses of study with their advisors before the end of the first semester of their junior year.

RUSS 125/WRT 125 Great Short Stories from Russia (in English)
Bishop
Russian literature has given the world some of the best stories ever told, and this course surveys two centuries' worth of them. Someone once quipped that all of twentieth-century Russian literature came out of Nikolai Gogol's "Nose." Thus, we begin with "The Nose" and other ridiculous stories by Gogol. We will go on and read some of the finest short stories of Chekhov, and the Nobel Prize winner Ivan Bunin. The grotesque realism of Isaac Babel's stories and the magical realism of Vladimir Nabokov's also lie within the scope of this course. We will conclude with the late- and post-Soviet stories of Tatiana Tolstaya and Liudmila Petrushevskaya. No prior knowledge of Russian language or literature is required. This course satisfies the requirements for Writing 125. Three periods.
Prerequisite: None. Open only to first-year students.

RUSS 251 The Nineteenth-Century Russian Classics: Passion, Pain, Perfection (in English)
Hodge
Survey of Russian fiction from the Age of Pushkin (1820s-1830s) to Tolstoy's mature work (1870s) focusing on the role of fiction in Russian history, contemporaneous critical reaction, literary movements in Russia, and echoes of Russian literary masterpieces in the other arts, especially film and music. Major works by Pushkin (Eugene Onegin, "The Queen of Spades"), Lermontov (A Hero of Our Time), Gogol (Dead Souls, "The Overcoat"), Pavlova (A Double Life), Turgenev (Fathers and Sons), Tolstoy (Anna Karenina), and Dostoevsky (Crime and Punishment) will be read. Taught in English. Two periods.

RUSS 257 Madness in Russian Literature and Culture (in English)
Partan
From current events in post-Soviet Russia to classic Russian literature, madness is a ubiquitous element of the Russian experience. We will cover a broad range of works--from the medieval period to post-Soviet masterpieces--to investigate the evolution of madness in Russian culture. The protagonists of the novels, plays, and short stories we will explore range from holy fools to everyday madmen to chronically troubled spirits. Readings will include Pushkin's "Queen of Spades," Dostoevsky's The Idiot, Chekhov's "The Black Monk" and "Ward No. 6," Bulgakov's Master and Margarita, Nabokov's The Defense, Plevin's Buddha's Little Finger, and a selection of short stories. We will also examine manifestations of fictional insanity in film, opera, and the visual arts. Taught in English.

Unit: 1.0

RUSS 272 Politically Correct: Ideology and the Nineteenth-Century Russian Novel (in English)
Hodge
Is there a "politically correct" set of responses for artists active under a repressive regime? We examine various Russian answers to this question through an intensive analysis of the great ideological novels at the center of Russia's historic social debates from the 1840s through the 1860s. The tension between literary Realism and political exigency will be explored in the fictional and critical works of Herzen, Turgenev, Chernyshevsky, Goncharov, Dobroliubov, Dostoevsky, and Pisarev. Representative works from the nonliterary arts will supplement reading and class discussion. Taught in English. Two periods.

RUSS 276 Fedor Dostoevsky: The Seer of Spirit (in English)
Weiner
NOT OFFERED IN 2005-06. OFFERED IN 2007-08. Probably no writer has been so detested and adored, so demonized and beloved, as Dostoevsky. This artist was such a visionary that he had to reinvent the novel in order to create a form suitable for his insights into the inner life and his prophecies about the outer. To this day readers are mystified, outraged, enchanted, but never unmoved, by Dostoevsky's fiction, which some have tried to brand as "novel-tragedies," "romantic realism," "polyphonic novels," and more. This course challenges students to enter the fray and explore the mysteries of Dostoevsky themselves through study of his major writings. Taught in English. Two periods.
Prerequisite: None

Semester: Spring
Unit: 1.0

RUSS 277 Lev Tolstoy: Russia's Ecclesiast (in English)
Hodge
NOT OFFERED IN 2005-06. OFFERED IN 2006-07. An odyssey through the fiction of the great Russian novelist and thinker, beginning with his early works (Sevastopol Stories) and focusing on War and Peace and Anna Karenina, though the major achievements of Tolstoy's later period will also be included (A Confession, The Death of Ivan Illich). Lectures and discussion will examine the masterful techniques Tolstoy employs in his epic explorations of human existence, from mundane detail to life-shattering cataclysm. Important film adaptations of Tolstoy's works, including Bondarchuk's monumental War and Peace (1967), will be screened.
Students are encouraged to have read the Maude translation of War and Peace (Norton Critical edition) before the semester begins. Taught in English. Two periods.
Prerequisite: None
Distribution: Language and Literature
Semester: N/O. Offered in 2007-08.

RUSS 282 What's Love Got to Do With It? Sex and Family in Twentieth-Century Russian Literature (in English)
Bishop
Tolstoy famously wrote, "All happy families are alike; each unhappy family is unhappy in its own way." Beginning with his controversial novel, The Kreutzer Sonata, we will discuss love and family in Russian literature, a problem which becomes particularly complicated in the twentieth century. We will explore issues of androgyny in the writings of the symbolists, the regimentation of sex in Zamyatin's anti-utopian novel We, questions of disease and sterility in Solzhenitsyn's Cancer Ward, and adultery in Pasternak's Dr. Zhivago. We will revisit the eternal literary theme of generational conflict, specifically in the form of mothers and daughters in the writings of Tsvetaeva and Petrushevskia. We will also view and analyze films such as Red and Sofa and Commissar. Taught in English. Two periods.

RUSS 286 Vladimir Nabokov (in English)
Weiner
NOT OFFERED IN 2005-06. OFFERED IN 2006-07. An examination of the artistic legacy of the great novelist, critic, lepidopterist, and founder of the Wellesley College Russian department. Nabokov's works have joined the canon of twentieth-century classics in both Russian and English literature. Students will explore Nabokov's English-language novels (Lolita, Pnin, Pale Fire) and the authorized English translations of his Russian works (The Defense, Despair, Invitation to a Beheading). Taught in English. Two periods.
Prerequisite: None
Distribution: Language and Literature
Semester: N/O. Offered in 2006-07.
Unit: 1.0

RUSS 301 Advanced Russian: Moscow
Epshtein
Students will become experts in one of the great overarching themes of Russian culture: Moscow. We will read and discuss texts, view films, listen to music, and compose essays on the theme of Russia's historic capital. The course includes study of grammar, vocabulary expansion with strong emphasis on oral proficiency and comprehension. At the end of the semester each student will write a final paper and present to the class her own special research interest within the general investigation of Moscow's history, traditions, culture, and art. Taught in Russian. Three periods.

RUSS 320 Children and Laughter in Russia (in Russian)

Epstein

Students will enter the world of Russian children's folklore, literature, songs, film, and animation. We will start with lullabies and verbal games, and tales by Pushkin and Tolstoy. We will then examine the contribution of Soviet authors from the early 1920s to the late 1980s such as V. Maikovsky, K. Chukovsky, S. Marshak, D. Kharm, M. Zoshchenko, A. Gudar, N. Nosov, and E. Uspensky and their effect on the aesthetic development and ethical upbringing of Soviet children. The course emphasizes oral proficiency, extensive reading and weekly writing assignments. Students will write and present a final paper on their own special research interest.

Taught in Russian. Two periods.

Directions for Election

Students majoring in Russian should consult the chair of the department early in their college career. For information on all facets of the Russian department, please visit www.wellesley.edu/Russian/rusdept.html. Students who cannot take RUSS 101 during the fall semester are strongly encouraged to take 101 during Winter Session or Summer School; those interested in doing so should consult the chair early in the fall term.

Advanced courses on Russian literature and culture are given in English translation at the 200 level; corresponding 300-level courses offer supplemental reading and discussion in Russian. Please refer to the descriptions for 376, 382, and 386 above.

The Major in Russian Language and Literature

A student majoring in Russian Language and Literature must take at least eight units in the department above RUSS 102, including:

1. language courses through 302;
2. RUSS 251;
3. two 200-level courses above 251; and
4. one unit of 300-level coursework above 302 other than 350, 360, and 370.

RUSS 101 and 102 are counted toward the degree but not toward the Russian major.

Thus, a student who begins with no knowledge of Russian would typically complete the following courses to major in Russian: 101 and 102, 201 and 202, 301 and 302; 251; two 200-level literature courses above 252; and one unit from 300-level literature courses, including 320.

The Minor in Russian Language

A student minor in Russian must take at least five units in the department above RUSS 102, at least one of which must be at the 300 level.

Honors, Study Abroad

Students may graduate with honors in Russian either by writing a thesis or by taking comprehensive examinations. To be admitted to the thesis program, a student must have a grade point average of at least 3.5 in all work in the major field above the 100-level; the department may petition on her behalf if her GPA in the major is between 3.0 and 3.5. Students electing to take comprehensive examinations have a series of non-credit-bearing weekly tutorials on four special topics in Russian literature or culture (or both) over the entire course of their senior year; these topics must be chosen under the guidance of the chair and will normally be related to the coursework the student has completed; at the end of the student’s final semester at Wellesley, she takes six written examinations over the course of one week: four on her special topics, and two language examinations. Students who wish to attempt either honors exercise should consult the chair early in the second semester of their junior year. See Academic Distinctions.

Majors are encouraged to enroll in summer language programs to accelerate their progress in the language. Credit toward the major is normally given for approved summer or academic-year study at selected institutions in the U.S. and Russia. Major credit is also given for approved junior year abroad programs.

Russian Area Studies

Students interested in an interdepartmental major in Russian area studies are referred to the following and should visit the Russian area studies Web pages at www.wellesley.edu/Russian/RAS/rashome.html. Attention is called to Russian area studies courses in history, economics, political science, anthropology, and sociology.
Russian Area Studies

AN INTERDEPARTMENTAL MAJOR

Director: Tunarkin (History)
Advisory Committee: Hodge (Russian), Kohl (Anthropology), Tunarkin (History), Weiner (Russian)

Russian area studies majors are invited to explore Russia and the lands and peoples of the former Soviet Union through an interdisciplinary study program.

A major in Russian area studies consists of a minimum of eight units. Majors are normally required to take four units of the Russian language above the 100 level, including Russian 301-302. In addition to those four units of the Russian language above the 100 level, a major’s program should consist of at least four units drawn from Russian literature, history, political science, anthropology, economics, and sociology. Majors are required to take at least two units of 300-level coursework, at least one of which should be outside of the Russian department. At least three of a major’s units should be outside of the Russian department. Prospective majors are strongly encouraged to take HIST 221 (formerly 105) (Bread and Salt: Introduction to Russian Civilization) as a basic introduction to Russian area studies.

Majors are encouraged to take advantage of various programs of study in the former Soviet Union, including the opportunity to spend a semester or year on exchange at a university in Russia or one of the other former Soviet republics. Majors who are contemplating post-graduate academic or professional careers in Russian area studies are encouraged to consult with faculty advisors, who will assist them in planning an appropriate sequence of courses. For more information on the Russian area studies program, students may consult the Wellesley College Russian area studies web pages: www.wellesley.edu/Russian/ RAS/rashome.html.

Honors

Seniors who wish to graduate with Honors in the major must write an Honors thesis. Applicants for Honors must have minimum 3.5 GPA in the major (in courses above the 100 level). Interested students should discuss their ideas and plans with their advisor, the program chair, or a member of the advisory committee as early as possible in their junior year.

The following courses are available for majors in Russian area studies:

RAST 212/ES 212 Lake Baikal: The Soul of Siberia
Moore (Biological Sciences) and Hodge (Russian)

NOT OFFERED IN 2005-06. OFFERED IN 2006-07. The ecological and cultural values of Lake Baikal — the oldest, deepest, and most biotically rich lake on the planet — are examined. Lectures and discussion in spring prepare students for the three-week field laboratory taught at Lake Baikal in eastern Siberia in August.

Lectures address the fundamentals of aquatic ecology and the role of Lake Baikal in Russian literature, history, art, music, and the country’s environmental movement. Laboratory work is conducted primarily out-of-doors and includes introductions to the flora and fauna, field tests of student-generated hypotheses, meetings with the lake’s stakeholders, and tours of ecological and cultural sites surrounding the lake. This course does not count toward the minimum major in biological sciences. This course can count towards a concentration in environmental science or as an elective for the other concentrations.

Students may register for either RAST 212 or ES 212, and credit will be granted accordingly. Not offered every year. Subject to Dean’s office approval.

Prerequisite: BISC 111, RUSS 101, and permission of the instructors. Preference will be given to students who have also taken HIST 211, formerly [105].

Department of Sociology

Professor: Cuba, Cushman, Hertz, Imber*, Rollins, Walsh
Associate Professor: Levitt (Chair)
Assistant Professor: Rutherford
Visiting Assistant Professor: Swingle
Lecturer: Srinivas

SOC 102 The Sociological Perspective: An Introduction to Sociology
Cuba, Rutherford
Thinking sociologically enables us to make observations and offer insights about the social world. In this course, we will become familiar with some of the major substantive topics that sociologists study, as a way of developing a critical capacity to understand how the social world works. We will analyze a variety of sociological themes as they emerge in some of the most exciting contemporary research focusing especially on the study of social problems, social inequality, and popular culture.
Prerequisite: None
Distribution: Social and Behavioral Analysis
Semester: Fall, Spring
Unit: 1.0

SOC 103 Social Problems of Youth: An Introduction to Sociology

NOT OFFERED IN 2005-06. Perspectives on the creation of and response to the problems of young people. The problems of generations and relations between young and old. Perceptions of personal freedom and social responsibility with respect to public issues that directly affect youth including alcohol, tobacco, drugs, gambling, guns, and sexuality.
Prerequisite: None
Distribution: Social and Behavioral Analysis
Semester: Fall
Unit: 1.0

SOC 109 Race and Ethnicity: An Introduction to Sociology
Srinivas
Introduction to sociology with special attention to issues of race and ethnicity. Overview of the key concepts, theoretical frameworks, and methods in the field and exploration of major questions in the sociological study of race and ethnicity. One major course goal is to heighten awareness of the social patterns, institutions, and structures that are an integral, unquestioned part of everyday life and to provide tools to analyze and criticize them. Examination of the ways in which groups in multietnic societies around the globe come together and interact over time.
Prerequisite: None
Distribution: Social and Behavioral Analysis
Semester: Fall
Unit: 1.0

SOC 138 Conformity and Deviance: An Introduction to Sociology
Cuba
Why are some behaviors, differences, and people stigmatized and considered "deviant" while others are not? Why do some people appear to conform to social expectations and rules while others are treated as different and deviant? This course examines theoretical perspectives on deviance, which offers several kinds of answers to these questions. Focus on the creation of deviant categories and persons as an interactive process: how behaviors are labeled, how people enter deviant roles and worlds, how others respond to deviance, and how deviants cope with these responses. Descriptions of conformity and deviance as inescapably linked.
Prerequisite: None
Distribution: Social and Behavioral Analysis
Semester: Fall, Spring
Unit: 1.0

SOC 190/ECON 103 Introduction to Probability and Statistical Methods
Levine (Economics), Swingle
An introduction to the collection, analysis, interpretation, and presentation of quantitative data as used to understanding problems in economics and sociology. Using examples drawn from these fields, this course focuses on basic concepts in probability and statistics, such as measures of central tendency and dispersion, hypothesis testing, and parameter estimation. Data analysis exercises are drawn from both academic and everyday applications. Students must register for a laboratory section which meets an additional 70 minutes each week. Students may register for either SOC 101 or ECON 103, and credit will be granted accordingly.
Prerequisite: One course in sociology or ECON 101 or 102 and fulfillment of the basic skills component of the quantitative reasoning requirement. Not open to students who have taken [Q R199]. Not open to students who either or are taking MATH 220 or PSTS 205 or POL 199.
Distribution: Social and Behavioral Analysis. Fulfills the Quantitative Reasoning overlay course requirement. Does not satisfy the laboratory requirement.
Semester: Fall, Summer
Unit: 1.0

SOC 200 Classical Sociological Theory
Imber, Rutherford
Origins of modern sociology, beginning with nineteenth-century founders, Comte, Spencer, and Marx. Examination of specific sociological ideas and theories, considering such questions as: How is society possible? What are the noncontractual aspects of contract? Who commands authority and how does it change? Exploration of the canon of classical sociological theory with special emphasis on the place of women and African Americans in the history of that canon.
Prerequisite: One 100-level unit. Required of all majors.
Distribution: Social and Behavioral Analysis
Semester: Fall
Unit: 1.0

SOC 201 Contemporary Social Theory
Cushman, Rutherford
An overview of important twentieth-century social and cultural theories. Special emphasis on critical theories of modernity and postmodernity and on application of theories to empirical case studies.
Prerequisite: 200. Required of all majors.
Distribution: Social and Behavioral Analysis
Semester: Spring
Unit: 1.0

SOC 202 Introduction to Human Rights
Cushman
Human rights is one of the most powerful approaches to social justice in the contemporary world, yet it is a rapidly developing and changing system. This course offers a critical analysis of human rights as a social, cultural, and legal system. It explores the historical and philosophical origins of the contemporary human rights system and its growth and development as a global social movement over the last few decades. This includes the diversification of rights to include social, economic and cultural rights and the collective rights of indigenous peoples. The course examines the ongoing controversy between human rights claims to universalism in contrast to assertions of cultural difference. Special topics include the rise of non-governmental human rights organizations, humanitarianism as an ideology, debates on military humanitarian interventions, the emergence of violence against women as a human rights issue, and the forms and types of justice in societies that have experienced large-scale violence.
Prerequisite: None
Distribution: Social and Behavioral Analysis
Semester: Fall
Unit: 1.0

SOC 203/AFR 203 Introduction to African American Sociology

NOT OFFERED IN 2005-06. An introduction to the African American intellectual traditions within the discipline of sociology. Beginning with an examination of the contributions of the founders of these traditions (DuBois, Johnson, Frazier, Cox et al.), the course then focuses on some of the main contemporary discussions: the Black Family, Afrocentric sociology, the class versus race debate, and feminist sociology. Throughout the semester, African American sociology will be discussed within the contexts of traditional Eurocentric sociology and the particular political-economic structure in which it exists. Students may register for either SOC 203 or AFR 203 and credit will be granted accordingly.
Prerequisite: None
Distribution: Social and Behavioral Analysis
Semester: N/O
Unit: 1.0

SOC 205/WOST 211 American Families and Social Equality
Hertz
American families are undergoing dramatic changes in social, political, and economic arenas: the rise of the dual-worker family, the increasing number of single mothers, the demands of family rights by gay and lesbian families, and growing numbers of couples having children at older ages. The new economy poses real challenges for American parents as the social and economic gaps between families continues. As women dedicate a greater proportion of their time to the workplace, more children are cared for outside the home. How do children view parents employment? How do families function when they have only limited hours together? What does fatherhood mean in these families? Using a provocative blend of social science, novels, and memoirs, we will examine how gender, race, ethnicity, and social class shape the experience of family life in the contemporary United States. Students must register for either SOC 205 or WOST 211 and credit will be granted accordingly.
Prerequisite: None
Distribution: Social and Behavioral Analysis
Semester: N/O
Unit: 1.0

SOC 206/AFR 208 Women in the Civil Rights Movement
Rollins
An examination of the role of women in the classical Civil Rights movement. Particular attention will be paid to the interplay between the social factors of the women (e.g., their class, religiosity, race, regional background, age) and their perspectives/behavior within the movement. Essentially, women’s impact on the Civil Rights movement and the effects of the move-
SOC 209 Social Inequality
Rutherford
This course examines the distribution of key social resources—wealth, power, and status—to groups and individuals, as well as theoretical explanations of how unequal patterns of distribution are produced, maintained, and challenged. In addition to global inequalities, special consideration will be given to how race, ethnicity, and gender intersect with social class to produce different life experiences for people in various groups in the United States. One course objective will be the critical evaluation of social policy initiatives designed to reduce social inequalities and alleviate poverty-related issues. Students will have the opportunity for service learning in a social-service organization in the metropolitan Boston area.
Prerequisite: One 100-level unit or permission of instructor.
Distribution: Social and Behavioral Analysis

Unit: 1.0

SOC 216 Sociology of Mass Media and Communications
Srinivas
Analysis of the interplay between social forces, media, and communication processes in contemporary society. Significance of historical changes from oral to written communication, development and structure of modern forms of mass media such as radio, television, and film; political economy of the mass media, rise of advertising and development of consumer culture; mass media in the formation of cultural representations of other societies and cultures, role of the media in the process of identity formation, and in the democratic process. Discussions of the rise and social implications of the Internet. Students will use computer technologies to analyze mass media.
Prerequisite: One 100-level unit or permission of instructor.
Distribution: Social and Behavioral Analysis
Semester: Spring
Unit: 1.0

SOC 217 Power: Personal, Social, and Institutional Dimensions
Cubá
The study of power extends far beyond formal politics or the use of overt force into the operation of every institution and every life: how we are influenced in subtle ways by the people around us, who makes controlling decisions in the family, how people get ahead at work, whether democratic governments, in fact, reflect the “will of the people.” This course explores some of the major theoretical issues involving power (including the nature of dominant and subordinate relationships and types of legitimate authority) and examines how power operates in a variety of social settings: relations among men and women, professions, corporations, cooperatives, communities, nations and the global economy.
Prerequisite: One 100-level unit or permission of the instructor.
Distribution: Social and Behavioral Analysis
Semester: Spring
Unit: 1.0

SOC 218 Religion in Contemporary Society
Levitt
This course explores the relationship between society and religious institutions, beliefs, and practices. Some of the topics we will cover include whether or not modern society is becoming more secular, the place of religion in politics, religious conversion, fundamentalism, new religious movements, the globalization of religion, and religiously-motivated terrorism. These themes will be explored using classical and contemporary sociological theories and empirical data.
Prerequisite: None
Distribution: Social and Behavioral Analysis
Semester: Fall
Unit: 1.0

SOC 221 Globalization
Levitt
McDonald’s, Starbucks, and the Gap® are now common features on the street corners of Europe, South America, and Asia. Arnold Schwarzenegger enjoys unprecedented popularity in the Far East while Americans are fascinated by karaoke and Indian films. Does this globalization of production and consumption mean that people all over the globe are becoming the same? In this course, we will explore the globalization of social organization. We will examine the different ways in which economic, political, and cultural institutions are organized in the increasingly interdependent world in which we live, compare them to those in the past, and explore their consequences.
Prerequisite: One 100-level unit or permission of instructor.
Distribution: Social and Behavioral Analysis
Semester: Fall
Unit: 1.0

SOC 235 Business and Social Responsibility
NOT OFFERED IN 2005-06.
Examination of large business organizations in terms of their social accountability to various stakeholders. Rise of a “new social contract” with its expectations about the financial profitability as well as the social responsibilities of modern business, including protection of the natural environment, maintenance of a diverse workforce, and specific responsibility to the communities in which companies do business. Explanations of why businesses sometimes deviate from these expectations and how they create and manage impressions of social responsibility among their stakeholders.
Prerequisite: One 100-level unit or permission of instructor.
Distribution: Social and Behavioral Analysis
Semester: Spring
Unit: 1.0

SOC 240 Immigration
NOT OFFERED IN 2005-06.
Comparative, historical look at the immigrant experience. We explore theories of migration and differences between voluntary and involuntary population movements. We examine immigrants’ political, economic, religious, and social integration into their host countries and their continued ties to their homelands over time. The experiences of second generation immigrants will also be covered. Course is designed around a series of fieldwork exercises to be carried out in Framingham, Mass. Students will be asked to complete at least three small projects, involving data collection

Directions for Election
Sociology is the systematic and scientific study of social life, including informal and formal organization and the multiple ways that people collectively give meaning to their behavior and lives. The scope of sociology ranges from the analysis of passing encounters between individuals in the street to the investigation of broad-scale social change. Sociology brings a unique perspective to the study of institutional and collective forms of social life, including the family, mass media and popular culture, social movements, migration, the professions, and global systems and processes. Research is conducted across many cultures and historical periods in order to illuminate how social forces such as social class, gender, race, and ethnicity, age, group membership, and culture shape human experience.

A major in sociology consists of at least nine units. The core of the major consists of four required courses (SOC 190, 200, 201, and 301) which emphasize basic concepts, theory, and research methods that are the foundation of the discipline, but are also useful in a range of social sciences and professions. Permission to take a required unit elsewhere for the major must be obtained from the department chair in advance. Students must take at least five additional units exploring the range of substantive topics in sociology (for example social problems, deviance, immigration, social change and development, race and ethnicity, medicine and epidemiology, mass media, and popular culture).

Choosing courses to complete the degree and the major requires careful thought and planning. Sociology majors are encouraged to explore the full range of disciplines and subjects in the liberal arts, and they should consult a faculty member to select courses each term and to plan a course of study over several years. It is recommended that students complete the sequence of theory and methods courses by the end of their junior year if they want to conduct independent research or honors projects during their senior year. If a major anticipates being away during all or part of the junior year, the theory (SOC 200 and 201) and research methods course (SOC 301) should be taken during the sophomore year, or an alternative plan should be arranged with her advisor.

A minor in sociology (six units) consists of any 100-level unit, SOC 200, and four additional units, one of which must be a 300-level unit. The plan for this option should be carefully prepared; a student wishing to add the sociology minor to the major in another field should consult a faculty advisor in sociology.

Honors
The only route to honors in the major is writing a thesis and passing an oral examination. To be admitted to the thesis program, a student must have a grade point average of at least 3.5 in all work in the major field above the 100-level; the department may petition on her behalf if her GPA in the major is between 3.0 and 3.5. See Academic Distinctions.

Human Rights Concentration in Sociology
Director: Thomas Cashman
The Department of Sociology offers a concentration in human rights. Students electing this concentration will major in Sociology and will take three specific courses in the concentration that will be counted toward the major in Sociology.

SOC 202 Introduction to Human Rights
SOC 259 The Sociology of International Justice
SOC 302 Advanced Topics in Human Rights. Topic for 2005-06: Humanitarianism and Humanitarian Intervention
Students electing this concentration are encouraged, in consultation with the director, to take other courses in the college curriculum dealing with human rights, to engage in independent research (SOC 350, 360 and 370), and to participate in internships in human rights organizations in the United States and abroad.

165 Sociology
Department of Spanish

The department reserves the right to place new students in the courses for which they seem best prepared regardless of the number of units they have offered for admission.

SPAN 101-102 and 201-202 are counted toward the degree but not toward the major.

Qualifying juniors are encouraged to spend a semester or a year in a Spanish-speaking country, either with Wellesley’s consortium program in Córdoba, Spain, in Puebla, Mexico, or another approved program. To be eligible for study in Córdoba for one or two semesters in Wellesley’s Programa de Estudios Hispánicos en Córdoba (PRESCHO), or “Program for Mexican Culture,” a student must be enrolled in 241 or a higher-level language or literature course the previous semester.

SPAN 101-102 Elementary Spanish

Staff

Each semester earns one unit of credit; however, both semesters must be completed satisfactorily to receive credit for each course.

Prerequisite: Open to all students who do not present Spanish for admission.

Distribution: None

Semester: Fall, Spring

Unit: 1.0

SPAN 201-202 Intermediate Spanish

Staff

Intensive review of all language skills and introduction to the art, literature, and cultures of Spain and Latin America. Emphasis on oral and written expression and critical analysis. Three periods.

Each semester earns one unit of credit; however, both semesters must be completed satisfactorily to receive credit for each course.

Prerequisite: Two admission units in Spanish or 101-102.

SPAN 245 Ethnic Passions

Vega

NOT OFFERED IN 2005-06. A close reading and viewing of selected written and performance texts by Latina/o artists, with particular focus on the intersection of categories of race/ethnicity and sexuality. Selected artists – all writing or performing in the last two decades (Francisco S. Alarcon, Luis Alfaro, Gloria Anzaldúa, Ana Castillo, Sandra Cisneros, Juan Leguizmante, Cherríe Moraga, Ela Troyano and others) – will be examined in light of their role within (or rejection by) the Latino literary “canon.” Topics for analysis include contemporary debates regarding the nature and construction of Latino identity; the relationship between ethnic and sexual categories; and Latino nuances within essentialist/social constructionist debates regarding gender, sexual and ethnic identities.

Prerequisite: Open or 242 or permission of the instructor.

SPAN 247 The Multiple Meanings of Family in Hispanic Cultures

Rojas

The institution of the family is the most enduring and cohesive of social associations in the Spanish-speaking world, and at the same time the most vulnerable. This course will explore its continuities and modifications cross-culturally on both literal and symbolic levels. Readings, films, and figures: La familia de Pascual Duarte, La plaza del diamante, La casa de Bernarda Alba, Belle Epoque, El llano en llamas, Mi familia, Como agua para chocolate, the iconic Virgen de Guadalupe, the art of Frida Kahlo and Fernando Botero.

Prerequisite: 241 or 242 or permission of instructor.

Distribution: Language and Literature

Semester: Spring

Unit: 1.0

SPAN 248 Exiles, Builders, and Visionaries: Wellesley College and Spain, 136 Years of Synergy

Ramos

NOT OFFERED IN 2005-06. An exploration of the historical, intellectual, creative and artistic connections between Spain and the US from Columbians’ diaries to the present. The United States and Spain, so far apart geographically, have intersected at decisive moments in history for more than five hundred years. Despite the relatively high level of familiarity each society has of the other, mutual misunderstandings have been frequent. This course explores the roots of this dissonance by looking closely at a few specific episodes in history and culture that have shaped reciprocal perceptions. The class offers readings and materials drawn from history, architecture and literature and concludes with an analysis of the role of Wellesley College in the long-running intercultural dialogue.

Prerequisite: None

Distribution: Language and Literature

SPAN 329 Seminar. Chile: Literature and the Arts
Again
NOT OFFERED IN 2005-06. From 1971 to 2003, Chile, one of South America's longest democracies, has experienced traumatic cultural, political, and social change. From the election of Salvador Allende (1971-1973) through the Pinochet dictatorship, during these turbulent times an unprecedented cultural life was manifested in literature, theatre, and the visual arts. In this seminar, we will explore the cultural changes experienced in Chile during three decades, the ways in which writers understood the complex web of creativity, as well as the specter of censorship. We will analyze how historical figures were revived through writers such as Gabriel Mistral, Rosamel Del Valle, Pablo Neruda, and Salvador Allende. Narratives, journalistic essays, theatrical and visual productions will be examined vis à vis the social and political history in which the topics were created.

EDUC 308 Seminar. World Languages Methodology
HIST 206 Colonial Latin America, 1450-1810

Directions for Election
A minimum of eight units exclusive of 101-102 and 201-202 must be presented for the Spanish major and must ordinarily include 241 or 242 and at least one 200-level unit on Spain and at least one 200-level unit on Latin America. Also required are at least two 300-level units, including a seminar during the senior year. The units should be selected in consultation with the major advisor. SPAN 350, 360, and 370 do not count towards the minimum requirement of two 300-level courses for the major.

Upon approval from the department, up to four courses taken during study abroad in Spain or Latin America may be counted toward the major. Students who participate in these programs (either for a semester or a full-year) may petition to have one course taken abroad count for one unit of departmental 300-level credit, but not for senior seminar credit. Students who submit such a petition will be required to present materials produced in the course taken abroad and the department will determine whether or not 300-level credit should be granted upon review of these materials.

For students interested in an interdisciplinary approach to the study of Latin America, also available is the interdepartmental major in Latin American Studies, which allows students to choose from a list of courses in different departments, including Spanish. Majors devise their own programs in consultation with the directors of Latin American studies. Students are referred to the Latin American studies interdepartmental program listing for further information.

AP: A student may receive one unit of credit and satisfy the foreign language requirement with a grade of 5 on either or both of the AP Spanish exams. She will lose the AP credit(s) if she takes SPAN 202 or a lower-numbered course. AP credit does not count toward the major in Spanish.

Honors
The only route to honors in the major is writing a thesis and passing an oral examination. To be admitted to the thesis program, a student must have a grade point average of at least 3.5 in all work in the major field above the 100-level; the department may petition on her behalf if her GPA in the major is between 3.0 and 3.5. See Academic Distinctions.

Teacher Certification: Students interested in obtaining certification to teach Spanish in the Commonwealth of Massachusetts should consult Prof. Renjilian-Burgy, Department of Spanish, and Prof. Beauty of the Department of Education.

Theatre Studies
AN INTERDEPARTMENTAL MAJOR
Program Director: Hussey
Instructor: Arciniegas, Hussey, Loewit
Lecturer: Lopez, Roach
Director of Theatre: Hussey
Production Manager: Loewit
Advisory Committee: Ko (English), Masson (French), Ward (German), Genaro (Psychology), Renjilian Burgy (Spanish), Rosenwald (English)

The theatre studies major is both an academic field of study and a practical application of that study. The purpose of the major is to provide students with a theoretical knowledge and appreciation of the history and literature of the theatre. Additionally, students are instructed and given "hands on" experience in production and promotion of theatrical events. The theatre is one of the oldest art forms in existence, and students learn valuable information about the way various disparate societies have evolved throughout the ages. Students are expected to work on productions as performers and technicians. The theatre department actively tries to cultivate well-rounded theatre students who are knowledgeable in all areas of theatre.

Early consultation with the director is essential, because some of the relevant courses are not offered every year and careful planning is necessary. In addition to working with the director of the theatre program, students will be encouraged to consult with other members of the faculty familiar with the interdepartmental theatre major.

Students majoring in theatre studies must take a minimum of nine units, including ENG 127 or ENG 281 and THST 203. Two of the nine must be at the 300 level. At least five of the nine must come from within the theatre studies department. The remaining four may be drawn from any related department (see list below).

Developments in the theatre arts are a result of stage experiments, and because the theatre performance is an expression of theatre scholarship, it is expected that students planning a major in theatre will elect to complement formal study of theatre with practical experience in the extracurricular production program of the College Theatre and related on-campus producing organizations. Students may also remain on campus over the summer or wintersession to gain experience with Wellesley Summer Theatre (the professional wing of the academic department) for credit. All students are encouraged to participate in 250 and 350 individual study offerings in order to pursue their particular area of theatrical interest.

Students majoring in theatre studies may elect to take at least one resident semester of concentrated work in the discipline to supplement and enrich their work at Wellesley. They may attend the National Theatre Institute at the Eugene O'Neill Theatre Center, another institution in the Twelve College Exchange Program, or one of the many London programs offering intensive study in their discipline. Additionally, extensive courses are offered in the drama program at MIT.
Honors
The Theatre Program offers a variety of opportunities for honors. After consultation with the director, the candidate will devise a proposal that incorporates both the academic and the practical aspects of the thesis. Normally the candidate completes the research and writing segment of the thesis in the first semester. In the second semester the candidate produces the practical/theatrical component for public performance. Recent thesis projects have included a musical to educate elementary school students about black holes, and a solo performance piece on racial identity at Wellesley. Applicants for honors should have a minimum 3.5 GPA in all work in the major field above the 100-level, the department may petition on her behalf if her GPA in the major is between 3.0 and 3.5. Students must apply in their junior year for approval of their proposal.

THST 128/WRIT 125 Modern European Drama
Rosenwald (English)
NOT OFFERED IN 2005-06. A study of some distinguished, important plays from late nineteenth-century and twentieth-century Europe, and of the theories connected with those plays. Likely playwrights and theorists: Ibsen, Chekhov, Stanislavsky, Shaw, Pirandello, Brecht, Artaud, Ionesco, Beckett, Weiss, Handke. Focus both on close reading and on big ideas. Discussion of at least one Wellesley College theater production, and perhaps of some off-campus theater. This course satisfies the Writing 125 requirement and counts as a unit towards a major in Theatre Studies. Includes a third session each week.
Prerequisite: None. Open only to first-year students. Distribution: Arts, Music, Theatre, Film, Video or Language and Literature Semester: N/O
Unit: 1.0

THST 203 Plays, Production, and Performance
Hussey
This course studies the principles and practice of the related arts that make up the production of a play in the theatre. Students will analyze the dramatic script in terms of the actor, the director, the scenic, costume, and lighting designers, and the technicians. Practical applications of acquired skills integrate the content of the course. Each student participates in the creation of a fully realized "miniproduction" which is presented for an audience.
Prerequisite: None Distribution: Arts, Music, Theatre, Film, Video Semester: Fall
Unit: 1.25

THST 204 Introduction to Acting
Arciniegas
This course is intended for any and all levels of experience. Students are introduced to the fundamentals of contemporary stage performance, as devised by such stage theoreticians as Constantine Stanislavsky, Lee Strasbourg and Sanford Meisner. Instruction focuses on the proper methods for breaking scenes down into their component units or "beats," staging them for clarity of purpose, and performing them truthfully in the immediate presence of a live audience. Students will perform in every class with a rotating roster of partners, emphasizing group learning and mutual support in the pursuit of an individual acting aesthetic. Performance material is drawn from the work of contemporary playwrights researched by the students or recommended by the instructor.
Prerequisite: None Distribution: Arts, Music, Theatre, Film, Video Semester: Fall, Spring
Unit: 1.0

THST 205 Advanced Scene Study (Historic Periods)
Arciniegas
NOT OFFERED IN 2005-06. This course is intended to give the advanced theatre student experience in the performance styles of other periods. Focusing on Classical, Elizabethan, Restoration, and Victorian dramatic literature, students retrace the development of the Western European theatrical tradition in practical terms. Particular emphasis is placed upon developing the performance skills necessary for remaining faithful to the acting style of the period while ensuring relevance and accessibility to a contemporary audience.
Prerequisite: 204 Distribution: Arts, Music, Theatre, Film, Video Semester: N/O
Unit: 1.0

THST 206 Directing and Dramaturgy
Hussey
This course studies the creative skills of the director in conjunction with the analytical skills of the dramaturge. Particular emphasis will be placed on communicating on a "moment-to-moment" basis with an actor. Students will be encouraged to develop their own unique "directorial vision." Students will be expected to provide probing intellectual questions to each other while collaborating. Dramatic material will be drawn from a variety of world literatures with emphasis placed on women playwrights. Students will be given opportunities to work each week with professional actors in a guest artist "lab" format.
Prerequisite: None Distribution: Arts, Music, Theatre, Film, Video Semester: Fall
Unit: 1.0

THST 207 Stagecraft for Performance
Loewit
This course studies the craft and theory of the production arts in the theatre. The course will cover the process and will analyze the designers' function in the production: creating working drawings, problem-solving, and use of theatrical equipment and alternative media for the realization of sound, set, and lighting designs. There will be additional time outside of class scheduled for production apprenticeships.
Prerequisite: 203 or permission of instructor. Distribution: Arts, Music, Theatre, Film, Video Semester: Spring
Unit: 1.0

THST 208 Introduction to Stage Management
Loewit
This course examines the role and duties of a stage manager in the collaborative process and the stage manager's relationship to the director, designers, and actors. Students will learn to write rehearsal reports, call cues, assemble rehearsal schedules, call scripts, etc. Students will also be taught the importance of technical script analysis. Emphasis will also be placed on a number of transferable skills, including leadership, organization, delegation, effective communication, and attention to detail. In addition, students are strongly encouraged to complete a THST 250H by stage managing either a Wellesley College Theatre or an Upstage production during the academic year in order to complement the material learned in class.
Prerequisite: None Distribution: Arts, Music, Theatre, Film, Video Semester: Spring
Unit: 0.5

THST 210 Voices of the Homeland
Hussey, Lopez, Reach
Have you ever wondered what is lost in the process of assimilation into American culture? In this interpretation class, students are introduced to the literature of Hispanic, Celtic, and African American cultures. Through prose, poetry, and drama, stories and characters are brought to vivid life. Students will hone their interpretive skills while exploring issues of identity, immigration, and the female experience. Material will be taken from folklore, mainstream literature, and emerging writers of today.
Prerequisite: None Distribution: Arts, Music, Theatre, Film, Video Semester: Fall
Unit: 1.0

THST 211 Representations of Women on Stage
Lopez
OFFERED IN 2005-06. OFFERED IN 2006-07. This course looks at specific examples of the representation of women on the dramatic stage during various eras in a variety of cultures, focusing primarily on what a public and popular art says and implies about women: their "nature," their roles, their place in the society reflected. Consideration is given to the male dominance in both playwriting and performance in historic cultures. Texts will be chosen from a broad spectrum of dramatic world literatures.
Prerequisite: None Distribution: Arts, Music, Theatre, Film, Video Semester: Spring
Unit: 1.0

THST 214 Inside Out: A Study of Character Through Voice and Movement
Kahn
This course will give students the tools and skills to develop a character either from the inside out, using movement, or from the outside in, using the voice. Utilizing the techniques of Kristin Linklater, students will move towards "freeing their natural voice" and developing range, color, and texture for effective stage use. Concurrently, students will work on "freeing their bodies" and using physicality to flesh out a character. Class work will focus on both individual and group work with particular attention given to layering voice and movement with text to create vivid, fully developed characters. Not offered every year. Subject to Dean's office approval.

THST 220 Classic Plays and Players
Lopez
NOT OFFERED IN 2005-06. OFFERED IN 2006-07. This course, taught by playwright Melinda Lopez, surveys dramatic texts as realized in performance (including the plays of Shakespeare). Films and video recordings of live performances approximating the original production style will be utilized along with modern interpretations. Class discussion will also incorporate analysis and comparison of women and minors who have shaped and created the theatre as actors, directors, designers, and producers. Analytical and critical writing skills are emphasized in the development of written critiques. Students will contrast and compare contemporary events with the events in dramatic texts and will incorporate that knowledge into class projects such as adaptations, research papers, or original plays. Guest artists from the theatre world occasionally visit to illuminate other perspectives.

Prerequisite: None
Distribution: Arts, Music, Theatre, Film, Video
Semester: N/O. Offered in 2006-07. Unit: 1.0

THST 221 Introduction to Playwriting
Harrington
This course will teach basic playwriting skills implemented through in-class exercises and at-home writing assignments. The hands-on, practical approach will require writing one short play each week. Emphasis is on experimentation, innovation, risk taking, and process. A spirit of fun, innovation, and creativity will dominate this workshop format. Each class meeting will incorporate reading student work aloud with commentary from the instructor and the class. Students will learn, critique, and develop the vocabulary to discuss plays, structure, story, and content. Each student will begin to connect her/his dramatic voice and intellectual passion. Not offered every year. Subject to Dean’s office approval. Mandatory credit/credit.

THST 306 The Directors Art
Hussey
Intended for the serious directing student, this course will focus on seeing, analyzing and critiquing the work of the director. Significant attention will be paid to the collaboration between directors, designers, and actors. The pragmatic aspects of mounting a production will be analyzed using the performances attended by the class as raw material for discussions. Students will attend six productions paid for by theatre studies, one in New York, one in Providence, and four in Boston. Particular emphasis will be placed on the students determining how successful the productions are in engaging the audience and fulfilling the intention of the playwright. As a final presentation students will produce and direct their own ten-minute play presented at a festival for the Wellesley community.

Prerequisite: 203 or 206 or under unusual circumstances permission of the instructor.
Distribution: Arts, Music, Theatre, Film, Video
Semester: Spring Unit: 1.0

THST 315 Acting Shakespeare
Arnot
This course focuses on the study and practice of skills and techniques for the performance of scenes and monologues and the realization of theatrical characters from Shakespeare’s texts. Speeches and scenes will be performed for class criticism. The class will be subdivided by instructor according to skill levels. Students are expected to rehearse and prepare scenes outside of class time.

Prerequisite: 203, 204, and 205 or permission of instructor after audition.

WOST 108 The Social Construction of Gender

This course discusses the ways in which the social system and its constituent institutions create, maintain, and reproduce gender dichotomies. Gender is examined as one form of social stratification and studied in the context of identity formation. The relationship among gender, race, ethnicity, and social class will be stressed. The processes and mechanisms that institutionalize gender differences will be considered in a variety of contexts: political, economic, religious, educational, and familial. We will examine some deliberate attempts to change gender patterns.

Unit: 1.0

WOST 120 Introduction to Women's Studies

Cheng, Cref, Revery

Introduction to the interdisciplinary field of women's studies with an emphasis on an understanding of the "common differences" that both unite and divide women. Beginning with an examination of how womanhood has been represented in myths, ads, and popular culture, the course explores how gender inequalities have been both explained and critiqued. The cultural meaning given to gender as it intersects with race, class, ethnicity, and sexuality will be studied. This course also exposes some of the critiques made by women's studies scholars of the traditional academic disciplines and the new intellectual terrain currently being mapped.

Distribution: Language and Literature or Social and Behavioral Analysis
Semester: Fall, Spring, Summer
Unit: 1.0

WOST 125/WRIT 125 Growing Up Gendered

Marshall

This course focuses on childhood and the teen years in the United States. How do we become gendered? What are the experiences of children and teens in families, schools, and peer groups that contribute to that process? How does gender vary by race/ethnicity and social class? We will explore these questions from a sociological perspective, emphasizing the ways in which gender is constructed in social interactions; the intersections of gender, sexuality and peer status; the importance of including the voices of children and teens; and the importance of collective and individual agency. This course offers focused instruction on modes of writing for the social sciences. This course satisfies the WRIT 125 requirement and counts as a unit toward the women's studies major or minor. Mandatory credit/non-credit.

Prerequisite: None, Open only to first-year students.
Distribution: Social and Behavioral Analysis
Semester: Spring
Unit: 1.0

WOST 200 Introduction to Reproductive Issues

NOT OFFERED IN 2005-06. This course explores reproduction in contemporary U.S. society, attending to psychological, social, ethical, and policy implications of pregnancy, childbirth, and parenthood. Reproductive health, technology, and practices are considered in light of the significance of children in different eras and cultures, and in light of policies concerning children, families and the status of women. This course draws from the biological sciences, the social sciences, and the humanities, and students will gain practice in conducting interviews, analyzing data, and writing about controversial issues in bioethics and social policies.

Prerequisite: None. Not open to students who have taken EXTD 103.
Distribution: Religion, Ethics, and Moral Philosophy or Social and Behavioral Analysis
Semester: N/O
Unit: 1.0

WOST 202 Multidisciplinary Approaches to Abortion

NOT OFFERED IN 2005-06. Why is abortion an emotionally-charged, intellectually troubling, and nationally divisive issue? There is more to the topic of abortion than the conflict between "pro-choice" and "pro-life" positions. We can achieve better understanding of the problem by examining the biological and medical aspects of abortion as well as its religious, social, psychological, and philosophical implications. The class will explore a range of views on such topics as prenatal screening, the moral and legal significance of fathers' claims, and the possible impact of medical and technological advances (such as RU-486) on the issue of abortion.

Prerequisite: Open to sophomores, juniors, and seniors who have taken one introductory course in a social science, biology, philosophy, or women's studies.
Distribution: Religion, Ethics, and Moral Philosophy or Social and Behavioral Analysis
Semester: N/O
Unit: 1.0

WOST 203 Ethical and Social Issues in Genetics

NOT OFFERED IN 2005-06. New genetic technologies confront us with complex questions. Should we use prenatal tests to select children's characteristics? Should genetic information be private and confidential? How should we, in the light of the genetic origins of certain conditions affect health policy? If some personality and behavioral characteristics have genetic components, should this change our views about personal responsibility?

Prerequisite: One course in any of the following: biology, philosophy, psychology, sociology or women's studies.
Distribution: Religion, Ethics, and Moral Philosophy
Semester: N/O
Unit: 1.0

WOST 204 Women and Motherhood

NOT OFFERED IN 2005-06. As poet and feminist Adrienne Rich points out, motherhood is both an "experience and institution." This course highlights how social institutions and cultural beliefs shape the experience and meaning of motherhood. We will contrast motherhood today with motherhood in other cultures and periods, and we will examine how contemporary medical practices and social policy have created new options and new problems for women. Topics will include the experience of pregnancy and childbirth, contemporary family policy, reproductive technologies, and what have become known as "maternal/fetal conflicts."

Prerequisite: None
Distribution: Religion, Ethics, and Moral Philosophy or Social and Behavioral Analysis
Semester: N/O
Unit: 1.0

WOST 205 Love and Intimacy: A Cross-Cultural Perspective

Cheng

This course examines the system of meanings and practices that evolved around notions of love and intimacy as well as their political significance. The course seeks to demonstrate how these "private" emotions and desires are embedded in social structures such as gender, networks of kinship, class, race, ethnicity, and religion. How do intimate relations challenge patriarchy and heteronormativity? The course invites students to interrogate the public/private divide, examine both the reproductive role in ideologies of love and intimacy, as well as their transformative potential. In demonstrating how "the personal is political," this course also hopes to open possibilities for systemic transformation.

Prerequisites: 120 or 108, or a course on gender in anthropology, history, sociology, psychology, or political science.

WOST 206 Asian Women on the Move: Transnationalism, Gender, and Ethnicity

Cheng

This course examines the experiences of Asian women in the globalization process, with an emphasis on transnational migration. We will explore the paradoxical position of women who violate conventional domestic roles, contest within the political-economy of the Asia-Pacific, and the reconfiguration of gender, class and ethnic identities in transnational movements. The goal is to understand the historical complexity of migration, the institutional and cultural controls on women's mobility, and their cultural and social agency.

Prerequisites: 120 or 108, or a course on gender, migration, or globalization in anthropology, history, sociology, political science, or women's studies.
Distribution: Social and Behavioral Analysis
Semester: Spring
Unit: 1.0

WOST 207 Nature, Culture, and Bodies

NOT OFFERED IN 2005-06. This course considers how the "nature" of bodies is constructed in key cultural sites. Because science has come to be the site of authoritative claims about nature, this course will pay particular attention to scientific and medical constructions of bodies. How do categories of race, sex, class and sexuality come to be known and lived as natural features of the human body? By what processes have some bodies made normal or pathological? The course also considers how specific technologies—from clothing to cosmetic surgery—participate in changing how we live and understand the nature of bodies. Key topics addressed in the course include: the historical scientific construction of race, medical constructions of reproduction, the gendering and culturaling of the body through fashion, and internet embodiment.

Prerequisite: One course in Women's Studies.

WOST 211 SOC 205 American Families and Social Equality
Hertz
American families are undergoing dramatic changes in social, political, and economic arenas: the rise of the dual-worker family, the increasing number of single mothers, the demands of family rights by gay and lesbian families, and the growing numbers of couples having children at older ages. The new economy poses real challenges for American parents as the social and economic gaps between families continue. As women dedicate a greater proportion of their time to the workplace, more children are cared for outside the home. How do children view parents’ employment? How do families function when they have only limited hours together? What does fatherhood mean in these families? Using a provocative blend of social science, novels, and memoirs, we will examine how gender, race, ethnicity, and social class shape the experience of family life in the contemporary United States. Students may register for either WOST 211 or SOC 205 and credit will be granted accordingly.

WOST 216 Women and Popular Culture
Srinivas (Sociology)
This course examines women’s representation, production, and participation in U.S. popular culture from the late nineteenth century to the present. Through the use of historical studies, film, television, music, and literature, we will discuss how race, gender, ethnicity, class, and region have impacted women’s encounters with popular and mass culture. We will ask why the cultural industry has viewed women as critical to the consumption and dissemination of popular culture. We will discuss popular culture’s impact on challenging and/or reinforcing gender differences. Topics include women and modernity, cities and leisure, the rise of a consumer culture, women and technology, sexuality, and feminism, and performance practices.
Prerequisite: None
Distribution: Social and Behavioral Analysis Semester: Fall Unit: 1.0

WOST 217 Growing Up Gendered
NOT OFFERED IN 2005-06. This course focuses on childhood and the teen years in the United States. How do we become gendered? What are the experiences of children and teens in families, schools, and peer groups that contribute to that process? What is the relationship between pop culture and the gendered lives of children and teens? How does gendering vary by race/ethnicity and social class? We will explore the core issues in the field, including the importance of including the voices of children and teens, the ways in which gender is constructed in social interactions, the intersections of gender, sexuality, and peer status, and the importance of collective and individual agency.

WOST 220 American Health Care History in Gender, Race, and Class Perspective
Reverby
Traditional American medical history has emphasized the march of science and the ideas of the “great doctors” in the progressive improvement in American medical care. In this course we will look beyond just medical care to the social and economic factors that have shaped the development of the priorities, institutions, and personnel in the health care system in the United States. We will ask how gender, race, and class affected the kind of care developed, its differential delivery, and the problems and issues addressed.
Prerequisite: 108 or 120 or 222 or permission from instructor.
Distribution: Historical Studies Semester: Fall
Unit: 1.0

WOST 222 Women in Contemporary American Society
Reverby
This course examines the transformations and continuities in the lives of women in the United States since World War II. We will look critically at the so-called “happy days” of the 1950s, the cultural and political “revolutions” of the 1960s and early 1970s, and the shifts in consciousness over the last five decades. The rise and changes in feminism and the women’s movement will receive special attention. Emphasis will be placed on the differing communities of women and how they have balanced the so-called “private,” “public,” and “civic” spheres of their lives.
Prerequisite: None
Distribution: Historical Studies or Social and Behavioral Analysis Semester: Spring Unit: 1.0

WOST 235 Cross Cultural Sexuality
Patel
This course will examine and explore sexuality from cross-cultural perspectives, focusing on the production of sexuality in the context of different cultural settings—literature, anthropology, history, and sociology. The course will address the intersections between sexual and socio-cultural, political, and economic discourses. How is sexuality constructed in relation to ideological, social, and political considerations? How are sexual norms established, circulated, and maintained in different cultures and at different historical junctures? What, if anything, constitutes sexual otherness in different cultures? How is this negotiated in a global economy and how is it represented under variable conditions? How do different descriptions of sexual behavior interact with the discourses of identity politics and queerness as constituted in the United States?
Prerequisite: 108 or 120 or 222

WOST 248 Asian American Women Writers
Creef
This course surveys the historical development of Asian American women’s literature over the last 100 years. Among the questions central to our examinations: How is Asian American writing positioned within the larger field of American literature? This course will survey the literature of Asian American women writers since the early twentieth century (including autobiography, fiction, and poetry) in their social, cultural, and historical contexts.
Prerequisite: None

WOST 249 Asian American Women in Film and Video
NOT OFFERED IN 2005-06. This course will serve as an introduction to Asian American film and video, and begin with the premise that there is a distinct American style of Asian “Orientalist” representation by tracing its development in classic Hollywood film over the last 75 years. We examine the politics of interracial romance, the phenomenon of the “yellow face” masquerade, and the different constructions of Asian American femininity, masculinity, and sexuality. In the second half of the course, we look at the production of what has been named “Asian American cinema” where our focus will be on contemporary works, drawing upon critical materials from film theory, feminist studies, Asian American studies, history, and cultural studies.
Prerequisite: One course in women’s studies or film/visual arts or Asian American topics; or permission of instructor.

WOST 280 Gender and Writing in South Asia
NOT OFFERED IN 2005-06. Beginning with proto-nationalism (1780s) and closing with the late nation-state (1990s), this course explores the ways in which gender and writing come together in South Asia. Questions include: Under what circumstances did different genres of writing develop? How did different genres of early nationalist writing engage with masculinity or femininity? How was the home, house, or the private configured in writing around the 1960s? How was gender articulated in relation to tradition and modernity? How were “feminist” issues addressed in different genres of writing? Writers whose works might be read in this class include Sakawat Hussain, Premchand, Saadat Hasan Manto, Ismat Chughtai, Q. Hyder, Kiran Nagarkar, and Mahasweta Devi. Movies might include Bandini, Pyasa, Unnaro Jan Ada, Mother India, and Fire.

WOST 306/SOC 306 Women and Work
Hertz
Aside from new technology and increasing global interdependence, the biggest force for change in the U.S. economy has been the growing diversity of the American labor force. The goal of this course is to understand the impact of gender and racial diversity on the nature of work in America. We will give special attention to four key aspects of change: (1) the dynamics of gender and race in the workplace; (2) the tensions between work/family and gender equity; (3) the struggle to integrate women into male-dominated occupations and professions; and (4) the challenges for women in leadership roles. Each student will select an occupation, which they will study in-depth. Students may register for either WOST 306 or SOC 206 and credit will be granted accordingly.

WOST 307 Imaging Asian/Asian American Women
Creef
This course will look at Orientalism as a historical discourse as a way of framing the representation of Asian/Asian American women in American culture. We will look at the historical representations of Asian women in the U.S. beginning with the turn of the century world's fairs and the immigration of "picture brides," wartime and postwar incarnations of the "dragon lady" in popular culture (in cartoons and through the figures of "Tokyo Rose" and Yoko Ono), and the work of contemporary Asian American feminist performance, installation, and spoken word artists who engage in self-reflexive critiques of Asian American Orientalism in their creative work.
Prerequisites: At least one course in women's studies or in an Asian American studies related course. Open to juniors and seniors only.
Distribution: Art, Music, Theatre, Film, Video
Semester: Spring
Unit: 1.0

WOST 308 The Changing Law, the New Family, and the State
Citron
This course examines the legal standing of family membership. As families have become more diverse, the law becomes an arena of political challenge. These new realities—domestic partnerships, reproductive technologies, and the rise of single mothers—have created a contested terrain. For example, what legal frameworks should same-sex partners use to mimic the legal protections automatically afforded to their married counterparts? How do committed partners dissolve a marriage-like relationship outside of divorce proceedings? Using legal cases, media portrayals, and public policy statements we will examine how U.S. states are differentially responding to new family forms.
Prerequisites: Juniors and seniors only. One 200-level course in family or gender in anthropology, history, psychology, political science, sociology, or women's studies.
Distribution: Social and Behavioral Analysis
Semester: Spring

WOST 311/SOC 311 Seminar. Family and Gender Studies: The Family, the State, and Social Policy
Hertz
Analysis of problems facing the contemporary U.S. family and potential policy directions for the new millennium. Discussion of the transformation of the American family including changing economic and social roles for women and expanding varieties of family types (such as single mothers by choice and lesbian/gay families). Sexuality, teen pregnancy, reproductive issues, day care, the elderly, divorce, welfare, the impact of work on the family, equality between spouses, choices women make about children and employment, and the new American dreams will be explored. Comparisons to other contemporary societies will serve as a foil for particular analyses. Students are expected to work in groups to analyze the media's portrayal of family-life stories and selected legal cases. Students may register for either WOST 311 or SOC 311 and credit will be granted accordingly.

WOST 313 Fieldwork in Women's Studies
Staff
This is a supervised, independent fieldwork project resulting in a research paper, documentary policy initiative, creative arts presentation, or other research product approved by the student's advisor. This project, developed in conjunction with the advisor's student, will have a significant experiential component focusing on women's lives. Students are required to spend either the summer before their senior year or the first semester of their senior year gathering data on a topic of their choice. Topics should be part of the student's area of concentration. Students may (1) work in an organization, (2) work with activist policy makers on social change issues or social policy issues, (3) design their own fieldwork experience.
Prerequisites: Open to majors and minors only.
Distribution: Social and Behavioral Analysis
Semester: Fall, Spring
Unit: 1.0

WOST 314 Seminar. Global Feminism
Cheng
This seminar is structured as a critical engagement with the notion of "global feminism" with particular focus on the subject of "sex trafficking." It starts with an examination of some key feminist concerns and debates—feminist epistemology, issues of representation, the politics of difference, postcolonialism and nationalism, agency and subjectivity, sexuality, development, and migration. With a grasp of these analytical tools and issues, we move on to examine the formation of transnational women's movements that has mobilized around women's human rights. In the last part, we will see why and how "sex trafficking" has become the convergent point of feminist debates, and the policy implications these differences and politics are having on the lives of women around the world.
Prerequisites: Open to juniors and seniors only.

WOST 315 Seminar. Coalitions, Institutions, and Individual Identities
NOT OFFERED IN 2005-06. This seminar will consider how individuals and groups, who differ by gender, class, religion, sexuality, and/or race, formed coalitions to achieve social transformations. Critical moments in differing institutional struggles will be examined. Questions will cover: Under what conditions are coalitions formed, what holds them together, and how successful have they been in transforming institutions and individual identities? Political movements and institutions to be explored include abolitionism, suffrage, trade unions, schools, civil rights, anti-racism movements, and student activism.
Prerequisites: Open to juniors and seniors only.

Semester: N/O
Unit: 1.0
WOST 317 Seminar. History of Sexuality: Queer Theory
Patel
This seminar will introduce the concepts central to queer theory, starting with Foucault and Laqueur and discussions of sexual difference and deviance. It will examine queerness in its various manifestations and practices: butch-femme, transgenering, cross-dressing, bisexuality, and third gender. The conflicts and continuities between identity politics and queer identities will be explored in the context of racialization, class, and different-abledness and under the markers of nationhood and subalternity. Finally, what impact do the debates on the production of sexuality in different sites (African American, Native American, Latino, Asian American, and non-U.S.) and historical periods have on theories of queerness?
Prerequisite: Open to juniors and seniors who have taken any course on gender, race, or sexuality.
Distribution: Epistemology and Cognition or Language and Literature
Semester: Spring
Unit: 1.0

WOST 324 Seminar. History, Memory, and Women’s Lives
NOT OFFERED IN 2005-06. If a woman speaks of her experiences, do we get closer to the “truth” of that experience? How can oral history provide a window into the lives of women in the past and what does it close off? Analysis of methodological and theoretical implications of studying women’s lives through oral histories as a way to end the silences in other historical forms. Special attention to be paid to other genres — history, fiction, ethnographies — as a foil to explore the strengths, and limitations, of the oral history approach.

Directions for Election

A major in women's studies offers an opportunity for the interdisciplinary study of women from the perspectives of the humanities, sciences, and social sciences. Women's studies majors seek an understanding of the new intellectual frameworks that are reshaping thought about the meaning and role of gender in human life. Majors pursue knowledge of gendered experiences in diverse cultures and across time, examining the ways in which race, social class, sexuality, and ethnicity are constitutive of that experience.

A major in women's studies requires nine units taken both within the department and through the related courses taught in other departments. Of these, two units must be 300-level courses (not counting 350, 350H, 360, or 370). Not more than two units can be 100-level courses.

Students are encouraged to enter the department through one of the three core units: WOST 108 (The Social Construction of Gender), WOST 120 (Introduction to Women's Studies), or WOST 222 (Women in Contemporary American Society). Majors must take one of these units as a required course. Apart from this, one required unit (108, 120 or 222), majors must elect at least three other units offered within the women's studies department, of which one should be a seminar. Courses at the 100 level are introductions to topics in women's studies. They are taught from the perspective of each faculty member's specialty. Courses at the 200 level are overviews to substantive areas. Courses at the 300 level provide in-depth examination of material covered in 200-level courses. Students majoring in women's studies must elect four of the nine units in such a way that they form a "concentration," i.e. have a focus or central theme in common. Such concentration should include relevant method and theory units in the area of concentration, and must be discussed with and approved by a women's studies faculty advisor. Priority in all courses above the 100 level will go to majors and minors. Students selecting 300-level courses must have one course listed in the department.

The Capstone Experience in Women's Studies

All majors will be required to select a capstone experience, with the guidance of their advisor, from the following three options offered in 2005-06. Students should begin to think about which option would best fit their concentration when they declare the major. They must declare their option by the end of their junior year.

Option 1: WOST 312 (Seminar, Feminist Inquiry). Each year the seminar will be a different special topic. For 2005-06, the topic is "Framing the Body Through Feminist Theory" taught by Professor Creel. For 2006-07 The topic is "Global Feminism" taught by Professor Cheng.

Option 2: WOST 313 (Fieldwork in Women's Studies).

Option 3: WOST 360/370 (Senior Thesis).

Option three is the traditional senior honors thesis which requires two units during the senior year. See Academic Distinctions in this Bulletin for requirements. A thesis does not need to have an experiential component but typically it is based on some original research. Option 2 must involve an experiential component.

A minor in women's studies consists of five courses, of which one must be chosen from among 108, 120, or 222, and of which one must be a 300-level course (not 350 or 350H) offered within the department. A total of at least three courses must be taken within the women's studies department. Minors must devise a three-course "concentration" (see above) in consultation with a women's studies faculty advisor (the chair or any of the four women's studies faculty members). Not more than one unit can be a 100-level course.

Women's Studies AP Policy

Women's studies does not allow students to count AP credits towards the fulfillment of the major or minor.

Honor's

The only route to honors in the major is writing a thesis and passing an oral examination. To be admitted to the thesis program, a student must have a grade point average of at least 3.5 in all work in the major field above the 100-level; the department may petition on her behalf if her GPA in the major is between 3.0 and 3.5. See Academic Distinctions.

The Writing Program

Director: Wood
Assistant Professor: Schwartz
Visiting Assistant Professor: Jordan
Senior Lecturer: Johnson, Vit, Wood
Lecturer: Iwanaga

Writing is central to academic life at Wellesley and will continue to play an important role in most students' lives after they graduate, whether they choose majors in the sciences, the social sciences, or the humanities. WRT 125 provides a common introductory experience in college-level thinking and writing for all students at Wellesley and is also assumed to provide the base for writing assigned in later courses. WRT 125 courses are taught by faculty from many departments as well as by a team of writing professionals; all WRT 125 faculty view writing as an important part of their own professional lives and are committed to helping Wellesley students learn to use writing as a powerful tool of thought and expression, a way to gain entrance to public discourse.

All WRT 125 courses have the primary goal of helping students establish a useful writing process, from developing ideas through revision. All sections provide instruction in analysis and argument and the use of evidence, in the development of voice, and in the conventions of academic writing, including writing from sources. Students may choose to take a standard WRT 125 course (meeting two periods a week and addressing a small, well-defined topic related to the instructor's expertise), or to study writing as part of an introductory course in another department (these "combined courses" are designated with a slash in the course title; all carry one unit of credit, fulfill distribution and/or major requirements, and meet for at least three periods each week).

All students are required to take WRT 125 in either the fall or spring semester of their first year at Wellesley. Students who lack confidence in their writing are advised to take WRT 125 in the fall and to select one of the sections designated for underconfident writers (10, 11, 12, 13, 14, and 16 in semester I). WRT 125 courses are ordinarily open only to first-year students.

Students who wish to pursue the study of writing beyond WRT 125 may select independent study in writing (WRT 250 for a full unit or WRT 250H for a half unit of credit) with a member of the writing program staff, but they should also be aware that many courses at Wellesley are taught writing intensively, offering the opportunity to study writing as part of their disciplinary study. Students wishing to pursue course work in creative writing should consult the English department course listings.

PLEASE NOTE: Students may not take a second semester of WRT 125 unless they have the written consent of the director of the Writing Program.
WRIT 125 01, 02/ENG 120 Critical Interpretation
Fisher, Hickey (English)
A course designed to increase power and skill in critical interpretation by the detailed reading of poems and the writing of interpretive essays.
This course satisfies both the WRIT 125 requirement and the Critical Interpretation requirement of the English major. Includes a third session each week.
Prerequisite: None
Distribution: Language and Literature
Semester: Fall, Spring
Unit: 1.0

WRIT 125 03, 04/ARTH 100 Introduction to the History of Art Part I: Ancient and Medieval Art
Bedell, Rhodes (Art)
A broad multicultural survey of the art of the ancient and medieval worlds. The course focuses upon major monuments and masterpieces, including the Egyptian pyramids, the temples and sculptures of Greece and Rome, the Buddhist shrines of India, the painted scrolls of China and Japan, the mosques of the Islamic Near East, and the Gothic cathedrals of Europe. Students in this section of ARTH 100 will attend the same twice-weekly lectures as the other ARTH 100 students, but their assignments will be different, and they will attend two special WRIT 125 conferences each week. Through writing about art, students in 100/125 will develop skills in visual and critical analysis. This course satisfies the WRIT 125 requirement and counts as a unit towards a major in art history, architecture, or studio art.
Prerequisite: None
Distribution: Arts, Music, Theatre, Film, Video
Semester: Fall
Unit: 1.0

WRIT 125 05/RUSS 125 Great Short Stories from Russia
Bishop (Russian)
Russian literature has given the world some of the best stories ever told, and this course surveys two centuries' worth of them. Someone once quipped that all of twentieth century Russian literature came out of Nikolai Gogol's "Nose." Thus, we begin with "The Nose" and other ridiculous stories by Gogol. We will go on to read some of the finest short stories of Chekhov and the Nobel Prize winner Ivan Bunin. The grotesque realism of Isaac Babel's stories and the magical realism of Vladimir Nabokov's also lie within the scope of this course. We will conclude with the late- and post-Soviet stories of Tatiana Tolstaya and Ludmilla Petrushevskaya. No prior knowledge of Russian language or literature is required. This course satisfies the WRIT 125 requirement. Includes a third session each week.
Prerequisite: None
Distribution: Language and Literature
Semester: Fall
Unit: 1.0

WRIT 125 06/FILM 100 Introduction to Political Science
Joseph (Political Science)
Politics is a struggle for power — and questions about power are at the heart of political science: How is power gained? How is it lost? How is it organized? How is it used? How is it abused? This course introduces students to the concerns and methods of political scientists and to the major subfields of the discipline: American politics, comparative politics, international relations, and political theory. The course is centered on several major books in the field, some describing important political events, such as the rise of the Nazi party in Germany and the collapse of apartheid in South Africa, and some illustrating how political scientists analyze and evaluate the world of politics. This course is strongly recommended for all further work in political science. This course satisfies the WRIT 125 requirement and counts as a unit towards a major in political science. Includes a third session each week.
Prerequisite: None
Distribution: Social and Behavioral Analysis
Semester: Fall, Spring
Unit: 1.0

WRIT 125 07/PHIL 101 Ancient Greek Philosophy
Congleton (Philosophy)
Study of selected dialogues of Plato and treatises of Aristotle. Plato topics to be discussed and written about include his account of the human "psyche," his theory of Forms, and his portrait of Socrates. Studies of Plato's student Aristotle will include learning to speak, write, and analyze the philosophical vocabulary which Aristotle developed and which became standard for subsequent Western philosophy. This course satisfies the WRIT 125 requirement and counts as a unit towards the major in Philosophy. Includes a third session each week. Mandatory credit/non-credit.
Prerequisite: None
Distribution: Epistemology and Cognition or Religion, Ethics, and Moral Philosophy
Semester: Fall
Unit: 1.0

WRIT 125 08 The Maternal in Film
Wood (The Writing Program)
Film theorist MaryAnn Doane observes that "in Western culture, there is something obvious about the maternal, which has no counterpart in the paternal"—and whatever it is that is obvious about motherhood is represented and played out in countless films. In this course, we will test Doane's claim, examining multiple versions of "the mother" in Hollywood cinema, both classic and contemporary. Among the motherly archetypes we will consider are: the self-sacrificing mother of 40s melodrama; the monstrous mother of the 50s, women who could never be mothers of film noir, the absent mother of the 80s and 90s, and (possibly), as we investigate race and immigration issues, mother as "other." Writing assignments will ask students to analyze films using the techniques of film analysis to be taught in the course. Note: Registration in this section is restricted to students from the Pathways Program. Mandatory credit/non-credit.
Prerequisite: None

Semester: Fall
Unit: 1.0

WRIT 125 09 Your Money and Your Life
Patel (Women's Studies)
Money enters and leaves people's lives in various ways. In addition to its obvious practical significance — we need to acquire, budget, and spend it — money stands in relation to things that seem outside its purview, such as feelings and time. This course is organized around topic clusters — money, care, budgets, and futures — that will enable students to investigate the relationship between money and people's lives. Readings will likely include psychoanalytic writings (Christopher Bollas), short stories (Indian writer Premschand), and films (by Italian director Vittorio de Sica). Writing assignments will include drawing up a hypothetical budget; analyzing financial and insurance advertising; and short descriptive pieces on topics such as: forms of money, the route of a dollar, and what happens to someone without insurance.

WRIT 125 10, 11 The Role of Stories
Schwartz (The Writing Program)
This course looks at the rich and various roles stories play. We look at the short story as a literary form, examining the techniques by which writers reveal their visions. This section is appropriate for students who have not done much writing in high school or who perhaps lack confidence in writing (but who love to read stories). Mandatory credit/non-credit.
Prerequisite: None
Distribution: None
Semester: Fall
Unit: 1.0

WRIT 125 12 Women and Memoir: Shaping a Life
Johnson (The Writing Program)
This course explores how writers select and fashion events from their own lives to provide context for their ideas. For women writers especially, this "revision" of personal experience has proved a powerful forum for addressing artistic, social, and political issues. Readings will include essays and selections from autobiographies by Virginia Woolf, Maya Angelou, Alice Walker, Maxine Hong Kingston, and Joan Didion. Mandatory credit/non-credit.
Prerequisite: None

Semester: Fall
Unit: 1.0

WRIT 125 13 Leaving a Trace: Women's Lives at Crossroads
Johnson (The Writing Program)
The instinct to leave a trace of a life, as Virginia Woolf notes, is the first stage in the journey from private to public voice. Yet how do writers develop the courage to write for an audience? This course focuses on young women at crucial life junctures, who often resist social pressures in order to define voice and identity on their own terms. Drawing on memoir, such as Susanna Kaysen's Girl Interrupted, as well as journals by Anne Frank and Etty Hillesum, the course examines how social and psychological adversity shape and often strengthen self-expression. Mandatory credit/non-credit.
Prerequisite: None
Distribution: None
Semester: Fall
Unit: 1.0

WRIT 125 14, 15 Coming-of-Age Autobiographies
Jordan (The Writing Program)
In An American Childhood, Annie Dillard writes about her own coming of age: "I woke in bits, like all children, piecemeal over the years. I discovered myself and the world, and forgot them, and discovered them again." This course will examine the works of writers who wonder about, document, and explore the process of becoming conscious in their own lives. As we will see, this journey can take many forms, including frequent twists and turns. Through critical reading, careful discussion, and thorough research, we will focus on what can be learned about the long and complicated metamorphosis into adulthood from such writers as Lorene Cary, Richard Rodriguez, Jill Ker Conway, Joan Didion, Chang-Rae Lee, Amy Tan, and E.B. White. Mandatory credit/non-credit.

WRIT 125 19 Energy: Yesterday, Today, and Tomorrow

Caplan (Physics)

In 1776, much of the energy used in the United States came from the muscles of humans and draft animals. Today, fossil fuels, nuclear fission and hydropower provide most of our energy, much of which is used to generate electric power. As we have seen in recent years, energy production brings multiple problems: from air pollution to nuclear waste and accidents to grid failures and blackouts. In this course, we will study and write about the technological advances that caused the change from muscle to electric power. We will also consider the economic, political, and ecological results of that change, attempting to determine, for example, why blackouts occur and whether any energy source is safe. Finally, we will examine recent proposals for safer, cleaner energy sources.

Semester: Fall

WRIT 125 21 The Novels of Jane Austen

Meyer (English)

Students will read a selection of the great novels of Jane Austen and use her work to learn skills for the close reading of fiction in general. We will study the details of Austen’s fictional technique. From what perspective are the novels told? How does the author reveal her attitudes toward her characters? At the same time we will consider the broader questions raised by the novels. What values motivate Austen’s fiction? How does she comment on the larger social and historical scene? What are her views on such issues as slavery or the proper role of women? Mandatory credit/non-credit.

Prerequisite: None
Distribution: None
Semester: Fall

WRIT 125 22 The Story and the Writer

Cezar-Thompson (English)

Students will read and discuss stories by a wide range of writers, including James Joyce, Flannery O’Connor, and Gabriel Garcia-Marquez. Essays will be based on these readings.

Prerequisite: None
Distribution: None
Semester: Fall

WRIT 125 23 Race, Identity, and Ideology

Lackey (English)

What role does ideology play in the construction of an individual’s identity? Who controls a culture’s ideology? Who benefits from the culture’s ideology? Who suffers? Such are the questions at the heart of the provocative literary texts that we will examine in this course. During the semester, students will complete a variety of writing assignments on the topics of race, identity, and ideology. The assignments are designed to hone the students’ reading, writing, and thinking skills. We will read texts from Joseph Conrad, Nella Larsen, Alice Walker and others.

Prerequisite: None
Distribution: None
Semester: Fall

WRIT 125 24 Sex, the City, and Literature

Lackey (English)

The women of Sex and the City struggle in conversation and in their relationships to define intimacy and love. In this course, we will also struggle, in class discussions and in writing, to formulate an understanding of the way intimacy and love have been defined in the past as well as in our postmodern age. To that end, we will look at some crucial texts, films, and Sex and the City episodes. Texts will include: Plato’s Symposium, Henrik Ibsen’s A Doll’s House, Virginia Woolf’s Mrs. Dalloway, and Milan Kundera’s The Unbearable Lightness of Being.

Prerequisite: None
Distribution: None
Semester: Fall, Spring

WRIT 125 25 The Living City on Page and Screen

Ford (English)

The city is not just a setting but a character in its own right in the American literary and cinematic traditions. In this course we’ll read and watch selected works of literature and film that tell stories in and about American cities; we’ll examine the ways in which these urban myths define particular ideas about gender, race, and identity in contemporary narrative. Characters like the hardboiled detective hero and the female fatale, urban experiences like race riots and existential angst, and images of fairytale and futuristic cities will all figure into our exploration of the role of the city in defining contemporary American culture. We’ll use writing assignments to make connections between the city’s varied characters while developing rich and layered readings of individual texts. Note: Registration in this section is restricted to students from the Pathways Program. Mandatory credit/non-credit.

WRIT 125 03/ARTH 101 Introduction to the History of Art Part II: Renaissance to the Present
Rhodes (Art)
A foundation course in the history of art. From Michelangelo to media culture, this course introduces the visual cultures of Europe, Africa, and the Americas, beginning with the Renaissance, using key issues and monuments as the focus of discussion. Students in this section of ARTH 101 will attend the same twice-weekly lectures as the other ARTH 101 students, but their assignments will be different, and they will attend two special WRIT 125 conferences each week. Through writing about art, students in 101/125 will develop skills in visual and critical analysis. This course satisfies the WRIT 125 requirement and counts as a unit toward major in art history, architecture, or studio art.
Prerequisite: None
Distribution: Social and Behavioral Analysis

WRIT 125 04/EDUC 102 Education in Philosophical Perspective
Hawes (Education)
This course is guided by questions such as: What is education? How do an individual's own efforts to make sense of the world and to guide her life relate to schools and academic work? To the diversity of experiences and cultures? What should the aims of education be? The focus will be on perspectives and processes of learning and teaching. We will use the works of earlier writers (for example, Confucius, Plato, and Dewey) and contemporary writers as starting points in our investigations. This course satisfies the WRIT 125 requirement and counts as a unit toward the education minor. Includes a third session each week.

WRIT 125 06/WOST 125 Growing Up Gendered
Marshall (Women's Studies)
This course focuses on childhood and the teen years in the United States. How do we become gendered? What are the experiences of children and teens in families, schools, and peer groups that contribute to that process? How does gender vary by race/ethnicity and social class? We will explore these questions from a sociological perspective, emphasizing the ways in which gender is constructed in social interactions; the intersections of gender, sexuality and peer status; the importance of including the voices of children and teens; and the importance of collective and individual agency. This course offers focused instruction on modes of writing for the social sciences. This course satisfies the WRIT 125 requirement and counts as a unit toward the women's studies major or minor. Mandatory credit/non-credit.

WRIT 125 07/CAMS 120 Women in Film
Wood (The Writing Program)
To a large extent, film is about watching, and much film is about watching women. This course provides basic instruction in film analysis, and then makes a foray into theories of cinema. How does the camera work, not only to display its characters, but also to direct the gaze upon them? What are the relationships between the visual spectacle and the progress of the film's story? Writing assignments ask students to observe, analyze, interpret, and explain. This course satisfies the WRIT 125 requirement and counts as a unit toward a major in cinema and media studies. Includes a third session each week.
Prerequisite: None
Distribution: Arts, Music, Theatre, Film, Video

Unit: 1.0

WRIT 125 08/GER 121 Turn-of-the-Century Vienna: The Birth of Modernism
Hansen (German)
The brilliant culture of fin-de-siècle Vienna reveals the early concerns of the twentieth century. While the 600-year-old Habsburg monarchy preserved continuity in Austria, a nervous sense of finitude pervaded the period. Nostalgia clashed with social change to produce a remarkable tension in the music, art, literature, and science of the period. These disciplines reached breakthroughs that are the roots of the modern temperament. Sigmund Freud in psychology; Oskar Kokoschka and Gustav Klimt in art; Hugo von Hofmannsthal and Arthur Schnitzler in literature; Mahler, Schönberg, and Webern in music; Theodor Herzl, founder of Zionism, in social thought. The course will study representative works to explore this phenomenon. This course satisfies the WRIT 125 requirement and counts as a unit toward the German Studies major. Includes a third session each week. Students enrolled in German courses, particularly 201-202, are encouraged to fulfill the WRIT 125 requirement with this class.

WRIT 125 09 Retelling Stories: The Art and the Ethics
Schwartz (The Writing Program)
In this course we explore the moral and artistic implications of retelling stories and myths. We'll read stories from the Old Testament, Native American legends, and Chinese myths, and then examine how these stories have been radically re-told by contemporary writers such as Cynthia Ozick, Louise Erdrich, and Maxine Hong Kingston. The course will culminate in a unit on Anne Frank's The Diary of a Young Girl and the intense controversies generated by the way Anne Frank's story has been re-told and popularized for stage and screen. Students will also have the opportunity to creatively retell a story or two of their own. Mandatory credit/non-credit.

WRIT 125 10 Richard Nixon: An American Icon
Viti (The Writing Program)
Archetypal political villain to some, hero and statesman to others, Richard Nixon rose to national prominence with the Army-McCarthy hearings in the 1950s and resigned from the Presidency in disgrace in 1974. In this course, we will trace Nixon's evolution as a public figure and draw some conclusions about legal and political issues in the U.S. during this tumultuous period in American society. Readings will be drawn from Nixon's own speeches and writings, as well as from legal, literary, cinematic and historical texts portraying Nixon and his many personal, political, and legal crises.

WRIT 125 11 Law, Literature, and Film
Viti (The Writing Program)
We will read and write about short works of fiction and nonfiction, as well as popular films that reflect society's values concerning law and justice. Readings will be selected from works of Elie Weisel, Franz Kafka, and Jeanne Houston, and popular and classic films such as Inherit the Wind, To Kill a Mockingbird, The Verdict, Dead Man Walking, and The Firm. Students will be required to attend evening screenings of five films. Each film will be shown on a weekday and again on a Sunday night, to accommodate varying student schedules.

WRIT 125 12 Irish Literature
Jordan (The Writing Program)
This course takes as its premise the idea of the "searcher," or story-teller, as central to the richness of Irish culture. With a view toward the historical underpinnings of works of the imagination, we will examine fiction, poetry, and prose by some of the most prominent and prolific Irish and Anglo-Irish writers: Joyce, Yeats, Bowen, Trevor, O'Brien, Heaney, and Foster.

WRIT 125 13 Writing About the Vietnam War
Iwanaga (The Writing Program)
Typically, the literature of war, like its movies, depicts the experiences of the soldiers who waged it, as though they are the only ones authorized to write about it. But war affects many other people besides GIs. In this course, in addition to The Things They Carried by Tim O'Brien, we will read poetry, memoirs, short stories, and novels about the Vietnam war written by and about nurses, Vietnamese combatants and refugees, Latino and African American soldiers, and their families. Mandatory credit/non-credit.

WRIT 125 14 The Science (and Art) of Interpersonal Conflict Resolution
Gelbach (Education)
Interpersonal conflict is ever-present in social interactions. Conflicts can be as trivial as deciding what movie to attend or as consequential as child custody decisions. How effectively we resolve these conflicts implicates our personal happiness and the success of our careers. This course will touch on the art of interpersonal conflict resolution; however, the main focus will be on the psychology of conflicts and techniques for their effective resolution. Topics will include cooperation/competition, social-perspective-taking/empathy, altruism, aggression, violence, and cultural influences. Throughout the course, particular attention will be given to the role of conflict in writing.

WRIT 125 16 The Image of Islam in Western Literature, Media, and the Arts
Rollman (History)
Through critical evaluation of selected texts and images produced by European and American travelers, academics, journalists, and artists during the nineteenth and twentieth centuries, the course will explore how cultural stereotypes have had, and continue to have, a formative impact on the way Islam, Muslims, and the Middle East are understood in the West. Students will analyze the processes by which these representations and assumptions are created and perpetuated, their impact in specific historical contexts, and their relevance to broader issues of intercultural communication and understanding.

WRIT 125 17 Love Manuals: Medieval and Modern Vega (Spanish)
Beginning with the Islamic eleventh century Dove’s Neck-Ring by Ibn Hazm of Cordoba, and the Christian twelfth century Art of Courteous Love by Andreas Capellanus – considered among the earliest of texts in the genre of the Western romantic love manual – we will critically examine medieval concepts of gender, sexuality, and “love sickness,” and how these elements have evolved in contemporary popular culture (self-help manuals such as Barbara D’Angelis’ Are You the One for Me?, as well as examples from video/film and the Internet). Complementary readings include selections from Ovid, Art of Love; Diego de San Pedro, Prison-House of Love; Irving Singer, The Nature of Love; and John Boswell, Same-Sex Unions in Premodern Europe. Courses in Health and Society
The anthropologist Mary Douglas observed that “the human body is always treated as an image of society and there can be no natural way of considering the body that does not involve at the same time a social dimension.” Similarly, how we perceive our bodies, how they are treated by the health care system, how medicine and health care shape how we see ourselves are critical questions we must all face. Courses in health and society include ones that examine the workings of the human body and mind and ones that take a broad look at the relationship between health and larger cultural and societal issues. These courses encourage students to confront the ethical, social, and political issues in the creation of health and science, and they allow students to consider the broad issues that link the body to the body politic. They offer valuable perspectives to students planning careers in the health field and benefit anyone confronting health care in today’s complex world.

Although there is no departmental or interdepartmental major in health studies, these courses enrich and enlarge concentrations in a variety of disciplines. They also demonstrate how different disciplines contribute to understanding a topic (health) and an institution (the health care system) that affect all our lives. Students who plan to apply for admission to medical school should consult the section on Preparation for Medical School in this catalogue.

Courses in Legal Studies

Law plays a central role in social organization, and legal and political institutions use law, doctrines, and procedures to establish collective values, mediate conflicts between individuals and groups, and resolve questions of state power. Legal materials provide a rich ground for developing reading and interpretive skills, and for promoting serious inquiry into visions of the good and the just, the dimensions and limits of public and private decision-making, and conflicts between consent and coercion. Finally, cross-cultural and historical analyses offer students opportunities to explore the ways in which legal institutions and practices help create diverse social identities and communities. Students wishing to explore a range of legal materials, analytical frameworks, and institutions are encouraged to select courses from several perspectives and disciplines.

There is no departmental or interdepartmental major in legal studies; however, coursework in this area can enrich and enlarge concentrations in a variety of disciplines. Students who plan to apply for admission to law school should consult the section on Preparation for Law School in this catalog.

Courses in Statistics

Wellesley College offers statistics courses in a variety of disciplines. Some introductory statistics courses are intended as terminal courses (e.g., MATH 101) while others are prerequisites for more advanced research methods courses in the major (e.g., PSYC 205). The courses listed below focus on descriptive and inferential statistics but differ in their specific applications and use of statistical software. Students who wish to take one of the following statistics courses to satisfy the QR overlay requirement are advised to select the most appropriate course given their intended major(s) and minor. Students who scored a 5 on the AP Statistics exam have satisfied the QR overlay requirement but may be required to forgo that AP credit if a specific statistics course is required for their major. Please refer to the Quantitative Reasoning Program section for a complete list of QR overlay courses and see the full course descriptions under each department or program for details on the applications emphasized in each course.

Attention Called

ECON 103/SOC 190 Introduction to Probability and Statistical Methods
MATH 101 Reasoning with Data: Elementary Applied Statistics
MATH 101Z Reasoning with Data: Elementary Applied Statistics with Health Applications
MATH 220 Probability and Elementary Statistics
POL 199 Introduction to Methods in Political Science
PSYC 205 Statistics
QR 180 Statistical Analysis of Education Issues
SOC 190/ECON 103 Introduction to Probability and Statistical Methods

The following rules apply to these statistics courses:

MATH 101 and MATH 101Z are not open to students who have taken or are taking ECON 103/SOC 190, POL 199, QR 180, or PSYC 205. In addition, MATH 101 and MATH 101Z are not open to students who have completed MATH 116, MATH 116Z, MATH 120, MATH 205 or the equivalent, except by permission of the instructor; such students should consider taking MATH 220 instead. MATH 101 and MATH 101Z are intended for students who do not anticipate taking further statistics courses in college. Students considering a major in economics, political science, sociology, or psychology are advised not to take MATH 101 and MATH 101Z; other courses are more appropriate for those majors.

ECON 103/SOC 190 (formerly QR 199) is a prerequisite for ECON 203 (Econometrics) which is required of economics majors, and for SOC 301 (Methods of Social Research) which is required of sociology majors. Economics or sociology majors or minors who have completed MATH 220 or PSYC 205 may not also take ECON 103/SOC 190, but must take an additional elective in economics or sociology to complete their major or minor. Students who have taken MATH 101, MATH 101Z, POL 199 or QR 180 may only take ECON 103/SOC 190 if they are majoring or minoring in economics or sociology, and should consult the appropriate department chair.

POL 199 is not open to students who have taken or are taking ECON 103/SOC 190, MATH 101, MATH 101Z, MATH 220, PSYC 205, or QR 180, except with permission of the instructor.

PSYC 205 is required of all psychology and neuroscience majors. Students who have not declared a psychology or neuroscience major may not enroll in PSYC 205 if they have taken or are taking ECON 103/SOC 190, MATH 101, MATH 101Z, MATH 220, POL 199, or QR 180; students who have declared a psychology or neuroscience major must take PSYC 205 even if they have already taken one of these other statistics courses.

QR 180 is an elective statistics course for students interested in education policy issues. The course is not open to students who have taken or are taking ECON 103/SOC 190, MATH 101, MATH 220, POL 199 or PSYC 205.

Courses in Urban Studies

The city as a unique social, cultural, political, economic, educational, environmental, and geographic locus has been one of the main themes of nineteenth- and twentieth-century thought. As we move into the twenty-first century, the problems and promises of urban life remain an enormous intellectual challenge for researchers and policy makers in many fields, and of great import to the health of our society and to that of other countries. These courses examine the city from many perspectives and allow students to use the city as a focus for interdisciplinary study.

While there is no departmental or interdepartmental minor or major in urban studies, these courses complement and enrich concentrations in other fields, and may be useful for students interested in anthropology, architecture, economics, education, the environment, history, literature, politics, policy analysis, medicine, sociology, or other subjects. Students interested are strongly encouraged to take at least one course in the Department of Urban Studies and Planning at MIT. A special guide to MIT courses in Urban Studies and Planning is available on the Wellesley College urban studies conference. Students are also encouraged to engage in urban fieldwork and internships, opportunities for which are available through the Center for Work and Service.

Travel Directions

By Car
• From the West:
  Take the Massachusetts Turnpike (I-90) to Exit 14 (Weston). Go south on Interstate 95 (Route 128) for 1/2 mile to Route 16, Exit 21B. Follow Route 16 West for 2.9 miles to a stoplight (five-way intersection) in the town of Wellesley; go straight on Route 135 (West). At the third traffic light, take a left into the main entrance of the College. Take your first right to the new Davis Parking Facility.

• From the East:
  Take the Massachusetts Turnpike (I-90) west to Exit 16 (West Newton). Follow Route 16 West for 4.7 miles, using directions above.

• From the North:
  Take Interstate 95 South (Route 128) to Exit 21B (Route 16 West). Follow Route 16 West for 2.9 miles, using directions above.

• From the South:
  Take Interstate 95 North (Route 128) to Exit 21B (Route 16 West). Follow Route 16 West for 2.9 miles, using directions above.

By Airplane
Options from Logan International Airport:
• By car: From the airport, take the Ted Williams Tunnel to the Massachusetts Turnpike (I-90) West. Then follow directions from the East.
• Take a taxi directly to Wellesley College. See Area Taxis. Allow at least an hour for the commute. The fare will be approximately $55.
Or
• Take the Logan Express bus, which picks up at all airline terminals, to Framingham. Allow at least an hour for the commute. Call 800-23-LOGAN or visit www.massport.com/logan/getting_logan.html for more information.

From Framingham, take a taxi to the College. See Area Taxis. Allow half an hour for the ride to Wellesley. The fare will be approximately $16.
Or
• Take the free shuttle bus to the MBTA subway stop. Take the Blue Line Inbound four stops to Government Center. Go upstairs and change to the Green Line. Ride an Outbound subway marked “RIVERSIDE-D” to Woodland, the second to last stop on the D line. Subway fare is $1.00.

From Woodland, take a taxi to the College. See Area Taxis. The fare will be approximately $15.

Allow two hours for total commute.

By Train
Options from the Amtrak terminal at South Station:
• From South Station, take the Framingham/Worcester Commuter Rail to the Wellesley Square stop.

The commute is approximately half an hour. One-way fare is $3.00 and is paid on the train. Exact change is not required.

Go up the stairs and turn left onto Crest Road; follow Crest a short distance. Take a right onto Central Street. Walk five minutes to the second set of lights. Cross the street to the entrance of the College. From there, allow 20 minutes to walk to your destination on campus.

Note: The Commuter Rail runs on a schedule that can be accessed by calling 800-392-6100 or 617-222-3200 or by visiting www.mbta.com. Please call ahead when making travel plans; the schedule varies on weekends and holidays. You may also take the Commuter Rail to Wellesley from Back Bay Station.

If you prefer, call a taxi from the Wellesley Square Commuter Rail stop. See Area Taxis. Fare will be approximately $4.
Or
• From South Station, take the MBTA Subway (Red Line) Inbound two stops to Park Street. Go upstairs and change to the Green Line. Ride an Outbound subway marked “RIVERSIDE-D” to Woodland, the second to last stop on the D Line. Follow the above directions from Woodland.

Note: All fares quoted are subject to change. Travel time may need to be increased during rush hour.

By Bus
• From Peter Pan and Greyhound terminals at South Station, use Commuter Rail directions above.
Or
• Take a Non-Express Greyhound or Peter Pan bus to the Riverside terminal. From there, take a taxi to the College. See Area Taxis. Commute from Riverside will be about 30 minutes, although it may be longer during rush hour. Fare will be approximately $15.

Note: Express buses DO NOT stop at Riverside.

The information contained in this Bulletin is accurate as of July 2005. However, Wellesley College reserves the right to make changes at its discretion affecting policies, fees, curricula or other matters announced in this Bulletin.

In accordance with the Student Right-to-Know and Campus Security Act (Public Law 101-542), the graduation rate for students who entered Wellesley College as first-year students in September 1998 on a full-time basis was 91%. (The period covered is equal to 150% of the normal time for graduation.)

Wellesley College admits students without regard to race, color, religion, or national origin, to all the rights, privileges, programs, and activities generally accorded or made available to students at the College. The College does not discriminate on the basis of race, color, religion, national origin or sexual orientation, in administration of its educational policies, scholarship or loan programs, athletic and other college-administered programs or in its employment policies.

Wellesley College, as an independent, undergraduate educational institution for women, does not discriminate on the basis of sex against its students in the educational programs or activities in which it operates, and does not discriminate on the basis of sex in its employment policies, in compliance with the regulations of Title IX of the Education Amendments of 1972, nor does the College discriminate on the basis of handicap in violation of Section 504 of the Rehabilitation Act of 1973.
